Four Charged for '48 Shooting

By The Associated Press
DETROIT. — Authorities bringing criminal charges against four men today announced a "solution" to the attempted assassination of union leader Walter Reuther in 1948.

"This is the solution, but it goes farther," Wayne county prosecutor Gerald K. Brien said.

Two of the accused men are in custody, one is being sought and another is reported in a local penitentiary.

Brien and Donald S. Leonard, city police commissioner, announced the arrests and charges.

Two of the accused men were identified as Carl Renda and his father-in-law, Sam (Sam) Renda, both witnesses before the Kefauver Senate crime investigating committee here in 1948.

Renda is in custody at police headquarters. Perrone is being sought.

OTHERS NAMED

One named in the charges is Peter Lombardo, described as an inmate of the penitentiary at Tedde Haute, Ind.

Brien did not give out full details of the arrests but said they have evidence as to what really happened. This is the first time it may go farther.

There may be other involvements.

Charges against the four men contained two criminal offenses. One charged with assault with intent to murder, another with conspiracy to assault with intent to murder.

The attempted killing of Reuther and the attempt also on the life of his brother, Victor, more than a year later, were the result of a long investigation.

Each of the two CIO union leaders was shot at his home by a would-be assassin who fired through the window.

Whether it was the same man on both occasions police could not say.

Reuther was shot April 20, 1946. Victor was shot May 24, 1947. Walter lost part of an arm as a result. Victor was blinded in one eye.

Walter Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers and also president of the

City Dump Rat Free In Poison Campaign

No rats have been seen at Prince Rupert's garbage dump at the city limits since December 28, city works superintendent G. E. Beaton said today.

So effective was the poisoning campaign, started early in December, that daylight checks, made by standing and watching for half-hour spells, showed that by December 16 only 57 rats were counted as survivors of the thousands which infested the dump prior to its closure.

On December 20th watchers counted 39 rats and less than a week later, December 26, only nine were spotted. On December 27, after the dump had been closed for more than three weeks, two rats were seen and the next day only one was left.

Daily checks since have disclosed no rats.

The poisoning of the city dump was carried out in conjunction with the area land-fill project at Alsema Park, where for the past three weeks a dragline and tractor has been impacting and covering the city's daily garbage quota.

The city had a week's free demonstration of the machine and to facilitate the anti-rat campaign the council rented the machine for a further two weeks at $65 per week. The machine has but a few more hours to work.

Mr. Beaton said today that if the city does not buy the machine "we will have to go back to dumping garbage at that rat-breeding ground out on the highway."

At a recent council meeting the city superintendent said the machine was sufficiently versatile that it could be used for only two hours a day on the garbage fill project and could be used anywhere else in the city for ditch-digging, leveling ground, obtaining fill and ground clearing for the rest of the work day. Cost of the machine is between $28,000 and $29,000.

RCN Cruiser
 To Make Trip To Tasmania

OTTAWA (CP).—The Canadian cruiser Ontario will participate in ceremonies marking Queen Elizabeth's visit to Tasmania next month.

The RCN said today the 10,000-ton warship will sail from her Esquimalt base Jan. 13 on a training cruise to Australia and New Zealand.

Following a visit to Melbourne from Feb. 6 to 12, the Ontario will proceed to Hobart for a 12-day stay where her crew will participate in festivities marking the Tasmanian visit of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

From Hobart the ship will sail to New Zealand for visits to Milford Sound, Dunedin and Wellington.

The ship will then return to Australia for calls at Sydney, and Brisbane. She is due back in Esquimalt April 15.

Sunset rose.

Mrs. Priest reports she has never before seen flowers blooming in Prince Rupert this late in the season. Several years ago she had roses for Christmas but nothing else. She also notes that spring bulbs in neighbors' gardens are shooting up and that some of her plants are showing new growth.

The plants blooming now in her garden flowered as usual last summer and she thinks perhaps the mild weather of the past few days has fooled them into thinking spring is here again.

Mrs. Priest's home today was brightened by a bouquet from her garden, including Sweet William, Siberian Wallflower, yellow daisies, pink and white daisies, white Arabis, and a pretty yellow

4th Arrest
 Seen in U.S.
 Robbery

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON. — Secret service agents hunted today for $31,700 still missing in the New Year's Eve theft of $160,000 from the United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

They speculated that the search might lead to a fourth arrest in a case that "cracked" Tuesday with the nabbing of a bureau employee, his jauntily-dressed wife and a soft-spoken little flagpole painter on a tip furnished after all-night soul-searching by the father of the woman.

The three were arrested following a 5 a.m. phone call to Virginia state police by Irving Grant, father of Mrs. Mamie Landis, and ended with the recovery of $128,300, in three separate caches, of the loot which apparently was smuggled from the money-printing plant in a suit jacket.

Those accused:

James Rufus Landis, 29, a $142-an-hour checker in the heavily guarded plant which makes the government's currency. Landis is held in $50,000 bail on a currency theft charge.

Landis' 26-year-old wife, Mamie, held on $10,000 bail despite her denial of any knowledge of the theft.

William Giles, 27, the flagpole painter, who freely admitted driving with the Landises to the Virginia tenant cabin of Irving Grant in an effort to hide $95,000 of the "hot" currency.

SAY ADMIT THEFT

Officials said Landis admitted stealing 8,000 cracking new $20 bills from their paper coverings and stuffing plain paper in their place. The dummy packages were not discovered until after the New Year's week-end.

"I did it for the future of my family," said Giles. "I can't give them all the things I want to give them."

Police said Mrs. Landis' father agreed, when one of his visitors produced a gun, to hide the money after his daughter and her companions dropped in on him Sunday night.

Then, up till dawn, he wrestled with his conscience and fear of the law. He told his wife what had happened. She had a heart attack. Finally Grant went to telephone. He had, he told the police, "a big pile of treasury money"—and was "scared to death."

Pearson Urges Cohesive Team For Talks With Russia, China

MONTREAL (CP). — External Affairs Minister Pearson urged last night that the free world negotiate as a "cohesive team" in dealing with Moscow and Peking.

"We hear too often the 'voices' rather than the 'voice of freedom,'" he said in an address to the Canadian Public Relations Society here.

The minister also warned against the "insidious pressure of enticing doubletalk and bewildering blandishment" used by the Communists to split the western nations.

"Very far-reaching developments may be taking place behind the Iron Curtain," he said. "If so, we should keep an open mind and a clear head about them. These developments may make it possible to advance the policy of peaceful co-operation between states to which we of the free world are committed."

"On the other hand, words of peace and goodwill which come now from the Communist camp may represent merely an orthodox and normal shift in party tactics, designed to disarm and deceive us."

"In a coalition of free states, large and small, powerful and weak, each has its own voice, each has its own pride, prejudice and public opinion."

