Contracts for the construction of 50 rental houses in Prince Rupert have been awarded. Mayor H. S. Whalen received the following telegram shortly before noon today from Premier Byron I. Johnson of British Columbia:

Acquittal in "Baloney" Case

The recent "baloney case" on the local waterfront resulted in an acquittal by Magistrate W. D. Vance in city police court this morning.

Teddy Ryan, who had been charged with taking baloney, eggs and ham from Joshua Tait's boat at Cow Bay, was freed after spending almost a month in jail awaiting trial.

The goods supposed to have been stolen were later found on the boat of the complainant so the case fell.

Going After Big Companies

VICTORIA — CCF Leader Harold Winch said last night the giant Consolidated Mining and Smelting at Trail and all British Columbia monopolies will pay the biggest share of the province's health, education and road costs after June 12.

"We're going after that company," he told a CCF rally after he had read the Consolidated report of its more than fifty million profits last year.

Rift In CCF at Ottawa

Prairie Member on Carpet For Views on Pensions and Allowances

OTTAWA — One-man schism on major policy issues engendered embarrassment Friday in the usually cohesive thirteen-member CCF parliamentary group.

M. J. Coldwell, party leader, called in Ross Thatcher (Moose Jaw) for a lecture on his unexpected departure from the CCF policy on old age pensions and family allowances, in a House of Commons speech Thursday night.

Premier Sees Tax Increase

NEW WESTMINSTER — Premier Byron Johnson hinted last night that taxes might have to be increased if co-insurance charges in B.C.'s compulsory hospital insurance scheme are abolished.

Truman Does His Damndest

WASHINGTON — President Truman declares he has "done his damndest" to be a good president.

Addressing a press conference, he said the greatest epitaph a man can have is the one he saw on a tombstone in Arizona. It read:

"Here lies Jack Williams. 'He done his damndest.'"

Said Truman: "That is what I have tried to do."

Manchester Wins League

LONDON — Manchester United today won the English League soccer championship for the first time since 1911 by swamping Arsenal, its nearest rival, 6-1.

United won the championship by a margin of four points, gaining 57 points from 42 games.

Aftermath From Riots

Storm of Criticism After Michigan Revolt

JACKSON — A rousing storm of criticism surged back and forth today over the handling of the southern Michigan prison riot.

A series of investigations may be made into the four-day mutiny which cost the life of a prisoner, wounded nearly a score of inmates and guards and left $2,000,000 damage in its wake.

Governor G. Mennen Williams, who approved the 11-point agreement on prison reforms demanded by the 170-odd convict rebels, sharply reprimanded a young psychologist who negotiated the surrender terms.

Governor Williams, acting for various state officials, demanded a shakeup in top prison personnel. He mentioned a possible grand jury probe and promised that mutineers would be prosecuted for any crimes committed in connection with the riot.

Williams ordered that an official reprimand be given Dr. Vernon Fox, assistant deputy warden and chief prison psychologist, who broadcast congratulations to rebel leaders.

Brightening Up Metlakatla Pass

Navigators of Metlakatla Passage are welcoming a definite improvement to the facilities for nocturnal negotiation of that strategic but tortuous channel.

During the past week Scotch light reflectors have been installed on all five spar buoys in the passage.

Thus they are rendered readily visible at a long distance on even darkest of nights.

Socreds In Convention

Leadership Being Decided—Platform Building

NEW WESTMINSTER — The Social Credit Party of British Columbia commenced its provincial convention here today.

A leader will be elected with W. A. C. Bennett and Leslie Chant prominently mentioned.

The platform, it is predicted, will call for putting of hospital insurance on a voluntary basis, and the removal of the provincial sales tax.

Pen Warden Reprimanded

JACKSON, Michigan.—Vernon Fox, assistant warden of the Michigan State Penitentiary in which serious revolts took place this week among hardened convicts, has been reprimanded for a statement he made to the prisoners when they surrendered. He told them they were to be congratulated on the good faith in which they had bargained.

Synopsis

A very weak Pacific disturbance moved into the northern interior last night. The trailing edge of this storm now lies across central Vancouver Island and will remain almost stationary. This disturbance has brought increased cloud to most regions of the province. There will be widely scattered showers along the coast and in the northern interior today.

Another disturbance is developing some 750 miles west of northern Vancouver Island. This promises to bring more rain to the north coast tonight and showers to most other regions tomorrow as it moves inland.

Temperature in the interior will be somewhat cooler than those of the last few days.

North Coast Region—Variable cloudiness today. A few showers mostly along the mainland. Increasing cloudiness tonight with rain commencing after midnight, becoming cloudy with showers Sunday afternoon. Little change in temperature.

Decision on President's Edict Due

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States government and steel industry are in a state of tense expectancy awaiting a court decision on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills.

After listening to arguments by lawyers of both sides yesterday, Judge David A. Pine said he would take the case under submission.

The 60-year-old jurist would not say when he might render a decision but legal experts said it may not be announced until Monday.

Meanwhile the government has authorized $3 a ton average price rise for steel effective May 1.

Smithers Hears CCF Speaker

SMITHERS — Introduced by President Vernon Glass, Frank Howard of Terrace spoke to a public meeting of the CCF held in the Municipal Hall Thursday evening.

Mr. Howard, who represents the International Woodworkers Association from Terrace to the Queen Charlottes, has lived in the Skeena district for two years and been associated with the CCF much longer. He has travelled widely in the Skeena riding. He described the influx of industrial workers since the last provincial election for whom, in his opinion, the CCF was the most logical party.

He also gave a short history of the CCF movement declaring that much social welfare legislation had been the result of CCF pressure.

Mr. Howard reported in detail on the findings and recommendations of the B.C. hospitalization MLAs' study, which, he held, would not have been "tabled" by a CCF government along with Chief Justice Sloan's and other "reports" and "studies."

He referred also to the forestry program and discussed the alternative vote system.

Mr. Howard proceeded west to the Queen Charlottes on Friday and expects to cover the whole Skeena riding in the near future.

PEI Crash Kills Four

SUMMERSIDE — Four members of the Royal Canadian Air Force were killed Friday when a four-engined Lancaster bomber crashed and burned while coming in for a landing at the air force base here.

Of the eight other occupants five were severely injured and three suffered minor injuries.

A member of the Summerside ground crew received slight injuries while engaged in rescue work.

The crash, bringing to twelve the number of service air deaths in the Maritimes in little more than a week, occurred as the big plane was returning from a routine flight to Goose Bay in Labrador.

W. D. Lambie and T. M. Christie are sailing tomorrow night on the Camosun for a trip to Vancouver.

Opposed To Daytime

Farmers of Fraser Valley Organizing

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Fraser Valley farmers said Friday they are organizing to obtain a "No" vote on daylight saving plebiscite to be held in connection with the provincial election June 12.

"We are pleased to see the government giving us a chance to organize and defeat this plan which is a definite handicap to farming," said L. Currie of Cloverdale, president of the 4000 strong Surrey Farmers' Co-operative.

"We are more than ever convinced daylight saving is seriously hampering milk and poultry industries. It is wrong for it interferes with the farmers' schedules and upsets the natural habits of livestock," he said.

The farmers fighting the daylight saving scheme say they have the support of Women's Institutes throughout the province.

Catholics Not Happy

To Consider Liberal Stand On Schools Tomorrow

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Catholic Education Association said today it finds the Liberal party's stand on separate schools unsatisfactory.

Other than that the association said it would make no comment until after a special convention tomorrow at Nanaimo.

The B.C. Liberal convention voted Thursday night to shelve the executive's resolution calling for partial integration of the Roman Catholic schools into the public school system, the aim now being sought by the province's Catholics.

Under the province's present school system separate schools do not receive financial aid from the provincial government.

A Happy Outcome

IT MUST BE a matter of relief and gratification to all interested in the welfare and progress of the community that the 50-unit rental housing project for Prince Rupert is going through after all.

