Floods threaten Texas

ornado-Tornado Hard Hit
The Canadian Press
CO, Texas.—Texas, weary and torn, today counted from Monday's tornadoes as flood-streams posed new risks.
winds, rain, dust storms now added to the state's while storm-ravaged digging from under a 1900 tornado rubble and 28 dead—found itself path of the flooding River.
Monday tornado, at Texas plains city of Waco, had a death toll of damage estimated in $3,000,000.
300 injured were counted, Waco, close to 100 at San

Secret Plane's Crew Lost Over Lake
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (CP)—An explosion forced the crew of a mothering bomber to jettison a highly secret rocket plane Tuesday night, and two airmen fell from 30,000 feet over Lake Ontario.
The chief test pilot of the Bell Aircraft Corporation and another crew member were feared lost. The B-50 bomber was carrying an experimental Bell X-2, reported capable of flying at speeds well over 1,000 miles an hour.
It was indicated that both men dropped out of the four-engined mother plane, which was damaged but landed safely here.

Murder Charge Laid in Death Of Man on Tug
VANCOUVER (CP)—A murder charge has been laid against Harold Ernest Graham, 41, following an inquest into the death of a fellow crew member of the Vancouver tugboat La Pointe.
The charge was laid by RCMP after the coroner's jury decided Sylvio Zanatta, 39, died an "unnatural death due to injuries received during an altercation" aboard the tug.

John Lebedoff Fails in Bid to Lead Radical Doukhobors
LEBODOFF (CP)—John J. Lebedoff, recently served a prison term in Canada, made an unsuccessful bid to take over leadership of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.
Lebedoff's try came at a meeting of young Doukhobors at the home of Krestova, deep in the interior of British Columbia.
Lebedoff and a group of followers met at the meeting and urged the Doukhobors to auction lands in the interior for a move to another country.

Grant Helps Expansion Program
Grant of $6,666.66 to the Prince Rupert General Hospital authorized by city council will make possible certain expansion of facilities this year, R. G. Moore, hospital board president, said today.
The grant was a third of $20,000 requested by the board from the city over a three-year period.
The money is to supplement the modernization fund which left some $20,000 short of its objective of $75,000 when the campaign officially ended last year.
"The hospital board appreciates very much the consideration that the city council has given our request. The board is keenly conscious of the necessary expansion program required by the hospital to serve the community," said Mr. Moore.
"This grant will enable us to expand our facilities both in the nature of space and equipment, and in fact becomes equal to about $18,000 with the assistance of senior governments.
"Therefore we are extremely grateful and appreciate the interest of the city council in the community's hospital."

Colonel Hill, Former RCMP Supt. Dies
VANCOUVER (CP)—Lt.-Col. Cecil Henry Hill, former RCMP superintendent, who had a distinguished service record in both world wars, died at his home Tuesday following a heart attack. He was 67.
Following his retirement from the RCMP in 1943, he went to Chile in 1945 as special consultant in the organization of the national police force in that country.

Fishermen's Insurance Plan to be Inaugurated
OTTAWA—Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Tuesday night the government has decided to inaugurate a plan of fishermen's insurance to cover fishermen's boats and their gear.
He gave no other details, but told members of the Commons he would give a full explanation of the plan during consideration of estimates for his department.
He said the explanation would be given when the House reached an item for $250,000 in supplementary estimates. This provides for the establishment of a "fishermen's indemnity loan plan" to assist fishermen meet abnormal capital losses.
The minister's announcement was welcomed by various members, particularly those from the coastal fishing areas who have been pressing for such a scheme.

Shipping Subsidy Under Study
By The Canadian Press
OTTAWA.—Transport Minister Chevrier said Tuesday in the Commons consideration is being given to the question of whether there should be subsidies for shipping.
But the minister did not hold out much hope of resuming the federal subsidy system, discontinued a few years ago, saying it would cost a "very substantial amount of money."
He said that some time ago the government decided against a subsidy of $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 for Canadian deep-sea shipping, largely on the ground that United Kingdom ships should be given a chance to carry to the U.K. goods Canada is selling to that country.
REPLY TO GREEN
Mr. Chevrier was replying, in debate on his department estimates, to suggestions by Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) that the government take steps to modernize Canada's deep-sea fleet into fast cargo freighters.
The fleet now consists mostly of about 50 vessels built during the Second World War.
Mr. Green said other countries are speeding up and modernizing their merchant navies. He said Canadian shipping must keep pace with development in this country, which indicated production of a fleet of fast freighters such as other countries were building.

Coastal Ships To Get New Anti-Mine Gear
OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is equipping her merchant ships and some passenger ships with degaussing anti-mine gear and a number already have the gear aboard, Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier said Tuesday in the Commons.
He told Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) that those already equipped with gear include the new icebreaker Diber-ville.
It is planned to put gear aboard 10 more ships this year. Among these will be three west coast ships—the Princess Patricia, Princess Marguerite and Prince George.

