Interviews Stymied When Prisoner Killed During Murder Investigation

By FORREST EDWARDS

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communist program to woo back anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners floundered in uncertainty tonight after a Red dispute with the Indian command, which guards the 24,600 PoWs.

The Communists called off today's scheduled interviews with 500 Koreans after the Indians refused to let them make loud-speaker broadcasts to the PoWs awaiting interviews.

The United Nations command late in the afternoon said it had been told officially that the Reds would interview more Koreans Tuesday. An Indian spokesman later said the Red explanations were "definitely" scheduled for Tuesday but the question remained whether the prisoners would attend.

FIRST SNOW OF SEASON FALLS ON MOUNT HAYS

Winters icy tentacles touched Prince Rupert over the week-end with a heavy frost following the Saturday night Halloween downpour and wet snow coating the trees above the 1,500-foot level on Mount Hays.

Mixed snow and rain fell in the city but temperatures around 40 degrees saw the sleet turn to straight rain by mid-morning.

First B.C. Native Ordained Here Before Large Crowd

St. Andrews Cathedral here was crowded yesterday for one of the most unique ceremonies in the church's history, ordination of the first British Columbia native to enter the Anglican ministry.

The service also saw ordination of a minister for Kitimat and dedication of an altar rail in memory of the late Archdeacon Collier, first missionary on the Queen Charlottes.

Natives from Masset, Greenville, Kitkatla and other points made the trip here to witness ordination of Paul Mercer as a deacon in the Anglican church. Very Rev. Northcote R. Burke, dean and rector of Christ Church Cathedral in Vancouver, in a brilliant address directed to the new ministers, said the ordination of Rev. Mercer was the fulfillment of a dream of long standing. That had been the goal of Archdeacon McCullagh, pioneer missionary in the Naas River area, who had launched the religious training of several young natives, including Mr. Mercer.

Dean Burke also noted that the situation was unique in that Rev. Graham Tucker, ordained into the priesthood, would now hold two full-time jobs in the new Kitimat parish. A fully-qualified engineer, Mr. Tucker was in the employ of Alcan as well as directing the parish. He will be the first minister of any denomination resident in Kitimat.

In his address, directed to the two newly-ordained, the dean said their job was to be shepherd of the flock, not the pet lambs of the congregation.

He outlined the cares and responsibilities they must face, drawing on his own experience for illustration, and said they must help their parishes in the search for peace... "the peace that passeth all understanding... peace through the knowledge of God."

Rt. Rev. Horace G. Watts, Bishop of Caledonia, officiated at the ordination ceremonies and dedication of the carved oak altar rail, presented to the church by members of the Collier family.

Visiting clergy included Rev. M. S. Young, representing the congregation at Masset, who acted as Bishop's chaplain, and Rev. Canon Hinchcliffe of Smithers, who presented the candidates for ordination.

Rev. Canon Basil S. Prockter was in charge of the service.

PIERRE RANCK, a former porter at the Fish Pavilion in Paris's Les Halles central market, wears his old rubber apron and sings a song for his ex-fellow employees. He returned to the fish market for a visit after being signed to sing at the Paris Opera. His rich tenor voice was discovered when a music teacher heard him singing while carrying crates of fish.

Voting Underway At Mill

Voting appears to be heavy in the government-supervised strike ballot being taken at the Columbia Cellulose plant on Watson Island. Results are expected tonight. Voting ends at 8 p.m.

The vote being taken by members of Local 708 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (AFL-TLC) is being supervised by J. K. Adams of the Labor Relations Board and by company and union scrutineers.

Results of the vote here and in eight other mills on the Pacific coast will be announced at each individual plant. Should the vote favor a strike, locals will be advised by the union's international office in Tacoma as to the date of work stoppage.

Tug Deckhand Rescued By Crew-Mate

VANCOUVER (CP)—A tug deckhand swam and floated for 40 minutes Sunday, watching his vessel's searchlight probing for him across the frigid waters of Georgia Straits.

R. C. Kline, 21, of Vancouver, crewman aboard the tug Wilmae Straits, was spotted and rescued by a crew-mate, Frank Torry, who dived to his rescue with a life preserver and line.

Capt. E. R. Woodman, skipper of the Wilmae, said his vessel was towing a string of barges here from Vancouver Island when he heard a splash off the stern. He ordered the tow line taken in, hoping to spot the man overboard as the tug was pulled backward.