The effort to save it from going by the board, as seemed imminent for a few days, was well worthwhile and all those who put forth efforts are to be commended including city council, Chamber of Commerce and other parties who were in a position to help and did so.

It would have been disastrous to the city had this project fallen in the face of such a desperate need for housing.

Now we are heartened to go along together with further efforts for these 50 houses are only a portion of what will be needed here.

City council and Chamber of Commerce would do well to consider other steps which might be taken to encourage building here, not only for rental but for sale on terms that are economic and reasonable.

Some sort of an easy home financing scheme here would be a Godsend indeed. The Daily News published an interesting story yesterday of such a scheme being inaugurated at Port Edward for Columbia Cellulose workers.

Anything that can be done to encourage and make home building feasible in Prince Rupert will be a worthy effort indeed.

After all, homes are the backbone of any happy and prosperous community. A settled, happy population is vital.

No homes and there is nothing that counts.

All avenues to assure them should be explored.

Our Favorite Candidate

IT'S ALL very well to get excited about elections, says Christian Science Monitor. But it's also very well to get excited about spring.

Each year we cast our vote with undiminished enthusiasm for the full vernal ticket and thrill to the opening trill of the primaveral campaign. Hopes bud; anticipations flower; the swelling bosoms of golden-voiced, publicity-minded, featherbrained, airborne little electioneers carry the campaign slogan, "I Sing Spring."

Soon we shall have our ear to the ground, luxuriantly surveying the grass-roots tendencies. But for the moment we are content to sniff the air of impending action, feel the warmth of conviction stealing through our veins, and join in the indiscriminate babble and bubble of enthusiasm for the loveliest candidate who ever deserved to be greeted with green thumbs up.

Reflects and Reminisces

It will take three or four more years to make world peace more secure, Winston Churchill said yesterday. The road to recovery will be long, painful and unpopular. The same man made a few remarks about blood and tears away back in 1914. You can usually count on what he chooses to say.

Penitentiary food and service may have been at the bottom of Michigan's prison riots. The trouble calmed down Thursday. It would possibly be too hopeful to say it's really ended. Beef-steak helped. The way to a rioters' heart can often be via the stomach but keep it within reason.

No more free wigs, medicine and dentists in Great Britain. That's one thing the recent general election in the Old Country. Well, there will be another poll in June—this time on the Pacific Coast of Canada.

Generally speaking, people walk, talk and drive too fast. This, they say is done because there is so little time. But not a soul ever pauses to reflect that never before has a week had fewer work days. Never before has a day been so short from the industrial side of it.

Never before has there been more gadgets and ideas each with the idea of giving labor more leisure. Shy of time, eh? What do you do with it?

Sidewalk replacing on Third Avenue has not come too soon. What Prince Rupert possesses today in that line illustrates the necessity of keeping what you have in good shape. Remember the old walks—narrow, broken, slippery during rain—and every here and there, none at all.

Back in 1950, Billy Shaw and Elmer Ridley, native small boys, found $480 in cold cash on Second Avenue, and lost no time in turning it over to the police. No one claimed it. And so, after a year and a half, the roll was given to the finders. There have been few better examples of downright honesty. The lads deserve to prosper—as they surely will.

Peace Hopes Solid

IF YOU want to understand why the hard-boiled realists in western countries have now lined up with the idealists and internationalists in concluding that a solid peace may soon be possible, here are the facts:

In the crucial western front, from the North Sea to the Alps, the rival army strengths are as follows:

Russians, etc. 30 divisions

The Russian divisions are far below the strength of western divisions. Our Canadian-brigade group is, in fact, as strong as the average Russian division. Moreover, the NATO front line divisions do not include 12 or 13 more in close-up, quickly available reserves.

I CITE the above figures from the good fortnightly publication THE REPORTER, issue of April 15. They tally with what I have been able to deduce from other responsible sources. The essential fact is that "in the spring of 1952 the military power of NATO on the German front outweighs the Russian in men, metal and flexibility."

The above figures do not include the NATO forces in Norway, Denmark, Greece, Turkey or Portugal, or those of our new ally, Yugoslavia. They deal only with the forces which would be immediately available at the main line of clash in event of major war.

THE SUCCESS of NATO plugs the military gap which the peculiar set-up of the UN left. The realists can sleep easier now.

The realists argue this way: There have always been wars, and struggles between power blocs. The struggle between the U.S.-led bloc on one hand and the Russian-led bloc on the other is exactly the same kind of big power struggle as has occurred over and over again in history.

If war should soon occur between the present rival blocs there would be no chance of outright defeat of the west unless all western Europe fell permanently into the Soviet camp. Hence the crucial military problem, from the western point of view is to make absolutely 100 per cent certain that western Europe does not so fall.

READERS of this column know that I have never accepted the theory that Russian leaders were just waiting for the moment to attack—as Hitler insanely did. For if that theory is correct, then they were the prize dumbbells of all time not to have done so in 1946, 47, 48, 49 or 50—when they could have swept through France in a matter of days.

But I was well aware that my own guesses might be wrong—and that even if a world war exploded in China or anywhere else the instant effect would have been that the Red armies would have come sweeping west.

Now there is no reason whatsoever to believe that they could sweep through to the Atlantic, even if they tried.

THE build-up of NATO strength will continue. The final goal is a total force of some 100 divisions. There is no reason to expect a much heavier call on Canada, at least for front line soldiers, seamen and airmen, than has already been made. Possibly with the end of the SPRING HARVEST—Grain harvesting, usually a fall operation in western Canada, is being carried on this spring together with seeding. Millions of bushels of grain were left on the ground last fall when harvesting was stopped by early snow. A threshing crew is at work in the oats field of Ted Lothar, 10 miles north of Edmonton. When threshing is completed the land will be ploughed and seeded for the 1952 crop. (CP PHOTO)

Royal Wage Bill Soon

By F. S. JONES

LONDON (AP)—Some time soon Parliament will have to decide how much to pay Queen Elizabeth II and her family. Royalty's annual wage bill, the civil list, is voted by parliament at the beginning of each reign—within six months of the last sovereign's death—to maintain "the honor and dignity of the crown and royal family."

It cost Britain $577,000 a year to do this properly during the lifetime of King George VI. The king himself got $410,000. The rest was divided among his mother, daughters and other close relatives.

The task of working out how much the queen will get will fall to an all-party committee of 21 members of parliament.

The committee's job won't be an easy one. The chill winds of rising prices whistles through the royal corridors of Buckingham Palace just as uncomfortably as it does through any other British home.

Whatever the committee decides, there are bound to be changes in the new civil list. One new name—Queen Mother Elizabeth—will appear; another name—the heir to the throne—will disappear.

When Elizabeth was heiress presumptive, parliament voted her £8,000 a year. This was raised to £15,000 when she became 21, and to £40,000 when she married the Duke of Edinburgh in 1947.

NEW RAISES DUE Prince Charles, the 3½-year-old heir apparent, won't get any of this. In theory he's a rich youngster in his own right as Duke of Cornwall. He automatically became Duke as the sovereign's eldest son and is heir to the revenues of the duchy.

When the last civil list was passed in 1937, these revenues brought in a net of £104,000 a year. Most of this may go into a trust fund for the young duke.

The old list provided that Queen Mother Elizabeth would get £70,000 if she survived her husband. This is the same as Queen Mary was given when George V died in 1936.

One person almost certain to get a raise is the Duke of Edinburgh. At the moment he gets £10,000 a year, but as the queen's consort, he will have more to do—and presumably needs more money to do it with.

Another increase may go to Princess Margaret, who as the war in Korea we will have two brigades in Europe, instead of one there and one in Asia, as now.

It is going to cost Canada plenty to fill her quota—not only of men but materials. Next year the emphasis will shift from military help to Europe to economic help.

