American Soldier Quits Reds, Says Others Will Change Minds

Asks Repatriation Without Coaxing

By The Associated Press
PANMUNJOM.—A smiling United States soldier quit the Communists today and said it is "more than likely" that some of the other 22 Americans who cast their lot with the Reds will change their minds.

Apparently in good health, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson of Big Stone Gap, Va., was turned over to the United Nations command today. He was the first of 359 unrepatriated Allied PoWs to return to the Allies.

"It sure feels great to be back in the hands of the Americans," Dickenson grinned to reporters at the short transfer ceremony. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Van Buren Dickenson, who live in a remote cabin in the southern mountains, were joyous.

BIG WELCOME
"If you can," his mother told a reporter, "I wish you would get a word to him—tell him nobody hereabouts thinks hard of him for what he done, and we will all give him a big welcome home."

Dickenson was one of 23 Americans, one Briton and 335 South Koreans the Reds said refused repatriation to remain under Communist rule.

Dickenson changed his mind with no coaxing. The UN command has not started efforts to persuade former Allied soldiers to return.

After the 10-minute transfer process, Dickenson was whisked by helicopter to the evacuation hospital in Seoul for a medical checkup and processing.

APPROACHED GUARD
Dickenson made up his mind to come back some time before 10 o'clock, Tuesday night. The soldier approached an Indian guard, complaining of being ill and asked to be taken to the medical station outside the stockade.

Once there, Dickenson asked for an officer, and an Indian non-commissioned officer asked the American prisoner:

"What is wrong with you?"
Dickenson replied: "Nothing's wrong with me. I want to be repatriated."

Dickenson then was segregated from the other non-repatriated prisoners.
Wednesday morning, one of the other American prisoners reported that Dickenson was missing, a reliable source said.

He said the PoW, showing no reaction, immediately went back into the compound and told the other Americans that Dickenson had asked to go home.

New Prison Set For Province

VICTORIA (CP)—Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi said Tuesday night the government will announce plans for a new British Columbia prison within the next 10 days.

The minister, addressing the Victoria Industrial Exchange, did not amplify his statement except to say it would be a portion of the $15,000,000 worth of building jobs which the government will initiate within the next few days.

Waite Amulet Miners Strike As Parley on Checkoff Fails

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—The last copper and gold mine operating in this northwestern Quebec area was closed down early today when some 400 workers of the Waite Amulet mine went on strike.

The workers struck at midnight after last-minute negotiations on the issue of union dues checkoff broke down. In a strike vote last week, 88 per cent of the men favored a walkout. The work stoppage raised to more than 3,000 the number of men on strike in this area. The other mines shut down are Noranda, which employs 1,600 miners, Queumont and Normetal.

T. E. Little, Waite Amulet mine manager, said the company was prepared to discuss all points, including higher wages, if the union withdrew its check-off demand.

However, Pat Burke, area supervisor for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said that the company has not

Crews Safe As Ships Collide

QUEBEC.—A small Italian freighter collided early today with a big Montreal-bound Norwegian freighter in the St. Lawrence River 31 miles west of here.

Department of Transport Signals said no one was injured. Reports reaching here said the ships collided in dense fog near Portneuf, Que., 130 miles east of Montreal. The Italian ship was identified as the 1,430-ton Carla Maria G and the Norwegian ship as the 7,253-ton Stugard.

The Maria was outbound from Montreal and was believed to be carrying grain. The Stugard was bound for Montreal from Halifax. The Maria was run aground after the collision to avoid sinking. The Stugard stood by until she saw that the Italian ship was in no danger, then proceeded to Montreal.

Later the Maria freed herself and turned toward Quebec. The collision occurred at a point where the St. Lawrence is less than two miles wide.

Dutch Claim Reds Holding Canadian PoW

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany (CP)—Dutch former prisoners-of-war returning after almost 10 years in Russian prison camps said today that a Canadian is among prisoners still held by the Russians.

The repatriates said a Canadian "air force colonel" is being held at Russia's Cherbakov camp, but they were unable to give his name. They described him as having a slightly dislocated lower jaw.

The RCAF has no rank of colonel. A Montreal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fischer, said last week that they had heard their son, who was conscripted into the German army during the Second World War, may still be a prisoner of the Russians. They said their son was in Yugoslavia when the war started and was drafted by the Germans.

The Dutch repatriates returning today were captured by Soviet forces during the Second World War after they had been conscripted into German units. They said at least two Americans and 120 Europeans from seven countries still are being held along with the unidentified Canadian.

Tension Increases In Trieste

By The Canadian Press
TRIESTE.—An uneasy quiet lay over this disputed free territory today in the wake of new threats by Yugoslavia's President Tito and demonstrations by students in Italy.

Three Italian divisions face Yugoslav forces along the 90-mile-long frontier, manoeuvring on the heels of Tito's warning that his government would regard the handing over of any part of the free territory to Italy as "aggression" whether Italy sent troops to the area or not.

Yugoslavia and Italy have long been vying for the territory, and the dispute entered a new and crucial phase nearly two weeks ago when Britain and the United States decided to move out and hand over Zone A of the territory to Italy. Zone A has been under Anglo-American administration since the end of the Second World War.

In Rome, students broke out of their classrooms for the second straight day to tangle traffic in demonstrations for Trieste. About 1,000 high school and university students, carrying Italian and Trieste flags and shouting "Down with Tito," marched through downtown Rome as police watched but did not interfere.

Youths of the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement scattered leaflets calling on Italy to stand firm against "Yugoslavia, the ally of Russia."

Police, backed by a few troops, continued to stand guard at the British, U.S. and Russian embassies and the Yugoslav legation.

TROOPS MOVE IN
The Italian defence ministry announced Tuesday night that two more divisions, armed with American-made tanks, have joined an infantry division already dug in along the Trieste frontier.

Italian sources claimed the Yugoslavs have distributed steel helmets and automatic weapons to all able-bodied civilian men on the Yugoslav side of the frontier.

Memory of Life in Canada 'Unpleasant' to de Marigny

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Alfred de Marigny, whose name was emblazoned in headlines 10 years ago, is leading the simple life of a salesman here, happy that he is about to become a United States citizen.

"It is wonderful to live and work in peace in a decent, respectable country," said de Marigny. "I am proud that this country may grant me citizenship."

Ten years ago de Marigny was acquitted of a charge of murdering his Canadian father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, in Nassau. But the jury which freed him of the charge recommended that he be deported.

The colonial government ordered him out, and with his wife, Nancy Oakes de Marigny, he sailed in a tiny boat over stormy seas to Cuba.

Nancy later had her marriage annulled. Freddie wandered to the Dominican Republic, to Canada, and finally to New York.

He is married now to Mrs. Mary Taylor de Marigny, a niece of Byron C. Taylor, former United States envoy to the Vatican. They are living in a rented house here but plan to build their own home.

"Everything about my five years in the United States has been good. It is fair, and it is democratic. I work, I live a simple, normal life at my job and in my home. My wife is a graduate nurse. She is from a fine family and gives her services to the poor in the clinic. I have had many troubles and she is very understanding."

"The memory of my stay in Canada is—let us say, unpleasant. They have a rule, article 26, which forbids British subjects from becoming Canadian citizens unless they were born in the British Isles. I had a feeling that I was under a Gestapo and had no rights. It was a little Gestapo, not vicious, but it was there."

"Here one is given a public hearing, with a fair chance of defending one's self."

Young Girl Shot to Death
A 17-year-old girl, Catherine Aslin has been found shot to death at Fort Babine, RCMP reported today. No further details as to whether her death was accidental, murder or self-inflicted were available at press time.

The wreckage was spread over a wide area and was burned. One wing was apparently sheared off by a tree and the fuselage was found several hundred feet away.

Russ Baker, general manager of Pacific Western Airlines, who spotted the wreckage from the air, said the flight never would have been made in such poor weather on a scheduled trip.

"Bob would never have attempted to fly in weather like that if he didn't feel that injured man's life depended on getting through," he said.

Drinkwater, an experienced bush pilot, flew to Bridge River Monday afternoon to bring Neumayer, suffering head injuries, to hospital at Vancouver.

Chamber Seeks Further Clarification Surcharge on Cargo From Orient

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce will write again to Ambassador to Japan asking further clarification of the situation which the Chamber denied classifies as a Pacific coast territory. Because of this there is a surcharge on imports and exports to Rupert.

Their letter said, "May we suggest that the port of Prince Rupert will never be treated as a Pacific coast terminal port until traffic is developed and in our opinion it will never be developed with surcharges in operation."

"The $4.50 per ton would most assuredly constitute sufficient handicap to discourage consideration of further shipments." The importers also maintained that the prices of oranges in Japan and the threatened outside competition had no bearing on the situation. They declared the surcharge was operative in 1952 when neither of these reasons applied.

WATER TRUCK'S SCHEDULE MARRED BY HEAVY RAIN

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A city water truck crew stuck to its schedule and drove out Tuesday to sprinkle dirt streets in northwest Albuquerque. But it didn't get the job done. The truck got stuck in mud from the heaviest rain the city has had in six months.

