Sees Modern Submarine Most Dangerous Weapon

Chamber Hears New Publisher

John Magor Enthusiastic About Prospects of His New Home Town

John Magor, new publisher of the Daily News, told the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night that he had come to Prince Rupert not merely because he had the opportunity to buy a newspaper but because he believed this city had great possibilities. He was satisfied that there was a place which was to see substantial expansion.

"It is an exciting prospect for the job I am undertaking," he enthused.

Mr. Magor said he was very interested in Chamber of Commerce activities and its work for the public service. It was "tremendously important," he felt, to be taking a hand in the promotion of the interests and advancement of one's community—a democratic privilege and duty.

The new publisher emphasized the importance of co-operation and good relations at all times between such organizations as the Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking for the Daily News, Mr. Magor assured the efforts of himself and the whole staff to be co-operative in forwarding the good objectives of the Chamber. Suggestions would at all times be welcome.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of naval staff, said Monday that the modern submarine is a far more dangerous enemy than the U-boat "which so nearly brought about our downfall in the Second World War."

In an address to the Canadian Club here, Admiral Mainguy said: "If German rulers had realized how useful a weapon the submarine can be, they would have entered the war with more than sixty. If there is ever a third world war, I think it is only prudent to assume that Russian rulers are not going to make the same mistake."

Judge Extols Jury System

It is a privilege and duty of democratic citizenship to perform jury duty, a fundamental part of the British system of criminal law which has existed for hundreds of years, declared Mr. Justice Herbert S. Wood as he opened the spring session of the Supreme Court Assizes here yesterday.

The practice of citizens deciding on the guilt or innocence of their fellow citizens is a bulwark of individual freedom.

His Lordship quoted from Sir Patrick Hastings:

"The English jury is the foundation of English justice."

"An ordinary citizen may not know the law but he possesses a genius at reaching a decision. I have never known a jury to go wrong."

