Runway Troubles

DIAN AIRMEN in France have had to contend with greasy runways and slip-shod airbase. Sabre jets at the RCAF's No. 2 Fighter Wing at Gros Tenquin have been unable to use the runways since early August. French contractors work on grading a 50-foot safety strip along the runway. Even this work will leave the runway unserviceable in wet weather.

Democrat Demands Hoover 'Tell All'; Truman Speaks Over Radio Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The top Democrat on the Un-American Activities Committee has demanded that J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, tell all he knows about the Harry Dexter White case. Walter, in a recorded CBS radio interview, said that, as far as he knows, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell is the only person close to the case to have called White a Communist spy. Brownell touched off the far-reaching uproar in a speech at Chicago Nov. 6 when he said former President Truman gave White a better government job in 1946 despite FBI reports that White was a Communist spy.

North Korean Prisoners Stream Insults at Reds

MUNJOM (AP)—Angry, Koreans today turned 221 to 6, Communist pleas home in another stinging attack on the Reds, who interviewed them after 10 days of stalling. Communists dragged the noisy interviews, only 227 of the 471 Koreans called to the extension area. Of the six POWs who chose to talk, United Nations objected he was worn out and confused and unable to make a rational decision.

Offer to Offer Spur Conference

AP)—A new offer by Yugoslav president Tito to give the port city of Trieste to Italy, a five-power conference on the disputed Adriatic is imminent. The circles also felt Italy Yugoslavia now were agreed number of major points to the 285 square miles territory inhabited by 375,000 people, of which each nation has a share. In Belgrade Sunday, Yugoslavia waived his demand for the port city and conceded Italy should have it. But he demanded for the zone A, the territory of vineyards around the city's 300,000 population. The rest of the zone's 25,000 settlers are of Yugoslav-Slovene origin.

also warned that any further Yugoslav expansion at Yugoslavia would result in a "catastrophe." Yugoslav control of the rest of the zone would isolate the port city. Diplomats here believed, however, that Yugoslavia would concede Italy a corridor linking her with the city. Anticipate sharp disagreement, however, on how wide this corridor should be.

5 Crewmen Dead, 14 Missing In Mysterious Ship Collision

Sunday Blaze Leaves Rupert Man Homeless

An elderly Prince Rupert man was left homeless yesterday when a sudden fire razed his small cabin.

Victor Field escaped injury when the flash fire broke out in his one-room cabin off Wainwright Road above Algoma Park. Firemen were called to the scene at 3:45 p.m., but were helpless. Access to the cabin, located 1,000 feet off the road, was cut by a washed out bridge over a creek, and the building was almost destroyed when the fire department arrived.

It is believed an overheated stovepipe started the blaze, igniting the wooden wall of the cabin. It was reported that about $20 in cash along with all Mr. Field's personal belongings were lost.

Bill Gillespie Veteran Skipper Dies Suddenly

William (Bill) Gillespie, veteran master mariner and resident of Prince Rupert for the past 25 years, died suddenly late Saturday. He was 71 years of age.

A well-known member of Branch 27, Canadian Legion, he collapsed on the street near his Fraser Street home about 5 p.m. Saturday, and was taken to hospital by ambulance, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Born in Amherst, N.S., he moved to Victoria as a child and in 1908 was employed by the department of transport at Victoria.

He joined the services in 1917 and served overseas, in France, with the 21st battalion, Second Canadian Division.

Following the war he came to Prince Rupert and was again employed by the department of transport as chief officer of the Newington, a DOT boat.

During the last war he skippered a tow boat for the U.S. Army here, and later was tug boat skipper for the Columbia Celanese Corporation here for several months.

Last summer he was employed by the federal department of public works as inspector on a dredging project on the Skeena river near Cassiar Cannery.

He joined the Canadian Legion, branch 27, 18 years ago and was active in the group until the time of his death.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by B.C. Undertakers.

A. Anderson, Pioneer Rupert Fisherman, Dies

A well-known Prince Rupert fisherman, 62-year-old Alfred Anderson, died Saturday aboard the Princess Norah, just as she was arriving at Kitimat. The Prince Rupert oldtimer was returning home after being hospitalized at New Westminster since October 1.

Born in Hadsel, Norway, January 28, 1891, he came to Prince Rupert in the spring of 1924. For many years he operated his own fish boat, the Embila. He was an active member of the Sons of Norway lodge.

Besides his wife here, he is survived by a son, Ole, of Kitimat, two brothers, Pete and Olaf, both in Prince Rupert, his mother and five sisters, all in Norway. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ernor Heintzleman and forest service officials in Juneau. They are Atsushi Monma and Tomiji Ishida and are accompanied by George Kimura, Anchorage businessman who acts as their interpreter.

Ishida was in Alaska last January as a member of an Alaska investigation commission. He said the current mission is to "plan in detail for establishment of sawmills in Alaska."

Ishida reported that his firm is interested particularly in obtaining hemlock and studying American-style sawmills, especially machinery.