Section 2 May Get School For Primary Grades in 1954

Tentative plans to open a temporary school for grade I and grade II students in Section Two next year were outlined by Dr. R. G. Large, school board chairman, at a meeting of the Borden Street School Parent-Teacher Association last night.

He also said the board might acquire a site above Biggar Place for the proposed new building to replace Borden Street school.

Dr. Large said the school board hoped to acquire a war assets building to house primary grades in Section Two until a new building could be erected to replace Borden school.

He said board members felt the site above Biggar Place would be suitable as a central location for the new Borden school, construction of which might start in 1955.

Dr. Large told the group of the difficulties of providing accommodation for the rapidly increasing school population here and outlined school construction financing.

The Parent-Teacher group also discussed lunch room facilities at the school, which were termed inadequate, and planned to study means of improving the school lunch set-up.

Students Sought When Overdue

PETERSBURG, Alaska (AP)—A widespread search is under way for three 17-year-old high school seniors who left Saturday in a small boat on a deer hunting trip.

They were Arden Hall, Leslie Reid and Sam Kito. Their boat was last seen at Five Mile Point and a storm swept the area later on.

Fishing boats, Coast Guard and chartered planes are taking part in the search.

WEATHER

Critical of Designers Ignoring Car Comforts

ON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh opened the British show today and said it is odd that designers solved some simple problems of motorist comfort.

It is for instance that a knob just opposite the knee" he asked, "And surely a little research in a wind tunnel will do away with the piercing draught from a quarter of an inch of open window."

Trans-Pacific Squeeze Play

THIS with a sense of angry frustration that we learn about the case of the Japanese oranges.

Here is bald proof that Prince Rupert with its proximity to the Orient, its fine all-year harbor and its rail connections with the rest of the continent is being deliberately denied its deserved place on the trade routes of the Pacific.

The story is an infuriating but simple one. Because Prince Rupert is not recognized as a Pacific coast terminal by an international body of shipowners called the Trans-Pacific Freight Conference out of Japan, shipments to the port are subject to extra rates.

In the particular case of the Japanese oranges there is a special levy of $4.50 per ton on any importer reckless enough to bring them through Prince Rupert.

So how do we become classified as a Pacific coast terminal port to correct all this? According to advice from Japan, we will receive that honor as soon as there is enough traffic coming here to justify it.

Of all the weird riddles ever inflicted on the intelligence of a people looking for a few straight answers, that one has earned a place among the classics. We will be named a terminal port when there is sufficient business to warrant it, but how do we get that business while surcharges are in effect?

This suggests no discredit to the Canadian ambassador to Japan who was drawn into the matter. On the contrary, his endeavors to help have been conscientious and warmly appreciated.

With such large forces against us, there is no ready solution. Any influence the CNR could exert on our behalf is limited because it has no trans-Pacific service and is therefore not a member of the Conference.

Consequently, we of this northwest district, which sorely needs the stimulus of more trade and more recognition of every kind, are virtually on our own. Even so, the odds are not bad. What we lack in numbers, we can make up in nuisance value.

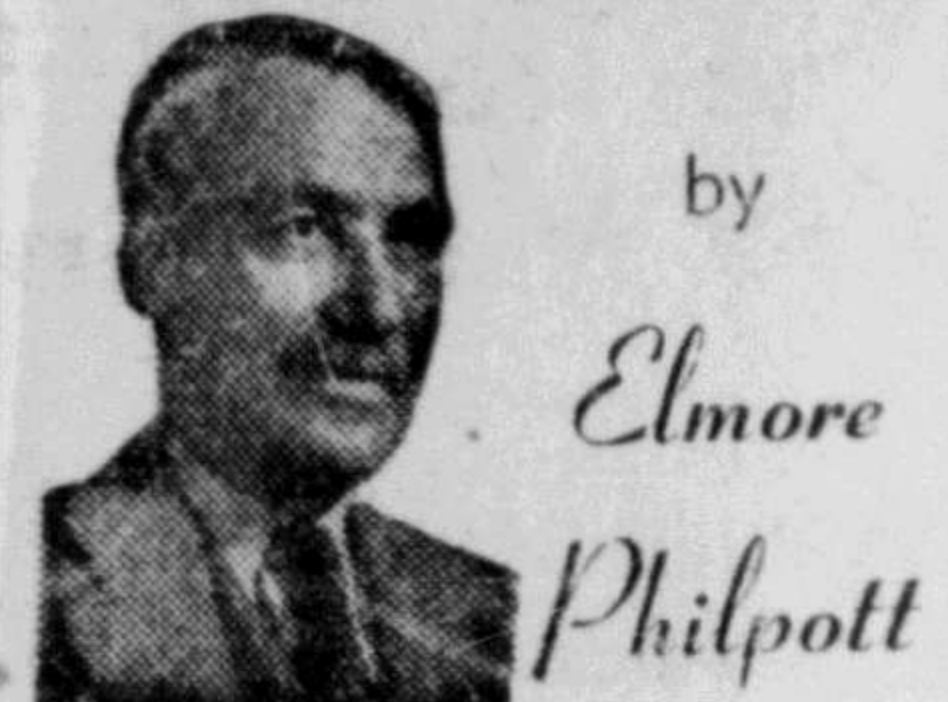

There's nothing wrong with the movies that a few good pictures won't fix. This, from a gang of Hollywood super-critics. It's all we need, because there are so many pictures that are not good and never will be.

As I See It

Who Wants Bargains?

THE Democrats have elected a Congressman in a district in Wisconsin which never before in all history voted anything else but Republican.

The Wisconsin farmers are in furious revolt against the farm policies of the Republican administration. The harassed Secretary of Agriculture is like the hunter who said:

"I've caught a bear—but he won't let go!"

TWO TINY news items show that the problem which troubles the U.S.A. will hit us here, too.

One reads, "PARIS.—The French government has declined an offer to sell any part of the 200,000 tons of excess American butter here for 10 cents a cent a pound, it was learned Wednesday."

The second reports: "Here in Ontario, tons and tons of the very finest of tomatoes are said to have rotted on the ground because the processors had declined that the market could take."

NO FAIR-MINDED person can blame farmers for insisting that the government maintain the floor prices so that farm families will be able to sell some products in line with prices of what they must purchase.

But no sensible farmer will imagine that the governments of Canada or the U.S.A. can go on buying farm produced foods, and indefinitely holding those foods in vast hoarded, spoiling surplus.

New ways of distribution have to be found. But no government which guarantees floor prices for farm products can permit cut-rate sales of those same products in its home market without aggravating the very condition it set out to correct in the first place.

Also, the answer of France to the offer of 10-cent bargain butter shows that exactly the same principle applies to exported foods.

The French farmers would be down on the necks of their own cabinet ministers tomorrow if bargain U.S. butter were dumped on the French market, and so reduced the income of French farm families.

BACK in 1943 Hon. W. D. Herdridge wrote a remarkable book titled "Which Kind of Revolution?"

Two years before the Hitler war came to an end Mr. Herdridge showed that the great post-war problem would be the very surpluses which now pile up like mountains.

So far as I can see, there are only three ways to get rid of those surpluses:

- 1. Issue coupons to pensioners and others on low incomes who cannot now buy the butter, etc., held as government-owned surpluses at home.
2. Export the stuff wherever we can for whatever money or goods we can get for it.
3. Give increased amounts to famine and calamity areas.