Harry Duguid Gets 8 Years For Holdup
TORONTO (CP)—Harry Duguid, 38-year-old bank robber and jailbreaker, was sentenced Tuesday to eight years in prison for the $14,500 armed holdup of a Toronto bank 10 years ago.
Duguid, former Toronto plastics manufacturer who ended up on the RCMP's list of the 10 most-wanted men, made no comment before sentence was pronounced.
He was brought back from Vancouver, April 27 where he was picked up for breaking and entering.

UN Submits New Prisoner Exchange Plan
PANMUNJOM (CP)—The United Nations command today handed the Communists a new blueprint for an armistice in Korea.
It was a sweeping 11-point plan for exchanging prisoners-of-war—last big roadblock to truce.
The Allies would free 34,000 North Koreans who refuse to go home and—on certain conditions—give temporary custody of 14,500 balky Chinese to a five-country commission.
The Communists called the proposal a "step backward."
A counter-proposal to one advanced by the Communists, the plan is based on a long-standing Allied position that no prisoner will be sent home against his will.

Airport To Be Built In Rupert If Digby Survey Satisfactory

OTTAWA.—An airport to accommodate all types of commercial aircraft will be built for Prince Rupert if engineering surveys now in progress on Digby Island establish economic feasibility.

SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL, seen here with his wife, giving his famous 'victory sign' has proposed a top-level conference with Russia. While Sir Winston didn't say how many should attend the meeting, he indicated that he, President Eisenhower and Premier Malenkov of Russia should be the only ones taking part.

This was disclosed Tuesday in the Commons by Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier.
The minister spoke in reply to E. T. Applewhaite, member of Parliament for Skeena, who said Canadian Pacific Airlines would include Prince Rupert on its Edmonton schedule if an airport was built there.
Mr. Applewhaite said there would have been no air crash such as the one Monday which took two lives, if Prince Rupert was not dependent on water-landing facilities.
Mr. Applewhaite asked: "What has your department in view for this year?"
Mr. Chevrier replied: "There is an item in the estimates for airstrip facilities for land craft."
The minister said three sites had been considered and while all were difficult, Digby Island was considered the most economical "from the long range point of view."
The estimates this year, he said, were for investigations and survey of the island, then to proceed further if these investigations indicate the project is feasible.
"In which case an airstrip will be constructed which would take the heaviest known commercial aircraft."
In Prince Rupert, news of the federal government's declared interest was received with enthusiasm in all quarters, especially by the Chamber of Commerce, which has campaigned for landing field facilities for many years.
Orme Stuart, Chamber of Commerce president, views the announcement as "a commitment by the government to build if it's suitable."
"Construction of a landing strip on Digby would revolutionize Rupert as a travel centre. It would become an air terminal from the Far East and a stopping-off place for northern traffic, as well as the promised connecting link to Edmonton."
"What an airfield here would do for business and industry remains to be seen. It could certainly be of benefit."
Mr. Stuart said that if an airport is located on the island, which faces the western portion of the city waterfront across the harbor, it could mean a resettling of Digby and modern facilities such as electric power.
There is no public utility now operating there. Dodge Cove, only settlement there, is without power. Residents either operate their own small plants or use gas lamps. The weather and radio station operated by the Department of Transport makes

Chamber Welcomes Ottawa Decision

Broken Neck Killed CPA Stewardess
A coroner's jury yesterday heard evidence that one of the victims of the Canadian Pacific Airlines Canso crash in the harbor Monday had died of a broken neck.
Evidence was a written statement by Dr. W. S. Kergin concerning the death of Miss Claire Langen, 25-year-old stewardess whose body was removed from the plane wreckage.
Other severe injuries included fractures of the skull.
The inquest, called by coroner George Dawes, was adjourned to Saturday at 7:30 p.m. when witnesses to the accident including pilot Wally Jennings and co-pilot Everett Abbey, will be called.
Inquest will be heard in the council chamber at the city hall. Meanwhile, RCMP are still conducting dragging operations for the second victim of the crash. Constable Stephen Kasper. Miss Langen's body was found wedged in the plane's wreckage when resurfaced, but no trace was found of the only missing passenger, Constable Kasper.
Police are considering calling in a diver to aid the search of the crash scene.
Miss Langen's body will be shipped tonight by train to Humboldt, Sask., her home. She is the eldest of 14 children of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Langen.
She arrived in Prince Rupert as CPA stewardess October 7.
Members of the jury are Jack Mussalem, foreman; Jim Greet, George Allard, Harold Skallmerud, Wally Dell, Archie Gordon and Rod MacDougall.