"There may be no more imperative necessity facing us in 1954 than that of working out and applying satisfactory and effective methods of consultation and co-operation within this coalition, so that we can negotiate with the Kremlin and Peking as a well-knit and cohesive team . . ."

Loss in Wages
 Over $1 Million

By The Canadian Press
PRINCE GEORGE. — The costly 99-day-old strike of B.C. woodworkers has ended and sawmills throughout the northern interior began humming again today.

A compromise contract formula was reached yesterday by the Northern Interior Lumbermen's Association and the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

Some 1,600 mill workers and loggers were idled and another 3,400 men in allied trades were put out of work by the dispute.

An operators' spokesman estimated today that more than $1,000,000 in wages were lost during the strike.

The new agreement calls for a general 5½-cent hourly wage increase and an industry-wide maintenance of membership clause, one of the union's key demands.

A union spokesman said the formula was approved by more than 90 per cent of the IWA members.

The union had previously turned down settlement recommendations by Judge Arthur E. Lord, appointed as a one-man royal commission by the provincial government.

Judge Lord had approved a six-cent hourly pay increase but had turned down the union's demands for a compulsory check-off. In a sharply-worded statement the judge accused the IWA of "irresponsible" activities during the strike.

He is slated to conduct a similar inquiry into the 12-week strike of woodworkers in the southern B.C. interior.

The northern workers originally asked for an 18½-cent hourly increase over the basic rate of $1.29½.

Hospital Workers Get
 40-Hour Week

Members of the Prince Rupert Civic Employees' Federal Union Local No. 5 employed at the Prince Rupert General hospital have been granted a 40-hour work week but a conciliation board which heard representations from both parties, declined to grant them a wage increase.

Hospital administrator Doug Stevenson said that the conciliation board recommended that the hospital workers be granted the shorter work week at the same rate of pay they received in 1953 for a 44-hour week.

Also granted was a 20-cent differential per full shift for those working evening and night shifts and three weeks' holiday with pay after five full years' service.

The board composed of W. H. Brett, chairman; F. E. Anfield, hospital nominee, and John G. Dyck, union nominee, declined to recommend that the employees come under Federal Unemployment Insurance Commission benefits and also refused to grant orderlies and utility workers the same rate of pay as similar workers in the Vancouver General Hospital.

The union had requested a 15 per cent across the board wage increase.

The conciliation board's award is binding through mutual agreement between the hospital and the union.

Fear that slippery or slimy steps and boardwalks in front of city homes may result in accidents to city employees was expressed last night at the monthly meeting of the Civic Employees Association.

Members suggested that if home-owners would place chicken wire on slippery or slanting walks, garbagemen loaded down with containers would stand a better chance of avoiding mishaps.

Colorful Desert Prospector
 'Death Valley Scotty' Dies

STOVEPIPE WELLS, Calif. (CP). — Death Valley Scotty, desert prospector and a colorful western figure for half a century, died Tuesday night. He was 81.

Scotty, whose real name was Walter Scott, died at the fabulous castle with which his name had been associated for years.

At his bedside was Miss Mary Liddecoat, president of the Gospel Foundation, who was his constant companion for the last two years.

Dr. E. V. Wallace, Scott's physician, said he was summoned to the castle Tuesday and found Scotty in "very, very dangerous condition."

Scott suffered a gastric hemorrhage three years ago but recovered and had been exceptionally active for his age. He felt fine earlier Tuesday, and greeted visitors to the castle.

Scotty's benefactor, Albert Johnson, owned the castle, 170 miles north of Las Vegas, Nev. When the Chicago insurance executive died about six years ago he left the property to the Gospel Foundation, with the provision that Scotty was to live the rest of his life there.

Walter Webb, business representative of the foundation, said Scotty is survived by his widow and a son, Walter Scott, Jr., whose whereabouts he did not know.

Scott was long a storied figure in the desert, where he struck it rich several times and each time ran through his fortune. Around the turn of the century he hired a special train to take him from San Francisco to Chicago and the run set a speed record that lasted for decades.

Prophet's Bristles?

OFFERING his Beard of the Prophet once more, columnist Elmore Philpott has released his brain-teasers for 1954. He believes they are easier questions than last year's. We disagree. In three cases he asks who will occupy certain positions, and in a fourth he inquires about the affairs of a young woman's heart. Personalities are the most unpredictable of all subjects. It is easier to say whether there will be a war than whether Princess Margaret will become engaged. But here goes:

Will Princess Margaret become engaged to be married during the coming year? No. The Princess appears to recover quickly from what others like to think is a romance. It looks as if she prefers to remain single for a while.

Will there be a world war in 1954 involving Russia and the U.S.A.? No.

Will China's seat in the UN be allotted to the present Communist government in 1954? No. American resistance to this will not be overcome, particularly in a year when there are congressional elections.

Who will be Prime Minister of Britain at year end 1954? This is a tough one. Our guess is that Churchill is not well and that neither is Eden, despite the apparent recovery of each from recent illnesses. Also there are pressures within the Tory party. We are going to put the tab on the man occasionally mentioned—Rab Butler.

Who will be Prime Minister of Canada at year end 1954? This is not easy, either. St. Laurent is not young and has dropped one or two hints about retirement. But we pick him to finish the year.

Who will be Premier of B.C. at year end 1954? W. A. Bennett.

Will Canada have an official national flag by year end 1954? No. The subject did not get enough encouragement during recent debate in the House.

In the event of another British general election in 1954, which party will win? Conservative.

Will Canada's stock of wheat be greater or less on Dec. 31, 1954, than on Dec. 31, 1953? Less. This year's combination of shipping difficulties and good crop is not likely to be repeated.

Will Canada still have troops in Korea? No. A year from now Korea will be ancient history.

That's it. Last year we had the right answers but did not get the Beard because we failed to file them with Mr. Philpott. This year we are doing so but cannot truthfully say we feel any stubble around the chin.

Elderly Chairman of Commission May Be Replaced by Younger Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—Renewed speculation is that the elderly A. O. Stanley, chairman of the U.S. section of the International Joint Commission, soon may be relieved of his post. The commission, which regulates U.S.-Canadian boundary waters, will have an important say in how the St. Lawrence seaway will be constructed—and when. It also made the initial affirmative decision in connection with the river's power project. Critics of Stanley—a Kentuckian—contend that a man of his age should not retain such an important post. As the seaway

Book on Sikhs

AROUND our house they never have to worry about what to give me for Christmas.

"Give dad a book" is the old standby, and it works out fine. This year I got several books, not only from the family, but from others too.

Claire Wallace even sent me a copy of her new 50 cent book called "Mind Your Manners."

I see that Claire is even one jump ahead of us M.P.'s for Claire does on her own what no parliament has yet done—picks a standard version of O Canada. Nice going, Claire, you put the lawmakers to shame.

