Canadian Ships, Deepsea and Coastal, Being Armed Again

To Instal Defensive Equipment

Vessels To Be Fitted at Government Expense

OTTAWA (Canadian Press) — All Canadian deepsea and coastal ships will be equipped to combat underwater mines and to carry defensive guns, it was learned Wednesday night.

Approximately 150 vessels in these trades will be rigged with wartime "degaussing" gear against magnetic mines and strengthened to carry gun platforms at the expense of the federal treasury.

Disclosure of the new policy — first such move since the end of the Second World War — came in Finance Minister Abbott's estimates for the 1952-53 year. They listed $500,000 for "degaussing and strengthening" seagoing merchant ships during the current year.

Seventy-nine ships in Canada's deepsea trade will be equipped along with 72 of more than 1000 tons in the coastal business.

Squamish Highway Deferred

VICTORIA — Premier Byron Johnson indicated Wednesday that the government has decided to postpone building of the Squamish-Vancouver Highway.

The Premier indicated this following a meeting of the railway committee of the Legislature which voted against the government's announced policy of building the highway.

The committee asked for further study of surveys of the possibility of building both highway and Pacific Great Eastern Railway line from Squamish along the coast.

The Premier indicated that the government's policy was to fulfil the pledge to build the road. He had no objection to giving the committee report consideration, he said.

Nationalist China Ship Loads Here

First vessel of her registry ever to visit the port of Prince Rupert, the Chinese Nationalist freighter Hai Yu is tied up at the local elevator today to load a full cargo of some 8500 tons of 330,000 bushels of wheat for Japan.

With Captains Gosse and Allen as pilots, the Hai Yu arrived at 7 o'clock this morning from Vancouver via the Inside Passage and berthed immediately at the elevator.

While in Vancouver, where she arrived recently from Osaka, Japan, the vessel had dry docking on the North Shore and was also lined.

From here she will sail next Monday or Tuesday for Moji, Japan.

Master of the Hai Yu, which has a crew of sixty, is Capt. Erh Chang Shi.

The vessel was built in 1943 in California as a Liberty ship.

Her port of registry is Keelun, Taiwan (Formosa).

The Japanese "K" Line ship Kiyokawa Maru, which left here a few days ago with a grain cargo for Japan, is expected back here toward the latter part of April to take on her third grain cargo of the season at the port this season.

Disease Germs in Flies and Insects?

Plane Missing In Washington

SEATTLE — A small plane, on a flight from Vancouver to Walla Walla, has been missing since it left here yesterday. Aboard is Stanley Page who had been on a business visit to Vancouver.

British Columbia Lifts Embargo on Livestock

VICTORIA (Canadian Press) — Lifting of the British Columbia livestock embargo was announced in the provincial legislature Wednesday by Minister of Agriculture Harry Bowman.

Mr. Bowman said that the action had been decided upon at a special meeting of the cabinet. He indicated that removal of the ban — imposed February 25 last because of the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in Saskatchewan — will become effective today or Friday as soon as instructions are sent to the railways and packing plants.

Cattle imported to British Columbia will first have to be certified as disease-free by federal inspectors.

Permits from the provincial Department of Agriculture will also be necessary.

Mr. Bowman said that every precaution will be taken to see that cattle imported to British Columbia come from areas as far removed as possible from the infected region near Regina.

All cattle imported will be for immediate slaughter.

Alex Hope, Progressive Conservative member for Delta, charged that the back-tracking announcement of the Minister of Agriculture indicated that heavy pressure must have been brought to bear on the cabinet.

Fresh beef and pork may be on the way to British Columbia by tomorrow, it was said today, but it will be Saturday before any of it appears in the stores.

The ban lifting applies to live animals and dressed meat.

Plebiscite on Daylight Saving Time Announced

VICTORIA — Plebiscite on daylight saving time will be held at the coming provincial election, Premier Byron Johnson announced in the Legislature Wednesday night.

The plebiscite is requested in a report by the agricultural committee of the Legislature.

Premier Johnson said the election would be an "opportune time" to find out what the public wants to do about fast time.

Daylight saving will operate as usual this year, pending the plebiscite, from April 27 to September 28.

Record Estimates for Peacetime, Five Billion Dollars, Given to House

OTTAWA (Canadian Press) — The Minister of Finance, Hon. Douglas Abbott, announced Wednesday that the federal government's expenditures for 1952-53 are now estimated at a record peacetime total of $4,335,796,809. He indicated that they may top $5,000,000,000 before the year ends March 31, 1953.

Mr. Abbott tabled in the House of Commons annual estimates of expenditures for various departments and said that $2,106,000,000 of the grand total is earmarked for unprecedented outlays on defence.

Defence expenditures, a record for peacetime, were 23 per cent higher than estimated expenditures of $1,728,800,000 for the current year.

The 1952-53 estimates contain no provision for payments to the provinces concluding new tax agreements with the federal government. If all provinces sign agreements another $425,000,000 will be added.

Further details of the estimates and how the money is to be raised will be revealed when Mr. Abbott presents his budget to Parliament April 8.

Leader of the Opposition George Drew predicted that the increased estimates would mean that $600,000,000 more would have to be raised by taxation.

Thos. Reid Challenged

J.F. and A.W. Not Satisfied With Statement Regarding Pacific Fisheries Pact

Nothing could be found in the treaty which referred to Senator Reid's remarks, Elgin Neish, Union spokesman said last night. The Senator was reported Tuesday to have said that Canadian fishermen, for the first time, would be able to fish in all Alaskan waters and in waters extending south from the Straits of Juan de Fuca along United States coast proper.

Synopsis

Relatively clear skies and cool weather herald the first day of spring in almost all regions of British Columbia. Overnight temperatures dropped below zero early this morning in the central areas of the province. Frost touched the areas along the coast. Some cloud lingers over the lower mainland but many skies will be general during the day.

Another Pacific storm moving into the Gulf of Alaska this morning is expected to bring increased cloudiness and strong southerly winds to the northern coastal areas tomorrow. There will be little change over most of the rest of the province although some cloudiness will spread to the south coast regions by evening.

Eilers Rout Prince Rupert B.C. Championship

Compiled From Dispatches to The News

With a repeat performance of Tuesday night, the Eilers clobbered Prince Rupert Co-op 86-41 to take the best-of-three series 2-0 in the British Columbia Senior "A" men's basketball championship.

In the first Prince Rupert game, Eilers won 75-44. The game was a huge first half and did not let up in the second half. They were in full form and Rupert was out of sync. Eilers won the first period 20-10, the second 25-4, and the third 25-4, all but decisive to the previous game.

Eilers didn't score a point until seven minutes of the game when forward Don Bardsley scored 21 points. Eilers' defenceman Norman Bardsley said Watt was ankle. Bardsley took the floor for the first time in the playoffs and scored four points.

