Armada Of Gillnetters Opens Sockeye Salmon Fishing Season

Floating Pickets Cease Operations

Floating pickets on the Skeena and Naas rivers ceased operation at 8 a.m. today as more than 1,000 gillnetters and some 40 seiners began to roll out their nets to reap the gleaming harvest of sockeye salmon—B.C.'s most prized food fish.

Fishing also began in the Fraser River where the season opened June 14, but striking fishermen remained tied up until this morning following a deadlock in salmon price negotiations.

An agreement between operators and fishermen was reached Monday when more than 90 per cent voted to accept a new proposal agreed on by negotiators of both sides.

Price for sockeye this year is 22 cents a pound, compared with 25 cents paid the last two years. Other fish prices also were settled.

Average weight of sockeye is between five and seven pounds. A catch of 200 fish a day is considered good fishing.

While week-end closing of fishing to net fishermen normally takes place from Friday 6 p.m. to Sunday 6 p.m., the fishermen have requested an additional day this week to compensate for the late opening this week.

The season on the Skeena and Naas rivers officially opened June 21, but 48 hours were allowed for all fishermen to reach the grounds after the strike was settled.

About 12 seiners from Vancouver joined northern-based vessels to fish the approaches of the Naas River.

Seining is not allowed in the mouth of the Skeena River, however, but season for seining in the Grenville-Principe area opens next Sunday.

Biggest concentration of vessels is on the Naas where the first run of sockeye hits. While fisheries officials are slow to make forecasts, the Naas, which produces five-year-cycle fish, is expected to have a major run this year.

The Skeena River had its big run last year, it was thought, with four-year-cycle salmon returning to their spawning grounds. But some five-year spawners also go up the Skeena headwaters.

First reports on average catches and deliveries to some 10 canneries here and along the rivers should be available by tomorrow, officials said.

Height of the season is expected in both rivers about the second week in July.

SLIDE REMOVED

Of great relief to the department of fisheries and to the whole salmon industry is the removal of the disastrous 1951 rock slide in the Babine River which blocked off most of that year's sockeye spawners in the Skeena and seriously hampered last year's run.

The slide was removed last winter at a cost of close to a million dollars.

Majority of gillnet fishermen look upon the sockeye run as their means of getting a "stake" which will take care of the season's expenses of summer and fall fishing.

Fishermen hope to pay for their nets with the money they make from sockeye. If they are successful, they enter the pink and chum salmon season in the clear with a chance to make high earnings.

Last year, there was no fall fishing because of a price dispute. This year's price settlement includes the price for fall salmon.

Some fishermen, however, depend on sockeye as their main source of income. Most of these are natives who live close to the rivers and own small boats.

Reds Smash UN Positions

SEOUL (AP)—A powerful Chinese Red force, possibly a full division, smashed into United States and South Korean positions in the Iron Triangle area of central Korea today as the war rounded out its third year.

In the air, U.S. Sabre jets shot down four Communist MIGs and damaged one.