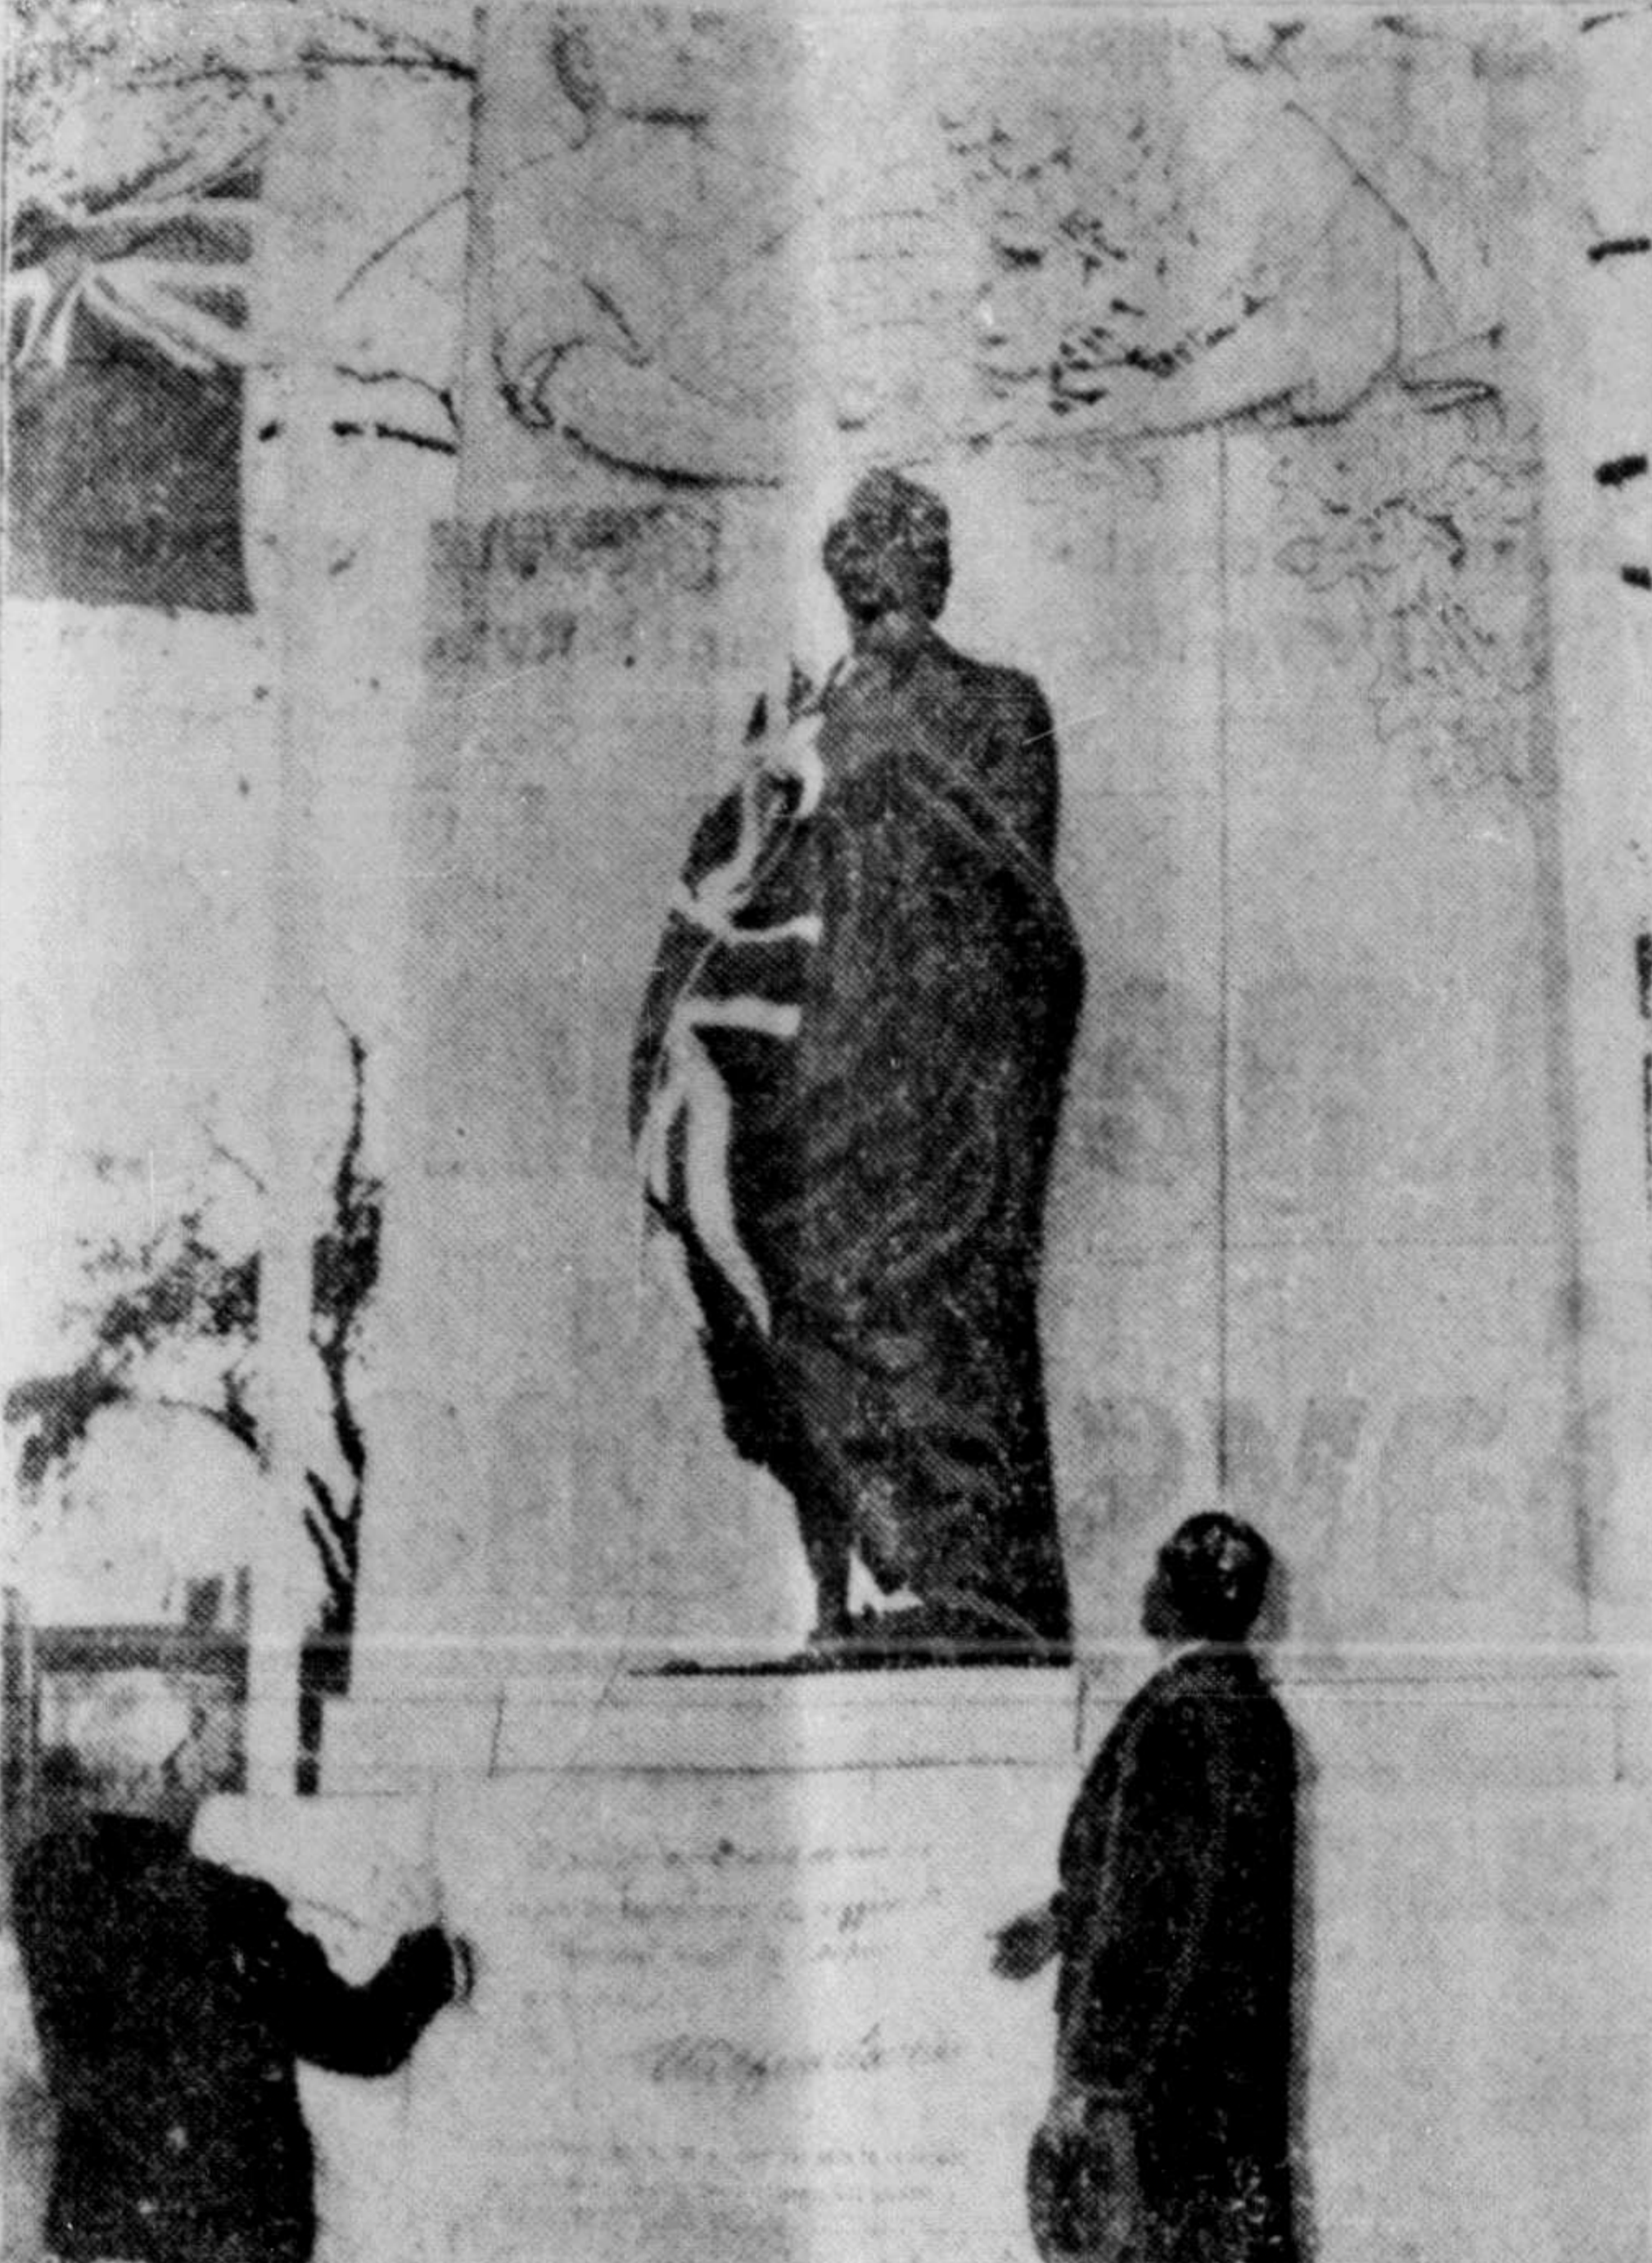

By-Election Date Set by Premier

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced Tuesday a by-election will be held in Victoria Nov. 24 to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Percy Wright, Social Credit member.