The taller team, snags of the rebounds and Eilers' long ones, for the most part, were way off. The shooting been on, it has been a different game. Eilers had to defend long shots, for the key players were always with the three tall Eilers. Those checking spoiled chances for layup scoring.

Scorer for Eilers was Munro with 18. Guard Mitchell followed closely with 15. High man for Chalmers was Jim Flaten with 12.

Ike Might Come Home

Reconsidering Position About Nomination—Truman Says It's Up to Him

KEY WEST, Florida (CP) — President Truman said today that General Eisenhower is at liberty to return to the United States at any time he deems it safe and proper.

The President told a press conference that the general is doing an able job and is the best judge of when it is safe for him to give up his post.

Eisenhower is being promoted as candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

The President's statement came after Eisenhower had said he might change his mind about not returning to the United States to campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. He said that it might be necessary for him to re-examine his position in the light of the strong support he received in Minnesota primaries Monday and the fact that Senator Taft has withdrawn from the New Jersey primaries.

$600,000 Automatic Phone Scheme Approved by City

City council, in special session last evening, gave its unanimous stamp of approval to a proposal of the Automatic Electric Co. of Canada, with which it has been negotiating for some time, to instal a modern new automatic telephone system at a cost of $562,886.

The deal will be subject to approval of the ratepayers who will be called to vote on a money bylaw covering the financing of the project.

Council approved the deal with Automatic Electric Co. of Canada in the face of a statement of J. A. Inglis, representing the Northern Electric Co., who was present at the meeting and stated that his company was interested in installing a system here but had never received a request from the city to quote.

(This statement was later refuted by George Knowles of Automatic Electric, who declared that Northern Electric was fully aware of negotiations.)

Although Alderman Michael Krueger emphasized the importance of council being sure that no better deal could be made, Mayor Whalen and Ald. Casey, that it was "strange" that another company should be ap-

LETTERBOX

MORE SOCIAL CREDIT

Editor,
Daily News:
May I have space to make reply to criticisms by H. D. Smith in March 14 Daily News?

Mr. Smith's points of criticism were only personal apprehensions and had no relation whatever to Social Credit. I appreciate the letter and will endeavor to acquaint Mr. Smith with how it will function. It will give people justice and wrong nobody. If one does not understand it, naturally one doubts that it would keep its promises.

Our nation has solved the problem of production. Stores and warehouses are bulging. Our who's difficulty is the art of distribution of the nation's goods and services anything like fairly or evenly to our people.

This distribution will be the natural result under a Social Credit government and no "financial wizard" can monopolize the heard-earned deservings of the people who do the work of production.

Our first responsibility and privilege is to get a knowledge of Social Credit which is our birthright. With that knowledge, we have faith. With faith, we couple works and help spread the good news until people will elect and put into Parliament at Ottawa, people chosen from our own intelligent neighbors who will assume full right to issue our nation's money. This right was handed over to chartered banks by our Canadian government in 1871 as was also done by George Washington in U.S.A. in 1791. Any reasonable explanation for such procedure is lacking.

A Social Credit government would ascertain the value of the goods and services of the nation annually (or oftener) and supply money (debt free, interest free) through the banks. The people may have the entire amount from wages and salaries, supplemented by the national dividend sufficient to equal goods and services. Example: Goods and services in Canada in 1951 amounted to $21 billion dollars, while wages and salaries only amounted to $17 billion dollars so the amount of national dividend distributed (by government checks) would be $4 billion dollars. These checks would be honored at banks, just as our Old Age pension checks are from the money stream. If more and more machines displaced men and wages and salaries are less, the national dividend will proportionately swell.

Now Mr. Smith you can plainly see that this money would not be "counterfeit," neither the government checks "bogus" since you sent these men to Parliament to carry out your will.

Now as to the "physically possible" being made "financially possible."

Your Social Credit government may recommend to banks to honor all time checks for all work and material for any construction (public or private) which has been approved by your local government trustee, be it city council, municipal council or other government trustee.

"John Doe's house under Social Credit is a fair example where the physically possible is made financially possible.

If John Doe's house burned down it is physically possible to restore it but if John's child burned along with the house, John must bear that loss alone. With our sympathies it is not possible to restore the latter loss with finances. The same as our soldier boys lost in some foreign battlefield.

Parents may secure a pension from the loss of support but it is not financially possible to restore the son.

A Social Credit government would have no need to borrow money for any purpose as it does now, and tax people to pay back to banks with interest. Persons with spare money to loan could only charge the interest rate the government charged. Money (alone) is not wealth. If it were not for products, money would be useless.

If one were shipwrecked on the ocean and had a million dollars and no food he would starve, but if one had a supply of food and no money one would starve. So with the millions dependent on production hoards goods and there is efficient money in the hands of the people he is starved. In a balanced economy to prosper. At present banks monopolize your credit and interest from you and for using your own credit. In like manner our government lets the banks credit, yours and mine, spend it in war and debt and later tax us to pay principal with interest bank. Every cent of this money been backed by the nation for the sole purpose of inflation yet one cannot see how the nation cannot have same credit to build roads, bridges, schools, etc., or replace destroyed. What a Social Credit government would do for us is to tail no debt, no interest, for we had learned to use our own credit. All men of all ages could become prosperous, robbery and skullduggery not be attractive. Food would swell and accounts national dividend would be C. W. REED

Who Won War Anyway? Writer Says Russia Lucky Country

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Who really won the war, anyway? Six years after the cease-fire in Europe, along comes a writer who reinforces the suspicion that Russia was the lucky country.

In a carefully-documented, 766-page study, hailed here as the war-book-to-end-all-war-books, Australian-born Chester Wilmot argues that largely because of United States confidence—and suspicion of Britain—Stalin emerged from the Second World War as master of half Europe.

Wilmot's story is outlined in "The Struggle for Europe" (Collins) to be published late in March in Canada and the United States. Wilmot covered the war as a BBC correspondent and spent post-war years poring over battle documents. One of his chief conclusions is that the late Franklin D. Roosevelt distrusted Britain, as an imperial power allegedly bearing the "colonial stigma," even more than Russia.

RED CONCESSIONS

"That assessment of his allies," says Wilmot, "was a decisive factor in Roosevelt's readiness to make concessions to the Soviet Union both in Europe and in Asia in order to ensure Stalin's entry into the Pacific war."

Not all authorities are entirely in accord. A book published here recently by George Kennan, famed "Mr. X" of the U.S. State Department, takes the view that the Anglo-Saxon powers, once engaged in mortal conflict with Germany, could have done little different from what Roosevelt and Winston Churchill did.

Kennan contends the almost inevitable result of a war which the democratic states could not win against one totalitarian state without help from another totalitarian state was bound to be to deliver a large part of Europe into Russian hands.

