Princess Helps Bashful Prince

Delightful Incident at Royal Visit to Nairobi

NAIROBI, Kenya — Princess Elizabeth helped a shy young African boy over a rough spot in the Kenya colony welcome to herself and Prince Philip Friday. Protocol was preserved. The boy was called a prince, so named because he was born the same day as Elizabeth and Philip's son, Prince Charles, November 14, 1948.

Solemn, in white shirt and blue pants, the prince was assigned to hand Princess Elizabeth a bouquet when she visited the new African maternity hospital soon after she and the Duke of Edinburgh flew in from London on the royal tour.

The Prince was bashful. He turned his back on the Princess and back-handed the flowers. Elizabeth gently pulled the boy around, took the bouquet and thanked him.

The large crowd of Africans on hand appeared delighted. Princess and Duke landed in this equatorial African territory on the 30,000-mile around the world trip to be devoted mostly to Australia and New Zealand.

Three months ago they were sleighing in the snows of Quebec as the wind-up of the Canadian tour.

Red Horse Trade Out

Russia Condemned for Failing to Keep Pact With China

PARIS — The United Nations General Assembly Friday overturned a decision of its political committee which had, in effect, recommended a horse trade with Russia on accepting 14 new United Nations members, including five Soviet satellites. The session is driving towards a close which is expected next Tuesday.

The assembly voted 22 to 21 with 16 abstentions on the membership issue but, since the majority was less than the required two-thirds, the Russian proposal was not approved.

The assembly also passed a resolution which condemned Russia in effect for failing to live up to the 1945 friendship treaty with Nationalist China.

Both votes were seen as victories for the United States which strongly backed Nationalist China's complaint and fought bitterly against the Russian membership proposal. But the victories were seen as shaky since many United States allies including Canada, Britain and France abstained on both votes.

TORONTO (Canadian Press)—Suburban Scarborough police said Friday night that 22-year-old Diane Bound, a baby-sitter, beat a three-and-a-half-year-old girl to death with a beer bottle and a chair after becoming drunk from beer she found in the house.

Police said the woman had been left in charge of the baby by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kellough while they went shopping. They said the woman got into the beer supply at the house and turned on the baby when the infant started misbehaving.

The baby sitter is said by the police to have tied the baby's feet to the bottom corners of her crib and her hands to the top corner and then to have beaten her to death.

VICTORIA, B.C. — Plucky Miss Jane Megarry, a 72-year-old graduate nurse recently assisted in the rescue of her nonagenarian patient in an apartment house fire. While nurse in charge of the St. Paul's Indian residential school at Cardston, Alta., from 1924 to 1936, Miss Megarry taught first aid and home nursing to the Indians.

As a result they were among the first natives to win many honors in St. John Ambulance competitions.

Miss Megarry received recognition for this from the King. She was awarded the medal as a serving sister of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. Presentation was made in Ottawa by the Earl of Bessborough, then governor-general of Canada.

She has a medal to show she graduated from the Galt hospital at Lethbridge and a special medal for her work with the Blackfeet Indians at Beishon, Alta.

Churchill Visit

MAINTENANCE of goodwill could be seen as the main objective of the recent Churchill visit to Canada. He apparently made no direct requests but those may become evident later. What he did do was to lay foundations for things to come, cementing good understanding as the basis for more tangible developments. No doubt the seriousness of Britain's economic and defence situation was discussed and Canada will be expected, if not called upon, for further assistance which will be freely given. The significance of Churchill's visit will become clarified later. Meantime, it was a good follow-up to the Royal visit and a side issue to the United States mission. He could not have come to the United States without coming here.

Little Thunderer

A SAMPLE COPY of unusual interest has arrived at the Daily News office. It is the first issue of the Times Weekly Review, a compact new journal which, for the especial benefit of people abroad, will carry on the traditions of the long-established Times Weekly Edition and "present to readers all over the world news and comment freshly prepared by the staff of the Times" and based on all the resources that serves the Times day by day.

The life of men and women in Britain, their politics, their economic and financial affairs, their theatres, music, books and other entertainments will be reflected, it is assured, and sport in Britain will be described with emphasis on what is considered to be of most interest to people in other countries.

The traditional double function of reporting and interpreting—"telling the truth by reporting facts, kept scrupulously clear of views, and by offering critical comment upon them"—will be maintained.

The Times, to the better class of newspapermen, has always been considered as near a model example as possible of fine techniques and ethics in journalism. We are sure this new miniature edition of the Thunderer will prove most acceptable not only throughout the Commonwealth but in many parts of the world as a medium of keeping in touch with what is going on in the Old Land.