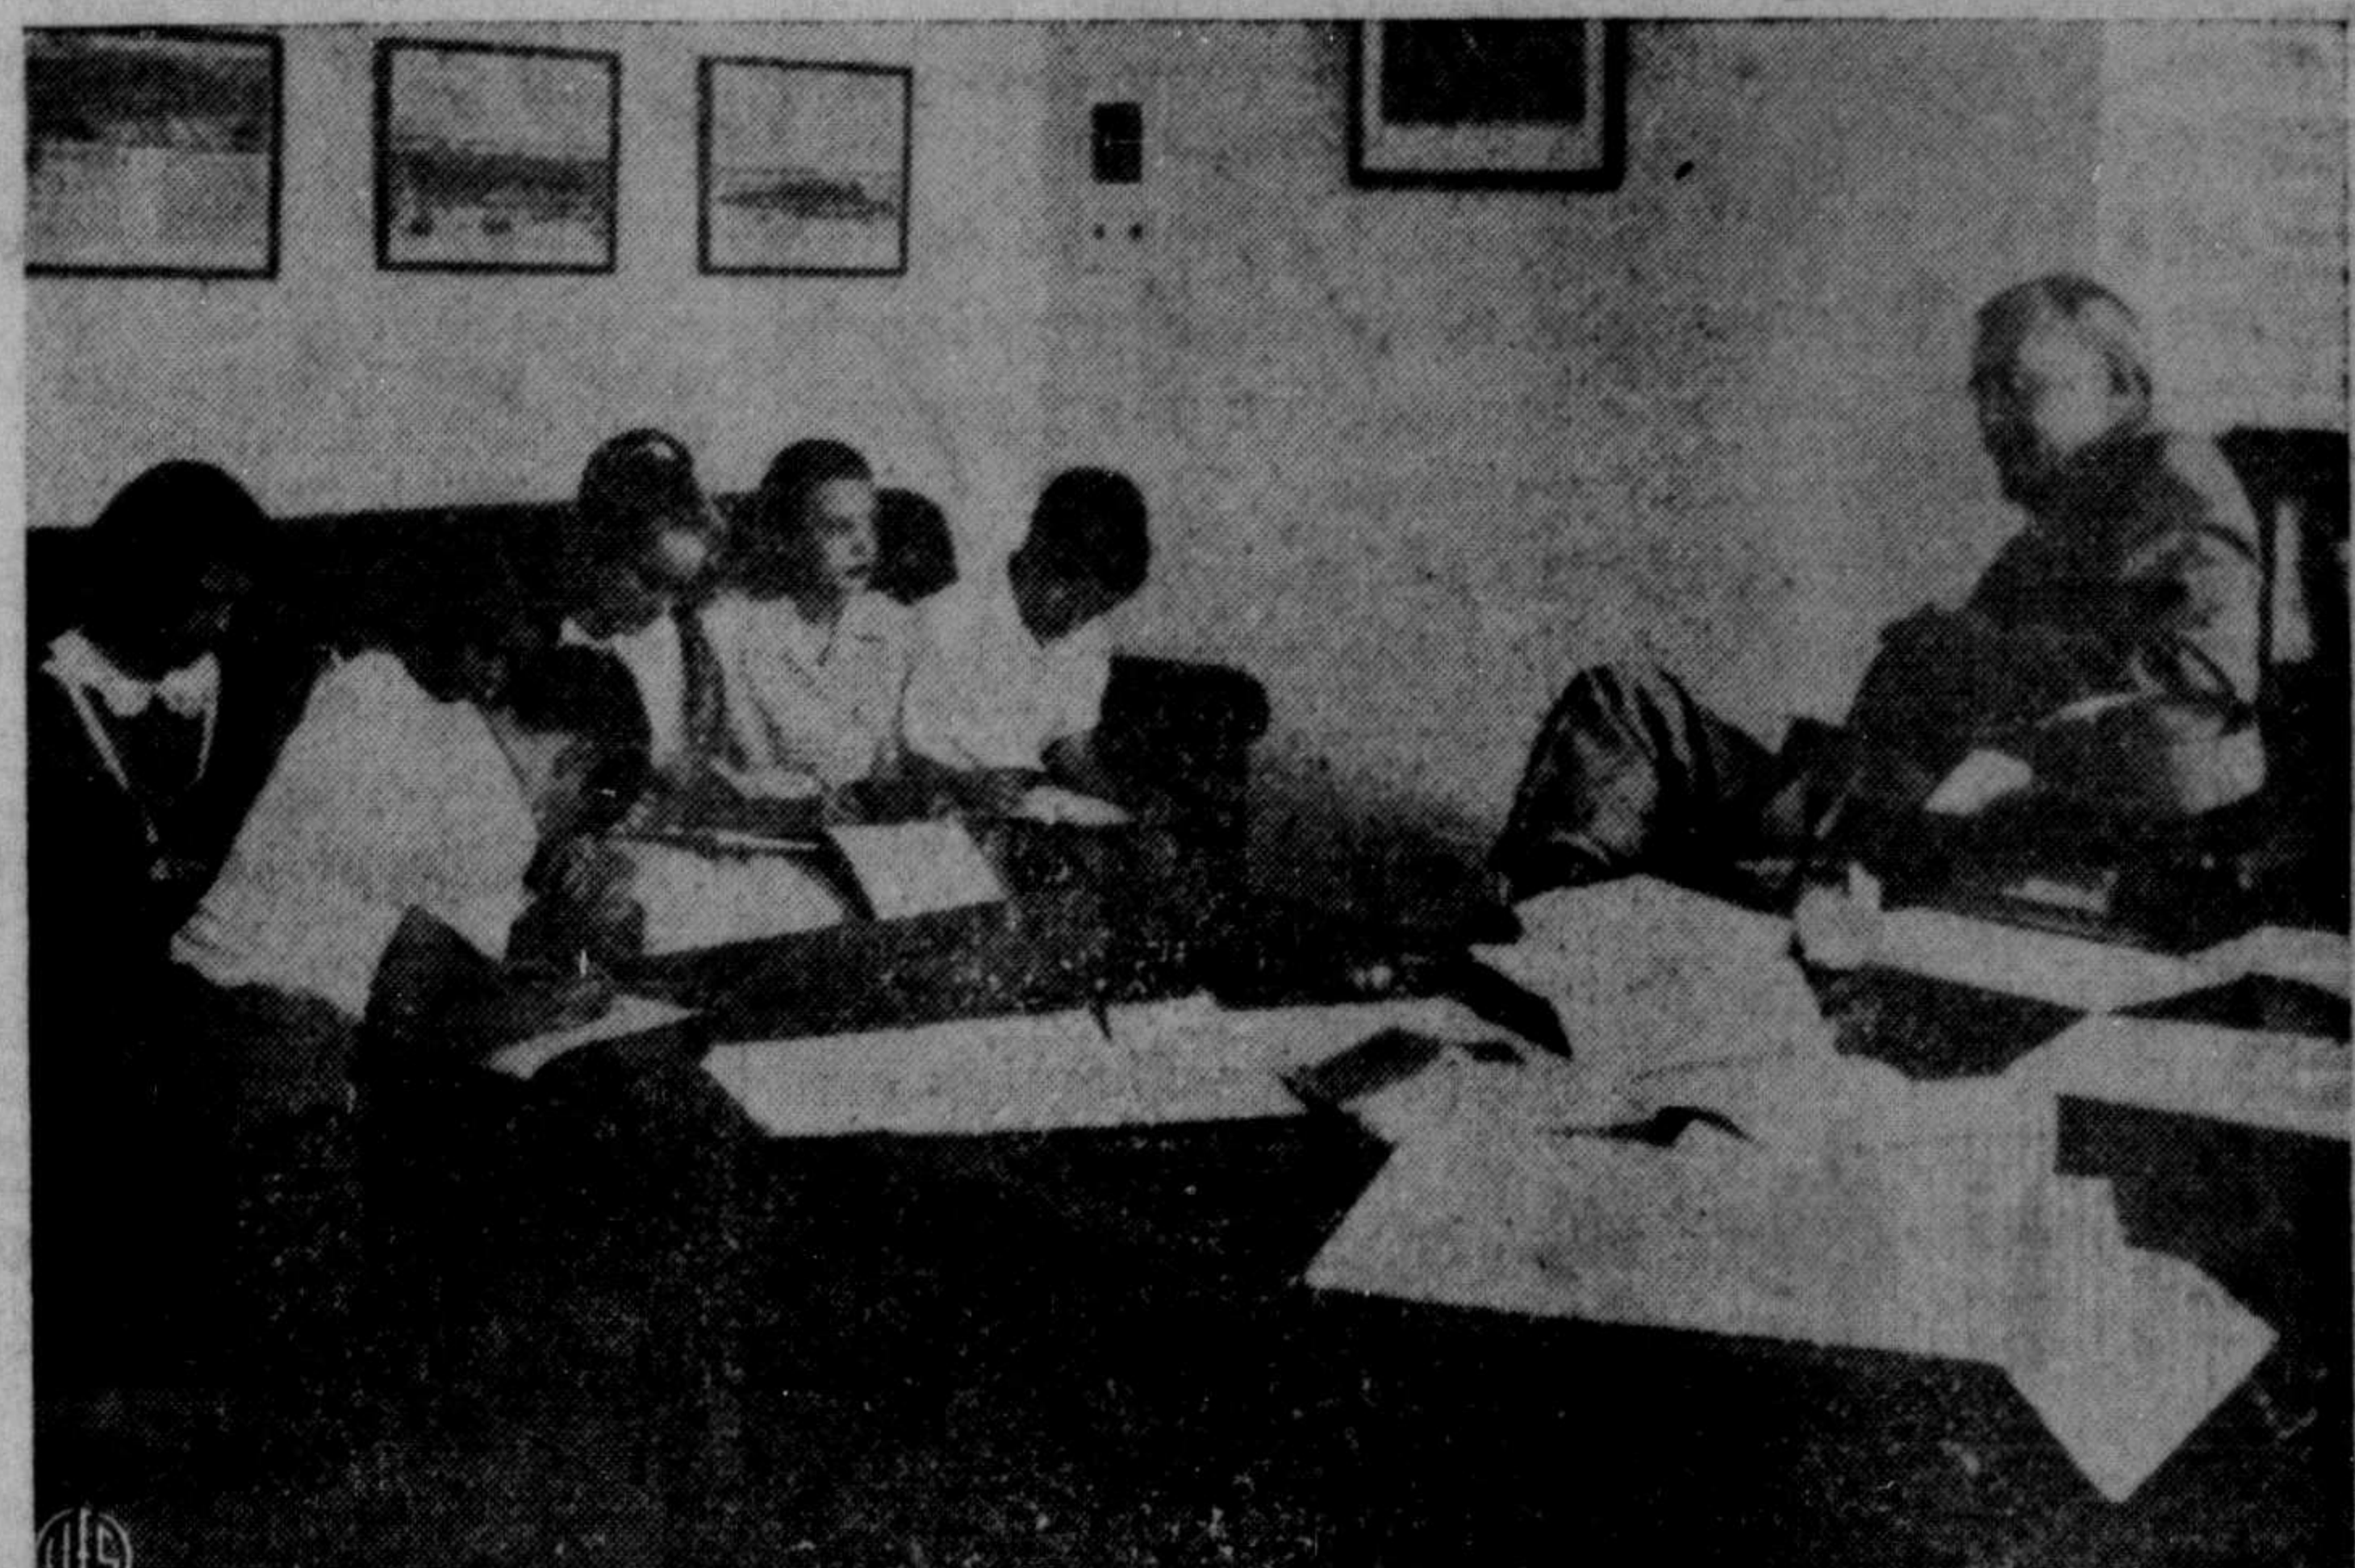

The war goes into its fourth year, Thursday.

Infantry of the U.S. 3rd Division and South Korean units hurled back 3,000 Reds in a night-long battle for Boomerang Ridge.

South Korean troops were reported in close-quarter combat with up to two Chinese regiments—perhaps 6,000 men—on Sniper ridge and Triangle hill.

Rail Barge Service to Juneau Planned by Puget Sound Firm

JUNEAU — Plans for the Puget Sound and Barge Company to extend its rail-barge service to Juneau have been reported by a company official.

John Lee, the firm's president, said on a visit here that the service will be for the hauling of Alaska Plywood Corp. products by direct rail shipments to eastern markets from ports of Prince Rupert, B.C., or Seattle.

He expressed the hope of inaugurating the service early in 1954.

The service involves barge transport of rail cars, which can be transferred direct to the rails at the other end of the haul.

Lee said the installation here will include warehouses and loading slips, with the overall cost estimated at $200,000. He said present plans include the Ketchikan in the proposed run.

Atlin Hydro Plans Await Reports From Engineers

Ted Applewhite, Liberal Party candidate seeking re-election in Skeena riding, returned late last night from a tour of the northern section of the constituency.

While in Atlin, he told a group of some 60 citizens "there would be no definite statement of plan for the development of the Atlin-Yukon water power project for a year, and perhaps longer."

He said he had received this statement from conversation and correspondence with representatives of the Froisher Company and with Resources Minister Winters.

Mr. Applewhite said, however, there will be extensive surveys made in the area throughout the summer by engineers collecting data for the company.

Mr. Applewhite, MP for Skeena since 1949, will speak over CFPR tomorrow night at 6:15 p.m.

Enroute from Atlin to Whitehorse, Mr. Applewhite was accompanied by Bruce S. Morton, who went to the Yukon city to offer health authorities use of been idle for the past three years.

Whitehorse hospitals are over-taxed with patients due to a serious epidemic of polio.

Drew Promises 'Impossible' St. Laurent Tells Guelph Voters

By The Canadian Press
Political leaders Tuesday night met and parried verbally in election platforms.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, in promising the impossible.

In turn, Mr. Drew described Liberal policy for the future as "a yawn."

Meanwhile, from Winnipeg, Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre in the last Commons, made a plea by national radio network for support of his party's national health insurance program on voting day, Aug. 10.

Mr. St. Laurent took a few cuts at Mr. Drew's election manifesto before a Guelph audience. His theme: promised tax reductions of $500,000,000 and the whole Progressive Conservative platform as "absolutely impossible" to carry out.

He indicated clearly that his opinion of Progressive Conservative promises was that they meant higher federal expenditures. That included promises of lower taxes on homes and farms, lower property taxes for health and education, contributory health insurance, a national board to set fair farm prices, more pay for civil servants and better terms for home builders.

"So far as I can see, there is nothing the Conservatives are not willing to promise."

CHANCES SLIM
With a passing stab at the CCF and Social Credit, other major groups in the campaign.

Mr. St. Laurent wrote off their chances. He said the choice is between his government or the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Drew at a meeting in his home riding of Carlton, which includes parts of Ottawa, said Mr. St. Laurent has given no indication of Liberal policy for the future.

