VANCOUVER. - British Columbia's seventhlargest hospital, strapped financially in the midst of higher pay demands by unions which it says it can't meet, threatens to close at the end of the month. The board of directors of North Vancouver General Hospital announced yesterday the hospital will remain open only if the unions withdraw demands for pay increases or if the provincial Hospital Insurance Commission comes through with additional aid.

Otherwise, directors said, the hospital will close its doors to new patients next Tuesday and the 140 patients at present under treatment must leave by Feb. 27.

Termination notices will apply

The hospital is owned by the City of North Vancouver.

PERMANENT BOARD SET UP TO DIRECT TRUST FUND

LONDON (Reuters) - A permanent trust has been set up to administer part of the King George VI memorial fund, to which more than $2,870,000 has been donated for "the physical, mental and spiritual needs of young and old people."

A small proportion of the fund will be reserved for a statue of the late King, to be erected in a "noble setting in London," it was announced. Part of the remainder will probably be spent on a training college for Commonwealth students.
