No Cease-Fire For Indo-China Seen Until Safeguards Ensured

Military Positions Must Remain Static

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—Reliable sources said today that the Big Three Western powers have agreed there can be no cease-fire in Indo-China without safeguards to ensure that the military situation remains frozen during negotiations for a political settlement.

This source said there is no inclination on the part of either Britain or France to agree to a cease-fire without some machinery for guaranteeing the present lines. The United States also is reported insisting on safeguards to protect the French military positions.

on the attitude of the three native governments in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, the Indo-Chinese associated states.

A highly informed source said these three possibilities were considered during Tuesday's talk between Molotov and Bidault.

U.S. military authorities have said privately that they believe any cease-fire would be very difficult, if not impossible, to enforce, since guerrillas and troops of the Communist-led Vietminh rebels infiltrate all the areas in Viet Nam technically held by the French.

CONTINUE PRIVATE TALKS

France's Foreign Minister Bidault and Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia pushed ahead meanwhile in their private talks on setting up a big-power conference on the Indo-Chinese conflict.

Representing the Western Big Three, the French foreign minister went to the Soviet delegate's lakeside villa just a few hours before State Secretary Dulles was due to unveil the United States government policy declaration on Korea to the Far Eastern conference.

A French spokesman hailed the continuing informal talks on Indo-China as a sign that the critical question might not have to wait for disposition of the virtually deadlocked Korean problem, but might actually be considered by the conference simultaneously.

While the formal meetings of the 19 participating countries are dealing with proposals for unifying Korea, the Bidault-Molotov talks have been limited to composition of a conference on Indo-China. French sources express belief that agreement might be reached with the Communists soon.

The arrival in Geneva today of France's minister for Indo-China, Marc Jacquet, also was viewed as another indication of French optimism. He was reported called in to advise Bidault.

Retention of Death Penalty For Murder Urged by Chiefs

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada's police chiefs said Tuesday that the death penalty is a definite deterrent to murder and urged that it be retained in the Criminal Code.

Removal of the death penalty would put police officers in greater danger in arresting criminals, the Chief Constables Association of Canada said in a brief to a parliamentary committee.

The association also said courts should retain the power to order whipping in crimes of violence but suggested that other methods than the lash may be more effective in controlling such crimes.

Chief Walter H. Mulligan of Vancouver, association president, said that if hanging were abolished as the penalty for murder there would be an upsurge in major crimes. The threat of hanging stopped many criminals from carrying guns while committing crimes.

The police chiefs appeared before the Commons-Senate committee studying possible changes in Criminal Code provisions on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

Soccer Workout Slated Tonight

A general practice for all soccer players in the city will be held at Roosevelt Park at 7 to-night, Maurice Bishop, president of the Prince Rupert Football association said today. Another practice will be held Friday, he said, after which a meeting will be held to choose teams for a soccer league.

Tombstone Vital Clue To Riddle

Scotland Yard Probing Death

STRATFORD - O N - AVON, Eng. (Reuters)—A small tombstone has become a vital clue in the death of a woman drowned in the river Avon near the burial place of William Shakespeare.

Police last night hauled a 59-year old grave marker from the river bed near the spot where the woman was found Saturday. The tombstone had been missing from its usual place in a churchyard which sweeps down to the water.

It may have been tied to the body of Olive Bennett, 45-year-old Scottish midwife, when she fell, or was thrown, off the river bank.

The death riddle has thrown a chilly shadow over this town of half-timbered houses and tranquil river scenery where admirers of the bard are gathered for the annual Shakespearean celebrations.

RECONSTRUCT LAST HOURS

While the pilgrims honored the poet's birthplace, detectives dragged the Avon.

Detectives are trying to piece together the dead woman's last hours. She left a maternity home two miles from here Friday. The next day her body was seen in the river. The famous swans of Avon glided by and spring flowers, sprinkled in the water by children to mark Shakespeare's birthday, floated gently over her.

Her hat was found on the flower-fringed tow path known as "lover's lane" not far from the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre where actors tonight play the tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet."

Miss Bennett apparently came to the churchyard of Holy Trinity, possibly to keep a rendezvous. Her lower set of dentures, spectacle case and a shoe were found Tuesday, scattered between the moss-covered graves.

