Victorious General

LARGEST and one of the bitterest battles of Indo-China's six-year-old war, Franco-Chinese forces decisively defeated 20,000 Communist-led Viet Minh assault troops who surged and tried to storm the tiny airstrip at Na San, 117 miles west of Hanoi. The defenders' stand was planned by General of the Army Francois Gonzales de Linieres, officer commanding ground forces in northern Indo-China. The general is shown touring Na San during the big fight.

Legal Duel Between Lawyer, Judge Point of Law Ends in Draw

LARRY STANWOOD
Legal duel on the law between County Court Judge W. O. and the defence lawyer in which the crown cheque was stolen ended yesterday afternoon in an adjournment to next week.
Hogarth, appearing for St. Jermain, former of Kitimat Construction, maintained his client charged under a section of the Criminal Code which applied to the case.
Mr. Hogarth said no evidence had been given that his client had committed fraud, as laid out in the charge.
Judge Fulton countered: "I'm convinced the man stole the money and I can't follow your reasoning at all."
During another heat of argument on legal technicalities, Judge Fulton said to Mr. Hogarth:
"You say you do not argue with the evidence presented here. It is clear to me that the accused is guilty of theft, and must be to you. What would you do if you were in my position?"
"Your Honor, I'd acquit the man instantly," said Mr. Hogarth.

Boxer Tries to Kill Self After Facing Murder Charge

DOVER (CP)—A few minutes after he was remanded on a charge, Charles Mathew, 44-year-old Negro boxer, electrocuted himself in his cell.
Mathew was found dead in the bathroom of his home Wednesday. In an upstairs room, Mrs. Wallberg was discovered tied to her blood-soaked bed, her face smashed to pulp by hammer blows. Police said she had been criminally assaulted.
Two rambling notes were found on a table in the house, one of which said:
"I've done what I've done and I will keep on killing until I do what I want to do."
Mathew stood silent in court to hear the formal charge of murder read, and then the case was remanded until March 12.
After the suicide attempt, he was taken to hospital strapped to a stretcher. His condition is reported as "good."

Housewives Suggest Roasting Food Minister For Coronation

OTTAWA (CP)—Norman Dods, member of Parliament, claims angry British housewives are in a receptive mood to stage a coronation of the minister of food as a coronation celebration.
A coronation concession British housewives this summer will receive an extra ration of four ounces of margarine and one pound of sugar. The normal weekly allowance is four ounces of margarine and 10 ounces of sugar.

Europe Uncertain Over News No Tears Shed Nor Jubilation

By The Canadian Press
LONDON.—Western Europe reacted with fear and uncertainty to the news that Stalin is dead.

Except for loyal Communists, there is no shedding of tears. But neither is there jubilation. Most Europeans took the news grimly, with only a few expressions of hope for a letup in the cold war.

The biggest worry expressed everywhere was that the new ruler—or rulers—of Russia might scrap Stalin's wary cold war policies and possibly plunge the world into a shooting conflict.

Western diplomats studying the official death announcement found scant clues to who takes over now.

But the announcement made it clear that there would be no new bid for friendship with the west.

Some western observers saw signs of a possible crack in Communist unity in Moscow in the death announcement's call for an all-out "struggle against internal and external foes." But many feared any such disunity might heighten the danger of war rather than lessen it.

At Ottawa, the External Affairs Department said the Canadian charge d'affaires in Moscow, Robert Ford, has been instructed "to convey condolences of the Canadian government to the Soviet government."

Kitimat Bill Introduced In Legislature

VICTORIA (CP)—A bill providing for incorporation of the municipality of Kitimat was introduced in the Legislature on Thursday.
The bill calls for appointment of a city manager to handle administrative details and for the election of a reeve and councillors before the regular annual civic elections in December 1954.

Candidates for office must be registered property owners who have lived in the municipality for three months before nomination day.

Voters must be 21 or over who have lived in Kitimat for six months.

Ottawa Willing To Intervene In Grain Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said Thursday in the Commons the government is willing to intervene in the west coast grain handlers' strike.

He said the Labor Department is watching the situation and will be "happy" to move in "at the first sign that such mediation will bear fruit."