But no matter how much it costs, NATO is worth it IF IT DOES THE JOB FOR WHICH IT IS PLANNED. THAT IS TO PREVENT WAR.

NATO has plugged a gap. Coupled with the resolute resistance to aggression in Korea it has laid solid foundations of possible peace, based on strength.

TO OPEN TRADE FAIR—Economic Affairs Minister J. R. M. Van Den Brink of the Netherlands will open the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto June 2. queen's sister has extra duties to perform. At present she gets £6,000 voted her when she became 21.

Like her father, the queen probably will find at least three-quarters of her income earmarked for housekeeping.

It cost the king £152,800 a year to run the state households at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle. Salaries of secretaries and court officials swallowed another £134,000.

Romantic Colorful

Support Acting, Outstanding Production Mark Film

"I'll Never Forget You," Technicolor romantic-drama which opens at the Totem Theatre Monday is rich in romance and warm, genuine emotion. It narrates the intriguing and novel story of an atomic scientist who is hurtled back in time some 200 years to become absorbed by the 18th century. Entwined in the presentation of London past is a tender and heart-warming love story of two people—the scientist and an 18th century English girl—whose love is destined to exist beyond time and space.

As the lovers, swept together by a strange twist of time, Tyrone Power and Ann Blyth bring to life the warmth and vitality their roles richly deserve. Co-star Michael Rennie is a fellow scientist who tries to understand Power's journey across the centuries.

In supporting roles are a group of top-notch British performers headed by Dennis Price as an 18th century dandy, Beatrice Campbell, Kathleen Byron, Raymond Huntley and Irene Brown.

Sea Cadets Prepare for Annual Inspection—Woodside Honored

Sea Cadets Busy Preparing for Inspection—Woodside Honored

SEA CADETS—In preparation for their annual inspection some of the latter part of May Sea Cadets have to work hard at it and in the classroom training under the guidance of their officers.

On Thursday night these boys, aged anywhere from 17 and 34 strong in number, will be inspected by the Assistant Officer, Lieutenant Freeman of the Royal Canadian Navy, who will be accompanied by the visiting officers.

During the week they did a very good job of impressing. Everyone was impressed with their smartness. The Cadet Bugle Band under the direction of Commissioner Huber, F. Huber, RCN (R), and J. Breen is expected to be busy for regular duty by May.

The Cadets will be issued their hats and fronts by next Thursday and it is hoped that new boots which are on their way from the clothing stores in HMCS Naden will arrive in-time for the inspection.

The enthusiasm and energy displayed by all cadets who participated in the successful Tag Day paid off in the form of prizes for the highest "taggers". The ice cream and cake passed out was very good, too. The prizes were presented to the winners by Lt. Freeman on Thursday night.

WOODSIDE HONORED

The local Branch of the Navy League who sponsor the Sea Cadets, met Friday night in the room of HMCS Chatham to discuss matters concerning the Sea Cadet Corps.

The executive committee learned with regret that S. P. Woodside, president of the local branch, had tendered his resignation. Mr. Woodside, a resident of Prince Rupert for 23 years, has been actively engaged in Navy League work for seven of those years, has been appointed as a member of the committee, and has been presented with a Ronson lighter and cigar case by Edward Dawes on behalf of the League members.

Final Rites This Afternoon For Esteemed Pioneer Woman

First Presbyterian Church was well filled with many old friends this afternoon for the funeral of Mrs. Mary McLeod, widow of the late Donald McLeod and esteemed pioneer woman of 40 years' standing. Mrs. McLeod passed away Wednesday night in the Prince Rupert General Hospital after a long illness.

Rev. Dr. E. A. Wright, speaking words of tribute to deceased and sympathy to the bereaved, conducted a sympathetic service. John Currie Jr. presided at the organ to accompany the hymns, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "Unto the Hills."

Following the church service, the cortege proceeded to Fairview Cemetery where interment was made.

Active pallbearers were Edward Garner, J. A. McRae, Frank Hicks, Murdo McKenzie, Ed Saunders and Robert Rudderham.

Honorary pallbearers were Alex Mackenzie, Angus McIvor, David MacKenzie, J. R. Morison, Thomas McMeek and Duncan Munro.

Numerous floral offerings testified to the esteem in which deceased was held.

Mrs. McLeod, who made her home at 410 Sixth Avenue West, was born in Lochinver, Scotland. She was the last surviving member of a family of eight. Her principal activity was in church work and she was a faithful Presbyterian. She is survived by three sons—Murdo and John McLeod of Prince Rupert and Alick in Winnipeg—and three daughters—Misses Anne and Netta McLeod in Prince Rupert and Mrs. M. E. (Teenie) Prendegast of Vancouver. There are seven grandchildren.

The New Ship's Writer, Able Seaman Lewis Hagen, arrived by boat Friday to relieve Able Seaman Anthony Chursky who will report to HMCS Discovery.

Ordinary Seaman Sydney Youngman will leave by train on Tuesday night for HMCS Cornwallis to commence New Entry Training. His many friends around Prince Rupert wish him the best of luck in the new career he has chosen.

Along the 'FRONT

The hydrographic survey vessel William J. Stewart, well known everywhere along the British Columbia coast, recently completed her annual overhaul and refitting. She is 228 feet in length.

Already the refitted and renamed Nechako is developing quite a traffic between Kitimat and Prince Rupert. Formerly known as the yacht Cora Marie, and owned by W. C. Shelly, she is now in regular service as a passenger and general utility craft. It is at Kitimat the Nechako will be based. She is under direct supervision of Harris M. Whiting, project manager of Kitimat Constructors. She can accommodate a crew of eight and carry fifty day passengers and sleep nine at night. There has been installed a well equipped sick bay as well as a shore style coffee bar. The ship is strictly a company vessel and although not intended for the carrying of freight, can handle as much as fifteen tons. Her master is Capt. James R. McKay and Chief Engineer, William Green.

Because of inability to get Seattle fishermen and vessel owners solidly behind the recent conference in the south respecting halibut matters, the plans for a coastwide minimum halibut price have been shelved for this year. The Seattle deep sea fishermen, however, are hoping to solve the problem of lower prices by delivering one trip per boat.

The owner of the seiner Freedom, George J. Bralich, was elected president of the Vessel Owners' Association of British Columbia at the annual meeting held recently in Vancouver.

Directors, with names of ships, are Mat Neilsen, B.C. Bird; George Bralich, Jessie Island; Morgan Bird, North Pacific; Eric Helmer, R.W. Nels Nelson, Combat; Sam Peterson, Cape Norman.

George Seymour, a fisherman well known along the coast, and also who has for years been serving as cook on fish packers, having been with Nelson Bros., is seriously ill in hospital at Courtenay. He is suffering from duodenal ulcers and is said to require a major operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wyatt and family are leaving on tonight's train for Prince George to which city Mr. Wyatt is being transferred in the provincial government service.

Indian Superintendent F. E. Anfield left on today's plane for a business trip to Vancouver.

Army Builds Huge Bridge

Canadian Sappers
On Alaska Highway

DONJEK VALLEY, Y.T.—Canadian soldiers will soon complete a vital part of the Alaska highway less than 300 miles from the Arctic circle. During the winter they worked in temperatures that at times hit 40 and 50 degrees below zero.

The project is the $2,500,000 Donjek bridge with eight spans and an over-all length of 1,600 feet of steel and concrete construction. The men are members of the No. 1 Road Maintenance Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, commanded by Major Joe Black.

Started as a training program for the Canadian sappers who are permanently engaged in road maintenance on the Alaska highway, the bridge received top priority last year when floods destroyed five smaller crossings and caused 60 washouts on a 50-mile stretch of road.

It was in 1949 that the engineers began work on the piers for the bridge, but there was little concentrated effort at speed. The plan then was to have the sappers construct the bridge over a period of five years.

