Distance Phone Rates To Cost More

Long distance telephone calls from Prince Rupert to north-central B.C. points and Vancouver in future will cost more money.

This was disclosed today following compilation of rates put into effect by the B.C. Telephone Company yesterday when it took over the phone portion of the Canadian government's telephone and telegraph system in B.C.

JOBODY will appreciate a new forestry depart-I ment building more than the people who work nere. At present, the department's 45 employees re crammed into nine different offices spread broughout the Court House. Some of the space is crowded that a person has to move sideways to between desks. One office is occupied by 16 enographers pressed elbow to elbow.

In such conditions everyone is uncomfortable and efficiency suffers. To confuse the situation irther, the forest ranger, who is responsible for spection of the district, is located in entirely eparate quarters. It is an inconvenient arrangeient for one who must work so closely with the est of the department.

It is to be hoped that all the work will be done local labor. Building in Prince Rupert has drop- event. ed sharply since 1952, so that a booster like this vill come at a welcome time. Moreover, we are etting tired of projects which have demolition as heir sole purpose. They are out of keeping with what we know the future holds.

Shaving Time

A SSUMING that the male starts shaving at the age of 18, and that he lives to 75, he will then have been shaving over a period of 57 years. If one allows him 10 minutes per shave per day, we find that in one year he spends 3,650 minutes with razor and soap.

During 57 years he will spend 208,050 minutes wrestling with the stubborn growth with which nature adorned his face. This unfortunate man has spent 3,467 hours doing nothing but shaving.

Sociologists may wonder why modern woman has so improved her position in relation to her male counterpart in the last 50 years or so. We don't wonder, the answer is quite obvious.

Man spends so much of his lifetime shaving that he can't compete any longer with beardless womankind. -The Brockville Recorder and Times

GAMES, to be held in Vancouver this summer, E. T. Applewhaite, will be a colorful and historic occasion.

People will literally come from the ends of the earth to take part in, or to watch the contests. And those of us who are lucky enough to live in B.C. will be hosts at a gathering which people will remember all their lives.

Vancouver has a special obligation to put its best foot forward during the period of the games. Every man, woman and child in Vancouver should try to do his or her bit to make the games a success, and particularly to make the outside visitors glad that our city was chosen for this history-making

ANCOUVER should take this occasion to end once and for all the confusion over the singing of "O Canada."

When the massed bands sound the stirring strains of "God Save the Queen" the whole mighty assembly will arise and sing, right from the heart, the same words which are made law only by the prayers in the hearts of the people.

But Vancouver should make sure that the host city does not continue to make a bedlam out of our own national patriotic song "O Canada."

WHEREVER "O Canada" sung, except in one or two spots in Vancouver, the people all sing the same version which

It is beside the point whether or not the version which was taught for so long in Vancouver costs money to operate. But was a better or worse version than the one which has become otherwise nationally accepted.

Vancouver cannot continue to be like the fond mother watching the soldiers on parade, and who exclaimed "why they are all out of step but my Johnny."

PARLIAMENT could, of course, pass a law * saying that the standard version of "O Canada" to be sung at all public gather ings is such and such.

If parliament did that, there is no doubt whatever that it we know it. You know it. No would proclaim, as the official convince others. It's up to you. One would urge paved coastal version, the words set forth

But parliament should no have to pass a law to bring Vancouver into line with the

We Have Acquired The Government Telephone System EFFECTIVE APRIL 1

The Canadian Government's telephone system west of the Rocky Mountains in British Columbia has been purchased by the British Columbia Telephone Company and the North-west Telephone Company, and the system was taken over by those companies on April 1.

The work of integrating the Government telephone system with our existing systems is complicated and detailed, and while it is well under way, it will not be fully completed for some time.

Already telephone men have gone into the field to begin the gathering of data on which to base a program of expansion and improvement. This program will have three main phases: (1) providing additional long distance circuits; (2) giving telephone service to many of the people who are waiting; (3) gradually improving the existing plant. Already we have increased the long distance facilities between Vancouver and central B.C. and more circuits are to be added soon. Other improvements in long distance service are planned for the near future.

The North-west Telephone Company has acquired that portion of the system within its operating area on the coast from Campbell River and Powell River northward. The British Columbia Telephone Company has taken over the remainder.

The exchanges in the territory taken over are as follows:

Sechelt

BY THE BRITISH COLUMBIA TELEPHONE COMPANY

Quadra Island—served by Campbell River Kelsey Bay Alert Bay

Sointula -- served by Alert Bay Nimpkish served by Alert Bay Port Hardy

Queen Charlotte City Port Clements Massett

In addition to the exchanges listed above, we will serve numerous places too small to be classed as exchanges. These will be classed as toll (long distance) stations.

Several of the exchanges listed above have no switchboards of their own but are served from nearby switchboards. Telkwa, for example, is served from Smithers.

In addition to the exchanges, we are acquiring numerous long distance lines, including those between Prince George and Ashcroft on the main telephone route to central British Columbia.

A boundary is being set for each telephone exchange. For telephones within an exchange area there will be a monthly exchange rental based on the number of telephones served by the exchange.

Telephones outside of an exchange area will be classed as toll (long distance) stations, and a charge will be made. for all calls placed from such stations, even to other telephones on the same line. There will be no monthly rental charged for toll stations but there will be a moderate guarantee required.

The rates which went into effect on April 1 throughout the former Government system are the standard ones in use by the two companies in accordance with their officially filed tariffs. The companies foliow the standard practice of having business telephone rates higher than those for residence telephones. While there will be an increase in business rates, the basic rates for multiparty residence service will be reduced. Most subscribers will pay less. There will be no surcharge for Monophones.

Some short-haul long distance rates will be increased, while generally those between the former Government territory and the systems of the two telephone companies will be reduced.

Exchange rentals will be billed a month in advance. In order to distribute the billing work evenly, all exchanges do not have the same billing period. For some exchanges the billing period is the calendar month while for many others it is not. The billing date is clearly set forth on the bill, and the date by which payment is due is also shown.

To each existing subscriber in the Government territory we are sending a contract for signature, covering the arrangements between him and the telephone company which will serve him.

All Government telephone personnel will be employed by the telephone companies, and will receive not less than their old rates of pay. In general, the wage scales of the companies are higher than those of the Government system.
