Bank Credit Curbs Removed Volume Is Pinned To Ceiling

Little Effect Here Say Local Bankers

All special bank credit restrictions, with the exception of loans on stocks, have been eliminated.

The Bank of Canada announced at Ottawa Monday that it is informing all chartered banks that special policies on credit restraint, imposed for 15 months, now are suspended.

While Prince Rupert bankers have not yet received any instructions concerning this latest move, a spokesman at one bank said this morning the lifting of such restrictions "will not greatly affect this city."

Policies on loans from chartered banks have always been stringent but the new order lifting all restrictions imposed by the Bank of Canada to prevent inflation does not necessarily mean it will be easier for a person to obtain a loan.

"It does mean though," said a bank spokesman, "that restrictions on the time loans must be paid back can, at the bank's discretion, be extended past the 12-month period which has been in effect."

The Bank of Canada announcement said restrictions on loans with corporation stock as collateral remain unchanged. It gave no explanation of this move. A person may borrow up to 50 per cent of the value of his stock.

But special curbs on all other types of loans are completely removed.

These include bans on large capital loans running for a year or more and on purchase by banks of corporate securities, which have one year or more to run before they come due.

The lid has also been taken off on the volume of loans with instalment finance paper as collateral. Margins have been increased and volume pinned to the ceiling.

Instalment finance paper includes promissory notes and notes signed when you buy things on the instalment plan.

A storekeeper or a finance corporation now can take these notes to banks and get loans on them in order to continue operations.

Civil Service Employees to Vote on 'Deal'

VICTORIA — A spokesman for more than 10,000 provincial civil servants said Monday the government has offered them a $2,200,000 "package deal."

A delegation of the executive of B.C. Government Employees' Association met with Attorney-General Gordon Wismer and members of the cabinet Monday.

The spokesman said various local branches will vote on the offer.

Offer includes a five per cent wage increase, incorporation of the cost of living bonus into the wage structure and elimination of salary anomalies.

Elimination of salary anomalies, of civil service jobs paying less than the same jobs elsewhere, will cost the government an estimated $300,000, the spokesman said.

Not incorporated in the offer is the Association's demand for a five-day, 40-hour week. Demand is to be held in abeyance.

Watchman Found Dead

William MacKenzie, 76-year-old pioneer Prince Rupert resident, was found dead at the city asphalt plant early today.

He is believed to have died of natural causes.

The body was found by William Moorhouse, city mechanic, when he reported for work. Mr. MacKenzie had been night watchman at the plant since May 6.

Coroner Don Forward, called to the scene, said Mr. MacKenzie was visited at the plant last night by his son, Murdoch, who left sometime after 10 p.m.

Mr. MacKenzie's lunch was not touched. He usually ate at 1 a.m. A blacksmith here for many years until his retirement 15 years ago, Mr. MacKenzie was born at Drummond, Scotland, and came to Prince Rupert in 1909.

Besides his son, he leaves his wife at 1237 Eleventh Avenue East. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Sunny Skies Prevail In North Region

Sunny skies prevailed over the Pacific Northwest today and the same kind of weather is expected to continue.

There's no rain in sight for this part of the province, says the weatherman, adding that moderately heavy rains fell in southern B.C. Monday.

The Dominion government weather office reported about half an inch of rain fell in the lower Fraser Valley, Pentteton was drenched with almost an inch and several points in the East Kootenays reported half an inch.

Forecast is for clearing skies in the south tonight, but a new Pacific storm, which is now 500 miles west of the weather ship, is expected to reach the coast tomorrow afternoon.

It is not expected to affect this region.

The mild, but not too warm weather, which has prevailed in the northern sections for the past fortnight, is helping prevent any rapid runoff in the Skeena River.

Youth's Body Recovered by Ski Patrol

SPIRIT LAKE, Wash. — Body of a 20-year-old University of Washington sophomore has been recovered from a crevice near Summit Mountain.

Ski patrolmen Monday brought out the broken body of Arthur Jessett, 20, who fell through an ice "bridge" at the 8,000-foot level last Sunday.

A physician in the party said the boy died sometime Sunday night while rescuers were trying to reach him.

His father, Episcopal clergyman, met the sad, silent party of eight patrolmen as they neared base search headquarters at this western Cascade Mountain lake.

Reverently, tenderly, he read last rites of the church over his son.

Former successful operator of a taxi business here a parks commissioner and prominent member of the Elks in Prince Rupert, Mr. Murray thanked the group for their support.

The meeting, which progressed more along the lines of a discussion group, also named F. M. Munson, chairman, and Edward Mussellam, secretary. These two men also will act as campaign managers for Mr. Murray.