Rupert To Be Cut Off If B.C. Seamen Strike

Strike action, "overwhelmingly" approved by 700 seamen on three major B.C. coast steamship lines, would leave Prince Rupert completely isolated from sea travel and would seriously hamper the movement of freight.
All ships carrying passengers in and out of this port would be affected by the strike, deadline for which will be set next Monday by a membership meeting.
Strike action was voted by an overwhelming majority in a dispute over wages and work between the shipping companies and members of the AFL Seafarers International Union.
Only freight carrier on a scheduled run between Vancouver and Prince Rupert which would not be affected is the Island Prince, operated by Northland Navigation Co. Ltd. It carries no passengers.
At present, the city depends on water shipping for the bulk of its food products, other supplies and as a constant means of travel.
Canadian National Steamships operate one ship a week in and out of Prince Rupert; Canadian Pacific Steamships, two, and Union Steamships, two.
Several non-scheduled freighters also are operated in and out. Alternative methods of shipping and passenger service are rail and air.

The surface is composed of asphalt paving.
Parks board will consider supervision of the courts tonight at its regular meeting.

Commandos Sail From Malta But Destination Kept Secret

LONDON (CP)—Three landing craft loaded with Royal Marine Commandos sailed under secret orders from the Mediterranean fortress island of Malta Tuesday night as the tense Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the vital Suez Canal zone becomes worse.
There was no official announcement of the destination of the Commandos but speculation immediately arose they would reinforce Britain's Suez garrison.
The minister of state, Selwyn Lloyd, told the House of Commons British soldiers in Egypt have been "ambushed, shot and assaulted" in some 30 attacks since the beginning of April.
Anglo-Egyptian talks over Egypt's demand for the withdrawal of 80,000 British troops in the canal zone came to a halt last Wednesday when British negotiators demanded that some 5,000 British technicians remain to keep the vast military installations in readiness.
The Egyptians refused, maintaining they could do the job themselves with only 500 British technicians.

Cause For Rejoicing

AS THE CITY finalizes plans for its celebration on June 2, the heady effect of Coronation fever begins to make itself felt in a personal way. Throughout the British Commonwealth of Nations particularly, and in the rest of the free world generally, the ceremony at Westminster Abbey will be a cause for rejoicing in which Prince Rupert proposes to take its full-spirited part.

As the main setting for the festivities, however, the mellow old City of London will be unexcelled in color, drama, pageantry and, probably, plain high jinks. Already, in fact, it is well advanced in making itself beguiling.

"More than anything, I think, it is the overnight appearance of the processional gates (one hates to give them their official name 'crush-barriers') that has quickened our appreciation of stirring events in the offing," writes one visitor there. "Tinted green and lilac and red, crush-barriers have sprung up like fairy portals to seal off the processional routes on the great day."

"Within the charmed circle, through Hyde Park and along Oxford Street and Regent Street, the Mall, Whitehall and Parliament Square itself, the spectators' stands rear dizzily upwards, the banners flutter, and the day-to-day traffic, looking drab and ordinary in comparison, hustles along as if anxious to quit the scene before the pomp and pageantry make their entry."

Others on the scene report that unfamiliar uniforms in new and strange shades are seen everywhere. Two of the most striking are the bandieros of the Royal Papuan and New Guinea Constabulary and the red coat, breeches and long boots of our own Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

These observers say that, besides the color, there is also more noise. Every breeze brings the sound of bands at rehearsal, and in Hyde Park there is not only the usual crop of open-air orators but the additional din created by the banging of drums and tin cans and the shouts of cavalrymen as horses are being trained to withstand the noise of the Coronation procession.

The Commonwealth is winding up for a glorious celebration in which a beautiful and adored girl has the central part. It is no wonder that the world awaits fascinated.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Tariff-minded governments the world over are commencing to make things very tough for Canadian exporters. For instance, there's the case which came to the attention recently of some of the members of the special Senate Committee investigating trade matters:

A fish farming company down in the Maritime provinces wanted to send a token shipment of its product to the Fiji Islands. It had never done business there, but it had extensive sales in areas which were comparable in their climates and in the general food tastes of their peoples. With an eye to the future, therefore, it whopped up a very choice consignment of its wares and notified the Island authorities of its plans. The company explained that it was sending the merchandise for free, so that the islanders might taste it and decide upon their approval or disapproval of it without any financial risk.

The shipment was never made. A communication from the Fiji authorities stated that trade restrictions prevented the importation of the commodity—even when it was being sent to the islanders in the form of a free gift.

That's the most extreme case of tariff administration that the authorities here have encountered as yet. They hope that it isn't too typical of the trend of the times, but they aren't so sure that it isn't.

For some reason which none of those most concerned are able to explain satisfactorily, the old-line parties have lost much of their fears of Social Credit in the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. Liberals and PC's are talking with some confidence of sharing the West Coast province with the CCF on much the same basis as in the present House. They concede Social Credit the lone seat of Cariboo, with a possible chance in the Fraser Valley riding.