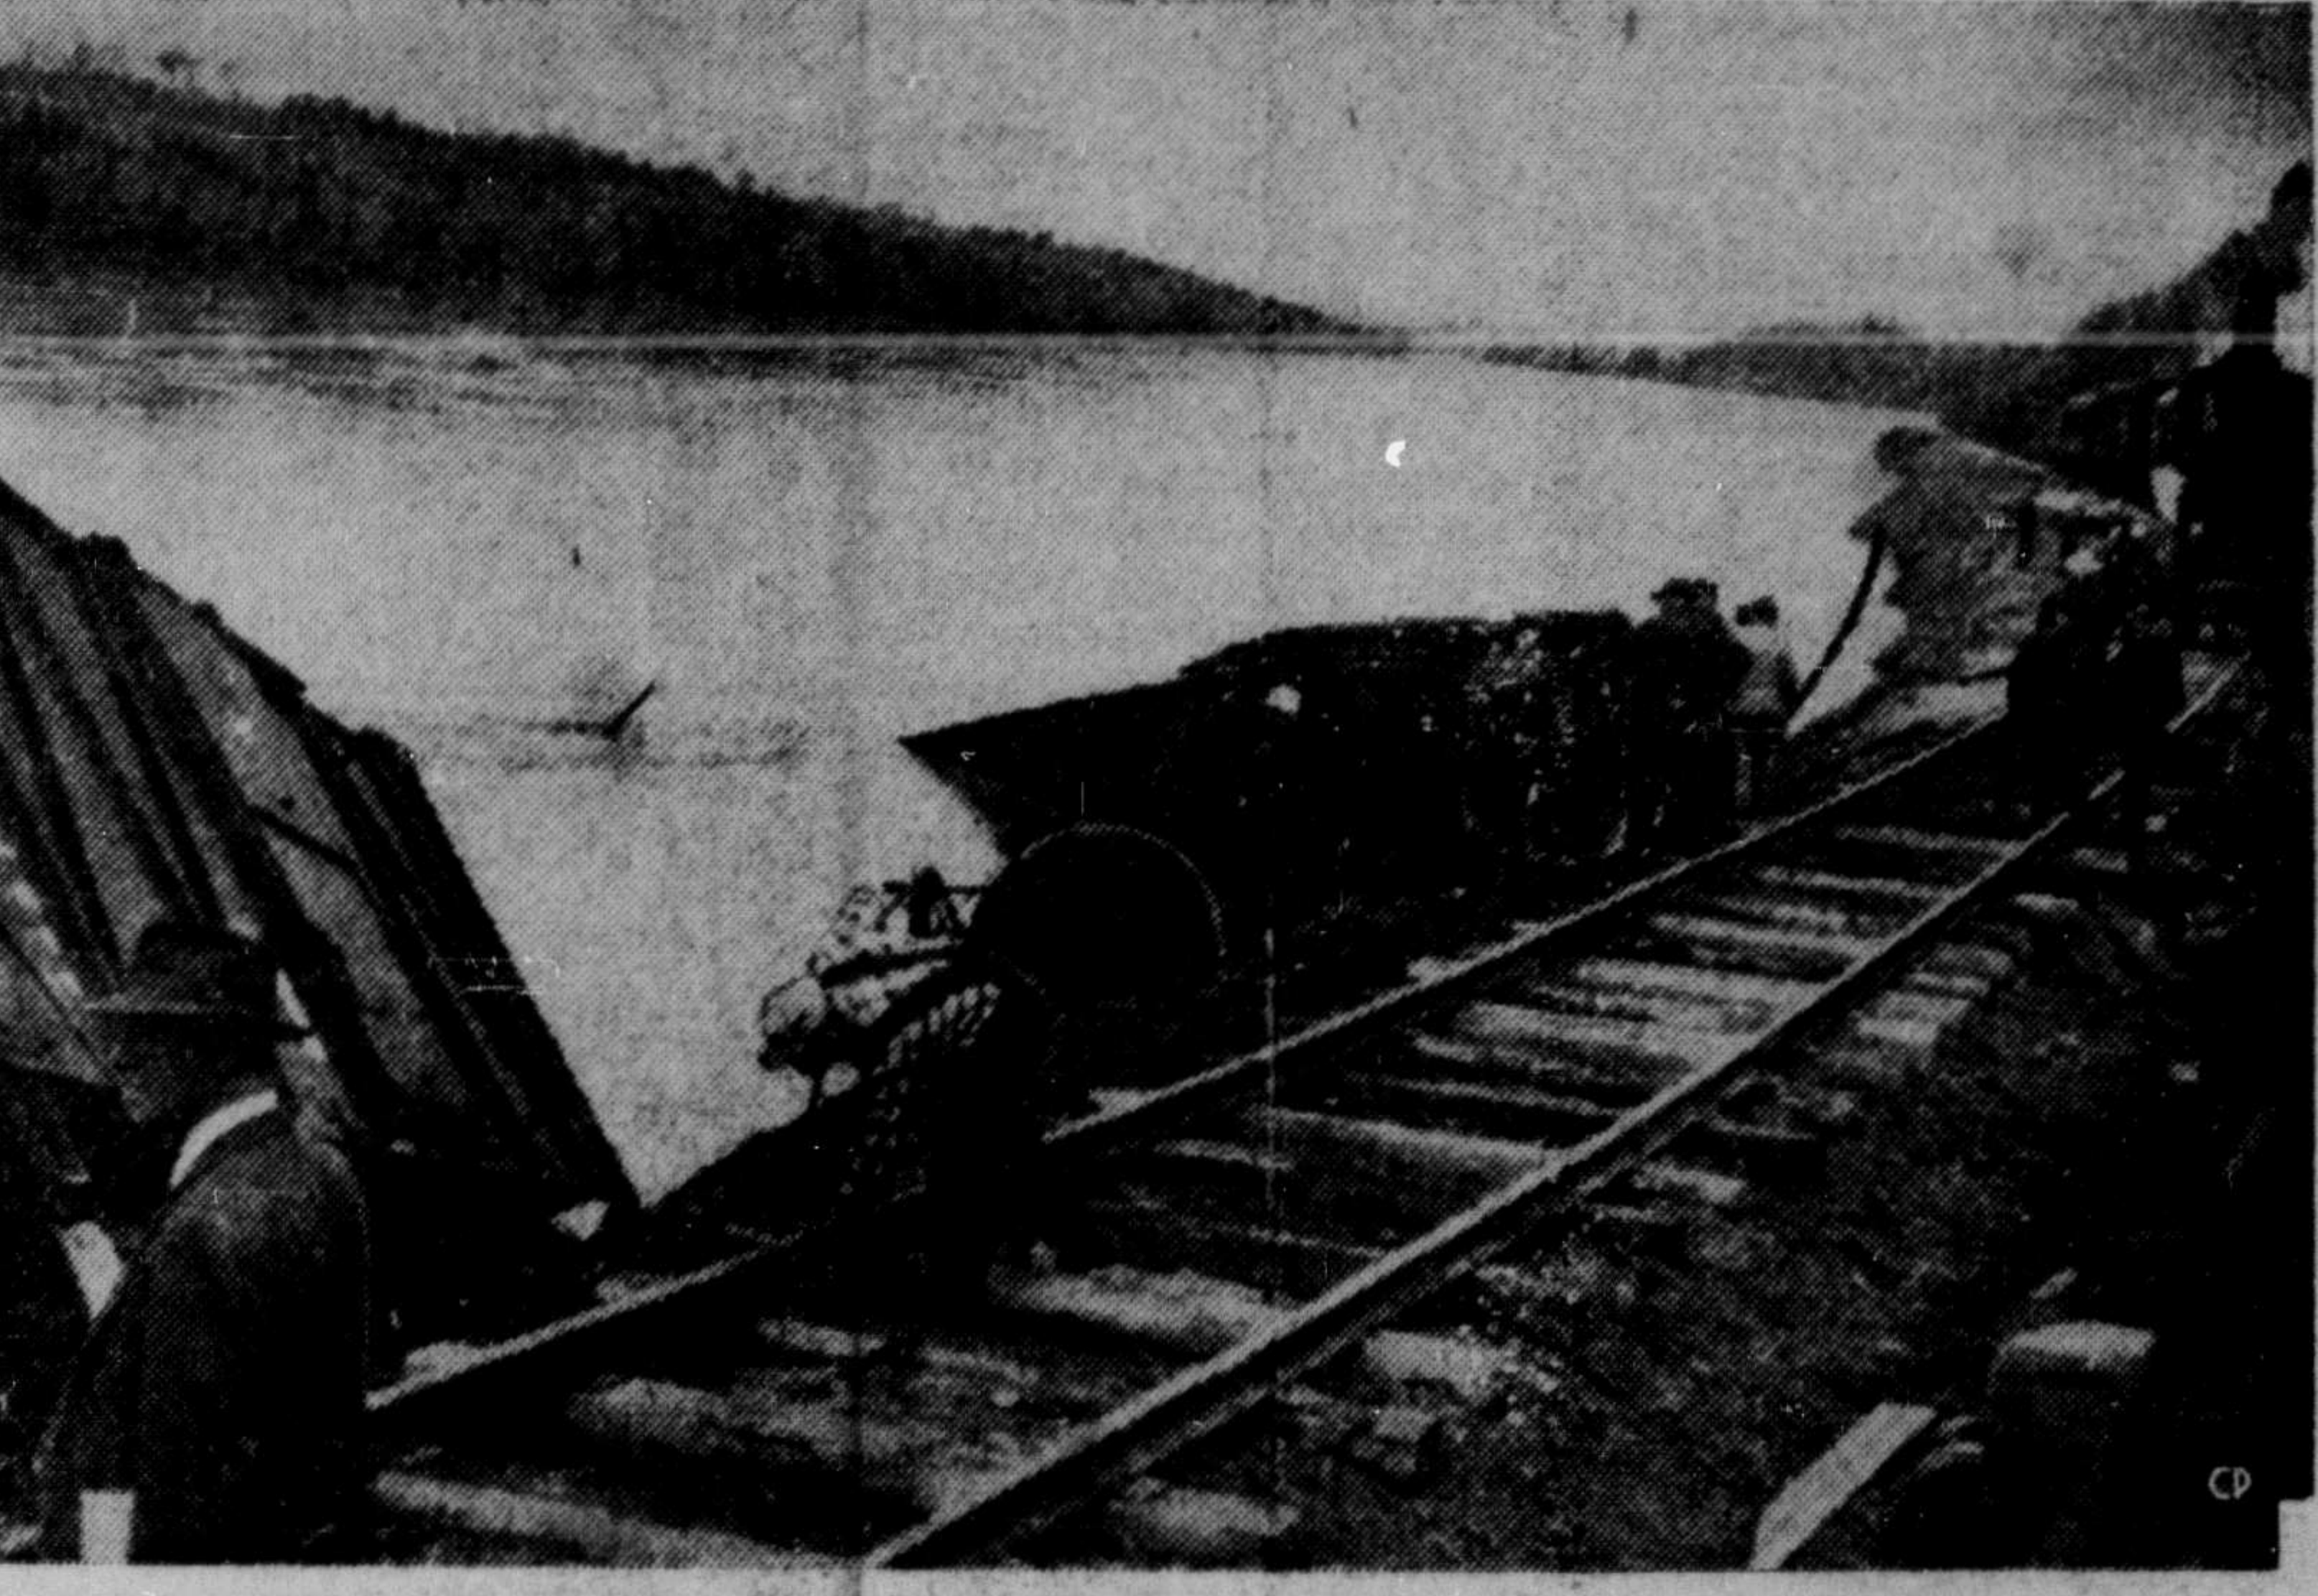

"Budding advocates might well undergo a course of jury duty as part of their training."

"A jury is a nation in miniature. It tends to stability in government and maintenance of free institutions."

"The law is not a code of sacred mystery but a living thing reflecting the habits and customs of free institutions."

During this assize, the jury would be called upon to consider a number of cases. His Lordship pointed out to the empanelled jurors. "It will be up to you to examine the evidence scrupulously. It is your duty to see the laws are obeyed. To search for the truth and arrive at a verdict accordingly was the jury's duty."

"In performing jury duty you are performing a high public service in the maintenance of justice."

Sixty Vessels Cross Old Occupation Line

TOKYO (Canadian Press)—Sixty Japanese fishing vessels Monday crossed the line in the North Pacific that marked the boundary of Japan's fishing grounds during the Allied occupation. They headed for the Aleutian area. The line faded out with the end of the occupation a week ago.

Kyodo News Agency correspondent, with the convoy, said the line was crossed more than 300 miles away from the Russian-held Kurile Islands, outside of Russian-claimed territorial waters.

Resolutions for Convention Urged

W. J. Scott, president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia, urged at last night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber that resolutions for the convention of the Associated Boards to be held in August should be under consideration soon. Committee chairmen will be asked to consider possible resolutions and present them to the resolutions committee.

'Common Sense' Liquor Laws

VANCOUVER (CP)—Citizens' committee for a "common sense" liquor law has been formed here. George A. Cran, chairman of the group, said Monday a campaign for a "yes" vote in the liquor plebiscite at June 12 election will extend throughout the province.

The plebiscite asks the voter if he is in favor of sale of liquor by the glass.

Lake Okanagan in the fruit-farming district of British Columbia has an area of 127 square miles.

More Army Goods Gone

Investigation Starts From Gordon Head Camp

VICTORIA (CP)—A court of inquiry is being held to investigate the disappearance of an estimated $4000 worth of supplies from the Gordon Head army camp near here.

Army officials revealed last night a list of items including everything from cooks' aprons to sheets and blankets.

The losses covered a period between January last year and March this year.

Faces Charge Of Abduction

VANCOUVER (CP)—William E. Giles, 30, has been charged with abducting 13-year-old Richard Slatford. Police say he was arrested at Williams Lake and is held pending arrival in Vancouver.

Giles and the boy left Vancouver April 15 in a truck.

Police say there might be some indication they were headed for Alberta oilfields.

According to police, Giles had told the boy's father he was very interested in the youngster and wanted to look after his training in trade. Giles had reported twice to the father, by letter. The boy was reported well and in good health.

Canadians Come Home

Two Thousand Troops From Korea Arriving Within Month

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than two thousand Canadian troops from Korea will arrive here in the next month, the Army said Monday.