Of the remaining seven, only five are on the voters' list, so they were appointed an executive committee. The five are: Mrs. Emma Munson, Ernest Carlson, Joseph F. Skapsky, Bert Reeves and his father, Charles Reeves.

Mr. Murray, in a brief talk to the group said: "We won't select a committee room until a week or so before the election. This will be more of a local campaign because we haven't time to familiarize the people here with the Social Credit movement."

"It's very difficult to find our friends," said the well-known sports promoter and businessman as he criticized "Vancouver officials" for "telling us to hurry and get a candidate."

He scored organizers in Vancouver also for failure to send a qualified representative here to explain the program of the B.C. Social Credit League.

"Just because Prince George has 2500 members, they expect us to jump right in and get a top organization up in a minute."

"We're isolated here and it just means everyone will be working among themselves," said the candidate, fourth in the running now for the Prince Rupert seat, held in the last legislature by J. D. (Jack) McRae, Liberal, who is seeking re-election.

Other candidates are Thomas H. Christie, Progressive Conservative, and George Hills, CCF nominee.

Official nominations close on Thursday.

Liberal party organizers today will welcome B.C.'s Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer, who will address a meeting in the Civic Centre tonight.

Newsprint Costs Upped By Some

TORONTO (CP)—Ten-dollar-a-ton increase in the price of newsprint to United States users, effective June 15, will be put into effect by at least some Canadian producers.

Increase does not apply to Canada.

But, he told Canadian Legion's national convention, Canada and her allies intend by 1954 to be in a position to guarantee peace. After that, he said cautiously, the defence bill should go down.

Army had nearly quadrupled its hitting power since Korea, and the air force had boosted its fighter strength by more than 50 per cent.

In effect, the minister rejected Legion's anticipated bid for conscription by predicting that Canada will meet targets of her three-year defence program on schedule, and say there will be enough to protect Canada and to lay the groundwork for swift wartime mobilization.

Veterans' unemployment sparked a sharp debate at the opening session Monday. It was charged the CNR had shown veterans little consideration and resolutions introduced declared immigrants and displayed persons were being brought to Canada to take jobs veterans should have.

Later, reference to the CNR was deleted from adopted resolution.

DICTATOR'S WIFE TREATED IN CANADA BY NEW, RARE METHOD

TORONTO — The Telegram says today that Eva Peron, first lady of Argentina, was treated with a cobalt bomb three weeks ago at Victoria hospital in London, Ont.

It says the wife of dictator Juan Peron was flown to Ontario under "tightest of security cloaks."

The paper's front page story, a dispatch from London, said there was no indication or even a hint of the nature of Senora Peron's ailment.

However, radiation from the cobalt bomb is usually treatment for cancer.

Fewer than a dozen persons in Canada knew of the incident, the paper said.

"Shown wand and pale in recent new photographs, Eva Peron—most powerful woman politically in the western hemisphere—is one of few persons in the world to receive treatment from the Canadian-developed cobalt bomb."

Special Despatches

—The former commander of Canada's Korean Command Monday night that in the Communists have for a truce.

John (Rocky) Rockwood, who arrived back in Ottawa last Thursday, gave his first interview on Monday.

He also said he believes Communist forces in Korea are greatly strengthened by the new truce talks going on.

Rockwood is expected to further discuss about Canada's troops at conference. He will return to Ottawa for a couple of days before returning to Vancouver to take up his new job as director-general of training.

He was accompanied by newsmen at the airport while enroute home, Rockwood said one lesson learned during his 13 months in Korea was the need for "very close communications" between the army and the defence department to withstand the mass Communist attacks.

Rockwood said that mountain climbing and night fighting were part of Canada's army training program.

He said he is going to fight in the mountains and should have training in mountain climbing. Different muscles going to work in that tough terrain.

More Nuns Imprisoned By These Reds

—Two more Canadian Catholic nuns have been sentenced to prison in charges of causing disturbances, Catholic authorities announced here today.

Sister Raymond Marie (name Rose Alma Larose) of Quebec, and Sister Jean (family name Jean) of Quebec, Quebec.

Raymond was sentenced to two years in jail and Sister Jean to two years in jail at Kewichow.

They held a 10-day public hearing in which other "evidence" from the trial was presented, rigged to show a life of hardship and while nuns lived in ease.

The charges included half-dead and broken dishes given to the infants.

General Boatner settled both with persuasion and firmness.

General James Van Fleet, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, said the Pusan outbreak resulted from an "attempt by fanatical Communist prisoners of war to resist proper medical treatment."