In Alberta the PCs are confident of holding the two Calgary seats they have at present and of adding two Edmonton seats in addition. The Edmonton seats would be gained at the expense of the Liberals—who don't see it that way but expect to hold what they have in the province.

A few weeks ago both the Liberals and the PCs were entirely pessimistic over their British Columbia-Alberta chances. Now they sense in the psychic way that politicians have that the Screders are in a slump. They're waiting hopefully for the British Columbia provincial election to demonstrate the accuracy of their "hunch."

Handy Payment

VANCOUVER (CP) — Motorists in Vancouver soon may be able to pay parking fines at city banks in a system similar to a method launched at Quebec. Police chief Walter Mulligan is investigating the feasibility of such a system here.

As I See It

Secred Ghost Again

IN A PREVIOUS article I showed why the Social Credit party of B.C. is frantically trying to gag discussion of Social Credit money theories.

I showed that Major Douglas himself recommended the outright sale of the Post Office to be run by private business for private profit; that on page 194 of "Douglas Social Credit for Canada" W. A. Tuttle explains the "Just Price." This is the ghost that haunts B.C. Screders—this is the skeleton they want to hide.

UNDER THE "Just Price" formula of the Social Credit party all goods would be sold in the stores for less than their cost of production. Tuttle figures this at 40 per cent—that is at a discount of 60 per cent. But another Secred expert in another later book sold by B.C. Social Credit, figures the Just Price at 50 per cent—and the discount at only 10 per cent. It seems there is a wide variation amongst the Secred "experts." Who, said figures never lie?

But the main point on which all Screders agree is that under their system all (repeat all) goods would be sold below cost.

There would be a Financial Controller (or Czar) at Ottawa—and it is admitted by all Screders that this Controller would be above parliament—once installed Parliament would lose all control of him, and over the ratio fixed from time to time as the "Just Price."

Let us consider how this part of the Secred system would work in Mr. Bennett's hardware stores.

Suppose Mr. Bennett now sells a vacuum cleaner at $100—representing $75 cost price and $25 profit. Under the Secred system he would be supposed to charge the Consumer $40 for that $100 vacuum cleaner. He would receive, in theory, from the Financial Controller at Ottawa a grant of $60 in Social Credit Money to make up for the amount lost on the transaction.

BUT SUPPOSE not all the hardware merchants in Canada were 100 per cent honest at all times. Suppose some hardware merchants said to themselves "Sure I know I am supposed to sell this cleaner at $40—but who is going to know the difference if I charge $41, or $42 or $52 or $62."

There would be only one way for the Screders to keep their "Just Price" system working mathematically—even if it were sound in theory—which it definitely is not.

Canada would need an army of cops, snoops, stoolpigeons and bureaucrats the like of which no country on earth has yet seen. Every one of Mr. Bennett's hardware stores would need at least one inspector to see that the "Just Price" was maintained. How about policing the "Just Price" of nails?

THE SOCIAL CREDIT system of "Just Price Fixing" is in fact the most gigantic system of invisible taxation, regimentation and glorified bureaucracy ever yet proposed to gullibles. It would require an ironclad control of all business ten or twenty times more rigid than we applied during the Second World War.

In my opinion, it would surely lead to a totalitarian dictatorship—because only a police state could begin to cope with the problems which the falacious parts of the Secred system would bring out.

There are some good points in Social Credit, but they are outweighed by the bad. Of this, more later.

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

... by J. K. Nesbitt

(This is another in the series of articles on leaders of the major political parties in B.C.)

VICTORIA.—Conservative leader Deane Finlayson made his first public political appearance when he was 16.

That was in 1935. He lived in Vancouver and he and some pals went to hear Gerry McGeer at Kitsilano High School.

Mr. Finlayson says today that he was then a Socialist—or so he thought. He strongly disapproved of Mr. McGeer as mayor of Vancouver, why, he's not now sure, and he proceeded to tell his worship. Mr. McGeer was far too orthodox to suit young Mr. Finlayson. Perhaps it was because Mr. McGeer was a Liberal and even then Conservative leanings were starting to throb deep down in Mr. Finlayson. That possibility intrigues him, but he's not sure.

However, that memorable night at Kitsilano High, Finlayson and his cronies insisted on asking Mr. McGeer questions. They heckled Mr. McGeer. He grew annoyed at their heedless brashness, called the police to eject them.

"I guess we were a pretty cheeky crew," says Deane Finlayson today, looking back 17 years from the lofty age of 33.

I learned this start of Mr. Finlayson's political career the other night driving out to Sooke with him. I had never heard him make a speech before, or even seen him. He's a big bruiser of a man—six feet, three, with a barrel chest which yet outdistances his waist. His hands are like hams, and he uses them when he talks, frequently pointing his right index finger at his audience.