Some 1100 men will arrive here aboard an American transport "between May 14 and 16" and four special trains will be waiting to take them east.

About May 25 a second troopship, with 500 men aboard, will arrive and a third, with several hundred aboard, is expected about June 5.

Atomic Development In British Columbia

So Predicts Head of Engineering Institute of Canada in Interview

VANCOUVER (Canadian Press)—Dr. John B. Stirling of Montreal, incoming president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, predicted Monday that British Columbia will be the site of atomic development work in the future.

Dr. Stirling said in an interview that he based his forecast on the likelihood of further uranium discoveries in northern Alberta and hydro-electric power development on the Columbia River.

He said that authorities had told him that, in view of these factors, atomic development in British Columbia is "very probable."

The institute will hold its 66th annual convention starting here Wednesday.

Air Crash In Norway

OSLO (CP)—A chartered Norwegian transport plane, bringing 25 sailors home from an Antarctic whaling expedition, crashed and burned before dawn today in the rugged wooded Telemark district, 150 miles southwest of Oslo.

Police reported 11 persons—nine passengers and two crew members—killed and ten others injured some seriously.

Twenty nine were aboard, this being the total.

Removal of Restrictions Hailed by Canada Business

OTTAWA (CP)—Removal of consumer credit restrictions was hailed yesterday by retailers and manufacturers as a boost for business. Labor leaders, a Canadian Press survey showed, also praised the move saying it would aid employment.

Stay in Case of False Pretences

Stay of proceedings was granted in the case of Ronald Edward Riley at the Supreme Court Assizes today. Riley had been charged in connection with a logging deal. The stay was granted at the request of Crown Counsel Gilbert Hogg by Mr. Justice H. S. Wood, who discharged the accused, Doug. Howarth was counsel for Riley.

Government Sustained

Progressive Conservative Want of Confidence Motion Voted Down

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons Monday night defeated by a vote of 102 to 45 a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the federal government because of its taxation policies.

The motion, moved during the debate on the 1952-53 budget, charged that government policies led to excessive and unjust taxation and to waste and extravagance.

It added that the government had failed to assure efficient administration in all departments of the public service.

All three opposition groups united against the government majority.

J. L. Gibson (Ind.-Comox-Alberni) voted with the Liberals against the motion.

CIVIL DEFENCE AIDE—Brig. James Curry Jefferson, 46, CBE, DSO and bar, Edmonton, has been appointed deputy director of civil defence operations and training. Brig. Jefferson, one of Canada's outstanding combat leaders, commanded troops in Sicily and northwest Europe during the Second World War. (CP from National Defence)

Arrest in Courtroom

After Joseph Laurie Parent, Prince Rupert mechanic, had shuffled unsteadily before the bar in response to call for jury service at the Supreme Court assizes yesterday, he was intercepted by Mr. Justice Herbert S. Wood and faced with the question:

"How would you like to be tried by a drunken jury?"

"You are drunk, aren't you? This is contempt of court."

Parent mumbled somewhat unintelligibly that he was not drunk—that he had been sick and was just out of hospital.

His Lordship, thereupon, committed Parent to custody until this morning and asked for an officer to take him in charge.

He was ushered from the courtroom by Sgt. T. A. Stewart and taken to the city jail.

Sawmill Proposed

A. P. Crawley brought up at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last night the possibility of developing a sawmilling industry in this immediate area instead of shipping timber which could not be used in pulp manufacture to Vancouver as Columbia Cellulose has started doing with cedar. He felt that the establishment of a big sawmill and possibly dry kilns should be feasible. To start with he proposed that the idea be taken up with Columbia Cellulose.

J. F. L. Hughes, while confessing that he did not know much about the timber industry, felt that it was a shame that fine clear trees such as could be seen along the Skeena Highway be ground into pulp instead of manufactured into high grade lumber.

President J. N. Youngs referred the proposal to the trade and commerce committee with Mr. Crawley and Mr. Hughes collaborating.

Boy Missing In Cariboo

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP)—A party of 35 cowboys and 100 hikers Monday searched the remote Chimney Creek valley, 20 miles from here, for a scantily-clad 12-year-old boy missing since Friday.

Temperatures have dropped to below freezing each night since Eddie Westman disappeared from his home for a hike.

Two inches of snow fell in the area yesterday.

Removal of Restrictions

REMOVAL of the federal retail trade restrictions, announced suddenly yesterday by the minister of finance, Hon. Douglas Abbott, will meet with general approval. Their continuation of late had certainly been the subject of enough discontent. They had been leading to demoralizing evasion of normal and ethical business practices in the field of instalment selling.

Mr. Abbott suggested that their removal was because he considered that the tide had turned away from the immediate dangers of inflation and it now seemed safe to permit of an easing up of the conditions of credit buying. What Mr. Abbott might have said was that the cure was proving worse than the disease, leading to a chaotic business situation and causing serious diminution of buying in some lines and the subsequent adverse effect upon some industries.

The minister of finance said that, if it seemed advisable, the restrictions might be reimposed. If that eventuality comes, it is to be hoped that the experience with the last ones will make it possible to add safeguards to the restrictions which will eliminate abuses.

A Serious Duty

MR. JUSTICE HERBERT S. WOOD, at the opening of the Supreme Court Assizes, revived an old custom, which in recent years has not always been observed, of giving a useful lecture on the subject of the jury system as an example of practice of good democratic citizenship under the time honored practice of British justice and jurisprudence.

His Lordship called jury service not only a privilege but a duty, something not to be lightly regarded or evaded.

Few enough people nowadays think of or wish to give of their time and talents in the public service. Jury duty to some is regarded as a nuisance, something to be avoided, if at all possible, by any means that can be devised.

True, jury service is something not to be regarded lightly. It is, indeed, a serious responsibility which should be undertaken earnestly. It is, as the judge said, a high public service—one of the most serious a citizen can be called upon to perform, namely the task of deciding soberly and sensibly and dispassionately, with good sense and without favor or prejudice, whether or not a peer has been guilty or otherwise of a crime against society. A man's liberty is his greatest possession. To determine whether or not he is to enjoy it is a most serious responsibility.

THE LETTERBOX

KEEP POWER AT HOME

Editor,

Daily News:

The dispatch with the Juneau dateline printed on the front page of the Saturday issue of the Daily News regarding the possible construction of a $500,000 hydro-electric plant near Skagway similar to that already under way at Kitimat was very interesting to me.

Perhaps you may recall that, when it was decided to proceed with the Kitimat project, there emanated from the northern section of the Alaskan Panhandle some peevish remarks which were even repeated by some misguided people in Washington.

The part of this dispatch which interested me most was where it mentioned that the one stumbling block to the project was that it intended Canadian water should be used. Permission to use this water was not yet granted.

The article admitted that the British Columbia provincial government had jurisdiction over some of the water. This means, no doubt, that water from Atlin Lake.

It seems to me this news item is a trial balloon floated by the party who issued the dispatch and I'd like to record my views before he starts to think the coast is clear.

As the Liberal candidate for Atlin in the coming election I would be unalterably opposed to any use of British Columbia water outside the province before every possibility of use within the province is explored and every need met.

Perhaps it might be of interest to the proposers of the Skagway scheme to know that there is an equally large power site in British Columbia which could use the water from Atlin Lake and which, it is believed, could be developed cheaper than the Skagway development. I shall endeavour to use every means at my disposal to have its possibilities explored before consideration is given to the use of B.C. water at Skagway.

The proposed project I refer to is located on the Skoko River which flows from the south end of Atlin Lake into the Taku River. It would be proposed to dam the outlet of Atlin Lake and thus divert its present flow from the Yukon River and Arctic Ocean to the Skoko and Taku Rivers and the Pacific Ocean. The proposed power site location would be at the junction of the two rivers and mill site could be developed at the mouth of the Taku River.

This project would be in the centre of a rich mining area in British Columbia, an area which cries for power and transportation, both of which would be possible and cheap with the Skoko development. The Skagway development would open up no such area and therefore has nothing to recommend it except the development of a large community and possibly other industries at Skagway.

Who's Slow Now?

ONE of the myths which die hard in Canada is that the British "are slow."

Don't you believe it. The British, especially in London, handle more traffic with more speed and half the bother and excitement, than the Americans ever do.