Finance Minister Einar Gunderson, defeated in the June provincial election, will be the Social Credit candidate.

Mr. Wright, a surprise victor in Victoria, traditionally a Liberal seat, is out of two jobs now.

He was assistant city clerk when he entered the election campaign, but on his election to the House he was refused a leave of absence. A municipal law prohibits such leave for political purposes.

One of the criticisms of current Federal policy most commonly heard in Parliament Hill circles for several months past is its alleged indifference to the United Kingdom, and its danger of dependence upon the United States, in matters of trade.

The criticism isn't taken too seriously in impartial economic circles. Trade experts recognize that the flow of international commerce is controlled only to a minor degree by ideological concepts, and that it responds mainly to the call of readily available markets.

Germans Seeking Canadian Trade Says Guardian

MANCHESTER (CP)—Canada is Germany's biggest target in a trade drive now in progress, the Manchester Guardian says in a dispatch from Bonn.

It says the federal German republic is sponsoring a campaign to obtain markets and establish capital investments, spearheaded by offices in five West German cities. Projected German industrial enterprises in Canada number about 200, half of which would be in Ontario.

The dispatch adds that Canadian provincial governments are thinking of opening offices in Germany. "If this happens it will be a significant event. Provincial administrations—as opposed to the federal government in Canada—are prepared to advance capital for foreign undertakings."

The paper's long, detailed story listed several reasons for German determination to penetrate Canadian markets. These included Germany's loss of markets in the past, payments difficulties in Brazil which emphasize the advantages of dollar trading, and a German recognition that Canada is "the most desirable single market in the world."

Commented The Guardian: "The challenge to Britain is bold and open and, moreover, perfectly fair, but that does not make it any less dangerous."

It was ever thus—the mad, frantic scramble towards the end of a legislative session. Perhaps this session it was worse than usual. There were four night sittings in a row last week—and that takes an awful toll of your MLAs. As Liberal leader Arthur Laing said, it was legislation by exhaustion.

However, the premier had evidently made up his mind he'd get the MLAs out of the government's way this week's end. Of course, he wouldn't admit that in public, but you could tell he'd set his program and was sticking to it.

Premiers, of course, always do that. It's supposed to show their mastery of the Legislature. Oppositionists always howl about the mad rush, and the public gets scandalized the way the laws are rushed through in the dying hours of a session, when everybody's so tired they don't know what they're talking about half the time.

Mr. Bennett left some of the most important bills to the last night—the Elections Act, the Hospital Insurance Act, the new 10 per cent tax on drinks-by-the-glass. He started the evening methodically by getting routine matters out of the way first. He left the big jobs to the end. He knew the later it got the more tired MLAs would become, and so he hoped they wouldn't talk so much. Premier always figure it out this way, and it does work, but it leads to bickering and unparliamentary words and jangled nerves. And in such a climate new laws are made.

However, let it be said Mr. Bennett hasn't shown himself as tough as Mr. Hart. Once Mr. Hart kept the House sitting to 5:30 a.m.

Here's the way some of the debate went on the last night: CCF Mr. Squire of Alberni said it's just a waste of time for oppositionists to be making suggestions to the government. Mr. Squire wished to goodness the premier would listen to him, instead of chatting with his neighbor, Mr. Sommers.

Liberal Mr. Brown of Prince Rupert said the new Elections Act will disfranchise a lot of people. Lands and Forests Minister Sommers said it won't, that Mr. Brown was being purely emotional. Mr. Sommers said there won't be an election for four years, and some of the oppositionists asked Mr. Sommers if he thought Social Credit would last that long, and Mr. Sommers said maybe no, physically, after listening to all the opposition talk, but certainly it will politically, so there, Mr. Squire!

CCF Mr. Strachan said he had heard fatuous verbiage from Mr. Sommers, CCF Mr. Nimsick said Mr. Sommers acts like a babe in the woods. Mr. Brown got up to answer Mr. Sommers, but Mr. Sommers had left the House. "Like a small boy, he throws a stone and runs away," said Mr. Brown of Mr. Sommers. Mr. Sommers, said Mr. Brown, talks gravel.

"What's the rush?" asked Mr. Nimsick. "There's no rush—there are many years ahead of this government," said the premier.

In an effort to alleviate the present heavy burden of taxation on the municipal taxpayer the Prince Rupert council is urging that the Federal government introduce legislation to provide exemption of all municipalities, councils and school boards from the payment of excise taxes including the 10 per cent sales tax on all purchases of machinery and other equipment.

The same resolution also urges that federal legislation will provide for taxation of all federal government properties in municipalities on the same basis as that of ordinary municipal taxpayers.

Another Prince Rupert resolution asks that since cost of law enforcement provoked by sale of liquor falls on the municipalities, that the provincial government allocate to the municipalities profits from the sale of liquor proportionate to the burden borne by the municipalities in law enforcement occasioned by the misuse of the government liquor.

The third resolution to be placed before the convention by Prince Rupert asserts that since native Indians are being enfranchised in increasing numbers and in many cases such Indians and their children acquire social assistance that it is unfair that residential responsibility should be transferred by enfranchisement immediately. Therefore Prince Rupert asks that the Residence and Responsibility Act be amended so that no residence acquired before enfranchisement shall penalize the municipality.

The fields chosen by British investment are broad. They include oil, timber, base metals, manufactures, retail trade, and servicing. Not the least important feature of the movement is the supply of top-level technicians which it is bringing with it. Many of the United Kingdom companies have sent their ablest technicians along with their financial investment. They will be available to investigate and advise upon engineering and technical problems arising out of Canada's expansion era.

The movement of United Kingdom capital to Canada is recognized by government economists as one of major importance. The fact that it is taking place in the face of limited British capital resources and the dollar shortage is regarded as especially significant. As these factors disappear in the Old Country, the flow of investment to this country should rise proportionately. The possibility is even foreseen of it surpassing U.S. investment.

Three Resolutions To Be Presented By City Group

Among the 56 resolutions about which delegates will argue at the 50th annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities are three from Prince Rupert city council.

To attend the convention in Vancouver October 28, 29 and 30 will be Mayor Harold Whalen, Aldermen Mike Krueger and Kay Smith and City Clerk R. W. Long.

At a special meeting of the council last night the mayor and aldermen reviewed the resolutions which will be brought to the convention floor.

In an effort to alleviate the present heavy burden of taxation on the municipal taxpayer the Prince Rupert council is urging that the Federal government introduce legislation to provide exemption of all municipalities, councils and school boards from the payment of excise taxes including the 10 per cent sales tax on all purchases of machinery and other equipment.

Rupert Museum To Be Opened For Week-ends This Winter

In view of increasing interest in the museum, the public will be admitted during the winter on Saturday mornings and Sunday afternoons, starting next month. This was decided at a meeting of the executive board last night. It will be the first time the museum has ever been open during the winter months. Admission on Saturday will be from 10 a.m. to noon, during which time schoolchildren in particular are invited to see the exhibits which are rated as one of the rarest collections of Pacific coast Indian relics and treasures in existence. Admission on Sunday will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Arrangements are being made to have attendants on hand during these week-end hours. The possibility of showing documentary film on Sunday afternoons of interest to the occasion was also discussed. ### Terrace Plans New Hospital

Special to The Daily News
TERRACE—A drive for a new hospital will be launched here early in the New Year. Plans for a hospital fund campaign were announced by George McAdams, chairman of the hospital board, who said there was an urgent need for a new building to replace the present overcrowded and antiquated building.

The board estimates it will take from three to five years to plan and build a new hospital, and by that time, they say, the present building will have outlived its normal span of life.

Mr. McAdams termed the present hospital a "colossal waste of building" "obsolete." He said it was never intended for a hospital and that poor facilities and layout made the staff's work difficult.

Special U.S. Envoy to Seek Information on Peace Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Special envoy Arthur Dean leaves for Korea today to determine when, where and on what conditions the Far Eastern Communist powers are willing to negotiate a Korean peace settlement.
 State Secretary Dulles, having directed this "practical step" to sound out the Red Chinese and North Koreans, called on Moscow, meanwhile, for "revealing" evidence on what Russia intends to do concretely about a settlement there.
 At a press conference Tuesday in a New York speech Tuesday night, Dulles made it clear he is thinking only of dealing with the Reds on specific issues and that he intends to allow them no opportunity to create what he called "the illusion of agreement."