Applewhite Jumps Sacred Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons Monday night defeated by a vote of 92 to 42 opposition a motion requesting a judicial inquiry into the defence organization of the defence department with particular reference to thefts, frauds and fires at defence establishments.

The motion was moved by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

CCF and Social Credit parties joined with the official opposition in supporting the motion.

J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) joined the government in opposing the motion.

The opposition leader, saying a judicial inquiry was necessary because of continuing reports of thefts and frauds, suggested a complete breakdown of administrative supervision within the defence department.

The formal motion was in effect a motion of want of confidence in the government.

Investigating body, Mr. Drew said, should have all the powers of a Royal Commission under the Inquiries Act and should make findings and recommendations to parliament.

The motion was immediately rejected by the Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of defence, on behalf of the government.

Solon Low, leader of the Social Credit group, saying he would support the motion denied statements by Edward Applewhite (L. Skeena) that if there was any "lack of confidence" in the public mind, it had been planted there by the opposition—charges that were not backed by facts.

Mr. Low said it was the duty of members of Parliament to ask questions when irregularities came to light.

Big City Hotel Workers Take Strike Vote

VANCOUVER — Hotel Vancouver's 500 employees will take a strike vote today to back up a conciliation board's pay recommendations.

The workers, members of Canadian Brotherhood Railway Employees, voted to accept the report at a recent meeting.

Recommendations are for a 40-hour and five-day week, the right to bargain over outstanding inequalities in the wage schedule, and a 5.51 per cent wage boost.

Strike action, if necessary, will be co-ordinated with that of Victoria's Empress Hotel employees and workers will revert to their original demands for a 40-hour week and 20-cent hourly wage boost, local CBRS chairman Norman Lantz said.

General Boatner settled both with persuasion and firmness.

General James Van Fleet, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, said the Pusan outbreak resulted from an "attempt by fanatical Communist prisoners of war to resist proper medical treatment."

WOUNDED CAMERAMAN — John Carson Foster, 24, of Ottawa, a National Film Board cameraman serving in Korea, was shot and wounded by a Canadian soldier in what the Army described as an accidental shooting. The wound, in the left thigh, was not considered serious. Foster had been working on a film about Canada's 25th Brigade. (CP from National Film Board)

Riots Anew Among Red Prisoners

PUSAN — Communist war-prisoner rioting spread to the Pusan camp today and started in two new, but minor, revolts at violence-ridden Kojé Island camp No. 1.

One Red prisoner was killed and 85 were injured at Pusan. Minor injuries were suffered by one U.S. guard in a 2½-hour battle with clubs and fists.

No shots were fired by United Nations guards although they were armed at Kojé. The revolts were mild and settled without incident by the new camp commander, Brig.-Gen. Haydon Boatner.

One of the new Kojé flare-ups involved 400 women prisoners and civilian internees held on the island 30 miles southwest of Pusan.

The other was a sit-down strike by prisoner inmates of the UN command hospital and their prisoner doctors.

General Boatner settled both with persuasion and firmness.

General James Van Fleet, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, said the Pusan outbreak resulted from an "attempt by fanatical Communist prisoners of war to resist proper medical treatment."

Fixing the Blame

ILLITERACY among undergraduate students has caused something close to national alarm since the University of Toronto report was made last year baring the inadequate training of those entering university. While some persuasive denials have been presented, the prevailing idea now seems to be not to argue the case but to fix the blame.

In an effort to clear the air, Saturday Night magazine has asked Dr. Norman A. Mackenzie, president of the University of British Columbia and a member of the late Massey commission, for the benefit of his experience and opinion.

Dr. Mackenzie's reply provokes thought in that it takes some of the load off our schools and places it on a society which makes it possible to live comfortably with a minimum of effort. Speaking of young people today, Dr. Mackenzie says:

"On the economic level their fathers and mothers feed, clothe and house them on a scale which was unknown in the past and does not exist on any other continent in the world. Motor cars are usually at their disposal as soon as they are old enough to drive. Music and drama and all kinds of entertainment in the form of radio, movies and television are immediately available whenever they press a button or turn a switch. Information of a limited but, for their purposes, adequate kind can be obtained in the illustrated magazines and publications, the newspaper headlines, the comic section and the sports pages."

All of this, Dr. Mackenzie believes, had made it difficult to persuade modern youth that the more serious and tedious subjects of study are necessary or important. At the same time, he feels that our young people are more alert, in better physical condition and more aware of the world they live in than any preceding generation.