Mr. Gregg was answering a question from Arthur Laing (L—Vancouver South) as to whether the government would appoint a mediator in the event of a joint request from the disputants.

Firemen, City Reach Wage Agreement

Settlement of the 1953 wage agreement between the city and Prince Rupert Firefighters Association appeared near today following acceptance by firemen of city proposals under one condition.

A union spokesman said today firemen will accept a "no wage increase" proposal with certain fringe benefits included providing the city agrees on a pension clause.

The union originally had sought a 12 per cent wage increase.

Firemen want the city to absorb the one per cent increase to civic employees if a new pension plan proposed by the Union of B.C. Municipalities is adopted by the Legislature.

The new pension plans calls for an additional one per cent contribution by employees and further contributions by the city.

Fringe benefits agreed to by both the union and the city include:

- Holiday pay for two weeks after one year, for three weeks after five years, and for four weeks after 15 years.
- Additional week's holiday annually in lieu of statutory holidays.
- Sick leave allowed to be accumulative to 24 days.

Service pay, included in the 1952 agreement, has been cancelled in view of additional benefits.

The city wage committee has yet to hear from the Civic Workers' Union (inside and outside). Its 12-per-cent wage increase demands also have been countered with a "hold-the-line" policy of no higher wages this year.

Electrical Workers Union last month accepted the 1952 agreement after seeking a five-per-cent increase for linemen and a seven-per-cent boost for telephone operators.

Mrs. Black Slightly Burned In Home Fire

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A piece of toast nearly cost Mrs. George Black, first lady of the Yukon, her home on Thursday.

Mrs. Black, who recently celebrated her 87th birthday, was alone in the house preparing breakfast when the toast caught fire when she left the kitchen for a few minutes. Flames spread to the curtains.

The kitchen was charred and scorched and other rooms damaged by smoke and water.

Capt. Black was en route to Atlin when the fire broke out.

Mrs. Black suffered severe shock, but her only injury was a slight knuckle burn.

Stalin's Body Taken To Hall of Columns

LONDON (Reuters)—Moscow radio announced tonight that George Malenkov has been designated Premier of Soviet Russia.

Malenkov, close associate of Stalin, took a particularly prominent role in last fall's Russian Party Congress.

A dark, stocky man who hates the west, Malenkov is 50 years old.

Others mentioned as possible successors were Leventy Pavlovich, Russia's super-policeman as head of the dread secret police, and Vyacheslav M. Molotov, former foreign minister and one-time prime minister.

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW.—The body of Prime Minister Stalin, felled by a stroke and heart failure at 73, was removed to Moscow's Hall of Columns today to lie in state.

Funeral service befitting one of the most powerful men in history is in preparation.

The Soviet "Man of Steel," who ruled one-sixth of the earth's surface and dominated one-third of the peoples, died Thursday night in the Kremlin, four days after being stricken.

Death came at 9:00 p.m. and was announced to the Russian people eight hours later.

Stalin lay paralyzed and in a deep coma at the end.

There has been no hint as to who would succeed the man who led the Soviet Union's 200,000,000 people for 29 years and called the plays for Communists the world over. But a joint statement,

Processions to Continue

Processions for those wishing to say "svidaniya" (goodbye) will continue day and night until the funeral. No date has been announced for final services, nor has there been any word where Stalin is to be buried.

The Hall of Columns is only a few hundred yards from the great Mausoleum in Red Square where V. I. Lenin, Stalin's predecessor and father of Russian Communism, lies embalmed in a glass coffin.

Moscow's embassies and legations lowered flags to half-staff.

Official announcement of his death said "there has ceased to beat the heart of comrade-in-arms and genius—continuer of the cause of Lenin, the wise leader and teacher of the Communist Party and Soviet People—Joseph Vissarionovich Stalin."

"The death of Stalin, who gave all his life to dedicated service to the great cause of Communism, is the heaviest loss for the party and workers of the Soviet nation and for all humanity."

It was issued in the name of the Communist party's Central Committee, Council of Ministers (government cabinet) and the Praesidium of Supreme Soviet.