And as for elections—brother, they put us Canadians to shame. We are going to have an election in B.C. next month. The votes will all be marked on one day. But then we are going to wait for three whole weeks before the decisions are made as to who really won. The explanation by our government is that they have to wait for the absentee votes to be in.

I NEVER realized till last October, when I watched the mechanics of a British general election, just how they put us to shame. As soon as the polls close in Britain all the ballot boxes are rushed to a central point. There is no separate count of each separate box. In fact the British ballots are all mixed up, for the whole constituency. They think it violates the secrecy of the voting if you count the votes, locality by locality.

Now here is where the advantage of the British system comes in. When the ballots are counted the candidates, or their agents, are right there with the returning officer. Any candidate or agent who is not satisfied with the first count may demand any number of recounts right then and there. If the contest is really close they may make three or four recounts, right on the spot.

The result is that they get a much more accurate count than we get here. Also, they escape about nine tenths of the grief we have. They virtually never have recounts before judges, such as we often have here in Canada.

THE ONE THING which did amaze me about the British system was that they did not make the count as soon as the polls close—which is at nine p.m. In most places they start the count at nine o'clock the next morning. But when you consider their way of counting the constituencies, all in one big lump, you see that is about the only way they could do it.

NOW WE in B.C. are going to wait for three whole weeks to get the final results.

It is wonderful that we are such a one hundred per cent honest lot in B.C. that we are not afraid of what might happen to those boxes in the 21 days between the night of election and the final counts, three weeks later.

I suppose I was raised in a harder-boiled school. But as a boy I can remember how some fierce old Grits and Tories would not even vote for their own parties, in a tight election, unless they got a few dollars. In Montreal when I was there in the twenties, there would be hundreds of crooks and impersonators arrested every election day. If the Liberals had had 115 Tory cheats arrested and the Tories had had 120 Liberals they would have a "saw-off" and release 115 on each side and only the five extra would appear in court. (Come to think of it, they might send some of those hard-boiled bargainers over to Korea to end the prisoner deadlock.)

Now if these ballot boxes were down in the east—and not in Simon pure B.C.—I would really be afraid of what might happen to them in the three weeks.

P.S.—Also to the candidates—who will probably go nuts, waiting.

... by J. K. Nesbitt

Campaign Grows Confusing—What of Tilly Rolston—Pearson Sizes up Premiers

VICTORIA—The election campaign grows more and more confusing! No wonder the poor public is bewildered.

Premier Johnson of the Liberals goes about the country saying that, if hospital co-insurance is abolished, there might have to be more taxation to take its place.

The Premier's first lieutenant, Attorney-General Wismer, gets up and says there won't be any more taxation—that the people of B.C. are heavily taxed enough as it is, which is, of course, very true.

The Conservatives, it appears, are going to wipe out government hospital insurance. They say they'll remove the compulsory, monopolistic phases of the scheme as we now know it. But how a hospital plan can work, without compulsion and monopoly, they have not so far explained.

It is this observer's opinion the Conservatives have given the Liberals a pretty good talking point. Certainly the Liberals were overjoyed when they saw what the Tories had done about hospital insurance. The Liberals know that the public, while it may howl about hospital insurance, wants it, often desperately needs it. It is this observer's opinion, too, that the Conservatives will lose more votes than they'll gain by their hospital insurance resolution.

TILLY GOES SOCRED

Mrs. Tilly Rolston has given Social Credit a big boost by joining its fold and running in Point Grey under its banner but she may have done herself harm.

Mrs. Rolston in the last few years has won tremendous admiration by her independence, her defiance, her determination to go it alone. People always admire a fighting, rugged individualist—and that is what Mrs. Rolston became. But now she has become a party member again—a member of Social Credit, and nobody knows what that is. It will be interesting to see how she fares on election day. It would be a great shame if B.C. loses Mrs. Rolston's services. The public often gets fed up with politicians who change allegiance too much.

Geo. S. Pearson, who leaves public life this year after 25 years—17 as a cabinet minister—has some observations to make about the three Premiers he served under.

Pattullo: "He was an extraordinary man in many ways and hard to work with at times. But he had courage, ability and foresight."

Hart: "He was a lovable, and an able financier. He was more cautious than Pattullo and slower to move. He was a grand man and a great leader."

Johnson: "He is a great leader, too, but like most of us, he has his peculiarities. I've told him time and time again he is too frank and outspoken to be a good politician."

The great Euclid himself would probably agree to this revision of his famous axiom as applied to modern Mutual Funds.

In a selected Mutual Fund, you receive far more than simply an ownership interest in many carefully chosen securities. You receive: (1) the continuous management services of professionals who supervise your Fund's investments, (2) the convenience of a single security representing your diversified investment account, (3) the freedom from extensive bookkeeping and tax computing worries. Few investors can afford to be without these practical advantages.

Reflects and Reminisces

Party strategists already hint darkly that fewer Saskatchewan livestock would have been shot had foot and mouth disease been handled with greater promptness and discernment. What can one expect today when, over most of North America, there is some sort of an election in sight before the end of the year?

Still, you cannot aver that Western Canada is too big for its bridges.—Brandon Sun.

FORCING ANOTHER CHANGE

Another of South America's largest newspapers is beginning to slip. What's going on in Bolivia reminds one of the fate of Argentina's La Prensa a year or so ago. There was no love lost between President Peron and the paper. If the latter still exists it's colorless, spiritless and does as it is told. Bolivia's annual civil war has been fought and the staff of La Razon feel jittery, for the rebels are in power and they could seize the sheet if enough felt that way. It must be a case of Might being Right in that sprightly land "down under."

CORRECT LENGTH?

From the minister of fisheries down, greater consumption of sea food is being urged. Mr. Mayhew speaks in a convincing way and the subject is also receiving attention in other directions. Some would attempt to establish what is, or should be, the normal length of a fish. He places his hands a certain distance apart and says, "Here, that was that long."

stance apart and says, "Here, that was that long."

This summer, according to official CPR authority, will be the greatest tourist season the coast has known. Half a billion dollars being spent in industrial development is enough to make any region extra interesting.

"I put away my hard-earned money"

This young bank depositor recently wrote to his bank manager:

"I made a goal of $1,000 for this year. It is two years since I opened the account with two dollars. I owe thanks to you for I put away my hard-earned money which it will benefit me . . . I do not wish to touch it for the time being."

Building up a bank account means work and sacrifice. But Canadians know the value of having savings handy in time of opportunity or need: they maintain 7½ million savings accounts in the chartered banks—almost twice as many as ten years ago. At the same time bank staffs have almost doubled. Their and higher wages, have increased bank payrolls almost three times.

More people use the banks, more people work for the banks than ever before.

Steel Strike And Canada

Little Concern Shown by Toronto Investors

By DICK BAIDEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Strikes that threaten to cripple United States steel and oil industries this week drew slight reaction from Toronto investors. Canadian traders sat back to watch the gyrations of the New York market while Toronto and Montreal prices fell—and rose—in the lightest trading in more than two months.

Toronto prices tumbled for four consecutive sessions in ragged dealings. Selling pressure was light as prices declined more from lack of buying interest than desire to sell. Steels and oils were at no time under pressure.

New York prices also declined most of the week but largely ignored Wednesday's steel and oil strikes. Prices fell sharply Thursday, however.

Yesterday's recovery varied widely on Toronto and New York markets.

New York jumped for the strongest gain in more than 5 1/2 years yesterday as strong support buoyed all sections following announcement of the strikes' end. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $1.80. Steels and oils led the rise.

In Toronto, western oil stocks sparked the advance with an index gain of more than four points. The industrial index added slightly more than 2 1/2 points in sporadic trading.

New York's upswing recovered completely the Associated Press average's loss. Toronto's advance however left all indices with losses ranging from one to three points.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange averages showed industrials down 1.99 at 312.06; golds down 1.15 at 87.91; base metals down 3.16 at 181.65, and western oils down 2.67 at 144.68.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 10 cents to $100.10.

In the Montreal averages, banks were down .01 at 29.13, utilities down .1 at 83.6, industrials down 2.8 at 193.2, combined down 1.8 at 156.7, papers down 2.11 at 658.94, and golds unchanged at 65.81.