It appears to us that Dr. Mackenzie has strong justification in spreading responsibility beyond our educational system. Parents, in particular, seem to have escaped their share of it. They are in a better position than anyone else to create an incentive for learning in their children and, given the incentive, the young student will in one way or another find the knowledge.

LOOKING FAR AHEAD

In England, Sunday, the memory of Captain Vancouver was honored, the occasion being the 154th anniversary of his death. He had preserved for British domains, it was so fittingly said, Canada's Pacific shores. Vancouver knew his onions. Spain, the United States and Russia all felt interested in the west coast. So did the English skipper.

Paul Miskolci, nine years a resident, died Sunday with such suddenness that chance observers seemed unable to determine how near death was. Incidents like this have occurred before. A collapse on the street can, and frequently does, mean the end. Instant action of some sort never comes amiss.

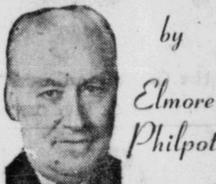

Once, conversation was a fine art, comments Professor George F. Buckley of the University of Western Ontario. Perhaps it still is, within strict limits, but there's a multitude who say conversation is today chiefly a series of interjections and interruptions.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

One Vote for Tilly

OTTAWA: I always have trouble finding old friends in the rooms of the House of Commons, for the lack of system in numbering is out of this world.

I had to get the genial Liberal, Mr. Applewhite, to help me find Howard Green's office. En route the Prince Rupert Liberal told me the story of how they got the haphazard numbering: They started out five men, each of whom had a bottle of whiskey to nourish him on the job of putting on the numbers.

The results look like it. But making the rounds I get a triple kick. For I suddenly realize I am one of the few people in this country who has actively campaigned to elect MP's from all three parties! Among these are staunch Tories like Howard Green and General Peakes; CCF members like Herridge, Jones and several from Saskatchewan; and quite a flock of Liberals.

In fact, when I look at the Speaker, Ross Macdonald, seated in his ceremonial robes, I think back to the 1930 days when he and I spoke together afoot on the market square of Brantford. And there, plum in the middle of the Liberal front bench is Mr. Howe. Till this week I had not seen him, to speak to for 17 years, when I flew all over his vast northern Ontario riding to help get him elected. He was a brand new arrival in politics then and I had no idea that he was destined to become the strong man and wheel-horse on the Liberal front benches.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, I had never flown in an airplane before I went north to campaign for the now Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, but I did not tell him that. However, we did not travel all the way by air. We made one long jump on the CNR.

We had just nicely got going when the brakeman came back and said to me: "Premier Aberhart is on this train and would like to see you if you would like to go up for a chat."

I went up and spent a couple of hours with him. In his drawing room were Mr. C. A. Bowman, then editor of the Ottawa Citizen, also Mr. Huggill, then Attorney General of Alberta. Mr. Bowman, though a Liberal, was a believer in Social Credit, and we talked about the spot that Mr. Aberhart was in in Alberta.

He gave me the distinct impression that the famous Major Douglas, who invented the Social Credit theory, had left him. Aberhart, holding the bag. Before the election in Alberta, he, Douglas, did not say clearly whether or not it was possible to attempt the experiment within the province.

Finally Mr. Aberhart blurted out something to this effect: "Either he did not have the secret to give us, or he would not do so."

MR. ABERHART was a deeply religious man, as is his successor, Mr. Manning. Both gave the province of Alberta good cautious, conservative government, after some very bad mistakes at the beginning.

Both Mr. Aberhart and Mr. Manning were also plagued from within by a vociferous anti-Jewish wing within their own party. The utterances of some of these were strongly reminiscent of the ravings of Hitler. But Manning had them cleared out of their position of power in the party's official newspaper. Some of them were purged clean out of the party altogether. Others were side-tracked into the federal field. But the anti-Semitic tinge is still there.

Recently in Trail, B.C., one Social Credit MP from Alberta declared that the Hon. Lester Pearson was a mere tool in the hands of the international Jews! This is the sort of slander that is a disgrace to Canada. It is one reason why I do not expect the Social Credit party to get very far in the B.C. election.

I AM SORRY that Social Credit ever came into B.C. for they have made the "confusion more confounded." We don't need as many parties as we now have—and the best thing that could happen for Canada would be to get politics back to a simple, sincere, two party system. But I guess I'm just a born contradiction. I get two votes in Point Grey, which is a two member riding. One of them is going to Tilly Rolston, even though I hear she will wear the Social Credit tag, which I don't think will get far in B.C.

Newsmen Attend 'Parliamentary' Divorces

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA—A peep at parliamentary divorce actions at long last has been provided members of the Press Gallery.

The consensus: Divorce appears to be quick and apparently painless.