He said there is a great need for lumber in Japan for housing, furniture, pulp and many other purposes.

A group of directors and officers of Alaska Pulp Mill Co. are scheduled to be in Washington, D.C., about the end of November. They will come to Anchorage early in December.

Monma and Ishida plan to return to Japan shortly before Christmas. In addition to visits to southeastern Alaska pulp mills, they also plan to make a technical inspection of some west coast mills.

Only Six Rescued In Channel Mishap

DUNGENESS, England (Reuters)—Rescue craft pulled six survivors and five bodies from the debris-strewn waters of the English Channel early today, but 14 other crew members of a sunken Italian ore carrier were unaccounted for and feared lost.

The 2,745-ton Vittoria Claudia sank within five minutes of being struck by the French freighter Perou. Many of the crew were hurled into the sea by the impact, while others were believed helplessly trapped below decks.

One of the rescued men died shortly after being picked up. The five others were treated for shock.

NO LIFEBOATS AWAY

Farina Alessandr, cook of the sunken ship, said it went down so fast there was no time to get a lifeboat away.

He said the other ship approached fast in clear weather, and hit so hard that "everyone on deck was thrown into the water."

"We swam about and clung to wreckage while we waited to be rescued," he said.

By noon today hope for the rescue of the 14 missing men waned, though a large rescue force still combed the collision scene in the Straits of Dover. The Perou, reporting "some damage," headed for Le Havre after a fruitless search for survivors.

BRITISH SEND BOATS

SOS signals from the 7,364-ton French freighter, brought three lifeboats from the nearby British coast within a few minutes of the collision.

U.S. Air Force helicopters and planes, a British helicopter and a swarm of rescue boats reported spotting numerous bodies floating in the wreckage-strewn channel waters.

The accident occurred in a flat, calm sea.

"It's a mystery at present how the collision occurred for the weather was clear as far as we could see," reported David Oilier, a veteran sea rescue worker.

The Perou was on a regular run from Antwerp to the Gulf of Mexico.

Oil Workers Seek Strike Vote

The men are members of the Oil Workers International Union, local 610 (AFL).

Standard and Shell workers rejected conciliation board reports which recommended pay increases of three to 5 1/2 cents an hour.

Wages in the industry range from $14 1/2 an hour for unskilled labor to $22.26 for skilled.

The Man Who Wouldn't Talk

'Greatest Hoax in The History of Journalism'

NEW YORK (AP)—A Calgary man invented a parable as an example of religious faith. And the story mushroomed into what a useful publisher described as "the greatest hoax in the history of journalism."

George Dupre, a Second World War veteran whose story of wartime intelligence experiences led Quentin Reynolds to write The Man Who Wouldn't Talk, admitted in a weekend interview that he had invented his tale of fortitude under Nazi torture to prove the value of faith in God.

"I felt that a story of tremendous self-sacrifice was a means of leading youth, and grown-ups too, to a new insight into what men can be capable of."

The story, told and retold at church group meetings and service club gatherings, gained circulation in Canada and attracted the attention of the publishers of Readers Digest, who assigned Reynolds to write the story for the magazine's November issue. An expanded version subsequently appeared in book form.

Random House, publishers of the book, offered Sunday to refund the $2.75 purchase price to its 10,000 purchasers and said they are re-classifying it as fiction. The magazine will carry a detailed explanation of the hoax in the January issue.

Doug Collins, a 33-year-old reporter for the Calgary Herald who spent eight years with British army intelligence, uncovered the hoax when he spotted technical flaws in the story, confronted Dupre with them and got him to admit the falsehood.

"I honestly felt I had a message," Dupre said in his week-end interview. "I guess the story just got bigger than I was. I told it and then told it again, always adding a little, always making it better."

Dupre, shaken by the effects of his deception, is under a doctor's care in Calgary.

Reynolds said he was shocked and saddened to discover that the story was "a fantastic hoax."

DeWitt Wallace, publisher of Readers Digest, said he met Dupre only once and was struck by him as "a man of integrity." He felt the story would have been accepted by "any reporter in the land."

Bennett Cerf, president of Random House, said the printing of the book now on the presses will be revised to include an explanation of the incident.

Both Reynolds and Wallace said Dupre seemed to have no desire for money, was surprised when told he would get part of the returns and said he would turn the money over to the Boy Scouts.

Voters Rally

ALTHOUGH it needed the troubled state of affairs in our city's administration to accomplish it, the rallying of voters to take a specific and organized interest in next month's civic elections is a development that does credit to those concerned.

In undertaking to marshal their ranks along the lines laid down by the old Non-Partisan Association, they face a course which is tricky but could lead to great rewarding benefits for the entire city.

Their first task is to make sure they speak for the majority. While they are certain to encounter criticism and opposition, their success is assured if their voice carries the authority of broad public opinion. They must not become identified with any one income group, section of the city or class of employment. They must speak, if not for all, at least for most. This is difficult but by no means beyond achievement.