The prime minister's keynote speech in Windsor, Ont., Monday "simply tells us that the government policy for the future is expressed in the words: 'As you were.' This was not a policy. It was a yawn."

He said the government had become the victim of its own propaganda when it could say there is no impressive evidence of waste and inefficiency.

NEED A CHANGE
Mr. Drew said the Liberal government is "old and tired in office." It is time for a change.

Mr. Knowles said Canada no longer can afford to be without a national health insurance program, and said it also was only fair that the old age and blind pensioner share in the 50-per-cent increase in production of wealth by having pensions increased to $60 a month from the $40 set in 1949.

In Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe told a nominating convention that a Liberal government would introduce a sound, workable health insurance scheme as soon as it can be done without putting too big a burden on the Canadian people.

Two pre-fab temporary classrooms are to be built this year at an approximate cost of $10,000. One room will provide for primary grades at Quick and one at Smithers elementary school. The department of education has authorized this construction and will pay 50 per cent of the cost.

Large accommodation for industrial arts and drafting will be provided on the ground floor of a new two-storey wing to the Smithers junior-second high school. Home economics and clothing room will occupy the top floor. Present industrial arts room will be converted to a science room and the home economics room into a regular classroom.

A 91-by-61-foot auditorium-gymnasium with staging and standard basketball court is also planned for the high school.

Three-room additions will be built at Houston and Telkwa to provide much-needed increased accommodation at the superior schools at those places. One of the three rooms at Houston will replace one destroyed by fire last January.

On approval, school bylaw No. 1 will be put before district electors, probably in the fall, to consent to borrow the necessary funds.

After bylaw approval the school board will issue debentures for the total amount of the building project.

Under bill 94, passed last March 26, the province guarantees the debentures in respect of principal and interest and shares in annual charges for interest and principal repayment over a 20-year period on a 50-50 basis.

The old and obsolete four-classroom Smithers elementary school building will be replaced by an eight-room structure.

Missing Girl Arrives Home While 'Daddy' Goes to Jail

WINNIPEG — A five-year-old girl arrived here late Tuesday from Vancouver sitting on the lap of the man charged with her abduction.

Linda Verfaillie, missing for 14 days and subject of a continent-wide search for the last 14 days, listened as George

Prevost read her a story about a fire engine on the plane returning from Vancouver.

Mrs. Bernadette Verfaillie first reported Linda missing 25 days after Prevost took her for a holiday. The pair were found in a Vancouver hotel Sunday after Prevost wired a friend in Churchill, Man., for money.

All the way home Linda played with Prevost and his RCMP escort. At the airport, she waved good-bye to the man she calls daddy and was whisked home in a police car.

A Tie-up Averted

THERE is no doubt that all B.C.—but especially Prince Rupert—was greatly relieved by the news that the price dispute between fishermen and canners was settled without a more prolonged strike.

For this, both operators and members of the joint negotiating committee are to be congratulated. It is evident that faced with a complete tieup of the salmon industry and consequent loss of millions of dollars to B.C. fishermen and investors, some agreement had to be reached quickly.

In Prince Rupert, a continued impasse in the industry would have meant a serious disruption in the city's economy which is based on the fisheries, with salmon playing the major part. Result of last year's fall fishing strike was seriously felt in many homes and businesses during the winter. Another strike would close the city down, many were saying.

But while congratulations are due to those effecting a settlement, a question arises. Why does it have to come so close to a matter of life or death before wage or price disputes can be settled?

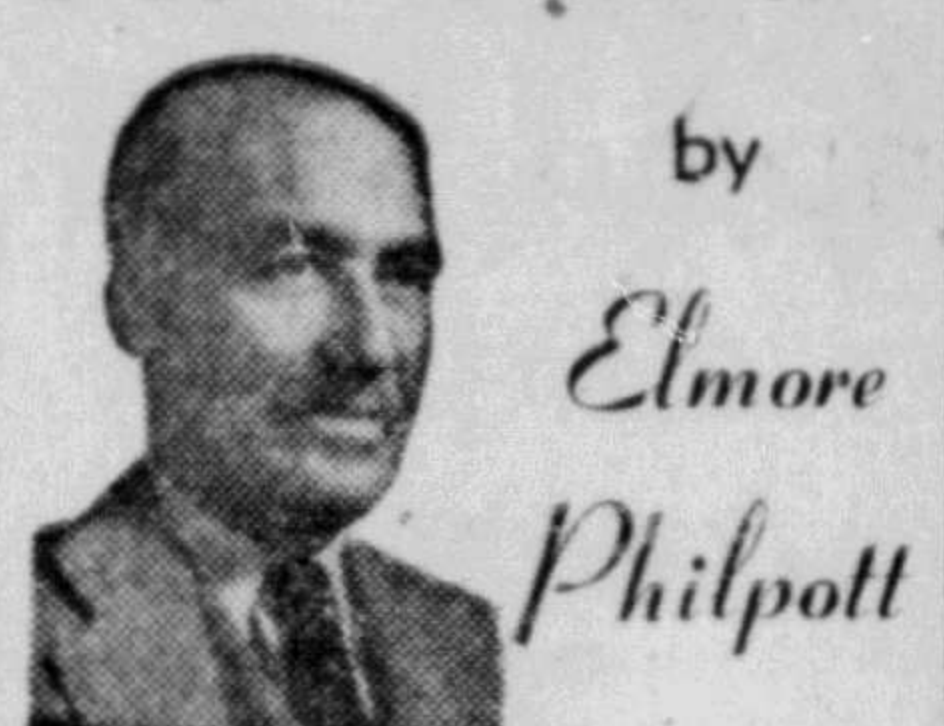

Negotiations there must be, in order to bring both the employee and the employer, the producer and the processor together. But perhaps a little more honesty on the part of both sides would produce quicker results without the needless bickering, haggling, and the ill-will that goes with such proceedings.

If, for instance, the fishermen can accept a price now which the operators are prepared to pay, it is apparent this price could have been settled right from the start.

Present methods of bargaining for wages and prices show in many instances that organized labor or producers ask for a top figure and operators counter with a bottom figure. Then things see-saw back and forth until finally an agreement is reached, or, more often, a deadlock.

Perhaps this is the only method of reaching agreements but it involves so much disagreement that one wonders if the cost is worth the purchase.

Bathubs for Bombs

FRANK ALLAUN works on the night shift in a Manchester newspaper. At one o'clock on a night not long ago the phone rang and Frank was asked to rush to a certain address.

"When I arrived at the wash-house an amazing sight met me," he writes in the London Tribune. "Queuing up on the steps were 20 women huddling together for warmth. They were the first of many more to come. Some had brought blankets. Their ages ranged from 16 to 60. They were going to stay till eight o'clock in the morning, because the Labor controlled council had installed a new battery of six electric washing machines."

In that district 35,000 homes have neither a bath nor hot water. * * * WHENEVER I see reports that the stock markets have taken another tumble at the reports of imminent peace in Korea I think of such things as that item above. How many washing machines could you make for what does into one tank?

There is no greater fallacy than that we can only have steady jobs at good pay in times of war or preparation for war. Canada is one of the most favored nations on earth. We have the POTENTIAL here for the highest standard of living of any nation on earth.

What we have to beat is the crazy idea that we can only be prosperous if we are shooting away our production at Germans, or Italians, or Russians, Chinese or Koreans. CANADA is still one of the most disgracefully housed nations on earth, considering the possibilities. We have all the materials in Canada for making all the homes we need for all the people we have now—and all the millions more we ought to have and soon will have.

We should make it possible for every family in Canada to own a home of its own; or to rent one at a price everyone can afford to pay. We should be ashamed to be petty or niggardly about the terms on which families are to get entry to those homes.

Any young couple of good character should be able to walk into a decent small home as soon as they are married. Let them have possession for the most nominal down payment. Let the country say to them, "We have enough faith in you to expect that you will keep faith with us." Let them build extra rooms, or move to a larger place, when the family grows.

The family could easily pay off the price of the house, in less than half the average working span of the husband. * * * PROVIDING houses for those who need them seems to me something much bigger than an argument between capitalism or socialism, public or private enterprise. That is beside the point in Canada.

For many decades to come the private enterprise builder must be the mainstay of any housing program. Let the political parties compete for the votes of the public by showing exactly how they propose to go about getting the extra houses Canadians need.

But whatever we do, let all parties forever put behind them the insane idea that we need to go hungry because we have produced too much food; that we need to live in attics or basements in a land that has more material for making houses than any other land on earth—bar none.

Let us substitute bathtubs for bombs, tractors for tanks, homes for planes, garden forks for bayonets.

While it's generally considered undignified to sit on the floor, particularly in a bar, it is quite the thing for these two gentlemen, who happen to be Arabian and are drinking just soda pop. They were in Rome to attend the International Horse Show.

