TING UP is done before leaving harbor and while on the way the fishing grounds. Bennie Sweet, partner with Howie Scott on the Tracer threads a herring on a gangion which will later provide a tempting morsel for a waiting halibut.

ALL ABOARD comes this soaker, a huge halibut which Skipper Scotty on the Tracer wrestles with after landing him with assistance from partner Benny. The large fish later weighed in at the Squadaree fish camp at 208 pounds.

Halibut Fishing More Competitive As Small Vessels Invade Business

LARRY STANWOOD

Shortest halibut season in history of west coast fisheries to a close June 9—just after opening day.

During this period, an estimated 100,000 pounds of halibut will be landed in Prince Rupert, the largest of the world, and nearly half of the total landings will be caught by a method relatively new in the industry.

Only a few years ago, halibut fishing—the main deep sea business of the Pacific coast—was confined to a small group of fishermen in the large 20- to 50-foot schooners and trollers that operate there.

Today the field is more competitive. The industry has been invaded by small fishing boats—one and two men boats—which are taking a fair share of the total catch and profits.

Many of the smaller vessels, equipped with 100-horsepower outboard motors and trolling gear, also are one of the factors accounting for a sharp increase in the total catch for each fishing area is in advance by the International Fisheries Commission.

When the catch has reached a quota, the season closes as a conservation measure. Small boat operators compete with the larger, weathered vessels by a company agreement.

Quotas of 3,000-5,000 pounds, which is the average for "small" boats, are taken to collecting grounds at strategic places along the coast close enough to the fishing grounds so a day's catch can be unloaded in time to return to the grounds the next day.

About these fish camps, which would be very little halibut fishing by small boats as would not compete with the vessels which can pack 100,000 pounds in one trip. Tracer, a troller converted to line-fishing for halibut.

Squadaree is the base for three fish camps—Atlin, B.C. Packers and the Co-op. The Tracer is fishing for the Atlin camp which, along with five other such camps along the coast, is operated independently by John and Elmer Clausen, a father and son team who have been in the fishing industry here for more than 30 years.

About 20 small vessels were tied up to the floats at the Clausen camp just before opening day this year. Among them were fishermen from all along the coast.

Last-minute touches in preparation for the first day included baiting. Herring is used mainly and is obtained from the camp where it is stored in ice. The camp also supplies all other needs of the fishermen, such as food, clothing and gear.

This year, tough weather greeted the opening of the season. A 25-knot southeasterly whipped the heavy swelling flats of the Hecates into a white fury which even the large schooners wouldn't face.

This meant a harbor day.

The second day was also a harbor day, but the third, although forecasted for a 40-mile-an-hour gale, broke clear and sparkling.

"We'll fish today," said Scotty at about 3 a.m., with all the hooks for one line baited. An hour's sleep and the 34-foot Tracer eased from the floats to join the string of other small boats.

Out on the ever-swelling Hecates, Scotty studied the chart, figured what distance he had to go to get to the right depth. Meanwhile, the radio was alive with chatter from a hundred other boats, large and small, crowding the flats.

As dawn broke, the area for miles was studded with flags and "scotchmen"—air-filled bladders—marking set gear.

Scotty decided he would not fish the flats, where the depth of water ranges from 17 to 25 fathoms, but hit for the deeper water. At 60 fathoms, measured by line and lead, he and Benny began stringing out their gear first the anchor, then the flag or marker and the scotchman or buoy. The line strings out behind while the Tracer moves ahead at a crawl. Hooks are strung about three fathoms apart. More than four miles of line is set this way, making up about 14 skates of gear of 300 fathoms each.

It may take two hours to make a set, then it is let to soak for a couple of hours, and picked up.

The chatter over the radio on the fishermen's band continues. Skippers greet each other, report fishing conditions, but mainly talk in connection with their gear and that of other boats.

Crossing gear is a big problem. The fishing grounds are so congested that sometimes the gears cross. When this happens, a careful fisherman brings up the other boat's line, cuts it, ties it together and lets it drop. No damage is done.

Sometimes, some fishermen are not so gentlemanly. They don't spend the time in tying up the other man's gear.

When that happens there's trouble. On opening day, one conversation went like this: "I lost 29 kate of gear, it's been cut at both ends and I can't pick it up. I've been dragging for more than an hour."

Twenty skate of gear means an investment of close to $2,000 at today's prices and loss of it also means a big delay or can spell finish to most outfits for the season.

When Scotty and Benny were picking up their first line, they looked with satisfaction at the bounding, slapping pile of white-bellied sea harvest.

"Here comes a soaker," cried Benny, handling the pickup. Both men stand ready with their gaffs. A "soaker" is a big fish, anywhere from 70 to 300 pounds and even heavier. The halibut is a fighter when he gets out of water especially, and it takes skill and strength to board a big one.

It took a lot of Benny's and Scotty's skill and power to board this one, which later weighed in at 208 pounds.

As the sun disappeared behind the swelling tide, the Tracer was nearing Squadaree with its first catch. On the way back, hooks were rebaited, some of the shag (codfish, mainly) caught along with halibut, being interspersed with herring.

Before the catch is weighed in, the fish have to be dressed. This is done by both men, one making the cut and taking out the insides, the other scraping out the blood.

This operation may take several hours, depending on the size of the catch. Scotty and Benny weighed in at about 3 a.m., a little over 2,000 pounds.

"We'll hit the sack for an hour," said Scotty then. Before dawn, the Tracer was heading out again towards the flats.

Reds Submit New Plan For Armistice In Korea

Statement Kept Secret by Allies

By The Canadian Press

PANMUNJOM.—The Communists were reported today to have submitted a counter-proposal to the "final" Allied terms for truce in Korea.

The Reds offered a lengthy statement of their position at a 73-minute secret session that brought delegates together for the first time in nine days.

Contents of the Communist statement were secret.

A spokesman for the United Nations Command, Lt.-Col. Milton Herr, would not confirm or deny the reported counter-proposal.

The Allies asked for and got a recess until Saturday morning, stirring speculation that the Red counter-proposal would be sent to the United States and other Allies for consideration.

President Syngman Rhee said yesterday South Korea will "co-operate with the U.S. at any cost" but declared he will insist to the end on withdrawal of Chinese forces from North Korea after an armistice.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower has promised the American people that "there is going to be no new Munich"—no settlement with the Communists on the basis of appeasement—and "no risk of a general war."

Eisenhower laid down that pledge Wednesday night in his first presidential report to the United States by television.

Speaking from the White House, flanked by four members of his cabinet, the President said modern war would be too horrible to contemplate, and "we are going to keep our temper; we are going to build our strength."

Near the end of the program Eisenhower laid down another promise:

"We are not going to cripple this nation and we are going specifically to keep up its air power."

That was his answer to the current uproar over the administration's trimming of defence spending, with a proposed $5,000,000,000 cut for the Air Force.

Russian Plot Uncovered In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (C)—Mexico's largest newspaper, the Excelsior, reported today Mexican police have uncovered a detailed Russian plot aimed at Communist seizure of power in Latin-American countries.