Care also must be taken to remember that the association's function is to advise on issues and make recommendations but never to dictate. There is no desire or room in Prince Rupert for a political machine. The city council must always remain a free agent, answerable only to the electorate as a whole.

In view of the proposals for a large and representative executive, and the emphasis on building up membership, these are dangers which already seem safely sidetracked. In fact, an impressive feature at this preliminary stage is the obviously sincere wish of those interested to exclude cliques and axe-grinders from their company.

Within a few days the association will hold its first official public meeting. For all those who recognize the need to lift the city from the doldrums of a strife-ridden administration, it will be an event well worth attending.

Formula is Milestone

OUR HEADLINE on Friday that a formula had been agreed on by labor and management in the pulp and paper dispute is the sort of thing that we like to see adorning these pages. To the parties involved, of course, the formula meant concessions which could not be easily given. It was to them an occasion more for sobering thought than for rejoicing.

Yet we are all naturally relieved that the danger of a strike in this city appears to be vanishing. The unhappy effect of such an occurrence lies not only in its economic results but also in the ill-feeling which can spread through a community like an uncontrolled disease.

The formula is another milestone in the 16 years of harmonious labor relations in B.C.'s pulp and paper industry. It is a record which other industries might study to their advantage.

Formosa Peace Key

JOHN FOSTER DULLES has dropped a strong hint that the U.S. might agree to recognition of Red China in the UN.

He names certain conditions, including the cessation of support for the rebel forces in Indo-China. But Mr. Dulles turns a blind eye to a much more realistic obstacle to the admission of the real government of China to the UN. That is, what to do about the island of Formosa.

IT IS the fashion in the U.S.A. to pour all sorts of scorn on India's foreign policy.

But, far from believing that the recognition of the real government of China by UN would be contributing to the further spread of Communist world power, Mr. Nehru reasons that the exact opposite is more likely.

So long as the U.S.A., greatest and richest nation on earth, closes its eyes to the greatest of all facts of life in the Far East, there is no hope of getting down to the foundations on which peace might conceivably be built.

The Chinese Red government came into power by an emphatic popular and revolutionary mandate as ever put any government into power, anywhere on earth. Nehru believes in facing that as one of the facts of life.

BUT NEHRU has also spoken several times on the necessity for "putting Formosa into cold storage"—or something to that effect. Simply to grant Red China unconditional recognition as the real and lawful government of China would not lead to total peace, even for the whole of China.

As Formosa has been "allotted" to China as a part of the deals between Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek, it is obvious that the first result of unconditional acceptance of Red China in the UN would be a demand by the Reds for the UN to stand aside while the Communist Chinese sway was extended, by force, to the last refuge of the armies of Chiang.

A COMMONSENSE settlement with Red China might well be preceded by UN action re the island of Formosa.

There are several alternate ways in which Formosa might be prevented from becoming a new battleground between the Chinese Communists and Chiang's men. Here are some possibilities:

1. Formosa might declare itself a sovereign nation, and be admitted to membership in UN. If this were done all the members of the UN would be pledged in advance to protect the island from attack. Hence if Red China were admitted to the UN later she would have to assume all the obligations of the UN—including that to recognize the sovereign status of Formosa.

2. The UN might formally declare Formosa a trustee area—to be protected from attack from any quarter, for a fixed period of years.

It could be provided that at the end of that trust period the inhabitants of the island could, by free vote, decide their own future. Their choice would have to include either rejoining China or remaining a permanent, free sovereign nation.

THINGS ARE GETTING TOUGH ALL OVER—By James Reidford in Toronto Globe and Mail.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Although the present Parliamentary session promises to be a sort of legislative holiday in comparison with other years, the MP's aren't likely to find time hanging too heavily on their hands.

One issue that's bound to occupy them will be the marketing of Alberta's new-found bonanza of natural gas. Will it come East to Canada via an all-Canadian pipeline? Or will it take a composite U.S.-Canadian pipeline route—or even be mainly exported to the United States?

These questions open up one of the most controversial policy debates which the government here has had on tap in many moons.

It is noteworthy that in the argument the Federal and the Alberta governments are on opposite sides. The reason is simple economics. The transportation costs of an all-Canadian pipeline to the populous Ontario and Quebec market, which the Federal government favors, would reduce the returns to Alberta producers at the well heads to an estimated 5.8 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas. But by exporting the gas to the Minneapolis market in the mid-west, a return of 10 cents per thousand cubic feet at the well head could be secured.

The Alberta government is said to be leaning heavily in favor of the export plan. Its attitude isn't wholly a matter of altruistic concern for the profits of the province's gas producers. The province has its own hopes of reaping a substantial revenue from the production of gas, and a low price at the well head automatically would mean correspondingly low royalties.

