British Columbia Fish Safe From Japanese But In Danger From Russia

Skeena Member Discusses Tokyo Conference And Treaty with UFAWU

Holding that the interests of the fishing industry of British Columbia are adequately protected under the proposed Canada-Japan-United States fisheries treaty which he had a hand in negotiating at Tokyo, E. T. Applewhaite, MP for Skeena, speaking before a meeting of fishermen here Sunday afternoon, said he had been giving a lot of thought to the danger of competition by Russian vessels.

Indeed, he considered Russia a potential competitor—much larger economically and stronger than Japan. "Frankly," said Mr. Applewhaite, "I am a little surprised that, in the interest that has been taken in protecting ourselves from the Japanese, many people have lost sight of the very real danger of Russia penetrating into the fisheries of the North Pacific Ocean."

At the outset of the tripartite conference in Tokyo, Mr. Applewhaite explained, a resolution had been adopted and later attached to the draft treaty recognizing the mutual interest of the three countries in the development and proper utilization of the stocks of fish in the North Pacific, a result that could be best obtained by international collaboration and co-operation. Enunciated intent of the treaty was to assure maximum sustained productivity of the fisheries with each country assuming an obligation to encourage conservation for that purpose. This, it was felt, could best be obtained by establishing an international commission with three national sections, each with one vote, in making decisions and recommendations which must be unanimous except in the case of making recommendation of conservation measures in which only two countries are concerned. Each country, it was hoped, would establish advisory committees to assist the commission. Functions of the commission would be to study stocks of fish with a view to ascertaining whether conditions justified one or more countries being asked to abstain entirely from such fishing.

The treaty specifically stated, Mr. Applewhaite pointed January Customs Revenue Lighter

Prince Rupert customs office reported a "slack" month in January with collections totalling $39,385.09. Last year for the same period, $71,517.04 was collected.

For 1950, however, January was the lowest month with only $14,663.59 coming to customs coffers.

Four Dead In Crashes

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three persons were killed today when their Royal Canadian Air Force Beechcraft plane, feeling its way through thick fog, struck a guy wire on a radio broadcasting tower at Carman and crashed in flames.

Royal Canadian Air Force said the victims were a staff pilot and two students from the air navigation school at Winnipeg. The names are withheld pending notification of relatives.

At Edmonton an RCAF Mustang and a Piper Cub plane collided on a runway and burst into flames. First reports said that one man had been killed and three injured.

Trade Unionists Would End Private Forest Management

VANCOUVER (CP)—Representatives of 50,000 British Columbia trade unionists voted Saturday for crown control of forests and two public utilities companies—the British Columbia Electric and the British Columbia Telephone Co.

Protection of the small operators and institution of a scheme to take "forest management licence out of private hands and put it directly under control of the government" was demanded.

The forest resolution said that the forest management system put huge tracts of land at the disposal of "monopoly lumber employers" and eliminated small operators.

Would Close Hecate Straits to United States Fishermen

The Prince Rupert local of United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union wants to bar United States fishermen from Hecate Straits. A resolution calling for extension of "territorial waters" of Canada to include Hecate Straits was passed at a union meeting last night and will be presented at the union's annual conference in Vancouver.

Passage of the resolution came after an open meeting discussion with E. T. Applewhaite, Skeena MP, regarding the proposed Japanese fisheries treaty. "We feel it is only right that in the international agreement American trawlers and their other fishermen should be excluded from this territory, just as we are barred from Bristol Bay and the Behring Sea," said T. E. Parkin, local secretary.

Meanwhile, the local and two other groups which met Sunday night supported the principles of a minimum halibut price agreement and a coastwise tie up in halibut fishing in order to enforce a minimum price "if necessary."

Korean Armistice Closer; Both Sides More Hopeful

Train-Car Crashes in South Fatal

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Two train-car collisions in the Fraser Valley killed five persons Sunday, four of them members of one family. A sixth motorist died when his car plunged off a highway and six persons were injured in a chain of accidents, three of them seriously.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dewzarts of Chilliwack and their two sons, Leonard, 7, and Hans, five, were killed when their car collided with a forty-car Canadian National Railway livestock train on a level crossing. The injured were two daughters and another son, Anga, 13, Cora, 2, and Peter, 10.