When that failed, Capt. Woodman sent out a distress signal, calling on all ships in the area to search, and informed all police boats and RCAF Air-Sea Rescue.

Wilmae Straits circled for 40 minutes, swinging her powerful searchlight, spotted Kline and Torry dived to his aid. Another tug, Larose, which had joined Wilmae Straits in the hunt, took the two crewmen aboard.

On Saturday the disabled 50-foot troller Sea Harp was brought into harbor here after she was hauled off the rocks near Roberts Creek by a "cherry picker" derrick aided by the Wilmae Straits.

Brigade Heads Home

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—The 1st battalion of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade is en route home today after serving two years in West Germany as part of NATO forces. Other units will leave later.

They are being replaced by the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade which will be based at Soest, the new Canadian Army base in Germany.

The 800 men of the 1st battalion boarded two trains here Saturday night for Rotterdam where they were to go aboard the liner Samaria. The ship is due at Quebec Nov. 9.

Abbott Says Re-allocation Of Taxing Powers 'Futile'

MONTREAL (AP)—Finance Minister Abbott said today it would be "futile" for federal and provincial governments to attempt a reallocation of responsibilities and taxing powers.

"There is no magic formula that will settle all our problems at a stroke," Mr. Abbott said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club.

Present tax agreements between the federal government and nine provinces—all but Quebec—are "the best solution I have been able to find," he said. The minister reviewed the development of the agreements, under which the provinces allow federal collection of corporation and personal income taxes and succession duties in return for annual payments.

BASIS UNDERMINED

No one would suggest the existing situation was a "final and perfect solution." There was "no easy answer."

"One thing I think is clear in any approach to federal-provincial fiscal arrangements in Canada," he said. "That is the futility of attempting any one-for-all division of responsibilities and revenue fields."

Mr. Abbott termed present tax fields "crowded" but said the growing share of taxes taken by the federal government is based on "the will of the majority of the people."

NEW APPROACH

A suggestion to "start afresh" and reallocate tax sources among various levels of government "would not be a workable solution."

"This approach might be helpful if the various tax fields were of equal value to all the provinces, but of course they are not.

"Any allocation of tax sources which would be adequate to meet the needs of the wealthier provinces would leave the less well-off provinces unable to balance their budgets or to provide services at anything like the national average. Moreover, a rigid allocation of tax fields could not be adapted to meet changing requirements..."

B.C. Salmon Popular In Britain

VANCOUVER (AP)—H. R. MacMillan of Vancouver is confident the United Kingdom will resume regular purchases of Canadian fish "when the dollar position is improved."

Mr. MacMillan, in a personal report on his recent visit to the United Kingdom as a member of the Canadian Fisheries Association delegation seeking increased markets for fish products, said the delegation received a "fine reception" from British government and trade officials.

"Discussions are still going on and an official report will not be made until the return of J. M. Buchanan, association chairman," said Mr. MacMillan, who is chairman of the Board of British Columbia Packers Ltd.

"However, in my personal view the trip was very worthwhile... B.C. canned salmon is very popular in Britain and seems a permanent item in their diet."

Rain Dampens Kinsmen Effort To Provide Parties For Children

Pouring rain at 8 o'clock Saturday night dampened Prince Rupert Kinsmen club efforts to provide a happy Halloween but not before crowds had attended three huge bonfires and food and candy had been distributed to hundreds of celebrating children.

Early in the evening hordes of goblins, clowns, and masked sprites called at city homes seeking Halloween apples and goodies, and streets were alive with youngsters staggering under pillow-slips full of loot.

Chief of Police RCMP Sgt. Norman reported that damage throughout the city was slight and that the city had experienced one of its quietest Halloweens.

The aerial fireworks display from the top of Acropolis hill brought oohs and aahs from those who saw it and despite the downpour the Kinsmen managed to complete the display.