Success of the plot, it said, would turn Mexico, Central and South America into "another Poland and Czechoslovakia."

The independent conservative newspaper quoted highly authoritative police sources as saying that Mexico is the centre of Russian efforts to build up Red fifth columns throughout Latin-America.

Mexican Communists and political exiles from other countries were reported aiding in the plot.

Excelsior said its police sources reported that the Russian Embassy in Mexico City controls 32 Communist cells working throughout Latin America.

The embassy itself, sources added, is working through the Polish and Czechoslovakia legations here in an effort to avert suspicion.

ADVANCE POLL OPENS TODAY

Any person who is not going to be at a polling station any place within Prince Rupert constituency on June 9—election day—can vote at an advance poll today, tomorrow and Saturday at 608 Third Avenue West, Prince Rupert, it was announced today by Scott McLaren, returning officer.

Perdue Offers To Quit

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER.—John Perdue, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, has offered to resign if the board of directors consider that he is "detrimental to the movement in any way."

Mr. Perdue said Wednesday night a "foolish mistake" he made 25 years ago while seeking work got him into trouble with the law.

He said he had paid his debt to society and is confident the people of the province will "place Christian principles before political expediency."

REFUTES TO CHARGE

Mr. Perdue, a candidate in MacKenzie in next Tuesday's provincial election, was replying to a charge made by Dr. W. N. Kemp at a political meeting that Mr. Perdue "has been convicted on more than one occasion of obtaining money under false pretences and similar crimes in Vancouver."

Dr. Kemp is running as an independent in Vancouver-Point Grey.

Mr. Perdue said he came to British Columbia from Ontario 25 years ago, had difficulty getting a job, and "foolishly" used a licence obtained from a friend for a job for which he was qualified but unlicensed.

Mr. Perdue said he is returning to MacKenzie to continue his campaign. He repeated a statement made Monday that he has called an early meeting of the board of the Social Credit League and "if it is the opinion of the board that I am detrimental to the movement in any way, I shall immediately tender my resignation as president."

Mercury Hits 85 Degrees At Fairbanks

FAIRBANKS, Alaska. (C)—A torrid sun that shines through most of the night sent the mercury to 85 degrees Wednesday and increased forest fire danger up here near the arctic circle. This was the fourth day of the far-north heat wave.

A division of the forestry office reported 29 fires have been extinguished and two still are burning.