Dewzarts was a recent Dutch immigrant and was fifty-one years of age.

The accident occurred four-and-a-half miles east of Chilliwack at what is known as "The Big Ditch." The car was dragged for half a mile.

OTHER FATALITIES
A woman was killed in another train-car crash at Nicomen, 53 miles east of Vancouver, and a Vancouver logger died when the car in which he was riding went off the road near Fry's Corner outside of New Westminster.

The dead are Mrs. Stacey Peters of Agassiz and Jack Edward, 40, of Vancouver.

Dr. J. D. Galbraith, superintendent of Miller Bay Hospital, left on today's plane for a trip to Vancouver on official business.

Argentineans Fire On British in Antarctica

PORT STANLEY Falkland Islands (CP)—British-Argentine dispute over the rights to Antarctica took a violent turn Friday when shots were fired overhead, thus preventing a British landing party going ashore.

The Argentine shore party fired shots over the heads of members of the British group attempting to land from a survey ship at Hope Bay on the tip of Antarctica's Graham Land.

News of the incident reached this British settlement Saturday.

Hope Bay is a British base. Britain has not used since 1949. When the ship John Biscoe tried to put a party ashore Friday, the Argentineans, supported by a transport and a tanker, refused permission to land and accentuated their refusals with warning shots. The British contingent returned to the John Biscoe.

After the incident it was reported to the British authorities and a protest was lodged at the Argentine foreign office in Buenos Aires.

Vatican Denies Bormann There

BERLIN (CP)—A former Nazi claimed on Sunday that Martin Bormann, the long missing deputy of Adolf Hitler, is living the life of a Franciscan monk in a Rome cloister. A Vatican source described the claim as "Nazi speculation" aimed at discrediting the Allies in Germany.

The story came from Eberhard Ster, 42, who has close connections with many former high Nazis. Since the war he has led several rightist abortive political movements in Berlin.

A Vatican source said Stern's story, which appeared in the Berlin Telegraf, had been examined previously by a magazine published in Munich and discovered to be without foundation.

A German monk in a Rome cloister also denied the report.

Campaigns for Needy Children

OTTAWA (CP)—During February and March the Undenominational Unitarian Service Committee of Canada will conduct a country-wide campaign for funds to continue its work among the needy children of Europe.

Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, executive director, has issued a statement appealing to Canadians to contribute to the call to help these children. They are the babies of the immediate post-war years now approaching the 10-14 year-old stage, "perhaps the most crucial stage of their lives."

"No one needs guidance and loving care and understanding as much as these confused little people timidly standing on the threshold of a teen-age world," said Dr. Hirschmanova.

All Safe as Ship Strands

MOREHEAD CITY, North Carolina (CP)—Twenty-six members of the crew of the Panamanian freighter Miget leaped safely ashore before dawn today as hurricane-whipped winds broke their 26,600-ton ship in two.

A coastguard rocket, fired by a beach party searching the shore line of Portsmouth Island, drew an answering blinker light from the stranded freighter about 2 a.m. That exchange of messages, above the roar of the Atlantic, gave the Miget's crew their bearings. All came over the small freighter's side and walked in.

The captain and his twenty-five men, worn out by an all-night battle, were taken to an abandoned coastguard station on the barren island. All were soaked and sleepy.

Impact of Pulp Mill

KETCHIKAN — Prompted by Principal A. M. Hurst of Prince Rupert whom he had met while on a visit here, Superintendent J. E. Danielson of Ketchikan schools told the Ketchikan Chamber of Commerce what might be expected in the way of impact upon educational facilities as a result of the construction of a pulp mill. Danielson said that more adequate educational, spiritual and recreational facilities would be required to keep pace with the new industrial development.

Danielson said Rupert stores had ignored the construction men, many of whom are rougher than the permanent pulp mill employees, until they saw them spending their checks in bars. Then they stayed open one night a week to cash their checks and serve them. Even banks co-operated, he said.

While grade school enrolment went up rapidly, Rupert high school had little increase because pulp mill and logging jobs took many of high school age. Other industries suffered a shortage of help and it was hard to get any work done in the construction line.

Danielson said school and church improvement is needed here, and the town must maintain a high moral level to attract the right kind of families when the mill is operating.