The Russian people appeared stunned and grief stricken.

Flags Snapped in Wind

All over Moscow, black-bordered red flags snapped in the cold wind. Thousands of yards of black crepe were being hung on buildings and homes.

Stalin's fatal brain hemorrhage struck him Sunday night in his Kremlin apartment, leaving him unconscious and with right side paralyzed. Despite efforts of 10 Kremlin doctors, his condition steadily worsened. Thursday physicians announced his heart was faltering.

The last months had been a period of intense activity for the Soviet chief. He wrote his latest work, "Economic Problems of Socialism in the USSR," a 25,000-word partial blueprint for Russia's economic future—and took a leading role in last fall's big Soviet Communist Party Congress.

A resume of the leaders fatal illness, broadcast by Moscow radio, said the brain hemorrhage was caused by high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. Paralysis of the right side, loss of consciousness and breathing difficulties appeared the first day.

Minds Already Alert

A MAN whom millions, either voluntarily or by compulsion, worshipped as their god has proved to be a mortal one. Death has dealt with him as finally as it does anyone else, so the next human god who rises to take his place is free to make himself even greater in the eyes of his followers, as Stalin did to Lenin.

Thus while the Soviet Union plunges itself into black mourning, there are minds already alert with less sacred thoughts. The machinations of conspiracy, so expertly practiced by Stalin himself, become part of the funeral rites.

This is as it should be.

In the first place, prayers by themselves are somewhat uninspiring in a heathen existence where there is no place to which to consign the spirit of the deceased. At best, the Russians can only pray that Stalin's spirit will wander about the world, seeking out the dark cellars of intrigue. For a spirit of that advanced age this could prove tiresome, and it will probably find more warmth and comfort in the hearts of those Godly believers, whom Communism persecutes but who nevertheless will pray in charity for the eternal rest of the Russian leader.

The conspiratorial background is appropriate secondly for the reason that plotting against one's fellow is inherent in the Communist creed. The omnipotent Lenin, father of the party, personally showed his complete endorsement of this fact when he wrote on his deathbed to his wife: "Stalin must be removed."

That was the grand gesture, the magnificent flourish which revealed the great Communist master true to character right to the end. Had he said something inane like, "May the wish of the people determine who shall lead them," he would not only have done dreadful damage to the whole principle of the cause, but would have failed to set the stage for the Stalin-Trotsky feud which brought the Communist practice of back-knifing to such high art.

Throughout the democracies of the world there will be mourning for Stalin. Much of this will be a generous tribute to a man of recognized administrative ability who, for this and for the inspiration he gave his country in the last war, merits high admiration.

Unfortunately, some of it will also be prompted by a fear that the Russian move to embrace the world will be interrupted, if not altogether halted. Those who mourn for this reason are the shyler mourners who would offer their tears to Stalin with one hand and the blood of their countrymen in Korea with the other.

OTTAWA DIARY By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

The government isn't worrying nearly so much these days over the possibility of another record wheat crop this year. Recent reports of moisture conditions from the West-American as well as Canadian—have never been more unpromising at this time of the year.

The Canadian West hasn't had any substantial moisture since last September. Sections of the country now are so dry that dust storms, reminiscent of the drought years of the thirties, have re-appeared in some regions.

In the Western wheat-growing states the situation is similar. At the present moment American Government wheat authorities agree that even a normal crop during the coming season is most unlikely.

Market-wise, the outlook holds important compensations. Despite record volume of world wheat sales in recent months, the prospect is that when the crop year ends next July 31st a carry-over equivalent to a full year's normal crop will still be on hand. Under those circumstances a bumper crop for this year could hardly avoid wrecking the existing price structure—which growers regard as close to the minimum for profitable operations.

Jay-Walkers Pay

VANCOUVER — Police started a second campaign against jay-walkers here and in the first seven days handed summonses to 126 alleged offenders. Police superintendent Sydney Lloyd said however that "many first offenders get off with a warning."