What's My Name?

"I AM more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns.

"I steal, in the United States alone, over $5 billion each year.

"I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and weak. Widows and orphans know me.

"I loom up to such proportions that cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train.

"I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage-earners a year.

"I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

"I am everywhere—in the house, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

"I bring sickness, degradation, and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

"I destroy, crush, or maim. I give nothing, but take all.

"I am your worst enemy.

Beware Hong Kong

THE situation looming up in Asia seems to me most alarming. We are in danger of slithering silently into World War Three out there.

A great playwright described the death of our order as coming "not with a roar, but a whimper."

We are being eased toward involvement in the third world war without even seeing clearly what is happening.

TO GET the picture out there we must remember the main developments:

1. After a thirty year struggle the Chinese Communists became the government of China. The ex-government, under Chiang Kai-shek, escaped to Formosa—an island about a hundred miles off the coast.

2. There was a violent argument between two U.S. political groups. The Truman administration, plus most moderate Americans, took a "hands off China" attitude. They said that what happened in the Chinese island of Formosa was China's business. But "the China Lobby," headed by John Foster Dulles, General MacArthur and ex-isolationist Republicans, strongly urged military alliance with Chiang Kai-shek.

3. When the Civil War broke out in Korea President Truman intervened to halt the aggression from North Korea, by North Korea. But simultaneously he declared "temporary naval protection of Formosa."

That is, he intervened quite legally and properly in Korea—because the UN had clearly guaranteed South Korea against attack from the North. But he intervened quite illegally and quite improperly in the affairs of Formosa—which is a Chinese territory, and which had no connection with Korea.

I MYSELF pointed out in this column, immediately, that the illegal U.S. action re Formosa MIGHT have exactly the effect which it later did have—namely, to goad the new government of China into intervening in the war in Korea.

For, with General MacArthur's forces rushing for the Chinese border, and simultaneously rebuilding Chiang's beaten armies on Formosa, it was obvious to anyone that the Chinese Communists might interpret this in football language as "U.S. running interference for Chiang."

NOW WE FACE a far greater danger. For weeks past Reuters and other news agencies have been reporting the build-up of Chiang Kai-shek's forces in northern Burma and Thailand. These are refugee groups which were chased out of their own country. But due to the weakness of the governments of Burma and Thailand they were not disarmed and interned as they were supposed to be, under international law.

Now we have Burma formally complaining to the UN at the presence of these troops. We also have the U.S. officially disclaiming any connection with or responsibility for them. But we also note John Foster Dulles declaring for a "positive" policy to overthrow the present government of China—and to restore Chiang Kai-shek.

NEHRU'S policy re Formosa is the only one to keep the peace—namely to put it in neutral UN "cold storage" for years to come.

Any U.S. attempt to transform it into a base for Chiang's reconquest of China would surely bring on World War Three—an early consequence of which would be the loss to Britain of the island of Hong Kong.

ray ... Reflects and Reminisces

Few of Prince Rupert's first city council, elected in the early summer of 1910, are seen here today. Most are dead. It must be years since any have been in town. Not many of the present population know much about the men who first took over, once incorporation became established.

Fred Stork, first mayor, passed away years ago. His old home was at Brampton, not far from Toronto. He had lived in Fernie, later locating here. Fred ran a hardware store. He was companionable, took a live interest in public affairs, and served as federal member. His daughter, Mrs. Martin Van Cooten, lives here today.

Helping place Prince Rupert on the map was a man-sized job for everybody.

Duff Pattullo travelled all the way to London to talk finance. There were major contracts to be awarded in the way of street construction and service facilities. Frank Mobley, who had come down from the north, V. W. Smith, identified with Foley, Welch and Stewart, J. H. Hilditch, builder, W. P. Lynch, George Naden, A. A. MacIntyre, A. R. Barrow were other members of the first council. That frame building on Third Avenue just west of the Royal Hotel was erected by MacIntyre who had been dwelling in California. He did not remain very long in the north. Development, in his judgment, was too leisurely. It was Bill Lynch who built first, at the junction of 2nd and 1st Avenues, a block. It was a grocery store at first. Now it is the Seaview Apartments.

LETTERBOX

FOR BETTER RECEPTION

Editor,
Daily News—

I would like you to print this letter in the hope that it may help to improve radio reception in Prince Rupert, and, at the same time, suggest possible methods to obtain this objective. Before doing so, however, I think it would be better to mention a few of the reasons for poor reception with particular emphasis on noise and interference.