Final Section of Truce Coming Up

Full Dress Session to Start Wednesday

MUNSAN, Korea (CP)—A United Nations command spokesman said tonight that the Allies and Communists "have moved closer to an armistice" in Korea. He added that the Reds also may "have hopes of an armistice."

Brigadier General William P. Nichols, spokesman, said that acceptance of a United Nations agreement reached by staff officers working on truce supervision and the sub-committee on prisoner exchange mean "we have moved closer to an armistice."

Nichols said that Communist proposal to start immediate negotiations on the final section of the armistice indicate "they have hopes of an armistice."

Truce negotiators are scheduled to start a full dress session Wednesday to start work on the fifth and last item of the agenda.

There were also optimistic predictions from an Allied member of the prisoner exchange sub-committee.

"I think we can get together and write the rest of an agreement on prisoner exchange," said Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby. "For the first time I think we are in a position to settle the nuts and bolts of the situation."

One of the strongest champions of the late President Roosevelt's "New Deal," he fought many big corporations and was a stormy petrel on the American political scene. He was a staunch advocate of public ownership. As secretary of the interior, he championed the rights of the Indians in Alaska.

Ickes had been under treatment for complications from a former arthritic condition.

United at Cathedral

Miss Carol Madsen and Fred Grimble Jr. Wed

Carol Elizabeth Madsen, elder daughter of Mrs. E. Teiseth, 429 Fifth Avenue West, and Frederick W. Grimble, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Grimble, 511 Fifth Avenue West, were united in marriage before a large congregation of friends last Wednesday evening in St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral. Rev. H. Coulrey Bird, rector of St. Peter's Church, officiated. It was a double ring ceremony for the popular and well known couple. Organ and music were played by Peter Lien.

Given in marriage by Einar Teiseth, the bride was beautiful in white lace over white satin with chapel veil and wreath of orange blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

Charming bridesmaids were Miss Pauline Teiseth, sister of the bride, in a silhouette dress of apple green taffeta, and Miss Joan Grimble, sister of the groom, in pastel green brocade taffeta with neckline and deep flounce of nylon net. Both carried colonial bouquets of yellow carnations.

Leona Berg was a pretty little flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of pale nylon yellow organdie and carried a small bouquet of mixed flowers.

The groomsmen were Harold Skalmrud.

Ushers in the prettily adorned church were George Haugan and Stewart Donaldson.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. N. Rodseth played a violin solo, accompanied by Peter Lien.

RECEPTION

Following the Cathedral ceremony, many friends gathered for a reception at the Sons of Norway Hall.

Receiving the guests were the mothers of the bride and groom, Mrs. Teiseth wearing a gown of black velvet with pearl accessories while Mrs. Grimble chose turquoise silk crepe with green accessories.

The happy couple received congratulations in an arch bower featuring pink and white roses.

Toast to the bride was proposed by G. R. Brett with the groom responding. The groomsmen proposed a toast to the bridesmaids.

The handsome wedding cake was cut in traditional manner with Mrs. Krist Berg assisting the bride and groom.

Ald. George Hills acted as master of ceremonies for the evening which was happily spent in dancing to Mike Colussi's accordion music.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Grimble, given a send-off by enthusiastic friends, sailed on the Prince George for a honeymoon trip to Ketchikan to be followed by taking up residence at Besner Apartments. For travelling the bride wore a navy blue suit with wine topcoat.

The groom was born and raised in Prince Rupert. The bride was born in Saskatchewan but spent most of her life in Denmark. Both are employed at the offices of the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association.

Jaycees' Hard Times Dance

What was termed as "very successful" by the arrangements committee was the Junior Chamber of Commerce "hard times" dance, held Saturday night at the Elks' Home.

Members and guests joined in the mood set for the party and many were the costumes which portrayed even worse days than depression years.

Committee responsible for arrangements, headed by Chairman Don MacDonald, were Dick Wilson, Sam Simpson, Martin Hytten and John MacDonald.

Stylish Gowns On Aussie Tour

LONDON (C)—Twenty gowns on their way to Australia to form part of the wardrobe of Princess Elizabeth's ladies-in-waiting will be something no fashion-conscious Australian woman will want to miss.

For these designs combine the talents of two top-ranking designers — London's Worth and Paquin of Paris.

