Gunderson Trails By 93 Votes Social Crediters Seek Recount

Liberal Lead Depends On Hospital Vote

By The Canadian Press

VICTORIA.—British Columbia's Social Credit government is trailing in its bid to gain a legislature seat for Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

Youthful George Gregory, making his first appearance in the provincial political arena under the Liberal banner, has a 93-vote lead over Mr. Gunderson in the by-election to fill the vacant Victoria seat in the legislature.

With all 135 polls heard from Mr. Gregory rolled up 8,393 votes and Mr. Gunderson 8,300. The three remaining candidates were never in the running in the contest that was in doubt until the last poll was heard from. Alfred Matthews, CCF, polled 2,460 votes; Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson, 979, and Mrs. Doris Blakey, Labor-Progressive, 159.

WONT CONCEDE

Mr. Gunderson and Premier Bennett declined to concede defeat until some 160 votes cast in hospitals are counted tomorrow.

Liberal party officials said they were confident Mr. Gregory's lead would be maintained. Premier Bennett said his party would call for a recount if Thursday's count showed Mr. Gunderson still trailing.

The premier also said that Mr. Gunderson will retain his cabinet post for the time being. He said Mr. Gunderson would accompany him to Ottawa next month to discuss financial matters with federal authorities. He gave no indication of what would happen after that.

LIBERALS PLEASED

B.C. Liberal leader Arthur Laing gave full credit to Mr. Gregory for the by-election victory.

"The people of B.C. will hear lots more of George Gregory," he said, adding gleefully: "Tell the rest of the people of Canada that we are out of the ether of funny money."

Social Credit monetary policies were one of the main targets attacked by the Liberals and other opposition parties during the campaign.

The by-election was made possible by the resignation of Percy Wright.

Standing in the legislature now is: Social Credit, 27; CCF, 14; Liberals, 5; Progressive Conservative, 1; Independent Labor, 1.

Deckhand Hurt On "George"

The crewman, Allan West, suffered a back injury and was taken by ambulance to hospital for treatment.

He fell off the elevator when the mechanism failed, and plunged down two decks to the hold.

McCarthy Denounces Truman

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK.—Senator Joseph McCarthy Tuesday night boldly offered himself to the American people as the sole issue in the 1954 congressional elections.

In a speech widely heralded in advance as his reply to former President Truman's reference last week that McCarthyism is "the corruption of the truth," the Wisconsin senator told countrywide radio and television audiences:

"The raw, harsh, unpleasant fact is that communism is an issue and will be an issue in 1954."

"If the American people agree with Truman that McCarthy's tactics are dangerous and unfair," McCarthy said, "they can get rid of him as chairman of the Senate investigating committee by defeating any Republican up for re-election."

He said, on the other hand, "If they believe as I do that treason, dishonesty and stupidity should be exposed wherever and whenever found, then their answer is to keep the Republicans in power so we may continue to clean out the Augean stables."

McCarthy heaped new accusations of laxness towards communism in the government against Truman. He claimed the Truman administration was "crawling with Communists."

McCarthy demanded and received time on the major networks to reply to Truman's reference to him in the former president's speech a week ago. McCarthy opened his speech by denouncing Truman's reference to him as "a completely untruthful attack upon me."

Norton Youngs Found Safe After Missing Rendezvous

Fears for the safety of Prince Rupert real estate agent T. Norton Youngs, overdue last night after missing a hunting party rendezvous on Digby Island, were dispelled when he walked out to meet searchers just after 10 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Youngs, with fire chief Earl Becker and Andy Anderson of the fishboat M-H, went to Digby Island on a hunting trip at noon yesterday. They arranged to meet on the beach just before dark but when Chief Becker and Mr. Anderson arrived back within sight of the boat, Mr. Youngs had not arrived. The two hunters stayed on the beach waiting for their companion for about an hour after dark and then set out for Prince Rupert to notify the RCMP.

Chief Becker said this morning that the RCMP marine section patrol vessel escorted the M-H back to Digby Island, to the entrance of Metlakatla Passage.

"It was too rocky and too dark to go ashore," the fire chief said. "We fired shots, two and then a pause and then two more, to attract Mr. Youngs' attention, but received no answer."

Chief Becker said they didn't hear any distress shots fired by Mr. Youngs. "It was raining, snowing and blowing a gale there all night," the chief said. "We started to search again this morning, 12 of us, in pairs. There was Mr. Anderson, Fred Kohse, myself and nine RCMP personnel."

Meantime, Mr. Youngs, according to his statement this morning, was dozing fitfully under a tree, sitting out the storm and waiting for daylight.

Antigonish Coming Here Next Month

The Canadian Navy frigate Antigonish will pay a visit to Prince Rupert early next month in the course of a training cruise.

The Antigonish, arriving here December 4, will spend the weekend in this port, and her crew will help raise funds for a Christmas party for youngsters at HMCS Chatham.

Chatham is planning a ship's company dance on Dec. 5—open to the public—to which Antigonish men will be invited. Proceeds will be earmarked for the kiddies' Christmas party.