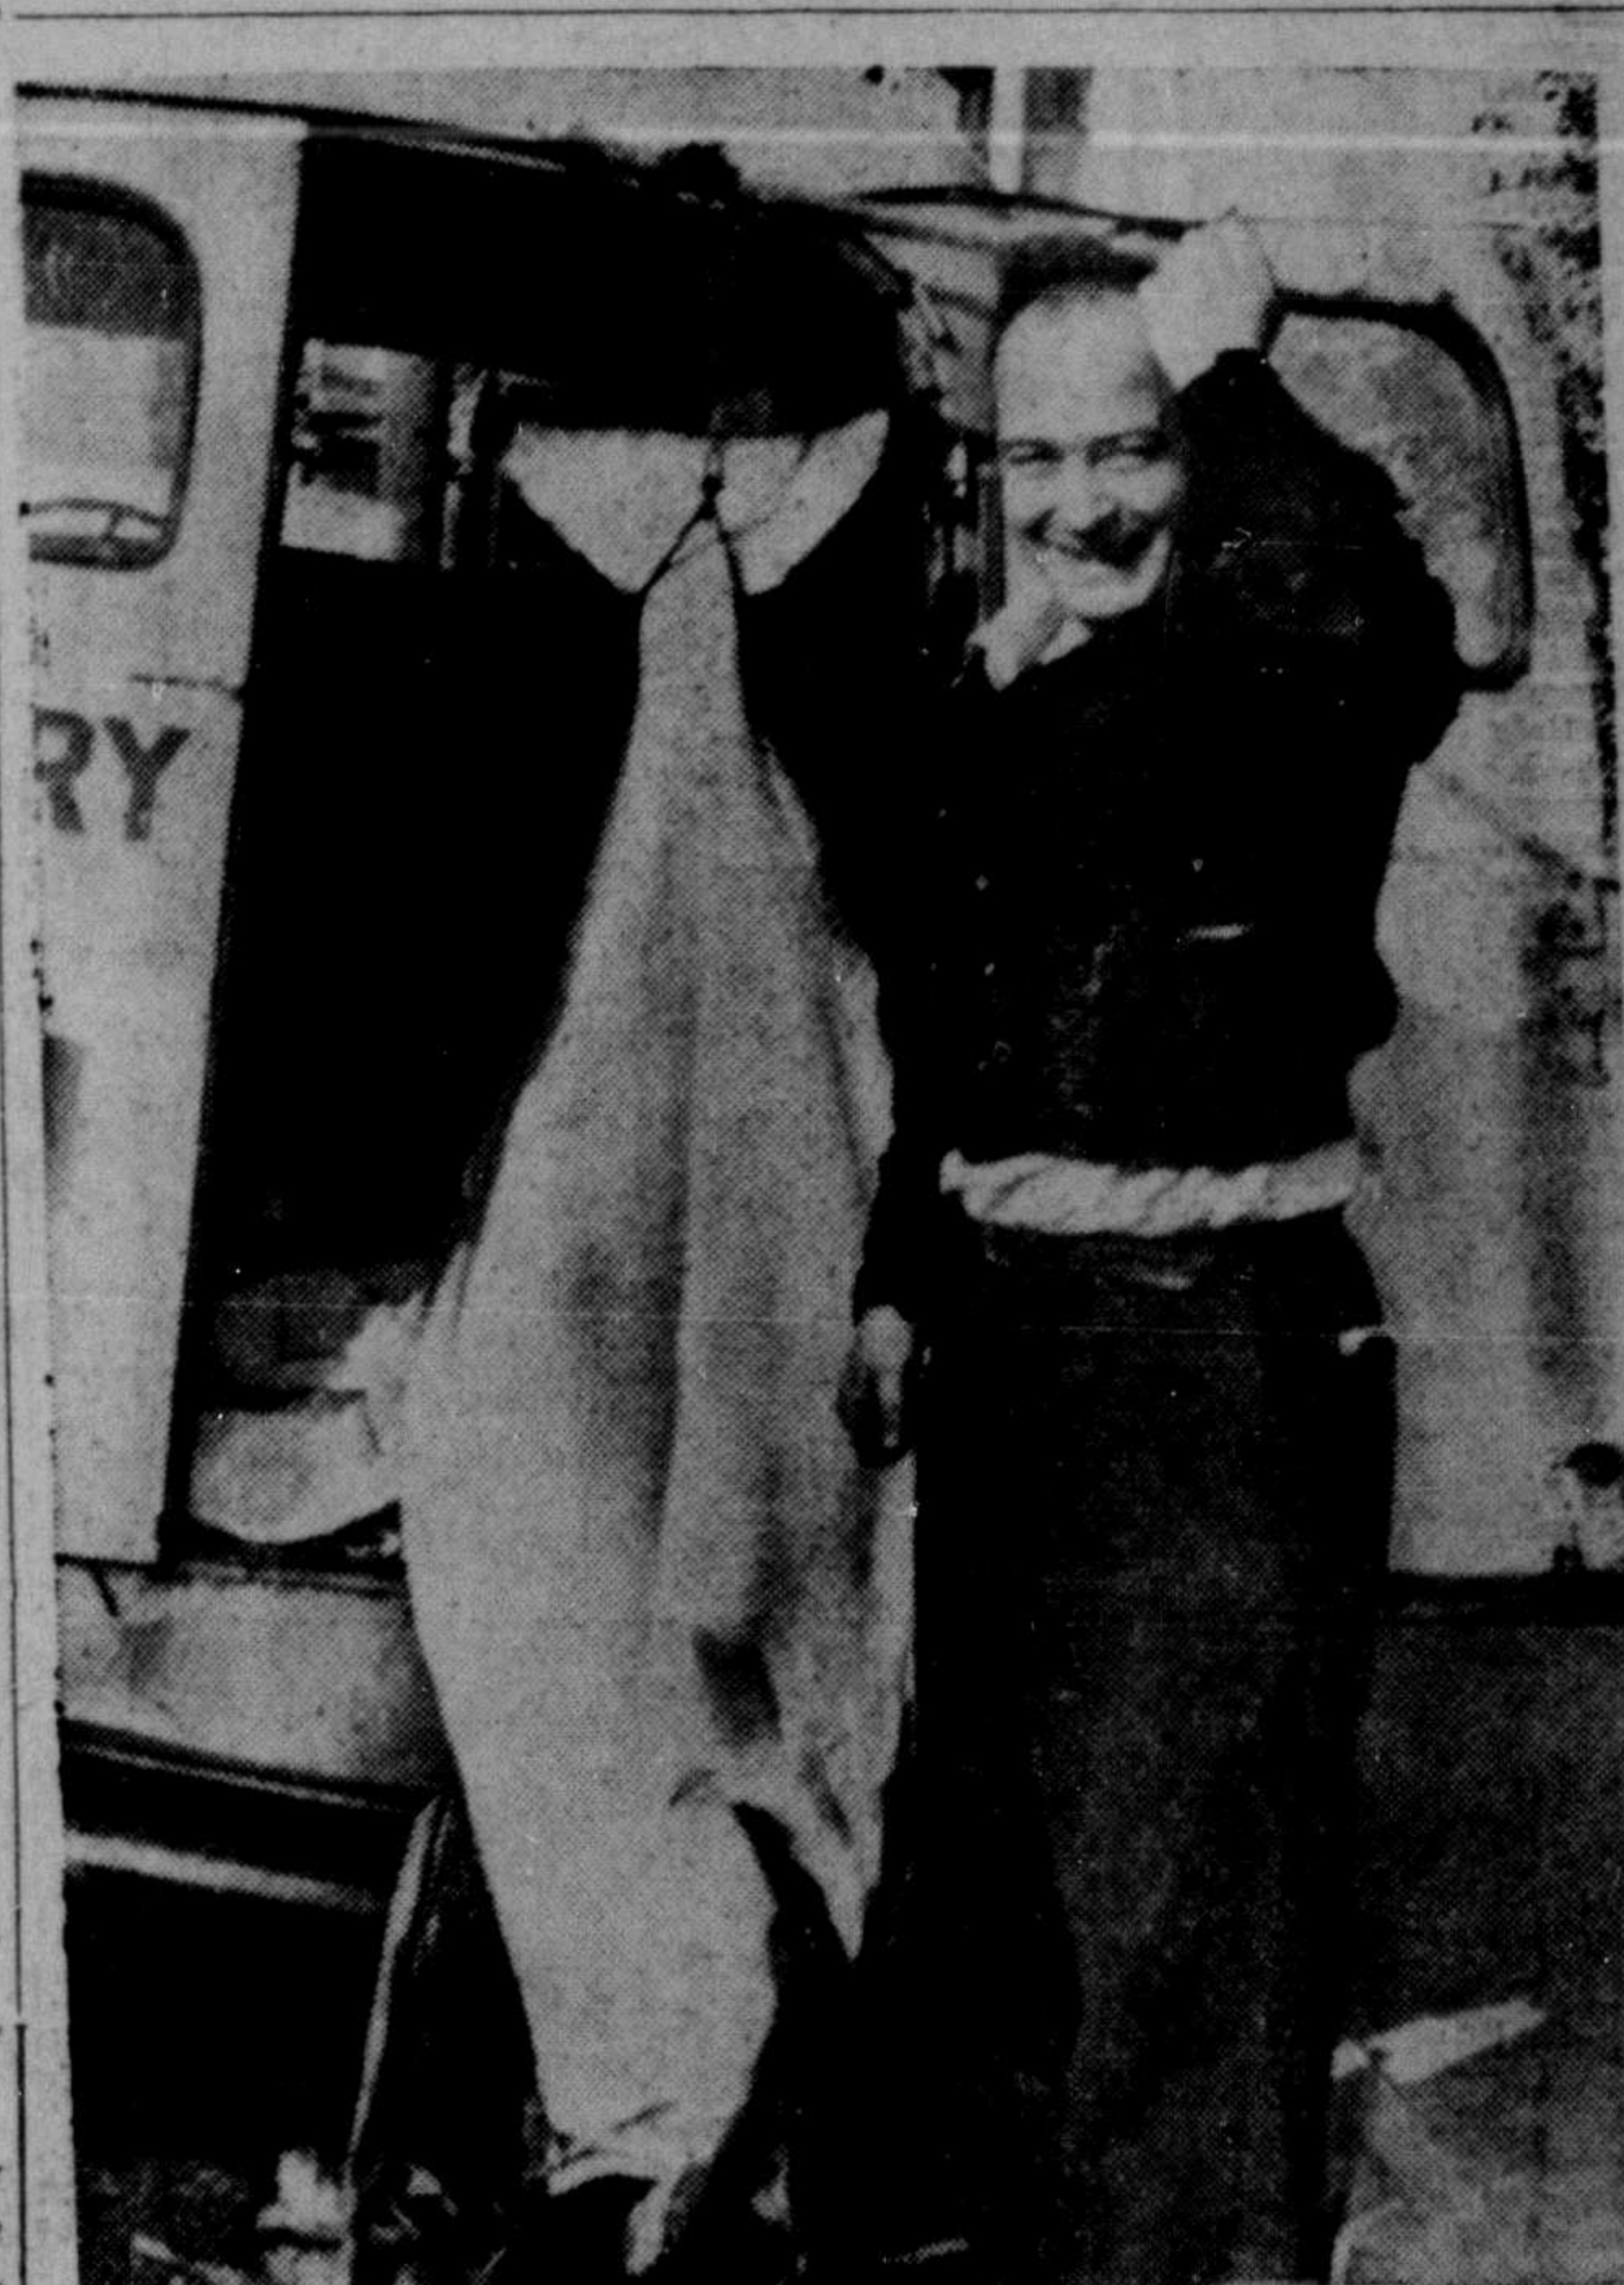

Highest temperature ever recorded in Fairbanks was 99 degrees, Wednesday's 85 was 139 degrees warmer than the weather last January 25.