The riddle is being probed by Britain's ace murder sleuth, Superintendent John Capstick of Scotland Yard.

Jet-Cannon In Production

DETROIT (AP)—Army ordnance disclosed Tuesday it has in mass production an automatic jet aircraft cannon that fires much faster than a 50-calibre machine gun.

The cannon, officially called "the 20mm, M39," was developed to meet the terrific speeds the fighters demand in firepower. It has been in mass production at Pontiac motors division of General Motors Corp.

The weapon resembles a giant revolver. Its ammunition is carried into the firing chamber in a revolving cylinder. It is fired electrically and is gas operated.

Red Cross Seeks Missing Man

Word is received from Red Cross headquarters at Toronto that the Red Cross of Bulgaria is endeavoring to locate Petko Dimitrov Tochev who is thought to have been in the vicinity of Prince Rupert. The person making the inquiry is Dimitre Tochev Anguelov in the village of Altinir, Orehovsko.

The Red Cross asks that Mr. Tochev, or anyone knowing of him, get in touch with local headquarters in the Northern B.C. Power Company office.

Mission Housewife Weeps As Jury Rules "Not Guilty"

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Alberta Brown, 24-year-old mother of three children, wept yesterday as an assize court jury freed her of a murder charge.

She was acquitted of the rifle slaying of 45-year-old William Zahar, a telegraph lineman, who was fatally shot at the Brown home near Mission last Dec. 12. Mrs. Brown said Zahar was shot as he attempted at midnight to force his way into the house. She fired through a door.

Zahar, whose wife and family live near Edmonton, was known in the Mission district by the name of Ollie Johnson.

The only witness called by defence counsel Thomas Dohm was Mrs. Brown's husband, a 26-year-old engineer. He told the court he had never met Zahar. Early in December, Zahar called at the Brown home and told Mrs. Brown he was a close friend of her husband. He claimed Brown was running around with another woman at Kamano, where he was employed on the Aluminum project.

Mrs. Brown was still in tears when she thanked Mr. Justice H. S. Wood and as she left the courtroom she shook hands with each member of the jury.

"I'll be content to stay at home with the children," she told reporters. "They don't know what has been happening, but they sensed something was wrong. I'll have to make it all up to them now."

Directors recommended a dividend of 30 cents a share, payable May 17.

THE FONDEST HOPES of many an early American pioneer woman could hardly have foreseen the fate of Mrs. Eva Bowling, 62-year-old grandmother, who has been personally operating her late husband's 10,000-acre ranch in Nebraska since his death nine years ago. She has just been appointed Senator by Gov. Robert Crosby to succeed the late Sen. Dwight Griswold. Here, astride her favorite horse, Trinket, she takes a last look at her Hereford cattle before packing up and leaving for Washington.

CANCER FUND HITS NEW HIGH OF $4,050; STILL CLIMBING

Prince Rupert's Conquer Cancer campaign has now netted a record-breaking total of $4,050, more than double the $2,000 quota set for this year.

Ron Allan, campaign chairman, reported the total at noon today and said that four or five local canvassers were yet to be heard from as well as the out-of-town districts.

Noting that the response to date had broken all records on local cancer appeals, Mr. Allan thanked canvassers and the public for their generosity. He also paid special tribute to Alderman Kay Smith and the late Mrs. George Hills.

The former, a cancer patient, allowed her personal experience to be recounted to assist in acquainting the public with the work of the Cancer Society. Mrs. Hills, prior to her death of cancer, had requested friends to contribute to the cancer fund in lieu of flowers for her funeral. The Mrs. Hills Memorial fund amounted to $684.25.

Minister Forecasts System For Fish Products Inspection

OTTAWA (AP)—A system of inspecting fish products in Canada, similar to that in effect in other food industries, has been forecast by Dr. Stewart Bates, deputy fisheries minister.

Such an inspection would not come overnight, however, because of the complexity of the fishing industry and its many problems.

The fisheries department, Dr. Bates told the annual meeting of the Fisheries Council of Canada yesterday, had obtained more knowledge of the fishing industry through scientific research, but improved quality of fish was not something that could be brought about simply by establishing regulations.