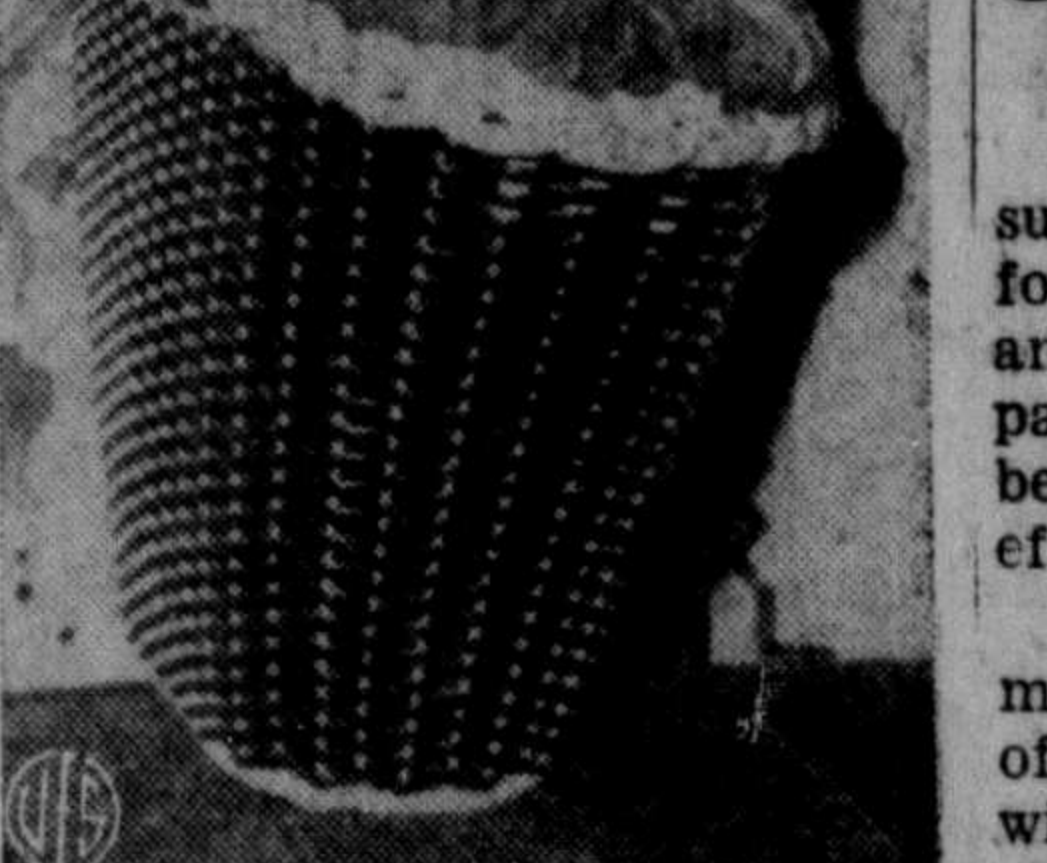

The Antigonish is scheduled to leave its home port, Esquimalt, November 30, touch briefly at Powell River and Mayne Channel and arrive here at 4 p.m., December 4. She will berth at the east end of the CN dock. It is expected the ship will be open to visitors Sunday, December 5. That night, officers of the frigate, including her commander, Lt.-Cmdr. H. R. Beck, will be entertained at Chatham.

"I missed the boat when I came out onto the beach," he said "so I went back under the trees to wait. This morning about 10 o'clock I walked out within five minutes of where the police boat was anchored near our rendezvous of the night before."

Mr. Youngs said he was met by two police officers and came back to Prince Rupert aboard the police boat.

"I would like to express my appreciation for the work done by the RCMP and my friends," Mr. Youngs said. "This is very embarrassing to me. I've been on the other end of search parties many times but this is the first time I've ever been the object of a search."

Speaking of the continued search this morning, Chief Becker said that the party, spread out in pairs, couldn't have missed Mr. Youngs even if he had not come out on the beach. "We had him surrounded," the chief said.

Records Fall As Hungarians Down U.K. XI

LONDON (CP)—Records fell left and right today as the National soccer team of Communist Hungary whipped England's national team 6-3 at Wembley Stadium.

Hungary, Olympic champions, played rapid, accurate football that left the Englishmen guessing.

Among the marks shattered were the facts that England had never before been beaten at home by a continental team: the Hungarians scored more goals against England than any other team in the last 72 years (Scotland won 6-1 in 1881). The game also produced a higher number of goals than in any ever played at Wembley Stadium.

Airline Suspends Service

Special to The Daily News
VANCOUVER.—K. Razzell, superintendent of B.C. district for Canadian Pacific Airlines, announced today that the company is suspending air service between Smithers and Terrace, effective November 30.

"The move is a temporary measure, resulting from the lack of navigational aids suitable for winter operation. It was hoped necessary installations would be completed before a suspension became necessary but this was not the case."

Mr. Razzell pointed out that dependable surface transportation was available from Terrace eastbound and that CPA's flight leaving Smithers would be scheduled to ensure passengers a good through connection. Plans are also being pushed for the inauguration of a limousine service for westbound passengers which would operate from Smithers to Terrace as an extension to the air service.

"It is expected that the necessary work on the route will be completed in the early spring, at which time CPA will resume scheduled service," said the superintendent.

Referendums Not Binding on City, Park Tells Alderman at Meeting

There is no time limit on referendums nor are they binding on the city according to city clerk.

Up for final adoption at this week's council meeting were by-laws to submit referendums on a special two-mill levy for new municipal buildings, one regarding the transfer of the Roosevelt Park trust fund for use in developing Algoma Park, another regarding a special one mill levy for Algoma Park development, all to be voted at the Dec. 10 election.

"It is up to each individual council to decide whether it wishes to continue the levies," the city clerk said.

He also explained why the park commissioners sought the one mill levy for Algoma Park despite the fact they hoped to gain $25,000 from the Roosevelt Park fund.

Should the referendum for the transfer fail, he said, the parks board still wished one mill a year to continue development at Algoma Park. Even if the transfer of the Roosevelt Park trust fund is approved, an order-in-council by the provincial government is required before the transfer can be completed.

The explanations arose after Alderman George Casey had told council that it was encouraging a precedent that might prove embarrassing to future councils. The council was in effect "signing notes which future councils will be called upon to pay," he said.

He said the community ratepayers had asked him to bring up the subject of a time limit on the referendums especially on the municipal buildings fund referendum.

Alderman Ray McLean, chairman of the finance committee, said that the special levy for municipal buildings, if approved, would be for two years at least. He said that a start should have been made on a reserve fund for new city buildings about four or five years ago.