Vienna Coup Helps To Win With a Set-Up

Mr. Abel is an in-and-out. Sometimes he plays pretty well. At other times, especially when playing with a sharply critical partner, he can be pretty bad.

He is not a serious student of the game. For example, he doesn't know what a Vienna Coup is. This high-sounding name means nothing in itself—yet it represents a beautiful and useful—playing device.

Instead of trying to define it, let's see how it works and why it's necessary. That's how Mr. Abel learned about it. And now he will never forget.

Against the grand slam Mr. Dale opened the king of clubs. Mr. Abel won with the ace. He paled when he saw the dummy, and regretted his rashness in the bidding. He counted several times but couldn't get his winners beyond 12. Mr. Champion was glaring at him, his expression saying, "I don't know whether you CAN make it. All I know is, you'd BETTER make it."

Mr. Abel thought. He thought hard. It came to him that he might squeeze out the 13th trick if one opponent had four or more spades AND the king of hearts. To guard both majors, the opponent would have to hold four spades and two hearts—six cards in all. Mr. Abel could win the first eight tricks in diamonds and clubs. Thus both opponents could be reduced to five cards.

Yes, the squeeze would work. But here was the rub. What was to be discarded from dummy on the run of the diamonds? Six discards had to be made. Four of them could be clubs and one small spade could be spared.

If West held the king of hearts and four spades, everything would be all right, because dummy would be discarding after West. But what if East had those cards? In that case, if dummy discarded the four of hearts on the last diamond, East could safely blank the king of hearts. And if dummy discarded both small spades, East could throw away a spade.

Finally Mr. Abel saw the solution. At trick two he led a heart to dummy's ace. Then he ran the diamonds. He could now safely throw the four of hearts from dummy and the queen in his own hand forced East to hold the king. But East couldn't hold four spades, too, and so the grand slam was made.

The Vienna Coup, then, is a play in which you deliberately set up a "winning" card in an opponent's hand so that you will have convenient discards in the hand opposite your long squeeze suit.

THE ROUND-UP

By LARRY STANWOOD

more factors play a part in the average eye in sports boxing is no exception. The Dominion amateur boxing tourney in Vancouver last week we saw 39 bouts, fighters, try for the rain-forest, the pot of gold—a trip to the Olympics—at its end.