But, in addition, the Alberta government is interested in seeing gas producers secure a maximum revenue from the standpoint of promoting the development of the gas and oil industry within the province. The cost of bringing a gas well into production is approximately one million dollars. To attract risk capital into the province on that substantial scale requires strong inducements. The Alberta government figures that gas selling for 10 cents at the well head will do it. But it is not so sure that gas selling at 5.8 cents at the well head will.

For the Federal government the question is mainly political. Over the nation as a whole, the idea of retaining such a natural resource as gas in Canada for the benefit of the Canadian people as a whole exercises a strong appeal. There are future votes in it at least a score of Ontario and Quebec ridings. And the present Federal government did not arrive at its present position of political dominance by neglecting always to think reasonably in terms of the future.

Canada's pulp and paper output exceeds in value her output of wheat and all other grain crops.

New Drive Planned to Develop North

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to launch a new drive to develop Canada's rich and vast northland.

The title of the resources department will be changed, the Northwest Territories given a bigger living council and Eskimos assisted by splitting big reindeer herds for distribution among the northern dwellers.

The resources department, headed by Hon. Jean Lesage, will be known as the department of northern affairs and national resources.

Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice that he will introduce a bill to change the name.

An official said the government wants everyone to know, especially the United States, that the north belongs to Canada and that the government intends to develop it for Canada's benefit.

Reflects and Reminisces

Dwight Eisenhower is a clear speaker, no matter whether it is your privilege to sit in the same room, or at the width of a continent. Millions heard him last Saturday. It would have never done to have had the American President appear the day previously.

HAVE IDEAS

British Columbia's weekly newspapers held a convention last week. Criticism was bold, as well as not unreasonable. It seems too many sheets looked too much alike. There must be something having the individual—the original touch. In other words, the gossip column with a pinch of tittle-tattle.

Sometimes a volunteer who has been through the mill cannot get home fast enough to quit the army. But yesterday in Vancouver, a sergeant just in from Korea said he could see no charm in going back to civies. Already, he's been wearing a uniform fourteen years. He'll finish the job.

Experience is a hard teacher. She gives the test first and the lesson afterward.—Ex.

Felix Batt, still with the Consolidated at Trail, will be remembered by many old friends in Prince Rupert, and nothing suits him better than to hear, directly or indirectly from one or more of them. For he has a good memory for early days and faces.

LOOKING UP!

Now that the coast of British Columbia north of Vancouver, from the navigational point of view, is quite as safe as anywhere else on earth, Prince Rupert will start doing real trade when business offers. Until now, after at least 40 years of disappointments and discouragement, it's been like this. Somehow, the powers that be, could not manage to make the port of Prince Rupert stick to the world's commercial map. They must have met something.

The Canadian pulp and paper industry is one of the major industrial enterprises of the world.

UNITED STATES RECOGNIZED RUSSIA 20 YEARS AGO TODAY

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States recognized Russia 20 years ago today with official hopes for friendly co-existence.

Now, after two decades of formally correct diplomatic relations, Washington and Moscow are probably as antagonistic, suspicious, distrustful and bitter toward each other as two capitals can be and still remain on speaking terms.

The beginning of recognition Nov. 16, 1933, under the foreign policy direction of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt and his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, was regarded by many persons favoring the move as the start of a new and happier era in world affairs.

Today President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles still are working on such an era with a minimum hope that at least a way can be found to prevent the intense power rivalry between the United States with its Allies and Russia with its group of nations from flaring into an atomic war.

STAKES NOT AS HIGH

The stakes were not nearly as high when the Roosevelt administration decided to recognize the Soviet regime and end the 16-year hiatus that began with the Russian revolution. In fact, Democrats had been highly critical of the non-recognition policy of the previous Republican administrations.