ONE new book which deeply interested me was THE SIKHS, by Khuswant Singh.

It is published by George Allen and Unwin, London. In 215 pages it tells the whole story of the Sikhs—how they originated in India as a product of the conflicts between Muslims and Hindus.

The book even has some intriguing references to the Komogata Maru incident in 1914 when a whole shipload of would-be Sikh immigrants to Canada was turned back from Vancouver, in circumstances which were a sensation at the time. The timing of that episode tells part of the story for the author makes it clear that mischief-making German agents did have a mine hand in whipping up that crisis.

There is one serious weakness in the book. It does not tell how the Sikhs have later fitted so admirably into the Canadian picture; how they later fought a wonderful fight which not only won the rights of full Canadian citizenship for themselves, but by so doing won similar rights for persons of all other Asian origin.

THE AUTHOR is frankly skeptical about the survival of the Sikhs as a people separate from Hindus.

He shows how, after one serious war, the Sikhs became supporters of the British regime in India. He shows too that the strict British army regulations, which decreed that Sikh recruits must obey the rules of their religion and leave the hair and beard uncut, had a far-reaching effect in perpetuating Sikh separateness in India.

Actually, in Canada the majority of Sikhs no longer follow the customs of their forefathers. Only a few young Sikhs wear beards.

Of course the real importance of the Sikh way of life was not in externals, like uncut beards, and long hair under turbans—but what the Sikh religion put in the hearts of its followers.

If you want to see the proof of the spiritual power of the Sikh way of life take a good long look at the faces of the old men, sitting on the floor of the temple, in Vancouver, or out in India—as they listen to the reading of their holy book—the Adi Granth.

Coal Burning Gas Turbine Engine May Bring New Life to Railways

MONTREAL (CP)—McGill University scientists have made the first successful test runs with a coal-burning gas turbine engine that may bring about a revolution in railway operations.

Under design and construction for three years, the turbine may bring: Construction of a new type of locomotive, cheaper to operate and more efficient than anything now on the tracks.

Use of coal-burning gas turbines to power electric generating units and to serve a variety of other functions.

A boom in the Canadian coal industry, a casualty in the phenomenal development of oil and uses for oil.

GOVERNMENT CONCERN
Concern over the future of vast Canadian coal reserves led the federal government to ask McGill scientists to develop a coal-burning gas turbine engine.

A team set to work under Prof. Donald Louis Mordell, a cautious young Englishman who spent the war years working on development of aircraft jet engines.

They built an experimental 500-horsepower coal-burning gas turbine engine in McGill's gas dynamics laboratory at nearby Ste. Anne-de-Bellevue. A small furnace capable of burning three-quarters of a ton of pulverized coal an hour provides the power in the new engine. Air heaters pass the heat from the furnace gases to a compressor which drives the turbine, taken from a Rolls-Royce jet engine.

The engine is not a prototype for a locomotive or for other uses but it is expected to provide all the answers scientists need to know before the engine can be developed commercially.

Prof. Mordell believes it may take two years to compile the necessary information. "The fundamental aim of the experiment is to find a new use for coal," Prof. Mordell said in an interview. "It would be unwise to concentrate all our attention upon the utilization of oil and natural gas reserves in view of our large known reserves of coal."

It is estimated that Canada has 55 carloads of coal per capita of population compared with one-half tank-car of oil.

The successful test runs were described in the House of Commons by Mines Minister Prud'homme, who said the McGill engine is one of the best in the world for research purposes.

The talks broke down Dec. 12 when the Communists accused the U.S. of perfidy. U.S. envoy Arthur Dean demanded a retraction, and ended the six weeks of negotiations after the Reds refused.

Young said Russia's part in a peace conference remains the critical issue. The Reds demand that Russia be seated as a neutral. The U.S. has insisted that Russia either line up with the Communists or attend as a third party bound by conference decisions.

Speaking of chances that the Reds will back down on their charge of perfidy, Young said: "I do not think it is an impossible hurdle."

DATE UNSETTLED
There was no indication when the peace conference, originally scheduled to begin last October, will get under way.

One of its agenda items was to be the disposition of war prisoners, Red and Allied, who refused to go home, but the prisoner issue is almost certain to be settled before a conference begins.

The Communists are expected to tell the neutral nations repatriation commission today how they want unrepatriated prisoners handled after Jan. 22.

OTTAWA DIARY
By NORMAN M. MCLEOD

One of the most important—as well as one of the most confident—of the current crop of predictions from Parliament Hill economists is that 1954 will be a holding year, rather than one of substantial gains, on the labor front.

The problem of the Northern Ontario and Quebec mines, now in process of settlement on terms which stamp both sides in the struggle as losers in almost equal degree, are declared to be the handwriting on the wall for all wage disputes in the months ahead.

The problem of the Northern Ontario and Quebec mines was a simple one. Bound by a fixed price for their product, which mainly was gold, they just didn't have the funds available with which to meet the wage demands of the miners. So mine management had no alternative to sitting out a strike until the workers realized that no matter how well organized the pressure of their unions might be, it could not prevail against economic law.

Now Federal economists proclaim that Canadian industry generally is in basically the same position as were the gold mines. The prices which it can demand for its products are no less rigidly fixed—not by any official mint price but by the prices of competing goods from countries with low-wage economies. That means mainly Western Germany and Japan. If Canadian manufacturers advance their prices beyond those of their German and Japanese competitors, they automatically price themselves out of their market—not only in foreign countries but also in the domestic market where foreign goods are becoming increasingly competitive.

In brief, the day when labor can negotiate itself wage increases which the manufacturer can simply pass on to the consumer in the guise of a higher price tag on his product is definitely gone. The trend now is the other way. That is to say, as competition from low-wage foreign sources intensifies, the Canadian manufacturer is coming under increasing pressure to lower his price tags. And while for the time being he may do so at the sacrifice of profit and overhead costs, he cannot continue indefinitely on such a course and maintain his competitive efficiency and attract the investment capital necessary to carry on his operation. If the pressure towards lower prices becomes a definite trend, then wages will have to contribute their share of the sacrifice to cut costs.

Federal economists are prophesying that that point may be reached before 1954 is ended.

Czechoslovakia Facing All-Red Regime by 1956

By WILHELM KRASSER
VIENNA (Reuters) — Czechoslovakia is being groomed, politically and economically, for eventual incorporation in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, observers here believe.

The Czech constitution is being remodelled on Russian lines and in every phase of Czech life and industry Russian methods and advisers are being brought in to tell the Czechs how to do things the Russian way.

The Czech brewers, famous for centuries for their beer, were sent to Russia to learn brewing. A Russian also has been appointed technical adviser to the Czech beet sugar industry—even though it was Czechs who started the beet sugar industry in Russia early in this century.

Meanwhile the process of assimilation is continuing. Already the Czechoslovak constitution has been remodelled on Soviet lines.