 He did not tie this directly to Prime Minister Churchill's reaffirmed interest in exploratory talks that would include President Eisenhower and Premier Malenkov, but it seemed evident he thought little of the Churchill project.
PLAN TALKS
 Dean, with a staff of eight advisers and assistants, will talk with United States military and diplomatic leaders in Tokyo Tuesday and with President Syngman Rhee and U.S. officials in Seoul Saturday. He will go to Panmunjon to meet with Red Chinese and North Korean representatives Monday.
 In preparation for the mission, Dean met Tuesday with representatives of the 15 other United Nations members which fought in the Korean war. He will be representing them in his talks.
 The Reds have served notice they will again insist on inclusion of neutral powers. State department officials said Dean can listen to what they have to say but cannot negotiate on this issue.

CWL Opens Card Series Tomorrow

The Catholic Women's League of the Church of the Annunciation tomorrow night will launch its annual winter series of card parties at Annunciation school.
 The parties, to be held once a month instead of bi-monthly as in the past, will include games of whist, bridge and cribbage and open tables for the players' choice of cards.
 There will be a door prize, and prizes for the various card game winners, and refreshments will be served.

Firms Will Do Own Assessing Under New School Financing Plan

VANCOUVER — When the provincial government's new school financing plan becomes effective next year, manufacturer-concerns in British Columbia will be required to do their own tax assessing.
 Vancouver city officials said they call for firms to set the value of taxable machinery in their plants covering the first year of operation and they foresee no difficulty in getting the information.
 The government, which suggested the system, already uses the plan in unorganized territory where the machinery levy now is in force. Vancouver city also has charter powers to demand the declaration and to crack down on defaulters.
 The legislation calls for taxation of machinery for the first time, to provide additional tax revenue to finance school costs. Manufacturers will be required to submit a sworn affidavit setting out the value of machinery in their plants. Assessment department officials will then check these reports progressively, probably at four-year intervals.

Experts Differ on Identity Of Who Met Capt. Vancouver

VANCOUVER — Claims and counter-claims of two Vancouver historians have stirred up a mild controversy over who led the Indians to greet Captain George Vancouver on his arrival here 160 years ago.
 Did the original Chief Capilano really paddle out to greet the discoverer of Vancouver harbor? "Yes," says Indian editor Andy Paul.
 "No," retorts city archivist J. S. Matthews.
 The argument started from an article by Mr. Paul in his magazine, The Totem Speaks. He gave a stirring account of how Chief Capilano led 40 war canoes out to meet the British explorer's ship on June 13, 1792.

ago by two of Capilano's grandchildren.
 The Indian chief, whose name now is preserved for immortality by a river, a golf course, a stadium and a brewery, wasn't born until some eight years after Capt. Vancouver sailed into the harbor, Mr. Matthews contends.
 Furthermore, adds the archivist, Chief Capilano is known to have lived until 1875.
 Thus, if the chief really greeted the British explorer, and if he really died in 1875, he must have lived to be at least 103 on the assumption that he was at least 20 years old when he was leading war canoes around the harbor.
 Neither historian appears willing to accept this possibility, and thereby hangs a staminate.

SKEPTIC VIEW
 Mr. Matthews thought the story was tommyrot, and in a letter to the magazine said "there is not a word of truth in it."
 Hitting back in the current issue of the magazine, Mr. Paul says his facts are true. He says he was among a chosen few selected to learn West coast Indian history for the purpose of handing it down to the next generation as his forefathers did before him.
 Mr. Matthews claims that his own information was given years

For Starting Career Age 73

DR. DANIEL is beginning a new career. He is 73 years old and has a life of joyous, grey-haired years behind him. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto, where he studied medicine. He has been a physician for many years and has a reputation as one of the leading physicians in the area. He has a great deal of experience and has helped many people. He is now starting a new career in the field of medicine. He is a member of the American Medical Association and has a great deal of respect from his colleagues. He is a very kind and caring person and is always ready to help. He is a great role model for young people and is a true professional. He is a great asset to the community and is a true leader. He is a great person and is a true professional. He is a great asset to the community and is a true leader.

The Kinsmen Club of Prince Rupert launched its annual shellout campaign this afternoon with distribution of shellout tickets to the pupils in all city schools.

The campaign continues all week with returns being turned in to the Kinsmen Club by next Wednesday afternoon. Again this year, the students will be vying among themselves for selling prizes as well as insuring themselves a happy Hallowe'en at the Kinsmen bonfires.

This year bonfires will be held at Port Edward and Digby as well as at Conrad Street School, Gyro Park and Totem Park. The bonfire at Port Edward will be looked after by Kinsmen. For the one at Digby, the Kinsmen Club is supplying the hot-dogs.

One other change has been made in the program for this year's Hallowe'en celebration. Instead of individual fireworks displays at each fire, a large aerial fireworks display will be touched off from a centrally-located spot, clearly visible from all fires, sometime during the evening.

A $250 fireworks display has been purchased by the club. As a safety precaution, they will be set off from an unannounced spot. All children will be urged to remain at the fires to view the display. Off-duty police and firemen are being recruited by the Kinsmen Club to keep clear any children who attempt to go to the site of the display.

As has been done in previous years, entertainment will be provided at the bonfires for the children. Hot-dogs and treats will also be given out to all children.

Prizes to winning ticket sellers are again worthy of all the effort the children put into the campaign. A bicycle is top prize. This will be given to the pupil who sells the greatest number of tickets.

In individual schools, the leading ticket seller is given a handsome watch. Second and third prizes in each school will be pen-and-pencil sets and wallets.

A special prize is being offered this year to the school with the highest average ticket sales—the most tickets per child sold. Grand prizes are also being offered for the children collecting the greatest number of tickets on Hallowe'en night and bringing them into the fires.

Money realized from sale of the tickets will be spent for refreshments and treats at the Kinsmen bonfires. Any extra money will be used for the numerous other Kinsmen projects, including the Kiddie Kamp at Lakelse Lake.

Health Authorities Praise Kinsmen For Polio Fund

High tribute has been paid the Kinsmen of British Columbia for their sponsorship of the B.C. Polio Fund, by provincial health authorities.

The praise was given at a council meeting of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs, at which President Bill Bond represented the Prince Rupert club. Dr. G. F. Elliott, assistant director of the B.C. health branch, said the program against polio in this province had been strong because of the work of the Kinsmen-sponsored voluntary agency, a contribution that could not be measured by dollars and cents.

"Yours is an organization that has made a contribution to the people of this province that you can't measure by the dollars you spend, since you not only spend your own voluntary dollars but you stimulate others not only in government but in hospitals as well. I am sure that your dollars are well spent."

The group, able to move without the restrictions of government red tape, had obtained special equipment for emergency cases at a moment's notice, saving many lives.

They had spent thousands of dollars on equipment, and in their recent gift of a large endowment to the University of British Columbia for the foundation of a chair of neurological research, had done much to promote the search for a preventative of the dread disease.

Elliott emphasized that, without voluntary health agencies such as the Kinsmen polio fund, the advancements made in the field of health in Canada during the past half-century would not have been possible. Such agencies, he said, represent a guarantee that public opinion will be kept lively and people educated and helped to realize what can be done.

He told the group that, earlier in the year the need for planning regarding more equipment had been realized. Following a visit of five B.C. specialists to hospitals in the United States, a trip financed by the B.C. Polio Fund, a policy had been set for type of equipment and location of it.

It had been agreed that equipment would be purchased roughly on a matching basis, shared by the polio fund and the provincial health department.

Equipment purchased had included 27 tank-type respirators, four rocking beds, polio paks and a great deal more specialized equipment. To date, he said, the health branch had spent $42,000 on such equipment, and the polio fund had paid even more.

PERFECT CO-OPERATION
"From one who has been employed with the health departments of both senior governments," he said, "let me assure you that the cost-sharing principle was the fuse that detonated this mass movement of equipment to this province."

Another example of the voluntary group's willingness to co-operate and its ability to act quickly was the need for additional physiotherapists. The B.C. Polio Fund had suggested that it could supply funds for immediate employment if the health branch would share the cost. The health branch had concurred but it was necessary to get approval from Ottawa. Eventually approval was received, and due to the co-operation of the fund group, it was possible to start the physiotherapists working much earlier.

"You not only spend your own dollars, but also stimulate others. Our most sincere thanks for a job well done for the people of this province. Let us continue to foster this relationship as long as polio remains a problem."

'HELP THE KINSMEN KEEP HALLOWE'EN SAFE

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to offer by official and personal wishes for the success of the Prince Rupert Kinsmen Club's Annual Hallowe'en Bonfires. I believe that through their efforts Hallowe'en has become a safe and sane celebration for the children of our city, and in order that the Club may continue this work I would request that the citizens support the Kinsmen in their "Peanut Day" and "Shellout Campaign."

Yours sincerely,
H. S. WHALEN, Mayor.

Odds Favor Olson 11-5 To Take Turpin Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson, the hustling Hawaiian from San Francisco, holds firmly to the 11-to-5 favorite to whip Britain's moody Randy Turpin in their 15-round middleweight title fight at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although his strange training methods have been as unorthodox as his awkward fighting style, the 25-year-old British fighter said flatly: "I'll prove I'm right. I'll win and bring back the championship to England."