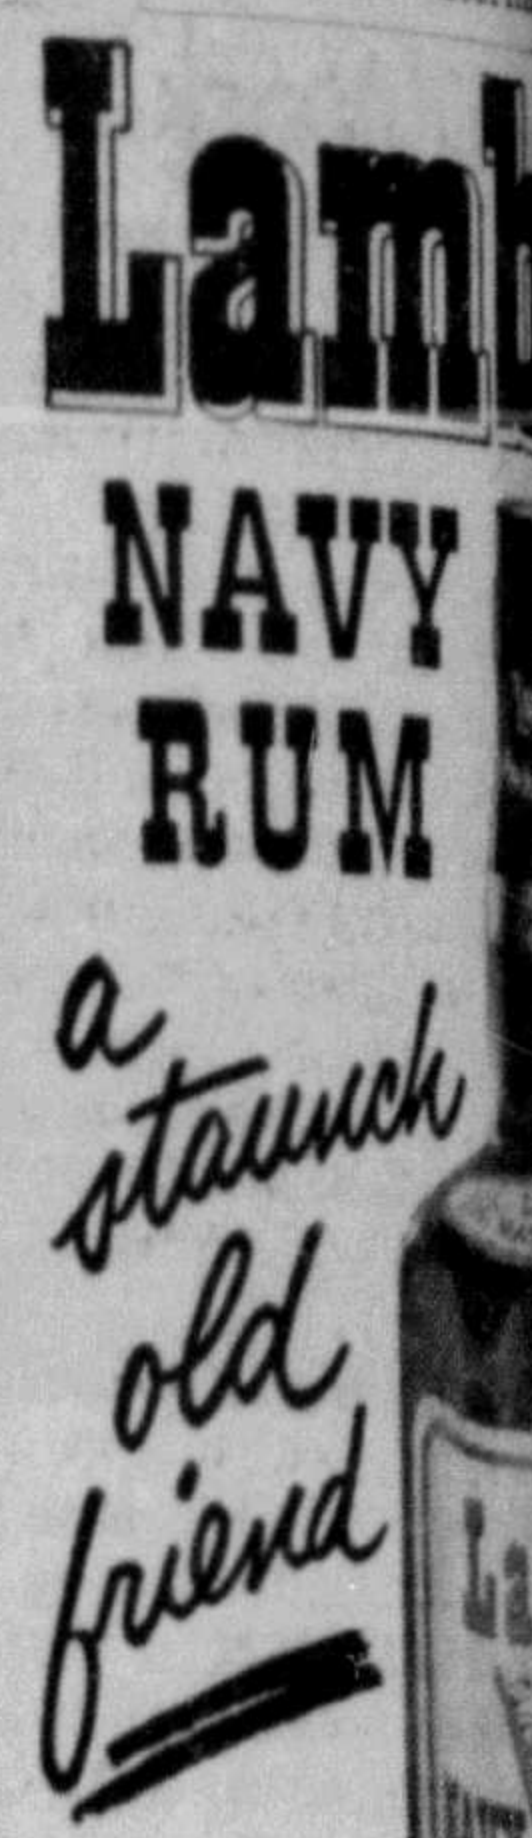

After United States recognized Russia and the Russians made a number of commitments which reflected the American government's hopes for friendly relations.

NO INTERVENTION

Russia promised to avoid intervention in U.S. domestic affairs to prevent organizations from propagandizing (this was the Communist international) from propagandizing the United States, and tolerate in Russia organizations dedicated to revolution in U.S.

Within two years these commitments began to fail. In 1935, a group of American liberals, including the Communist Party, Moscow and when the States protested the Soviet government replied that it was responsible "with regard to the Communist international."

Formal "Neighborliness" Synotes Eisenhower Visit

OTTAWA.—"We would like to come back some day. We've had the most wonderful treatment; no one has been so kind."

Municipal IODE Citizenship Council Work

In those words, President Eisenhower bid farewell to Ottawa Saturday night, and he and his wife, Mamie, went back to Washington in their special train. They arrived there Sunday afternoon.

Some called their two days here a "state visit." But to most who saw the Eisenhowers waving and smiling as they drove from function to function, it seemed more like a friendly neighbor coming over for dinner.

The president solemnly laid a wreath at the foot of the National War Memorial a few minutes after his arrival Friday. That afternoon at Government House, where they were the guests of Governor-General Vincent Massey, the Eisenhowers planted a maple tree near two others, planted by previous United States presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman, during visits here.

Saturday Mr. Eisenhower spoke to a joint meeting of the Commons and the Senate. Then he met the cabinet.

The Eisenhowers had dinner with the governor-general. They lunched with Prime Minister St. Laurent. They had the governor-general, the prime minister and other governmental dignitaries to dinner at the home of U.S. Ambassador Douglas Stuart.

Protocol was observed at all times, but beneath its formal surface, there was always a warm undercurrent of friendship.

The president set the tone before he even entered Canada. At Rouse's Point, N.Y., where Canadian reporters and photographers met his train, Mr. Eisenhower greeted them in pyjamas and dressing gown.

He found time to give his wife a gold pendant Saturday on her 57th birthday.

Lionel Houle, president of the Terrace Jaycees, also urged closer association for mutual benefit of the district organizations with the suggestion of periodical gatherings of Prince Rupert and Smithers clubs at Terrace, the mid-way point, at least four or five times yearly.

A PAINTING by Montreal artist William Goodridge Roberts was presented to the Queen at Buckingham Palace. The subject of the painting—Port Au Persil, a hamlet on the mountainous shore of the St. Lawrence river—is calculated to remind the Queen of her Canadian visit in 1951. The painting was presented by Air Vice-Marshal George Eric Brookes on behalf of the RCAF Association.

Little Election Interest in Smithers

Special to The Daily News
SMITHERS—Interest in civic politics shows little sign of stirring here with the terms of three of five village commissioners expiring this year. Last year A. C. Fowler, commission chairman, and G. L. ## Mansons Take Loop Lead Edging Millers 43-39

Manson's Omegas took over the lead in the Senior B basketball circuit Saturday night when they defeated a desperate CCC 300 Club squad 43-39.