He said no fish inspection legislation would be undertaken without prior consultation with the fishing industry. The fisheries department sympathized the forecast inspection would pose so many complexities that the government could not bring in such legislation without the co-operation and support of the industry.

PROBLEMS OF CONTROL There were processing plants in Canada now that meet the standards the department would like to set up. But even these plants could not control the quality of the product.

Education on the proper handling of fish was required not only among boat operators and plant managers, but also among transportation workers, wholesalers and retailers as well as department officers who would enforce inspection regula-

Forgotten Spirit

BEFORE it is too late, the Liberal party must demonstrate to this section of the country that it retains the quality of leadership in domestic enterprise which has established it as the greatest force in Canadian politics.

In many respects there is a parallel between northern B.C. today and western Canada 50 years ago. At that time the prairie provinces were the land of promise, and farming settlements were appearing almost overnight in the same manner that mining and industrial projects now are causing a sudden opening up of the north.

The Laurier government was equal to the problems of expansion which were so abruptly created. In a series of swift moves it brought the two new provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta into the Dominion, made provisions to promote further western migration and undertook a vigorous railway building program—including construction of a transcontinental line to Prince Rupert.

Nothing is gained by trying to resurrect Laurier, but where is the bold Liberal spirit of his age? Is it down by the drydock? Is it walking the tracks of our northern line? Is it watching Vancouver-based pilots bring ships into Rupert? Is it hovering about looking for an airport near the harbor it once esteemed so highly? If so—and these are only a few of the more unpleasant experiences it might have—it must long to return to its cold and forgotten grave.

Difficult as it is to tolerate locally, the apparent indifference to northern and central B.C. is not by itself a condemnation of all that the Liberal government stands for. Over a much broader field the government's achievements are many and impressive. If we are to show any consistency in our political preference, the large national issues must be judged first.

But our experience here at home contains a signal of warning that bears watching. If it becomes obvious from this that the party is turning from its obligation to build a country that is strong in every part; if, instead, it is concerned only with gaining support where strength already exists, then its friends out here must seriously examine their choice.

The new subway in Toronto is reported to be a heart-warming sight. Yet climbing up stairs is a heart-raising experience.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

Hundreds of robins and other birds whose names we can only guess at, are in town, and if not happy are giving a first-class imitation. They have been warbling for days on end, and say there's lots of things far worse than a few days of sunshine shortage.

One of life's mysteries to man is why a woman will fumble with her gloves on trying to pick up a postage stamp or small change.

A somewhat odd but nevertheless true situation these chill, damp days. It's hard enough to look prosperous when you hold a good job but difficult indeed to locate a cushy post if you don't seem that way.

NOT WORRYING

A passenger in a bus carrying boys to a school in England asked a lad he had made friends with this question: "What do you intend to do when you grow up?" "Sir," replied the young fellow, "I need not worry about that, for by that time there will be nowhere to grow up on." Anyway he'd lost no time settling the H-bomb worry.

I'd like to get hold of the bird who started this "do it yourself" nonsense observes the Warton Echo. Everywhere you look you read advertising telling you—yourself—do it. The implication is that any fool can put on a roof, build a house, lay linoleum or build a recreation room in the cellar if he has the tools and a diagram.

HOLDING UP WELL

The Alaska salmon industry is running at half capacity this year. Last season the salmon pack was worth only fifty million compared with recent totals above the ninety million figure. The fact that the salmon industry of British Columbia outlawed fish traps many years ago and has been enforcing strict conservation measures, suggested similar tactics to the United States since Canada's west coast salmon is holding up well.

As I See It

Elmore Philpott

Jobs Go Begging

HERE WE ARE back at Ottawa, after the short Easter break.

The MPs reassemble in a more optimistic mood than that in which they departed a week or so ago.

The figures for unemployment have taken a sharp downward dip. Moreover, it is well known that Canadian conditions tend to follow those in the U.S.A. All the American figures suggest a strong new wave of prosperity, at least for this summer.

From the look of things, at the moment, it appears that the optimists have been right again, and the pessimists have been wrong. However, it will take another few months to prove whether this is just a seasonal upswing, or something more solid.

IN SPITE of the fact that Canada has something over three hundred thousand unemployed, it was recently necessary for this country to enlist in Britain a whole shipload of "tradesmen" for our Canadian army.