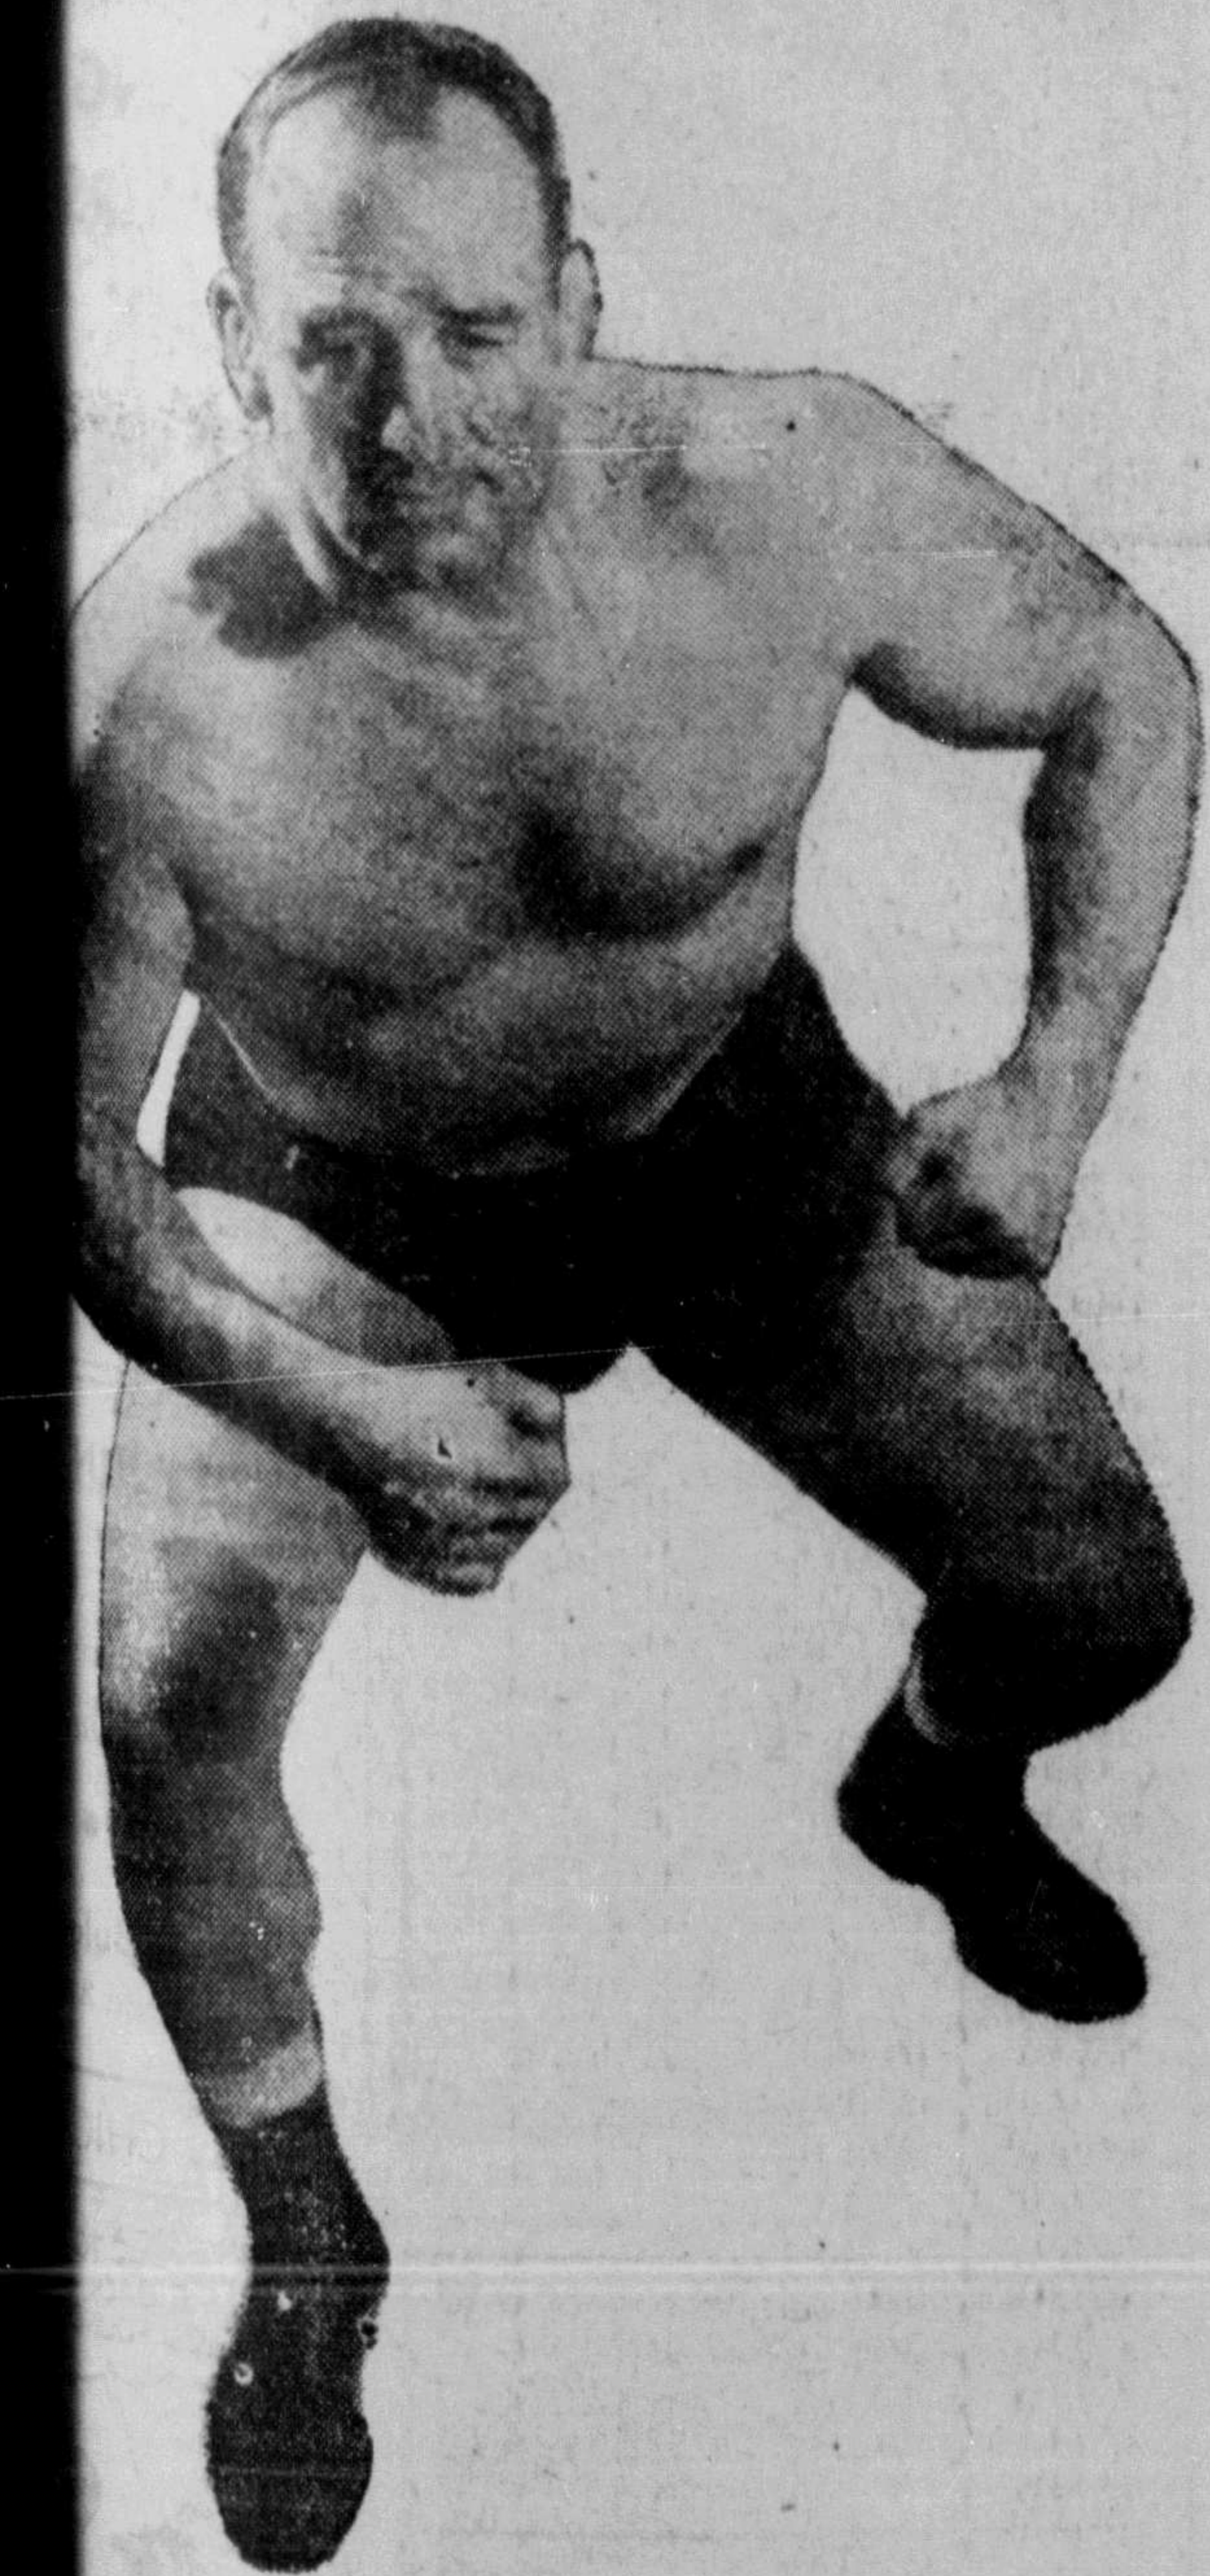

It was sickening to watch the light-heavyweight finals, contenders in which gained the finals via a first elimination decision against Rupert's Andy Marshall.

Marshall was not his old self by any means after a four and a half hour plane ride, a hurried weighing-in and a rush to the dressing room. But even so, he gave his opponent such a beating that the next night he gave up in the first round.