In view of recent conflicts within the British Labor party based partly on the real degree of the Russian danger, it is interesting that Kennan, original apostle of "containment," and Wilmot are firm believers in the policy of negotiating from strength. They do not underestimate Russia.

ENDORSERS MONTY

Wilmot's book contains a secondary theme. This is in general a sympathetic examination of opinion and in particular an expression of the view that the war might have been cleaned up in 1944 if Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery had had his way.

Broadley, Montgomery argued for a single decisive military stroke on a narrow front, instead of dispersing resources on a broad front. Wilmot quotes Montgomery as saying after the Normandy breakout:

"We must decide on one thrust and put all the maintenance to support that. If we split the maintenance and advance on a broad front, we shall be so weak everywhere that we will have no chance of success."

Wilmot says that if even 15 divisions had carried on after the capture of Brussels and Liege, as proposed by Montgomery, the Germans would have been unable to stop them seizing the Ruhr. Von Blumentritt, chief of staff to Gen. Karl von Rundstedt, is quoted as saying such a breakthrough "would have torn the weak German front to pieces and ended the war in the winter of 1944."

Wilmot is understood to have started his book prejudiced against Montgomery, but to have finished his studies a convinced Monty man. "The Struggle for Europe" casts considerable light on the differences between Montgomery and such American generals as Omar Bradley, whose book on the war contains critical references to British generalship.

On the other hand, Wilmot is not one-sided in his judgments and admits that Monty had some frailties, including the habit of exercising his authority "almost as a matter of right."

new automatic system, which would be installed within 26 months, Automatic Electric Co. would provide the city free of charge with facilities for 309 extra subscribers and other equipment to temporarily relieve the current congestion and inability to expand the service by installation of new instruments.

Broken down, the figure of $562,886 includes the following items:

Central office ..... $226,119
PBX switchboard ..... 6,482
Instruments ..... 62,717
Outside plant materials ..... 80,567
Outside plant labor ..... 187,000

In addition to the $562,885 item, provision has to be made for a building to house the telephone system—there being three proposals for prospective site for such a building:

1. The old government liquor store at Third Avenue and Second Street.

2. The old Court House site on Second Avenue at Fourth Street.

3. Ground on Fulton Street immediately alongside the City Hall.

The matter of site is expected to be further considered at next Monday night's regular meeting of the city council.

The new building may involve the expenditure of something like $40,000.

The city council is already in negotiation with the provincial government to purchase the old liquor store.

Mayor Whalen last night questioned the wisdom of buying the old liquor store, cost of necessary reconstruction of which is placed at $9,983.

Ald. Daggett moved and Ald. Casey seconded that the deal with Automatic Electric be approved and further steps taken with a view to financing and the presentation of a money bill to the people.

Women's Red Cross Team For Korea

TORONTO (CP) — Eight Canadian girls will set out for Japan next month to become the first Canadian Red Cross welfare team to serve with Canadian forces in Japan and perhaps in Korea.

The girls are between the ages of 25 and 35 and more than half of them bilingual. Gertrude Trotter of Alexandria, one of the team, has also added Polish to her stock of languages and is looking forward to picking up the Japanese language.

Harold H. Leather, chairman of the Red Cross national executive, said the team was recruited at the request of the department of national defence. The girls will be attached to the Commonwealth Leave Centre in Tokyo and to the Commonwealth Hospital at Kure.

"Their concern will be for fifteen work, welfare cases, hospital visits and all the thousand-and-one problems a soldier carries into battle with him," said Mr. Leather.

The girls have had previous experience in the armed forces or in overseas Red Cross hospitals. Their civilian jobs, from librarian to hospital visitor, had one thing in common — they dealt directly with the public.

The girls will take a two-week course under Professor Charles E. Hendry of the University of Toronto School of Social Work to prepare them for their work in Japan.

Ruth Doern of Winnipeg, a graduate of the School of Social Work here, heads the team. Other members are: June Watson, Toronto; Eleanor Dundas, Ottawa; Sheila Douglas, Ottawa; Miss Trotter, Simone Masson, Montreal; Annette Labrie, Quebec City, and Virginia Cook, Calgary.

The girls will fly to Japan and are allowed only 64 pounds of luggage for the trip. A trunkful each will follow by ship but they have been warned not to expect them for about two months.

"We're thanking our lucky stars that nylon lingerie has been invented," commented Miss Dundas.

THE EXPERTS Say...

FISH CHEAP

Fish, a traditional food in Newfoundland and Labrador, also is about the cheapest dish available in the Atlantic province.

There are many ways to cook fish in fresh, canned, pickled or dried form.

Among home-makers the real experts are those "who actually feed large families and keep prices down," said Anna Templeton of St. John's, Nfld., organizing secretary of the Jubilee Guild of Newfoundland. They are the women "who manage to do a good job in day-to-day housekeeping."

Miss Templeton explained that in Newfoundland fish of any kind makes a cheaper dish than meat.

However, as far as meat is concerned "we all know that the best way for bringing down the cost of the main dish for any meal is to use cheaper cuts of meat, including ground beef."

MEAT STRETCHERS

Miss Templeton recommends chop suey to housewives who must stretch their meat money to the limit.

Ingredients: Fat pork; one-half onion; one-half pound minced meat; water; two table-spoons rice; one-half can tomato soup.

Brown the chopped onion in the fat pork. Add water, rice and meat. Let this simmer until meat is cooked. Add tomato soup when nearly done.

This individual recipe can be increased according to the number of persons to be served.

For dessert Miss Templeton suggests filling unbaked pastry shells with the following: One cup molasses (heavy); one egg. Beat these together slightly and bake in a medium oven until set. Cool before serving.

"This mixture is good either in large pies or as individual tarts," said Miss Templeton.

FISH DISH

Kedgeree is a Newfoundland fish recipe recommended by the Jubilee Guilds.

Ingredients: Two-thirds cup uncooked rice; two cups cooked fish; one-quarter cup melted butter; two egg yolks; one tea-

VANCOUVER.—All decked out in her new spring outfit which includes a fresh coat of paint and the latest thing in radar equipment, Canadian National Steamships Prince Rupert is all ready to leave here Monday on her first run of the spring and summer season.

The well known B.C. coast ship is just out after her annual overhaul and will now take over the Vancouver-Ketchikan run held down during the winter by her sister ship the Prince George.

On her weekly run to Alaska the Prince Rupert will call at Powell River, Ocean Falls and Prince Rupert.

On the completion of her last winter voyage on Saturday, the new Prince George will be given her annual spring check-up before starting her summer cruise schedule up the Inside Passage to Skagway.