On various occasions during power failures I have checked radio reception, using a battery operated receiver and the results are amazing. Practically all noise disappears and stations, both local and distant, are received loud and clear. One would naturally assume then that the majority of our noise and interference is caused by power lines and the various noise radiating appliances are in a faulty condition. Some of the worst offenders are heating pads and blankets, automatic irons, electric heaters and toasters, automatic furnace ignition, power tools, electric shavers, faulty home wiring, faulty power lines, fluorescent and neon lighting.

These are just a few but, when these noisemakers are all added together, it results in a terrific noise level on your radio which blocks out all but the strongest local stations.

Here is an example of how it works: A man has an electric shaver, which he plugs into the electrical outlet and begins to shave. Unknown to him, the contacts inside the shaver are in poor condition and are sparking badly. This acts as a small spark transmitter and the power lines coming into this man's house act as a very good transmitting aerial. The result—ruined radio reception for all his neighbors. This type of noise can be transmitted for blocks in all directions. This interference can easily be eliminated by the use of a noise suppressor plugged into the outlet.

There is only one way to stop radio interference from electrical devices and that is to stop the noise at its source. There are many gadgets manufactured to attach to the radio that are supposed to prevent noise reception, but there is one bad fault common to them all—they don't work.

We can do something about improving the situation. The people of Prince Rupert have gradually resigned themselves to the belief that the poor conditions and noise on the broadcast spectrum is a necessary evil that must be tolerated but such is definitely not the case.

The co-operation and efforts of each and every radio listener is required. Make sure that you are not blaming your neighbor.

Services in the Church

Saturday Sermon "Make Use of Prayer"

(By REV. H. O. OLSON, St. Paul's Lutheran Church)
"Call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify Me."—Psalm 50:15.

There are invisible powers of evil constantly working to destroy our faith in Jesus Christ. It is, therefore, extremely important that we encourage and exhort one another to persevere in the means God has given for strengthening faith. One of the most useful means of promoting faith is prayer.

The command to pray is given in the second commandment: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." This means that, in order not to take His name in vain, we must do the very opposite, use it seriously and reverently. We take the Name of the Lord seriously when we receive the salvation God has for the noise that is being generated in your own home, check each and every electrical device in your home and, by process of elimination, determine the ones that are creating a disturbance.

The Radio Division of the Department of Transport have inspectors and equipment for tracing down interference, but they certainly will not come to us unless we complain to them first.

We are entitled to the best radio reception that is possible, and the fact that our geographical location handicaps us to a very great extent is bad enough without having to tolerate unnecessary man-made interference. It's up to us so why not do something about it.

Thank you, Mr. Editor.

THE EXPERTS Say...

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"RATIONING" remains both an important and doleful word in the British vocabulary. Money is the cause of it—particularly the shortage of dollars. This prevents Britain from importing anything but basic products.

Food parcels from this side of the Atlantic still thrill the British friend or relative who receives them.

"We used to get prunes in war time but since currency deteriorated we don't get them," Mrs. Mary Charley of Kingston-on-Thames in England, recently wrote to a relative in Toronto. "Of course we get fresh fruit in the market apples oranges and very expensive grapes."

Bananas she said never appear in British shops. She was delighted with the dried apricots, prunes and pears received in a food parcel.

It is recommended that canned meat be included in food parcels. However, this doesn't mean tins of such prepared dishes as Irish stew which contains a large proportion of vegetables and gravy. Plain beef in one form or another is appreciated. At present the bacon ration in Britain is three ounces weekly together with approximately one pound of meat.

Cheese also is welcomed, preferably Canadian cheddar with a rind to prevent dryness.

Other suggestions for the British food parcel: sugar, butter, shortening, and where there are children, candy and cookies of the sweet varieties. Dried eggs also are desirable.

U.K. officials say there are not any desperate shortages and nothing is missing from the main categories of foodstuffs. However, there are shortages of such items as canned salmon, cookies, dried eggs, dried fruits, jellies and evaporated milk.

When packing food parcels it is advisable first to remember the situation of friends or relatives who will receive the gifts. Old persons are at a disadvantage in shopping and standing in line, and often cannot afford restaurant meals which are rationed. As the tea ration is small it usually is a good idea to send tea to older men and women.

Housewives who do a good deal of their own cooking probably will welcome shortening, sugar and dried eggs in their food parcels.

FRUGAL FANCIES—The National Council of Women suggests that as another means of cutting down on food expenditures Canadian housewives serve simpler tidbits and less variety at their teas and club meetings. After all these foods are practically always in addition to regular meals. One kind of cake should do just as effectively as two or three.