He has a deep, quiet voice, but he can boom it out on occasion, and then he drops it low and woomes again. This sort of light and shade is effective and theatrical on the election platform. Mr. Finlayson is too young in politics to know its full value; when he does, he'll perfect it.

The new Conservative leader, the minute he got up, told his Conservative followers that there's a new deal in the Conservative Party, and they'd just better like it.

He said he hasn't any fears or doubts, even if, at the moment, the Conservatives are overshadowed by what he called the new disease of Social Credit. "I'm not dispirited," he said, "because I believe that if you're on the right track you'll succeed."

He dealt with the Liberals, called their recent convention "a great furor," their platform "a catch-all," but said that the Liberals will be a factor in the election, and not to underestimate them.

CCFers, too, he said, will be a factor, what with the way they work zealously and systematically, and go into the field with a sense of dedication to their cause.

However, Mr. Finlayson isn't worrying as much about Liberals and CCFers as he is about Screders. "The principal threat to B.C. is undoubtedly Social Credit," he said, and he told his followers to give no aid or comfort to Social Credit. He said: "You'll be willy-nilly, woolly, fuzzy-headed Conservatives if you compromise with Social Credit."

Then he went after Social Credit, as he will do until election day's eve. It's a strange movement, he philosophized—yes, a strange movement, and it has a strange, hypnotic fascination for many people, too many people, and this, he said, baffles those he called the deep-thinking people.

Real disciples of real Social Credit, said Mr. Finlayson, are almost fanatics—indeed, they are fanatics; they border on the cult and work under a frenzied religious motivation which, he said, transcends all reason.

And, thus encouraged at the way the words rolled out, he summed up the Social Credit movement: "A pot-pourri of doctrinaire fanatics and political opportunists."

Then he got back to his pet talk to the Conservatives. "We have to earn our way back," he said. "There are no strings to this party—no deals between this party and business and industry—no hangers-on and no self-seeking politicians."

He said he wouldn't run around forecasting 40 seats for the Conservatives, "but, we'll increase our representation in the Legislature; by winning Oak Bay we'll be on the way up—if we do not succeed this time we will next time—we are now in the midst of a new beginning."

Mr. Finlayson said the Conservatives will pass the hat at their public meetings, like CCFers and Social Crediters. He said the party has to have money and that's the most democratic way of getting it.

And he said the Conservatives aren't going to pay any scrutineers on election day. If Conservatives aren't interested enough to work for the good of the cause, and nothing else—well, he said, they're not good Conservatives and the party doesn't want them.

No Pastel Shades Used in Abbey For Coronation

LONDON (Reuters) — Works Minister David Eccles thinks the new Elizabethan age should be expressed in bold colors. So there will be no pastel shades in Westminster Abbey for the Coronation.

With an artist's eye for color, he has persuaded the cabinet to put the army into navy blue walking-out dress for the procession.

Blue and gold will be the theme for the Abbey with crimson damask in a traditional design for the throne and cushions on the Coronation chair of estate.

Survey Shows Most People in World Live Under Thatch

By MICHAEL KING

GENEVA (Reuters) — More people in the world live under thatch than any other type of roofing, a survey made by the International Labor Organization shows.

The survey covered the efforts being made by various Asian countries to provide low-cost housing for their millions of workers.

These efforts, said the survey, were being made in the face of a double handicap.

First, there was a race between a rapidly increasing population and available homes; second, there was the need to divert materials such as concrete and steel from housing to national construction projects, including dams and hydro-electric works.

The steel and cement shortage has led to a search for substitute materials, ranging from treated timber and bamboo to the better use of traditional plastering materials, including even molasses.

The survey found that building costs could be lowered and scarce materials could be economized through improved designs.

SIMPLE STOVE

The invention of a new, simple kitchen stove in India was symptomatic of the saving that could be achieved, the I.L.O. said.

The stove, designed in Hyderabad, was easily constructed into the walls of kitchens and could be built of mud or bricks. It was smokeless and its thermal efficiency resulted in a fuel saving of from 20 to 40 per cent.

"If this saving was generalized throughout India," the survey said, "it would result in reducing deforestation by approximately 13,000,000 trees every year."

India has conducted the greatest amount of research, which has ranged from the relative merits of rammed earth and sun-baked bricks to treated timber and concrete.

FIRED BRICKS

The Indian government is also experimenting with fired bricks and stabilized earth and other materials which would resist the country's monsoon rains.

Special plasters being developed are expected to help tide India over the period when the bulk of the country's cement is being diverted to extensive irrigation and massive hydro-electric projects.

In Malaya, research has indicated many possible uses for timber that had previously been regarded as useless "merely because they were untried."

Promising developments have also been carried out in India on creating foam concrete bricks, using finely pulverized rock. In Pakistan new methods of roof construction have been developed using flat slabs of concrete.