At the very moment when we had a vast army of temporarily unemployed it was impossible to find enough young men, with the proper training, to take the technical jobs in the armed services. Perhaps the higher rates of pay were attractive enough to fill up the ranks from Britain. But certainly it is a strange condition where we have to enlist even a minority of technical specialists from the citizens of another country.

Over the Easter recess teachers' conventions in various parts of Ontario grappled with their paramount problems—the acute shortage of trained teachers. Taking the combined public and secondary schools, Ontario now has a prospective shortage of about two thousand teachers. The Ontario government is taking the drastic step of importing no less than five hundred trained school teachers from Britain. One might well ask what is wrong in our own country, when we cannot supply enough tradesmen for our army, and we cannot even staff our own schools with teachers trained in Canada?

HERE AGAIN we are paying the belated price of our woeful folly in the great depression in the 1930's. A good many schools lack teachers today because their parents were unable to afford having children a generation or so ago. Yet that is not the whole story—for vast numbers of people now say they can't get jobs. The male school teachers have perhaps the simplest remedy to combat the shortage: they say, make the minimum pay for all school teachers $2,400 per year. Money talks.

SOME OF THE hospitals here in eastern Canada are trying new ways to deal with another chronic shortage—that of trained nurses. Several noted hospitals in both Ontario and Quebec have now reduced the training course to two years. The indications are that a good many other hospitals will soon follow suit. Those in charge of the training in these hospitals claim that they have not sacrificed anything really necessary in the shortened course. They claim that in the old days nurses in training were forced to waste all sorts of time on matters which were of no value to them in their later professional duties.

But surely there is something wrong with our general plan of job finding and vocational training in Canada when from coast to coast there is a shortage of doctors and dentists, a shortage of nurses, a shortage of school teachers—while we have over 300,000 jobless. I do not mention one of the most acute shortages of all, which is that of applicants for the ministry in the various churches.

OTTAWA DIARY

By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

Conservative M.P.'s returned to Parliament Hill from the Easter recess in the most optimistic mood that they have achieved since dynamic George Hees captured the National Presidency of the party from the old guard at the March annual meeting.

The reason for their elation was patent to observers, even if it wasn't explicitly stated by the PC's themselves. It was the announcement during the recess of the resignation of W. H. Kidd as national secretary of the party—a post closely akin to that of general manager of the Bracken House party headquarters.

The PC's took the Kidd resignation as a portent that the shake-up in the Bracken House organization for which they had been waiting so vainly and for so long at last is on the draughting board of the party high command. They further regarded it as an evidence of the new George Hees influence for positive action. Rightly or wrongly, the Conservative M.P.'s are convinced that if Hees hadn't captured the national presidency, there would have been no rejuvenation of Bracken House.

About all that the rank-and-file Tory M.P.'s have against Bracken House is its dreary record of failure. But that's a wholly sufficient grievance. To politicians who are realists—actually the terms are synonymous—there is no substitute pay-off for success. Even the most convincing alibis aren't acceptable. And the alibis of Bracken House always have been particularly unconvincing.

The main trouble with Bracken House has been its failure to be representative of the best political brains of the Conservative Party. As a result, it has found itself too often at cross purposes with the party's most dynamic elements. And when failure has come it has always had the answer ready that the party was sabotaged from within. Not unnaturally veteran PC's have resented bitterly the attempt of the Bracken House amateurs to saddle them with responsibility for the party's non-success, particularly when they had no part in making the policies which brought disaster.

Except as a Bracken House symbol the departure of Kidd from the PC scene is of no real consequence. The post of National Secretary could be one of key importance, but during Kidd's regime it wasn't. Actually, he disappointed no one, because no one ever expected miracles from him. He was an unknown figure to Big League federal politicians when Leader George Drew brought him from Vancouver. By the time of his retirement the political abilities for which the PC Leader presumably had picked him still were unknown.

But the interest is going to be keen in his successor. For if he is going to measure up to the expectations of the rank-and-file of the Tory caucus he is going to have to be a top-flight operator. The Parliamentary group won't settle for anything less than a real team-mate for the colorful Hees in the work of party organization.