Canadians To Use Constitutional Rights in Forthcoming Election

OTTAWA.—In electing a new House of Commons Aug. 10 Canadians will be exercising one of their fundamental constitutional rights. The British North America Act, basis of the Canadian constitution, requires a new Parliament to be elected at least once every five years. The act, passed in 1867 when some of the Canadian provinces decided to federate, incorporated established principles of the British constitution.

Thus Parliament consists of the Queen, represented by the governor-general; the Commons and the Senate, each with its responsibilities and privileges. The 265 members of the Commons—newly increased to that number from 262—are elected. The 102 senators are appointed by the government of the day and hold office for life. Members of the Commons and the Senate receive an indemnity of $4,000 for each regular session. In addition they receive an annual expense allowance of $2,000, taxable in the case of senators and non-taxable for members of the Commons.

By custom, the leader of the majority of members elected to the Commons is called by the governor-general in the name of the Queen to form a new administration, and that leader becomes prime minister. The choice of cabinet ministers is not restricted to the leader's elected followers. Outsiders may be chosen—and, in fact, four members of the present cabinet have been picked this way—but they must obtain seats in the Commons as soon as possible.

Prime Minister St. Laurent was in private law practice in 1941 when the late W. L. Mackenzie King asked him to join the Liberal cabinet as minister of justice. External Affairs Minister Pearson, Justice Minister Garson and Labor Minister Gregg are others elected to the Commons after they had been appointed to the cabinet.

Administration is in the hands of the prime minister and his cabinet, representing various departments of government. They represent the Queen's Privy Council in Canada.

OTTAWA DIARY

By NORMAN M. McLEOD

The headaches and frustrations which a party leader must endure during a political campaign traditionally are many and various. But in the present contest PC Chief George Drew is confronting a new one, namely, party security.

In essence, the situation is that Liberal headquarters are getting wind of PC campaign strategy almost as rapidly as plans are matured and decisions taken by Leader Drew and his High Command.

That's a highly serious matter. If it should continue, the Drew forces would be deprived of the use of one of the most powerful as well as effective weapons in the entire range of political artillery; the weapon of surprise.

Just how the Liberal Party's intelligence service functions in order to keep itself fully informed on day-to-day and even hour-to-hour developments in Progressive Conservative campaign strategy is Parliament Hill's best kept political secret of the present big and expanding moment. Beyond the frank, if not actually illuminating assurance that "it isn't done with mirrors," the Liberals aren't talking. Having reached a high stage of perfection in the art of political intelligence, they're not operating a kindergarten for beginners.

Leader Drew's first intimation that the strategy huddles of himself and his co-planners weren't as private as the closed doors behind which they were held might imply came just a week ago. A friendly newspaper correspondent gave him the tip-off that Liberal headquarters were studying his campaign itinerary with greatest interest. The itinerary—at that time the most top-secret document in PC headquarters files—had been completed only a few hours previously.

An emergency meeting of the PC High Command was convened hurriedly. Leader Drew is reported to have spoken warmly to his aides on the necessity of holding all campaign plans in strictest confidence. Then some changes were made in the campaign itinerary by way of confusing the Liberals.

An hour or so later a Liberal newspaper correspondent asked one of the PC strategy staff the date of Drew's proposed flight from Vancouver to Winnipeg. The flight was one of the changes in the itinerary which the PC Strategy Board had made in order to surprise the Liberals. In terms of final success or victory come August 10th, the Liberal pre-eminence in the field of rival party intelligence isn't too important. But it's a particularly unsatisfactory situation for Leader Drew to know—or at least to fear—that any strategy he may devise will be known by the enemy even before it can be used effectively.

LETTERBOX

HOW MANY VOTES The Editor, The Daily News: It would be interesting to know just how many votes Elmore Philpott's articles cost the Liberal Party?

There is an idea prevalent nowadays that if you shout a thing loud enough, people will eventually come to believe it. There is a great deal in this. Hitler tried it with conspicuous success. The whole business of advertising is built up on it.

On page 2 of the Daily News for June 13th, you have an article under the heading "Sanitarian to Check on Park Squatters." I agree that such a move is a long time past due, but in your article you state that the Wantage Road area is a part of McClymont Park whereas the McClymont Park was established years before the city of Prince Rupert acquired the four hundred acres through which Wantage Road was built and which was officially named "Pioneer Park" after the many fine men and women who gave their all in work and money to carve a city out of rock and muskeg.

Now this is exactly the result Mr. Philpott has been achieving with his ceaseless attacks on the Social Credit Party. I was not a particular admirer of SC last year—in fact, like everyone else I knew very little about it. But my politics being essentially Anti-Socialist (having seen what the Socialist did to England) I was quite pleased that someone had come to the rescue of free enterprise and kept the CCF out.

Softness Coming Back In Modern Decoration

By ELENORE LESTER
Back in the early days of our century women who wanted to assert their independence cut their long locks, dressed in tailored suits and adopted a manly stride.

Today, active career women wear veils and perfumes and are quite their feminine selves no matter how big a job they handle.

This pattern is now being repeated in home decoration, according to wallpaper designer Mary Robinson Barber.

Mrs. Barber, a "frankly feminine" career woman herself, believes that the cold, sterile look in modern decoration is as much a thing of the past as the suffragette.

Earnings Don't Effect Baby Bonuses

Earnings of school children, irrespective of the amount, no longer have any effect on their eligibility for Family Allowances, W. R. Bone, regional director, said today.

Under previous regulations a $25 per month limit was imposed and when part-time income exceeded that amount, the allowances were suspended.

"It should be borne in mind, however, that this is applicable only in cases of children attending school," Mr. Bone said. "When children have left school and accept any type of employment, their Family Allowances are discontinued immediately."

"Extreme modernism came in as a reaction to the cluttered interiors of the late Victorian era," maintains Mrs. Barber, "but today we are not satisfied with a cold, angular look. We want softness and grace."

Mrs. Barber, who works for one of the nation's biggest wallpaper manufacturers, tries to give her designs the pretty, romantic quality women have been missing.

"Sweet pink, muted turquoise and clear, fresh sunshine yellow are some of the colors I've chosen to accomplish the job," maintains Mrs. Barber. "Another big consideration has been space. Nearly everybody wants more of it, but if they can't have enough because of high building costs, they can at least get the illusion of space through the use of light and airy colors or designs."

As a housewife and mother of four growing children in the small community of Madison Conn., Mrs. Barber feels she has a good, down-to-earth idea of what the average woman wants. She is sure of one thing—softness and charm will never be outmoded.

Florence Compton Wed In First United Church

Florence May Compton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Compton, 330 Eighth Avenue East, was united in marriage in First United Church, to Patrick Neville Cavanagh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Cavanagh of White Rock, B.C. Reverend L. G. Sieber officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with delphiniums, carnations, roses, and picked flowers flown from White Rock especially for the occasion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a white satin gown, with a lace bodice, and sleeves detailed in pearls. A shoulder veil was held in place by a white pearl coronet, and she carried a bouquet of red and white carnations.

A pretty complement to the bridal white were the attendants in their becoming colored dresses. Mrs. Hazel Goulet, sister of the bride, and matron of honor, was dressed in blue and carried a white Bible, and Miss Betty Compton, another sister of the bride, chose a turquoise green net dress and held a bouquet of deep purple iris and shaded pink carnations. Mrs. Marie Lofgrens wore an apple-green net dress and carried a matching bouquet.

The flower girl, Victoria Compton, was dressed in pink and carried flowers of the same shade.

The music was played by Mr. Henry Plum.

Ushers were Mr. Al. Shaffer and Mr. Byron Lofgren.

For the occasion, the bride's mother chose a two-piece navy blue suit, with a flannel coat in light check with accessories to match, and the bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece navy blue silk suit, with matching accessories. To complete their ensembles, both had corsages of white and pink carnations.

For her going away outfit, the bride chose a maroon suit with white accessories.

The couple planned to spend their honeymoon travelling by car over the new Hart Highway to Edmonton, Jasper, Lake Louise and the Calgary Stampede, then through the United States en route to White Rock.

Festival Planned For Saturday

SMITHERS—Rain caused postponement of Smithers' first annual Mid-Summer Night Festival. Celebration of the ancient sun rites was to have been held last Saturday, in a natural amphitheatre overlooking the Bulkley River, backdropped by snow-capped peaks of Hudson Bay Mountains.

Plans had been made in event of rain to stage the show in a local hall. However, last minute decision by the committee in charge set the date off one week, to June 27.

Prospect of having to confine it to limited hall space met with general disappointed protest from people wishing to attend and members of the cast. The scenic beauty of the out-door setting is considered to be so much a part of the theme of the festival.

Primarily the festival's purpose is to encourage development of latent talent in the younger generation. It is also hoped to encourage continued cultural development and a fusion of old world groups into a new world community. Seven national groups will render program numbers.

There will be an exhibition of local arts and crafts on the festival grounds, three miles west of Smithers on the Telkwa-Smithers highway.

Success of this year's festival will determine its continuity annually as a possible tourist attraction.