Experiments with a domed-type of cement concrete roofing have also been made in Pakistan. If successful they should reduce the costs of roofs by about 40 per cent.

I.L.O. also said there was a search for "lost" knowledge in building techniques "which would wrest from the ruins of the past the secrets of the Asian continent's former architectural greatness."

No Need to Look Anything But Crisp This Summer

By ELENORE LESTER

No Canadian woman need look anything but crisp and fresh this summer, no matter where she is or what the weather.

New washable suits, made of a crisp tropical fabric blending 50 per cent Dacron and 50 per cent rayon, remain essentially unwrinkled despite humid weather or an unexpected rainstorm. They rarely need ironing.

Because they are washable these suits are also good money-savers. They have been constructed so that there need be no worry about fraying or raveling. Jackets are unlined; skirt hems are blind-stitched instead of being finished with tape, and seams have no raw edges to cause fraying or raveling.

The suits may be washed by hand with lukewarm suds. They should be air-dried on a shaped, non-metal hanger. If touch-up ironing is desired, a low temperature setting is recommended.

These suits may also be laundered by machine. This method proved completely satisfactory in a series of tests conducted by a leading appliance manufacturer.

Most of the suits have straight skirts, but some come with pleats which stay in after washing.

The suits come in good summer colors—beige, gold, copper, aquatone, pink, shrimp, brown, navy, black and white. Some have detachable white collars and cuffs, and others are trimmed with binding for color contrast.

Battery Strengthens For Game

This evening's North Star football fixture brings the Battery and the General Motors together.

Rumor has it that the Battery has picked up some new players including some recent arrivals from Europe. So far these new-Canadians have brought a lot of talent from their homelands and these new players for the Battery may well supply the punch the gunners need.

General Motors will still be without Bishop and Furness in a doubtful starter. The team will be selected from Tommy Boulter; Eckert, Eby; Lien, Sundberg, Mills, Pat Wilson, Giske, Tait, Murray, Morven; Robinson, Maron, Pensame and McKay.

Organized Baseball Returns To Alberta After 31 Years

EDMONTON (CP)—Organized professional baseball returned to Alberta Tuesday after a 31-year absence when the Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampede began their first Western International League home stands.

The Edmonton Eskimos, with former major leaguer Bobby Sturgeon at the helm, played host to the Yakima Bears in the opener here. The Eskimos have a 6-8 record in games so far, all played on the road.

John Conant, an 18-game winner last year for the Spokane Indians, started for the Eks in the Edmonton inaugural.

John Ducey, colorful Eskimo general manager, said the class A status will draw the fans which have been denied organized baseball for so long.

Edmonton's renovated Renfrew Park, with a seating capacity of 5,500 has some of the finest installations west of Toronto.

The Calgary Stampede were at home to the Wenatchee Chiefs at their opener. Manager Gene Linard, also former major leaguer, and president Buz Lacey have organized a well-rounded club.

Baseball has always been a popular sport in Calgary. In 1920, the Calgary Bronks of the old Western Canada League set a class D attendance record which still stands.

WIL president Bob Brown estimated the addition of Edmonton and Calgary to the league will raise the loop's total attend-

Cleveland's Early Wynn hit a dribbler down the third-base line in the sixth inning that eluded the charging Ford. Then third-baseman Gil McDougald grabbed at the ball but it slipped from his grasp.

The scorer ruled that Wynn would have reached first base even if the ball had been fielded cleanly and scored the only Cleveland hit as the Indians fell before the Yanks 7-0.

Campanella's New Stance Pays Off

BROOKLYN (AP)—The secret is out—Roy Campanella's sensational long-range clubbing is due to a change in his batting stance.

The slugging Brooklyn catcher was miffed when he learned his secret was no more after he had rapped his fourth homer in three games and added a pair of doubles to drive in all the Dodgers' runs in their 5-0 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies last Sunday.

"Who told you?" he demanded heatedly when asked whether it was true he had moved in closer to the plate this season to correct a weakness against curve balls.

"Charlie Dessen, your manager," he was told.

Campy started to say something, then thought better of it and smiled instead.

"Well," he remarked, "I should have known somebody would give me away. I just hope the pitchers don't find out, though."

Earlier, Campanella had shrugged off his tremendous hitting with the usual non-informative remark, "I'm swinging the same as last year. Except that this year I'm connecting."

Whatever the reason, Campanella has been hitting at a murderous clip. In 21 games, the bulky backstop has walloped 10 home runs and has driven in 38 runs to top the majors in both departments.

The cockatoo, a native of the Pacific regions, is closely related to the true parrot.