The ceremony itself, sources added, is working through the Polish and Czechoslovakia legations here in an effort to avert suspicion.

Tall Soldier in Coronation Ceremony Was Naval Officer

OTTAWA (C)—Few spectators knew it, but the six-foot private soldier they saw in colorful Parliament hill ceremonies Coronation Day actually was a naval officer—and an army officer to boot.

It's all within the law. But naval Lieut. Arthur Edwin Hall, 48, wore a private's uniform, acting as left guide in the front rank of the Governor-General's Foot Guards when they escorted the colors

NOT ONLY commercial fishermen get into the act when it comes to halibut fishing. Here Si Miner, city laundry truck driver, displays an 83-pound "soaker" he landed on a row boat in Prince Rupert harbor. Si made a set of a few gangions on a long-line and found this big one on the last hook. With him were his wife Betty, and sons Bobby, 6 and Brent, 2. Addition of the soaker made quite a load in the little boat.

Chamber to Probe Rail Barge Service

Prince Rupert businessmen are going to make a special study of the newly-inaugurated Rupert-Ketchikan rail barge service and the moves U.S. Pacific transportation firms are making to combat what they consider a threat to their Alaska shipping business.

J. T. Harvey, Chamber of Commerce delegate to the recent North West Trade Association convention in Tacoma reported to members at Monday night's meeting that railroads and a tug company are entering an agreement to give shippers a new freight deal from Puget Sound to Ketchikan.

Mr. Harvey said that it was his opinion "some big moves will be made to give the Rupert ferry service serious competition," and suggested the Chamber give this matter "due consideration."

"This service can mean a great deal to this port,"

Several members agreed that Seattle is "very worried" about losing its Alaska trade because of the Rupert-Ketchikan service and Frank Skinner, shipping official here, said the U.S. rail companies might be quoting "through rates" on machinery and equipment to be shipped from the States to Ward's Cove near Ketchikan, where a $50,000,000 pulp mill is under construction.

Mr. Skinner suggested the Canadian National Railways also quote a through rate to meet such competition.

At present, machinery and equipment for the pulp mill is being shipped to Rupert by rail, then loaded on rail car barges for towing 90 miles to Ward's Cove.

This barge service operated by newly-formed Alaska-B.C. Transportation Company was instituted on arrangement by Ketchikan Pulp Co. and the CNR to overcome the 700-mile water haul from Puget Sound ports to south-eastern Alaska.

IDENTICAL RATES
Railway rates from eastern states to Seattle and Prince Rupert are identical.

The ferry service, temporarily operating with a four-car barge, is to be made permanent next year when the pulp mill is scheduled to go into operation and the mill will begin shipping pulp through here.

The permanent service is planned to operate with 26-car barges.

Meanwhile, a second ferry service has been started and is operating between here and Kitimat, site of the Alcan smelter.

The Chamber of Commerce also will contact Canadian officials including Ambassador R. W. Mayhew in Tokyo, asking that inquiries be made regarding a freight differential paid by shippers on mandarin oranges from Tokyo to Rupert last winter.

Norm Parker, wholesale house manager and chairman of the

A Chapter of Success

HOWEVER little most of us may understand the motives of those who go to extraordinary expense and danger to scale mountains, the conquest of Mount Everest at this time of Coronation cannot fail to stir the imagination.

It is a remarkable coincidence that a historic feat of exploration should mark the beginning of Elizabeth II's reign in the same way that the exploits of men like Drake and Raleigh added glory to the rule of Elizabeth I.

Although reaching the summit of Everest is unlikely to contribute anything to the welfare and development of mankind, it writes a chapter of success into a story of defeat and death that has been continuing since location of the peak was first established more than a century ago.

While it is believed no one has reached the top before, two members of a British expedition were seen close to it in 1924. They never returned, however, to tell the world what success they had. The efforts of this and other early expeditions are noteworthy in that they carried no breathing apparatus of the kind available to modern climbers. In the rarefied air near the 30,000-foot level the slightest movement taxes the physique close to the point of exhaustion. Since the climber must also work in bitter cold, gales and constant hazards, an assault on Everest is only for those who like mountaineering more than life itself.

The story of Everest is full of mystery as well as frustration. What appear to be gigantic human footprints have been observed far up its snowy flanks. Some climbers swear on oath they have seen the creatures who made them and that they look like men covered with fur. There are other reports of voices being heard up there, and members of one party maintained their lives were saved by a mysterious shout of warning above their heads as an avalanche rushed towards them.

Possibly the thin air affects men's minds as well as their bodies. Nevertheless, the story of Everest is an intriguing one, and it is certain that strange and adventurous chapters are still to be written.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Now that Her Majesty's Coronation has become a closed and memorable chapter in Commonwealth history, the spotlight in the capital here is swinging back to scenes less glamorous but more controversial—the coming federal election campaign.

The $64 question which has gone unanswered so far in the contest is the role which Quebec's Premier Maurice Duplessis will play.

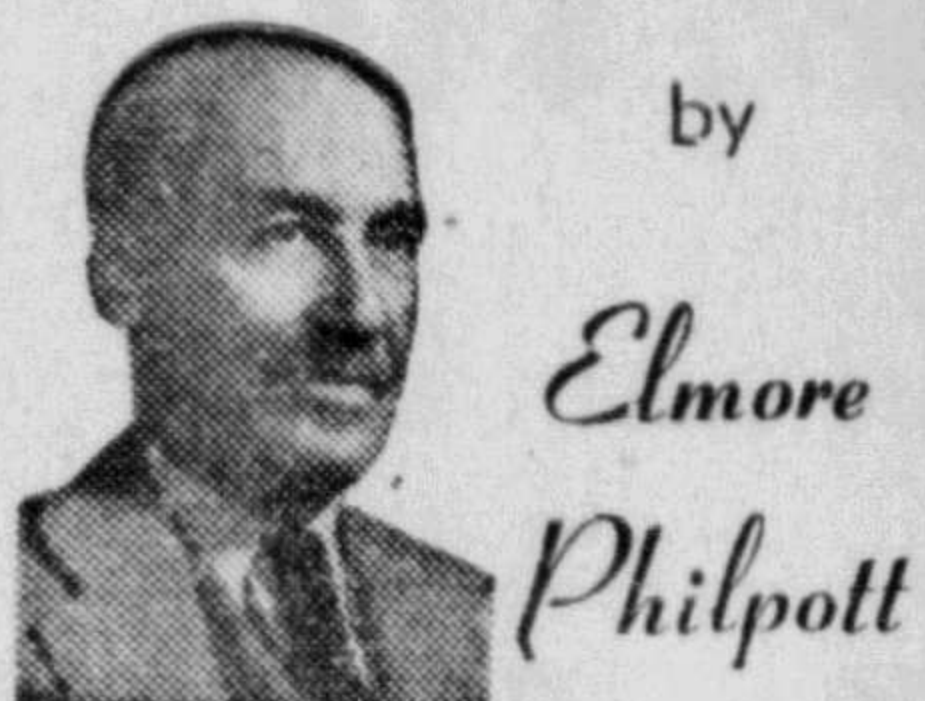

Will he come out opening in support of PC leader George Drew? After all, the premier's Union Nationale party is the Quebec counterpart of Progressive Conservatism in the sense that it is the chief anti-Liberal force in the province.