"By 1955 we might be in a better financial position, and put a money-by-law to the people," he said. "By that time the special levy will have amassed enough money for a start."

A special city council meeting will be held this afternoon to give final passage to the by-law to submit a referendum to the people asking if they approve a special levy to assist in operation of the Civic Centre.

Mr. Pearson had said earlier that Gouzenko was a Canadian citizen, free to go wherever he liked and to talk to anyone. However, Canada couldn't guarantee to maintain Gouzenko's anonymity or be responsible for his safety if he wished to testify before the U.S. sub-committee.

In this morning's statement, he said the government would permit secret interviews with Gouzenko. It was understood that Mr. Pearson had in mind interviews in Canada.

Canada rejected the first U.S. request that the sub-committee be permitted to interview Gouzenko on grounds that the former spy tipster has no information to add to what he supplied in 1948 and in subsequent questioning by the RCMP.

Mr. Pearson, repeating a frequent government statement, said all information supplied by Gouzenko has been passed to the FBI.

But the sub-committee, which has not quarrelled with this, wants to interview Gouzenko anyway. This apparently stems from the separating powers between the executive and legislative branches of the U.S. government. The FBI, in the executive branch, has the Gouzenko information. But the sub-committee, in the legislative branch, can't get at it.

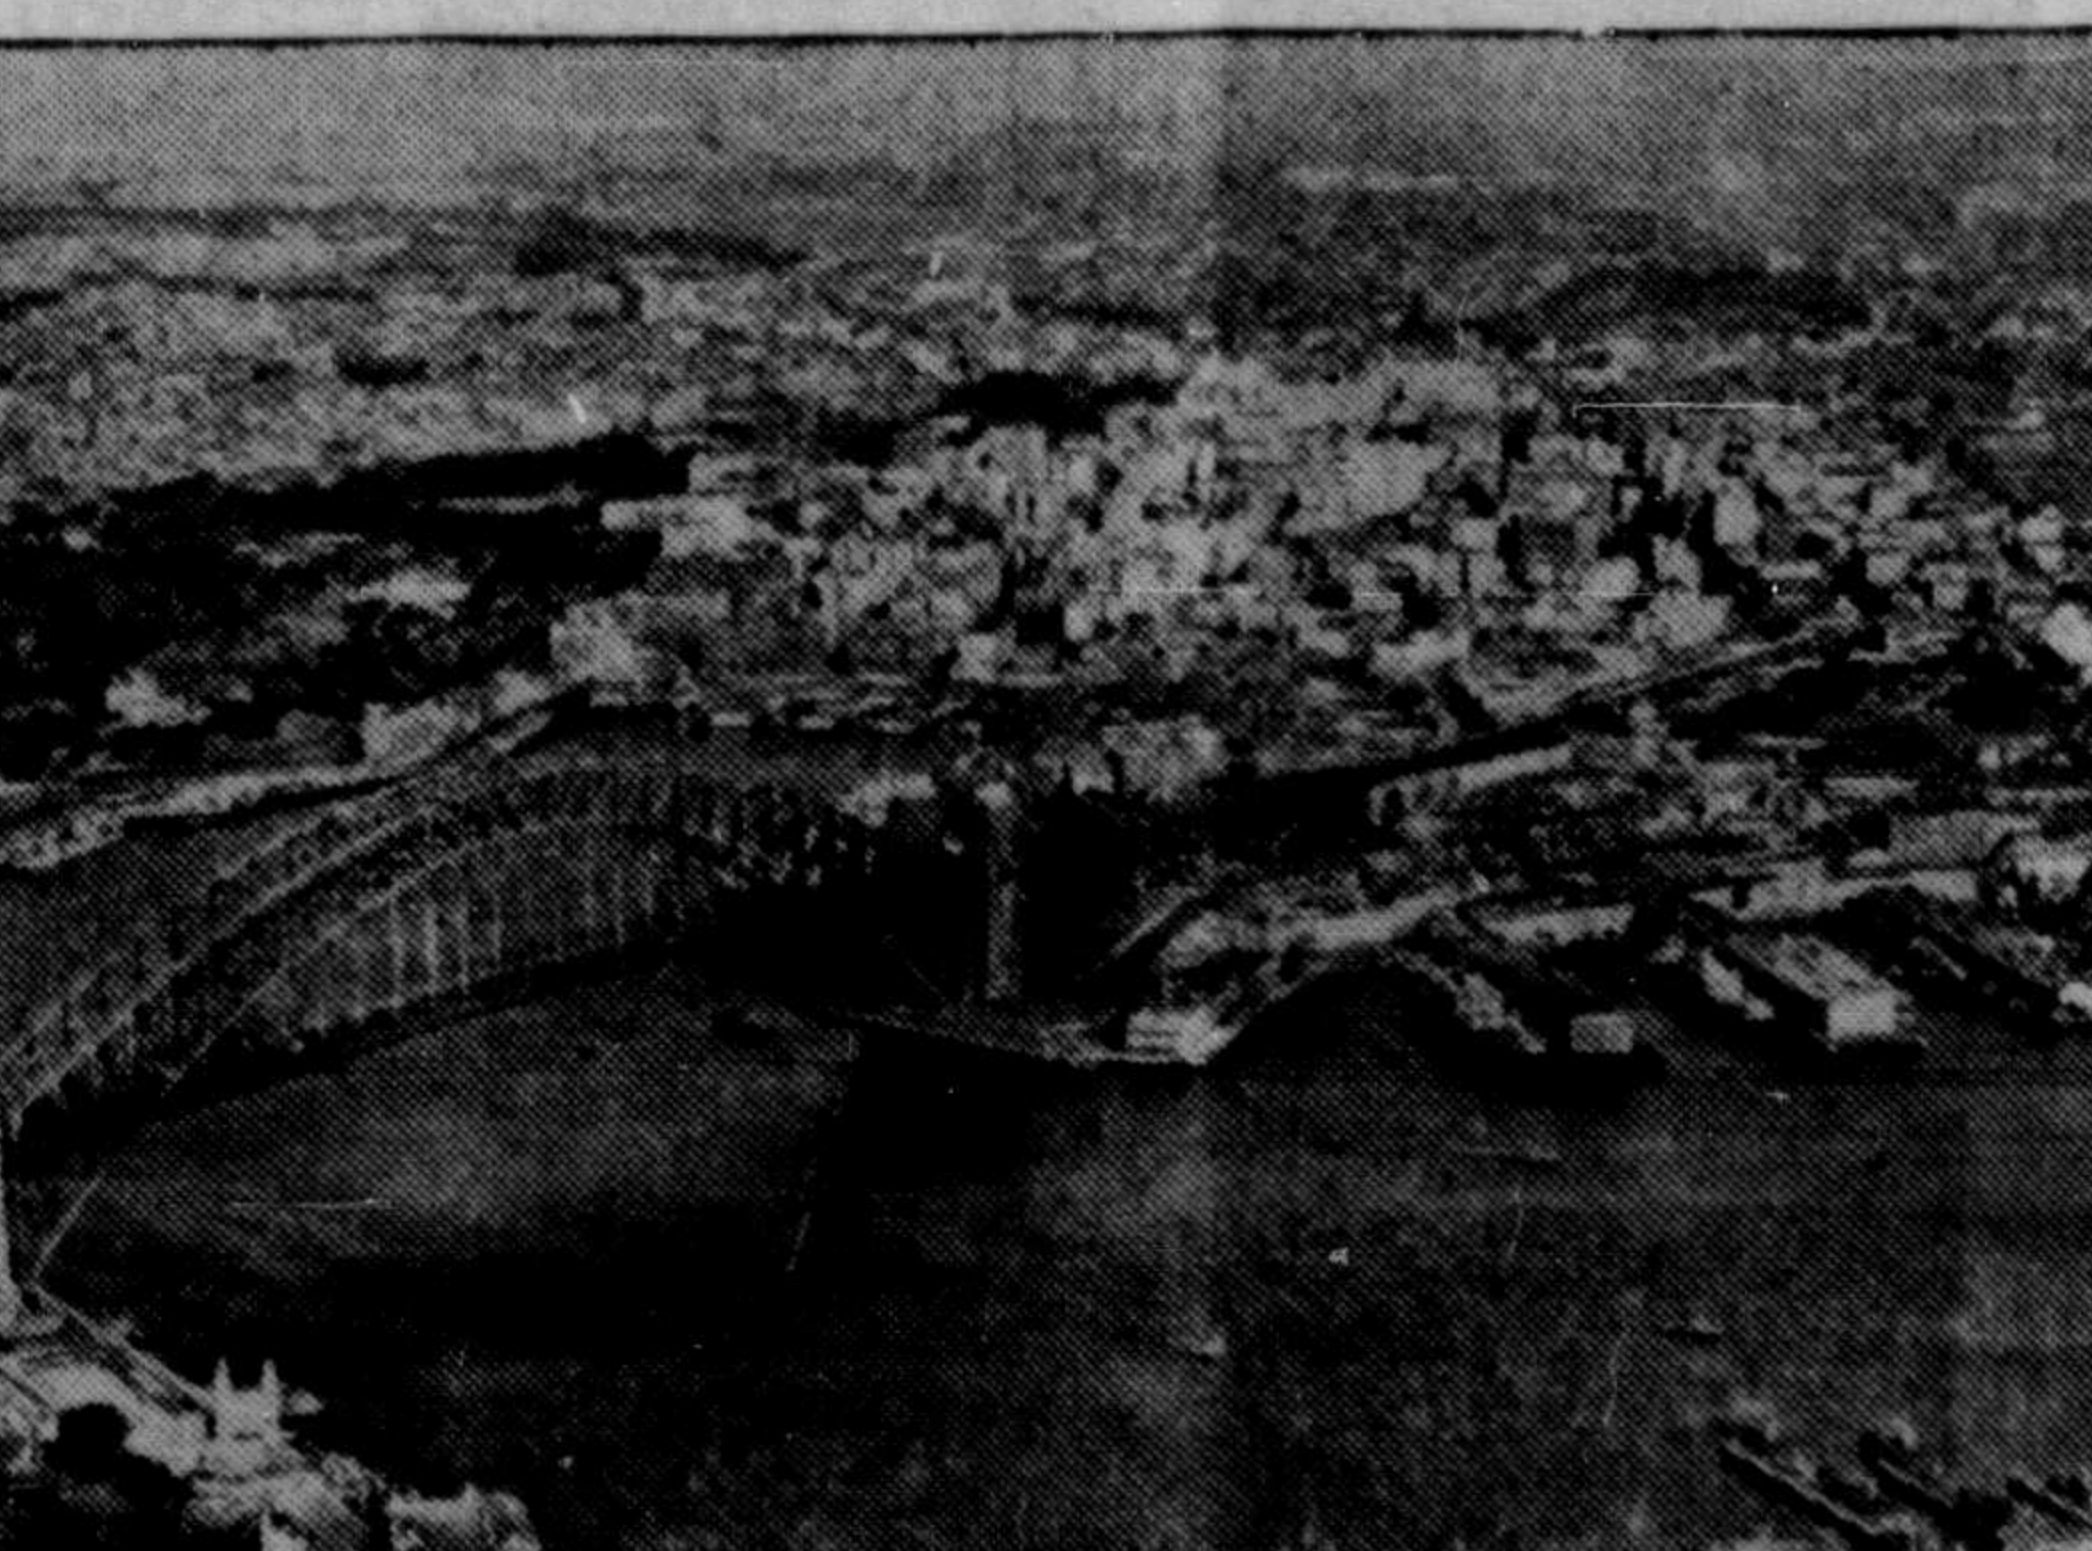

Mail Boxes Being Set Up To Assist City Posties

Those green mail boxes being placed on various street corners here today are not for public use.