JACQUES PLANTE, a gangling, 24-year-old rookie had played in only three National Hockey League games in his life and never in a Stanley Cup series until he was brought in by Montreal Canadiens to replace regular goalie Gerry McNeil. Canadiens defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-0 and 4-1 in the last two games of the Stanley Cup semi-finals with Plante between the pipes. A native of Mont Carmel, Que., he played with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League before moving up to Buffalo of the American Hockey League last season.

Spar Mates Predict Rocky Will Defeat Walcott Again

By JACK HAND

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—Rocky Marciano looks the same as usual—strong, dangerous, determined and—easy to hit.

The much-publicized nose still is in the same place. It hasn't bled for weeks. Nobody can hit it—or even see it—behind a grotesque mask that adds a grotesque touch to the training scene.

When Rocky deefnds his heavy-weight title against Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago Stadium Friday night, he can be expected to fight the same type of pressure fight that finally wore down the old gent last September.

Spar mates Billy Noble and Willie Wilson have felt Rocky apply the pressure. They hit the champion but he hits back more often.

"He had me in trouble with the big gloves four or five times," said Noble after a workout. "I think he'll knock Joe out again—wear him down just like last time."

Rocky figures the same way although the memory of that first round knockdown still is green.

At the breakfast table in the rustic lodge near the gym he was talking about that knockdown—first of his career.

"I always wondered what other fellows were thinking about when I had dumped them," he said. "Now I know. I don't

Mathews Gets Draw With Beshore

PORTLAND—Favored Harry Mathews, 181½, Seattle, had to fight from behind to get a 10-round draw with Freddie Beshore, 193¼, Los Angeles, here Tuesday night.

It was a split decision. Referee Ralph Gruman voting 60-50 for Mathews, Judge Freddie Steele, 56½-53½ for Beshore and Judge Bobby Richards calling it even.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Even some of Warren Giles' best friends thought that he got off to a rather shaky start as the new president of the National League last season, so it is a pleasure to note that the man from Cincinnati now has settled down firmly in the big chair.

This round of applause is prompted by Giles' decision to hear out manager Eddie Stanky of St. Louis Cardinals before acting upon Eddie's protest of a game in Brooklyn last week which the Dodgers won. In our opinion this represents baseball progress. That the National League executive finally ruled against Stanky is unimportant. He let the little skipper have his say.

The president's desire to hear both sides of the case was unusual in that the wrangle revolved entirely around the question of an umpire's judgment. For too long it has been a cardinal principle of the game that an arbiter must always be upheld in any instance where it is entirely a matter of how he saw a play.

In the opinion of plate umpire Jocko Conlan, shortstop Sully Hemus of the Cards was guilty of interference on the base paths. He dove for a hit ball, missed it and rolled. Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers, tearing toward third, stumbled over the prostrate fielder and also rolled. Conlan waved Jackie on home with a run which at that time loomed highly important.

Stanky screamed, of course, as did his players. Then contention was that Hemus could not have been guilty of "obstruction" inasmuch as he was trying to make a play. Conlan, a highly vocal little guy, insisted just as stubbornly that the ball was well past Hemus when Robinson tripped.

Most Brooklyn writers sided cautiously with Stanky in their accounts of the rhubarb, but they agreed that his cause was hopeless. He had justice on his side, they said, but he wouldn't get anywhere questioning an umpire's judgment. It was routine, they commented, for the league president to back up his arbiters in such a case.

That was where Giles fooled them. He said he wasn't going to move a wheel until he had talked with Stanky in Cincinnati during the week-end and got the manager's side of the argument in full. That we approve of it is what a league president gets well paid for.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Dove-cotes of two pigeon fanciers here were raided and 21 pigeons disappeared. Police believe young children were the culprits, one of the owners having chased some boys away from his coops previously.

600 Athletes Expected at 1954 Games

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver will play host to more than 600 athletes, "largest number in British Empire Games history," when the big event is held here next year.

Stan Smith, general chairman, gave the figure at an organizational committee meeting. His information came from the secretary of B.E.G.'s federated council for England, he said.

Chief Constable Walter Mulligan reported that arrangements have been made for 7,000 cars to be parked "off street" and another on adjacent roads near Exhibition Park, where the games stadium will be built.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mr. Meek, A Safety Artist, Expects The Worst—Wins

Mr. Meek makes more safety plays than anyone he plays with. By nature he expects the very worst to happen and he is therefore more alert than others to the need for precautionary measures. Mr. Champion even accuses him of being disappointed when finesses work for him and suits break out favorably.