A group of reporters yesterday was allowed to attend sessions of the Senate divorce committee where actions are instituted.

The idea was to give newspaper men a view of how things work. They were asked not to name individuals.

So far as could be learned it was the first time others than members of parliament, participants and officials have been permitted to witness these actions.

Since Confederation in 1867 parliament has been the source of divorce for provinces lacking their own facilities. About 5000 couples have been separated by this method. The current rate is between 200 and 300 yearly. There was one in 1868. Adultery is the only ground.

Nowadays only Quebec and Newfoundland lack divorce courts. Most of the petitions originate in Montreal and wives lead by 2 to 1.

It all starts when a petitioner asks passage of a private bill dissolving his marriage. By common consent years ago the task of initiating the bills fell to the Senate which decided that evidence would be heard by a standing committee of not fewer than nine senators and not more than 20.

After the committee approves a divorce a bill is passed without question in the Senate proper and the House of Commons usually takes similar action without studying the evidence or questioning it. The bills do not become law until given royal assent by the governor-general.

This procedure has engendered considerable criticism among private members who believe divorce is something for the courts alone. Many think they should examine the evidence, if not the witnesses.

Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre, recently introduced a bill in the Commons aimed at transferring the divorce job to the Exchequer Court of Canada. It was defeated on almost a straight vote the government supporters voting against it, the groups in opposition supporting it.

Mr. Knowles says he will continue his fight to remove divorce from the jurisdiction of parliament. He plans to introduce a similar motion at the next session unless he or someone else thinks up a better plan.

The reporters listened to actions in three cases yesterday with two sections of the committee sitting. The three cases occupied the two sections about an hour. All were from Montreal; all virtually identical in detail.

The petitioners were all women. They were represented by gowned lawyers and the proceedings were exactly as in ordinary courts of law.

The petitioners presented their statements, led by their counsel, and submitted to occasional questions from the committee. They told almost identical stories of trouble with their spouses, of being left alone, of having special investigators shadow their spouses, of the evidence of adultery discovered in hotel or other premises, and of their complete innocence of any collusion or conniving with spouses in order to get the divorce.

The petitioner in each case was supported by evidence of two private investigators who uncovered the adultery. In two actions the set of investigators appeared themselves that it was unlikely to suffer from the divorce is granted later. Sometimes they petitioned about the possibility of reconciliation if the seems to indicate that power to rule as to the property but does not (Continued on page 3)

Grand Trunk Revenue Drops

Special to the Daily News

DETROIT.—Revenues on the Grand Trunk Western Railroad are on the decline.

Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the road, said the railway is feeling the curtailment that has taken place in the production of automobiles for civilian use and decreases in freight traffic.

In common with other carriers, he said, the GTW has to meet heavy increases in wages, material costs and other operating expenses.

He announced, however, in spite of the blue side of the picture, that new rolling stock including five diesel switch engines to the value of $15,000,000 is now on order and delivery is expected this year. Next year, he added, new equipment includes new air-conditioned coaches.

Bevy of Beauties Enjoy Visit to 'Friendly City'

A "bevy of beauties" sat down to dinner last night as guests of Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and promised to say "a lot of good things" about this city when they return to Vancouver.

The nine women—seven of them University students on summer employment—have been travelling for 10 days seeing the sights of B.C.

They are personnel of the Vancouver Tourist Association, on a five-week, 7,000-mile tour of the province and northwestern USA.

With the nine women, travel two men. In charge of the party is M. J. (Mike) McCormick, publicity commissioner. Public relations officer is Peter Spring.

Mayor Harold Whalen, who welcomed the travelling group after dinner, said he had not been aware he was to face "such a bevy of beauties."

Mr. McCormick asked for co-operation from the Chamber of Commerce to "keep visitors staying another day."

"The visitor industry helps everyone in this province. From the gasoline tax tourists pay we derive a good portion of our roads. The industry will help you to get a black-topped highway from here to Lac la Hache."

T. Norton Youngs, Chamber president, said that although Prince Rupert may not be a great tourist centre, "it certainly is a place with a great industrial future. It cannot miss with such a large development as Kitimat and Kemano only a few hours away."

Mr. McCormick explained that his group was noting carefully the attractions each centre offered.

"The trip from Prince George to Prince Rupert is the most scenic we have ever seen."

"Union Steamships, Canadian National and Pacific Steamships and the railways should get together to sell a circle tour of this area."

"It is terrific, and we could sell it in Vancouver without any trouble."

In Prince George, where the group boarded the westbound train, several people had been "horrified" at the prospects of the train ride in store for the travellers.