But politically the prospect isn't equally pleasing to the St. Laurent Government. Any calamity of crop failure inevitably pulls down the morale of the farmers affected, regardless of the prosperity which may have preceded the loss. Western farmers, furthermore, are inclined to be superstitious about drought after their experiences in the nineteen-thirties. They are afraid of the drought years coming not singly, but in a cycle.

The fear of the Liberals is that a Western crop failure this year will coincide with the Federal general election and that it will find the Prairie voters in a restive mood. That's one reason why the Western Liberals would have liked to have seen polling day advanced to this spring. But with the March 15th deadline for such action now little more than a week away, the possibility of such a move appears not so much remote as non-existent.

WHEAT AGREEMENT

Meantime, the renewal of the International Wheat Agreement is being pressed with all vigor by the Canadian delegation at Washington. Since his return from his South American trade mission, Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe has made it a point to inform himself of the progress which the Canadian negotiators are making. He reports himself as satisfied and as relatively optimistic.

The Trade Minister says that he believes that an agreement will result on over-all terms of greater advantage than the one now expiring. He has refused to elaborate on that cryptic phrase of "over-all terms of greater advantage."

Business Man Kicks

A VANCOUVER business man registers a strong kick against my plan to increase Canadian sales to Britain:

"Your trick solution for the British dollar shortage is simply another give-away plan. Of course the British would endorse that. Your scheme would saddle the Canadian taxpayer, through the federal treasury with billions of inconvertible sterling."

However, the business man admits "of course the plan would enormously increase the export of Canadian products to Britain."

LET US think of a simple example to show how the plan would work out.

Our Canadian government now owns 29 million pounds of surplus butter bought to keep prices to farmers above the floor of 58 cents per pound. Yet we cannot consume, or sell, the new butter coming on the market even in wintertime.

The U.K. Economic Record for February 1953 states "the present butter ration in Britain is 2 ozs. a week and—given the existing dollar shortage—it seems unlikely that any increase can be expected."

Canada has a huge surplus of butter we can't sell. But Britons can only get two ounces of butter per week because they lack our particular kind of money to buy. Please note that the British have plenty of money, but it is the wrong kind of money. It is the pound sterling and not the Canadian dollar.

MY PLAN is simply to have Canada and Britain do in peacetime what Canada and the United States did during wartime, under the Hyde Park agreement. That is, our governments would agree to keep the overall balance of payments even year by year. No actual cash would change hands.

Let us see how this would work out. Any Britisher who wanted to buy Canadian butter, lumber, wheat, apples, salmon would do so under ordinary business competition. That is, price and quality would have to be right, or there would be no sale.

But Canada would accept sterling for all such sales, but using up her net trade balances year by year by investments in the sterling area.

MY CAUSTIC but friendly critic is all wrong when he infers that in return for our huge surpluses of butter, salmon, lumber etc. we would get nothing but worthless sterling balances on the pages of a ledger in a London bank. The point is, there would be no balances.

Suppose Canada had to make investments at the minimum rate of two or three hundred million dollars per year—for trade runs in our favor by about that amount.

We could buy back on the open market in Britain, or the sterling area such things as our own CPR common stock, which is still largely held in Britain.

We could pay off the very large mortgages on our own property, and redeem British-held bonds, issued by Canadian governments. But more important than that—we could share with our own good hard Canadian cash the risks and privileges of opening up that vast and rich one-fifth of the earth that is still in the Commonwealth.

So we bought our "fridge" at the B of M...

My, how I wanted that thing I got to dreaming about it and calling it "our refrigerator," though it still sat in the shop window. We saw it every Saturday night in the Acme Hardware as we walked home from the movies.

John said we couldn't afford it, and was dead-set against selling our one remaining bond or drawing on Aunt Jean's $200 inheritance we had tucked away in a special savings account to be forgotten except in absolute emergency.

"But, John," I wailed, "we can't go on losing food with that old worn-out fridge. And what about the repair bills you have to pay for it every few weeks?"

He just bit his lip.

That was two weeks ago.

Funny how things happen. Next day I read an item in one of those women's columns about "borrowing and saving" by Personal Planning at the Bank of Montreal. It was about a situation sort of like our own.