Or will Duplessis refrain from taking any active part personally, but simply pass the word along to his provincial organization to co-operate with the Drew cause?

Or, finally, will the Union Nationale chieftain do neither of these things but simply hold himself and his organization carefully aloof from any participation in federal political affairs?

A possible clue to the answer to this riddle may lie in reports which have been reaching the capital here from the riding of Temiscouata. In that riding Jean Francois Pouliot is the nationally celebrated Liberal MP.

B.C. Premier Missing

WHILE all the rest of the British world kingdom was represented properly at the crown of our beloved young Queen, there was one unfilled chair.

British Columbia's premier was missing, although all others holding similar offices were there.

Others shared the joy, helping personify a united Commonwealth—we in B.C. get an election!

OUT OF the "dog's breakfast" election of last year came a fluke government elected by 26 per cent of the first choice votes. But the entire population of B.C. was eager to make the best of a bad job.

"Give them a fair chance" we all said. That is what even the 74 per cent of the anti-Social Credit voters wanted. That is exactly what the Liberal, CCF and Conservative members of the Legislature did.

The Social Credit government had its fair full chance. It not only threw that fair chance away—time after time. It was determined to be beaten at any and all costs. But it was determined to be beaten to bring on this election because it lusted for power and glory in a way that was completely out of line with the British idea of sound government.

The Sacred premier boasted that he would not only win all 43 seats in the 48-seat legislature—but his party would hold office for a full 50 years. Those words seemed familiar.

We had another well known character when I first started to write this column who also "won" all seats in another parliament, and who talked a lot about a government which was to last "a thousand years."

THE SYSTEM of British democracy, of which our lovely young Queen is the living symbol, is based on different principles.

It is based on Her Majesty's government in office, and Her Majesty's loyal opposition as watchdogs and an alternate government in waiting.

In British democracy decisions are made in parliament after full discussion and fair debate. It is based on trial and error.

If we get a good government we keep it a long time. If we pick a lemon, we throw it out in a hurry—even in less than a year.

COMPARISONS are odious—but sometimes necessary. Two hundred years ago France was by far the strongest single nation on earth. Look at France today, always in political crisis, switching its governments more often than Hollywood's actor change husbands and wives. France got that way because she has too many parties.

I think Arthur Leung will be the next premier of B.C. because he stands like a rock for the two-party system which is the key to the vitality of British democracy.

A HEALTH TO THE QUEEN!

Here's a Health to the Queen, who's ascending the Throne Of the mightiest Empire that ever was known. Let us toast her in tankards, in pints and in quarts, In long thin-stemmed wine-glasses, goblets or 'shorts.' Here's a Health to the Queen!

Here's a Health to the Queen, who throughout the wide world Is beloved by all where her flag is unfurled. Let us drink it in bumpers and flagons and steins, In beer and in whisky and rich fragrant wines. Here's a Health to the Queen!

PROBABLY CORRECT

The Editor,
The Daily News.

If (Mrs.) Wright intends to set herself up as a public informant it would be wise of her to develop attentiveness particularly when there are some 200 witnesses to her folly.

For the record, Mr. Hills did not make the statement that the Socreds passed but one bill. It was made by Mr. Brown and is quite probably correct for the additional 53 bills were passed only after the Social Crediters were defeated on the Rolston formula. There is also more truth in the substance of Mr. Brown's remark than there is in Mrs. Wright's letter.

An example of these bills upon which Mrs. Wright and the Don Quixotes of free enterprise seem to place some significance is as follows:

"Bill No. 1.—This amendment substitutes the title 'court reporter' for the present 'official stenographer' throughout the Supreme Court Act."

Now that is something of vital importance to the people of B.C. Offhand I can't think of anything we need less except possibly more Social Credit carterists.

This June a multitude of Americans and Canadians are seeing Britain and Europe for the first time. They are also discovering how much more they know that's worth knowing.

Speaking officially, Pig Island is not the real name of the small isle in the harbor of Prince Rupert near which a plane was recently wrecked and two lives lost. Nevertheless, it's been called that since earliest days when the late Arthur Little located here more than 40 years ago. He started the first news stand, situated near the site of the present railway station. He also happened to possess poultry and little pigs and decided the island across the bay was a safer place for farm stock than the town-site. It certainly was, when one thinks of the blasting.

QUESTION OF SETTLING

The trend seems to be back to sincerity. A national baking contest, an American newspaper comments, has been won by an open faced cherry pie.

Wax Figures Of St. Laurent, Massey Unveiled

LONDON (C)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Governor-General Massey of Canada have joined three other Canadians in Madame Tussaud's famed wax-work museum here.

Unveiling of the wax figures was witnessed by 50 Canadian and 50 British girls, members of Canadian industrialist Garfield Weston's annual trans-Atlantic touring groups.

Other Canadians now represented in the museum are skater Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt, VC of Vancouver, and Andrew Bonnar Law, Canadian-born British prime minister in 1922. Other Canadians, including the late Mackenzie King, prime minister before St. Laurent, were once represented but their figures have been melted down for more recent notables. The museum, bombed during the war, has not enough space to keep all the effigies it creates.

Something happened when the paper went to bed yesterday and after all editions had run off the press, it was found out that the Coronation parade story was incomplete.

A paragraph telling about the float was missing.

The float, which won first prize for industrial floats, was a combined effort of fishermen and their wives at Port Hardy, who put in many hours of work. The float was a fish-boat, complete with a gill-net, manned by slicker fishermen hauling in a net. The fish were real.

Over 70' Club Members Enjoy Coronation

Sixty-five members of the Over 70 Club went to the Ladies' Lounge at the Civic Centre to view the Coronation proceedings in comfort.

Ladies of the Co-ordinating Council were hostesses. Mrs. A. L. Haines, the president, received guests. Mrs. T. J. Boulter was in charge of refreshments. Mrs. L. Dolron, Mrs. G. R. Brett, Mrs. Margaret Stewart and Mrs. R. Pollock served.

Major Poulton gave a short address on the Coronation theme and offered an appropriate prayer. Mr. Glassey thanked him. Mr. George Casey made a very short but entertaining speech.

Mr. Dyke McMillan entertained at the piano with a variety of favorite old songs requested by the guests, who joined in the singing.

Mr. T. J. Boulter, his son, Mr. Tommy Boulter, Dan Parent and two Rotarians—P. F. Bird and Earl Becker—provided transportation for those needing it.