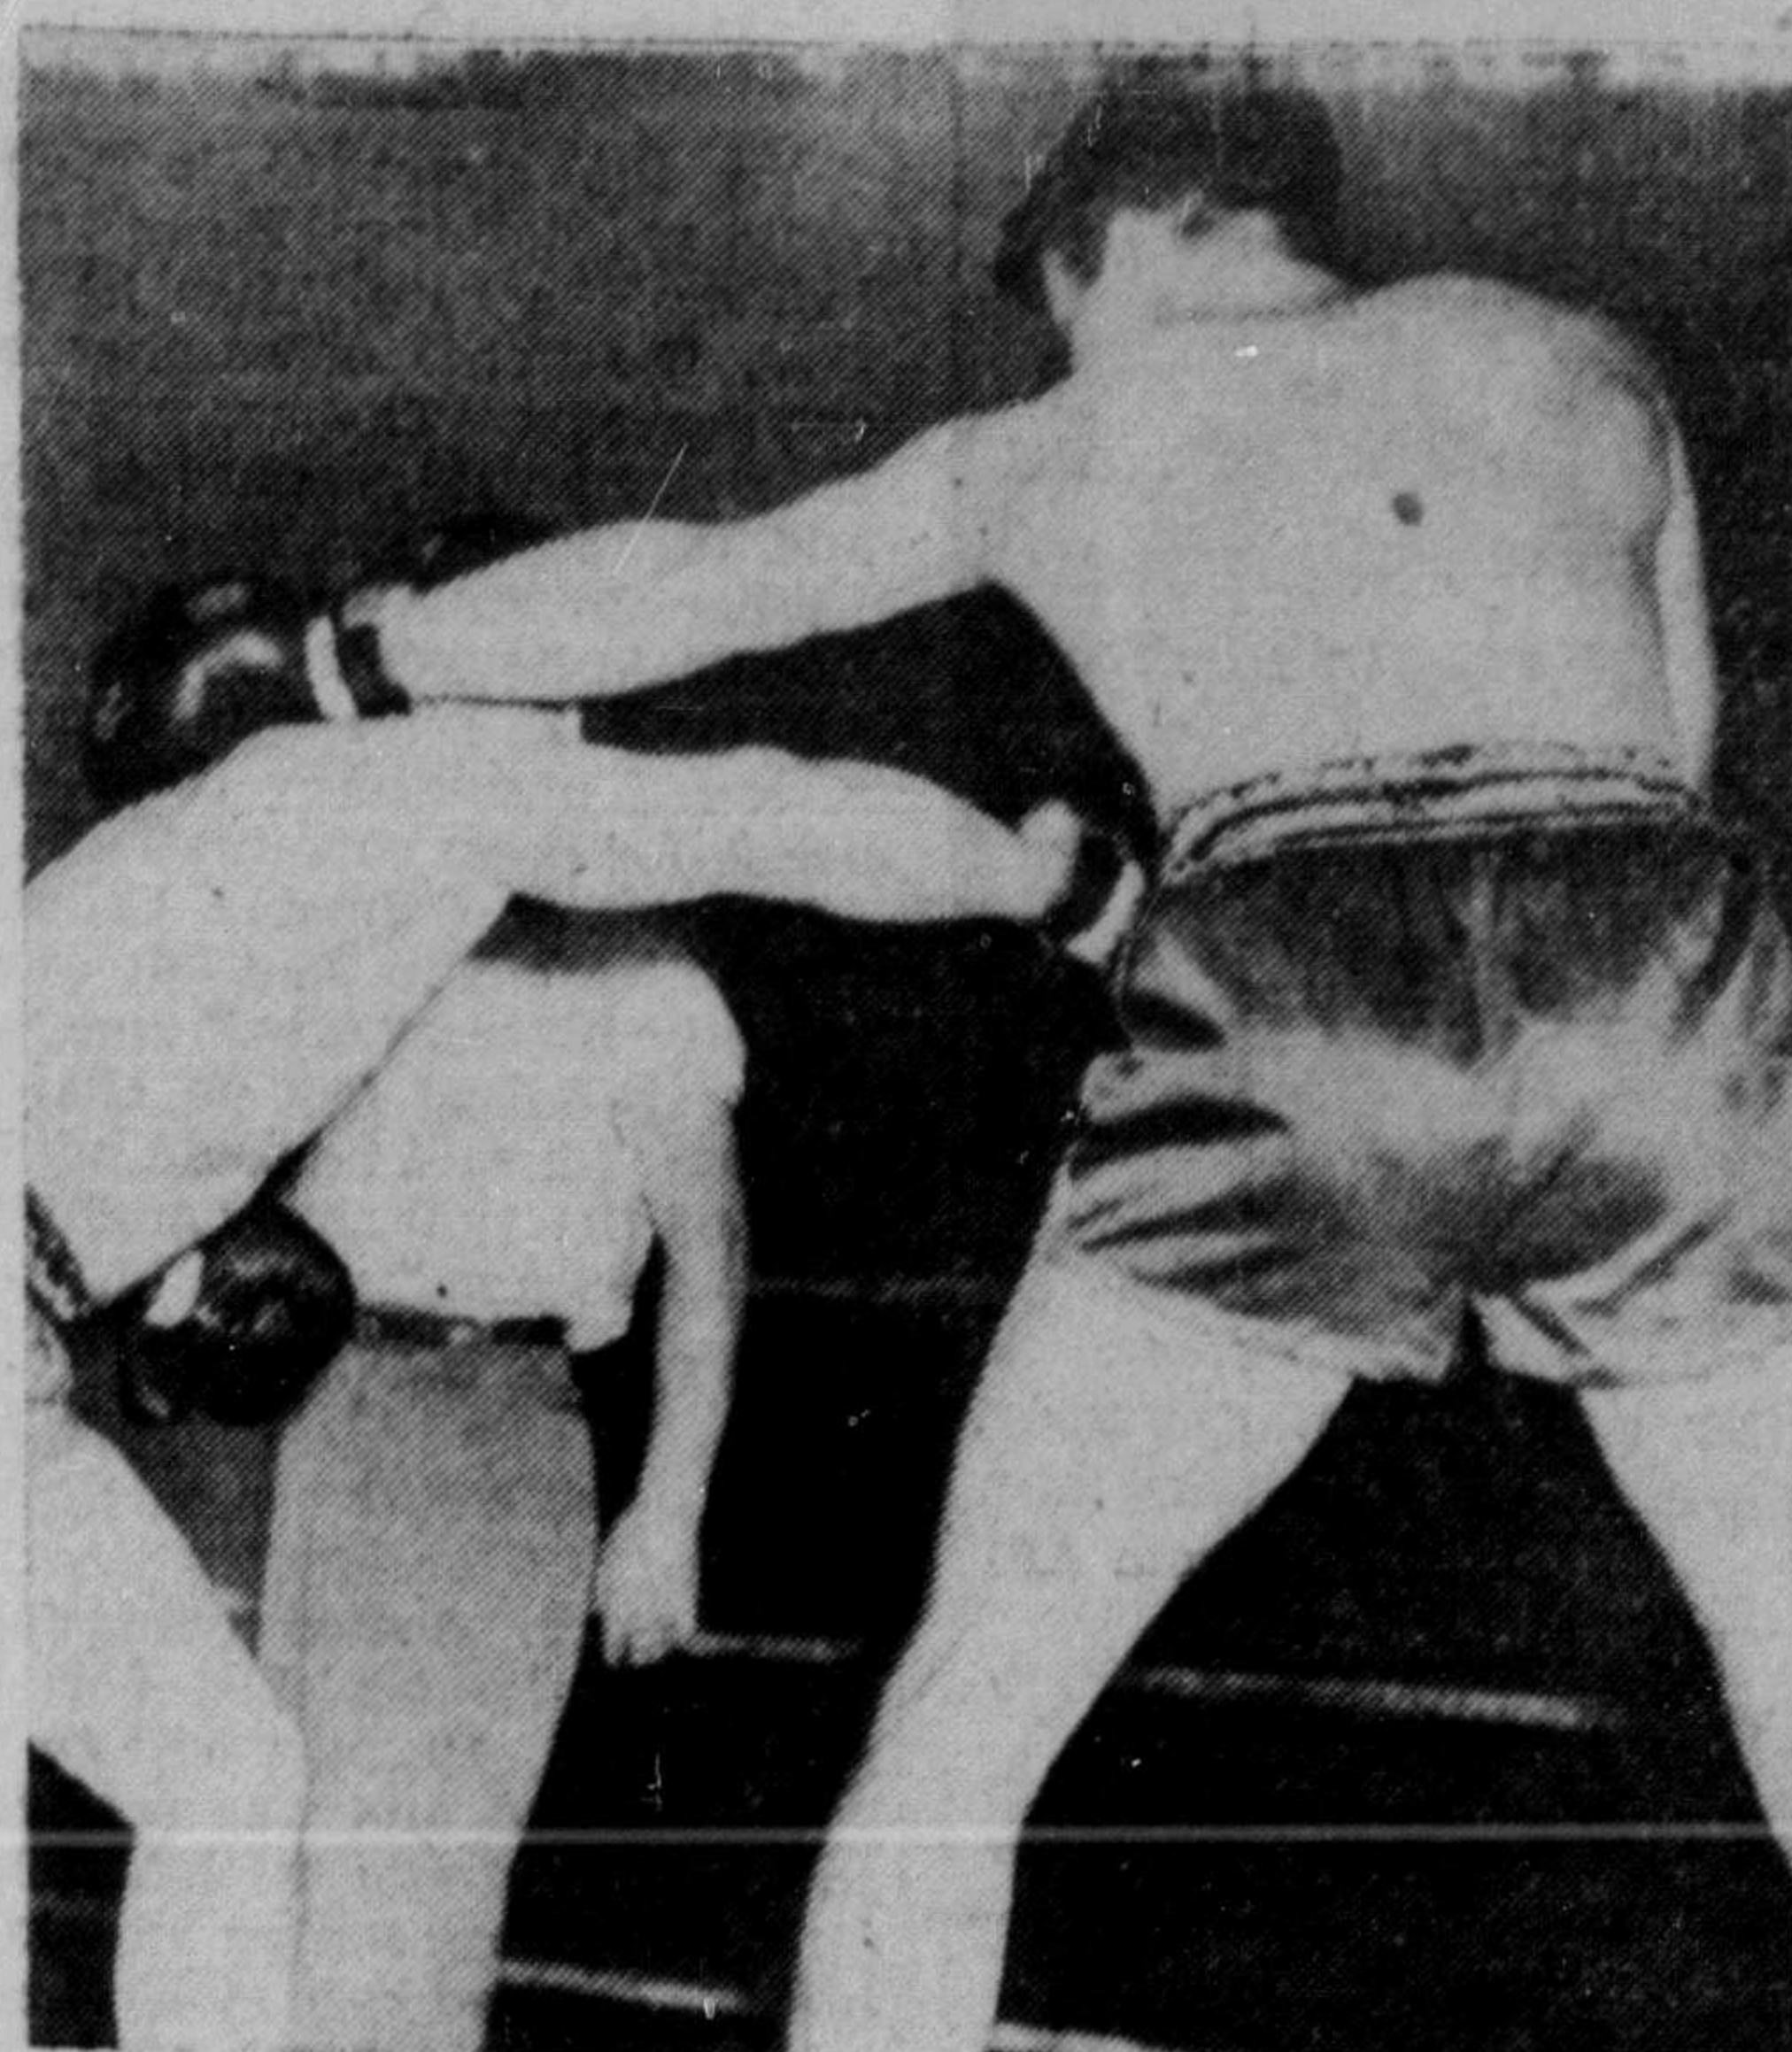

But as Trainer Joe Ward said afterwards, it was a good round of experience for the boys—a stepping stone to greater things. They are provincial champions, make no mistake, and have reached this height in only two short years of training. How much further they go in amateur boxing will depend largely on what they learn and remember from each successive ring encounter.