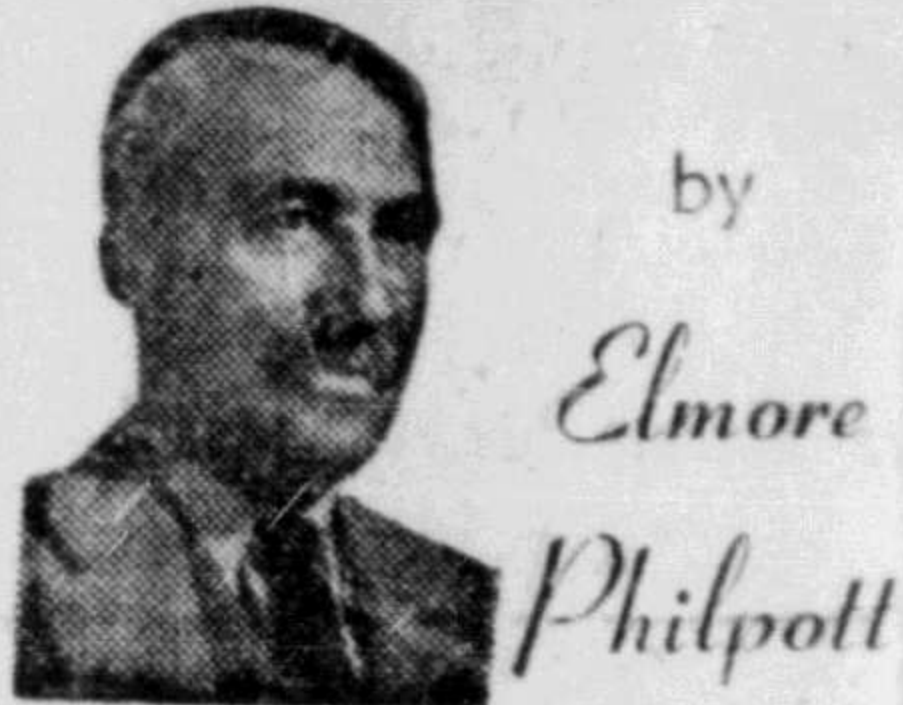

Kinsmen teams at Conrad Street school, Gyro Park and Totem Park distributed more than 100 dozen hot dogs to the youngsters but the rain prevented any costume parades.

In charge of the giant fires at the three parks were Harry Sheardown at Conrad; Johnny Fitzgerald at Gyro and Doug Jelstad at Totem.

Results of the Kinsmen Shell-out ticket competition will be announced tomorrow.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

In Defence of Comics

A WELL-KNOWN Canadian editor, Grattan O'Leary of the Ottawa Journal, has taken a whack at Blondie, Dagwood and other figures of the cartoonist's world with the observation that "you just can't bring up a nation on comic strips."

While we agree with Mr. O'Leary that comics are no substitute for a formal education, if that is what he means, we are unable to work ourselves into the lather of apprehension which so many affect when they discuss the subject.

It is our opinion that, as quiet relaxation for young fry, the funnies have a definite place in the world. Children reading them are often absolutely silent for as much as an hour. This not only indicates absorbed attention, which surely must be beneficial for young minds, but has a relaxing effect on parents. This, in turn, is conducive to a happier and more peaceful home.

Another thing that must be said for comics is that they encourage their young fans to do a certain amount of extra-curricular reading. Although it can be argued that much of what they read is slang, there is nothing so very serious about that. Slang is an integral and frequently most expressive part of our contemporary speech, and condemnation of it is often just prudery.

For adults, too, comics provide a great amount of enjoyment which is hurting no one. If there is the occasional reader whose literature never extends beyond the funnies, then he is a pretty sad case who is not going to benefit much no matter how high our cultural level becomes.

We do not contend that all comics are something that should be included in every home, because certainly there are some viciously bad ones. At the same time, we do not go along with these critical generalizations on the subject. If your nose gets too high in the air, it sometimes becomes impossible to find amusement in anything.

Good Try

POURING rain brought a premature finish to Halloween festivities Saturday night, but Kinsmen still managed to give hundreds of youngsters a good time. Their bonfires blazed brightly and were well attended before the elements dampened proceedings, and their fireworks flared in brilliant spectacles despite mist and lowering clouds.

It was a good effort against odds, Wood for the fires had been gathered in heavy rain the Sunday before, and it burned away in the rain. Because of the weather, the finale was not all that it might have been. Even so, our gratitude to the Kinsmen is undiminished. They did their best and all appreciated it.

If a wife is a nag maybe it's because her husband is a mule—Guelph Mercury.

There are about 48,700 abnormal drinkers in Ontario, and only seven per cent of them are receiving any kind of formal treatment for what is known as Alcoholism. Abnormal drinkers are defined as chronic and problem. But what does that tell you?