So into the local B of M branch I went. Showed the Manager the clipping from the paper, told him our situation exactly, and in ten minutes he said he thought we could work out the problem without too much trouble. He asked me to bring John in to discuss the full details. As we walked out of his office, he gave me a copy of "Personal Planning".

That book opened our eyes about our finances.

The very next day John and I saw Mr. Easton, the Manager. After a few questions to my husband about his job, his salary—about our bond and our "emergency" bank balance, he said he'd be glad to lend us the $350 needed for the fridge. He was satisfied we could pay off the loan in a year at $30 a month, and we arranged to transfer our special savings account to his office and to pledge our bond until the loan was paid.

Mr. Easton talked over the budget-plan John and I had begun to work out... said we were starting out right. "Even though you've got a bank loan," he smiled, "you're really saving your savings."

And that fridge... such a beauty. Already, John and I both call it "MY BANK".

Saving is the only way to move ahead of your worries, and stay ahead. And — sometimes — borrowing at the B of M is the best way to save. Find out how to save despite today's high prices. Ask for your copy of "Personal Planning" at your neighborhood B of M branch. It's yours for the asking.

Up to now the "Over 70 Club" has met only once each year—for their annual Christmas dinner.

The social will be held next Thursday in the common lounge at the Civic Centre between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Tea and refreshments will be served by members of the Women's Co-ordinating Council and a film will be shown.

Howe Sets Scoring Record As Wings Dump Rangers 7-1

By the Associated Press
Gordie Howe cracked the all-time National Hockey League point record by figuring in five goals—including two of his own—as the first place Detroit Red Wings all but clinched the NHL title with a 7-1 rout of the last-place New York Rangers Thursday night.

At Boston, the Bruins snapped out of a seven-game losing streak as goalie Sugar Jim Henry blanked Montreal 5-0 to keep alive Boston's playoff hopes. It was Henry's eighth shutout of the season, his fourth against the Canadiens.

At Chicago, the Black Hawks scored a 3-1 victory over Toronto

Maple Leafs and took a firmer hold on third place.

With two goals and three assists, Howe built his 61-game total to 90 points on 45 goals and 45 assists.

He set a record originally two years ago with 43 goals and 43 assists for 86 points and then tied it last year with 47 goals and 39 assists.

Max Bentley Clears Mystery About His Future in NHL

DELISLE, Sask. (CP)—Max Bentley hesitantly picked up the jangling telephone at his farm home here and cleared up a mystery or two about his future in the National Hockey League.

The centre-ice veteran of Toronto Maple Leafs said he had slipped out of Toronto and come home for a complete rest. He also made it clear that he doesn't intend to give up hockey just yet.

The Delisle dandy said he hopes that a week or 10 days on the farm will improve his health to the point where he can go back to the Leafs and be of use in the playoffs.

"The Leafs have always been good to me and I most certainly will do my best to get well and be of help to them in the playoffs," he said. "But right now I can't say just how soon I can go back as I'm not in any condition to play hockey the way I want to play it."

Besieged with long distance telephone calls, reporters, radio-men and scores of well-wishers, Max first decided not to accept any except from members of his own family and close friends.

However, he was pestered so much he finally let down the barrier and talked to a few of the news-seeking hounds who had been shadowing Delisle.

When finally reached he was in bed.

YORKTON, Sask. (CP)—Eleven members of the Peter Yaholitsky family gathered for their first reunion in 26 years, to attend the golden wedding anniversary of their parents. Mr. Yaholitsky died the following day.

Ben Wagner Spares 'Bedpost' Split in Men's 5-Pin Loop

A more sensational shot than occurred this week on the alleys, bowlers would travel far to see when Ben Wagner of Woodbutchers in the Men's Five-Pin League spared a "bed-post" split (two corner pins).

Besides teammates, the sizzling spare was witnessed by foul line judge Garnet Hull, who said: "It's the first time in my life."

Team captains of the league decided that playoffs will take place between the top six teams on March 10. Each team will roll five games, total pins and handicaps to count.

The league banquet will be held April 10, time and place to be announced.