All expressed their thanks and gratitude for an enjoyable Coronation celebration.

The desire for better things, which is stimulated by attendance at fairs, has been an important factor in achieving Canada's high standard of living according to the PNE.

Orphan Fawns

GUELPH, Ont. — (CP) — Two fawns believed only about two weeks old were found in the bush near Erin by L. Thompson, who first found the fawns' dead mother, apparently a victim of lightning. The young deer are being given a temporary home until they are big enough to look after themselves.

Pulo and paper risk capital in B.C. now totals over $204 million in plant and facilities.

Color Bar Problem Doesn't Worry Negro Politician in West Africa

By KEN BOTWRIGHT
LONDON (Reuters) — The daughter of a famous British statesman and a Negro politician from West Africa who are being married in July aren't worried about the color bar problem.

For after their marriage, Enid Peggy Cripps, 32-year-old daughter of the late Sir Stafford Cripps and a committee worker for racial equality, Joe Emmanuel Appiah, are returning to his home in the Gold Coast to settle.

"And there," explained Appiah, soon after he and auburn-haired Peggy had announced their engagement, "we have never had any prejudices about color."

Egyptians Read About Coronation In Foreign Language Newspapers

CAIRO (AP)—Egyptians read about the Coronation in foreign-language newspaper only.

The major Arabic dailies, Al Misri, Al Ahram and Al Akhbar, declared they would "boycott news and pictures of the Coronation" in protest against Britain's refusal to pull her troops out of strategic Suez canal.

Army Sergeant Commended For Aiding Wreck Victims

OTTAWA—Sergeant John T. McGuire of Springhill, N.S., has been officially commended by Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, for "exceptional service" in aiding passengers injured when a Canadian National Railway train was derailed and wrecked at Ghost River, Ont., last January 20.

A member of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Sgt. McGuire, 30, was on his way to a new posting at the military hospital at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, at the time of the wreck.

Witnesses said Sgt. McGuire, whose back was injured in the wreck, "knelt for a long time in bitter cold at the side of the track bandaging injured persons in the meagre light of a flashlight."

McGuire's official citation reads as follows:

"Completely disregarding injuries to his back, Sgt. McGuire, realizing the possibility of casualties, immediately began to assist survivors from the wreck. He remained at the scene of the accident and with light from a flashlight only, administered first-aid and bandaged casualties in 20 degrees below zero weather.

"On the arrival of the relief train from Sioux Lookout he assisted in the loading of all casualties.

"The Chief of the General Staff has been pleased to commend the conduct of Sgt. McGuire."

Sgt. McGuire's wife, Mrs. Gloria McGuire, and their three small children reside at Springhill.

They plan to have a big wedding. It will be a Church of England ceremony with his consent—he is a Methodist.

They'll eventually go to the Gold Coast and set up two homes—one in Appiah's hometown of Kumasi, and another in Accra, the Gold Coast capital.

But not before Appiah tries his final examination at a London law school in October. He hopes to practise law and continue in politics.

The couple are keen to raise a family as soon as possible.

"In my country a family is very important," he explained. "Thank God we do not worry about a man's color or religion or creed. There are thousands of children of mixed marriage in my country . . . and we do not envisage any problems."

Queen Accepts Appointment In Mounties

OTTAWA —The Queen has joined the Mounties. Well, at least in an honorary capacity.

Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of the RCMP announced that Her Majesty has accepted the appointment of honorary commissioner of the force.

He said a communication received from the private secretary to the Queen states that "Her Majesty has great pleasure in accepting this appointment."

The commissioner said "this high honor is a source of intense pride and gratification to all ranks of the force."

YEHUDI MENUHIN'S NAME IN ISRAEL'S GOLDEN BOOK

GRONINGEN, The Netherlands (AP)—The name of Yehudi Menuhin, American violinist, has been inscribed in Israel's golden book, Israel's envoy to Holland said today. The honor, one of the highest conferred on Jews, was announced by Dr. M. Amir, Israel's minister to The Netherlands, during a concert here by Menuhin.

Children Recite Queen's Speech

At a special assembly at Borden Street School suggestions made in the pamphlet issued by the Department of Education for the Coronation ceremony were carried out.

Many children took part, reciting the different speeches as given by the Queen on her 21st birthday, Baron Tweedsmuir in 1927, George V, and others.

The Coronation poem written by the poet laureate, John Masefield, was done by two chorale groups, one from Mrs. Cobb's room and the other from Mr. Wilson's room.

The school choir also sang "Land of Hope and Glory" and the special Coronation chorus composed by Burton Kurth and Murray Carmak of Vancouver with the words by Mrs. Edith Lever Hawes, also of Vancouver.

Children taking part included Michael Greene, Geraldine Snidal, Joanne Prockter, Leona Mae Dominato, Bill Kergin, Gail Parker, Shirley Eytcheson, Patsy Wong, Margaret Leighton, Maureen Hopkins, Bobbie Augier, Gail Weise, Bernice Kortessari, Fleine Ness, Sheila Setter, Sue Madeley, Judy Brown and Rosie Zittlau.

Standard bearer was Phyllis Kaardal with Beatrice Thorarinson and Marilyn Curtis as escort. Mrs. Gordon Calderwood was pianist. Principal J. S. Wilson was chairman.

All wore the attractive purple and gold ribbon provided by the City of Prince Rupert.

Stop! You don't need to scrub and rub like that to get your wash sparkling white. Washing "can" make clothes clean, but only Blue can make them really white. Scientists have proved that true whiteness is made up of all the seven colours of the rainbow and if blue is missing, white turns to dingy yellow. That's why washing needs that last rinse with Blue to replace the missing blue rays and restore sparkling whiteness. So put a dash of Blue in the rinse water to get your wash really white. And here's good news! Blue is completely harmless (even the finest of fabrics). Costs just a few pennies a month to use, too!

Yes, for the whitest wash, use RECKITT'S BLUE.

A Tip For June Brides (and all their wedding guests!). You should be walking on air at your wedding—so be very sure your days of trousseau-shopping won't leave you with painful corns. SPORTS ROUND-UP

NEW YORK (AP)—Russ Meyer, Brooklyn Dodgers eccentric who has just been fined and suspended again for blowing his top, has long been one of our favorite baseball pitchers, mainly because he seemed to be a man we could understand.

The Mad Monk, as he is known, isn't one of the best of pitchers, but he is good enough to be convinced in his mind that he should win every time out. So, when things are going against him, he gets mad at somebody, even if it's only himself. He throws things and kicks things and winds up in trouble. The sort of pitcher we've never been able to fathom is the big, impetuous galoot.

Angel Saves Victoria Team

VICTORIA (CP)—An "angel" has appeared to rescue the Victoria team from their financial woes. The Victoria Times in a front-page story announced that the Western International League baseball club's benefactor, Robert Hew Fergusson-Pollock, has offered to subscribe up to $50,000 share capital in the club.

Mr. Fergusson-Pollock and his wife, Laura, are owners of a large baronial estate at Hyattsville, two miles north of Cowichan Bay, and heirs to an old-money estate, including a castle, the Times says.