More Trout Eggs Planted By Club in Lake Kathleen

SMITHERS.—Ninety thousand trout eggs and 48 ringneck pheasants arrived here for the Bulkley Valley Rod and Gun Club this week.

The fish eggs received from the government hatchery at Kamloops were immediately transferred to the club's hatchery near Lake Kathleen. A program of egg-picking to clear dead eggs and prevent pollution will be carried out daily until hatched. A good hatch is looked for.

The program of stocking district lakes carried out by the club the past few years is beginning to net results according to fishermen.

Arriving in excellent condition with one exception after their long truck trip from Vancouver, the pheasants will be penned for a few days then released at various places in the Smithers district. These birds were farm raised and the shipment is an experiment to test their ability to survive in this area.

MORE IN FALL
Reports on the club's pheasant project indicate that close to 300 pheasants will be at large by the fall.

Four penned hens have laid 206 eggs to date this year, 174 of these have been set and a good percentage of chicks already hatched.

Eighty-five day old chicks purchased by the club are doing exceptionally well and will be old enough for release soon.

At its regular monthly meeting the club discussed Upland Game Bird regulation changes for 1953. Ptarmigan were reported plentiful in the district mountains. Recommendation for an open season will be forwarded to the office of the game commission. A six-week season from Sept. 1 to Oct. 15 is being suggested.

Wenatchee, Yakima Win Games

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Third baseman Bab Fuhrman drove home three runs with a bases-loaded double in the fourth inning and Wenatchee went on to defeat Tri-City 6-1 in a Western International League baseball game here Tuesday night.

Tri-City scored its only run in the second inning when manager Edo Vanni singled home Ray Tran, who had walked.