There was no priority for either men or materials and the company, being a mobile unit, was unable to spend much time on the project, their services being required for maintenance elsewhere.

In November, 1950, Maj. Black arrived at the Donjek and the following summer's floods resulted in the bridge getting priority with orders to complete it without further delay.

ARMY'S BIGGEST
When completed, the Donjek bridge, largest bridge-building project undertaken by an army force, will replace seven wooden trestles which each year have been threatened by floodwaters. The bridge also will cut out a section of the highway dotted with treacherous curves and poor grades.

Before approaches to the bridge could be opened, the engineers, using very little explosive, had to cut through permafrost and remove obstacles which tested their strength of high-powered bulldozers and scrapers.

In many instances steam had to be fed underground to soften the surface before a cut could be made in the ground.

Some 1,200 tons of steel and hundreds of tons of concrete are being used.

The bridge will be opened about June 15 as a permanent part of the Alaska highway near mile 1130.

"Nothing has been easy up here in the frozen north, but many of my men would stay on another year if they were required," says Maj. Black. "Many of course are looking forward to a tour of duty in a more southern climate."

"I'm off to Korea, but not until this job is done."

Car Accident Rate Mounts

NEW YORK ©—The accident rate for vehicles operated by 347 Canadian and American newspapers rose slightly last year, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association reported.

The A.N.P.A., which sponsors an annual safe-driving campaign in conjunction with the International Circulation Managers' Association, said the accident rate was up 22 of one percent over the record-low figure of 1950.

Two Canadian newspapers were among the 21 cited for special safety awards.

The Hamilton Spectator took second place in the award for newspapers with daily circulation between 50,000 and 100,000. The Spectator operated two vehicles 231,182 miles without an accident.

The Ottawa Journal was placed second in the class of newspapers with circulation between 5,000 and 100,000. It operated 11 vehicles 231,182 miles without an accident.

Among the 37 papers given certificates of merit for an accident-free year were:

The Three Rivers Le Nouvelliste; Sherbrooke La Tribune; Peterborough Examiner; Kingston Whig-Standard and Ottawa Le Droit.

Red Story On Dunkerque

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian readers got the Soviet dope recently on the British evacuation from Dunkerque.