Union is shown by foreign trade figures.

While Czechoslovakia imports from the Soviet Union were 6.8 per cent of her total imports in 1947, they had reached 36.4 per cent by 1952. Similarly, Czechoslovakia's exports to the Soviet Union increased from 4.9 per cent in 1947 to 31 per cent in 1952.

Before the war, Czechoslovak trade was mainly with the West. On Soviet orders, a great part of Czechoslovakia's industry was set to produce heavy metal goods for Russian use.

The concentration on the heavy industries has left the production of consumer goods, formerly Czechoslovakia's chief articles of trade, inadequate even for home consumption.

PERSONALS

Prince Rupert Little Theatre officers were interested to learn of the arrival here yesterday of Mr. Ian Dobbie, one-time director of the Totem Theatre in Vancouver and widely-experienced in the theatrical field.

The English-born actor, who has come to Prince Rupert for "a change of environment," started his drama career in England and then travelled to New York where he played in "off-Broadway" experimental groups. He moved to Vancouver in 1948 to become professional director of the Vancouver Little Theatre. Two years ago he took over direction of Totem Theatre, leaving in June to direct the Canadian Players in Montreal.

He plans to visit Europe on holiday next August before returning to England to work in his own theatre.

He expects to remain in Prince Rupert for several months.

Canadian National Railways officials arriving here on business this morning were J. J. Beahan of Vancouver, manager for the B. C. district, his secretary, Jack Fraser and J. A. Duff of Vancouver, industrial agent for B.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parsons and small daughter, of Lethbridge, Alta., have been visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parsons, 935 Ambrose Avenue. They plan to leave for home tomorrow night by train.

A corporal and two constables of the RCMP also arrived on the George today to take up duties here and at Smithers.

Cpl. R. Wildgoose and his wife, formerly stationed in the Hazelton district and later at Winnipeg Beach, Man., and Cst. Ken Tubman, from Trail, will join the city detachment here. Cst. Birkenthal of Vancouver will be stationed at Smithers.

Eight Named To Chamber Executive

Executive of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce named at the annual meeting this week is composed of J. T. Harvey, Dr. A. W. Large, J. D. McRae and A. D. Vance, and new members A. P. Crawley, Dr. L. M. Greene, W. C. R. Jones and J. F. Magor.

Prayer Week Services Continuing

Week of Prayer services are continuing here with an increasing congregation meeting nightly at St. Andrew's Cathedral for special services at which the Rev. Murdo Nicholson of Vancouver is guest speaker, on the theme "Christian Discipleship."

Prayer times were led Monday by Bishop H. G. Watts and last night by the Rev. Fred Antrobus of the First Baptist Church. At the first service the Vancouver pastor was introduced by the Rev. Leonard Thorpe, president of the Ministerial Association, who also offered the prayer of invocation.

"Salvation precedes Service for Christ," said Mr. Nicholson. "Otherwise, our good intentions are cancelled by that which holds us back from unreserved allegiance. The allegiance must be declared by each in his own way."

The opening devotions were led last night by the Rev. L. G. Sieber of the First United Church and the order of service directed by Canon Basil S. Prockter.

A PATIENT at Hamilton's Mountain Sanatorium, Emile Sutherland, a blind Indian girl from Port Albany, Ont., had her Christmas season brightened by a visit from a member of the famed RCMP. Constable David Crimp of the Hamilton detachment brought Emile a doll and Emile "sees" him, in full uniform, with her sensitive hands.

Noted Furrier Says Buying Mink 'Like Buying House'

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A bevy of dolls draped in mink sashayed along a runway.

They moved in time to the words, almost musical in their intonation, of Jean Courtot, internationally-known furrier.

"You must never look as though the fur is taking you for a walk. You must be taking a walk with your fur."

Svelte Betty Warner showed, definitely, she knew what she was talking about. With a flick of a shoulder she let $19,000 worth of imperial pastel mink ripple as casually as a housewife shrugs off her apron after doing the supper dishes.

Courtot and his models were displaying some of his high-priced handiwork for the Ontario Fur Breeders' Association and the March of Dimes Foundation.

Courtot gave his audience some tips in buying mink.

"It's like buying a house," he said. "You must know what is in it."

He said he bases his value of a mink coat at 50 per cent for the skins and 50 per cent for the workmanship that goes into the finished product. Just like buying a house.

Why does a woman wish to buy a mink, asked the man who has push fur shops in Paris, London and Toronto?

Her reasons are "widely varied, and often intangible"—economic and psychological and the pull of fashion.

Three Canadians Have Paintings Fashionable New York Galleries

NEW YORK (CP)—This is the first time a Canadian week fashionable art galleries New York's 57th Street.

Canadian painters, a number and two Montrealers, are running one-man shows simultaneously. Art dealers are unable to recall that ever happening before.

Roloff Beny of Lethbridge has a big showing of oils, water colors and drawings at the Knoedler Galleries; Jean-Paul Riopelle's massive coloramas are at the Pierre Matisse Gallery, and Paul-Emile Borduas has the Passedoit Gallery to himself.

All three paint in terms of symbolism or mysticism; their appeal is to the initiated, rather than to those who like pictorial form in their art.

TAKES BIBLE THEME

As a theme for 10 striking canvases, Beny has gone to the Bible, the third chapter of Ecclesiastes, beginning: "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven." Thus he gave "A Time to Mourn," "A Time to Dance," "A Time to Keep Silence and a Time to Speak," "A Time of War," "A Time of Peace."

Beny's paintings are priced as high as $1,200. This is his fourth one-man exhibit in New York. He has also had shows in Milan, Paris, Florence and Toronto.

Minutes Honeymoon Precedes Trip to Korea For Infantryman

It was as a trophy for the Canadian soldier in Korea the shortest honeymoon, Pte. Joe Fitzpatrick of Sydney, would probably walk off with top honors.

He experienced the two biggest moments of his life on Dec. 15, 1953, within a single hour. First he led his childhood sweetheart, Mary Doves, down the aisle of St. Andrew's Chapel Central Ordnance Depot, Montreal, and, after a brief 60-hour honeymoon, left with his unit for Korea.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, also a native of Sydney, N.S., lived down the street from Joe when they were children.

Whips Flags From Hands Youngsters Greeting Queen

WINDSOR, N.Z. (Reuters) — Winds made Queen Elizabeth II catch her hat today and blew two prepared flags out of her hand as the monarch resumed her tour.

The first speech flapped wildly in the Queen's hand as she replied to a welcome address from the mayor of Gisborne, whose own notes fluttered like sails.

She laughed when wind lashed her skirts and flung her hair wildly over her forehead.

FACES GALE

She faced the full force of the gale for six minutes on a specially-constructed lookout post over the ocean. The hill lookout and the road leading to it had been built for her visit by the town at a cost of $3,000.