It would be almost impossible, however, to figure out which designer is responsible for such numbers as the garnet red afternoon dress of pure silk with full skirt, cap sleeves and draped, heart-shaped neckline, combined with matching coat of Lyons velvet. A floral design in garnet beading outlines the neck of the dress and picks out the pocket flaps on the hips.

The rich velvet coat lined by the silk of the dress has skirt fullness falling to the rear, leaving clean hiplines and an almost straight front. The wide sleeves are cut in one with the bodice and deep revers finish in waist fastening.

Truly regal fullness forms the skirt of a primrose and grey tulle ball gown over primrose taffeta. A feathery cascade of wattle flowers in deep gold chenille sports and diamante beading falls from waist to hem down one side of the skirt and outlines the off-shoulder heart-shaped neckline.

Exquisite severity is the outstanding feature of a cream and gold brocade gown with full skirt falling in heavy folds from a pointed waistline. The bodice has wide, waist-deep revers sweeping upwards to form the cape finish to the off-shoulder neckline.

A short dinner dress in two shades of sky blue organza has a draped, strapless bodice and full skirt. A twist of deep blue comes from one side of the waist, slots the dip of the neckline and floats down the opposite side of the skirt.

Petticoat importance is shown in a full-skirted black faille afternoon dress worn over an underskirt of clover pink taffeta. The dress has cap sleeves, deep neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves.

A simple travelling dress in shadow-blue tussor silk, its three-quarter sleeve cut in one with the button-front bodice has white winged cuffs finished by a white bow. It is coupled with a coat of matching faille in plain princess lines.

Styles contributed by the designers range from a straight-skirted wool travel dress of ink blue to a garden-party frock of beige lace and blue taffeta. A seagreen chiffon evening dress with draped neckline has graceful, floating width to the skirt. The narrow belt and strapped are embroidered with diamante.

HOUSEKEEPING...

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CHICKEN AND FOWL—BOTH GOOD

There's a difference between chicken and fowl. Most people are familiar with young, tender chicken, which may be roasted, broiled or pan fried. On the other hand, the fowl, sometimes called "boiling" or "stewing fowl," is usually cheaper but does not receive the attention it deserves.

Fowl are mature hens not producing enough eggs to pay their bills, and surplus roosters culled from the flock. They are usually plump and meaty, because they have been turning their food into flesh. The dressed weight is from 3 to 6 pounds (feathers removed but head, feet and entrails intact). Home economists point out that roosters and old hens are good for canning and may be prepared in many ways to be served at the family dinner table. To can these birds, first cook them until they are partly tender. This shortens the processing time, which should always take place in a pressure canner.

Fowl should be cooked with moderate heat to be juicy, tender and evenly done to the bone. Full grown birds, past their prime for roasting, may be braised or served en casserole, but very old ones need long, slow cooking in water or steam to make them tender. These may be fricasseed, creamed, curried or used as the base for many dishes hot or cold. Stewing means several hours of slow simmering in water so do not boil. To steam a bird, lay it on a rack in a saucepan, with just enough water to come to the level of the rack, but not to cover. Place a tight fitting lid on top and cook slowly. Liquid is added to maintain the same level.

To roast a fowl, it is necessary to first stew or steam it until tender. Then let it cool in the broth, breast down, for an hour or more, so that the juices will be reabsorbed, and stuff the bird with a favorite dressing. Rub the outside with melted fat, sprinkle with salt and brown in the oven. The remaining broth can become gravy or soup.

A fricasse is really a type of stew. To cook a fowl in this way, it is cut into individual serving pieces, then dipped in milk, coated with flour, salt and pepper, browned in fat and placed in a casserole dish. A sauce or gravy is made and poured over the chicken. It is covered and baked. An alternative method consists of stewing the pieces until tender, then brown in hot fat and return to the broth or a gravy.

A favorite dish on many dinner tables is chicken and dumplings. The fowl is prepared in the same way as fricasseed chicken and when the pieces are tender and the gravy thickened, the dumplings are dropped by spoonfuls on top, covered and returned to the oven. The dumplings will require about 15 minutes to cook and no pecking is allowed.