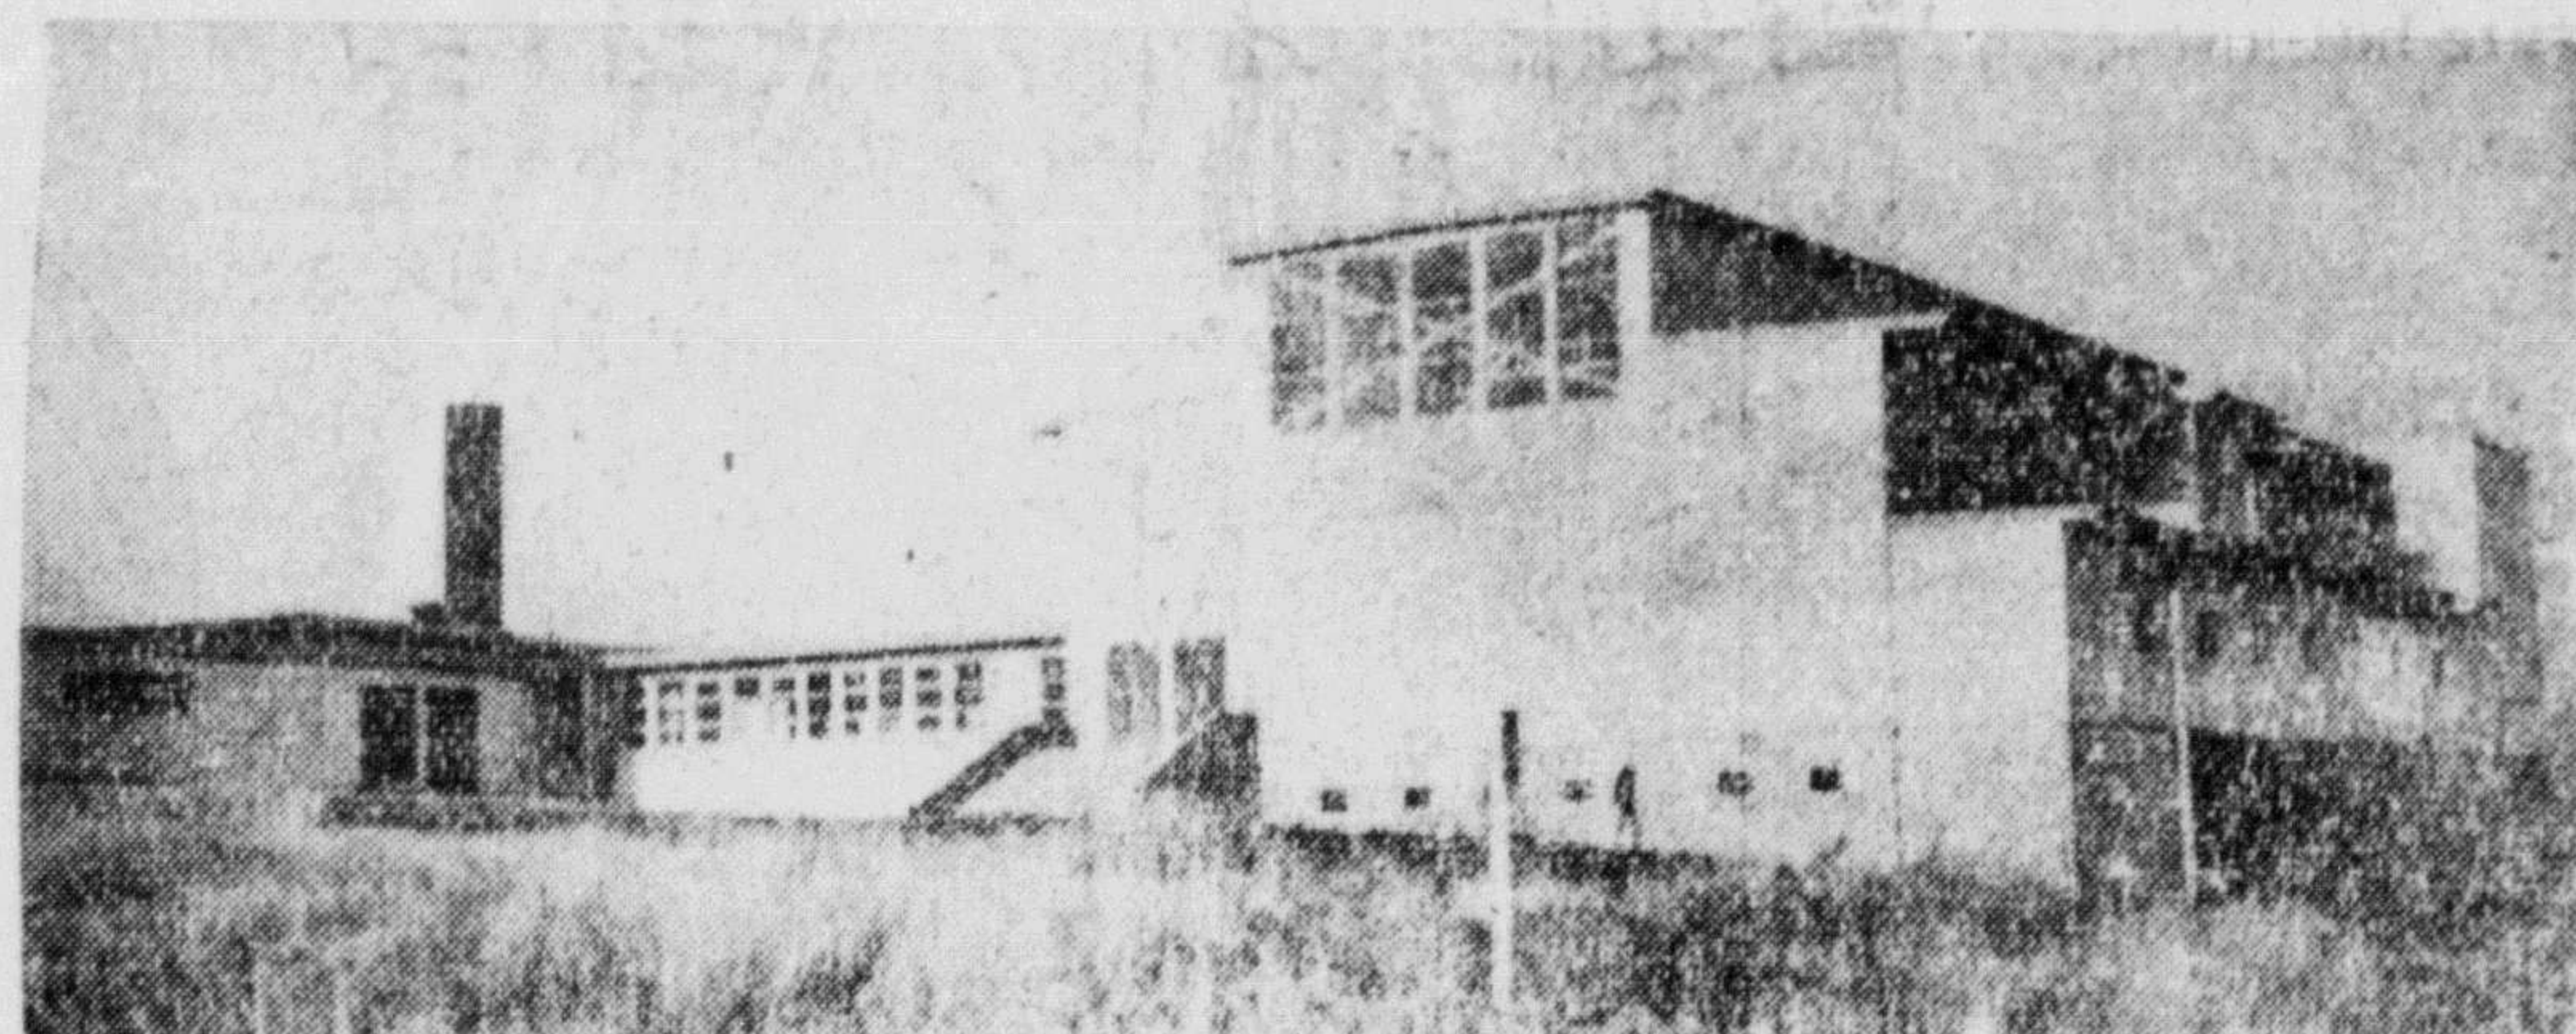

Neither heroism nor skill got the British troops off the sands of France—Hitler let them get away on purpose, says the Russian Navy newspaper, Red Fleet.

The Fuehrer issued orders to let the British troops get away, the paper contends, in hopes this would speed up a joint Anglo-American agreement on a joint war against the Soviet Union.