Nickel Price Must Remain Stable President Tells Annual Meeting

TORONTO — Dr. John F. Thompson, president of International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., said today it is important that the price of nickel remain stable.

The company's price, he said in an address prepared for delivery to International Nickel's annual meeting, has remained unchanged at 60 cents U.S. since January, 1953. He felt pressures, either up or down, should be resisted.

Temporary financial advantage of a higher price should be weighed against the long-range adverse effect on established trade, and its retarding influence on new developments.

Nickel supplies for civilian purposes in the United States, after meeting defence and stockpile requirements, are inadequate, he said. New nickel capacity will be established in the next few years, which might more than meet the demand.

About two-thirds of the free world's supply of nickel in 1953 went to the United States and half the remainder, or approximately 17 per cent, went to Canada and the United Kingdom, Dr. Thompson said.

In the United States since November 1, when government controls on the civilian use of nickel were revoked, nickel deliveries have been made first to

The meeting approved contribution of $100 to the local P-TA bursary fund, and endorsed action of the executive in presenting a farewell gift to Mrs. Verna MacDonald, hospital convener for the past year, who has left the city.

A nominating committee, to suggest a slate of officers for the coming year was named, including Mrs. J. G. Steenberg, Mrs. K. Hardy and Mrs. M. Lemon.

Attendance prizes went to the classes of Miss Edith Jack and Miss Vegh.

Following the business session, Mr. Moore showed several films used to illustrate social studies and played records used in music appreciation classes, one of which covered the life of Mozart in dramatic sketches with excerpts from his best-known compositions. Both films and records were purchased with P-TA funds.

Refreshments were served at the close by the committee under Mrs. O. R. Green.

At the Borden Street meeting, a motion was passed authorizing the bursary committee of the P-TA Council to decide distribution of the bursary fund.

The attendance banner went to Principal J. S. Wilson's class and at the close of the session two films were shown, "The Story of Money" and "Sing with the Commodores." An inverted umbrella was placed in the door for collections for the Queen Alexandra Solarium shower of dimes. The meeting closed with refreshments served by the committee headed by Mrs. A. Cook.

36-Bed Addition Planned For Provincial Blind Centre

Construction of the New Westminster Service centre for the blind and plans for addition of a 36-bed wing to Queen Elizabeth Hall, Vancouver, provincial residence for the blind, highlighted a report given to the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind yesterday afternoon in the city council chambers.

The report, given by Dan Waddington, CNIB field secretary from Vancouver, to the annual meeting of the local CNIB branch pointed out that there are some 175 registered cases of blindness in this area.

The New Westminster centre, which the CNIB hopes to start building this year will compare with the Victoria centre which has been in operation for nearly two years, Mr. Waddington said. The new centre will serve the Fraser Valley, New Westminster and Burnaby, in which there are 380 registered blind persons.

Mr. Waddington noted that a CNIB committee had been formed at Kitimat, and that while there isn't a branch there yet, it is hoped that the committee will be the nucleus of one when the Kitimat project is completed and the township formed.

He mentioned that visits of field secretaries had resulted in many services being provided to blind persons such as home teaching, talking book machines assistance in obtaining eye care and personal counselling. During the year, he told the local branch, several persons, both adults and children had been brought into Vancouver for adjustment training and eye care.

In keeping with the Institute's prevention of blindness program almost every school in the territory has been addressed during the year on eye care and accidents to the eye, such as those from BB guns, bows and arrows and firecrackers. The teachers report, he said, that these talks have been of great help in reducing accidents.

No Major Complaints About Hospital Made by Patients City Council Told

Answers to a questionnaire given patients of Prince Rupert General Hospital have shown that there are no major complaints of the way the hospital is being run, Alderman Phil Lyons told city council this week.

Alderman Lyons, council's representative on the hospital board of directors, said that the nine-item questionnaire had been given to patients who had stayed in the hospital five days or longer.

There had been some complaints about meals, mostly about items in the diet and there had been some complaints about linen. However, he said, as soon as the latter complaint had been received, an improved contract with a laundry had been obtained.

Dental Clinic "Out of Red"

Improvement in the Prince Rupert Children's Dental Clinic finances, now "out of the red," was reported at a meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent-Teacher Council here Monday night.