BOBBY MALOUF, Dominion middleweight amateur boxing champion, takes a right under the heart from Prince Rupert's Bill Morrison in the championship finals in Vancouver. More strength in the in-fighting, however, gave the Quebecer the title. He was chosen Olympic representative.

Bright Job By Kennedy

Helps Giants Beat Cubs—Brooklyn Beats Pirates

NEW YORK (CP)—Monte Kennedy, battling to stay in the big leagues, made his first appearance of the season Monday and came through with a brilliant relief job as the New York Giants edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 for their seventh straight victory. Kennedy, who has not lived up to expectations in the past, allowed only one single in the last 6½ innings as the Giants came from behind to win and retain their one half game National League first place margin over Brooklyn Dodgers.

Brooklyn turned back the groggy Pittsburgh Pirates. In another day game Cleveland Indians stopped Boston Red Sox in 10 innings.

The victory enabled the Indians to pull within one game of pace setting Red Sox in American League.

Kennedy's brilliant performance probably saved his job. The 29-year left-hander was a "bust" in spring training.

Washington's week-end trade deal paid off again for the Senators as they walloped St. Louis Browns 13-1 in the American League night game. Frank Shea, acquired from the Yankees, permitted only four hits before retiring in the eighth inning with a cramped finger.

Archie Wilson, another former Yankee, led the Senators 15-hit attack with a double and two singles and batted in five runs.

MORE GIRL GUIDES

Robinson and Maxim Matched

NEW YORK (CP)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and Light Heavyweight champion Joey Maxim were finally matched Monday for a 15-round fight for Maxim's title June 23 at Yankee Stadium.

The match was announced by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

Norris also revealed that there was a return bout clause, calling for another fight within ninety days if Robinson wins the title.

Actual contract signing will take place today or Wednesday.

ROYAL TITLE

The name for the city of New Westminster, B.C., was suggested by Queen Victoria in honor of ancient Westminster in England.

Monty Marion Helps Browns

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—When you watch Monty Marion lend class and color to St. Louis Browns you realize why he was known for all those years with the Cardinals as "Mr. Shortstop."

He was out of the line-up only one full season, sitting unhappily on the Card bench and trying to manage a Card team which was over the hill. Yet memory of his brilliance dimmed a little and Phil Rizzuto of the Yankees became the Beau Ideal of shortstops.

But now Marion is back, transforming a collection of raw rookies and big-league cast-offs into a fighting ball club which is keeping the turnstiles humming.

Though the grinning veteran still maintains he will play 125 games, it seems fair to say he is an optimist. The knee operation he underwent during the winter makes that member a gamble, and the back trouble which has plagued Marty for several seasons still forces him to sleep on a board.

But as long as the Thin Man maintains his present pace he will be worth watching and the Browns will not fold. Hitting in the important No. 2 spot, though never a great hitter, Marion has grown to be one of the smartest batters in the game.

HOUSEKEEPING

RHUBARB NOSING THROUGH—
HOW TO CAN AND FREEZE IT

Stalks of red rhubarb are nosing through the ground. Now is the time to use as much as possible of this luscious fruit, and to can or freeze some for later use.

CANNING RHUBARB

Cold Pack Method—Wash, cut rhubarb in half-inch pieces. Pack. Make a medium syrup with one cup sugar and one cup water (this makes about 1½ cups syrup), cover fruit with boiling syrup, leaving headspace. Process in boiling water bath, allowing 10 minutes for pint sealers or 20-oz. cans and 15 minutes for quart sealers or 28-oz. cans.

Solid Pack Method—This method is especially recommended for canning rhubarb for making pies or puddings.

Wash, prepare rhubarb and crush part of it in the bottom of a preserving kettle. Add remaining fruit and heat for a few minutes or until juice just starts to flow. If necessary, add a little water to prevent scorching. Pack in sealers or cans, crushing fruit down slightly so that it is covered with its own juice. Sprinkle 2½ cups of sugar per quart sealer between layers of fruit. Leave headspace and process in boiling water bath, allowing 10 minutes for pint sealers or 20-oz. cans and 15 minutes for quart sealers or 28-oz. cans.

Raw Canning Method—Pack raw rhubarb in sterilized sealers or cans and cover with boiling syrup, leaving headspace. Completely seal. Place on several layers of newspaper in a tub and pour in boiling water to cover tops of containers by at least three inches. When adding boiling water, care should be taken not to pour it directly on sealers. Place a blanket or rug over the tub, tucking it in well around the sides. Leave 10 to 12 hours.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Bread Stuffings

Bread stuffings are old ideas but repeated use does not make them commonplace. Meats lacking flavor may be perked up if strong flavored foods are used in the stuffing. Apple, mushrooms, or sausage meat may be added to a bread stuffing for chicken and other poultry or for spareribs, ham roasts, pork chops, pork shoulder roasts or frankfurters. Using a generous amount of stuffing will not only save precious pennies but add attractiveness and flavor as well.

Be Saucy Now and Then

Give vegetables a special distinction by serving them with a flavorful sauce. To win glowing praises from your family, home economists suggest trying a spicy sauce with cooked cabbage. To make it, use equal quantities of catsup and water from the cooked cabbage. Season to taste. Heat and serve with cabbage.

This paradoxical sounding sauce called "sweet and sour" is wonderful with many cooked vegetables. To prepare it, make a medium thick sauce using vegetable water as the liquid. Add two tablespoons each of sugar and vinegar, with salt and pepper to taste to each cup of sauce.

A medium cream sauce is especially good on cauliflower if nutmeg and grated Cheddar cheese is added to it. Its zesty flavor is sure to appeal to many palates.

Another sauce that is easy to make is breadcrumb sauce. Simply melt some butter and brown an equal quantity of dry bread crumbs in it. Then pour the sauce over the cooked vegetable.

CEMETERY FIRE

BLIND RIVER, Ont. — A grass fire which swept through the lower half of the Roman Catholic cemetery here destroyed several wooden crosses and a number of wreaths before being brought under control by volunteers. A cigarette thrown from a passing car was believed the cause.

HIT-AND-RUN

down the street to look, but could see nothing." He returned to close the gate. Then he noticed the lights of another car coming east. The car made a U-turn, he said, seemed to stop and turned back towards town.

When Crown Prosecutor Gilbert Hogg said he would not examine witness R. M. Dubeau, Mr. Sturdy reviewed preliminary court evidence for cross examination.

Dubeau, a Columbia Cellulose Co. clerk, said he had left camp "shortly before 2 a.m." and saw a car travelling fast on Lakelse Avenue. He said he could not be sure of the time, but "might be about 1:55 a.m."

CONSTABLE BRUE

Constable T. A. Brue told of being called about 2 a.m. to the scene of the accident where he found Harry Seaton lying face down off the travelled portion of the road. He appeared to be badly injured and was removed to hospital. Later he had telephoned William Parker who told him his car had been stolen from in front of his home after he had taken some friends home about 1 a.m. Parker's home was about a mile from town. Later Parker informed him (the officer) that he had found his car.

The officer examined the car and also Seaton's jacket. He had found on Seaton's jacket a tiny fragment of paint similar to that from Parker's car. A vial containing samples of the paint was presented to the court as evidence.

Brue was subjected to vigorous cross-examination by Defense Counsel David Sturdy, particularly in regard to times of interviews with accused and other witnesses.

INJURED MAN

Harry Seaton, bartender in the Terrace Hotel then, was unable to remember anything that happened that night. He said he had been trying to remember for a long time. Even now he was "not feeling very good" although his memory was "more or less O.K." now. He was still bothered with dizziness and pain in his right knee. He was really not able to carry on with his job (now at the Skeena Hotel) but he had a wife and three children and had to make a living.

Dr. M. K. Weir told of Seaton's injuries which had included damage to the central nervous system—brain and spinal cord—damage to chest and left collar bone and to the knee. Presumably he had been struck and dragged to the ground. There were multiple particles of gravel on clothing and body. "There is a good possibility he was struck by a car," the doctor admitted.