"Dear, dear—why, you'll all die before you get there," Prince George citizens said.

"We thought it was the finest trip we have had to date," Mr. McCormick said.

He gave examples of how the tourist industry reduces provincial taxes. Visitors had purchased more than $63,000,000 worth of goods in the province last year.

"They have paid a good portion of your Social Security tax which otherwise might now be four percent."

"And each additional day tourists remain in B.C., the more money they spend, the more they help us with roads, hospitals and schools."

"Our motto is 'stay another day'—Prince Rupert, the friendly city, should find ways and means to induce visitors to stay one more day." He said that of all US visitors in B.C. last year, 85 percent only stayed 48 hours, or less, spending an average of $2.50 each for man, woman and child.

"We want to increase their stay."

Some of the work the girls on this trip would be doing, he said, would be to personally contact Americans at their own large gatherings in northwestern cities.

Personal contact, he said, "is far more effective than advertising in American newspapers—and it is less costly."

Members of the touring group include Misses Pat Babcock, Pat Taylor, Rene Miles, Anne Chalenger, Helen Welch and Arden Murray. Miss Odette Stone is private secretary to Mr. McCormick; Mrs. Margaret Jones is touring chaperone, and Miss Nora Thick accompanies the group on behalf of Shell Oil tourist department.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Overbidding Is Fine but Not Overplaying

Mr. Abel had a good hand, enough in high cards for a takeout double. But Miss Brash had bid one of his suits and he had no wish to force his partner to bid the probable two diamonds. He therefore decided to bid his time.

Mr. Abel led a trump which was taken on the board with the nine. Dummy's lone spade was led and Mr. Muzzy, who was watching the hand, winced. "She's lost it," he told another kibitzer in a loud whisper. "She should have come to her ace of hearts, back to dummy with a trump and thrown her club on the king of hearts."

Rainmaker Discloses New Method

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Dr. Irving Langmuir, Nobel prize winning scientist, says he has created a country-wide pattern of weekly rainfall by seeding clouds with silver iodide.

By creating rainfall in the Southwest, Dr. Langmuir said in a copyrighted story published in the Tucson Daily Citizen yesterday, he changed the rainfall pattern over the entire country.

The experiments had put the success of cloud-seeding beyond "valid doubt."

Dr. Langmuir, associate director of the General Electric research laboratory, is evaluating the results of a 21-month project which he said was sponsored by the Army, Navy and Air Force. His full report is to be completed next September.

Dr. Langmuir said in an interview with The Citizen that the project was set up to determine the value of cloud-seeding.

"Most of the persons who doubted the worth of seeding clouds with silver iodide asked the same question: 'How do you know it wouldn't have rained anyway?'"

"To dispose of that argument once and for all we set out to establish a pattern of rainfall that could be measured across the United States."

A check was started of weather bureau records for as long as they have existed. Dr. Langmuir said in all the recorded history of weather no similar pattern could be found.

Dr. Langmuir said he and a group of scientists found that when they had seeded the New Mexico air on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday it had rained in the east on Friday, Saturday and Sunday—the lapse being the time it took for the seeded air to move across the country.

Dr. Langmuir won the Nobel prize for his work in chemistry in 1932.

BC Citizen Pays Homage To Vancouver

PETERSHAM, Surrey, Eng. (AP)—Britons and British Columbians on Sunday paid homage to Captain George Vancouver, British sailor who discovered Burrard Inlet, site of the city of Vancouver.

Memorial service was held in the churchyard of St. Peter's Church here where Captain Vancouver is buried, on the 154th anniversary of his death. Among those attending were H. R. MacMillan, prominent Vancouver lumberman; W. A. MacAdam, agent-general for British Columbia in London, and Rev. Harold Whitehead, vicar of St. Joseph's parish in Vancouver for 27 years.

Train Derails In Michigan

SAWYER, Michigan (AP)—Railroad wrecking crews moved into a small southern Michigan community today to clear 59 cars of the Chesapeake and Ohio freight train derailment.

There had been a collision with a pickup truck. Freight cars were scattered over half a mile section of the railroad right of way.

Cars were piled six high in the downtown area of the community of 150 persons located in South Benton Harbor, Mich.

Police report no persons killed. Three teen-agers, passengers in the truck, were critically injured.

"Quiet! Not so much talking," yelled (of all people) Mr. Champion.

Incidentally, if Miss Brash had followed Mr. Muzzy's plan, she never would have made her contract. She played the jack of spades from her hand at trick two and Mr. Abel won with the queen and returned the queen of hearts.

Miss Brash won and ruffed a spade. Now, finally she got rid of her club on the king of hearts. She got back to her hand by ruffing a heart and ruffed another spade in dummy.