Prince George's first voyage will be a charter run carrying about 300 members of the Northwest United States Presbyterian Synod to Sitka, Alaska, leaving here on May 27 and returning on June 3. This is her only scheduled visit to Sitka this year and only the second time she's called at the port.

On returning from that voyage she will take some 260 delegates attending the International Kiwanis convention (to be held in Seattle) on a post-convention cruise to Skagway, calling at Wrangell, Ketchikan and Prince Rupert and arriving back here June 13. She will leave here again that night on the first of eight scheduled summer Inside Passage cruises to Skagway.

Advance bookings indicate that the Prince George will have a busy season with reservations now running well ahead of last year.

Ingredients: Spoon finely chopped parsley; one-half teaspoon salt; pepper. Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Remove bones and skin and flake fish. Add to rice and heat in double-boiler. Stir melted butter into slightly beaten egg yolks. Add parsley and seasonings. Combine with fish. Cook one or two minutes, stirring slightly.

May Compel Connection With Sewer

City council will be notified again that at least 50 homes in Prince Rupert situated near sewers are not connected and still using septic tanks, contrary to city bylaws and necessary action will be requested by the Union Board of Health.

Subject was pointed out by Medical Director Dr. Duncan Black at last night's health board quarterly meeting.

"Not only is the city losing out in revenue but a health menace exists by allowing these unconnected, and in many cases out of order septic tanks to remain.

"The city has a bylaw and these home owners can be made to connect to the sewers and they should do so," he stated.

A list of such householders had been turned over to Superintendent of Works D. C. Stewart four months ago, said Dr. Black, but so far he had heard of no action taken by any city department.

Ald. Darrow Gomez, chairman of the health board, admitted nothing had been done by city council.

Conciliator Here in City—Firemen Case

Robert Forgie, conciliator of the provincial Department of Labor is here to meet this evening with city council and International Fire Fighters' Union in an effort to iron out the dispute over a new agreement with the firemen.

With settlement of certain points between city and union still outstanding, the union last week asked for conciliation under the Industrial Relations Act.

The arrival yesterday of Mr. Forgie was the result.

Seeking to Adopt District School

Since the closing of the school at Alice Arm, Duchess of Edinburgh Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, is seeking to adopt another school so inquiries are being made in regard to Kemano and Alice Arm.

Duchess of Edinburgh Chapter was in regular monthly session recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Hicks with Mrs. W. E. Hellawell presiding.

Mrs. Jack Ewart was named delegate of Duchess of Edinburgh to the provincial IODE convention to be held at Vancouver April 7, 8 and 9.

Young Kincolith Woman Succumbs

Member of a well known Kincolith native family now resident at Port Edward, Louisa, 23-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Stewart, passed away Sunday at the Nanaimo Indian Hospital where she had been a patient for four years. Remains arrived in the city on the Prince George yesterday from the south and interment will take place tomorrow afternoon from chapel of B. C. Undertakers to Fairview Cemetery with Rev. C. Fawcett of Full Gospel Tabernacle officiating.

A new city bylaw was proposed by Dr. Black and supported by the meeting, forbidding sale of milk unless pasteurized. Although at present no other type of milk is sold here, Dr. Black called the move "a sound protective measure—just in case someone wishes to begin the sale of raw milk here."

He pointed out only milk sale bylaws city had at present were dated 1912 in which "the hairy clauses" offered no protection.

Subject of the city dump reared its head again—this time the lack of co-operation by other than authorized city dumpers was scored by the board.

Sanitarian E. T. Bradley said the dump had recently been bulldozed to clear away high debris. A few hours later, the clearing had again been filled with garbage.

Aldermen Harry Daggett and H. F. Glassey promised to present to city council possibility of placing a guard at the dump to prevent illicit garbage dumping.

Meanwhile, Dr. Black offered high praise to Angus Gillis, charge hand of residential garbage collection, for his campaign for co-operation of householders.

Since the campaign for new garbage cans, wrapping of garbage and better storage of cans out of the weather had been launched, no complaints had been coming from the collectors, he said.

"Before that, it was an everyday occurrence."

Name of the health unit change to Skeena Health Unit from Prince Rupert Health Unit was approved. Such approval had also been received from the department of health. Present name will include all units in the area as far east as Houston and west to Queen Charlotte Islands.

Gyros Tell Life Stories

School Inspector G. W. Graham, who was born at the long since disappeared mining camp of Deadwood in the Boundary country but spent most of his life at Chilliwack, and Dentist Hector MacDonald, who was born at Prince Rupert, served overseas in the Royal Canadian Air Force and turned to dentistry as a life career after the war, gave interesting autobiographical talks at yesterday's weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club.

President Marc Gormely was in the chair and there was a good attendance with guests in the persons of C. W. Smith, G. A. Bell and Stan Spencer of Vancouver.

Truman Awaits Korean Outcome

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Frank E. McKinney, Democratic national chairman, predicted yesterday that, if the Allies can get a just peace in Korea, President Truman will consider that his most important job has been done and he will not seek reelection. Awaiting the outcome of truce negotiations in Korea, Mr. McKinney hinted, was the cause of Mr. Truman delaying decision as to his intentions.

Encouraging Atom Busters

OTTAWA (CP)—National Research Council's atom-busting sometimes obscures its other work so the council issued a reminder today.

In a statement, the council reviewed its work since 1917 when it was founded, and added that today's million-dollar business makes a dollar do double duty by encouraging research and at the same time training young scientists.

The N.R.C. is mainly known for operating its own laboratories, largely for the benefit of Canadian industry," the council said. "But it also is the most important scientific foundation in Canada, now disbursing over $1,000,000 a year."

Work began 15 years before the main laboratories were opened in Ottawa.

A system of scholarships was set up to encourage scientific training in Canada. Grants were made to professors to do fundamental research in addition to teaching. To co-ordinate research on major problems of national scope, associate committees were set up.

All this meant an investment of $12,500,000. Some of the money went to 2,397 scholarships to graduates of 23 Canadian universities. Three-quarters of these scholarship winners still are at work in Canada, and many of them "have helped to place Canada among the foremost scientific nations of the world," said the council.

On aid to research, the council spent $8,500,000 to provide investigators at all Canadian universities and at many other Canadian institutions with the means to do important research.

The 24 associate committees bring together the practical experience of industrialists and the special technical knowledge of scientific workers. That means hundreds of experts, all working without salary.

These committees plan and co-ordinate research projects such as that being done by a number of Canadian scientists in universities on hardening of the arteries. The committee recommends where money should be spent to help these projects.

The stage is set for Prince Rupert's first curling bonspiel which opens officially Friday morning at the curling rink. Mayor Harold Whalen will officiate at the opening ceremonies.

Ocean Falls Wins Opener

Overtime Required To Settle Issue Between Pulp Mill Teams

With only seconds remaining in the first overtime period, visiting Ocean Falls All Stars last night sank two points to break the tie and win at the final whistle 46-44 over Columbia Cellulose in the first of a two-game senior men's basketball challenge series.