Postmaster Jack Burgess reported this morning that the boxes were being placed to facilitate mail delivery, and be for the use of postmen only.

City residents will continue to use the familiar red mail boxes for mailing letters.

The green boxes will be used as distributing centres for the mail delivery routes in the city. Bundles of mail will be placed in them for pickup by the postman on his rounds. They are designed to ease the annual Christmas burden of postmen.

Complete Confusion

A COUPLE of weeks ago the newspapers were full of pictures of Canadians who had won up to $137,000 in Irish Sweepstake prizes.

The jury decided that the six men were not guilty but the presiding judge said he did not agree with the verdict and in the meantime lotteries were being carried on quite openly and legally at agricultural fairs all across the country.

What is a crime when undertaken by an organization like the Canadian Legion is, according to the law, a worthy, righteous activity for an agricultural society.

There in the space of a few weeks was an excellent demonstration of the complete confusion brought about by the present regulations concerning lotteries.

Amendments to the Criminal Code are now being studied and there can be no doubt that the section dealing with lotteries and similar devices must be brought up to date.

No one suggests that Canada be made a happy hunting ground for gamblers but the present situation cannot be endured.

Surrealist painter Salvador Dali is going to make a movie in which Italian actress Anna Magnani will be in love with a wheelbarrow.

She will find in that instrument all the qualities and charms of a human being. Dali was quoted as saying.

Here is a possible scene from this movie. Ann has just brought her new heart-interest home for the first time.

Anna: "Father, I'm so excited. He's waiting in the front room. Come along and meet him now. Please don't spoil everything for me father. It's terribly, terribly important."

"Very well."

And I say to you, father, that I don't care.

"Pause a moment, my child. I made no objection when you brought a spade home to dinner. I was silent when you went to a dance with a power-saw, and then announced your engagement to me. I said in my mind, if my daughter wants to marry a power-saw, who am I to meddle? Thank goodness, the engagement was broken when you learned that the power-saw had false teeth. But marriage to this wheelbarrow—I tell you, daughter, it can not be."

"Why, father, why, why?" "When you were a little girl, Anna, this very wheelbarrow was my property. See? My initials are carved in one of its handles. And then my neighbor Guiseppe borrowed the wheelbarrow. He never brought it back. That is why I say that you and this wheelbarrow can never marry."

"I don't understand, father."

"Since this wheelbarrow is a member of the family, it is impossible. Anna, this wheelbarrow is your own brother."

VICTORIA REPORT By J. K. ...

VICTORIA—It was one of the dirtiest campaigns of all time—the by-election campaign in Victoria. Even the participants, flinging dirt right and left, admitted it was dirty.

Perhaps now, with the by-election out of the way, the politicians in the government in this capital will get down to the job for which they were elected—running the public's affairs.

It is pleasant to contemplate that politics in this politically stormy province should now die down for a while. For two years now the political storm has been waging—break-up of Coalition in January of 1952—a session, a general election, the soaring upwards of Social Credit, two by-elections a year ago this time, another session, defeat of the government on the floor of the House, another general election, another session, and then the Victoria by-election. Ah me—how much longer could one take such a merry-go-round?

The Victoria by-election brought up some interesting points. For instance, Liberal George Gregory came forth with the simplest platform of any politician in history. There was no frills to it, no promises, no nothing, only this, in Mr. Gregory's own words: "My platform is to beat Gunderson."

At the last minute, an Anglican clergyman, Rev. William Hills, jumped into the fray. Once he said that clergymen shouldn't be dabbling in politics. He disapproves of non-conformist ministers sitting on the Social Credit side of the Legislature. Now he'd like to be there himself, as a Liberal, to probably lend what he considers a sane balance to the House.

Anyway, the Rev. Billy—or Padre Hills, as he's called in Victoria—bopped up at a Laurier Club dinner on election eve and, most unparsonlike, he announced that Social Crediters are "the queerest collection of crackpots and demagogues" he'd ever seen.

It's a high-sounding, fancy word, a real $5 word. It's kicked around by politicians in an effort to impress the voters. The dictionary says a demagogue is "an orator or leader who seeks to influence the people by pandering to their prejudices and passions."

Looking back on the Victoria by-election campaign, it might be said the demagogues were not all in one political party. Rev. Hills' speech to the Laurier Club was so fascinating it bears further exploration. Mr. Hills evidently thinks thousands of British Columbians are an awful bunch of dim-wits. He said Social Credit feasts on the credulity and apathy of the people, that Social Credit is the sort of "fanaticism on which dictators march to power."

Well, now, hasn't Rev. Mr. Hills one Social Creditor in his congregation? Apparently not, at least, if he has, he mustn't know of it, or he wouldn't talk that way.

If we're not careful, we're liable to have a religious war on our hands in B.C. That, of course, would be a major catastrophe. My, oh my, oh my! How times do change! In the by-election campaign, Conservative leader Deane Finlayson went over Social Crediters for spending so much money. When the Conservatives were the "ins" they had plenty of money to spend on election campaigns. Now that they're the "outs" they haven't any. It would be interesting to hear an explanation of why the "ins" always have the money and the "outs" never have any. When SC'ers were the "outs" they were as poor as Liberals and Conservatives appear today. When Liberals and Conservatives were the "ins"

Sh School Boys Tell Meeting With Big Bear

(CP)—A two-month forest life complete with irate bears and giant mountain plants. A 2,000-word report by an unidentified member of the group describes in detail its conquest of part of the rugged Cariboo country, 40 miles north of Fort St. James. The group was under the direction of the British Schools Exploring Society.