Homemade pickles and relishes should add as much zest to meals as olives—which after all are imported.

While the small packages of processed cheese are easy to keep, it's more economical to buy cheese cut from the large mold. This will keep for a long time if wrapped in a cloth wrung out in vinegar. When cheese becomes dry it may be grated for use in cooking.

Promotion for Local Officer
Promotion from rank of sub-inspector to inspector is announced for W. C. V. Chisholm, 52-year-old officer commanding of Prince Rupert division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Inspector Chisholm recently arrived here from Edmonton.

Banking Hours Here Unchanged
Only Larger Cities and Environs Included in Saturday Closing List
Prince Rupert is not included in the official list of cities whose banks will go on the five-day week now permitted in federal legislation.

Starting February 16 banks in fourteen of Canada's larger cities will be closed on Saturdays. On May 1 seven more will start closing Saturdays.

Some of the banks closing on Saturdays will extend their hours on Fridays.

British Columbia banks to close Saturdays will be Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, North Vancouver, West Vancouver, Vancouver Heights, Brighouse, Port Coquitlam and Port Moody.

Certain of the five-day week branches will have extra Friday hours from 4:30 to 6 p.m. and others from 7 to 8 p.m.

In the Maritime Provinces the Friday hours will be extended to open at 9:30 and close at 4:30 p.m.

Combine remaining milk, lightly beaten egg yolk, finely cut chocolate, sugar and salt. Heat over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens slightly. Blend in softened gelatin and stir until it is dissolved. Cool until mixture thickens. Fold in finely cut marshmallows, stiffly beaten egg white, whipped cream and chopped walnuts. Chill until firm. Serves 6 to 8.

NAVY NEWS

WRENS Get Full Kit And Ready for Duty

Where do we wear that?

This question was on the lips of many Wrens last drill night as the girls inspected items of their full issue of kit received from Leading Seaman Waddell. A complete evening was spent in fitting uniforms with the occasional time out for coffee but it was a happy group of Wrens who departed with the traditional kit-bags slung over their shoulders.

The Wrens are now fully kitted and ready to take over their duties should the occasion arise.

CADET BAND

The blare of bugles may be heard each Thursday night as the Sea Cadet bugle band proceeds to and from parade. There is no "sweet note" as yet, but the enthusiasm displayed by these boys for their corps and band can only mean that in a short time our cadets will have a fine band.

RESERVE RIFLE TEAMS COMPETE

Across Canada each month 22 rifle teams composed of five men will be mailing score sheets and targets to select a monthly winner from Naval Divisions. This scheme has been proposed by Navy Headquarters and discussed at a conference of Naval Divisions late last year.

Discussions by the RCN staff here have turned to crabs, spring tides and with the warmer weather here, fishing will start shortly. The self appointed cook for the men living aboard has several recipes on hand for crab delicacies.

Many Changes in Men's Styles Career of Local Haberdasher

In the 34 years Art Nickerson has dealt in haberdashery he has seen many changes in the styles of men's clothes—from plain colored hosiery in cotton and wool to every kind of color and textile mixture; from narrow bottom and well-bottom trousers to flared bottoms; from the "hard hat" to the present-day soft snap brims.

The most outstanding change, says Mr. Nickerson, is the change in the type of clothes worn by men today. Fifteen years ago, when a man came in to buy a suit and a hat, that fitted—well, that was the latest in style of color.

Today, says Mr. Nickerson, a man has a great influence on the fashioning of his clothes. It has been a larger stock, greater variety and very close attention to buying.

The clothing came from Clark's and Truro, Nova Scotia, and the lure of the west, and landed in Prince Rupert in 1918. He entered the service of the late Martin O'Reilly, then one of the main men's clothing stores in the city.

Mr. Nickerson recalls the early days with some nostalgia. "They were a different bunch of fellows—hale and hearty and well-met sort of fellows. Today, the clothing traveller is mostly all business." And he tells the story of a well-known traveller through Central B.C. in the earlier days who began with a few dollars.

The outstanding salesman of that day was fired when his company discovered he carried an other line. Immediately, he continued with the second line—woolen goods—and became so successful that today he heads the company for which he sold, and is president of one of the largest wool knitting mills in Western Canada.

MODERN TRENDS

The biggest change that has come into men's clothing styles generally is the influence of sportswear, says the manager-partner of Watts & Nickerson.

Sport shirts, for example, came to Canada from the U.S. about 10 years ago but actually only became predominant after the Second World War.

And sportswear is not just a fad. "Men want to dress more casually—that's why the stiff collar is gone. The sports shirt is here to stay and I think this year will be bigger than ever for sales in that line."