J. S. Wilson, chairman of the Clinic organization, told the group that, thanks to P-TA's and other organizations, the clinic was now operating in the black. He thanked the various city groups for their generous donations and hoped that similar support in future would allow continuation of the clinic.

The council welcomed back Stan Holgate, delegate to the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation convention held in Burnaby. Mr. Holgate will report in full on the convention to each of the city P-TA groups at their May meetings.

The bursary committee reported advertising the bursary project both at school and for the public, and pointed out that the bursary, for students planning teacher training, was open to young people not attending school this year as well as to students graduating from Booth high this spring.

On the whole there had been no major complaints, he told council.

At the present time, Ald. Lyons said, a hospital accreditation board had been operating for two years in Canada and there is only two inspectors, he said.

The new alterations planned for Prince Rupert General Hospital should enable the hospital to come to accreditation standards, but the main hitch was the matter of records. There is no trained file clerk on the hospital staff but a staff member had volunteered to take the necessary course. The course will take nearly two years, Ald. Lyons said, and the hospital will help defray part of the cost.

The questionnaire sent to patients was as follows:

- (1) Were you courteously received by the clerks in the admitting office?
- (2) Was the nursing staff (nurses and nurse's aides) pleasant and courteous?
- (3) Did you enjoy your meals? Was there sufficient food or not enough? Was it served correctly? Was the tea and coffee hot when served? Did the dietitian visit you?
- (4) How often was your bed linen replaced or changed? Do you think this was often enough? Was the condition of the linen satisfactory?
- (5) Do you think our house-

*SOURCE: R. L. Polk and Company. Registrations for period September through February.

During the six-month period ending with February—the last half-year in which United States national registration figures are available—Ford outsold its nearest competitor by thousands.

The main reason why Ford is so definitely the buyer's choice is simply that:

Ford is, without doubt, the "Worth-More" car—America's best buy on a dollar-for-dollar basis!

In Canada, too, the swing is to Ford—and to Meteor, Mercury, Monarch and Lincoln. Check them for yourself, feature for feature, bumper to bumper, and you'll quickly see why!

Ford of Canada V-8 engines have an absolutely unmatched record of owner approval

—a record based on billions of driving-miles over the past twenty-one years. Their traditional performance is unrivalled for smoothness, flexibility and safety.

Take comfort—Here, again, the most discriminating buyers find the steadiness, the sure-footed, road-hugging stability to satisfy their every requirement. Excellence of design and quality of construction are responsible for a degree of riding comfort and driving ease never before approached.

Beauty, too, is a vital factor in the overwhelming popularity of Ford of Canada cars. Every model is a style leader, in beauty of line and detail, inside and out.

Take driving ease—Every Ford, Meteor, Mercury, Monarch and Lincoln offers you all the newest power assists that make driving completely relaxed and effortless. Power assists are standard on certain models and optional at extra cost on all other models.

Ford of Canada's Automatic Drives are the finest in their fields. Power Window Lifts offer push-button control of all four side windows. Power Steering gives you "extra muscles" all the time but permits you to retain the natural steering feel on the straight-away. Four-way Power Seat goes up or down, as well as forward or back, at the touch of separate controls. And swift, sure Power Brakes permit quick, straight-line stops at the merest touch of the toe on the brake pedal. Think of tomorrow—Buyers, with an eye to future value, are wise to consider what their cars will be worth when the time comes to trade them in.

Try before you buy—The incomparable performance of Ford, Meteor, Mercury, Monarch and Lincoln can be appreciated fully only through personal experience. Your dealer extends an invitation to you to prove them on the road. There's no obligation to buy, so call your dealer and arrange a demonstration for yourself and your family.

Homer-Happy Redlegs Blast Pirates To Jump Into National League Lead

Yards And Yards of YARD GOODS
At Wallace's Of Course

Wallace's large material section knows no season. Every day dozens of women prefer Wallace's for yard goods.

has been the laundry just beyond the left-field fence in Cincinnati. But last season the Redleg management eyed the muscles of left-handed-hitting Ted Kluszewski and Co. and moved in the right-field fence about 25 feet.

Now most of the Redleg's long-ball trade is going into the right-field seats which used to be the bleachers. This season it's the sun deck.