The party's only regret, says Maj. F. C. Hannell, leader of the expedition, was that they were not joined by some Canadian schoolboys.

Among the incidents most vividly recalled in the report is the brush with a black bear. "I had just gone to collect some firewood when I suddenly saw a black bear looking at me out of a tree about 10 yards away. I backed away and returned with the other chaps and my camera. I had just taken a photograph when there was a great crash in the rocks above us. We all looked up and saw our gaze returned by an enormous black bear which must have been the mother of the first bear. It began to grunt and wave its arms about and started to amble down the rocks toward us looking very annoyed. We just turned and ran."

The longest march was made by a party of 15 boys, three leaders and a medical officer who trudged 116 miles through the region between Lakes Trembleur and Babine in 14 days.

Stamp Markings Used by Ships Rare Item in Diminishing Field
VANCOUVER (CP)—A growing number of stamp collectors are finding a veritable treasure chest in the stamp markings used by coastal, lake and river steamers in British Columbia.

It is a fast-disappearing field, making the ship stamps all the more valuable from the collector's viewpoint.

Only three ship marks now are in use on the west coast. They are those of the Burrard Inlet travelling post office operated by Harbor Navigation Company on the north arm of Burrard Inlet; the Prince Rupert and Prince George, both on the northern service of Canadian National Steamships.

Lake steamer post offices went out when the office was removed from the Arrow Lakes sternwheeler Minto late in 1951.

The lake steamer markings usually gave the name of the ship and quite often the destination. Some only used "Way Mail," the historic marking to denote that the mail was picked up by a carrier and not posted at a post office.

Coroner's Jury Finds Rupert Man Died Due to Exposure After Boat Overturned

Accidental death due to exposure was the verdict returned yesterday by a jury convened by deputy coroner George Dawes to inquire into the death of Victor J. A. MacDonald, 35, of 511 Magnin Avenue East.

The jury said Mr. Dell lost his life between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Sunday off Grindstone Point, Digby Island, after he swam away from an upturned motorboat after it was swamped.

Two companions, Ronald Stewart and Frank Allingham, with Mr. Dell at the time of the swamping, clung to the craft and made it safely to shore.

Describing the fatal trip, Mr. Stewart said that when the trio left the Imperial Oil dock bound for Digby with three drums of oil, the weather was good and there was only a light breeze.

"We figured that we had gone too far to turn back," Mr. Stewart said, "so we decided to go the shortest distance to Digby Island. When we began to take on more water, we all donned lifejackets and jumped into the water."

He told the jury that in the swamping everything in the boat including the oars was lost. The three of them clung to the boat for half an hour shouting for help. Twice they righted the boat but were unable to get the water out of it.

As the boat drifted towards Metlakatla Passage, Vic Dell decided to swim for Tobey Point, about 200 yards away, Mr. Stewart said.

"We called to him to come back, but he went on," Mr. Stewart said. "Half an hour later we thought we heard him shout. He sounded as if he were behind us in the direction of the marker on MacIntosh Rocks."

After Mr. Dell left them the two survivors found a piece of driftwood and paddled towards shore, the jury was told. Mr. Stewart estimated they dragged their frozen selves ashore about 7:30 p.m. in the vicinity of Tony Hnilica's sawmill. The Hnilica son was sent to Ed Wahl's to telephone the RCMP.

Mr. Allingham told the jury that after the three of them

Dr. J. A. MacDonald said that in his opinion death was caused by exposure, not drowning.

Stout Omegas Defence Thwarts CCC As League Leaders Win Fourth Straight

Manson's Omegas made it four straight games in a row last night at the Civic Centre when they turned back two CCC 300 Club rallies to take a 45-36 decision in a scheduled Senior B game.

More team play with fewer individual rushes plus a tight defence paid off for Bill McChesney's league-leaders as they chalked up a 16-2 first quarter lead.

CCC boosted their pace in the second quarter, went after more rebounds, and outscored the Omegas 9-6. Down 22-11 at the half, CCC were outshot 13-10 in the third quarter. Manson's lead stood there in good stead as CCC rallied to take the quarter 15-10.

Pop Pap's Pulp Millers seemed unable to do the right thing last night and several times inaccurate shooting saw breakways that gave Manson's points. Mickey Webster shone for the Omegas, chalking up 10 points and Hartwig was effective for 9. Butch Marshall topped the CCC scoring column with 10 points.

CCC outshot Manson's at the free shot line, netting 10 out of 18 while Omegas only potted 9 out of 21 chances. Both teams committed 14 fouls. Field play saw Omegas sink 18 baskets to CCC's 13.

Two new players, 22-year-old David Hill signed with Manson's and 19-year-old Don Peterson for CCC, saw action for the first time last night, but were only used in the dying minutes of the game.

In the crowd-pleasing Inter-A offering North Star Bottlers stretched their win streak to four games when they downed the battling Watts & Nickerson squad 43 to 36. A big third quarter cinched it for Jack Evans Bottlers as they only held a 22-20 lead at the half. In the third stanza North Star Lounced the McChesney crew 11 to 4 after taking the first quarter 11-8 and being edged in the second 12-11.

Watts & Nickerson's 12-10 edge in the final quarter wasn't sufficient to gain them the decision.

Top scorer for the Bottlers was Rod Tait with 11, trailed by Dick Nickerson with 10. For the Clothiers, Maddy Sedgwick topped his team-mates with 16 points. Bottlers committed 14 fouls to Watts and Nickerson's 19 and sank only 7 of 22 free shots. The Clothiers netted 10 out of 16.