Daring patterns have even invaded the dress shirt field. One of the most popular is the "Harry Truman" type which features pastel shades and figured designs.

THE STAFF

To serve the customer at Watts & Nickerson are three other men outstanding in their knowledge and appreciation of style and material of clothing:

Bonny Sprinkle was stationed here with the American Army during the Second World War and won a bride, locally born Leona Whiffin. After the war, the couple took a trip to Virginia—Bonny's home state, but returned to Prince Rupert two and a half years ago.

Wally Dell is a local high school graduate who joined the company in October, 1946, and has shown a keen interest in dressing today's man for a modern world.

A man with wide experience in many departments and clothing stores in Western Canada is Garnet Hull. Garnet's pleasant demeanor is backed by a storehouse of knowledge about men's clothing today, and yesterday. He's been serving customers at Watts & Nickerson's since 1945.

Keeping the company books in line is Mike Nickerson, Art's brother. Mike has made his home on the West Coast since 1911, and in 1942 settled here permanently to add his knowledge and experience to the clothing business of his brother's firm.

EARLY BEGINNINGS

The present firm of Watts & Nickerson had its foundations back in the early days. About 1910 J. J. Sloan founded a men's furnishing store on Sixth Street which was soon taken over by George Bryant. A few years later a young railroadman, Joe Greer, became interested.

The business of Bryant & Greer continued for years until Greer left the city. Bryant and his sons, Jimmy and Wigner, later joined the business. The store was moved from Sixth Street to the present Watts & Nickerson location.

Meantime, William M. Watts, another Prince Rupert boy, who had been in the grocery business, and Art Nickerson, who had been for a time employed by Bryant, in 1937 started a men's furnishings business on Third Avenue in the premises now occupied by Vogue Footwear. During the war Watts & Nickerson bought out George Bryant's business and the two stores were joined up at the present site.

Watts & Nickerson were for a time also in the men's furnishings and hardware business at Smithers but a couple of years ago they left that town. A short time later Watts & Nickerson bought out the men's furnishing business of H. G. Noel at Nanaimo which they renovated and re-stocked, making it one of the most modern and up-to-date stores in the Vancouver Island city.

Mr. Watts, an ex-mayor and long prominent in many lines of local public service, left Prince Rupert to take over the management and now makes his home at Nanaimo.

"We have had a pleasant and workable partnership," says partner Art Nickerson.

"We like to do business in a smaller city because we do a personal business. Service and personality count much more in a small community than in a large city where selling is nearly always strictly impersonal."

ART NICKERSON AND CUSTOMER

Partners Bought Out Bryant Co. Ltd. In 1940

Art Nickerson, manager and partner of Watts and Nickerson, entered into the clothing business in Truro, Nova Scotia at the age of 16.

Men preferred plain colors in those days, says Art, mostly greys, browns and black. This applied to hats, hosiery, suits and coats. In hats, Homburgs and Derbies were the favorites. The Homburg is still sold today among many other styles, but the Derby now is for dress wear only.

At that time, around the early 1920's, suits were similar in style, and the trouser bottoms were narrow the same as the young men prefer them today. Again dark colors were the style.

In shirts there were just two kinds, the dress shirt and the work shirt. In 1952, as contrasted to the 1920's, the Sport shirt is put to many uses.

Outstanding change in men's clothing, according to Mr. Nickerson, is color. If you wore a yellow shirt in those earlier days "they would put you in jail." Now if you wear a yellow shirt you are right in the swim.

To illustrate this point, clothing men predict the "Harry Truman Shirt" to be the biggest seller of 1952 in Canada. Already a best seller in the U.S.A. last year largely because the president appeared in so many news cuts arrayed in a "flowery print shirt."

Men have not only gone over to color but multi-colored shirts are becoming very popular.

Underwear and work clothing have also undergone marked changes. In the first post-war period the only underwear available was combinations for summer and winter wear.

Now the two-piece brief or jockey has taken their place.

Work shirts then consisted of one or two plain types, the shirts being of a very rough cut. Today the work shirt is cut along dress shirt lines, well finished and in a variety of colors.

WALLY DELL AND BONNY SPRINKLE

Returning to the activities of Mr. Nickerson, he came to Prince Rupert in 1920 and worked for a pioneer men's clothing merchant, Martin O'Reilly, for two years. From 1922 to 1929 Mr. Nickerson was in the employ of the company store at Anyox, B.C., under Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. During his stay he received a promotion to Manager of the Men's Clothing Department there.