If the family appreciates a good, tangy sauce, a delicious Italian dish is Marengo. A fowl is cut into pieces and browned in hot fat. A gravy is made by lending flour with the fat, adding water and stirring until thick. To this gravy is added a cup of canned tomatoes, minced garlic, fried mushrooms, a cup of apple juice, chopped parsley and seasoning, stirred until blended. The browned chicken pieces are added and simmered in this sauce until tender; this takes about 2 hours.

For a chicken casserole, partially cook a fowl and remove meat from the bones. Arrange the chicken meat and vegetables in alternate layers in a casserole dish. Sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Add some broth, cover and bake until tender.

Stewed or steamed chicken may also be served in creamed dishes, salads or sandwiches. For these dishes, it is well to remember that 4 to 5 pound bird usually yields 3 to 4 cups of chopped cooked meat. If the hen was plump and fat, the fat may be strained off the stock and used in cooking, the stock used for gravy, soup or broth. Many homemakers use the giblets in gravy, chicken livers or giblets with mushrooms on toast are tasty combinations for main course dishes, the family are sure to love. An important point to remember about giblets is that, the gizzards and hearts need long slow simmering, to make them tender. The livers on the other hand, are tender to begin with and so only need brief cooking.

Trans-Canada Road Pushed

Although Progress Not As Rapid As Anticipated

OTTAWA—The 5,000-mile motor highway between the Atlantic and the Pacific has made substantial progress and with the definite program for the coming year, no doubt remains of its ultimate completion. The work has not been so rapid as originally planned, because of priority claims on construction material and equipment for defense. This probably means that the road will not be finished within the seven years originally scheduled. The final yard of pavement may not be laid before 10 years from the signing of the original agreement.

However, there is not a declining but an increasing interest in the thin line of pavement, uninterrupted—except where sea waters intervene—from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Victoria, British Columbia. Sea lanes separate the two island provinces of Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island from the mainland, and the Strait of Georgia divides Vancouver Island from the mainland of British Columbia. Yet sections of the road are being built on all three islands, so that the Trans-Canada Highway will traverse the entire country.

The provinces have been constantly improving their system of roads, and except in two sections, one in northern Ontario and the other in the Rocky Mountains of British Columbia, it has been possible to make a journey across Canada by motor with a fair degree of comfort. Indeed, it is not been impossible to make the entire route, it is reliably stated, although few have made the journey. It would not be attempted as a pleasure trip.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Here's Another Example of How Defenders Could've Set Contract With Their Trumps

Here is another hand illustrating the importance to the defenders of retaining control of the trump suit.

Mr. Meek opened the five of diamonds and Mr. Dale won with the ace. He led a trump and went up with the queen in dummy. Mr. Abel elected to win with the ace. He returned a club and Mr. Dale's queen lost to the king.

Back came a diamond which was taken by dummy's queen. The king of trumps was cashed and both opponents followed. From this point Mr. Dale had no difficulty.

ese territory and the Japanese would so the same with offshore fisheries pertaining to Canada. If this were done, it would be an equally sound principle that Canadian fishermen should be kept out of all fisheries adjacent to American territory including Alaska.

The treaty, Mr. Applewhite explained, established no rights for Japanese vessels to exploit some species of fish off the British Columbia coast but "there is no legal reason today that I know of why Japanese vessels cannot fish any species they like anywhere on the Pacific Coast so long as they do not fish within the territorial waters limits." As a matter of economic fact, however, Mr. Applewhite felt there were no fish on this side of the Pacific, other than salmon, halibut and herring, which anyone could afford to cross the Pacific to get.

Mr. Applewhite contended that proposed fisheries treaty would have a tendency to promote peace and amity on the Pacific through treating the Japanese as a free bargaining power. "To make a treaty with the Japanese in the same spirit as we would make it with any other nation, I am sure, meets with the approval of your organization (United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union) which I understand does not favor racial discrimination."

Mr. Applewhite expressed the opinion that the treaty would not likely come up for ratification at the coming session of Parliament. It would be fully debated the considered by committee before being ratified. Before the treaty was introduced in Parliament, he was certain the minister of fisheries (Hon. R. W. Mayhew) would have paid a visit here so that the fishermen would have the opportunity of discussing it with him.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Answering a question by Tom Parkin, UFAWU secretary, Mr. Applewhite said he knew of no action being considered to extend Canadian territorial waters to close Heate Straits to fishing by other nations. Such a move, however, if ever taken, might lead to retaliatory action.