In the opening Inter 3 game Manson's led 11-5, 7-4, trailed 4-6 and were held 7-7 to give them a 29-22 victory over Sunrise Grocery. The win, the third straight for Manson's, dropped Sunrise into third place in the league with one game won, two lost records. Jeffery was top marksman for Manson's with 8 and Bob Sankey scored 7 for Sunrise. Manson's outscored Sunrise 12-10 and sank 5 of 14 free shots to the Sunrise's 6 out of 15.

REFEREES NEEDED BADLY IN ALL BASKETBALL LOOPS

An acute shortage of referees is threatening the Prince Rupert basketball schedules, Civic Centre sports director Fred Calderoni said last night.

A meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Centre to which all non-players or players in different leagues to those needing referees are invited. Mr. Calderoni stressed that any cagers who wish to help out in the present crisis will be instructed by himself at Thursday night sessions. Particularly hard hit is the Inter-A league. Last night Doug Sankey, an Inter-A player, was forced to umpire the clash between North Stars and Watts & Nickersons. Calderoni himself, who doesn't wish to involve the Civic Centre in fan-player-referee disputes, refereed the game. Also laid up last night was Ole Slatta who couldn't turn up to officiate at the senior game because of an injured foot.

Also needed for the various leagues are scorers and timer, who will also be instructed at the Thursday night sessions.

Bomber, Tiger Cat Coaches Close Workouts to Public

TORONTO ©—Trespassers may not be prosecuted but they may suffer the wrath of George Trafton and Carl Voyles should the unwanted visitors dare to gain entrance to the Grey Cup training grounds.

The "no entry" sign was hung outside Hamilton's Athletic Grounds Tuesday night as coach Voyles put his Tiger-Cats through a stiff 90-minute workout.

In Aurora, 25 miles north of here, coach Trafton herded his Blue Bombers into training quarters following a plane trip from Winnipeg and promptly announced that "workouts will be closed to everyone, including the press."

However, the wooden curtain lowered by Voyles and Trafton surprised few.

PASS DEFENCE
Tiger-Cats, still bruised from their gruelling two-game Big Four final against Montreal Alouettes, will concentrate mainly on pass defence and offensive manoeuvres in tonight's practice. No heavy scrimmages are scheduled and players won't wear pads.

Voyles admitted his club will go into Saturday's game knowing little about the Blue Bombers.

Tiger-Cats have only 1952 films of the Winnipeggers in action and reports from assistant coach Ralph Sazio about the Ottawa-Winnipeg pre-season game this year.

Trafton wouldn't give reporters much to work on when asked how he planned to work his team in preparation for Saturday's big game.

His only hint was that he wasn't going to "run them to death Thursday or Friday."

Trafton admitted he was impressed with Hamilton's line play Sunday when Tiger-Cats defeated Montreal 22-11 for the Big Four championship. He flew east Saturday night to scout the game.

When someone asked him how the Montreal or Hamilton line compared to Edmonton, he quickly replied, "How can we tell until we meet them?"

Divided Opinions On Alston

By ED SIMON

NEW YORK ©—In a Flatbush bar a long-time Brooklyn Dodger fan digested the news.

"Dis guy is going to manage the Dodgers?" He slammed a fist against his forehead.

"Who is Alston?"

Wally Alston, 42-year-old manager of Montreal Royals, the Dodgers' pennant-winning International League farm club, was picked to succeed Chuck Dressen in the job Brooklyn regards as on an approximate par with the presidency of the United States. And nobody ever heard of him.

The newspapers were quick to fill the gap. Even when he plotted the Royals to a little world series victory Alston never saw himself spread around the front pages with a fraction of the thoroughness that marked his succession to the Dodger post.

The New York Times, confronted with a day full of pregnant political developments, saw fit to announce his appointment on the front page and bade him welcome in its editorial columns.

The Herald Tribune splashed the story, complete with grinning photograph, in the prominence of the top left corner. Other papers, more accustomed to playing up sports coverage, featured the story accordingly.

The World-Telegram struck an ignominious note. It reproduced the box score of the game in which first-baseman Alston made his only major league appearance. Playing for St. Louis Cardinals in 1936, he went in for two innings, struck out in his only turn at bat, made one put-out and committed one error.

Other writers were kinder. Reporters found Alston a quiet, reserved type, in marked contrast to the effervescent Dressen. But there are indications that he'll get along in Brooklyn. Someone asked him what he thinks of umpires.

"What does anybody think of umpires?" was the reply.

OUTDOORS With Marty

Kispix remains in the forefront of the news. NEIL STERLING having taken another steelhead, this one better than 25 pounds! The trout trip is quite worth while right now, there is open water and cooperative fish awaiting all real anglers who will disregard the weather; I believe any steelhead over 24 pounds has a good chance of making the top five in the Field & Stream contest; and fish of this size are not too rare in these waters. Suggest a telephone call be made to Hazelton or myself for the latest word on water conditions before any trip is commenced. Another angler named MARSHALL (first name not given) defeated a 28 1/2 lb. steelhead on light tackle last weekend, this fish will likely run second to JEFF WILSON'S 30-pounder in the international competition; steelheads of this calibre are worthy any fisherman's best, for two hours or more is required to subdue them, and such a scrap is a lifetime memory to the lucky participant.

Further word from north of Hazelton advises that the rifle should be hand at all times because the moose has fairly displaced the caribou and deer, while the wolf is also present in considerable numbers. There is a reliable report of a Canada lynx frequenting the district and his hide would look best nailed to the bar door.

Babine Lake and the Topley Road had a heavy workout by moose hunters this fall, a party of six well known interior hunters made the trip in last week and received only ducks in reward, looks as though the moose have headed north and west; make a note of this for next year.

Guide LARRY STANWOOD in two successful deer hunts lately, BUSTER HILL got an average two-pointer from Pillsbury Cove with the assistance of LARRY STANWOOD JR., while ARCHIE MITCHELL was bringing out a larger one. This latter outdoorsman is coming along pretty fast for his scanty years.