Olson, poker-faced and quiet, said calmly: "I'll take the title." Then he left the rest of the talking, as usual, to manager Sid Flaherty.

"Olson will win," was the staid comment of Ray Robinson, who fought them both twice. The two will battle for the crown of the great Sugar Ray abdicated nine months ago.

"Olson is aggressive and very busy," said Robinson. "He gives you no room and he thinks fast. Turpin can't come back. I found that out. Olson will keep coming."

Even the visiting British writers and London promoter Jack Solomons have soured on their headstrong Randy. "I don't approve the way Turpin has trained," said Solomons. "He should have boxed more. His timing is off. If it goes 15 rounds Olson will win."

Turpin hasn't boxed since last Thursday. Despite his peculiar tactics and the big odds against him, the Briton's name is still magic at the box office.

The International Boxing Club opened its windows today with more than $110,000 in the till. IEC managing director Harry Markson said the scrap will lure about 17,000 fans and about $175,000. Radio-television receipts will add another $60,000 to the pot. Each fighter will collect 30 per cent or about $57,000.

BIG DRAWING CARD
The last time he was here Turpin drew a tremendous 61,370 throng and $767,626 at the polo grounds for his title defence against Robinson Sept. 12, 1951. Then the faithful were curious to see the man who had scored the first upset of the quarter-century 64 days before in London. Tonight, starting at 7 p.m. P.S.T., they may see just the shell of the once-magnificent prospect. The bout will be broadcast and telecast coast to coast by CBS.

EARL REIBEL, 23-year-old Kitchener-born rookie with Detroit Red Wings, is setting a fast scoring pace in the National Hockey League. He had two goals and six assists in the first four games to take the league leadership in the firing division. He played with Edmonton in the Western Hockey League in the 1952-53 season, winning the scoring championship.

Canucks Edge Winless Flyers To Take Lead

By The Canadian Press
Vancouver Canucks, breezing along undefeated in the Western Hockey League kept three streaks—one good, one bad—going last night when they edged the Edmonton Flyers 2-1 in Vancouver.

The game moved Canucks, the only undefeated club in the seven-team league, into first place, two points ahead of Calgary Stampeders. Vancouver has only one blemish on the record, a 3-3 tie with Seattle Bombers. Canucks have won all of their six games by a single goal.

The Flyers have been winless in eight games. They have lost five and tied three.

Tuesday, after a slow start, the Flyers outthrust Canucks by a wide margin in the second period and stayed in contention all the way.

But Vancouver goalie Lorne Worsley barred the door on every Flyer effort except a screened shot he couldn't see until too late.

Steve Hrymzak fired the shot from the blue-line after getting a pass from a face-off to give Edmonton a 1-0 lead late in the second period.

Red Brown finally tied it up with a backhand shot from a scramble in front of Hall.

Then with less than two minutes left, Canuck Andy Bathgate snagged a bad pass-out from behind the Edmonton net and rifled home the winning goal from eight feet out.

Tonight, Seattle visits New Westminster in the only scheduled action.

Stewart Leads AHL
NEW YORK (AP)—Gaye Stewart of Buffalo Bisons, the team that had the weakest offence in the league last season, holds first place in the American Hockey League point derby.

Stewart has three goals and four assists for seven points. Seven players are tied for second with six and another five have five points. Only Joe Lund of Buffalo and Willie Marshall of Pittsburgh have managed to notch four goals.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Anyone who knows even approximately what Randy Turpin will do in the Madison Square Garden ring tonight is in a swell position to stump the experts of two continents.

The mahogany-colored Briton has a chance to win the world undisputed 160-pound championship for the second time in his career. This is a very valuable chattel, and yet nobody outside the visitor's own tight little group knows for certain whether he even is in shape to travel 15 rounds, much less whip such a rugged opponent as Bobo Olson.

In the three weeks since he landed here, Turpin scarcely has pulled on a boxing glove by normal standards of training. He has studiously avoided boxing at all in public and has, so far as possible, shunned any contact with the human race. He has been, as they say, a strange one. His chief exercise has come in the form of long walks over the moors.

The last time he was in the United States Turpin wasn't like that at all. He was friendly

High team single and high triple was taken by Residuals with 1902 and 2997. Standings showed Conboeds and Northland Dairy tied for the lead with 12 points each. ## Grigger, Joe Krol, Decides to Quit

TORONTO (AP)—Joe Krol, ranked among the all-time stars of football and considered by many as the outstanding Canadian-born player of the last 20 years, has announced his retirement.

His decision was hastened by a knee injury suffered in the dying moments of Sunday's Big Four game in Montreal when he handled the ball for the last time for Toronto Argonauts against the Alouettes.

The 34-year-old triple-threat backfielder from Windsor, Ont., began his big-time career as an intercollegiate all-star for the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in 1939. In the years that followed he played on six Dominion championship teams and won all-star ranking in every league in which he played.

Basketball Season to Open November 7, 1953-54 Commission Still Not Elected

Prince Rupert Basketball association last night ratified a brand-new constitution and now all it lacks is an organization to administer it.

At the general meeting last night called for the express purpose of electing a five-man commission to govern basketball in Prince Rupert, there were insufficient members of the public from which to nominate the three members at large needed to complete the executive.

Another meeting has been set for 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the Civic Centre to elect five men to serve on the association's basketball commission. All persons who wish to add and help further basketball in the city are urged to attend.

Opening of the season's play was set for Saturday, November 7.

Last night's meeting saw plenty of basketball players in attendance but the 1952-53 executive, serving temporarily until the new commission is set up, wants three more members who are not associated with any particular team.

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's slugging catcher, heads the 1953 major league all-star team, one of the strongest squads ever put together.

Campanella, whose 41 home runs and 142 runs batted in are the highest ever reached by a big league catcher, drew all but five of the 179 votes returned by the Baseball Writers' Association of America in response to the Associated Press' eighth annual all-star poll.

The team boasts seven 300 hitters, including the two league batting champions, the RBI and slugging kings, a home-run leader, four players who have hit 30 or more homers and five who have pounded home 100 or more runs.

The pitchers are Robin Roberts of Philadelphia Phillies and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves. Each won 23 games to tie for the most in the majors.

The world champion Yankees placed only one man—Rizzuto—on the team while Brooklyn Dodgers, whom they defeated in the world series, placed three men.

Many local hunters are now returned from the yearly trek into the Interior in search of moose, but at this time it is believed that no more than 20 of these animals have been brought to town. This is away behind the figure for previous years, yet a skiff account is given by all hunters questioned: "Lots of cows, but bulls seem scarce."

Present this, the presentation of the following "Future objectives of game management" is now in order, and voices the considered opinion of our B.C. Game Commission.

It is quite obvious that all other renewable natural resources are managed for maximum harvest, and game must be no exception; the success of such a program is measured by game and fish actually reduced to possession. Since the objective will most certainly be a maximum harvest both now and in the future, this column will spend the next few weeks dealing with methods of management to such an end.

Productivity, carrying capacity of the territory concerned, and harvest are the three principal points to be considered; the productivity of a deer herd is better than 35 per cent under normal conditions, and will persist until the saturation point of animals able to find adequate feed is reached. (Remember that moose and elk are deer).

Recent studies have shown that carrying capacity is very important, although we usually fail to recognize it; in general, all ranges carry a capacity herd of deer at all times. There are precious few proven records indicating that over-hunting has destroyed or seriously reduced any deer herd, yet there are many good studies showing that big game animals have almost exterminated themselves by destroying their own food supply. Carrying capacity is a "Brick Wall" beyond which a population cannot rise, reproduction is a spring which continuously tries to force the population higher. To force a population down be-

Capitol Theatre Anniversary Brings Back Recollections Of Flappers, Low Prices and Pre-Depression Optimism

By DICK AYRES
Silver anniversary of the Famous Players "Capitol Theatre" tomorrow night brings back memories of yesterday that many of us had almost forgotten. Names of old movie stars, news of 25 years ago, noted sports figures of those days are brought back with the thought that half a century ago "Alice White" was the star of the main feature in a motion picture called "Show Girl."

Those were the days of short knee-length dresses, tight helmet like hats, "bobbed" or "shingled" hairdos and the flapper as personified by Clara Bow.

Back in the days when the premiere of the Capitol was staged by the Masak and Paul Aivaz-off other screen darlings included Billie Dove, Fay Ray, Dolores Costello, Dolores Del Rio, Marie Prevost, Mary Nolan and Irene Rich.

The "Great Profile"

For the gals there was John Barrymore and Clive Brooks to swoon over, and rugged characters like Richard Dix, Thomas Meighan and Louis Wolheim to play either hero or villain. Charlie Chase, Lupino Lane and Buster Keaton were the funny men of that day and Hoot Gibson, Tom Mix and Buck Jones didn't need banjos or good vocal chords to win cheers from the young fry.

It wouldn't have done much good if they hadn't been anything but honest to goodness cowboys, because those were the days of the silent films. Once the talkies came into being a year later many of the old movie greats were sidelined because of their strong nasal accents and only those with legitimate stage experience or those who absorbed voice culture survived.