Speaking on the provision to close waters of Bering Sea and Bristol Bay to other than American fishermen because the salmon there came from American streams, Mr. Parkin pointed out to Mr. Applewhite the situation where four-fifths of the salmon from the Fraser River were caught by United States vessels.

W. D. Griffiths expressed fear of competition by Japanese who could manufacture at a fraction of the cost in western countries. He did not think there was the same competition by the Russians. Mr. Applewhite agreed with the danger of Japanese competition in manufactured goods but did not have much fear of cheaper fish being caught on this side by Japanese, taken to Japan for processing and then being returned here for sale.

Mr. Parkin referred to the Japanese competition in fish liver oil and crabs, Mr. Applewhite replying that the original livers and crabs came from Japan and not from Canada. The member pointed out that it was a "fish" and not a "trade" treaty that was being considered.

Before retiring from the meeting, Mr. Applewhite said that, while he might not agree with everything that was proposed, he did request that he kept informed of the views of the union.

The meeting was that of the Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union with Clarence Gallow, president, in the chair. Fishermen generally had been invited to attend.

CASHES IN ACE

He discarded a club on dummy's king of diamonds, cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a club with the seven of hearts. He lost only one more trick—to Mr. Abel's jack of trumps.

At first glance this appears to be a simple hand in which the defenders are helpless to prevent declarer from winning 10 tricks. However, Mr. Meek, the expert on defense, was quick to point out that the contract should have been defeated.

"Just play your four of hearts at the second trick, Abel," he said. "Let dummy's queen win. Then let's see Dale win 10 tricks on the hand."

COULD'VE DONE IT

Mr. Meek had something. If Mr. Dale had won trick two with the queen of hearts he would have followed with a club and taken the finesse, losing to the king. Mr. Meek would have returned either his last diamond or a trump. Either would have assured the defeat of the contract.

On a trump return, dummy's queen would win. Mr. Dale's best play would then be to cash the ace of clubs and try to ruff a club with the seven of hearts. But Mr. Abel would over-ruff and lead a third round of diamonds, giving Mr. Meek a sure winner with the 10 of hearts.

Chase Double

As a result of Saturday's playing of the fourth round in the English Association competition, three clubs are in line for the coveted "Double"—that is winning the championship and the cup in the same season.

United, who eliminated Southampton Saturday, are one of the three. The Arsenal, incidentally, are the favorite with those who are to assess form. The Arsenal, incidentally, are the favorite with those who are to assess form.

When the high school team got away with their big lead in the first half, it seemed as though the league-topping eagles would be hard-pressed for a win. Tait, Ciccione and Nickerson sparked all the Rainmakers' play.

In the fourth quarter, however, Davis began intercepting students' passing and playing all-round solid defence which cut up their play completely. Elks had six men stripped. Sid Scherk was absent. High scorers were Carlson with 13 and Tait of Rainmakers with 11.

The intermediate fixture ended with Fashion taking a 15-point beating from Hi-Greens. Sheppard, of the students, played one of his best games of the season and was higher scorer with nine points.

The junior bill saw Maple Leafs gain revenge on Mansons, upsetting them 22-15. Play on both teams seemed evenly divided but Mansons appeared to be slipping with their clowning tactics.

Scoring
Elks—D. Scherk 9, Carlson 13, Mathews 9, Davis 10, Holkestad 3, Fetterson. Total 49.

Rainmakers—Morrison 3, Watson 6, Sather 2, Nickerson 6, Young, Letourneau, MacKay, Ciccione 7, Tait 11, Simonson. Total 35.

King Edward assured themselves of first place in the Pee Wee Basketball League as they defeated Borden 24 to 17 Saturday.

Both teams had their share of difficulties. Borden's main one being shooting and King Ed's being bad ball handling.

Borden gave their rivals a good fight until the last quarter when they fell apart and King Ed took advantage and barged ahead to score 14 points to Borden's six.

Scoring was led by Lambie with eight points for King Ed. Rensvold scored nine for Borden. Quarter time scores were: 8-4, 10-8, 11-10, 24-17.

Students Drop Lead In Defeat by Elks

Blowing a 10-point lead they had gained in the early part of the game, Rainmakers fell apart in the last quarter of Saturday night's senior basketball fixture to suffer a 14-point defeat from the Elks.