"I think we'll walk around up here," the Queen decided as the wind tore at her hair and mimosa-yellow cotton dress. She did.

The wind followed the royal party back through the streets of Gisborne, where youngsters waving flags saw the emblems suddenly ripped from their sticks.

By the time the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh reached Napier, tour officials had reckoned with the weather. The pages of the second speech were firmly lashed to a piece of cardboard with transparent tape.

'Bobo' Denies She Rejected Settlement

NEW YORK (AP)—Barbara Sears (Bobo) Rockefeller was quoted today as saying it is "real nonsense" to assert she wants a $10,000,000 settlement from her estranged oil millionaire husband.

Edwin Dunaway, a lawyer for Winthrop Rockefeller, said in Little Rock, Ark., Tuesday that Mrs. Rockefeller had repudiated a financial agreement signed last Oct. 1 and is now asking $10,000,000.

Dunaway said the agreement of last year called for Rockefeller to provide for his wife and their son, Winthrop Paul, 4, trusts totalling $5,500,000, $70,000 annually or an alternative trust of $500,000.

Resort Wants Girl, Handy With Catapult

MONTREAL (CP)—Attention girls: There may be an opening for you in far-away Kenya if you have a friendly feeling toward elephants and if you are handy with a sling-shot.

The qualifications were among those laid down in an advertisement placed in Kenya newspapers by the Treetops Hotel, famous jungle resort where the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh stopped while touring Africa.