Because of the silent films the theatre orchestra was a "must." For the Capitol theatre opening at which Will Edmunds sang and Madge Rush danced, Jack de Jausserand conducted his six-piece orchestra. Mood music of those days saw the musicians playing soft and sweet for the love scenes, racing like mad when the hero's posse was riding to the rescue or switching to "hearts and flowers" when the heroine's grandmother was dying after being run over by a train.

Forgotten Films

Other films enjoyed in those pre-Wall Street crash days were "Good Morning Judge," starring Reginald Denny, Monty Blue in "One-Round Hogan," Thomas Meighan in a thriller called "The Racket," with Louis Wolheim, (later of All Quiet on the Western Front fame) as the villain. A drama at the Capitol opposition, The Westholme down on Second Avenue, featured Emil Jannings in "The Street of Sin."

On October 22 the night of the Capitol opening the Paramount newswell showed pictures of Vancouver's Percy Williams winning the sprints at the Olympics in Amsterdam.

That same day the Prince Rupert Daily News carried headlines which proclaimed to its readers that "Another Big Financial Group from United States Making a Bid for the Prince Rupert Power and Light Franchise."

The offer came from W. E. Vegeback of Chicago whose engineers S. Shaffer and W. H. Shoard recommended the harnessing of Big Falls on the Estall River where they estimated that between 20,000 and 30,000 horsepower could be obtained.

That same day in Victoria, Premier Tolmie urged that Canada assume its rightful share of the work in protecting the British Empire by sea. News from abroad told of storms sweeping London and the British Government released the text of the Anglo-French disarmament compromise.

Here in Prince Rupert on the social front at St. Andrew's cathedral Canon W. F. Rushbrook united in marriage Margaret Sigrud Eyoifson, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Eyoifson, 2131 Water Street, to George Bedford Church. Sister of the bride Miss Joan Eyoifson was bridesmaid and Barney Eyoifson was groomsmen. Ushers included Richard Long, Vic Houston, Albert Eyoifson and Robert Strachan. Miss M. A. Way played the organ and Miss Annie Daby sang "O Promise Me."

Optimism was the keynote half a century ago, and October was a busy month throughout the world as well as in Prince Rupert.

Just Around Corner

Col. S. P. McMordie, mayor of Prince Rupert, told the Prince Rupert board of trade that a period of prosperity was "just around the corner for Prince Rupert."

A large advertisement in The Daily News, boasted daily that Prince Rupert had the three greatest things in the world, "the largest fish and cold storage plant, the largest fresh halibut and the largest undeveloped hinterland."