The Sun prints another of these half page illustrations, picturing some British Columbia city restricted to the south. They are informing, of course and always of interest. This time it's Duncan, a few miles from Victoria. So far, the paper that describes itself as the west's best, has not journeyed to the raw and vulgar community called Prince Rupert. This, however, is merely mentioned. The Sun says Duncan is "nestled on a sun-drenched plain." After forty years on the coast we have never seen or heard of such a place.

Negotiations between the New York Herald and New York Times have ended for, the Herald has no desire to buy or sell. It used to be different. When the Bennetts were bosses, something was always doing. Dr. Livingstone was lost in the wilds of Africa—a dangerous continent, eighty years ago. "Find him," ordered James Gordon Bennett to a young correspondent named Henry M. Stanley. That one assignment kept much of the world stirred up for years. For that was Herald style.

Queen and Duke will spend most of next winter in Australia and doubtless learn a lot. For one thing they will become familiar with "You'll Come A Waltzing Matilda With Me"—Australia's national anthem. The original ancestor of most Aussies was an English or Irish convict, so concern for the underdog and distrust of privilege and police are basic to the Australians' character and the theme of his song.

Came the war and the whole nation—swagmen (a tramp trooper, selector and squatter alike) crammed their Matildas with GI gear and waltzed through the jungles of New Guinea and the deserts of Africa, winning a war, new prosperity, strong national pride and more power for the common man.

BCHIS Goads Labor

THE cynical policy of double talk and double dealing followed by the Social Credit government of B.C. in regard to Hospital Insurance is a sore provocation to organized labor in B.C.

If this two-faced policy is continued, sooner or later organized wage earners may be goaded to give the government an ultimatum: "All pay or none pay." "Either you collect hospital premiums from everybody, according to the law of the land, or we will take steps to end payroll deductions."

The Social Credit government of B.C. boasts from one side of its mouth that "everybody must obey the law."

In the name of "equal treatment before the law," the Social Credit government arrested scores of Sons of Freedom. The charge was "parading in the nude."

The accused persons were loaded aboard special train and transported hundreds of miles from their home. They were tried in a special court. Some of them—a few feeble old grandmothers and grandfathers—were released and allowed to go back home. But scores of others were sentenced to heavy penitentiary terms—although such procedure was directly contrary to the advice clearly set forth by the research committee of experts, whose work cost the taxpayers of B.C. over $200,000.

NOW compare the Social Credit government's "equality before the law" principle in Hospital Insurance.

Social Credit won the election of 1952 partly by promising to abandon compulsory hospital insurance. Of course the vast majority of the people who voted Social Credit were and are decent law-abiding citizens—not tax dodgers. But included in the 26 per cent of the voters who made Social Credit their first choice were many opposed to the compulsory side of the B.C. hospital service. Also, they included most of the one-tenth of the people of B.C. who owed back hospital taxes. These amounts ran anywhere from $30 to $100. Some of these were really hard up. But others simply would not pay.

WHEN the Socials found themselves in office they had to face the facts of life. They found out that they could not abolish hospital insurance in B.C. without disaster. They found that we got hospital insurance in the first place only partly for humanitarian reasons—but chiefly because it was the only way to prevent utter financial ruin to most of the hospitals of B.C. In other words if it were not for BCHIS the bankrupt hospitals would all be on the doorstep of the provincial government.

In the election of 1953, the Social Credit government—without any legal sanction or moral justification—announced that all back hospital taxes were to be "forgiven."

We were told that the one-tenth of the people of B.C. who were delinquent would rush to pay up. Actually, of the 28,000 delinquents, only 5,325 came on the roll, even temporarily. That is over 22,000 simply laughed and refused to pay.

The scheme is compulsory for those on payroll, and pay-if-you-feel-like-it for others.

Bennett Again Takes Credit For Debt Reduction

KELOWNA, B.C. (P)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett has reiterated his claim that his Social Credit government is responsible for reducing the provincial debt.

The premier, here for a brief holiday, described as "straight political talk" and "ridiculous" a statement made by former Premier Byron Johnson that the coalition, rather than Social Credit, government had been responsible for reducing the debt.

Mr. Johnson said in Victoria early this week that the reductions were made possible through sound financial policies carried out by his government, which was defeated in the 1952 provincial election.

"In the former premier's last budget speech on March 4, 1952, he said the net debt of B.C. was $191,000,000," said Mr. Bennett. "The same budget address states expenditure for capital purposes from borrowing was $28,350,000."