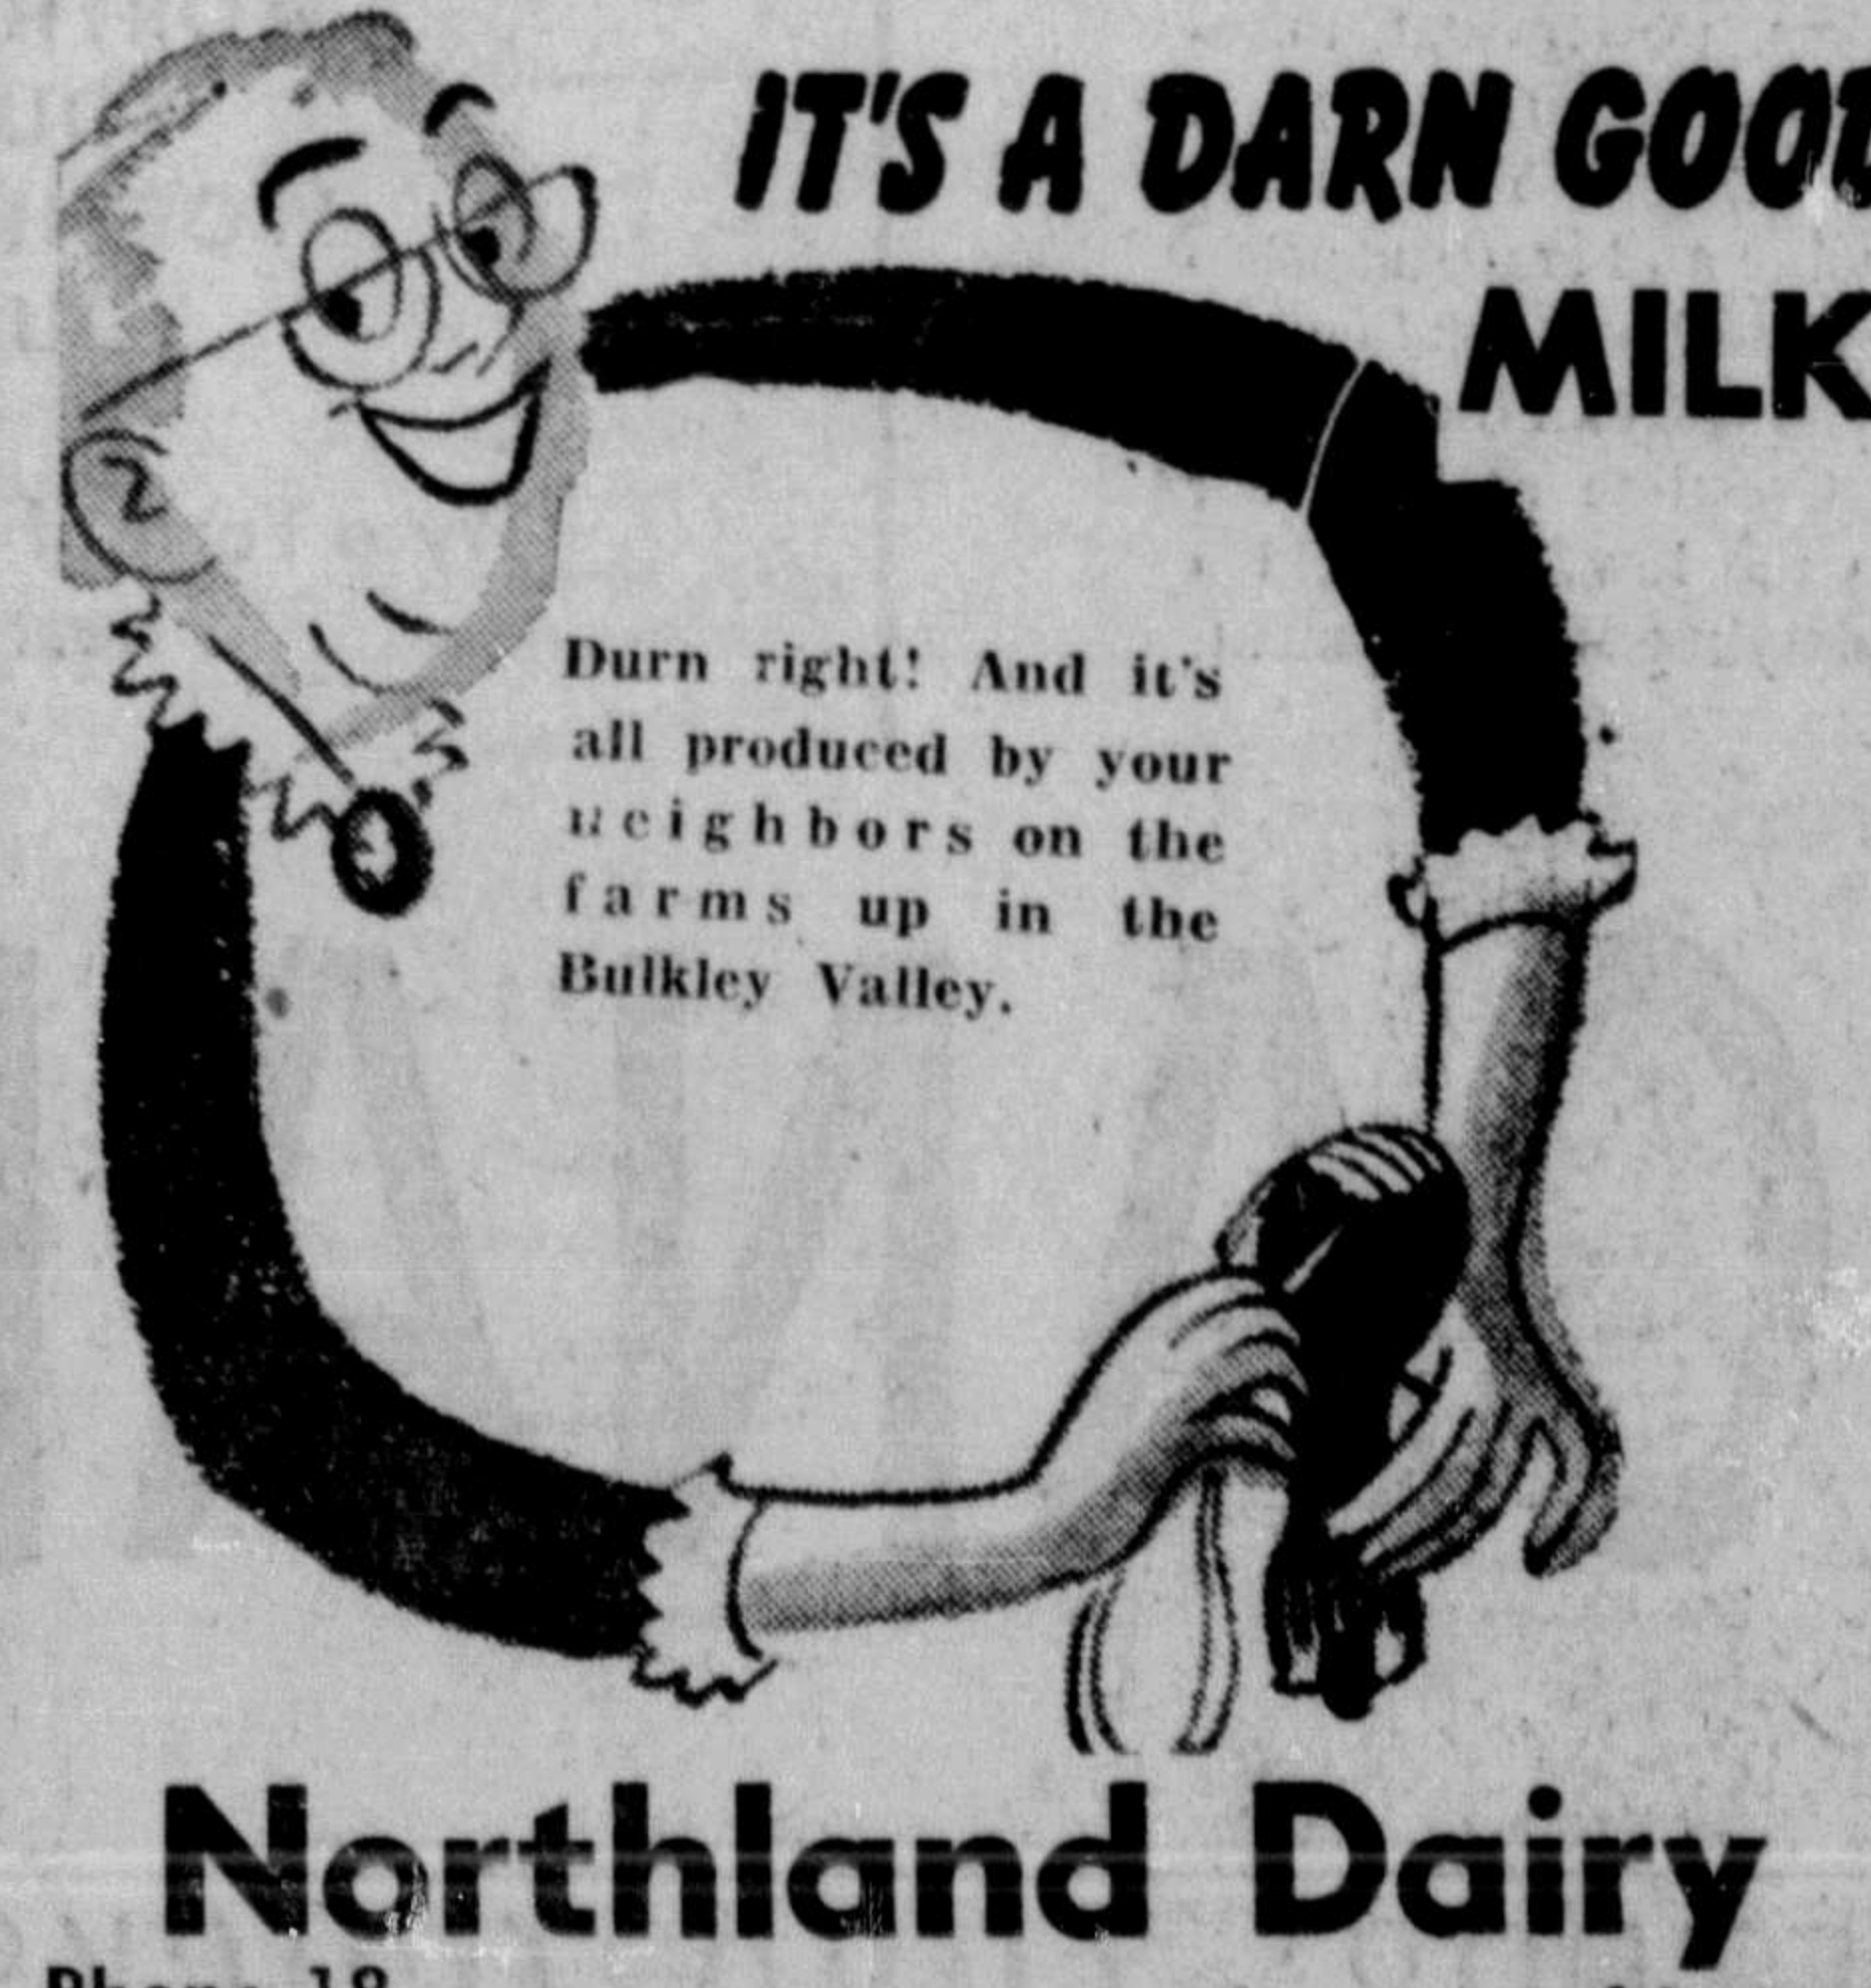

The advertisement, sent here by a former Montrealer, set out these requirements for the hostesses sought by the hotel:

"Qualifications—similar to those required of an air hostess including tact and personality. In addition, there must be a friendly feeling towards elephant, rhino, buffalo and other game; ability to climb a tree quickly if necessary; sufficient skill with a catapult to hit at 10 yards monkeys trying to enter Treetops for tea; general knowledge of game; fluent Swahili."