This left Mr. Abel with just one spade, the ace. And Miss Brash didn't make the mistake of trying to ruff that out, too. She may overbid her cards, but she doesn't often "overplay" them. She was trying to make five-odd, not six.

She led dummy's last diamond and overtook it. She took out Mr. Champion's last trump, then conceded a spade trick. The rest of her hand consisted of a trump and good spades.

Maglie Pitches Tenth Winner—Can't Lose

American: Boston 3, Detroit 2.
National: Pittsburgh 0, New York 4; St. Louis-Philadelphia, rain; Chicago 1, Brooklyn 1.

NEW YORK (CP)—Sal (The Barber) Maglie pitched New York Giants into a tie for the National League lead with Brooklyn Dodgers Monday with an effortless 4-0 victory over forlorn Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dodgers played a 1-1 tie with Chicago Cubs when their Ebbets Field game was called in the ninth inning because of rain. The game will be replayed later, but all scores will go into official averages.

Maglie began to look as if he never will be beaten. It was his seventh victory in a year without a defeat and tenth in a row over a two-year span.

Maglie broke up a good pitching duel between Brooks' young Loes and Turk Lown, of

Willie Mays May Stay, Giants Sigh Relieved

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants have breathed a sigh of relief. Willie Mays will be around for a few more days. But it is only a question of time when that time comes it'll be a day the Giants may remember.

The feeling here is that the Giants, with Willie playing centerfield every day, would slowly but steadily increase their lead over the National League and finally win their second straight season. With the 21-year-old Negro playing for Uncle Sam, they might find themselves battling Brooklyn right down to the wire again. Especially if the Dodgers get pitcher Newcombe back from the injury, as now appears more than likely.

The feeling about Willie's importance to Leo Durocher's club probably requires some explanation because the Alabama Kid is hitting only .214, from far down in the batting order. Few clubs could afford to carry an outfielder with such an anaemic average.

But Willie is different. Even if he were not known for certain that he would add about 100 points to his present mark by the season ends the Giants would be more than ready to go along with a boy who might just possibly be the best fielding centerfielder in the game. Leo never looked on him when he went down for his first 21 times up after returning from Minneapolis last season.

Mays has been covering the entire expanse of centerfield for the Giants. When either of the other two outfielders is out, Mays generally has had to yell for the ball.

Mays were not privileged to see Tris Speaker at his best. The Grey Eagle must have had something, but it is difficult to imagine his having gone farther or having made any more sensational than Mays credited to Willie in less than a year of big league play. Mays writers say Mays' catches and throws already have saved him three games this season.

As to the advent of Willie we will have settled for Terry Popham of the championship St. Louis Cardinals as the National League pitcher who could go the farthest and catch the mostest. Now Mays would have to take Willie. Mays can throw like the old days never could. He can field like a throw with Joe DiMaggio, though he probably never had a hit with the Clipper.

So that is why we have a strong hunch the Giants are going to remember the day Mays dons khaki. Their pitchers are going to glance uneasily at centerfield when they are in trouble and wish they

"... the willingness to find a way"

A man who started a new business a few years ago recently wrote to pay tribute to the bank's part in helping to make it a success:

"We were fortunate in having, as our banker, a man who could combine with experience the willingness to find a way that called not for experience alone but for imagination as well."

The chartered banks are forever alert to the fresh problems, the changing needs of their customers. At all times, in all your banking problems, you can depend on your local bank to bring experience and imagination to the task of helping you to "find a way".

Seattle Fighter Outpoints Layne In Ten-Rounder

PORTLAND, Ore. (CP)—Clever Harry Matthews of Seattle Monday night counter-punched his way to a decisive 10-round decision over Rex Layne of Lewiston, Utah.

Matthews weighed 182½, Layne 198½. After the first round—when Layne rocked Matthews twice with lefts to the jaw—there was no doubt of the outcome, providing Matthews could stay away from bruising haymakers at the Utah mauler.

Decision of judges and Referee Ralph Gruman was unanimous.

New Coins in Honor Of Elizabeth II

LONDON (CP)—The first coins to be struck for the reign of Queen Elizabeth II will be important to numismatists the world over. They involve close studies of the coins minted for Queen Victoria and the first Queen Elizabeth.

After the Queen herself has made her decision, the Royal Mint advisory committee will give a final judgment on the designs, and the chairman of this committee is none other than the Queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Several British artists of established reputation in coin and metal work were asked to submit designs, and worked on plaster models of the Queen's portraits for coins and medals. Sketches for the reverse side of the coins are also being prepared.