A new men's high three of 596 was captured by Art Olson of Spares using games of 179, 218 and 199 to top former high triple count of 574 rolled by E. Lugin of Delnor.

In the ladies division, Elsie Anderson of Delnor topped single games with 209 and Ethel Georgeson of Chumps added games of 165, 164 and 176 for a triple score of 507.

Spares set a new page for single game score with 928 and also captured high three honors with 2504.

Results—Chumps 4, MCs 0; Spares 4, Northern Dist. 0; Art Murrays 3, Delnor 1.

Standings—Chumps 26, Spares 25, Delnor 21, Art Murrays 21, N. Dist. 15, Mcs 12.

Detailed Forest Inventory Under Way In Area to be Logged by Celgar Company

VANCOUVER—Work on the Celgar Development project on the Arrow Lakes in 1953 will include preliminary testing at the plant near Castlegar and a continuation of the forest inventory in the management license, M. W. Mackenzie, the Celgar head, said Thursday night.

Mr. Mackenzie, Executive Vice-President of Canadian Chemical and Cellulose Company, Limited, of which Celgar Development Company Limited is one unit, declared that all of the coming year would be required to gather data necessary for the development of a working plan which must be produced prior to the signing of a management license contract with the Government.

Speaking at a meeting of University of British Columbia Commerce Department at Hotel Vancouver, the former Deputy Minister of Defence Production said:

"We are now engaged in the detailed surveys and studies that are necessary to determine the course best suited to make efficient use of the forests of the Arrow Lakes region. These involve, among many other things, a detailed forest inventory by aerial photography and timber cruises, extensive water sampling, soil testing for plant foundations, laboratory studies of wood species drawn from the area to determine the most appropriate pulping process to use, and extensive market surveys to determine the all-important question of how the products to be made can be sold."

In the address dealing with "Public Service and Private Gain," Mr. Mackenzie cited the Arrow Lakes project as an example of the public service rendered by the limited liability companies of the current era.

The district involved, he said, has been unable to support a major forest industry in the past.

"Much of the timber is over-mature hemlock about which Chief Justice Sloan in his report of 1945 suggested that the important thing to do was to get rid of it so that new growth of more valuable species could come in."

"The timber itself is worth little or nothing unless someone is willing to risk the very substantial sums involved and to spend the time and effort necessary to build a modern pulp mill. That is an expensive and time-consuming process."

In other matters the statement supported the claim "of civil servants to enjoy the benefits of collective bargaining and arbitration on the same basis as other branches of labor."

The executive made plans for federal and provincial election campaigns and set up a central campaign committee with a budget of $100,000.

RADIO COMEDIANS PLAN FIVE-WEEK KOREAN TOUR

OTTAWA—Radio comedians Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, with singer Terry Dale, will leave Vancouver late this month for a five-week tour of Korea and Japan to entertain Canadian troops.

Army headquarters said the small troupe will put on shows wherever they may be in Korea.

CCF Praises Educational System and Teaching Body

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial executive of the CCF has declared "full support of the present educational system in British Columbia and our confidence in the teaching body and officials of the department of education."

In a prepared statement, the executive officers criticized the "Rolson formula" and attacked "malicious statements" made about school teachers.

The statement followed a furious week of debate in the Legislature that was precipitated by attacks on the education department by J. A. Reid, Social Credit member for Salmon Arm.

"We . . . condemn recent untruthful and malicious statements designed to break the confidence in our fine teaching body and our education policies," the statement said.

It was claimed the "Rolson formula," which will wipe out the municipalities' share of the sales tax and replace it with increased government grants, will increase the burdens on school boards and municipalities.

It also would "result in an increase in local debt and deterioration of services."

The majority of B.C. citizens are "justly proud of B.C. educational institutions and policies," the statement said.

"At a time when education needs further financial support owing to an expanding school population, we find it deplorable that the Social Credit government is proposing drastic cuts in school expenditures, adult education and Pro-Rec services."

In other matters the statement supported the claim "of civil servants to enjoy the benefits of collective bargaining and arbitration on the same basis as other branches of labor."

The executive made plans for federal and provincial election campaigns and set up a central campaign committee with a budget of $100,000.