Mr. Fergusson-Pollock was reported planning to dispose of his English estate so that he would be in a position to help the local club. Both he and his wife are great Tyee fans.

"I know it can be arranged," he said. "I am willing to put $50,000 into the club."

Mr. Fergusson-Pollock, who came to Canada from England in 1910, has no thought of returning. The castle has been in his family since 1929.

Remember When

Lord Derby's colt Sansovino won the Epsom Derby 29 years ago today in the first victory in 137 years for the family after whom the race was named. The race started in 1780 and an earlier Lord Derby won with Sir Teazle in 1787. After Sansovino, the Derby family won with Hyperion in 1933 and Watling Street in 1942.

Yankees Top Big Hitters With 18-2 Win

NEW YORK (CP)—Any team that didn't score at least 10 runs in Wednesday's major league day games was out of luck. Lowest winning total in four daylight games was 10. Highest was 18.

The world champion New York Yankees topped the hit-and-run parade with 18 runs and 19 hits against their one-time tormenters, Chicago White Sox. Yanks led 10-1 after 3½ innings and coasted in with an 18-2 verdict.

Milwaukee Braves increased their National League lead to a game and a half by walloping second-place Brooklyn Dodgers 14-9.

New York Giants joined in the fun with an 11-3 decision over Cincinnati, and Philadelphia socked Detroit Tigers 10-7 with Gus Zernial driving in five runs.

HEAVY BATTERY, MOTORS PLAY TO 1-1 DRAW

Heavy Battery soccer players gained their first point in the North Star Football competition last night when they drew with General Motors 1-1.

The first half was scoreless with both goalies stopping a barrage of attempts. A high cross by Wilson had the Battery defence in a tangle but Gomez finally kicked clear. Nuyten saved at close quarters several times and once right on the goal line. In the Motors' goal Bowman managed to turn a hot drive against the bar.

In the second half, Motors scored after Tait had forced his way into the goal mouth. A free kick by Darrow Gomez just went on the outside of the upright. Nuyten saved well several times and then Boulton got the equalizer for the Battery and the scramble ended in a one-all draw.

Both teams were short of players. The Battery was without Leopold, Gofras, Smith and Pavlikis and Motors without Sundberg, Mills, Robinson, Boulter and Giske. Nuyten kept a fine goal for the Battery and Gomez, Georgeson and Dunbar defended stubbornly.

Maurice Bishop made his first league appearance of the season but to the dismay of the Motors played for the Battery; and did a good job. Bowman kept a good goal for the Motors and Eby and Lien defended well. Eckert again showed fine judgment as did Furunes. Tait and Wilson were fast, tricky and dangerous forwards. Fatner monan was the referee.

Timber Company Grants Raise To Loggers

PORTLAND (AP)—Negotiators for the Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. and CIO Woodworkers Union have agreed on a five-cent hourly increase for the firm's 6,000 Pacific Northwest fir area employees.

This is the first wage increase the 45,000-member union has won in contract negotiations which opened more than two months ago.

Other employers have refused to grant any contract concessions that would result in higher costs.

The agreement covers all Weyerhaeuser operations except in the Klamath area pine belt. The base pay for workers was $1.75 an hour, with the company paying for a health and welfare program estimated at 7 1/2 cents an hour.

LOCKER ROOM IN FIRE HALL RAZED WHILE FIREMEN AWAY

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—It was a humiliating day for the firemen of station No. 3. When the Atlanta fire fighters returned from putting out a small blaze Wednesday, they were confronted by triumphant colleagues from stations 1 and 8. The grinning interlopers had just extinguished a fire which gutted the locker room of station No. 3.

Lindbergh's Son Lives Alone In Tent Far From Campus Life

By ROBERT W. WELLS

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Jon Morrow Lindbergh was born in the shadow of tragedy.

Only today is he emerging from his closely-guarded childhood as a handsome young adventurer, but with the same aloof air that long characterized his father.

He attends university, yet scorns the social life that most collegians love. He lives alone in a tent, far from the campus, so well hidden that no outsider can find it.

People who acclaimed Charles A. Lindbergh as the "lone eagle" for his solo Atlantic flight in 1927 are just beginning to realize that Jon is around.

The Lindberghs as a family withdrew from the public eye just after the kidnap-slaying of their first son 21 years ago. Few children have grown up so completely shielded as 20-year-old Jon, eldest of their five living children.

ON OCEAN VOYAGE

Last fall, for almost the first time, newspaper readers got a brief glimpse of Jon as a handsome bearded youth who participated in an ocean-charting voyage of the Atlantic.

Now the picture has expanded to include another glimpse, this time of Jon as a diving-suited cave explorer who sounded an unknown and uncharted water-filled cavern in California's Sierra Nevada.

Jon is a licensed pilot, a mountain climber, an explorer, a seaman and boatman, an honor student, a promising biologist.

After his exploit in swimming underwater 300 feet to penetrate the vault of California's Bower cave, Jon turned down, in succession:

SHUNS OFFERS

A network radio request for an interview; two television bids; an all-expenses-paid offer to repeat his dive for newsreel cameras and an offer of $500 cash for a brief first-person copyrighted story of his dive.

The last, from a nationally-distributed Sunday newspaper supplement, was especially tempting. For Jon, like many a college student, lives on a strict allowance. While his wants are few, he could use the money for research.

His shyness and self-reliance extend to his social life. He has refused bids to join a fraternity or live in a dormitory on the Stanford campus.

ferent rates committee, reported that the rates from Tokyo to Rupert were $4.50 a ton more than from Tokyo to Vancouver.

A complaint by the Stewart Board of Trade concerning service of the Northwest Telephone Company was referred back to Stewart.

A. H. Hurst, chairman of the radio committee, said that while Stewart complained it wasn't getting good service because of the obsolete condition of radio equipment in Prince Rupert, Rupert claimed the reason for poor service was the under-powered and old equipment at Stewart.

OLD EQUIPMENT
Mr. Hurst said Prince Rupert also stated that Stewart was able to operate on one channel only, that the radio telephone there was operated by the Department of Transport which was not willing to replace the antiquated equipment.

During the discussion, other members complained of the slow radio-telephone service between here and Stewart. One said it had taken five days for a call to be completed. The Chamber will also ask the Department of Transport to look into the matter.

Members voted to adjourn the regular meetings until September to allow a summer recess.

Defender Can Trick Foe Into Wrong Line of Play

Often the declarer will have two ways to play a hand to make his contract. Naturally, the defender's job is to try and entice him into selecting the line of play which will lose. Mr. Masters made a beautiful deceptive play to accomplish that result in today's deal.

Against Miss Brash's aggressive three no trump contract Mr. Abel led the nine of hearts. Mr. Masters ducked, playing the seven spot, and Miss Brash won with the jack.

She saw she had two heart winners, three and possibly four diamonds, and two top clubs. At best she was going to have to develop one or two additional tricks in the black suits. She decided to go after spades because she was solid in that suit outside of the ace and queen and, if the club situation was favorable, she could bring in three or four tricks in that suit without losing the lead.