In a top-notch crowd pleaser North Stars edged Watts & Nickersons 59-55 in the Inter A encounter and Sea Cadets trimmed Bulgers 35-21 in the Junior opener.

Manson's now have two wins in as many outings while CCC and G & A both have one win and one loss records in the early senior league.

The game, a slow one compared to the rousing Inter-A offering, saw Manson's coach Bill McChesney screaming his head off as CCC players robbed Omegas of rebounds at both ends of the floor. Only the sharpshooting of Ray Spring who notched 18 points gave the jewellers the necessary edge to win. Down 10-4 in the first quarter CCC came back, sank three field goals without reply by the Omegas and ended the second quarter only three points down.

The third quarter saw Manson's losing more rebounds and only the uncanny hook shots of lanky Art Olsen who notched six of the Manson points in that stanza kept the jewellers in the game. Going into the final quarter, Manson's held a four-point lead after three minutes and CCC scored four field goals to Manson's three. Manson's were edged 13-12 on point play in the last canto but their slight lead proved sufficient to give them the win.

Olsen with 10 points was runner-up to Spring in the Manson scoring while Thompson and Christensen tied with 10 points each for CCC. The pulp millers committed 14 fouls plus two technicals. Manson's collected 14 fouls, of which five belonged to Danny Bill. CCC sank 11 of 16 free shots while Manson's potted the same number in 18 chances.

In the fourth quarter Manson's led 25-20. Nickersons set the stage for a thrilling finish to the Inter A encounter which saw North Star trailing 45-43 going into the last canto. The bottlers led the play 15-8 in the first quarter on the baskets by Rod Tait and Ray McKay. The clothes came back to take the second stanza 18-15 with Norm Sather collecting six points of their total, and Bill Donaldson netting six for North Stars. The clothes went to town in the third quarter backed by the brilliant work of Letourneau who sank four baskets Fouls made the difference in the exciting Windsor A.K.O. who defeated Verduin Shamcats 26-11 at Windsor.

Hilltops Win West Grid Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—Saskatoon Hilltops, led in a blazing scoring spree by a pass-pitching quarterback with icewater in his veins, smothered Vancouver Blue Bombers 50-9 Saturday in the sudden-death Western Canada junior football final.

Their overwhelming win moved them into the Canadian final in Saskatoon next Saturday against the defending champion Windsor A.K.O. who defeated Verduin Shamcats 26-11 at Windsor.

Indian Jack Jacobs Hero Of 30-24 Bomber Win

By The Canadian Press
In the 1950 Grey Cup final dead-panned Indian Jack Jacobs was tagged the "goat" when Winnipeg Blue Bombers lost the now-famous mud-bowl 13-0 to Toronto Argonauts. Unless the unpredictable happens, he will have a chance to lose the epithet into the teeth of his critics at this year's classic.

The cagey old pro set the stage for a return visit to Toronto Varsity Stadium Nov. 28 with a 25-minute performance that swept Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a thrilling 30-24 victory over the Eskimos at Edmonton Saturday night in the deciding game of the best-of-three Western Conference final.

The only obstacle to Bombers' late-November journey to Varsity Stadium is Toronto Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions. They meet in the Grey Cup semi-final at Winnipeg Saturday.

Bombers' triumph before a sell-out 16,000 crowd at Clarke Stadium was the highlight of a week-end that decided the fate of the favored Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the ORFU. All were shunted to the sidelines for another year.

Tiger-Cats whipped Riders 18-8 at Hamilton and Montreal Alouettes trimmed Argonauts 27-8 at Toronto. Tiger-Cats now meet Al in the best-of-three final.

The Dutchmen carried a three-point lead into Toronto Sunday for the second game of the total-point ORFU final and lost 24-12. On the round it was Balmy Beach 30, Kitchener 21. Football fans still remember vividly the 1950 cup final when Bombers, called "the greatest team ever to come out of the West" and featuring the highly-publicized Jacobs, came up with a miserable effort in the mud and slush. Jacobs, despite a strong defensive game, was jeered and heckled.

Last season, Jacobs threw 34 touchdown passes, a record in the western league, but he was replaced at quarter this year and played practically a full-time defensive role. He was used on defence the first two games of the final series and for 35 minutes of the Saturday game.

Then, with Bombers behind 12-6, coach George Trafton inserted the former Green Bay Packer into the quarterback slot and it appeared briefly as if it were a bad move. Edmonton lengthened the lead to 18-6 on a touchdown set up by an interception of a Jacobs pass, but the big fellow wouldn't be denied.

He reared back and fired three touchdown strikes, completed 14 of 20 passes for 226 yards, and with two minutes to play it was a tied-up game.

Eskimos were within striking range for a field goal or single point when quarter Claude Arnold's flat pass was intercepted by Dave Skrien on the Winnipeg 10 who dashed up the touchlines to the Edmonton 50 and there lateralled to Tom Casey who hot-footed it over the Edmonton line for the game-winning points.