GREATEST SALES GAIN by far!

See how Canada is going

V-8

WITH
FORD OF CANADA
V-8's

Canadians bought more new cars in 1953 than in any previous year. And again, sales facts prove the public's increasing preference for Ford of Canada cars. The chart below shows new-car sales increases* by the "big three"—company for company—in 1953. See for yourself that the greatest sales gain by far was made by Ford of Canada. Before you invest in any car, try a Ford of Canada V-8. Learn for yourself why the Canadian public made 1953 the greatest sales year in Ford of Canada's history. And watch your friends and neighbours, too, join the swing to Ford of Canada V-8's in 1954.

ASK THESE QUESTIONS BEFORE YOU INVEST IN ANY CAR

QUESTION

Does it have a V-8 engine?

ANSWER

The modern up-to-the-minute automobile is powered with a V-8 because it is a more compact, rigid engine than a six or an "in-line" eight. V-8 design means less inherent vibration, for greater smoothness, quietness and longer life. This design is more suitable for achieving the most efficient and economical "power-to-weight" ratio in any automobile—and performs better with today's new, more powerful gasolines. More and more makers are introducing V-8's. But back of all Ford of Canada V-8's is 21 years of experience in building more V-8 engines than all other manufacturers combined. And only Ford of Canada offers you V-8 power in the low price field.

QUESTION

Is it styled to lead... and equipped to satisfy?

ANSWER

In answering this we urge you, before you buy, to see the new 1954 Monarchs, Mercurys, Fords and Meteors. Monarchs and Mercurys are now on display—Fords and Meteors are coming next week. You will find a new and unique model with a transparent, Plexiglas top in each line... a model not offered by any other Canadian manufacturer! Power steering, power brakes, power seat, automatic transmission (or overdrive if you prefer) and a host of other features are available. You will see a new concept of interior styling and craftsmanship in the new Mercury Monterey and Monarch Lucerne series, which are fully equipped with all the features you want. And the Ford Crestline and Meteor Rideau series will bring to the low price field a similar concept of look-ahead styling and equipment.

QUESTION

How about trade-in value?

ANSWER

This question points up another reason why Canada's car buyers gave Ford of Canada the greatest sales increase by far of "the big three" in 1953. Canadians have discovered that a Ford of Canada V-8 is—

Engraving Bureau Looted of $160,000
 WASHINGTON (AP)—A daring thief stole $160,000 in new $20 bills from the bureau of engraving and printing—where they make the money—and substituted two dummy packages of money-sized paper, officials discovered Monday.
 It was by far the biggest theft in the bureau's history, and apparently occurred during the holiday week-end when Christmas-wrapped packages were commonplace.

American Prisoner Describes Red Efforts to Halt Talks
 By SAM SUMMERLIN
 TOKYO (CP)—A United States soldier who returned to his countrymen after once rejecting them for communism said today the Red high command ordered him and 21 other Americans to break up Allied efforts to win them back.
 Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., said the Reds slipped instructions through a Communist-staffed hospital near the neutral-zone camp where the 22 pro-Red American POWs were held.

He said the Reds ordered the Americans not to come out for Allied explanations. The Americans never did show for the interviews.
 Batchelor spoke at a crowded press conference in Tokyo army hospital. The 22-year-old corporal, who left the camp early New Year's day, said "I made a mistake" in once believing the United States was the aggressor in Korea.
 However, he denied he had ever been an informer on fellow prisoners, and said he hoped he had not influenced anyone.
 "To prove myself," he said, "I'd like to get some of the other prisoners back." He said that several weeks before he left "I wanted to try to get some other men out"—but would not say why he failed.
 Meanwhile, his Japanese wife, Kyoko, worked on letters to three American men in the stockade near Panmunjom.
 "Claude says my letters decided him to come back," Kyoko said, "and maybe would help him to get his friends to come back, too."
 She said one of the three has a wife in the U.S., one a mother and one has no family. Batchelor asked her not to reveal the

Some See All Cards: Still Guess Wrong
 I know you have a Mr. Heinsite in your circle of players and I want to tell you some things about him. Here is the first. He is often wrong—even after he has seen all 52 cards.

Sometimes his faulty analysis goes unchallenged because it is apparently correct. But he seldom gets away with anything when old Mr. Dale is in the game.
 In today's deal Mr. Dale led his singleton heart against the four spade contract. Looking the situation over, Mr. Abel saw that he could win seven spades and two hearts. He had no tricks in the minors but if he could ruff one of his small hearts in dummy he would have the game made.
 At trick two he cashed the ace of trumps in the hope that, even if Mr. Dale had started with a lone heart, he also had only one spade. At trick three he laid down the ace of hearts. Mr. Dale ruffed, but Mrs. Keen in with the ace of diamonds and she promptly led the last trump off the board. Thus Mr. Abel managed to go down two, losing two hearts, a ruff, a diamond and a club.

Mr. Heinsite started in. "It's ice-cold for 10 tricks," he said authoritatively. "Just lead a small heart at trick two. Mrs. Keen will win and she can return a spade if she wants to. But you can win that and then lead your other small heart and ruff with my jack of spades. So you win seven spades and two hearts in your hand and a ruff in mine."
 Mr. Dale smiled. "I'll tell you another way he can make it," he said. "Lay down the king of diamonds and have Mrs. Keen duck."
 Mr. Heinsite frowned at him. "But that's absurd," he said. "No more than your analysis," Mr. Dale contended. "You want Abel to lead a small heart at trick two. All right, Mrs. Keen wins it and returns a trump. Abel wins and ruffs his other small heart. But now how does he get off the board? Dummy now has only clubs and diamonds left. On the lead of either suit, Mrs. Keen wins with the ace and fires another heart. I ruff it. So Abel doesn't win two heart tricks after all."

GOALIE HARRY LUMLEY of Toronto Maple Leafs wins as he stops a hard shot from close in by Eddie Mazura (23) of Montreal Canadiens as the teams tied 2-2 in a National Hockey League game at Toronto. The Leafs' Ron Stewart (12) moves in to check Canadiens' Jean Beliveau (4) almost hidden by Mazura. Dick Gamble of the Canadiens (behind Lumley) waits for a rebound.

Sea Cadets Take Over Loop Lead

Sea Cadets took over sole possession of first place in the Junior Boys' Basketball league after they defeated Sports Shop in the second fixture of a three-game card at the Civic Centre last night.

In the opening game Annunciation School downed Bulgars 29-21 and in the final encounter Ormes trimmed tail-end NBC Power 30-20.

Sports Shop is now in second spot with 4 wins and one loss; Ormes are third with 3 wins, two losses; Annunciation is fourth with 2 wins and 3 losses; Bulgars are fifth with 1 win and 4 losses and NBC has five losses.