Premier Bennett said he would deal fully "with the large increase in debt which came about during the Johnson administration" when he participated in the forthcoming Victoria by-election campaign.

His statement that the net debt now is $156,000,000 with a net reduction of $34,000,000 is correct and it has nothing at all to do with the sinking funds on hand," continued Mr. Bennett.

He said the hospital insurance fund was still intact and was "much larger" than the $3,000,000 Mr. Johnson said had been left on hand under the former government.

Mr. Johnson had said the debt reduction was achieved by using sinking fund monies.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. Macleod

Tax reduction hopes which have been blossoming fairly profusely in the capital in recent months haven't been withered to any extent by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott's remarks of the past week-end.

As a matter of fact, those remarks have been received in quarters experienced in evaluating such matters as merely a statement of the obvious. When Hon. Mr. Abbott said that tax reductions shouldn't be expected in the years ahead as a result of any heavy cuts in government expenditure, he was merely voicing a truism which everyone in the capital who is at all well informed is fully aware, namely, that government expenditures just aren't going to get any less in the years ahead.

But it's a well recognized fact in Parliament Hill circles that cuts in government expenditures aren't the only sources from which a reduction in taxes can be obtained. One noteworthy other source is an increase in population. And Canada's population is increasing these days with satisfactory rapidity. In the decade covered by the last census it went up by 40 per cent, despite the devastating effect of the war upon family life; and also despite the fact that during much of the period there was virtually no immigration.

Airport Set To Operate Again Today

TRAIL (P)—The Castlegar airport—serving the Kootenay district of the southern B.C. interior—was scheduled to go back into operation this morning following six weeks of idleness.

The airfield was closed down Sept. 14 to allow construction crews to lay a new runway. The first plane in will be Canadian Pacific Airlines' flight from Vancouver.

The Castlegar runway is hard-top 2½ inches thick and 4,800 feet long. Although it will be used mainly by small aircraft, airport officials said it is strong enough and long enough to take almost all four-engined aircraft.

two diamonds on the board.

But it was a lot tougher with the spade opening. How would you play it for 12 tricks? Mr. Champion saw the only chance was to set up dummy's club suit. To accomplish this, however, he feuded three entries to the board after the ace of clubs had been played from his hand.

That pesky deuce of spades in dummy seemed to ruin everything. But after some thought he came up with a sensational play which overcame all of his difficulties. He ducked the first trick and let the jack of spades win.

This delighted Mr. Muzzy. He saw fit to wink at the kibitzers. The great Champion had pulled the boner of the year.

But the hand was not over yet. At trick two Mr. Dale again made his best lead—a low diamond. The queen fell to the ace and Mr. Champion cashed the ace of clubs.

He entered dummy with a trump and ruffed a club return. He led another trump to dummy and ruffed another club. He got to the board with the last trump honor and discarded his three losing diamonds on "the good clubs."

"Your winking was a little premature, Muzzy," needed Mr. Champion.

"Well, anyway," said Mr. Muzzy, grasping at straws, "you could have made seven if you hadn't made that silly play at the first trick."

Mr. Muzzy was wrong. If you win the first trick, you can't even make six-odd. Try it.

American Prisoners Being Held Back By Fear of Execution on Their Return

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A reliable source said tonight that only chains of fear are holding back 19 of the 22 American war prisoners who have refused to return home.

The other three, he said, are confirmed Communists who are dominating the little group of Americans who stayed behind.

The source, who declined use of his name, said the three Communist Americans and their Red captors have drummed terror of going home into the 19 by telling them they now are "outside American law" and can be executed as traitors.

He painted this bleak picture of the neutral zone camp where the 22 Americans are held with one Briton and 332 South Koreans: A handful of deceived, bewildered, frightened men, afraid to remain behind but more fearful of going home because they believe home means death.

The origin of the information cannot be revealed, but it was rated "very reliable." Virtually no information has been made public on the camp.

Twenty-three Americans originally were turned over by the Reds to the neutral nations repatriation commission in September—men the Reds said had refused repatriation.

One, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, returned to the Allies last month by his own choice. Three South Koreans also have returned.

The 22 other Americans are awaiting interviews by the United Nations command on the possibility of their return. The UN command has not announced when it will begin.

Elks Honor UN Nations, Ireland First

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP)—The Passaic Lodge of Elks opened a series of Saturday night socials honoring the United Nations.