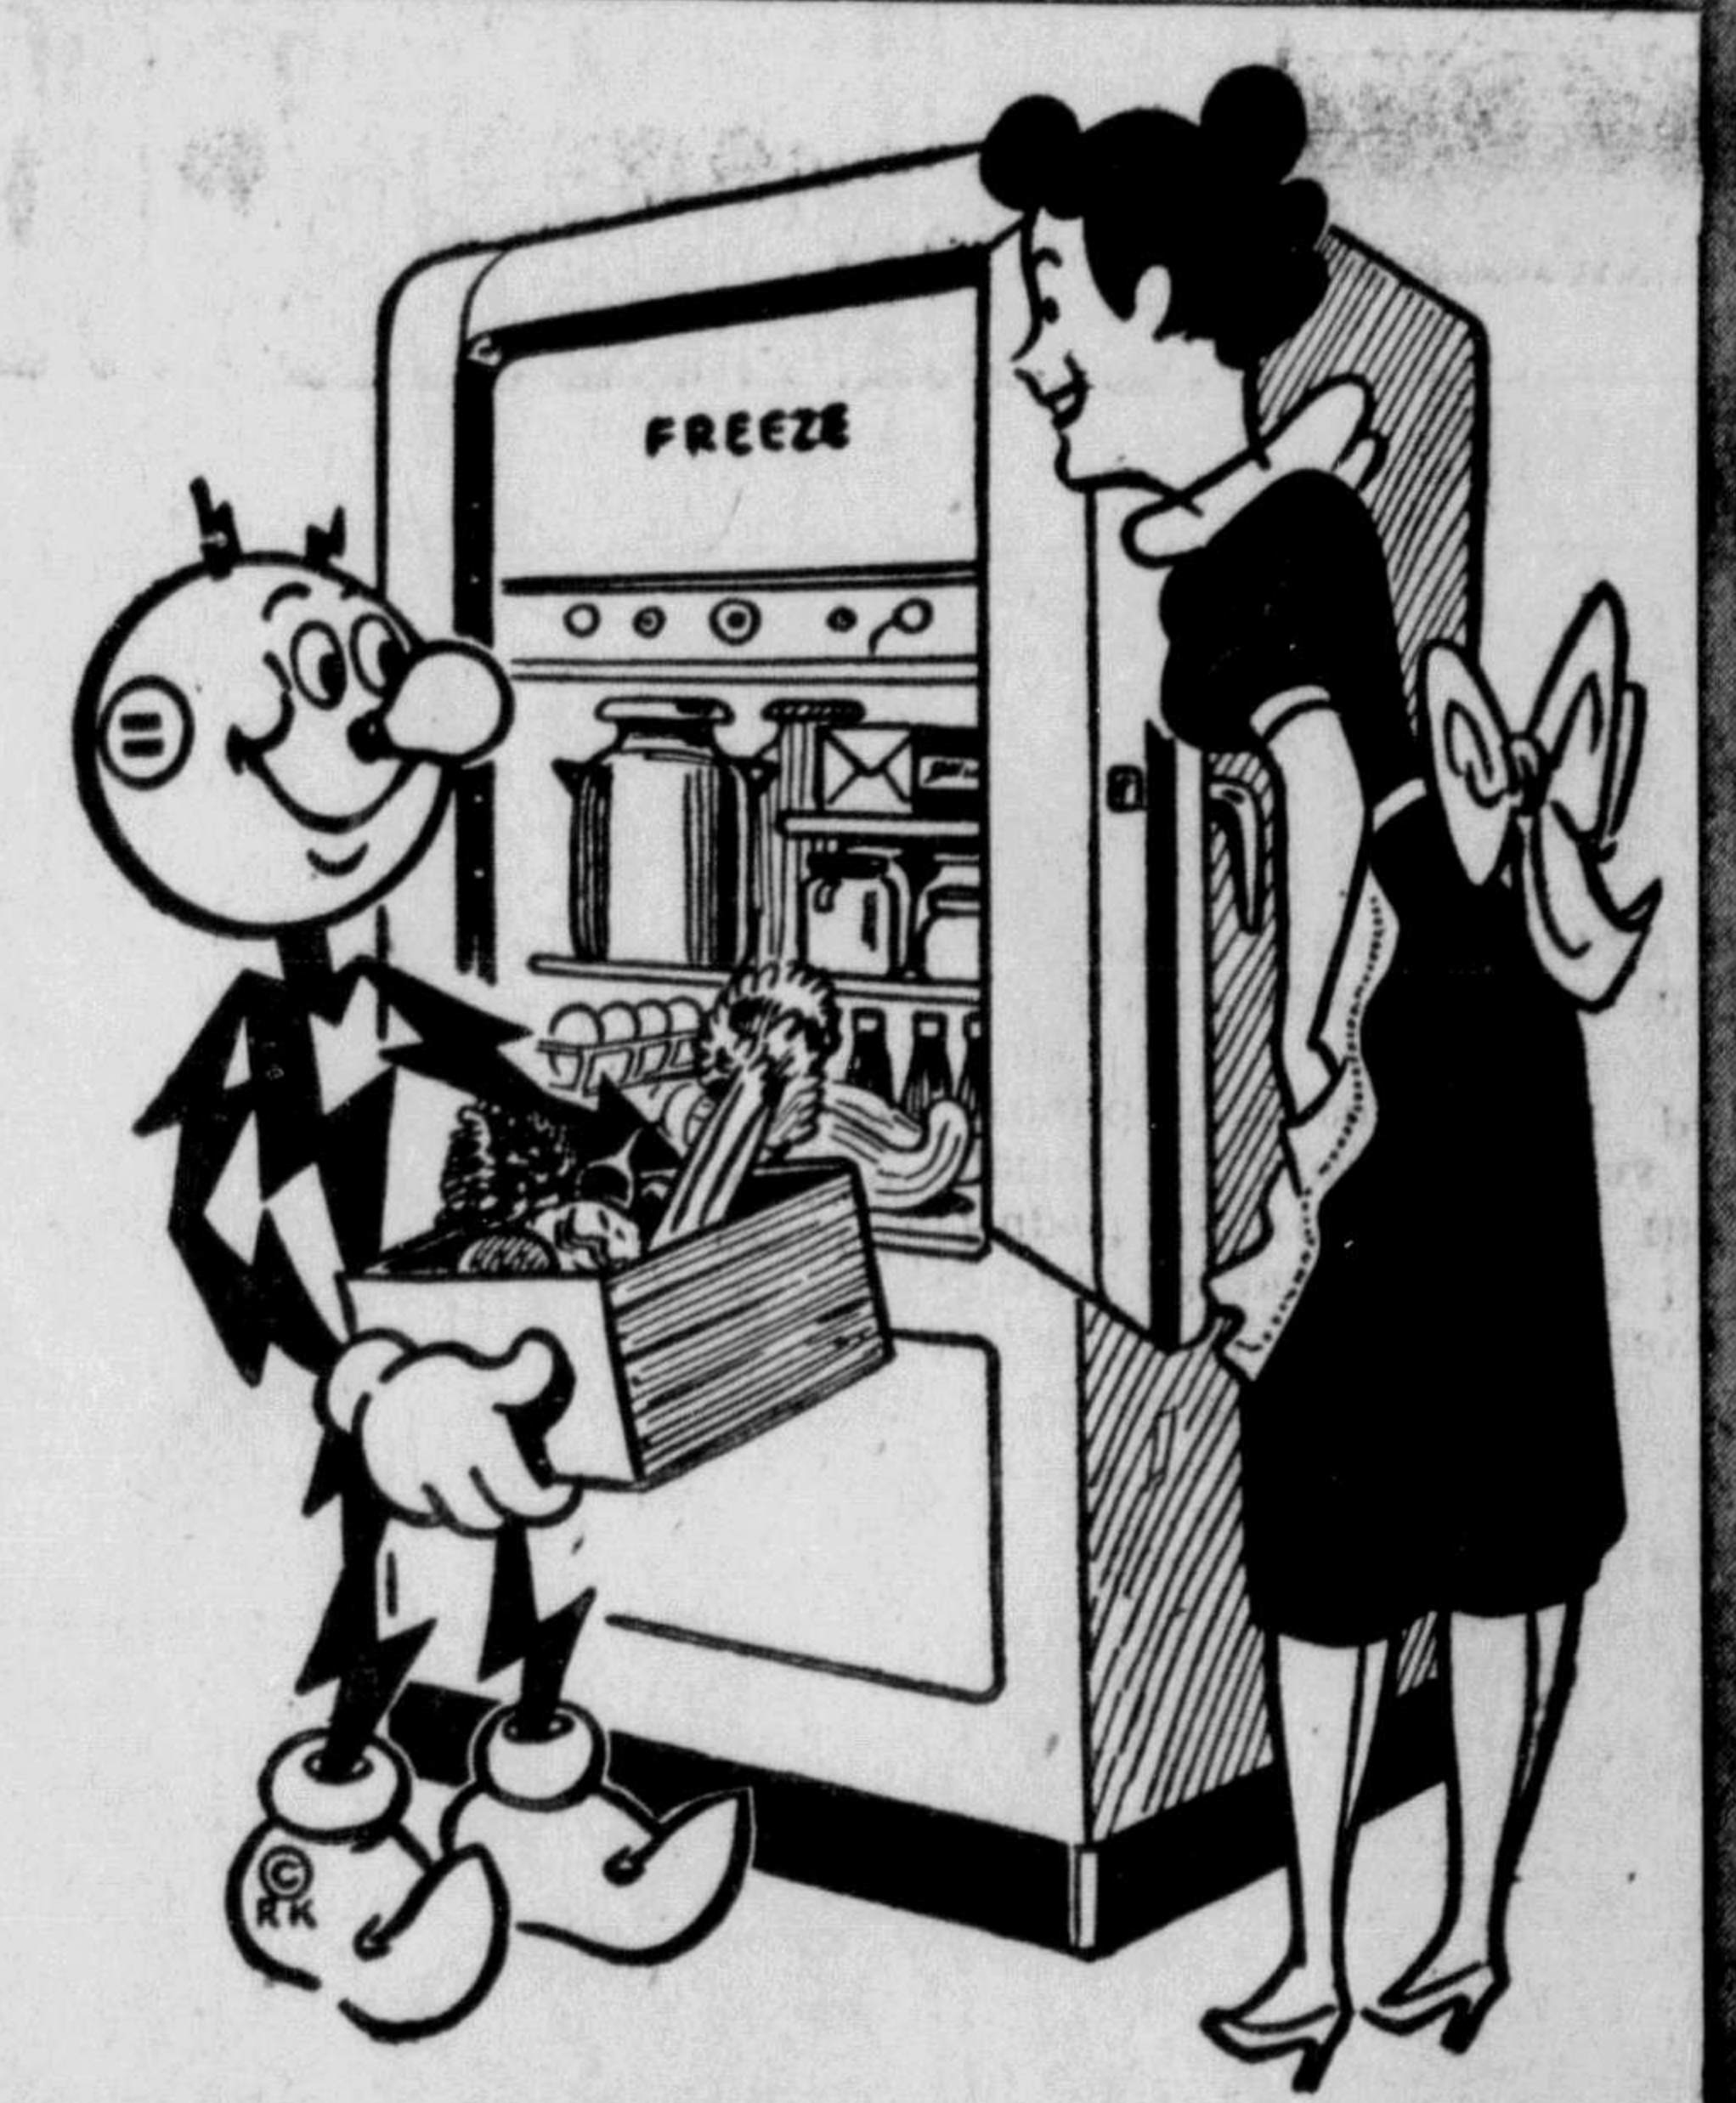

The ad went on to say that the city had a payroll derived from railway shops and offices, drydock and shipyards, grain elevator, provincial government offices, cold storage, fish market, oilery and fish reduction plant, salmon and halibut fishermen, salmon canneries, lumber mills, mining, trapping and furs.

"The grain export business is developing steadily," the ad stated.

Brash's Overall Worse Than Abel's Bidding

When I use Mr. Truex in the column, it means that the hand is taken from an important tournament—card for card and play for play.

I mention this particularly today, since otherwise I could expect a lot of letters pointing out the whole thing was silly and unbelievable. Truth is indeed stranger than fiction. It is hard to say what influenced Mr. Abel to open the bidding on an average hand. But Miss Brash's vulnerable overall was even worse.

And Mr. Truex could have passed the hand out at four diamonds. Instead, he single-handedly drove his opponents into a game contract and then helped them to make it. (Good old Truex.)

You may find it hard to see how Miss Brash made five diamonds—even with help from the enemy. Here was the actual play. Mr. Truex won the first trick with the ace of spades, realizing a shift was necessary, he unfortunately selected a low club.

Dummy ducked and Mr. Abel's jack lost to the queen. Apparently Miss Brash still had a heart and a diamond to lose but she overcame her difficulties as follows:

She led a diamond to the jack and Mr. Abel won and returned a club. Miss Brash played the deuce and Mr. Truex had to duck or see his opponents make four club tricks.

Dummy's nine of clubs won. Now Miss Brash cashed two diamond tricks and the ace and king of hearts. Next came the beautiful and necessary play of the queen of spades.

Mr. Abel had to cover with the king and Miss Brash ruffed. This maneuver shifted the burden of protecting both black suits upon Mr. Truex—a job he could not quite do.

The rest of the trumps were now led and Mr. Truex' last three cards were the jack of spades and the eight and seven of clubs. Dummy had the ten of spades and the ace-six of clubs.

On the last trump from the closed hand Mr. Truex had to get-down to two cards. He was gone. If he dropped the spade, dummy's ten would be good.

He discarded a club and Miss Brash then played the spade from the board and led a club to the ace. The six of clubs took the last and game-winning trick.

SCREEN ★ FLASHES

Clifton Webb, who has put his genius to work in many fields curing his screen career, portrays a leader of Boy Scouts in his latest Twentieth Century-Fox comedy, "Mister Scoutmaster," soon to be seen at the Capitol Theatre.

He received instruction for his unusual role from George Bergstrom, who has served the Boy Scouts of America for 35 years in various executive capacities and who acted as technical supervisor on the picture.

Edmund Gwenn, George "Foghorn" Winslow and Frances Dee are also starred in the hit feature.

Webb's role as a TV broadcaster for a breakfast food company who does not understand children is reminiscent of his hilarious characterization in "Sitting Pretty" and he plays it with great relish. He is superb as usual. When he unwittingly becomes the Scoutmaster of a Boy Scout troop his ineptness with fire-sticks on a camping expedition, his difficulty in administering the "tenderfoot" tests, his brush with recalcitrant youth and various other troubles he encounters with the Scouts give the picture its strong comedy flavor.

Tunney Retired

The world's heavyweight boxing throne had been vacated by Gene Tunney and game Tommy Loughran had his eye on the "rump." At the same time people wondered if Tom Heeney of Australia or Georges Carpentier of France would make anything of their comebacks. Tod Morgan of the Pacific Coast was world's junior lightweight champion.

Earlier in October the New York Yankees under manager Miller Huggins had taken the World Series by beating the St. Louis Cardinals four straight with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig as the heroes. However, Gehrig outshaded the Big Bambino in that year's series, blasting out four homers to the Babe's three. Mickey Cochrane of the Philadelphia Athletics was voted the most valuable player of the year.

That same month the German dirigible the Graf Zeppelin made history crossing the Atlantic and tying up at Lakehurst, N.J. In Vancouver, W. H. Malkin became mayor, succeeding L. D. Taylor. On the editorial page of The Daily News the pros and cons of the Buchan-versus-Welr version of "O Canada" feud was going strong.

On the musical front, Helen Kane, the "Bop Boop a Doop Girl," was collecting royalties like mad with a song called "That's My Weakness Now." Gene Austin with Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra had a hit song called "Jeannine I Dream of Lillie Time."