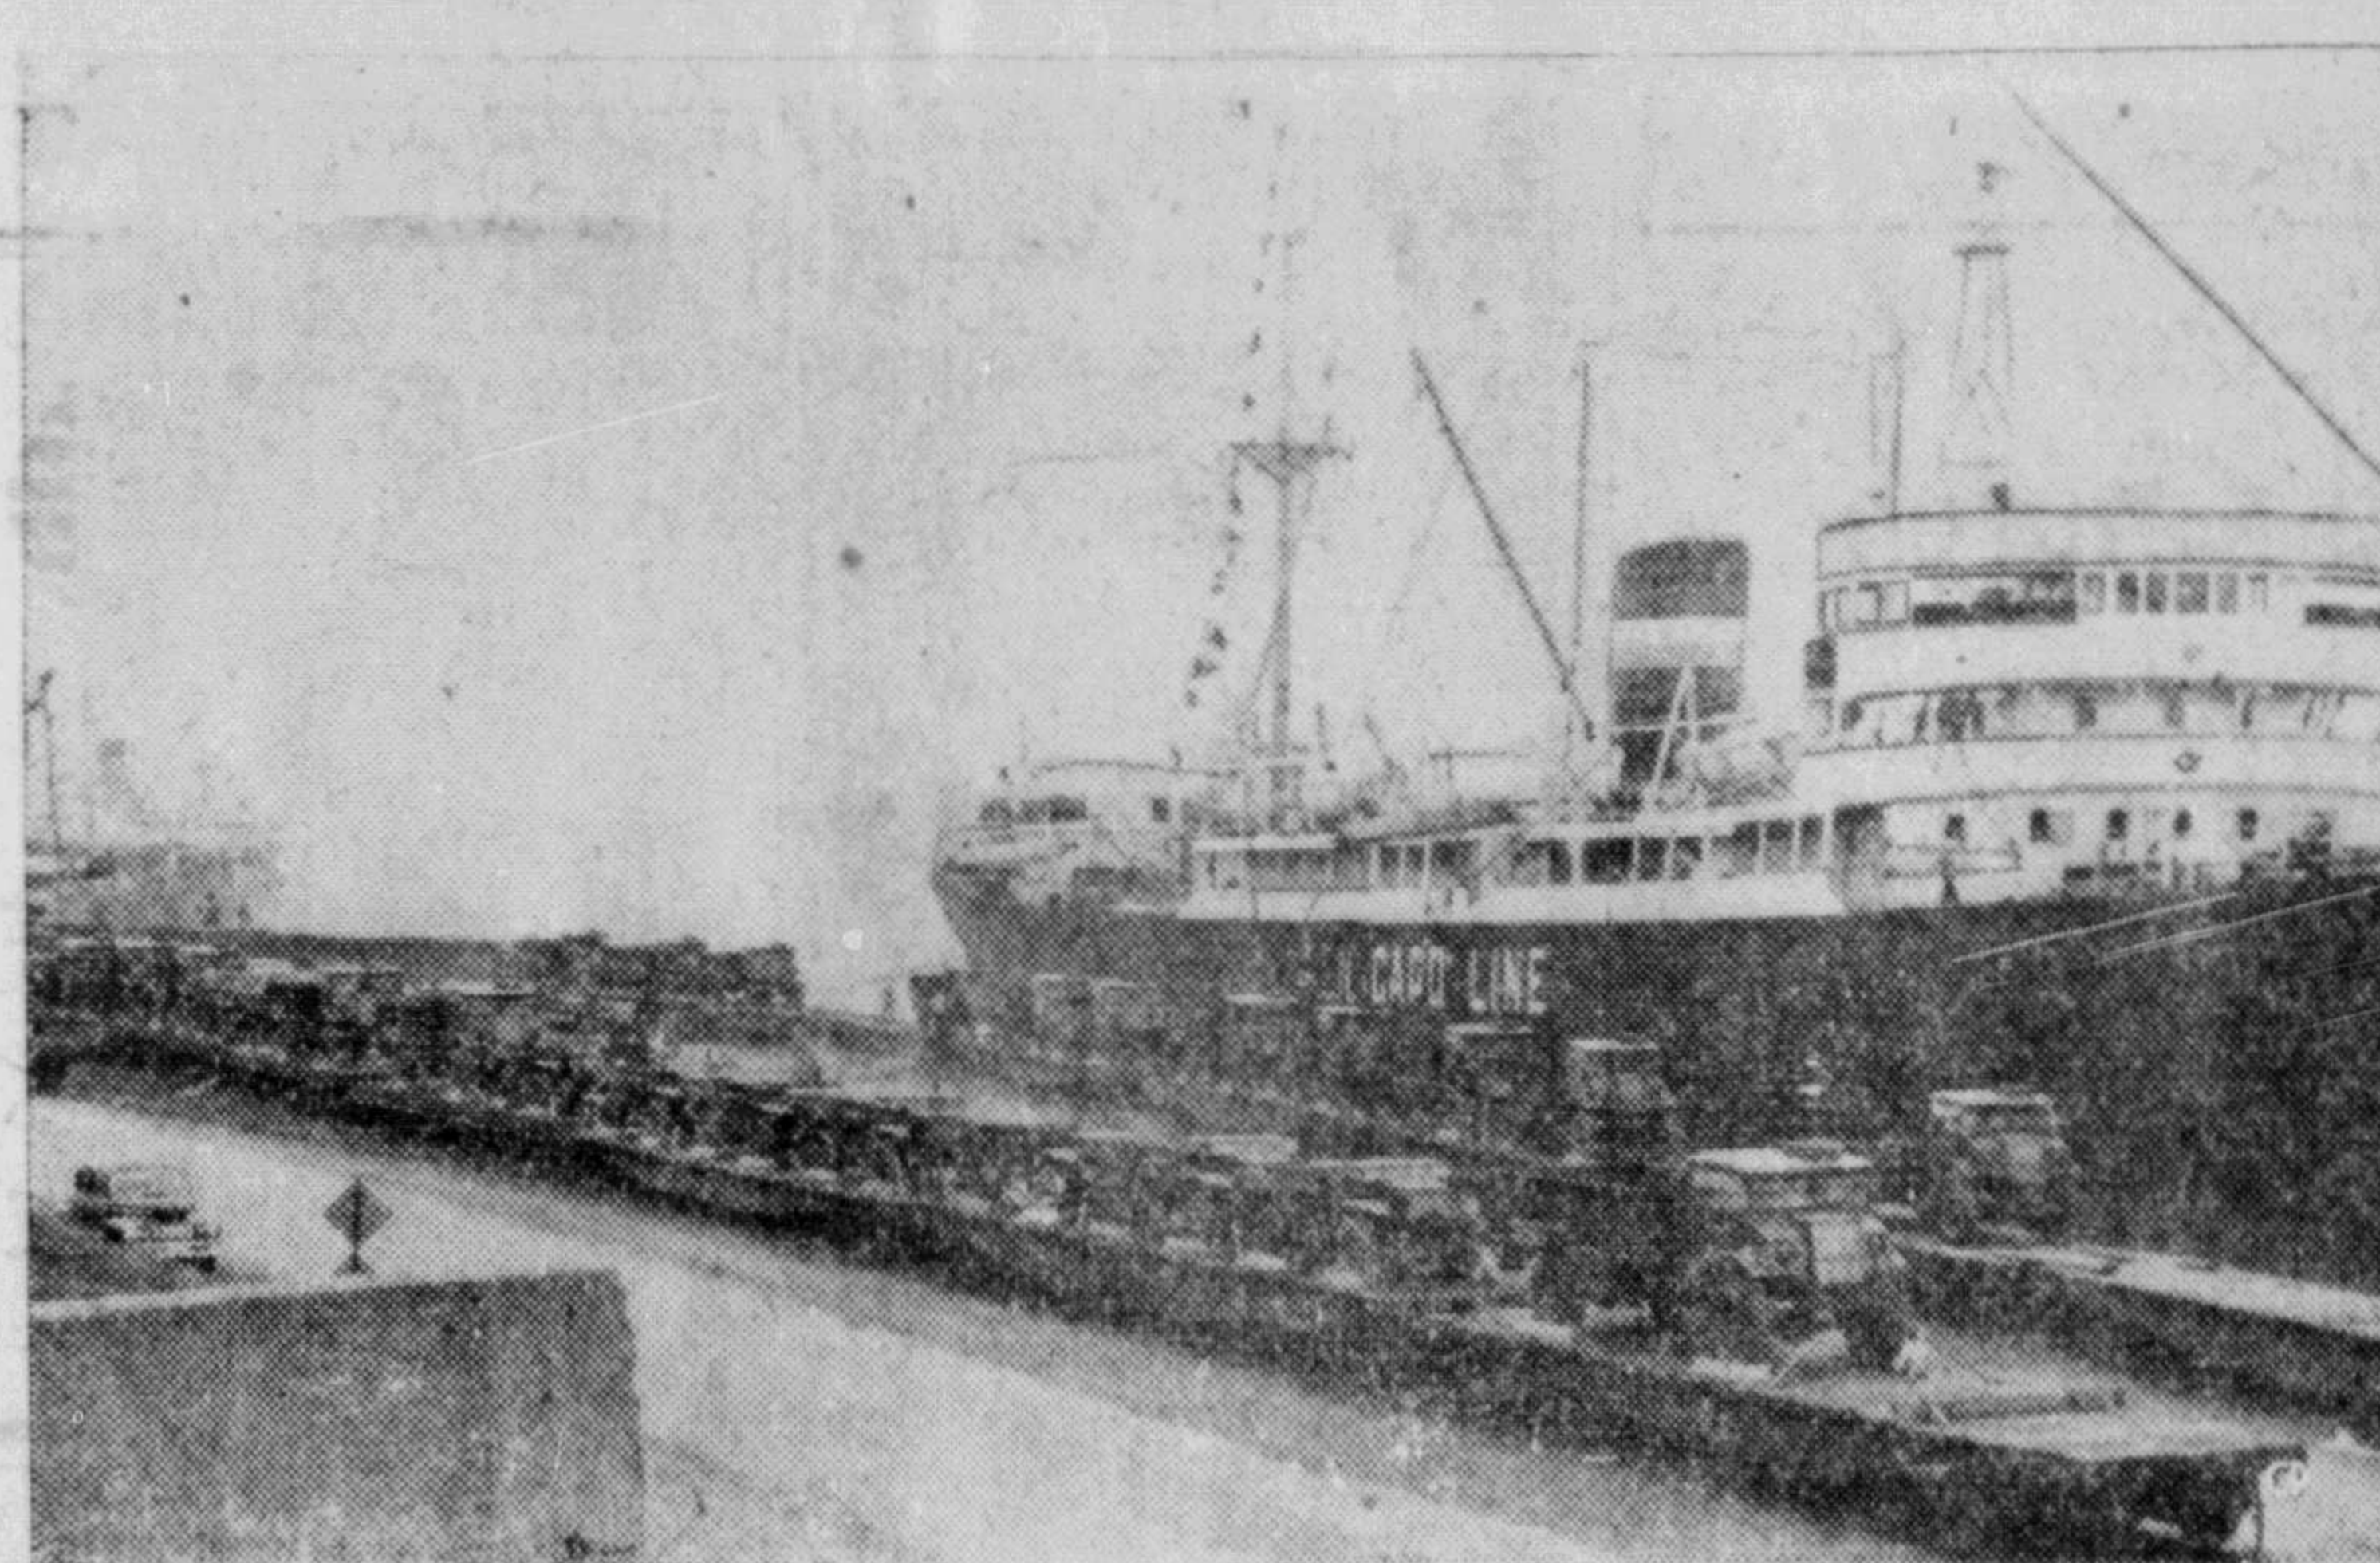

Wenatchee southpaw Rick Bo Telho spaced eight hits to win his fifth game of the year against the same number of losses.

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—Yakima Bears in a double-action win defeated Lewiston Broncs 6-4 Tuesday night and thereby moved idle Salem into a tie for first place in the Western International League with Broncs.

Lewiston scored three runs on walks to Glen Tuckett, John Marshall and Ed Garay. Mel Wasley's Texas leaguer into right centre and Larry Barton's two-run single.

Tom Del Sarto came in then—the third inning—and got credit

Cards Roll To 15-8 Win Over Giants

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

It finally got hot enough in St. Louis for the Cardinals to catch fire and the word is out to the rest of the National League today to start looking for an extinguisher.

The Cards, last NL club to win a world series, have taken seven out of eight games since coming home a week ago.

They roared through Brooklyn three straight, added three out of four from Pittsburgh and Tuesday night welcomed New York Giants with a seven-run barrage in the first inning that carried them to a 15-8 triumph.

One of the happiest things from a St. Louis viewpoint about the winning splurge has been the heavy hitting of Stan Musial.

FOUND RANGE
Hampered all spring by a severe slump, Musial finally seems to have found his eye. He's blasted five doubles, a home run and seven singles in 30 times at bat for a .433 pace on the home stand. His overall average has risen from .251 to .274.

"He looks like he's ready to roll from here on in," said manager Eddie Stanky.

The heavy hitting Tuesday night allowed Harvey Haddix to go all the way for his ninth victory, even though the Giants got to him for 11 hits and eight runs.

The Cards moved within half a game of the slumping second-place Brooklyn Dodgers who lost 3-2 to Cincinnati on Grady Hatton's pinch-hit home run, and within 3½ games of league-leading Milwaukee.

LOST TO PIRATES
The Braves got a beautiful two-hit pitching job from Warren Spannl but lost 1-0 to the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates. Robin Roberts won his 12th game as he pitched Philadelphia Phillips to a 6-1 decision over Chicago.

In the American league the first-place New York Yankees increased their lead over Cleveland to 11 games although they lost 11-3 to Chicago.

Cleveland dropped a day-night pair in Boston 6-4 and 2-1. The night game ran 10 innings before Milt Bolling doubled before the winning run.