Salmon showing up in the harbor despite the squally weather and with the hoped for arrival of the herring, waterfront anglers will enjoy good sport.

DR. FOERSTER of the UBC Extension, in his talk at the Legion last week, made startling revelations concerning the high percentage of loss in sockeye salmon when on their way to the ocean after leaving the beds where they were hatched. Since sockeyes start out in a fresh water lake it was possible to obtain completely accurate figures which showed that predatory fish alone accounted for 92 per cent of these smolts IN THE LAKE. This is only one of the places where losses occur, and in this instance 60 per cent of the predatory fish were removed, with the consequence that the number of sockeyes LEAVING the lake for the ocean actually INCREASED 800 PER CENT. Now we fresh water anglers are well aware that the sockeye is a plankton eater and of no use for sports purposes, but right here is our chance to help both ourselves and the commercial people by deliberately fly-fishing for these predators.

I mean, let us flyfish for squawfish, they take very readily, the fact that they are poor eating is of no concern since we fish more for fun than for food; we have here an excellent opportunity to improve our techniques, to learn the delicate feel of the sunken fly when lifted by a taking fish, to learn the precise moment to set the hook, to recognize the slight movements made by the line when the fly is away deep, in short to get a whole lot of sometimes very necessary practice. The squawfish is selected as he is the most numerous of the predatory fish, second comes the dolly, and he may be taken by the wet fly fished near bottom, the red ant is a killing fly for him; the squawfish takes at all depths, but prefers the surface fly in spring, when the squawfish is ripe for taking, being a ready himself to spawn. Probably few people will give you much credit for taking squawfish on flies, but you will have satisfaction in your own mind anyway for having done your part towards a necessary thing, for figures show that our neighbor to the northwest is in a bad way for fish, and that our own sockeyes are presently returning only seven adult fish to spawn where there had been 10 at the beginning of their own progenitors' cycle.

China Makes Gains Under Red Rule

HONG KONG (AP)—After four years under Communist rule, China has made gains. From evidence available, these appear to be the biggest Red improvements in China.

The army. It is the best China ever had. It is also a whopper. Communist China's field armies are believed to include well over 2,000,000 men. Add the Red militia and you have a possible Red Chinese army of 10,000,000.

Flood control. The Reds claim they have set up great reclamation projects to hold back flood waters. Red China still has floods but they have been small ones in the last two years.

Railroads. The Reds are known to have rebuilt old rail lines and laid some new ones. New markets have been opened for farmers and for factory products. All in all, the Reds claim they have reconstructed 3,000 miles of rail lines.

Outside these three fields, Red claims of improvement meet with skepticism, even among neutral observers.

China has had good crops for the last three years. But this apparently came about largely because of good weather and internal peace rather than redistribution, as the Communists claim.

Most of the Chinese industry for which the Reds claim credit was built by the Japanese.

It was stripped by the Russians at the close of the Second World War. Since then the Russians have helped the Reds put much of it together again.

Voters Back Tito Policies

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia's 10,000,000 eligible voters turned out in force Sunday to register their endorsement of the policies of President Tito's Communist government.

The outcome was certain. Under a new election system adopted this year, the voters could take their choice between balloting for candidates presented by the "Socialistic Alliance of the Working People of Yugoslavia" or voting against the government. No parties opposed the Communist-dominated "alliance."

Final results will not be disclosed officially until Wednesday.

Funds Sought To Set Up Kathleen Ferrier Award

LONDON (AP)—Funds are being sought throughout the Commonwealth to establish a Kathleen Ferrier memorial scholarship for talented singers born in the Commonwealth.

Roy Henderson, teacher of the Lancashire-born contralto who died Oct. 6 from cancer, said that the scholarship is intended to "broaden" the woman who rocketed to world fame from a job as a telephone operator.

He said the scholarship will depend on finances for its form and coverage. It is hoped to make it annual at least.

Henderson is a trustee of the proposed scholarship, along with

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE
By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
It's Easy To Go Down
Five on a One-Bid

When your partner opens the bidding with one of a suit, second hand doubles and you hold a good hand—about the equal of an opening bid—you should redouble promptly even though holding a worthless singleton in partner's suit.

It is unlikely that your partner will be permitted to play at a contract of one, redoubled, but if so he should make it by reason of the preponderance of high cards in the partnership.

It is more likely that the opponents will bid a suit of their own and that should be even more lucrative.

The redouble after an opposing takeout double is a versatile weapon. Your partner does not know at once whether you have a balanced hand and wish to double the enemy at any suit they bid or whether you have support for his suit or a good suit of your own.

Your action on the next round of bidding will give him the complete story. In today's deal, Mr. Dale's redouble was automatic. He was willing to double any suit the opponents bid. Or possibly Mr. Masters would bid another suit in which case he was prepared to support it vigorously.

As it happened, the redouble was passed around to Mr. Abel who now wished he had never entered the auction. He made his cheapest bid, one spade, after which he belonged to Mr. Dale.

The opening lead was the deuce of hearts and Mr. Masters won with the jack and returned the six of clubs. Mr.

Abel ducked and the jack won. A small diamond was led to Mr. Master's ace, back came the five of clubs. Mr. Abel ducked again and the queen won.

Mr. Dale cashed the ace of clubs on which Mr. Masters discarded his last diamond. A diamond lead followed and Mr. Masters ruffed with the deuce of spades. He led the king of hearts and Mr. Abel, who was desperate to gain the lead, ruffed with the ace of spades. Mr. Dale dropping the nine of diamonds.

Mr. Abel now led a small spade and Mr. Masters won with the nine and led back the ace of hearts. Mr. Abel ruffed and Mr. Dale overruffed, picked up the trumps and had to lead a diamond to Mr. Abel's king at the end. Mr. Abel had enough for a respectable opening bid but, caught between an opening bid and redouble, he was down five at a contract of one-odd.