Back in Prince Rupert in 1929 Art worked for Bryant Co. Ltd., in the clothing business and until 1937 worked at various jobs in the city.

In 1937 W. M. Watts and Mr. Nickerson formed a partnership and located their clothing store at the present site of the Vogue Shoe Store.

Mr. Watts is a very active partner. A resident of Prince Rupert from 1920 to 1940, he moved to Nanaimo to open another Watts and Nickerson store in that city. He was mayor of Prince Rupert in 1943 and always took part in civic work. He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce and the Gyro Club. His contribution to the community was outstanding.

The partners bought out Bryant Co. Ltd. in 1940, which is the present site of the Watts and Nickerson Store.

Interior premises of the store have been renovated, the clothing and hat sections in particular have been streamlined.

Clothing lines carried by Watts and Nickerson are the finest. Such names as Fashion-Craft and Shiffer-Hillman for suits, Stetson hats, Arrow shirts, Daks slacks, and QWG work clothing can mean only the best in men's clothing.

MANAGEMENT AND STAFF is as follows:

W. M. WATTS—Partner and manager of store in Nanaimo.
A. S. (ART) NICKERSON—Partner and manager of store in Prince Rupert.
H. S. (MIKE) NICKERSON, Bookkeeper
G. R. (GARNET) HULL, Salesman
W. E. (WALLY) DELL, Salesman
B. S. (BONNY) SPRINKLE, Salesman

ART NICKERSON AND GARNET HULL

Modern workmen prefer to wear coveralls, and waist overalls have taken the place of bib overalls.

Mr. Nickerson emphasized the fact that all changes in men's clothing are minor compared to color. The introduction of color to men's clothing is the big change.

Here's Valuable Tip on Defensive Play

There's a point of play in this hand which comes up fairly often and which you would do well to add to your bag of tricks.

Occurs in the situation where you, as a defender, have a pretty good trump holding, including one sure winner in the trump suit. You have a side suit with which you can force declarer. The point is to take your trump trick at a time when dummy is out of trumps because your "forcing" suit can be trumped on the board, obviously that does not reduce declarer's trump holding.

Look how Mr. Muzzy threw away a golden opportunity in this deal. He opened the king of hearts and Mr. Dale won with the ace. The king of trumps was led and Mr. Muzzy stepped right in with the ace. He cashed the queen of hearts, taking the last one off the board, and looked around for new worlds to conquer.

Finally he switched to the suit of diamonds. Mr. Champion won with the ace and returned a diamond, whereupon Mr. Dale claimed the balance of the tricks and his contract.

"What's your hurry about taking the ace of trumps?" roared Mr. Champion. "Just take the third round to trumps and lead the queen and another heart. You would have to trump in his hand. Then, when I was in with the ace of diamonds, I'd lead another heart. When he ruffed that, he'd be out of trumps and you'd still have one left—for the setting trick."

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Muzzy desperately. "If Dale won the first two trump tricks, he wouldn't lead a third round. He'd switch to diamonds right there."

Mr. Champion gave him a withering look. "All right, he switches to diamonds. You start an echo by playing the eight first. I lay off the first diamond, win the second and lead a third round which you trump for the setting trick."

Mr. Muzzy could think of no good argument so he fell back on an old favorite of his. "Well, you may be right," he said, "but the play you're suggesting is double-dummy."

Mr. Champion grinned wickedly. "You certainly are," he said.

Minimum Halibut Price Proposed—UFAWU To Meet Applewhaite—Many Beam Trawlers Out

Something entirely new in the halibut fishing industry is to be the subject of a proposed conference in Prince Rupert this month. Fishermen from Seattle to Ketchikan have "practically all agreed" to ask for a minimum or floor price for their halibut this year.

Following a several-day conference in Vancouver last month which saw union delegates from the Pan Handle to Puget Sound score the decline and instability in last year's halibut prices, a second conference is to be called. At present, backing of all fishermen's union locals is being sought for a minimum price demand.

This will present—if carried through—an unprecedented stride in the fishing industry, said T. E. Parkin, local secretary of United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, on his return from Vancouver.

Local delegates to the Vancouver conference were W. H. Brett, of the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, and Perry York, of the Halibut Fishing Vessel Owners' Association. On Sunday, these unions will meet to further discuss the minimum price idea.

If all union locals approve of the idea, a second conference is to take place in Prince Rupert, to pass on the amount which will be the "floor asking" price on the exchange.

It is reported the International Halibut Commission convention held recently at Seattle has recommended May 20 as opening of the halibut fishing season.