The first coins prepared for Queen Victoria's reign were struck in 1839 and showed a bust of the Queen with the hair taken to the back of the head in a classic Grecian knot. Another coin struck later showed head and shoulders. In this Victoria wore the crown and her hair was in plaited loops around her ears, as she liked to wear it. Queen Elizabeth will also be shown with the crown on those coins struck for use overseas.

In the coinage of the first Queen Elizabeth, head and shoulders were usually shown, although some coins showed her enthroned in coronation robes. Nearly always, her elaborate dress and ruff were portrayed.

Canuck Soldiers, Germans Fight; Upset Police Car

HANNOVER (CP)—Three German policemen were reported injured in a series of week-end brawls between Canadian troops and German civilians. Spokesmen for the Canadian 27th Infantry Brigade said later there were no Canadian casualties, but only "a few black eyes."

German police reported later a small number of German civilians also received slight injuries in clashes. Police said fights started in Goethestrasse, Hannover's red light district Saturday, among about 60 to 70 Canadian soldiers in the front German inn.

Hannover police riot squad and Canadian military police appeared when numerous Germans joined in the melee.

German police charged with clubs when Canadians attacked them swinging belts. The German police report said:

A group of Canadians tried to turn over the German police radio car but the driver stood it off in time.

Strong German police forces and Canadian military police were called out a few hours later to quell another fight between about 60 Canadians and an equal number of Germans in Limberger Strasse, also in the city.

Education Minister Says Standard High

The B.C. Government has assisted in the construction of 2,000 classrooms in urban and rural districts of the province during the past five years.

Outlining the enormous increase in the cost of schooling, Education Minister W. T. Straith said Monday night "this province can boast of some of the finest schools in the country."

Making a Liberal Party policy address in the CBC free time political broadcast series, the minister outlined an advance made in education since he took over five years ago.

He told how a $5,000,000 building expansion program laid out for the University of B.C. actually became a $10,000,000 project because of increased registration and need for additional facilities.

Stating that a teaching-training course would be initiated at UBC next term, he said B.C. while not suffering any acute shortage of teachers, is attempting to keep abreast of the educational needs and the new course will be a great advantage.

Other new facilities established at UBC during the past five years include that of medicine and law.

Speaking of elementary schools, the minister noted that the government set aside $10,000,000 to match an equivalent amount by municipalities to build new schools.

"While the Social Security tax helps pay for education, costs are mounting daily," said Mr. Straith. He added that the Liberal platform pledges continuous expansion of facilities.

In a brief discussion on the standards of education in B.C., he said the school curriculum is constantly reviewed by his department and pointed out easing of financial burden on parents under the book-rental system now in effect.

He announced that four deputy ministers have been appointed to enquire into the difficulties in dealing with school finances. They are deputies in the departments of finance, municipalities, education and agriculture.

Of the movement of Canadian scholars to the United States, Mr. Straith said a survey shows that 90 per cent of UBC graduates now remain in Canada after graduation.

Victoria Open To Attack, Says Newspaper

VICTORIA (CP)—After assigning reporters as "saboteurs," the Daily Colonist decided today that five trained sabotage experts could, with two days' preparations, "leave the city and its defenses in smoking ruins."

The newspaper, in a front-page story which called Victoria "an open house to attackers," told of three reporters—none of whom used press connections—strolling into defence areas and placing simulated explosives. The story added:

"Had the explosives been real, they would have included timers had would detonate them all at the same moment."

"If the 'strike' had been duplicated by a handful of saboteurs in other cities across Canada, defences from Victoria to Halifax would have disappeared in flames at the same instant."

"Five o'clock was chosen for the explosions, to take full advantage of resulting panic."

"No air bombing would have been necessary."

"At 5 p.m. the city was technically without electric power, without water, without communications, and without much defence."

"Starting on Tuesday morning and working until 4 p.m. Wednesday, the 'saboteurs' placed 'explosives' in many naval and military establishments and six places on the main water supply, under all bridges, in main electrical sources, at every communication centre, in cable test pits, and in civil defence headquarters."

The story said in each case a "cover" story was rehearsed by the mock saboteurs and fictitious names used. And in most places nobody challenged the "saboteurs."

The story went on:

"A large percentage of the areas that are supposedly out of bounds to civilians were ridiculously easy to enter."

"In no case was a 'saboteur' caught or a cover story challenged."

Information was gained mostly by phone. Public utility offices handed out detailed information as to sources of power, power routes, water mains, and how the utilities were expended.

"One 'saboteur' was told how to knock out the city's electric supply with a .22 rifle."