Second game will be played tonight. Winner gets the Columbia Cellulose Trophy, a perpetual pulp mill challenge cup.

It was a tough battle all the way as fast-shifting, tricky and accurate playing coach McMillan led the paper town squad with Fougner at his side to spark the scoring with 14 points each.

At half-time the score was 21-19 for the visitors. At the end of the third quarter it was tied, 30-30. Overtime was called at the end of the fourth as teams tied 30-30.

The tying point was made by McMillan with a free throw, which he sank seconds before the whistle, on a second try.

The overtime was rough—a regular tug-of-war, each squad giving only an inch here and there.

McMillan starred again, twisting in one sensational shot from under the basket and making two free throws out of four. But Adams was the golden-haired boy for Al Taylor, All Stars manager, as he tipped in the winning rebound just before the whistle.

Local pulp millers couldn't find the basket. They were shooting at least twice for every shot the visitors were able to get away, but the ringers would drop back and rebounding was poor. Ratchford was high with 15 points but was off on his free throws. Out of 18 tries, he made 5 points.

More than 300 fans rang the rafters with their cheers and roars. Referees Gurvich and Fenness were hard-pressed to keep the game in check which saw a high percentage of body contact.

Gurvich also called for a repeat of a free throw when spectators jeered and routed at McMillan who missed. On his second try, he made it and tied the ball game at the end of the fourth.

Gurvich made a similar call in the overtime period, saying to the spectators: "He'll shoot here all night if you don't keep quiet and give him a chance."

Scoring
Ocean Falls—Fougner 14, Sandiford 2, Morris 2, Griffiths 1, Corbin 2, Check 3, McMillan 14, Adams 6.

CCC—Marshall 7, S. Dumas 3, Thompson 6, G. Dumas 4, Haugan 5, Gardiner 2, Ratchford 15.

J. C. Peddie, transferred from Terrace to Vancouver in the service of the Royal Bank of Canada, explained here yesterday for the south.

And by the number of rinks entered, it looks like a full four days jam-packed with activity. In fact, some of the local bonspiel rinks begin curling tonight so that the 11 visiting rinks can begin at noon tomorrow. A total of 38 rinks have entered.

Five trophies are up for competition with four events being the Grand Challenge, Superior Auto Primary, Applewhite and North Star Bottling secondaries. Grand Challenge trophy is donated by A. J. Dominato. The Grand Aggregate trophy is donated by Doug Frizzell.

Bonspiel curling will go on most of the night as well as all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday, after which the annual general meeting of Prince Rupert Curling Club takes place at the Legion auditorium.

Later, Monday night, the four-day celebrations wind up with a grand banquet and presentation of awards and trophies.

May Be Awarded NHL Rookie Honors

NEW YORK (AP)—The scramble for rookie-of-the-year honors in the National Hockey League continues into the final week of the season with Hy Buller, New York Rangers' defenceman, stacked against a glittering array of freshmen who have pushed the Montreal Canadiens into second place.

At least three Montrealers—Boom Boom Geoffrion, digging Dickie Moore and Paul Meger—have been rated well above the rookie field in various quarters, but Chicago Coach Eddie Goodfellow said today the Calder Trophy should go to Buller, a Montreal boy, even though the Rangers have not achieved a play-off spot.

"If they had got in," said Goodfellow, "it's Buller who would have got them there."

Goodfellow's top choice among the Canadiens is scrappy, two-way Meger, who has 23 goals, six fewer than his colleague on the right wing, Geoffrion.

"I have a lot of respect for Geoffrion's shooting," said Goodfellow, "but sometimes he strikes me as being a little lazy. He doesn't push himself too hard."

Critics of Buller's candidacy point out that no defenceman has ever won the trophy and the $1,000 which the NHL awards as a bonus. But Franch Boucher, Ranger manager, ridicules this argument.

"If Buller wins," says Boucher, "it will cost the Rangers as well as the NHL a $1,000 bonus. But I think he rates it. He is as good a defenceman as there is in the league."

"You have to judge a player by his merits, no matter where he plays. And I don't have to tell you how much Buller has meant to us."

Only three Ranger forwards have outscored Buller, whose 35 points have already tied the club record for a defenceman, set originally by Ott Heller in 1943-44. And his 12 goals are one short of another club record for a backliner.

Buller, a mature rookie who reached his 26th birthday last week, was buried for eight seasons in the American Hockey League, a mystery Boucher will never understand.

"On power plays," Boucher says, "he's the best defenceman the Rangers have ever had."

MONTREAL (Canadian Press)—Montreal Canadiens clinched second place in the National Hockey League by blanking Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0 in a listless game at Toronto Wednesday night.

The Canadiens put the Leafs in front of the third game for each left to the 70-game schedule. The Rangers defeated the Leafs 6 to 4 in a wide-open New York that had a lead on the standings already assured of fourth.

The Canadiens took a 2 to 0 lead in the first period and were not disappointed. The Canadiens' Boom Boom Geoffrion and Maurice (the Rock) made it 3 to 0 in the second frame. It was the first goal since he returned to the Canadiens from last week-end where he was injured from a groin injury.

King Edward won the first leg of the juvenile semi-final series Tuesday night when they downed the Arrows 21-5. Sparked by fast moving Don McIntosh who gained eight points for high score, King Ed could not be stopped after the first quarter.

At the end of the first period, close checking of the Arrows locked the score at 5-5. But from then on, it looked like Arrows had shot their limit for the evening. They didn't score another point.

For King Ed, Eddie Johnson was a tower of strength while McIntosh sank some lovely corner shots to start the big lead.

Twenty-eight fouls were called by Refs Martin and Fenness. Quarter scores were: King Ed—2, 3, 5, 11; Arrows—1, 4, 0, 0.

Scoring:
King Ed — E. Johnson 6, F. Johnson 2, R. Johnson 2, Lambie, Hodgkinson 3, McIntosh 3, Adams, Thom. Total—21.

Arrows—Leeman 3, Nordin, Gurney, Sykes, Landie 1, Haavorsen, Warner 1, Strand. Total—5.

More than 300 fans rang the rafters with their cheers and roars. Referees Gurvich and Fenness were hard-pressed to keep the game in check which saw a high percentage of body contact.

Building Problems

CANADIANS are clamoring for more new homes and builders can sell more if only they can keep costs down, says Dr. O. J. Firestone, economic adviser to the Trade Department and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. He realizes that it is not easy to keep costs down, especially when labor is scarce for higher wages and prices of materials are high. But the building industry has to understand "basic facts."

Even with plentiful materials and more liberal financing, the building industry must be able to sell a house at a price that the majority of Canadians can afford to pay if the industry wants to stay busy and lumber dealers want to sell large quantities of lumber in the domestic market.