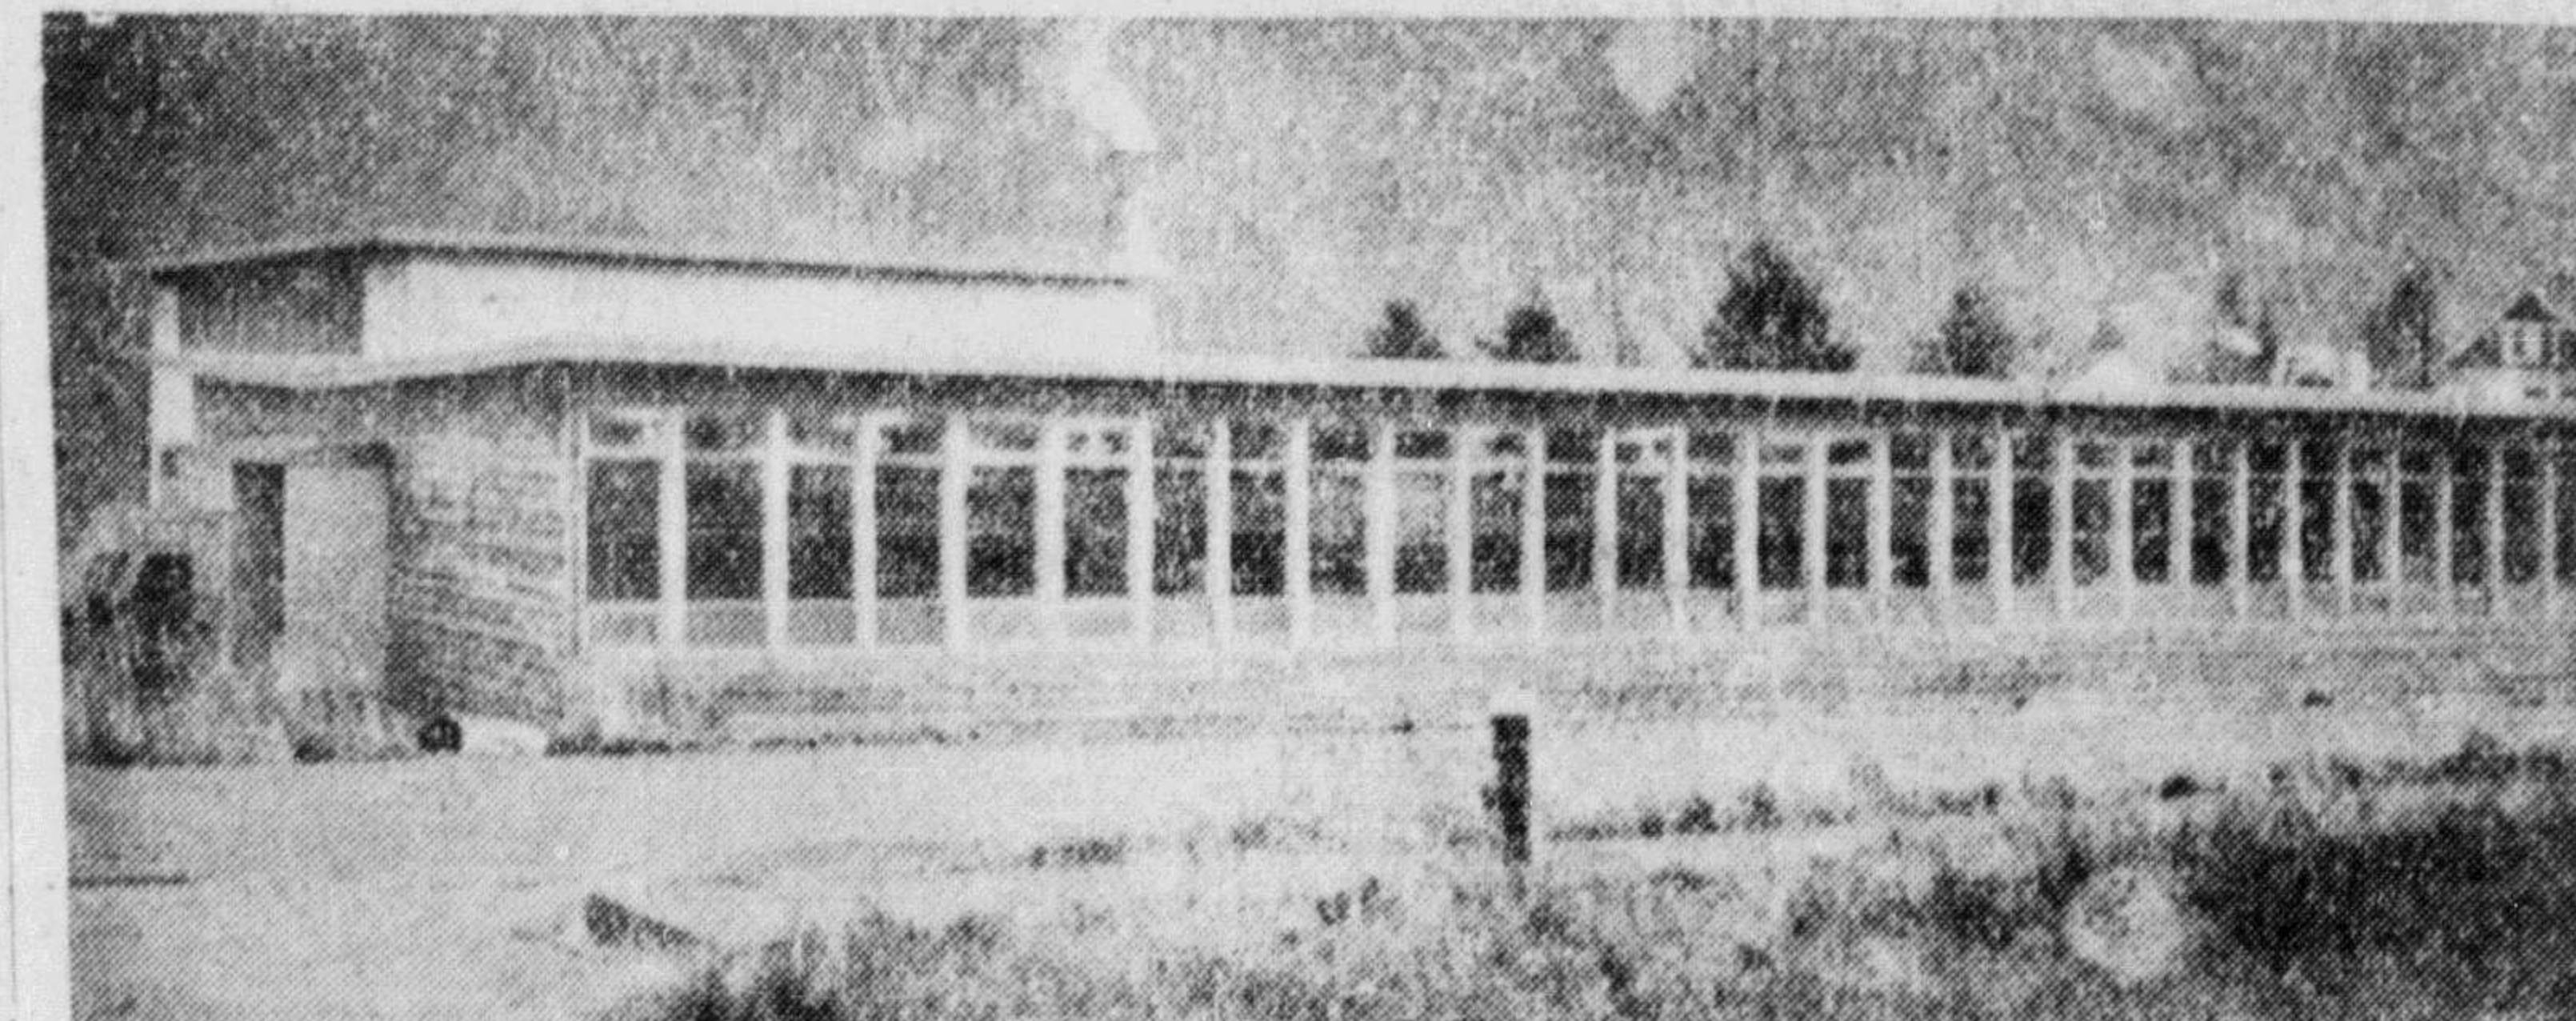

Red Fleet said further: "The myth of the heroic feat of the British fleet at Dunkerque was needed by the English falsifiers of history in order to conceal the truth from their own people and the world public."

Trio Behind Northwest Construction Company

One of central British Columbia's leading construction firms, Northwest Construction Limited had a stranger-than-fiction beginning. It began when the founder, mysteriously disappeared while several buildings were still under partial construction.

The story of how the new firm was formed is told in another section of this page. This is a background of people who now are most closely associated with Northwest Construction Ltd.

President and projects chief is 46-year-old George Martin who came to Prince Rupert in 1942 as area superintendent for B.C. Bridge & Dredging Co. Ltd., constructors of the $20,000,000 project for the United States Army along the wharves of Prince Rupert, Watson Island and Port Edward.

Upon completion of this work, George Martin undertook building the highway bridges between Prince Rupert and Shames for the same company. In 1943, he joined the United States Engineering Department as senior engineer and served in this capacity until the war's end.

ENGLISHMAN

Northwest's president was born in Kent, England, and came to Canada the same year. His father was a contractor and he recalls his youth with a chuckle.

"I chewed by baby teeth on nails and went to work on the works the following year." He remained working with his father until he joined B.C. Bridge & Dredging Co. Ltd.

John (Jack) Martin, a brother, is vice-president and field superintendent of Northwest. He, too, was born in England—in London—in 1911 and came to Canada with the family at an early age. Jack Martin was educated in Vancouver schools and in University of British Columbia.

All of the younger brother's occupational career has evolved around construction. During the Second World War, he was first, military foreman of works with the Royal Canadian Engineers on various B.C. projects. From D-day to January, 1946, he was overseas. He returned to enter again the construction field and in 1948 came to Prince Rupert to join his brother with Northwest.

Jack is married and with his wife Kathleen and 10-year-old son John, makes his home at 1723 Sixth Avenue East. His hobby is "dreaming of the next golf game."

Secretary-treasurer and expediter of Northwest is Ronald "Curly" Barbour, 39-year-old English-born Scot with a variety of experience already behind him.

Curly was educated in an English boarding school and came to Canada at 14 to join his brother in Winnipeg, where he worked for five years for James Richardson & Sons in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. He came to British Columbia in 1933, working in several hard rock mines for four years then spent another three at a different type of mining—placer and prospecting.

"Yep—for three years I worked for nobody but myself. Didn't get rich, but made a good living," says Curly of his years scouting through the Omineca district.

ON WAR WORK HERE

In 1941 he came to Prince Rupert and joined the Royal Canadian Engineers on survey work for a year and a half. Then he joined the USED, also on survey work until 1944, from which time to end of the war was employed in the warehouse department of the United States Post Engineers. He remained there until formation of Northwest Construction Ltd. in 1945.

Curly and Mrs. Pat Barbour have two children, son Bradford and daughter Merron.

With the gang, Curly enjoys a good Scottish joke he has best of all. He's an avid baseball fan, reads all the baseball magazines and gives his ear to radio for every big league broadcast.

These three men make up the administration department of Northwest, a construction firm which is recognized throughout the northwest as outstanding, progressive and always reliable in its bid to open up the last frontier of the province to civilization.

Northwest Construction

The company came into being in Prince Rupert more or less in the following manner:

In the fall of 1945, Mr. Murphy, who then operated the Northwest Construction Co., mysteriously disappeared, leaving the rebuilding of the Stone Building after the fire and the construction of the Hollywood Cafe, and other work in a stage of partial completion.

The creditors and owners concerned approached the present shareholders of Northwest Construction Ltd. with the offer of the job of completing these contracts. Mr. George Martin at that time was serving as Senior Engineer and General Superintendent of the United States Army Post Engineers in Prince Rupert, Mr. Barbour was warehousing, and Mr. Hutcheson was with the Corps of Transportation.

Roughly four hundred civilian construction workers were employed in all phases in the construction and maintenance and operation of the army installations at Port Edward, Watson Island and Prince Rupert.

The present shareholders took advantage of the fact that, upon the war ending, a large portion of these hand-picked men would be available for employment in peacetime construction.