Better Curling Conditions Seen As New Unit Installed

Prince Rupert Curling club, now in its second year of operation, took another progressive step over the weekend when a refrigeration unit, designed to remove moisture from the air in mild weather, was installed by the club membership.

A crew of volunteers gathered at the rink to place the 1,000-pound unit in place. A platform had been built in the rafters above the centre ice sheet and the unit was hoisted up and put into operation just after noon Saturday.

Designed to prevent dripping from the rafters onto the ice, the machine consists of an intake fan which forces air through a set of refrigeration coils. Moisture condenses onto the coils and freezes. A clock setting then automatically stops the fan and the refrigeration unit and turns on a heating unit, melting the ice which drains from the pan to the outside. The clock then starts the cycle again.

The ice was scraped to remove the huddles of ice built up by the dripping, the sheets flooded again and good curling is now expected. No curling took place last week, consequently the men's schedule will carry on from where it left off. The mixed league, however, will carry on as scheduled with the games planned for last Saturday, November 14, now scheduled for the last Saturday of the draw next spring. Thus the social plans of the mixed league curlers will not be upset.

This week's draws for the Gordon Hardware trophy are as follows:

Tuesday
7 p.m. (1) Ford vs. Green; (2) McEneaney vs. Rowbotham; (3) Butterick vs. Eysolfson.

The value of Canada's pulp and paper production exceeds that of all her mineral production.

Seattle Holds off Big Calgary Rally

By The Canadian Press
Seattle Bombers jumped to a 6-0 lead, then staved off the Calgary offensive to win 7-5, capping the 4-0 defeat Calgary suffered in Vancouver Friday and the 3-1 loss at New Westminster Saturday.

In the only other Western Hockey League fixture during the week-end, Victoria Cougars took advantage of a weak Seattle defence, whipping Bombers 6-3.

The week-end action left Vancouver six points ahead of Calgary atop the league with New Westminster third, five points behind Stamps. One point separates Royals and Bombers and the same margin holds Victoria in fifth spot. Saskatoon is sixth, one percentage point behind Victoria, and Edmonton is three points lower, in the cellar.

North Stars Lead Local 708 Loop

North Stars moved into top spot in "A" Division of the Men's Five-Pin Bowling League last week as Local 708 dropped two games to Family Market. The pulpworkers had led the league since opening day, October 19.

Scores in A League, however, were down from the previous week with Tom Sedgwick getting the best three-game total of 694. Art Olson scored best single game of 338.

Philpott-Evitt had high three of 3034 and Art Murrays scored top game of 1132.

In "B" League, John Fitzgerald had a 330-game to top the loop and John McDougall scored high three of 741. Deuces had high three of 2859 and Nelson Bros., with 1072, had high single game.

In last week's Friday night mixed league, Mildred Wide set the pace for ladies with high game of 277 and best three of 658. Bill Collins topped the men with his 265-game and George Wicks had high three of 669.

Northland Daily scored high three, 3073, and Residuals had the top game of 1075.

In the men's Sunday ten-pin league, Bob Vuckovich chalked up best game of 213 and S. Morin had high three of 570. Albert & McCaffery now lead the league with nine points; Woodbutchers and Art Murrays are tied for second with six each, and Royal Hotel, with three, are in the cellar.

Wings, Leafs Tied In Second Slot

Detroit Red Wings emerged with two wins over New York Rangers: 3-2 in New York Saturday and 4-1 in Detroit Sunday, in National Hockey League play.

Chicago Black Hawks defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in Montreal Saturday and gained a 2-2 deadlock with the Habs in Chicago Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Boston Bruins 2-0 in Toronto Saturday and tied the Bruins 1-1 in Boston Sunday.

The Leafs remained in second place along with Detroit. They are two points behind the leading Canadiens. The Bruins are in fourth spot, three points behind Toronto and Detroit.

LOADN - SOELLINGER, West Germany — Officers with the RCAF's No. 4 fighter wing here think they know why their long bar has a wiggle in it.

The story is that the original plans of the French-designed base, paid for by France out of German reparations as a North Atlantic Treaty Organization contribution, called for a snake bar.

The French took this to mean snake bar and so it went into the blueprints. The German builders followed the instructions literally.

Mossadegh Overruled in Contention Court Not Competent To Hear Case

TEHRAN (AP)—The military court trying ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for treason got down to the main issues today after ruling against his contention that the tribunal was not competent to hear the case.

The court-martial's five judges declared themselves competent Sunday after a week of preliminary hearings, during which the 73-year-old Mossadegh held the floor for many hours with bitter, emotional arguments in his own defence.

Following the court decision, chief prosecutor Brig. Hossein Azemodah read the indictment charging Mossadegh with plotting against the shah and illegally dissolving the lower house of parliament. The death penalty was asked.

Presentation of evidence in support of the charges was due to begin later today.

DEMANDS JURY

Mossadegh contended the shah had no authority to dismiss him. He also demanded a jury trial on grounds that the army court could not try him because he had abolished it before his ouster as premier Aug. 17.