At trick two, she led the 10 of spades and ducked in dummy. Now Mr. Masters was good enough to realize if he won this trick with the queen, his "normal" play, he would probably force Miss Brash into the line of play which would give her nine tricks.

Holding three little clubs, he knew that suit would break favorably and, on the bidding, Miss Brash almost surely had the king or queen-10 in the suit. Probably she did not have both king and queen, else she would not have found it necessary to go after tricks in spades.

If Mr. Masters won the first spade trick with the queen and cleared the heart suit, Miss Brash would have to forget about spades. Mr. Masters was known to have the ace of that suit by reason of this opening bid.

Clubs would now be the only hope and when Miss Brash tried that suit she would be delighted to find the queen was right and he opposing clubs were divided 3-3.

On this reasoning, Mr. Masters knew he had to keep Miss Brash coming in spades. He won with the ace of spades, cashed the ace of hearts and followed with the queen of that suit.

Miss Brash took the king of hearts and can hardly be blamed for running the nine of spades through and losing to the queen, a card which Mr. Master's couldn't have.

Bruce Brown Briefs

The Social Credit Government was defeated on the "Rolson Formula." Previous to this defeat the Social Credit plan and grants for education was carefully studied by:

- The Union of Municipalities;
- The B.C. Teachers' Federation;
- The Parent-Teachers Association.

It was rejected by all of them.

If accepted it would result in the Provincial Government paying less and less toward education costs and the Municipalities paying more and more as the cost of education rises.

The Liberal Party and your Liberal Candidate are both committed to the Provincial Government paying 80% of school operating costs.

Are you aware that not only our teachers but our children as well have been brought into disrepute by the violent, vicious and unwarranted attack on our educational system by Social Credit member Reid from Salmon Arm, who is even now Social Credit Candidate again?

The Liberal Party and your Liberal Candidate, who has had many years' experience both as a teacher and as Trustee, have pledged not to interfere with the school curriculum without first obtaining expert advice.

Preserve our educational system...

Naval Show To Be Reviewed By Queen Changed Since '37

TORONTO (CP)—When the Queen sails through the long lines of upwards of 300 ships assembled for the Coronation naval review she will see a vastly different concept of seapower to that reviewed by her father, George VI, on the occasion of his coronation in 1937.

Of particular significance, and well in line with the most modern practice, is the growing strength of Commonwealth seapower, says the Navy League of Canada.

Canada's powerful squadron of six ships includes the light fleet carrier HMCS Magnificent, two heavy cruisers, Ontario and Quebec, the fleet class destroyer Slouss and two frigates, La Hulloise and Swansea. Except for the carrier, completed later, all are proud battle-tested veterans of the Second World War.

A striking feature of the 1937 review were the 11 great capital ships, not one of which is now afloat. The Queen, accompanied by her sailor husband in his uniform as an admiral of the fleet, in the forthcoming review will see just one capital ship, the mighty HMS Vanguard, but in the other classes of ships on display the new vision of seapower will be predominant.

There will be 10 aircraft carriers, double the number shown in '37 and all modern craft which were not then in existence. Eight of these will be flat-tops of the Royal Navy, including HMS Eagle, the most modern ship of her type in the world and the squadrons of naval aviation on display will include jet fighters along with new types not yet in general service.

75 Stricken In Whitehorse

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—An unprecedented outbreak of polio saddened Coronation observances in this northern territory.

Seventy-five cases and at least two deaths were reported Tuesday by Dr. L. Bow, newly-arrived medical health officer for the Yukon.

Incidence of polio in this cool climate has been low in other years, with only a few cases reported.

Public meetings and dances have been cancelled, schools and theatres closed.

Martin Once Insurance Firm Director

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—Health Minister Eric Martin admitted at a Social Credit meeting here that he had been a director of a mutual health insurance firm that was insolvent in 1948 when it was ousted from business with the coming of B.C. Hospital Insurance.

Mr. Martin made the admission after a heckler, Geoffrey A. Spencer, asked him if he had been a director of Union Health Association.

"Is it not a fact that his Union Health Association was put out of business in 1948 by Stan Taylor, inspector of insurance at Victoria, with a financial insolvency of $47,000?"

"And it is not a fact that many people in B.C. lost their money as a result of not getting the coverage due to them?" he asked.

Mr. Martin shouted: "You're trying to smear my reputation, but you're not going to do it!"

Mr. Martin said he was a member of the health association only a few months and had no knowledge of its financial state.

He said he was elected to the board of directors along with others to save the situation in order that the backlog of claims could be paid.

At the same time, Mr. Martin learned that a "smear campaign" will be launched by Liberals against the Social Credit leader "in the next few days."

Crusader Knocks Out Trains In Surprise Korean Attack

UN NAVAL BASE, Japan (CP)—The Canadian destroyer Crusader returned to port recently after destroying one Communist train by gunfire and stopping and damaging two others—all within 18 hours.

The Crusader, commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. John H. G. Bovey of Victoria, was on a three-week patrol with a fast United Nations carrier force.

The ship was cruising at night off the North Korean coast. An open stretch of railway was visible between two tunnel entrances.

Shortly after 10 p.m., the crew heard faint sounds of an approaching train and the gunnery control officer, Lieut. Fred Copas of Victoria, trained his guns on the open stretch of track.

For 2½ hours the Crusader lay in wait, hidden in the offshore darkness. Then at 12:30, CPO, Alfred Gold of Victoria, a gunnery director, spotted the train. The Crusader's 4.5-inch guns began to speak.

By 2 a.m. the initial action was over and star shells revealed that the 15-car train was helpless between the two tunnels. The Crusader spent the remainder of the night pouring shells at her prize.

The ship's communications officer, Lt.-Cmdr. Eric Jones of Winnipeg and Montreal, asked for air support from the carrier force. Four Corsairs appeared shortly after dawn and effectively continued the smashing of the train.

At mid-day men could be seen at one of the tunnel entrances, apparently attempting to clear the tracks. The Crusader radioed again to the task force and four Panther jets appeared in 10 minutes and attacked with rockets and bombs.

At this point the Crusader moved off up the coast and at 6 p.m. spotted two supply trains at a small inland town eight miles from the scene of the first action.

The ship raced after them with her guns blazing. The shells straddled the trains and stopped them.

A few minutes later, however, darkness closed in and the Crusader lost contact with her targets. It was not possible to see how badly they were damaged.

The ship also fired on two more supply trains and scored direct hits on at least one, carried out a bombardment of front line enemy positions near the coast and distributed relief clothing to refugees on Yang-Do Island off the South Korean coast.

Thief Steals Valued Ball

NEW YORK (AP)—A major catastrophe has struck Yankee Stadium. The ball Mickey Mantle hit a measured 562 feet at Washington is missing.

The thief almost got the bat, too.

The ball, destined for the Hall of Fame, was stolen from the display case in the stadium lobby. Apparently the bat was wired too securely to the back of the case and couldn't be wrenched loose.