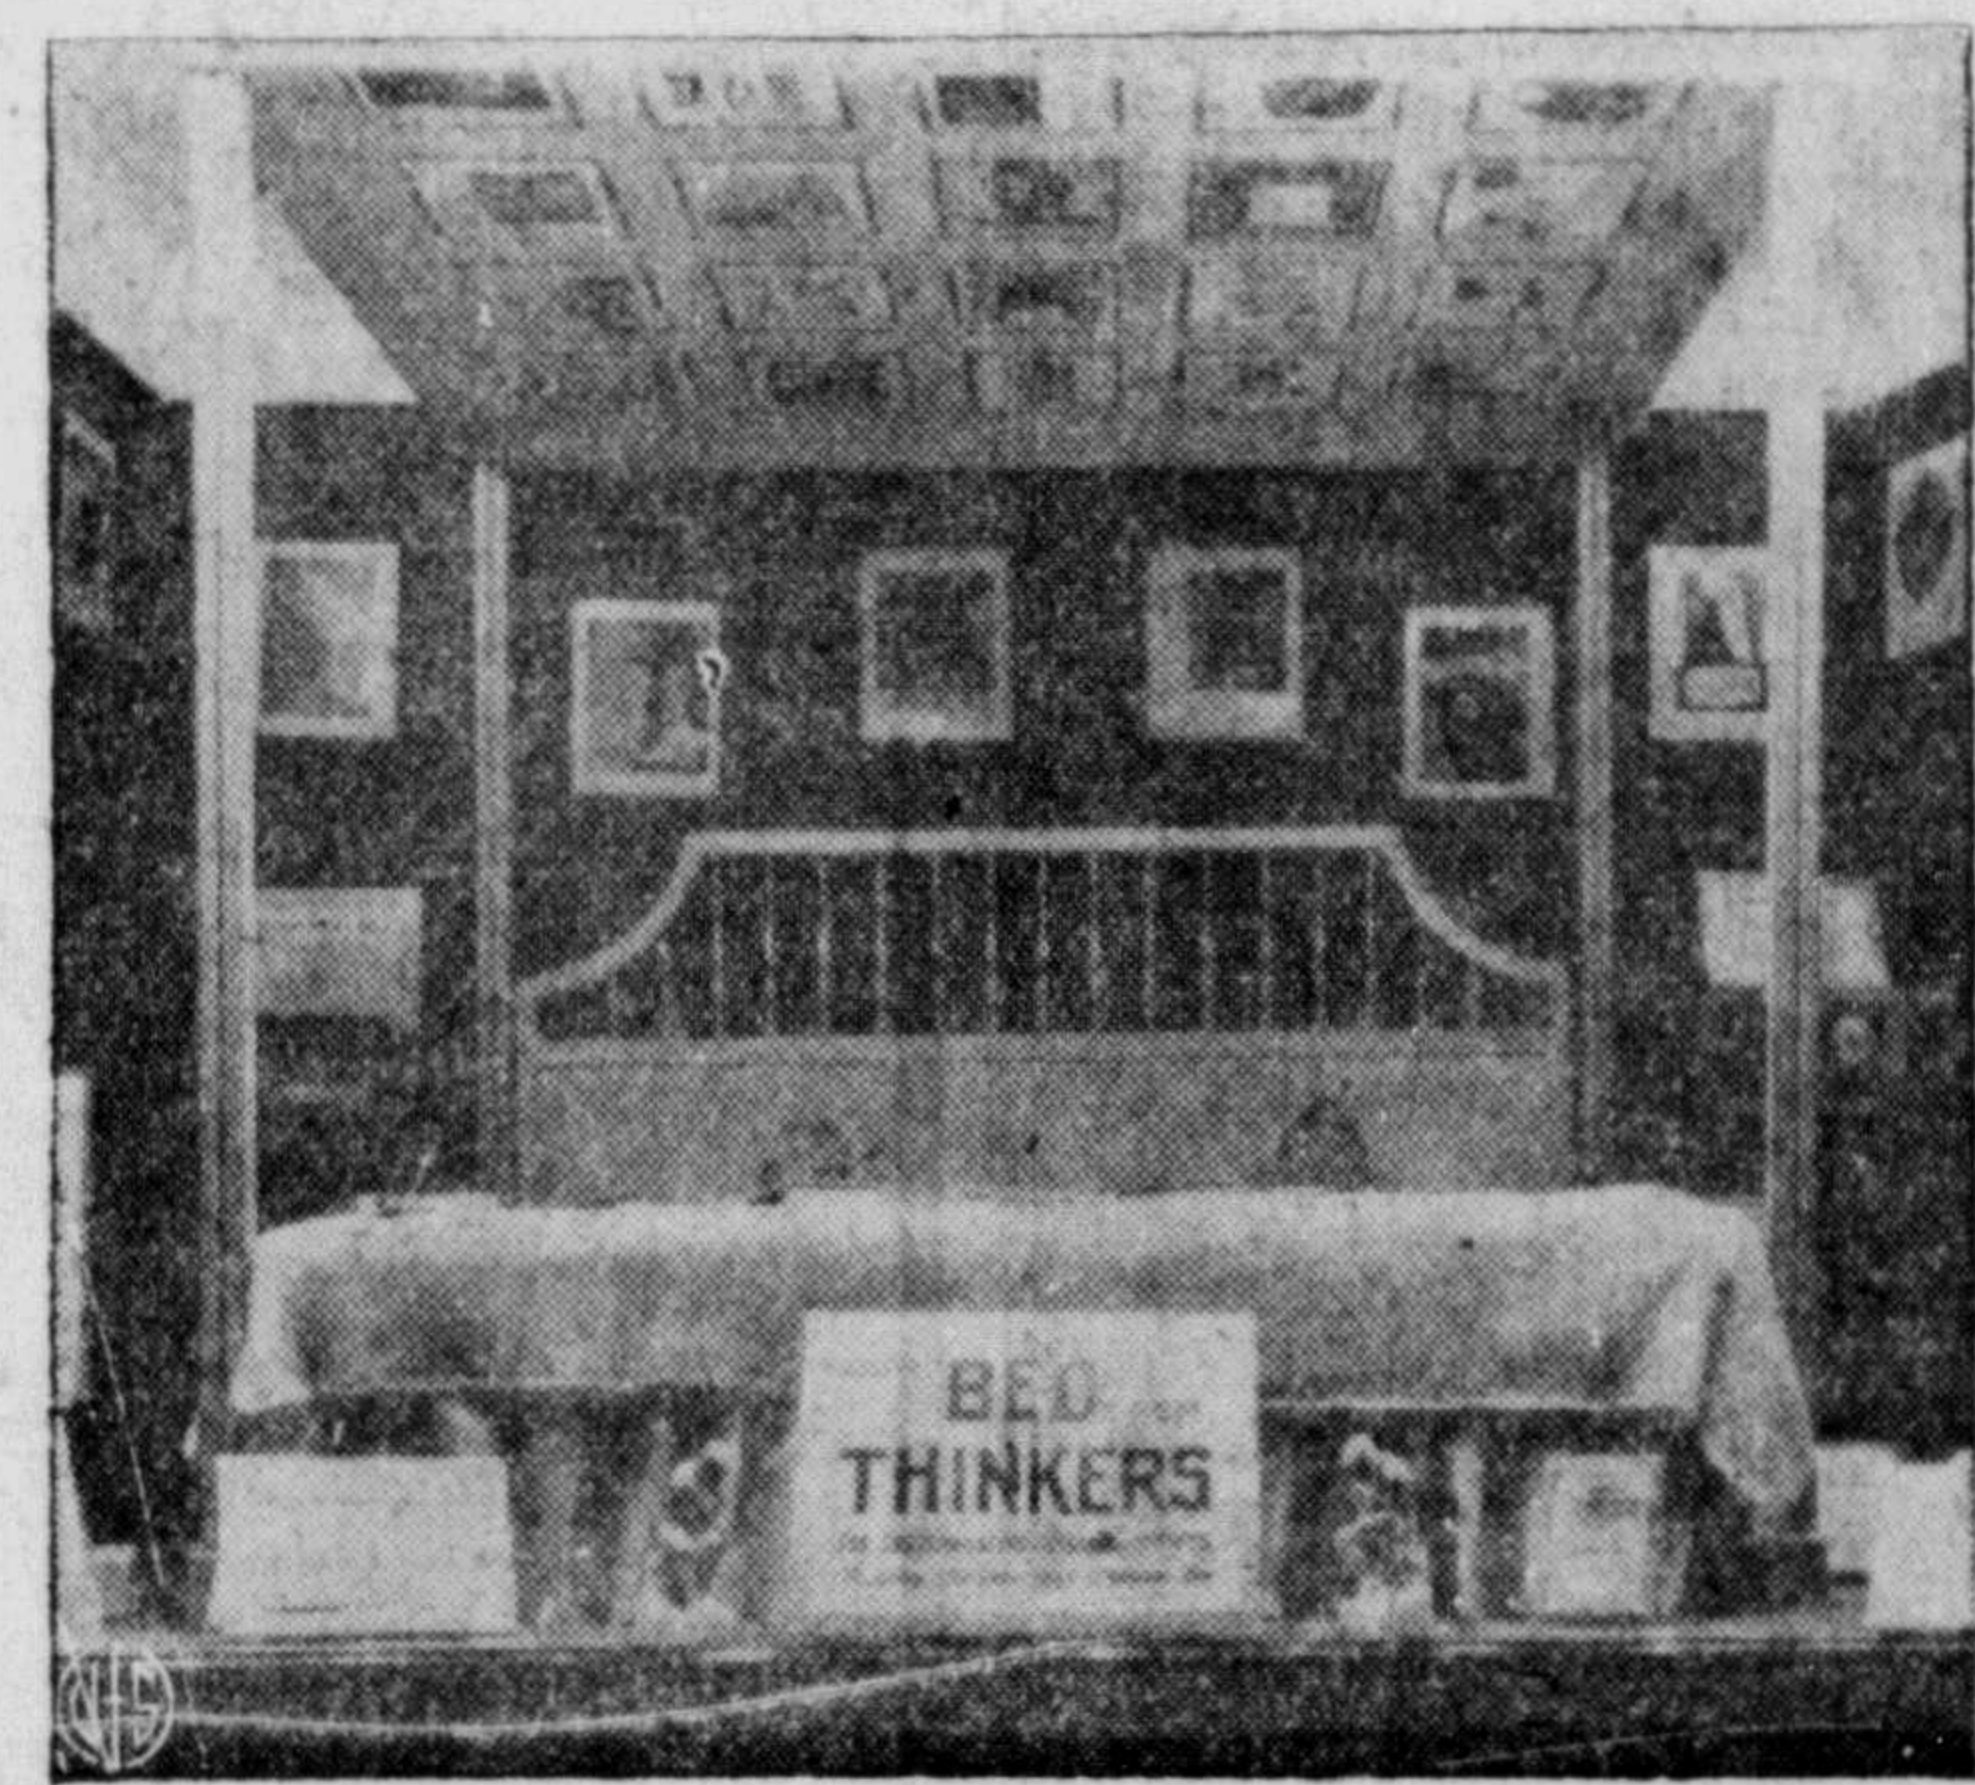

St. Louis edged Washington 4-3 and Detroit's Steve Gromek whitewashed Philadelphia Athletics on four hits 5-0.