The court also ruled itself competent to pass judgment on Gen. Tahi Riahi, former military chief of staff who is being tried with Mossadegh.

Prior to the ruling there had been reports the court was split on the question of whether it was qualified to hear the case.

When the shah's messenger tried last August to deliver the royal decree firing Mossadegh, bloody rioting resulted, and the monarch fled the country. The shah's supporters overthrew Mossadegh two days later. The aged premier was jailed, and the shah returned to the country in triumph.

Aged Man Lost In YMCA Fire

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—One man was killed and two others were missing Sunday in a fire at the YMCA building here. Two men were injured and 30 escaped.

The body of Thomas Dunn, 73, of London, Ont., was found on the top floor of the three-storey building after the blaze was brought under control.

Taken to hospital for treatment were Percy Woods, 48, and Oliver H. C. Webb, 63. Their conditions are "satisfactory."

With the event the 1953 vintage in the state's dry wine country was opened officially.

Excess Dummy Entries Can Mean Headaches

In recent columns we've been discussing the handling of situations where the dummy was short of entries. In today's deal Mr. Champion almost came to grief because the dummy hand had too many entries.

Mrs. Keen's bidding looks a little weird, but she decided it was extremely unlikely that her long, weak club suit would be of the slightest interest to her partner. Spades suited her and she planned, eventually, to show her spade support. First, though, she showed where her top strength in the side suits was located. Actually, her methods made it much easier for Mr. Champion to put the hand in a slam at spades.

Mr. Masters led the king of clubs and Mr. Champion ruffed. He cashed the ace of spades and immediately saw his problem when Mr. Masters discarded the deuce of diamonds. If he picked up all four of Mr. Dale's trumps and then cashed dummy's high cards in the red suits, it would take his last trump to get back to his hand.

The queen of hearts would still be at large and when the enemy got the lead with that card they could cash their top clubs.

Mr. Champion decided there were entirely too many entries on the board. He determined to get rid of them just as if they were deuces. He discarded not one, but all three of dummy's high cards in hearts and diamonds. He continued with trumps and on the fourth lead discarded dummy's ace of diamonds. Next he cashed the king and queen of diamonds and got rid of dummy's ace and king of hearts. He was then in the favorable position of being able to drive out the queen of hearts while retaining full control of the trump situation.

"This proves," said Mr. Champion, "that when you can play the cards like I can, you don't need aces and kings."

CPR Box Cars Lost in Fire

LETHBRIDGE, (CP) — Flames swept through a string of CPR box-cars and part of the stockyards at Lethbridge Sunday, causing damage estimated at $100,000.

Every piece of fire equipment available in the city was rushed to the scene.

Although hampered by a 50-to-60-mile-an-hour wind, firemen prevented the flames from reaching a pen containing 200 head of cattle.

Dismantled Dock To Be Relocated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Drydock plant in North Vancouver will be dismantled and its facilities moved across Burrard Inlet to Vancouver, Burrard Dry Dock officials announced Thursday.

The North Vancouver facilities were purchased last year and the relocation is planned to concentrate ship repair operations in a single plant.

Involved in the move are a 12,000-ton deep sea drydock and a 2,000-ton coastal dock.

Selective Approach To Tariff Problem Suggested

NEW YORK (CP) — A selective approach to the tariff problem, by breaking it down into smaller components, was suggested today by R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

This method of dealing with Canadian-U.S. trade, "the largest single segment of international trade in the world today," was outlined by Mr. Fowler in an address before the 40th foreign trade convention of the National Foreign Trade Council.

"It should be possible to build up Canadian exports to the United States to provide goods that American consumers will need and to do so without damage to existing American industries," he said.

"Perhaps we could make some products you need from our ample metals. Perhaps the many new chemicals that are obtainable from our Alberta oil and gas could, if tariffs are changed, find and make new markets in this country."

ECONOMIC FLAWS

There are flaws to be found in a theory of independence and self-sufficiency, Mr. Fowler said, devices which can become expensive and uneconomic.

Neither Canada nor the United States had a domestic supply of bauxite, the raw material for aluminum, but Canada had the essential low-cost electric power and had built a great aluminum industry.

AMPLE SUPPLY

He said Canada supplied 80 per cent of newsprint used in U.S. newspapers and could not only look after increases but could still provide substantial exports to other countries.

Yet since 1945 "there have been nine different investigations by various committees of Congress." Legislators, arguing independence and self-sufficiency in newsprint, advocated use of government funds and special tax concessions to build new domestic mills.

Mr. Fowler viewed this as "economic isolation" and said that "of the dollars we use to buy goods, one out of every four comes from our newsprint exports to you."

"Perhaps we should adopt the classical military technique of 'divide and conquer.' Perhaps the defeat of world trade problems, like the defeat of armies, can be accomplished by breaking them down into separate parts of manageable proportions."

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.