The first country to be honored was the Republic of Ireland.

Ireland is not a member of the UN.

Anyone wanting to make anything out of it was invited to see the chairman, James Gallagher and Dennis Lyons.

Corned beef and cabbage was served.

Allies 'Ready' in Korea If Fighting Starts Again

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Gen. Matthew Ridgway arrived here Saturday after a tour of the Korean military area and said he could find nothing there that would indicate the possibility of a resumption of hostilities.

The army chief of staff told a press conference he felt the Communists would strive to keep their armistice agreement but that if they didn't, Allied armed forces are capable of meeting any emergency which might arise.

He plans to remain in Alaska until late Monday, inspecting military installations in the territory.

The general said he thinks Alaska is as safe from aggression as any point in the United States or the free world.

Russia is "not likely to take a shot at Alaska unless she is ready for World War III," he said, and right now the USSR's main action in relation to Alaska is merely "inquisitive."

He warned, however, that Alaska's role in defence is increasing in importance "because of the capabilities of an air attack."

Buffalo Outlaws Ice Box Storage

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo joined a number of other cities this week in banning storage of old ice boxes and refrigerators without first removing the doors. The ordinance is designed to prevent the accidental suffocation of children. Violation calls for fines ranging from $5 to $250.

BRITISH WOMEN'S GROUP SEEKS POCKET MONEY

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's Council of Married Women has called on the government to make it compulsory for husbands to give their wives pocket money. Penniless married women are one of the main causes of shoplifting, the council said.

Aerial 'Food Lift' Planned For Natives of Alaska

SEATTLE (AP)—A large scale aerial "food lift" is being planned for the hard-pressed natives of Alaska's far western coastal regions.

The way was cleared for "Operation Victuals" when President Eisenhower declared it a disaster area.

The emergency action follows the worst Alaska fishing season in many years.

The once rich salmon region of southeast Alaska also was decreed to be a disaster area but an emergency public works program of road, trail and harbor building is planned there to take up the slack.

In the far reaches of the west coast, the severe winter weather precludes a public works program, and surplus foods will be sent to the Eskimo and Aleut natives who inhabit the coast of the Bristol Bay region.

Air Force and other government planes will be used to carry the food to the villages, where 600 families are reported in need.

Air Force planes will carry the butter, powdered milk, cottonseed oil, cheese and other food to main air fields along the coast. From there smaller planes of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will distribute it by landing on small fields and sandbars of rivers.

The air lift will be launched because river boats, which normally could serve some towns, are being put away for the winter season.

Eskimos along the extreme northern coast of Alaska do not depend on the salmon runs that fell off so badly.

Noted Belgian Poet Dies

LONDON (Reuters)—Emile Cammaerts, 75, Belgian poet and historian, died here today.

Cammaerts started a world controversy in 1941 by writing a pamphlet defending Belgian King Leopold's capitulation to the Nazis. He argued that world opinion had "cruelly misrepresented" the facts of the case.

"The Store That Service Built"

You may never build a pyramid

but...

It's a funny thing about building pyramids...getting the base on which to build is usually the toughest part of the job. But, the more blocks you lay safely in place—the easier it becomes. You run into the same situation in building savings. The way to save effectively, of course, is to save systematically—to build dollar by dollar—month by month—year by year.

It takes self-discipline to keep at it—and most people find that a bit difficult. But if you really want to save—and everyone does—Canada Savings Bonds are the one sure way to build that foundation. One firm decision—and saving becomes automatic. You can buy Canada Savings Bonds for cash, of course, but you can pay for them on convenient instalments over 12 months. That's the way to build savings—block by block. And every "block" is available to you as cash at a moment's notice without loss or discount—and in the meantime is earning you 3¾% interest each year.

Bombers Eased Into Finals; Ottawa Trounces Argonauts

By The Canadian Press
A giant cushion of 38 points eased Winnipeg Blue Bombers into the Western Interprovincial Football Union final Saturday at Regina as they dropped an 18-17 decision to Saskatchewan Roughriders but took the total-point, semi-final series 60-23.

The 43-5 lacing Bombers hung on the hobbling Saskatchewan team last Wednesday in the first game of the home-and-home series proved too great a barrier.

Winnipeg now meets Edmonton Eskimos in the best-of-three final with the first game at Edmonton Saturday. Second game is at Winnipeg Nov. 11 and the third, if necessary, in Edmonton Nov. 14.