Joe Davis engineered the students' downfall in organized and systematic manner while Carlson racked up the points.

Ski Heil

By MARNIE BULGER

Both the ascent and descent of the DOT ramp were difficult, but every plankster believed it was well worth it. Heavy damp snow and the right wax—what more could a skier want?

Many new enthusiasts and members-to-be appeared on the slopes including Lorraine Smith, George West of Sundance Ski Club, Edson, Alberta; Glen Morgan and Nels Menzies of Seymour, Vancouver; Vancouverite John Boelle and Charlie Chung, newest member of the DOT staff.

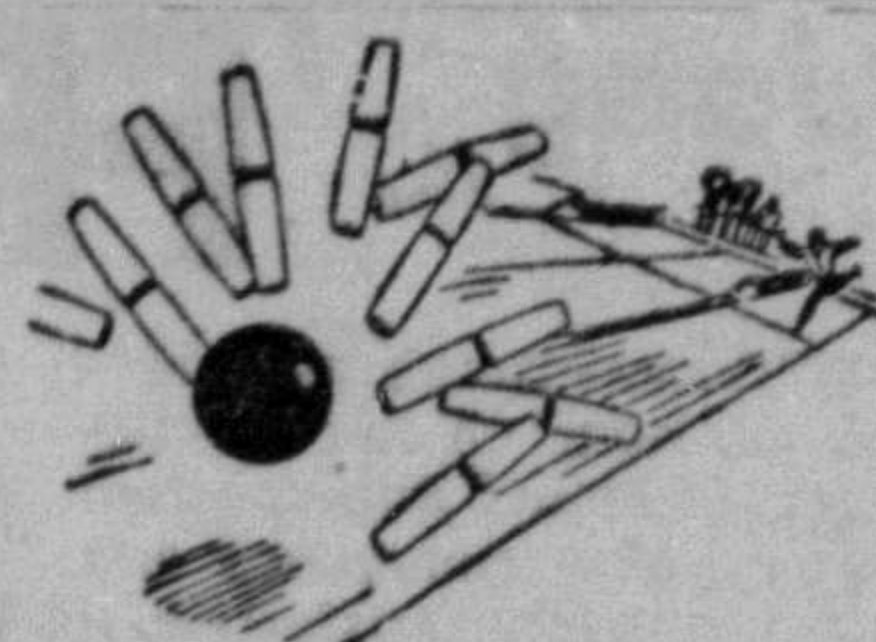

John Skladney, respected instructor, had harness trouble which shortened his skiing day. Another interesting skier is junior member Bruce Stanwood. The progress this boy has made this season is fantastic. Bruce's skiing style is the envy of many members on the hill.

At last President Harold Eidsvik's ski ensemble appears to be complete. He now has a dashing new cap which seems to stay on his head. Every member should be pleased to realize it is no longer necessary to retrieve Harold's cap after each of his startling, hurtling leaps.

The cap is one of those attractive stocking types in light blue complete with a long tassel. Surprise! Everybody after skiing next week is asked to appear at the "Skiddodlers" with plate, gun and fork.

What's going to happen? Well, eventually we'll do our own dishes! Welcome to Charlie Chung.

Cloudbank half a mile thick hides aerodrome from pilot... aircraft at 3,000 feet... cloud base 250 feet... a landing to be made.

"Request GCA—Over" (Pilot to Tower)
"Air Force 514—This is GCA" (GCA to Pilot)

Beneath the concealing cloud, a Ground Control Approach (G.C.A.) Traffic Controller in his mobile truck, watches a spot of light moving across a radar screen. The spot of light is the aircraft in the cloud. By radio contact, Ground Control Approach tells the listening pilot where he is and what to do. Safely and surely, GCA 'talks' the pilot down.

"...you are four miles from touchdown... approaching the glide path... begin your descent at 500 feet per minute... take over visually... 300 yards from touchdown"

The magic of radio and radar—without which the Royal Canadian Air Force could not operate effectively—safeguards the men who fly. It's the responsibility of R.C.A.F. Technicians to maintain this important equipment at peak efficiency.