Anyway, he brought home his four spade contract in today's deal by a cozy play in the trump suit. The ten of hearts was opened and Mr. Champion won with the ace and returned the suit, putting Mr. Meek in with the king.
Mr. Meek started worrying immediately. He had an urge to bang down the ace and another trump so the opponents couldn't ruff anything. He overcame this temptation, however, in the face of what he considered to be a greater danger—a bad break in the trump suit itself.
In the usual safety play of a trump suit you give up one trick you might have won to avoid or reduce your chance of losing two.
Mr. Meek decided the only way he could get set was to find all four outstanding trumps in one opponent's hand. If Mr. Champion had the lone king or queen, the play of the ace of spades first would hold the trump losers to one.
But he forgot about that enticing possibility. He decided to

Porritt Asked Duke to Games

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Empire Games officials said today the announcement that the Duke of Edinburgh hopes to attend the games here in July, 1954 was a "crowning achievement" for the games.
It is understood the invitation was tendered through Sir Hugh Porritt, chairman of the B. E. Games Federation in London.
In former years Cornwall in England supplied half the world's copper and all of Britain's tin.

SPEEDBOAT, AUTOMOBILE INVOLVED IN COLLISION

YOUNGSTOWN, O. — A speedboat and an automobile were involved in a collision here. Charles Boyd was testing the racing craft when he was thrown into the water. While he swam ashore, the boat skidded up on the shore of Lake Milton and ramed into a car parked 16 feet away from the water's edge. Both car and boat were badly damaged.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, a Mountbatten on his mother's side, has the family trademarks—love of the sea and a sense of mission under a gay exterior. Reckless and light-hearted in his dashing naval days, Prince Philip now gives strict attention to his state duties as first gentleman of the realm and husband of the Queen. He is shown greeting Lord Louis Mountbatten, his uncle, and Lady Mountbatten at Malta in 1949. Prince Philip then was a first lieutenant on the HMS Chequers.

U.S. Oil Industry Split Over Proposal To Limit Imports of Petroleum Products

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives ways and means committee turned its reciprocal trade hearings to a hotly controversial proposal to limit imports of all petroleum products.

The proposal has been denounced by Eisenhower administration officials as a move that could impair national security. It has been championed by advocates of more protection against cheap competition for the domestic oil and coal industries.

The plan by representative Richard M. Simpson (Rep. Pa.) would hold imports of all petroleum products to 10 per cent of domestic demand. Imports of residual fuel oil would be limited to five per cent.

These provisions are part of a general bill aimed at increasing protection for U.S. industries, through higher tariffs and import quotas, against injury from cheaper foreign goods. The bill would extend the Reciprocal Trade Act for a year beyond June 12.

The oil industry is split over the quota proposal, major companies tending to oppose a curb on imports and smaller independent companies favoring it.

Coal and railroad interests also are expected to support the quota proposal.

Coal and railroad interests also are expected to support the quota proposal.

Cheaper, imported fuel oil is a major source of competition for coal, especially along the East Coast. Relief for the ailing coal industry is one of the primary purposes of the bill.

The Eisenhower administration contends a bar on imports would seriously impair the flow of Venezuelan oil needed for national security. Officials and some congressmen have said a quota could lead to higher fuel oil prices and perhaps to rationing.

France Gets 'Special Aid' To Help Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has given France $50,000,000 in "special aid" to bolster French and native forces opposing the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China, it was announced today.

Mutual security director Harold Stassen told a press conference the money has been transferred to the French government out of foreign aid funds.

Stassen said the program was "developed specifically" during the 14-nation North Atlantic Pact meeting in Paris several weeks ago after the Communist led Vietminh launched their invasion of Laos.

SCREEN ★ ★ FLASHES

A hilarious package of celluloid merriment is coming tomorrow to the Totem Theatre in the form of Paramount's brand new Bob Hope-Mickey Rooney-Marilyn Maxwell starrer, "Off Limits." The laugh-loaded gag-a-minute film traces the activities of Hope and Rooney as a pair of the wackiest Military Policemen ever pressed into service.

Their extra-curricula interest is prize fighting, with Bob as the trainer and Mickey as a young hopeful bent on winning the light-weight crown. They are both delightfully involved with curvaceous Marilyn Maxwell, who portrays Mickey's aunt and Eddie Mayehoff, a rulebook corporal who rapidly works his way up to captain.

"Off Limits" was produced by Harry Tugend and directed by George Marshall from a story and screen play by Hal Kanter and Jack Sher. Sprinkled throughout the rollicking goings on in "Off Limits" are three smash song hits especially written for the film by Jay Livingston and Ray Evans.

Theatre Group To Defy Court Order

VANCOUVER — Stage director Dorothy Davies said here today that Everyman Theatre Company will defy the British Columbia Appeal Court and produce "Tobacco Road" in Victoria next week as scheduled.

The appeal court Thursday night reimposed a police court decision which convicted seven members of the repertory company of staging an obscene performance of the Erskine Caldwell play.

"We intend to take it to Victoria . . . as for cleaning it up, we never considered it was dirty," Miss Davies said. Rehearsals for the one-week run in Victoria and a tour of Washington State later in the month would get underway immediately she said.

The work of the native saddlers and shoemakers of Constantine in Algeria was widely famous in early centuries.