They, therefore, took over the old Northwest Construction Co., reformed it into a limited company, negotiated contracts with Pacific Mills Ltd., Nelson Bros., B. C. Packers, and others, and started the company off in the late fall with roughly one hundred and fifty men employed in Prince Rupert and Ocean Falls.

The following mid-summer, an office was opened in Vancouver, as major work then offered in the north was becoming limited. Also, an office was opened in Prince George, in order to secure the desired volume of work. These offices functioned, and roughly two million dollars' worth of work was carried out through these channels.

With the advent of securing the Alice Arm project, the installation of the Torbit Silver Mine (railroads, etc.), the offices at Vancouver and Prince George were closed, in order to release the key personnel required for this two million dollar project.

On the completion of this work, a crew of roughly fifty men was loaned to Mr. George Martin, to assist him in starting the Columbia Cellulose Mill. On the completion of the latter plant, when the company secured the large school contract, most of these men returned to the company, with one or two senior men going to Kitimat Constructors.

The company employs the necessary key personnel to undertake almost any project requiring up to one thousand men without adding to its engineering or field staff, presently employed, all of whom are Prince Rupert residents at the present time.

lively little barrister though now over 70 and out of harness since he captained the victorious U.S. team at Melbourne in 1946, will consent to give it another whirl if he is asked just right. Reason we know is we asked him.

First answer we got was: "No,
I just couldn't do it again. It's too far, and the strain laid me up for a week after the last one."

There followed a considerable conversation about the problems facing the U.S. cup committee, including the selection of a captain. Pate conceded they were fierce. We then ask him if he would be willing to go to Adelaide next winter as second in command, a sort of captain emeritus.

"Absolutely not," Pate snapped. "If I go I'll have to be in complete command and I'll insist that we get over there at least six weeks before the engagement round so we are thoroughly acclimated. I wouldn't go under any other conditions."

In other words, the canny old strategist who brought the big cup back from Britain in 1937

Budge—was who repeated nine

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Miss Brash Is Rash but Makes A Smash for a Grand Slam

Responding to Miss Brash's four no trump bid, Mr. Abel properly showed only one ace as he had already shown the ace of diamonds by his four diamond cue-bid.

Miss Brash's jump to a grand slam is not recommended. Mr. Abel could have had a good jump raise without offering any play for 13 tricks. As it was, however, the contract was not hopeless and Miss Brash made it by a very fine play.

She won the opening spade lead with dummy's ace and looked the situation over. At first glance it appeared that she would need successful finesses in both clubs and diamonds. Cautious Mr. Meek had over-called, vulnerable, without the ace or king of his trump suit. Almost surely he had both the minor suit kings.

That meant the diamond suit could be finessed twice for a total of three tricks in that suit. One spade trick and seven hearts made 11 tricks. The ace of clubs made 12.

It was practically certain that a club finesse would lose. Where was the thirteenth trick coming from, then? Miss Brash figured it would have to come from a squeeze in clubs and diamonds. This would not work if it was Mr. Champion who had the diamonds stopped with four cards in that suit. But if Mr. Meek had four or more diamonds and the king of clubs, he would be helpless.

Using the formula I have recommended, Miss Brash calculated that Mr. Meek would have to hold four diamonds and two clubs six cards in all. She could run eight tricks in the majors, which would reduce Mr. Meek's hand to five cards.

Accordingly, she took the king and ace of hearts, then finessed the jack of diamonds. She returned to her hand with a trump and ran the rest of her trump suit. Her last five cards were three clubs, a diamond and a trump. Dummy's were D-A Q 2 and two clubs. When she led the last trump, Mr. Meek's hand was D-K 10 8 and C-K 4. If Miss Brash had another diamond, he would have to save all of his cards in that suit to keep dummy's deuce of diamonds from winning.

As calmly as he could, Mr. Meek dropped the four of clubs. But Miss Brash was not to be fooled. She refused the club finesse and took the last tricks with the ace and queen of diamonds and the ace and queen of clubs.

Council May Meet Oftener

PRINCE GEORGE.—Prince George city council is finding itself with so much business to deal with that it may be decided to meet weekly instead of twice a month.

The only alternative appears to be to meet in the daytime which, however, might interfere with the business hours of some alterners.

Twice recently, the council had to terminate at the statutory hour of 11 o'clock without business being completed.

Anscomb To Visit District

BURNS LAKE.—Herbert Anscomb, who was minister of finance in the former British Columbia coalition government, is going to the central interior early in May. He will attend a Progressive Conservative nominating convention when a candidate will be chosen to oppose the Liberal, Cecil Steele, who was member of the last Legislature. George Ogston of Vanderhoof is being prominently mentioned for the nomination.

Treasure Ship Wreck Found

DURBAN, South Africa.—A treasure hunter says his expedition has located the wreck of the sailing ship Grosvenor, sunk in 1782 with a multi-million dollar cargo of gold, silver and jewels. Dr. Bartman, leader of the searchers, reports that Tom Devonshire, a diver, has found eight cannon and box-shaped objects on the southeast coast. The Grosvenor was sailing from India to England.

MUSIC... DRAMA... ART... BOOKS

Prince Rupert Daily News

Prince Rupert to Revel In Music, Drama, Dancing at '52 Festival

The fifth and what should be the most successful Music and Drama Festival which opens here May 6 will take four days of two programs each to pace 250 entries through their performances. Last year's entries totalled 171.

Students will represent eight classes of the fine arts from ages of under 7 years to adults. The Music and Drama Festival is the only regular medium through which local talent can express itself before the public and be judged by recognized authorities.

While up to now it has not been feasible to organize the Prince Rupert festival to coincide with the provincial and Dominion festival so local winning students can progress to the stiffer competition, such a plan is being entertained for the future, says Mrs. Dorothy Becker, president of the local group.

Meanwhile, the festival is an event to which local students of vocal and instrumental music, dancing and drama look forward throughout the year.

Top winner in music and in drama are likely to be awarded a $100 scholarship this year—"if the festival is successful enough financially," says Mrs. Becker.

Heading the list of all entries is the pianoforte class, featuring 96 students. Next major class is drama which has 63 entries. Including the violin class several entries come from Ketchikan and Terrace.

Twenty-three junior school and church choirs and two adult groups will feature in the choral singing class. Instrumental groups will be highlighted by the appearance of accordion ensembles, school bands and the city band.

The association regrets, however, that the popular native bands of Alyansh and Greenville, which have made such marvelous appearances in the past, have not entered.

In dancing, there are 14 entries, featuring tap, Irish jig, ballet, hornpipe, group minuets, duets, trios and other group ensembles.

Eight plays will be presented in the drama section as well as several entries in elocution and choral speaking.

THIS WEEK'S ARTIST

One of the newest and most refreshing sounds on wax today is the voice of popular Tony Bennett, "Golden Tone" as he is sometimes called, has dark wavy hair, green eyes and a wide friendly smile. Tony first sang the light of day in Astoria, N.Y., August 3, 1926, and his real name is Anthony Dominick Benedetto. He has always enjoyed singing but never thought of making a career of it. Instead, he wanted to be a commercial artist. After a two and a half year stint as an infantryman in the service, his mind was changed. He decided singing was for him.

With no one wanting to take a chance on an unknown, Tony managed to get just one booking in two and a half years of trying to break into show business. But at that one engagement Tony was "discovered" and got himself a personal manager. Then things began to look up for the young singer. He had guest spots with Bob Hope and was signed to a long term recording contract with Columbia Records.

A big year for Tony came in 1951. His records "Because of You" and "Cold, Cold Heart" zoomed into the number one and two spot on the popularity polls and sales passed the million mark. Other songs like "Solitaire" and "Blue Velvet" followed closely. He was voted "the best male vocalist of 1951 by Cash Box" magazine, replacing Perry Como, who had held this spot for four years.

Currently scoring for Tony are his recordings of "Silly Dreamer" and "Since My Love Has Gone" and his newest release "Somewhere Along the Way" and "Sleepless." Married February 11, Tony's wife is seeing the country with him on his tours.