It is pretty important to remember that there is only competition among business men in one industry but also competition between different kinds of commodities for the consumer. And if we have faith in competition, then we should do our utmost to make it work for our benefit.

With Canadians earning more and saving more than they did before the Second World War, the Canadian standard of living is rising and with it comes a big demand for Canadian lumber.

In fact, Canadians, says Dr. Firestone, could maintain a still higher standard of living and more leisure if they chose to work the same hours they worked before the war. Instead the trend is towards less work and more leisure and the "non-material pursuit of life."

Even so, the average income of a working person in 1951 amounted to $2,980, almost three times the average $1,058 earned in 1939.

On the business side, corporation profits quadrupled to $2,500,000,000 in 1951 from $658,000,000 in 1939. Capital expenditures by business skyrocketed to $2,000,000,000 from $400,000,000.

All this has meant a great wave of prosperity for Canadians. But business men have to face up to the fact that periods of great buoyancy are usually followed by some slackening.

On the strength of the current wave of prosperity, the market for lumber in Canada is growing. Half a century ago Canada absorbed about one-quarter of her lumber production, exporting the rest three-quarters. By 1951, she was absorbing almost one-half her production.

But the lumber industry, as any other business, must remain competitive. Otherwise Canada may see greater use of substitute materials such as steel and light metals in home and furniture production.

Protecting Ourselves Out?

WIDE fears are voiced by the Victoria Times regarding the immediate future of the major Columbia lumber industry. And any serious slump, it warns, would soon be felt by the whole of the coast province.

Anger stems from the huge and high-priced government contract which will end next year. For some time this contract has virtually provided a floor for the industry, keeping prices of lumber both in the domestic and export markets above the price levels prevailing in the United States. This contract "prodigally negotiated by the Atlee government" will not be renewed, says the Victoria paper, and when it ends two slumps are likely to happen—"a reduction in British Columbia and a reduction in prices."

Under the circumstances one would suppose all interests concerned would be proceeding with caution. Instead labor unions both in lumber and building are proposing another increase in wages and, according to the Times, the whole B.C. economy, including the provincial government, is to be operating on the tacit assumption that the boom can go on forever, that there is no risk of being ourselves out of world markets.

For a basically exporting province like British Columbia, warns the Times, that situation is dangerous for any part of Canada. Approximately a quarter of our total production is exported to the United States, Great Britain or elsewhere. We must find a market beyond our boundaries, in the United States, Great Britain or elsewhere. We must export in order to finance our imports. Our standard of living, our prosperity, our jobs and tomorrow are absolutely dependent on our export trade.

Regina Calm Over Disease

REGINA (CP)—The foot-and-mouth disease outbreak that has thrown a scare into many parts of Canada has stirred up scarcely a visible ripple on the surface of this bustling capital, on the edge of the quarantined livestock area.

The business and civil life of the 76,000 population of the "Queen City of the Prairies" appears hardly to have been touched by the impact of the outbreak with the series of embargoes arising from it.

Some business men say, though, there may be a delayed effect later on. But it's too early now to forecast that with any accuracy, they say. It will depend on such factors as how long the various embargoes last and on whether the infection is cleaned up without spreading out beyond the quarantine zone.

At the moment, officials of the health of animals division say they seem to have it stopped, with the last herd of infected livestock put under the gun yesterday. But they are keeping their fingers crossed.

Meanwhile, merchants report trade is holding up without any apparent drop. Among the merchants hit have been a few in the flour and feed business whose main trade has been selling feed to growers in the area where the herds have been slaughtered.

On the "entertainment side, the theatres are going strong, with no drop in patronage. Tommy Trinder, the British comedian, was wowing full audiences a few days ago with topical cracks about the epidemic. The community opera group is going right ahead with plans for a presentation of Gounod's "Faust."

Main reason for the lack of severity of the foot-and-mouth effect on Regina is that this is a wheat, rather than a cow town, centre of Saskatchewan's huge grain commerce. A big item of business is the distribution of farm implements through here. It's grain money, rather than cattle money, that turns the wheels of Regina's economy.

Alex Aitken, secretary of Regina's Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday it's not likely there will be much of a kick-back here from the disease outbreak for some time, if at all. "The big problem," he said, "will be in the future, depending on what develops. If the outbreak is contained in the area where they now are holding it, things won't be serious."

A bank manager expressed the same view. He thought there might be some financial difficulties among the herdsmen who have had their cattle killed to control the outbreak.

"But we can carry them along until they get their herds re-established again," he said. "They're all good credit risks. One thing makes it easier, of course, is that the area has never been so prosperous. If it were not for that, matters might be tough."

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

Powell River

POWELL RIVER: I have been working for Canadian newspapers since 1922.

Last year, during my trip to India, the daily print of my column reached the astonishing total of more than 700,000, at times, almost three quarters of a million copies per day. All of which goes to show that in thirty years I have helped to use up a fabulous amount of newsprint. (No wonder I favor reforestation. I don't want to help cheat my own grandchildren.)

Yet not till I visited this giant among the world's paper towns had I ever set foot in the plants where they produce the paper itself.

HAS ANYBODY ever written a good novel on life in a "company town"? It seems to me that a good writer could turn out a humdinger about this place. Here in the foreground are not only all the makings for human drama. But in the background is the bigger story—the saga of the woods.

You would find plenty of strong meat in your story. You would find that harsh, intimidating management methods of several decades ago have left scars not fully forgotten even to this day. (That was before the time of the new management.) But the whole recent trend of your story would be that year by year human relations had improved.

You would find here plenty of tough mechanical problems still to lick—how to get rid of the smell of burning sulphur when sulphur is an absolute essential in the process—how to offset that ear-piercing discord that is a by-product of the paper making. But you would find that in all these matters, and above all in the field of human relations —the top men in the "company town" were really throwing themselves into the job of making this a quite different place from the old idea of "company town."

If you had to write the whole Powell River story of 1952 in one sentence you could say: Here is a company town trying its darndest not to act like one—indeed, not to be one.

THE AVERAGE man who works in a paper plant is probably better off than he could be in any other B.C. job which calls for about the same qualifications. The recent peak world demand for newsprint has meant that the paper making people have been sure of year round jobs. Compared with a logger or sawmill employee the papermaker has all the best of it. His year-round pay is "in the bag."

Here, too, the layout of the country means that the worker can get from the plant to his own home in a very few minutes. I spotted one chap in a red jersey coming off afternoon shift. Less than fifteen minutes later, miles away, I saw the same man digging in his garden, outside the company town limits. He had a fine new modern bungalow which an upper income professional man would be glad to live in, if it were in a big city.