THICK AND FAST
Tuesday night the home runs fell thick and fast. An even half-dozen cleared the bats of left-handed sluggers as the homer-happy Redlegs blasted into first place in the National League with an 8-7 verdict over Pittsburgh Pirates. One home run went to the laundry.

Ten of the 15 runs were direct results of the circuit clouts. Kluszewski slammed one in the first with one aboard and Jim Greengrass followed right behind him with another. In the third, Kluszewski hit another.

Cincinnati are a half-game ahead of Brooklyn Dodgers, who bowed in St. Louis 7-3. Milwaukee squeezed by New York 3-2 and Philadelphia was rained out at Chicago in the other National League scheduled contest.

Chicago White Sox won their fourth straight, a 4-3 thriller over New York Yankees, in the only American League action. Bad weather brought postponements of other contests.

Sudden-Death Allan Cup Tilt Slated Tonight

VERNON, B.C. — The stage was set here today for a sudden-death hockey game that promises to be a dandy between Winnipeg Maroons and Pentiction V's for the right to move into the Allan Cup finals.

In the seven games of the western finals played to date, each team has won twice and three games have ended in 4-4 stalemates.

Tonight's game on neutral ice will be fought to a finish. Three 10-minute overtime periods are booked, if needed. If the teams are still tied after that, sudden death overtime will be played, with the first goal deciding the issue.

The never-say-die V's fought back twice from the edge of defeat and rule as slight favorites to come out on top, mainly on the strength of their brilliant come-back.

The Winnipeg defenders will have their work cut out watching the brilliant Warwick brothers, Grant, Bill and Dick, who rule the hockey roost in Pentiction.

Line-ups for tonight's game are expected to be unchanged. Maroons will be without centre Angus Juckes, who is writing exams in Winnipeg. Juckes, a medical student, was flown out and back for three games against the V's.

Depending on the outcome tonight, the Allan Cup finals will open May 3 in either Pentiction or Winnipeg. Sudbury Wolves will provide the opposition.

BIG WORK BEE SCHEDULED AT LAKE OLIVER SUNDAY

The biggest work party it is possible to round up is slated for this Sunday when the Prince Rupert Rod and Gun club hopes to make great strides in the construction of its new club house opposite Oliver Lake, on Highway 16.

Great progress at the new club house site was reported to an executive meeting of the club this week and plans for advancing the project were made. The planking around the lake itself, where youngsters may indulge in fly casting and catch fish less than the legal limit, is nearing completion.

Sportsmen, whether club members or not are asked to be at the Oliver Lake site, axe in hand, anytime after 9 a.m. Sunday, so that the work party can accomplish as much as possible while the most people are there.

Rainiers, Beavers Fall Prey To Sacramento, San Diego

By The Canadian Press

The Seattle Rainiers and Portland Beavers traded Pacific Coast League opponents Tuesday night and both northern teams dropped the series, openers.

San Diego, which edged the Rainiers 4-3 in a wild and woolly series at Seattle last week, visited Portland, while Sacramento opened a weeklong stay in the Queen City.

And Sacramento was in a hitting mood as it drove three Seattle pitchers from the mound and beat the Rainiers, 6-2. The Sacs' little shortstop, Richie Myers, did the most damage with a resounding double in the third inning that chased across three runs off starter Vern Kindsvater. Chesty Chet Johnson, the Pacific Coast League's leading

Eight Celco City League Teams To Roll Off for Finals Friday

The finals of the Celco City Five-Pin League will be rolled off this Friday, April 30 at 7 p.m. when eight of the 12 teams in the league will compete for the division trophies.

"A" Division teams competing will be Savoy, Residuals, Bulgars and Miller Bay Wildcats. Teams for the roll-off were determined last Friday by points, the top four teams qualifying. It was a fight to the last minute between Northland Dairy and Miller Bay Wildcats as they were tied at 28 points each. This made it necessary for them to play an extra game to break the tie and the winners were the Miller Bay Wildcats by a very small margin.

The qualifying teams in "B" Division are: Timber-Tics, Pilots, Central Cafe and Conboeds.

On Friday, May 7 at 7 p.m. all 12 teams will participate in the Grand Roll-Off with only 10 teams qualifying for the trophy, as one team from each division will already have won the division trophies.