His first release on Columbia Records that launched him on his recording career was made in April, 1950. The two numbers were "I Wanna Be Loved" and "Boulevard of Broken Dreams." Tony registers a feeling for his songs and has a fine style of putting a song over. Great things have happened for Tony and is his large following of fans have anything to say about it, he'll be at the top for a long time to come.

He will return in May to the Korean front, where he has put in 17 months of CP service. (CP PHOTO)

CLASSICAL RESEARCH

LA MER

By Claude Achille Debussy, Piano

So closely were Debussy's emotions attuned to the sea that he confessed himself almost overwhelmed and numbed by its presence. He could not compose easily within sight or sound of it, but had to turn to some inland spot from which his recollections could return in tranquility to the beauty and power and mystery of the sea.

And certainly there was more than factual memory that came to him.

There must have been at least also an intuitive perception of the mysterious inner nature of the sea, of truths which the science of the ocean, in its infancy in Debussy's time, had not yet discovered. We, who know some of these truths today, can discern them in this exquisitely beautiful unfolding of the spirit of the sea.

Out of his "endless store of memories," Debussy created a world of water and sky, crossed by the hurrying forms of waves and holding endless converse with the great winds that ceaselessly blow over the surface of the earth.

The first movement "From Dawn Till Noon on the Sea," is full of the shimmering beauty of the face of the sea and the sparkle of sun on water. Then, of the wind driven processions of the waves across the ocean, Debussy has suggested the mysterious and brooding spirit of the deep and hidden waters.

The pure airs of dawn move over the water when the east turns grey and the black wave shapes come ashore with silver light. The face of the sea is mobile, sensitive, always changing. More deliberate and subtle is the descent of dawn into deeper waters. Only the noonday sun, with its long, straight rays, has power to penetrate to that zone between the surface waters and the eternal night of the deep waters. Brief hours of dawn pass quickly into hours of twilight, and the blue light fades away into the long night.

A seabird coming down to alight on the water, a fish cutting the surface with its fin, set spreading ripples in motion. Born of wind and water, each young wave takes its place in the confused pattern of the open sea. In the wide immensity of the open sea, a wave knows no restraint; were it not for the intercepting masses of the continents it might roll on and on around the earth. But nearing shore, it feels the alien land beneath it. Against the drag of shoaling bottom its speed slackens. Within the surf zone a white, foaming crest begins to form along its advancing front, and suddenly this shining creation of the open sea plunges forward and dissolves in thunder.

The third movement of La Mer introduces a sterner mood in this ancient dialogue of the wind and waters. Hearing it, we think of the great wind belts where the westerly winds blow across thousands of miles of open sea and the most majestic of all waves march with them around the globe. Of such winds and waves are born the terrible surf of Tierra Del Fuego, the violent seas that burst upon the shores of the Orkneys, when air and sea and land are blended in a thick obscurity of spray, leaping foam, and beating waves.

Debussy devoted himself to gradual development of individual poetic style. He opposed any rules of harmony or counterpoint which were contrary to his own style, therefore his descriptive illusive style gave birth to a new revolution in the growth of music. La Mer is perhaps the strongest example of Debussy's piano styling.

It Looked Like Spring

Until Friday, the large rock cut near the corner of Second Avenue and Third Street was a solitary sort of place. One bird, with a red breast, could now and then be seen flitting about.
Plainly, it craved company.
Yesterday, it had disappeared.
Instead a flock of little birds, numbering possibly 30 or 40, had arrived, to feel quite at home.
What species they belong to, or where they came from is a matter of uncertainty. They flew over the look-out, twittered along the high rock wall of the cut, perched on trees and branches and did a bit of exploring in various directions. It looked like spring.

Halibut Season Opening Set— Coddling Vessels Keeping Busy

Important announcement of the week was the date for the opening of the 1952 halibut season at 12:01 a.m. May 14. With little more than two weeks intervening, the fleet will now be rushing the putting on of finishing touches before heading for sea.

With uncertainty as to the fluctuation of the price situation, it is to be anticipated that there will be an even more enthusiastic dash by the fleet to get out and back in with first catches. Presumably the fishing will be as intensive as usual and the season in the nearer Area No. 2 will be as short as last year when it lasted only 28 days before the quota was exhausted.

Market conditions for halibut are reported favorable with frozen stocks pretty well cleaned up. It was interesting to note the keen competition for the catch of the International Fisheries Commission research boat J. C. Edwards which was in port this week with 12,000 pounds. Royal paid 20.1c, 16c and 15c for the catch which went into storage. The mid-season fishing period in the specially set aside banks is continued and extended this year.

The first voyage of the Prince George on her series of summer cruises will be from Vancouver up the Inside Passage to Skagway. This will be a charter run carrying about 300 members of the Northwest United States Presbyterian Synod to Sitka, Alaska. She sails from Vancouver May 27, returning June 3. This is her only scheduled visit to Sitka this year and only the second time she has called at that port.

With the voyage completed, she will next take some 260 delegates attending the International Kiwanis convention in Seattle on a post convention cruise to Skagway, calling at Wrangell, Ketchikan and Prince Rupert, and arriving back in Vancouver on June 13. She will sail again that same night on the first of eight scheduled summer Inside Passage cruises to Skagway. Advance bookings indicate a busy season.

A veteran of the Canadian Pacific Steamships service in the Orient, as well as a man who experienced a good many wartime hazards in Asia, died in Vancouver recently in the person of David Drummond. He was aged 68. Drummond, with his family was in Hong Kong in 1941 when the Japanese invaded the city and was interned by the Japanese from January 1942 to September 1945. Mr. Drummond, who had spent 48 years in the shipping business, retired in 1947.

The letting of a number of marine contracts by K. W. Morton, district engineer, New Westminster, includes the Skeena River Pile-driving Company, at Prince Rupert, for float extension at Dodge Cove (Digby Island) in the amount of $13,422.50.

A transcript of Mexican fishing laws says the Federal Government considers as national waters those that reach up to nine miles from the coast at the lowest water mark. It is not possible to grant licences for catching shrimp because the fishing of this species for the Co-operative Societies.

Fishermen never calculate wrong when they start out from Prince Rupert bound for the seas where black cod can be caught without too strenuous an effort. Early this week, about half a dozen boats, or thereabouts sailed for the north, confident of a live market. Black cod is available practically all the time and it ranks among the finest of the fish that swim.

Union Steamships Ltd. become the new owners of what is left of the ss. Princess Mary, for 42 years serving the gulf islands and coastal sea-routes. She was built in Scotland. The Princess Mary is being stripped of her super structure and the hull remodelled for use as a barge. Her whistle was recently presented to the Powell River Company and will in future be made use of in that plant.

Exciting Jungle Film at Capitol

"Savage Drums," which comes to Capitol Theatre at the first of the week is an exciting film dealing with the stealthy methods of modern Communism attempting aggression of a small Pacific Island country.

Starring Sabu as the jungle boy who returns to his homeland after being educated in the United States and training for the world's lightweight boxing championship, "Savage Drums" is the heroic story of a little country's struggle to avert Communist domination.

Sabu ascends the throne of Numiti, succeeding his murdered brother as king. He is inexperienced in the subtleties of politics but leads his people in fighting for what he knows is right. Lita Baron plays the native girl who loves the young king with a warmth that is most appealing. Paul Marion is the traitor and Steven Geray has the role of a Red Chinese agent. H. B. Warner, the grand old man of films, gives splendid performance as the Royal Counsellor.

Most of the story takes place on a beautiful tropical island and moves along with excitement and interest to a climax which is a battle between the unprepared natives and the invading Red Chinese troops.

There are some lavish scenes which take place in the island palace where a coronation banquet is staged. Beautiful native dancing girls go through their paces in some authentic island routines.