I found that that home, and many more like it, had been built mostly by the men themselves in off-work hours. They have an adaptation here of the old Ontario "barn raising" plan. Some groups of friends work together over the weekends, helping to build their own homes. Often you will see a crude shack side by side with a new home. The family had made the shack serve till the new one was ready.

At the present rate, you will soon see a whole community of neat, good homes. All these are outside the original "company town."

THEY make over a thousand tons of newsprint every day at Powell River. They are part of what has become the most important manufacturing industry in the whole Canadian economy.

Seals Ride Skeena Ice

Motorists along the Skeena River Highway report hundreds of fat seals riding the ice floes and apparently preying on the salmon of which they are one of the most notorious enemies.

Suggestions are made that this might be a good time for bounty hunters to make a haul and, at the same time, for the Department of Fisheries to take some action. Five dollars a nose is the seal bounty.

Estimates vary as to the damage that the seals do to the salmon but it is known that it is large, the marine animals not actually devouring the fish whole but taking a bit out of them which soon causes their death without having fulfilled their life function.

Suggestions range from dropping depth charges from helicopters to shooting the offenders from the shore.

Fisheries Department officials in this area usually keep a pretty watchful eye on the hair seals and arrange for their organized destruction when conditions are favorable for a substantial kill

Lessons For Railwaymen

VANCOUVER—About 250 Vancouver employees of the Canadian National Railways are back in school this week but, in place of the traditional three R's, they are concerned with only one—rules.

The students at the special rules instruction classes are the employees who are responsible for the daily operation of trains. They include engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, signalmen, yard switchmen, sectionmen and operators of snow plows and other rail equipment.

During the classes the rule instructor, Lorne M. Thomson of Vancouver, covers the entire uniform code of operating rules and explains how it contributes to the safe operation of trains.

All the men have already passed an examination in the new code of rules since its adoption last September, but they are required to attend classes periodically to keep them up to scratch.

After conducting classes here, Mr. Thomson, whose territory covers all of B.C. and Alberta as far as Edmonton, will go on a swing around the province holding classes at all divisional points in the interior and on Vancouver Island. During his 2½-month tour he will meet every CNR operating man in British Columbia. Prince Rupert will be among the places visited.

Truman Feared Parson Ontario 3rd World War House Speaker

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—President Truman secretly feared on two occasions in recent years that a third world war was about to break out. He saw that explosive threat first in the Berlin crisis in September, 1948, and again in the United Nations' reverses in Korea in December, 1950, after Red China intervened.

Truman recorded his anxieties over war — along with his privately-noted thoughts on Stalin, Russia, preventive war and various other foreign matters — in personal papers published today in the book "Mr. President."

The book, published by Farrar, Straus and Young, Inc., was written by William Hillman, former newspaper man who now is a radio commentator for the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The papers also disclose that Truman once sent a message to the Kremlin that Stalin was not a man of his word. And the President once read State Secretary James F. Byrnes a stiff lecture on who was boss of U.S. foreign policy and on the need for a tough attitude toward Russia.

In the Byrnes memorandum, possibly the most sensational item in the book, Truman said sharply that he, not Byrnes, would make final foreign policy decisions, and he added bluntly: "I'm tired of babying the Russians."

That was in January, 1946, and Byrnes, then one of the President's closest advisers, had just been to Moscow where he made agreements which critics characterized as appeasement of the Russians.

Truman's account gives no hint as to Byrnes' response. Byrnes resigned a year later. He denied that Truman had given him a "stiff lecture."

TERRIBLE FEELING
Here are some of the chief points the book makes about Truman and foreign policy matters:

1. When Russia's blockade of Berlin was six months old, the President was briefed by his military chiefs on September 13, 1948, on "bases, bombs, Moscow, Leningrad and the like."

Truman wrote afterwards: "I have a terrible feeling that we are very close to war."

2. On December 9, 1950, a month after massive Chinese armies struck in Korea, Truman wrote that the nation faced a jittery world and peace:

"I have worked, or peaced for five years and six months, and it looks like world war III is near."

3. In the Byrnes memorandum of January, 1946, Truman called for an end to compromise with Russia and said: "Unless Russia is faced with an iron fist and strong language another war is in the making. Only one language do they understand — 'How many divisions have you?'"

4. A message to Stalin in March, 1949, sent through Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith at Moscow, said Truman was disappointed that Stalin had not kept his word to get Russian troops out of Iran by March 2. He also told Smith to "urge Stalin" to visit America.

Provincial Legislature Has Ecclesiastical Aura

TORONTO (CP) — The speaker's chair in the Ontario legislature has an ecclesiastical aura in the present session of the assembly. Both the speaker and deputy speaker are clergymen.

Rev. M. C. Davies, speaker in the 23rd legislature from 1948 to 1951, was reappointed at this first session of the new legislature. Rev. Wallace Downer was named as his deputy.

The similarity does not end there. Both are Anglican clergymen and both were chaplains in the Second World War.

Mr. Davies' reappointment this year brought general approval from both sides of the house. Members of all parties have praised the fairness of the Welsh-born rector of St. George's Church in Windsor, whose chief duty is to preserve order in the assembly's debates.

Mr. Downer's appointment as deputy speaker was also applauded. He is one of only eight members in the house who have been members since 1937. Two of these are in the Liberal ranks; the other five are cabinet ministers, including Premier Frost.

Mr. Davies was first elected for Windsor-Walkerville constituency in 1945 after four years as chaplain with the RCAF. From 1942-44 he was deputy director of the RCAF chaplain service.

Mr. Downer was in Italy during the 1943 provincial election in which he contested the Dufferin-Simcoe riding he won in 1937. It was two days before the news of his re-election reached the 4th Anti-Tank Regiment where he was serving. He later returned to Canada and was sent in 1945 as senior chaplain to Newfoundland.

Mr. Downer has been rector of the Church of the Redeemer at Duntroon, Ont., for 17 years.

Austerity Worries Hard on Housewife

LONDON (CP) — The "little woman" faced with the problem of keeping her expenses within the weekly household allowance has far greater financial worries than the husband, says the current issue of the Houseworker, organ of the National Institute of Houseworkers.

"When money is short, it is always the mother of the family who must sacrifice all luxuries," the paper says. "It is she who must forgo a new coat, a fresh hat and other little luxuries in order that her children will be well cared for."

Civil Defence Below Target

But Britain Will Resort to Conscription Only as Last Resort

LONDON (CP) — Although hard-pressed for recruits to bolster Britain's civil defence corps, Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe has announced that the government will consider compulsory service only as a last resort.

The corps, organized to meet the possibility of atomic warfare, has reached only about 35 percent of its peacetime target of 470,000 volunteers.