Duncan with 11 points led the druggists as they downed the powerhouse gang. Landie with 6 was top scorer for the losers. Ormes took the game 6-4, 7-5, 4-7, and 13-4.

For Annunciation, Bury with 16 points was the outstanding marksman as the schoolboys rallied in the third and final quarters to take the jewellers 5-2, 2-8, 10-5, and 12-6. Rowe with 11 points paced the losers.

For the sailors nearly everyone got into the scoring with Howell topping the list with 7 points, as they edged the Sports Shop. The ding-dong battle saw quarters scores of 8-3 for Sports Shop, 10-3 for Sea Cadets, 8-6 for Sports Shop and 8-6 for the sailors. Bowes with 10 points was tops for the sailors.

THIS AERIAL VIEW shows construction progress on Canada's largest stadium, to be used for the British Empire Games at Vancouver next summer. To cost $1,895,000 and scheduled for completion April 30, three months before the games start, it will hold 35,000 with 10,000 seats under cover.

OUTDOORS With Marty

The harbor is now being visited perhaps for the first time by several part-grown fur seals, one has already met its fate by being crushed in a logboom while providing amusement to the onlookers with its friendly antics.

Another is temporarily in a makeshift tank at the Grain Elevator where it refuses to partake of any of the fish presented by its rescuers, doubtless because it is ill at ease with the heavy coating of marine oil it picked up when near shore. It should be mentioned that these creatures are protected under International Treaty and there is a penalty of $500.00 for illegally having in possession.

Actually the common local hairsal is a true seal, while the furred kind are sealions, the difference is readily apparent in that the furseal has conspicuous ears which are set far back of the eyes and stand out to the side before turning downwards. Its fur is very dark brown to near black and the rear flippers are much longer and narrower than in the hairsal, also an observer could not fail to notice that from chin to upper chest the fur is decidedly gray. The eyes are large, soft and appealing, and the lachrymatory glands function ceaselessly to maintain a flow which possibly takes the place of the film-like covering which certain other animals of the beaver type possess.

These visitors are away off their normal path, and your columnist offers no explanation as yet, but it is known that the cows and four-month-old pups leave the Pribiloff Islands in the Bering Sea about November, to head for Californian waters; perhaps they followed a school of smelt or found the squid hunting fog in our deep harbor. The females of the furseals sometimes carry lighter colored fur than the bulls, whose weight reaches over 400 lbs. compared to only 80 for fully grown cows.

These highly intelligent creatures are quick to make friends with mankind, and are easily trained for circus and stage shows with no ill feelings towards the trainer.

A few of the brethren ask about some competitive long-range rifle shooting, perhaps the Rod and Gun Club will do the honors?

The natural inventiveness of the angler has the rest of the winter evenings in which to assert itself, and something new for trolling is already in the hands of Len Nix. He has three good-looking spiral shaped spinners each about five inches long, plus swivel at either end and 7/0 salmon hook; they come in bronze, brass and stainless steel and should prove of value against coho and springs. Do you have ideas and no mechanical ability? Let's get together and see what can be done!

Unusually painstaking tests have been made to determine whether or not outboard motors disturb fish in ponds and small lakes, control ponds with similar counts of identical fish were not subjected to the water turbulence of propeller wash as were the work ponds, daily checks were made but no dead fish were ever discovered in any of the ponds. There was no measurable effect on plant life or animal fish food and the spillage of the oil-gas mixture used as fuel was not deleterious to insects or aquatic vegetation.

The acceptable consensus is that outboard motors are not harmful to the sport of angling, said consensus being backed by the Michigan University Department of Zoology.

Disregarding size, the easy way to tell a redhead duck from a canvasback is by the straight line that may be drawn along the top of the latter's bill from tip to top of head, the redhead shows a definite depression on this line.

Rockets Take Rupert 65-47

Special to The Daily News

KETCHIKAN—Ketchikan Rockets took a one-game lead in the first of a two-game series with Prince Rupert Challengers last night when they downed the visitors 65-47.

A final quarter rally by Coach Bill McChesney's squad failed to pay off as the Rockets outscored the Challengers 16-8 in the first quarter, 16-10 in the second, 17-14 in the third and 16-15 in the final frame.

Martinsen was top man for the Rockets with 14 points while Don Scherk netted 11 for Prince Rupert.

The Challengers play the Vets at Metlakatla, Alaska tonight, and meet the Rockets in a second game tomorrow night.

Lineups:
Challengers—Glen Carlson 5, Ray Spring 10, Danny Bill 5, Sid Scherk 3, Don Scherk 11, Harold Marshall 4, Mickey Webster 9. Total 47.

Valuable Player Award Slated For Cage Series

Two extra trophies will be up for competition in the Parker Round-Robin basketball tournament slated for this Friday and Saturday nights, the Prince Rupert Basketball Commission announced last night.

The first is a most valuable player trophy to be awarded the player who proves of most value to his team during the 10-game tourney and the second is a trophy for the player scoring the most points in the two-night series.

The commission said also that the series between the three Senior B teams and two Inter A entries will be decided by points. A victory will bring the winners 2 points and should the game be tied at the end of two 10-minute halves each team will be allotted 1 point.

Besides the two trophies, individual cups will be presented to members of the winning team.

The tourney which is expected to produce some of the most exciting basketball seen in Prince Rupert for years will pit the best players in both Senior B and Inter A league against each other.

Manson's Omegas, coached by Bill McChesney are currently leading the senior loop with 6 wins and 2 losses. Next in line are Pop Pav's CCC 300 Club and Minor Simundsen's Gordon & Anderson tied three wins and five losses.

Watts & Nickerson, also coached by McChesney, have yet to win a game in the Inter A league and instead of facing North Star, present circuit pace setters or second place Fraser & Payne they face the prospect of meeting the E-M. Hi Rain-

Eliminations For Brier Play

Local curlers will be casting their eyes eastward later this month as time for the Macdonald Brier eliminations at Prince George draws near.

Deadline for entries to the sectional eliminations is January 10 and Prince Rupert Curling club is allowed to send two rinks to Prince George. Time for the eliminations has not been set but it is believed that they will follow the annual bonspiel of the Prince George Curling club at the end of the month or early in February.

Should more than two rinks from Prince Rupert wish to start on the Macdonald Brier trail then an elimination contest will be held at the local rink to pick the entrants for the Prince George Competition.

Top two rinks to emerge from the Prince George eliminations will travel to Trail to take part in the provincial finals. The Brier finals, when rinks from every province will play off, takes place in Edmonton this year.

Results in last nights play in the George Cook Competitions are as follows:

Laurie 7, McKenzie 4, Turner 9, Petersen 6, Miller 12, Ostertag 6, Aston 13, Berg 4, Wakley 8, McNeice 7, Thom 15, Meighen 11.