AT ONCE, THE EXPANDING R.C.A.F. NEEDS MORE MEN TO TRAIN AS SKILLED RADIO AND RADAR TECHNICIANS, and as Armament, Aero-Engine, Instrument and Supply Technicians

TO QUALIFY FOR TRAINING, YOU MUST:

- Be between 17 and 40
- Have Grade 8 education or better
- Be physically fit

Deplores Civic Interest Lack

Mayor Harold Whalen, speaking at the monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society, again deplored the lack of interest shown in civic affairs by Prince Rupert people.

"Unselfish men are required for public office who are willing to sacrifice their own interests," said Mr. Whalen.

Both Holy Name men and their guests, members of the Catholic Youth Organization, listened with interest as the mayor went on to say that business men should observe the Golden Rule.

Civic problems touched on were snow removal, telephones, power and water supply. Solution of these problems and others was the aim of the city council, said Mr. Whalen. "There have been too many long range policies," he added. "I want to get things done."

His Worship emphasized that opinions expressed were his own.

Terrace Post Office Demand Gets Backing

TERRACE—Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests and MLA for Skeena, has wired to the village commissioners of Terrace stating his agreement with representations that a federal building should be provided at Terrace to house the Post Office and federal and provincial offices as well.

Mr. Kenney suggests that the matter be pressed upon the federal member. Mr. Kenney added his opinion that "business at present at Terrace is nothing compared to what it will be from the coming spring on."

A vote of thanks to the mayor was proposed by President Bob Brett.

Angling Clubs To Stock Ponds

WASHINGTON (CP)—The number of anglers in the United States has increased to such an extent that the federal government has had to stop supplying free game fish for stocking brooks and ponds of private fishing clubs, and reserve its supply for federal and state lands.

Dr. O. Lloyd Meehan, chief of the Game Fish and Hatcheries Bureau of the Department of the Interior, says the demands of anglers have reached staggering proportions since the end of the war.

As a result of their demands, he says, private clubs will have to stock their waters with commercially raised fish.

Meehan sees this development as an advantage for commercial producers who have been unable in recent years to compete with importation of frozen brook and rainbow trout from Denmark.

Until the Danish imports started, the American commercial hatcheries had been supplying expensive restaurants at prices ranging from 95 cents to $1.10 a pound. Now, says Meehan, the Danish exporters, subsidized by their government, are shipping the fish to New York to sell at 40 or 50 cents a pound.

Highway conditions to Terrace are still "bad" and there is no immediate prospect that the road will be cleared, L. E. Smith, resident public works engineer, said today.

From the Prince Rupert end, clearing has been completed up to Tye but heavy snow from there to Terrace blocks all traffic.

Bad drifting conditions at Terrace the past week have tied up road clearing equipment for local work East of Terrace the highway is in "good" condition.

LONDON (CP)—Max Faulkner, Britain's popular open golf champion and current holder of the Masters' title, leaves shortly on a globe-girdling swing around the international money circuit with newly-won laurels from his admiring countrymen.

For his double-barrelled achievement in major tournament play last season, Maxie has been awarded the Golf Writers' Trophy for having made the greatest contribution to the game in the United Kingdom during 1951. He is the first player to gain this recognition which in future will be awarded annually.

In the nation-wide poll the champion won hands down. He headed the list of candidates with a margin of 13 votes over his nearest rival, Ronnie White, the Lancashire Walker Cup player, rated as one of the leading amateurs in the country. In third place was the veteran Bernard Darwin, himself a golf writer, as well as a former Walker Cup captain and ex-chairman of the Rules of Golf Committee.

Among the others in the running were the Scottish professional, John Pantou; Arthur Lees, only Briton to win both singles and foursomes matches

BEVERLEY... hail's from Vancouver. Her stomach disorder has been cured at the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children, on Malahat Beach, Mill Bay, Vancouver Island. A carefully regulated diet, rich in proteins, together with prescribed vitamins and plenty of fresh air brought forth a marked improvement very quickly. In four and one-half months little Beverley is ready to return home. Although Beverley's stay was a short one, most Solarium patients are long-term cases, requiring long months and sometimes many years of treatment before cure is effected. It is this long-term care which is such a drain on Solarium finances. The Solarium Junior League is sponsoring its Thirteenth Annual Shower of Dimes throughout the month of February. Donations, large or small, will be received by the Daily News and forwarded.