The minister indicated that the response so far has been most disappointing in the auxiliary fire service, a branch of the corps which faced a heavy task in the last war. Air-raid fire damage, especially if atomic missiles were used, would constitute the gravest menace to the home front in event of another war.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly the danger of delay until an emergency arises," Sir David said. "There will be no time then to train large numbers of volunteers."

Meanwhile, steps have been taken to complete the equipment and training of the force already in operation which the minister described as a "going concern." Work is proceeding on such projects as regional war rooms and local control centres. The country's public air-raid warning system is being re-established and delivery of new and powerful sirens has already started.

Sir David said that special instruments for the detection of radio-activity following explosion of an atomic bomb have been on order for some time.

"... It did seem like a big jump—this move to Prince Rupert. Frankly I didn't know what to expect. But really, Jean, things have worked out wonderfully for us."

"... First thing, of course, is Art's job at the plant. He's crazy about it and I must say it's bringing in a bigger pay cheque than either of us had ever seen before. Then there's free insurance for both of us—and the children too. Not just accident insurance, but Life and Sickness and all the rest—everything you can think of in fact with no strings attached. That's a big help, not having to worry about Billy and Shirley if they get sick or anything."

"... But what Art likes particularly about the job is its security and advancement opportunities. You see, the Cellulose Company is running a full time operation up here. That means we can plan ahead from year to year without that awful uncertainty of layoffs or shutdowns. By this time next year we hope to have our own home and be able to call ourselves real Prince Rupertites—or whatever the name is. Everyone's been so helpful and we've made quite a few close friends already."

"... Knowing Art, you'll probably laugh but the Big Lug is even taking a correspondence course in plant management. That's another thing the Company helps out with."

"... Oh! Oh! That sounds like my guy at the door. No more for now..."

Lizbeth Likes English Men

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sultry Lizbeth Scott has returned from a European jaunt and blimey if she doesn't think British men are top-notch, romantically speaking.

The actress was subject to some international wooing while touring Europe. She was escorted by English, French, Italian and Swiss men, and she decided that the English are the most adept in the matters of the heart.

"Englishmen are so youthful in their manner," she enthused. "It's not true that Englishmen are sober and unemotional all the time. They have delightful senses of humor.

"And they can become quite poetic, too."

I asked if she implied that American men don't get poetic. "Not as readily," she admitted. "But American men are able to get poetic over a girl if they really get serious about her. I have letters to prove it."

Miss Scott was in London several weeks making a picture with Paul Henreid.

She also did some touring on the continent, but her romantic findings were not quite so satisfactory.

"The Frenchman is wonderful in his suavity and charm," she remarked, "and is very quick with the compliments. But sometimes you wonder if perhaps this isn't a veneer. It wasn't encouraging to see how the French treat their wives. The women are held in very low regard; the man is king.

"The Italian is also full of charm . . . but seems cynical and pessimistic.

"As for the Swiss, he is very impressive. He is strong and silent and can say more with a few words than most nationalities can with sentences."

Make Sure You Have Convenient Rebid

"Except for your bidding and play, you were a star on this hand, New," remarked Mr. Champion acidly. Mr. New had gone set one trick at his five-club contract.

The opening lead was a club by Mr. Dale. Mrs. Keen took the ace and returned a club. Mr. New then took the diamond finesse, losing to the king. Later, he had to lose a spade. Although he could throw one of dummy's spades on a third round of hearts, there was only one trump in dummy to ruff his two spade losers.

"You could have made it, New," Mr. Champion grumbled. "All you had to do was to forget about finessing the queen of diamonds. Just go up with the ace and led a little one back."

BIDDING TO BLAME

"All!" said Mr. New. "That's asking a lot, isn't it? Neither opponent bid. How could I know Mrs. Keen had the king doubleton?"

"Well, anyway, you could have made it," answered Mr. Champion, who cares less about being logical than about making his point.

Certainly the play Mr. Champion suggested was double-dummy. He had no grounds for criticizing his partner's play. But the bidding was something else again.

Mr. New's first rebid was at the three level. Surely his bidding suggested a different type of distribution from what he had actually had. In addition, it required more in high cards.

REQUIRES PLANNING

The trouble goes back to the opening bid itself. Mr. New should have opened one club rather than one heart. Then, over partner's one diamond response he could have bid one heart.

Far from making his first rebid at the three level, he actually could have shown both of his suits at the one level. And this sequence would not have promised any bigger hand than he had. The much easier contract of three no trump undoubtedly would have been reached.

As Mr. Champion pointed out, good bidding requires good planning. Before selecting your open-and deposit it in the trench. The spade should be driven down, not on a slant, but perpendicularly to its full depth. Take a small slice of the soil so your back is not strained. Lift it up, turn the spade over, so that the top soil falls underneath and bottom soil on top. In filling the first trench, you have opened a second.

If you wish to spade under manure, spread it evenly over the area, except for the top of your initial trench. When this first trench has been dug, clean the manure from the top of the next trench and throw it into the bottom of the first; then proceed with your spading, piling the soil on top of the manure.

When you have finished your day's quota, you will have an empty trench, which should be filled with the soil you removed from the initial trench.

'Mask of Avenger'

Swashbuckling adventure picture starring John Derek, "Mask of the Avenger," in technicolor, is the feature picture coming to the Totem Theatre this Friday and Saturday. Anthony Quinn has the principal supporting role with Jody Lawrence, Arnold Moss and Eugene Iglesias rounding out the supporting cast.

The action of "Mask of the Avenger" takes place during the 1848 war between Italy and Austria. Derek is a dashing young captain in the Italian army who returns home on leave to find his father dead and branded as a traitor to his country. The young soldier, assuming the guise and wielding the sword of the Count of Monte Cristo, wages a ruthless campaign of vengeance against his enemy, a man plotting Italy to Austrian agents.

Photography in technicolor embellishes the impressiveness of the picture.

Big Terrace School Plan

TERRACE — A building program to cost about $421,000 is now being planned for trustees of Terrace School District.

A bylaw to finance this work is expected to be presented to ratepayers shortly.

Plans for the various units are now being prepared by the Vancouver architectural firm of Sharp & Thompson, Berwick, Pratt.

First portion, expected to be put under way this year, consists of work at the Terrace elementary school with an estimated cost of $50,000. This will involve connecting the existing two buildings with a corridor on which three classrooms will be extended and adding and converting an army building to provide a further six classrooms. The existing low pressure steam heating system will be enlarged.

Second project hoped to go ahead this year is completely remodeling the high school here. A new roof and new hot water heating system will also be included in this project with a cost of about $25,000.

The architects have now started on sketch plans on a new $300,000 high school for Terrace which is scheduled to proceed next year.

Other items slated for 1953 include an $18,000 one classroom addition to New Hazelton elementary school, new basements and heating systems in existing schools at Kitwanga and Usk at $9000 apiece, and three new teacherages in the district.