In the Cardinal-Giant slugfest Haddix homered with two on in the first inning and his catcher, Del Rice, hit a grand slam circuit blow as the Cards came up with seven more runs in the fourth inning. Musial had two for three for the evening.

GOOD PITCHING
The Dodgers, getting good pitching from Billy Loes, were breezing along with a 1-0 lead until the ninth when Hatton delivered with a man on base. Junior Gilliam had given the Dodgers the edge with a homer in the fifth.

Spannl lost his heartbreaker when Carlos Bernier sliced a single, the second Pittsburgh hit, with two men on base in the eighth. Bob Hall pitched the shutout scattering six hits.

The Yankee defence fell apart for four errors, three of them in the fifth inning, against the White Sox. The Chicagoans turned every one of the misuses to their advantage. Allie Reynolds absorbed most of the punishment for his third loss.

6-Team Ball League Formed In Smithers

SMITHERS—A six-team Bulkley Valley District Senior hardball league has been formed as a result of increased interest in sports in the district. Application of a seventh team was accepted then voluntarily withdrawn until next year.

G. Adomeit of Smithers was elected league chairman with H. Goriey, Telkwa, vice-chairman. G. Young, Smithers, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Representatives from valley ball clubs were appointed to complete the executive body as follows: Hazelton, J. Panter and J. McGee; Moricetown, P. Alfred and A. Mitchell; Telkwa, H. Goriey and W. Cammock; Houston, R. Anderson and R. Eggers; Smithers "A", P. Carr and M. C. O'Neill; Smithers "B", R. Cohn and O. Egan.

A. Hillis and R. Wilson, representing Kispiox withdrew their club's application for entry when difficulty arose attempting to alter the existing six-team schedule. Exhibition game arrangements will be made to tide them over this year.

The six-team league schedule calls for home and home double-header games each week-end through July into August. Schedule games have been played since early June. Play-offs will be between the top four teams.

Maxim Confident Of Victory Against Moore

OGDEN Utah (AP)—Joey Maxim steps into the ring tonight confident he will pull an upset and win back the world light heavyweight championship he lost to Archie Moore last December.

The odds favor the 36-year-old Moore 8 to 5 for the scheduled 15-round rematch between the two fighters.

The critics generally picked ancient Archie to duplicate the victory he scored seven months ago in St. Louis, his native city, where he fought his first professional fight 16 years ago.

The camps of both fighters showed no concern prior to the weigh-in at noon about making the 175-pound limit.

But it was the weight problem, not a well balanced boxing machine named Moore, that whipped Joey last time. Or so claimed Jack Kearns, Maxim's prominent pilot.

"This time Maxim didn't have to shed 40 pounds to get down to 175, like he did at St. Louis," Kearns said. "He has been training easily for weeks and trimming down from about 187 didn't weaken him."

The temperature may be up over 85 in Ogden's open air Municipal Stadium when the two climb into the ring around 7 p.m.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GALE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Word from up the says that the little village of Goshen, population 3,400, the "cradle of American trotting," is stirring with preparations for its one great year when the $100,000 Hambletonian is raced over its historic Good Time track.

With the date of this year's rich event, Aug. 12, still more than a month away, some 70 horses are in training in and around Goshen for the meet which features the three-year-old classic.

Among those warming up for a crack at the game's richest prize are three father-and-son combinations, two of which have won the Hambletonian before. Family partnerships seem to thrive in the sulky business as in no other branch of sports.

Best known of the three is the team of Ben White, 80-year-old dean of the drivers and four-time Hambletonian winner, and his son Gib, 38, both of Orlando, Fla. They are prepping Famed Abbey, a son of Guy Abbey, who sired the immortal Greyhound.

Henry Thomas, 64, who has held the reins on three winners, is thought to be about ready to let his son Dick, 32, have a whirl at it this time. They have been driving against each other regularly on the Grand Circuit. Their hope in the Goshen test is Shelby Hanover, which won one of nine starts as a juvenile.

The third father-son threat consists of Harry Bedell of Ridgewood, N.J., who at 57 is known as "junior" to his more seasoned rivals, and his son John, 31. They have never won a Hambletonian, but think they have something real good in Mr.

The great explorer Fraser in 1807 established post at or near the site of George, B.C.

Cobalt Set To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

COBALT, Ont. (CP)—Discovery of silver here in 1903 sparked the flaring of gold at Timmins and Kirkland Lake and the development of a large part of Northern Ontario.

When Cobalt holds an Old Home week July 5-11, celebrations will mark what amounts to the opening up of a huge territory stretching from North Bay to James Bay.

The affair is being promoted by a chain letter system among old-timers scattered all over the country. Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost of Ontario have been invited and a reunion is being planned that will not soon be forgotten.

OVERNIGHT BOOM

Prospectors flooded into this district after silver was discovered. Ten-cent shares rocketed to $250 and $300 as they were peddled on the muddy streets. A camp of 10,000 men sprang up and at one time there were 38 miles in operation.

The Imperial Bank and the Bank of Commerce operated from tents.

U.S. May Call Fathers For Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Defense Department calculates that the armed forces cannot be maintained at their present size for much longer without drafting fathers or other groups now exempt. This developed during testimony by Defense Secretary Charles Wilson at a Senate appropriations sub-committee's hearings on the military budget. Wilson read a statement from John Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower and personnel, that at the present rate of inductions, the armed services will exhaust their military manpower pool within 30 months. Hannah's statement said that "we have been putting men into uniform faster than the young men are turning 18. Hannah said the armed forces, at their present size, requires an annual intake of 1,000,000 men. At the same time the number of men reaching the minimum age for military service and meeting minimum standards, is 850,000 a year.

D. M. JOHNSON, (right) permanent Canadian representative to the United Nations, presents a cheque for $800,000 to the UN secretary-general, Dag Hammarskjold in New York. The cheque represents Canada's contribution to the UN's expanded program of technical assistance for 1953. At the third technical assistance conference last February, Canada pledged a minimum of $750,000 provided the total contributions reached $20,000,000, plus proportionate increases up to $350,000 if the total contributions reached the $25,000,000 target.

Switzerland May Construct Atomic Pile of Its Own

BERN (Reuters)—Switzerland, work for the application of atomic energy for power and heating purposes, is considering the construction of an atomic pile of its own. A decision is expected to be reached this year by the Swiss atomic commission. Although Switzerland possesses no uranium ore, the material used to produce a nuclear chain reaction, Swiss nuclear scientists have been studying, both theoretically and experimentally, the fundamental problems raised by the industrial use of atomic energy. Extensive research work has been undertaken by Swiss university institutes as well as by certain branches of Swiss industry. The Swiss atomic commission, which was set up in 1946, has organized several teams of research workers who have made valuable progress. The decision by the European council for nuclear research to construct a nuclear laboratory in Geneva will also prove of great use to the Swiss scientists in their research work.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

"Trick Play" Fan Goes Down With Ice Cold Hand

Mr. Muzzy's idea of a real victory is a game or slam hand which he can lay down right after the opening lead. Mr. Heinsite's thinking is just the opposite. I have seen him jeopardize an ice-cold contract that he might develop a squeeze, an end play or some other coup.

The two schools of thought tangled in today's deal. Against the contract of two spades, Mr. Dale led the six of diamonds. Dummy ducked and Mr. Meek won with the queen.

A diamond return seemed dangerous as Mr. Heinsite might have the jack and another one left, so Mr. Meek played the ace, then the 10 of clubs.

Mr. Heinsite took the second club with the king and paused to play his play. He planned it very well. Since one spade trick had to be lost in any case, he cashed the ace of spades first, then went to the board with the ace of diamonds and led another spade. Mr. Meek winning with the king.

Out came the king of diamonds and after a long trapeze Mr. Heinsite dropped the four of hearts. He then looked up with an excited gleam in his eye. He felt sure he had made a fine play. Any lead that Mr. Meek made now was going to lose a trick for the defenders.

If another diamond was led, Mr. Heinsite would discard his last heart and when Mr. Dale ruffed with the jack of spades, the jack of clubs would be discarded from dummy. After that only one more trick, a club, would have to be lost.

A heart return would make dummy's king good for a trick. Actually, Mr. Meek led a diamond and the play went as outlined.

"That," said Mr. Heinsite proudly, "is one of the finest hands I ever played."

"Did we make it?" asked Mr. Muzzy, frowning.

"No, we were down one, but on any other line of play we would have been down two."

Mr. Muzzy shrugged. He found it hard to believe his partner's elation was on the level.

"Ring up that tremendous

Mr. Muzzy was unimpressed. "Next," he said, "you'll be giving medals for going down 1400 to keep the opponents from making a two diamond contract."