At Sunday's meeting of the UFAWU, another point will be brought up. E. T. Applewhaite, Skeena MP, has been asked to answer questions by union members regarding the proposed Japanese fisheries treaty, at the negotiations of which in Tokyo Mr. Applewhaite was present.

Union locals of B.C. have protested the proposed treaty on the grounds that it does not give enough protection. Fishermen are seeking a clause in the treaty which will keep Japanese fishermen out of North American territorial waters "completely and forever," says Mr. Parkin.

Most of the present activity on the local waterfront is centred around flat-fishing and processing. Skidegate Inlet once more is producing a record amount of fish with several beam trawlers.

ers unloading as much as 60,000 pounds last week.

The following trawlers are fishing: Carolina Maria, Capt. Frank Gale; Zenardi, Capt. Charlie Hann; Colnet, Capt. Jimmie Dale; Thelma S., Capt. Ole Skog; W-10, Capt. Percy Alexander; Combat, Capt. Nils Nelson; Morris H., Capt. O. Giske; David Scott, Capt. Julius Barth; Five Princes, Capt. Jack Prince; Violet Prince, Capt. Ray Prince; New Laurel, Capt. Alf Ritchie; B.C. Producer, Capt. Fred Kohse; Skeena Maid, Capt. Pete Hann; Sandra Carol, Capt. Oliver Adams and Anthony J., Capt. Frank Jones.

Prices this year for Skidegate butter sales compare favorably with last year's price of 4½ cents a pound. Fishing companies engaged in flat-fish processing are Atlin Fisheries Ltd., B.C. Packers Ltd., Royal Fish Co. and Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association.

One lone fisherman is out for cod. He's Jack Dean, fishing with the new White Oak which he built last winter and launched in spring.

Powerful trawling haul is expected in over the week-end, although six vessels unloaded near last week.

CAPSIZED BARGE RECOVERED

A capsized Standard gas barge on loan to Central B.C. Airways at Kemano Bay was towed last week by Reg. Green of Armour Salvage to Tucks Inlet and righted by the Prince Rupert Drydock derrick.

Turned over by storm conditions at Kemano, the barge was towed in before being righted to prevent any remaining gas from spreading in the harbor. Under repair at the drydock, she will re-enter service within two weeks.

Winter fishing is going on at Prince Rupert with more than ordinary briskness just now. Black cod, red cod, herring and other varieties, all good and wholesome fare, keep being received in quantity. With more consumers than ever and lots of activity in the city, the winter disposal of catches, right out of the ocean is much more substantial. Jimmy Bacon, ranking among Rupert's originals in the fishing line, says there is plenty doing.

Construction of the huge aluminum plant in northern British Columbia looms large in the news these days and the expenditure of millions upon millions is lifeblood to the transportation, construction and engineering industries of the province. Thought is also being given to the importance which the new industry may hold for shipbuilding on this coast, both large ships and small—Capt. Kettle.

There's quite a stroke of naval ship building going on at North Vancouver, the vessels being four destroyer escorts for the Royal Canadian Navy. Each will cost eight million dollars. They are reported to be the most modern of their type in the world; they are being built by the Burrard Drydock Company. The ships are part of a fourteen vessel order placed throughout the Dominion.

What is known as the world's largest herring packer is the Veta C on this coast. Her skipper is Charlie Clark, who started in business as a cannery storekeeper in Alberni Canada in 1919. The Veta C is a good deal more than a herring packer. She can handle anything up to a Davis raft, take care of freight up to 800 tons and is useful as a deep sea tug.

According to the Fish and Wild Life Service of the United States Department of the Interior, there are some seventy fishermen's co-operatives in seventeen states as well as in Alaska. All told they handle more than a billion pounds of fish annually. This has a value of about sixty million dollars.

Japan's economy, today, depends largely on her shipping capacity. The fleet is only 25 percent of pre-war size. Future economic development hinges on rehabilitation of the merchant marine. Quality of the merchant marine is little more than ten percent for cargo ships of the war period are becoming unfit. They will soon be too old.

Skidegate local members, says the fishermen oppose proposed changes in fishery regulations which would set a 28-inch minimum for spring salmon and set a July 1 opening date for coho in all areas except the Gulf. They felt it would cut earnings, affecting both gillnetters and trollers. There is to be a meeting held tomorrow at Skidegate when the subject will be further discussed.

While fish eating in Prince Rupert may perhaps not be on a large scale, regarded from some standpoints, it is nevertheless a fact that thousands of local folk enjoy sea food. There are those who came here and, learning to become regular and appreciative consumers as well as seadogs from other coasts who had shared in it since childhood.