Saturday Roughriders were out for the win from the start. Bombers' coach George Trafton had to throw his best men to stop a fighting Rider squad that mauled their way along the ground and then took to the air when the slippery field proved too much.

Coach Clem Crowe of Ottawa Rough Riders, with a possible assist from Coach Darrel Royal of Edmonton Eskimos, is steering his club towards a Big Four playoff berth.

Royal employed the split-T formation and a powerful ground offensive to make Eskimos run-away first-place finishers in the Western conference. Crowe, a straight-T formation man from his playing days in the 20s, probably decided Royal's strategy could be the key to Ottawa's success.

He gave the split-T a 60-minute whirl on a flabbergasted Toronto Argonaut club Saturday and it paid off with a 20-3 victory before 20,187 somewhat confused and bewildered fans at Toronto Varsity stadium. A sustained full-game split-T was unknown to the crowd—and to the defending Grey Cup champions.

Victory sent Riders into a second-place tie with Montreal Alouettes who fell apart in the second half to lose 34-18 to the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton. With only two games remaining in the schedule, Argonauts trail Riders and Als by two points and the pace-setting Tiger-Cats by four. One more loss and they are certain to watch the play-off action from the sidelines.

SKI CLUB NOTICE

The Prince Rupert Ski Club held their first executive meeting of the season on October 22, 1953. The condition of the club lodge and cabins was discussed to try to find a way to stop vandalism during the summer months.

It was decided that a general meeting of all club members and prospective members would be held at the Civic Centre on November 3, 1953, for the election of officers. Everyone who is interested is invited to attend.

Ted Lindsay Out of Slump As Wings Drub Canadiens

By The Canadian Press
Ted Lindsay, Detroit Red Wings' sharp-shooting left winger, appears to have snapped out of an unusual scoring slump, and it wouldn't be surprising now if the National Hockey League champions began making a shambles of this season's campaign.

Lindsay, who finished second in the scoring race last year to line-mate Gordie Howe with 32 goals and 39 assists for 71 points, scored two goals and one assist as the Wings whipped the league-leading Montreal Canadiens 5-1 in Detroit. They were his third and fourth goals of the season and the first he has counted in three weeks.

Canadiens' week-end activity was disastrous. On Saturday they were blanked 1-0 by Chicago. Black Hawks in Montreal. The win broke a four-game Montreal victory-streak, their longest this season.

Montreal's setback moved Detroit within two points of a deadlock with them for first place. The whole race was tightened up a notch as Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, in a tie for third place, gained three points in two games each.

Boston beat the Wings 3-1 at Detroit Saturday night and then played a scoreless tie with the Black Hawks in Chicago Sunday night. The Leafs also won Saturday, whipping the Rangers 4-1 at home and then playing a 2-2 tie in New York Sunday night.

Boston and Toronto now trail the Red Wings by three points and are five up on Chicago and New York, deadlocked for fifth place.

The Leafs' win over New York Saturday night was their first in five games. Sid Smith, leading Leaf scorer last season, got two of their four goals with the others going to George Armstrong and Harry Watson.

Ted Kennedy's goal with less than two minutes remaining in the return engagement in New York Sunday gave the Leafs a tie.

Coast Clubs Trim Quakers

By The Canadian Press
Saskatoon Quakers sank into a three-way tie for the Western Hockey League cellar during the week-end.

On their first swing to the coast, Saskatoon bowed 4-1 in New Westminster Saturday and 5-2 in Seattle Sunday.

Flyers, the Quakers and the surging Victoria Cougars are all huddled on the bottom with nine points, two behind fourth-place Seattle Bombers.

In other week-end WHL action, Calgary Stampede's visited Edmonton Flyers and lost 6-4 on Saturday.

Amateur pucksters were active during the week-end in the Okanagan Senior Amateur and Western International hockey leagues.

Disaster AT WINNIPEG

When the mighty Red River burst its banks, it forced 100,000 people from their homes and caused damage estimated at $100,000,000.

In a disaster of this magnitude, Insurance companies went beyond the letter of their contracts to play their part in offsetting the staggering financial loss. Claims were settled swiftly, so that a city and its people could be set on the road to recovery.

The companies writing Fire, Automobile and Casualty Insurance in Canada pay out more than half a million dollars per day to provide financial security against disasters, great and small.