Here, the culinary standbys may be said to include halibut and salmon (preferably fresh) yet excellent at all seasons. The variety of catches would be greater were all marketable, or could, to advantage, be shipped long distances. Haddies, herring, crabs, clams, black cod, other kinds of cod, shrimps, white fish from the cold lakes of the great northwest, goldeye from the winding Saskatchewan—and even Digby chicken from way down east, can always, somewhere, sometime find a "fish ahoy."

There is to be a float extension at Dodge Cove, Digby Island, with the tenders to close Wednesday, February 27. Dodge Cove, established not so many years, is situated handy to the city, being just across from the end of the townsite and convenient to the harbor entrance. It is a progressive community, with a lot of fishing and boat building going on.

FIRST FRENCH SHIP

The French freighter Jean L. D. which loaded with wheat from Prince Rupert for delivery in Japan must be well out on the Pacific by today. Over the past forty years and even allowing for the occasional disadvantages inseparable from pioneering on sea as well as land, deep water callings here have been fairly frequent.

But not once before did a ship from France come this way until the tricolor was seen a week ago.

Yet, first of all the world's shipping, the little windjammers from Normandy sailed the gulf and into the majestic river that became known as the St. Lawrence. Cartier, the first white man Indians had seen, cruised along her shores and, long after this, Champlain, the explorer, came to spend the rest of a useful and a daring life. He died on a Christmas Day in Quebec. For centuries, or at least until the conquest, Canadian waters were sailed by all kinds of boats, from warships and merchantmen, down to small craft and canoes.

With practically no highways, the labyrinths of lakes and streams—great and small—provided whatever transportation there was. This went far. These voyageurs and adventurers beheld the Great Lakes, and modest vessels were fashioned. Few lasted long. LaSalle wondered where the Mississippi led to. He found out by steering canoes the width of what became the United States. His visit foreshadowed the founding of New Orleans.

On her weekly voyage, Union steamer Chilcotin, Capt. William McCombe, arrived in port at 9 o'clock last night from Vancouver and waypoints, sailing early this morning for Masset Inlet points on the Queen Charlotte Islands whence she will return here tomorrow evening to sail south at 8 p.m.

The Union coast freighter Chilliwack, Capt. Garfield Penney, southbound from Alice Arm and Stewart with ore cargo for Vancouver, was in port from 9 o'clock yesterday morning to 1 p.m. The vessel had on board 170 tons of ore from Torbrit mine and 370 tons from Silbak.

Famous History Picture Showing

"Bonnie Prince Charles"
Coming to Capitol-Next Week

The exciting story in British history of the uprising of 1745 is depicted in the film "Bonnie Prince Charles" which comes to the Capitol Theatre here next Monday and Tuesday.

David Niven plays the part of the dashing prince with Margaret Leighton co-starring as Flora MacDonald. Photographed in Technicolor on the very sites where the historic events took place are depicted the landing of Charles in his one ship and seven trusty followers supporting him with a view to regaining the throne for the House of Stuart which had been deposed fifty years before. Sequence in which the Prince summons the Highland clans down the hillsides and through the glens to the stirring strains of the bagpipes to his support are filmed with enthralling reality. Niven excels in the famous address of the Prince to the assembled clans.

"Pick-Up" Drama Off Usual Track

Off the beaten track with uncompromising reality is "Pick-up," story of a "come-on" girl and a middle-aged railroadman, which is coming to the Totem Theatre here on Monday and Tuesday.

The railroadman comes to town to pick up a puppy as company for his lonely vigils but, instead, he picks up a girl. From this sequence of events, the film goes on to describe a drama of marriage and murder with gripping intensity, making it what is said to be one of the most provocative films to come out of Hollywood in some time.

Beverly Michaels plays the part of the come-on girl; Hugo Haas, the railroadman; Allan Nixon, the other man in the case, and Howland Chamberlain, a philosophical tramp.

Uncompromising reality and frankness is said to feature the film.

Premier. Southbound from here, the Chilliwack is calling at Kemano Bay to load a lift and at Alert Bay to take on fish oil for Vancouver.

Also in port yesterday afternoon from 1 to 3:40 p.m. was the Canadian Pacific Railway freighter Yukon, Capt. B. Field, which came from a regularly scheduled voyage to Skagway and other Alaska points. The Yukon Princess goes south via Port Alice on the west coast of Vancouver Island where she is to load fifteen carloads of pulp.

Frank Waterhouse freighter Cassiar, Capt. William Gleeson, which runs opposite the Yukon Princess on the Alaska service, is due in port tomorrow northbound from Vancouver.
