U.S. Ready to Concede To Churchill—Talks With Truman On

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States authorities report they are ready to give Prime Minister Winston Churchill assurance that atomic weapons will never be used by the United States without consultation with Great Britain.

This point is understood to be one of the chief items on the agenda of the Churchill-Truman talks which began unofficially Saturday and continued on a formal basis today.

There have been no official statements on specific points to be discussed at this conference, which Churchill brought about of his top advisers. It is significant Churchill included in the group Lord Cherwell, who holds the rather nominal office of Paymaster-General but is, in fact, one of Britain's leading scientists and a trusted adviser on atomic developments.

SEOUL (CP)—United Nations jet fighters shot down five Russian-made MIG's and damaged 10 on Sunday in four spectacular air battles over North Korea.

There was no announcement of any United Nations losses. Under new policy, the Fifth Air Force reports losses only in the weekly summary.

A North Korean communique claims three Allied planes were shot down during the day but did not say where or how.

Col. Harrison R. Thynge, commander of the Fourth Fighter Interceptor Wing, said: "It was definitely the roughest battle we've ever in."

On this basis, Lodge said he is entering Eisenhower's name in the New Hampshire presidential primary. He said Eisenhower "is prohibited by Army regulations from engaging directly or indirectly in a nomination campaign" while in uniform but that he is certain that the General is in the presidential race "to the finish."

Missing Mount Hays Skiers Are Safe

Members of the local ski club on skis were carrying on search of the southern slopes of Mount Hays back of Prince Rupert today for a young woman and a 17-year-old boy missing from 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. They were located safe at 11 a.m. A third member of the party turned up at the Columbia Cellulose mill at Watson Island at 7:30 this morning.

The party had lost their way during a thick snowstorm while skiing bent Sunday afternoon and became separated.

Alarm was felt last evening when they failed to return to the ski camp or to their homes in the city and search was organized and conducted during the night and resumed today.

The missing people were: Mrs. Nancy (Andy) Marshall, Jordan Smith, aged 17, Stanley Wilkins.

Wilkins and his two companions had set out from the ski lodge to climb to the Ski Club tower on top of Mount Hays and were last seen by several members of the club. They had made arrangements with Joe Gallant, also a member of the party, to meet him at the FM station of the Department of Transport before 4 p.m. When they failed to show up at 5 p.m., it was feared they were lost and word was sent to Prince Rupert.

Search party was organized by Odd and Harold Eldsvik and Foster Husoy who rounded up Ski Club members at 7:30 p.m.

Meantime, the Eldsviks and Andy Marshall, husband of the missing woman, had covered the ski trail leading to Mount Oldfield and met Don Eby and Duncan McRae who started searching in that region.

By late evening 14 men had divided into two groups and, using gas lanterns and flashlights, scoured the top of Mount Hays thoroughly until 2 a.m. when the search was called off until daylight except for Marshall and two others who carried on throughout the night.

Youths Rescued Late Sunday By Police Boat From Pillsbury Cove

Royal Canadian Mounted Police boat P.M.L. 15 effected rescue last evening of two youths, Perry York, 18, and Robert Dunn, 17, who became marooned in Pillsbury Cove, across the harbor, during the week-end when a skiff, with outboard motor, became swamped and they were unable to return home.

The lads left Saturday afternoon and were to have been home in the morning. When they failed to show up Sunday afternoon, the police were notified and the P.M.L. 15 was dispatched at 5 p.m. to search. Two hours later it was back in port with the youths and their boat.

The pair had gone ashore Saturday afternoon and spent the night in a cabin. During the night the skiff became stranded and swamped on the storm-beaten shore. As the harbor was rough, all they could do then was to await help although they had secured the small craft. They were soaking wet and hungry but otherwise suffered no ill-effects.

Talks in Deadlock—Vishinsky

PARIS (CP)—The Soviet foreign minister, Andrei Vishinsky, said today the Korean truce talks at Panmunjon have reached a deadlock. He urged a high level security council meeting to help break it.

Vishinsky told the United Nations political committee "we want these negotiations to be concluded successfully and quickly. Let's have a security council meeting consisting of high level persons. Let's get together and try to help them," he said.

The Soviet proposal would not break up the talks at the front, Vishinsky declared, but would merely consider ways to help get them out of a rut in which they have been floundering for six months.

King to Make Africa Cruise

LONDON (CP)—The King will make an ocean health cruise to South Africa in April, Buckingham Palace announced today. He will be accompanied by the Queen and Princess Margaret.

The royal family will pay a visit to Dr. Daniel Malan, Prime Minister of South Africa, at his country home in southern Natal.

The trip will be made in the battleship Vanguard, starting date of the cruise and itinerary being still indefinite.

There will be absolutely no official functions but the whole trip will be to give His Majesty a quiet rest.

Prime Minister Malan appealed to the public of South Africa today to co-operate with the authorities in making it a real holiday.

The tug Turmoil and the American freighter she is towing are reported 152 miles from the Spanish port of Falmouth. The tug hopes to make port some time Wednesday.

The American destroyer Wilkes Keith, escorting the tug and her cargo, reported at 8 a.m. her position, saying: "The condition of the Enterprise is unchanged."

United Nations Hears Garson

PARIS (CP)—The Canadian Minister of Justice Stuart Garson, today urged that Russia return to her former support of world collective security as proposed by the late Maxim Litvinoff when he was the Soviet representative at the League of Nations.

Making his maiden speech at the United Nations assembly, Garson told the political committee that the symbol of tragedy of these times is that the Soviet government no longer speaks to the world organization with the intelligent voice of Mr. Litvinoff but that of Mr. Vishinsky, his successor, today.

Mr. Garson made a wider plea for a more wide backing of United Nations measures in the important debate on western proposals for stronger UN collective measures against aggression.

Styles Are Lady-Like

Feminine Lines Featured in Fashions
By DOROTHY ROE
NEW YORK (AP)—The leap silhouette for spring accentuating feminine lines, a waist and some nostalgic touches such as "Gib-Girl" sleeves and lacy trimmings.

are the style trends that will be exhibited to some 150 fashion editors from the States and abroad during the week's New York Dress Institute previews.

They will find new dramatic silhouette changes, but they will be heartening news of re-energized and lady-like fashions, colorful fabrics and enough variety of styling to suit all and figure types.

These voluminous skirts and multiple petticoats that have shined through the winter season have been modified. Full skirts still will be worn for full effect, but the spring suit is slim and streamlined, and street wear generally returns to the narrow silhouette.

Spring suits take to two main silhouettes—the softly curved, fitted jacket with nipped waist and rounded hipline over straight or slightly flared skirt, or the short, loose, boy jacket over pencil-slim skirt. In either case the waist is slim, with a gathered look through the middle, shoulders are natural, and neckline touches are achieved through details such as pockets, belts and discreet trimmings.

No violent extremes are evident. Women will find the new styles easy to wear, with enough variety in silhouette to suit their taste and figure.

Fabrics are handsomer than many years. There are featherweight tweeds that have a silky look yet are almost transparent when held to the light. There are frothy nubby wools that have the fashionable "poodle" look, yet are as light as whipped cream.

TRIM COATS
Spring coats come in a number of versions. The fitted coat is again a comeback, in both reamaker silks and lightweight wools. But the most popular silhouette remains the loose, oxford style, shown in both short and long versions.

The princess line is important in both suits and dresses for spring. This is handled in a number of ways by various designers. One of the top designers uses the tight, corseted midriff throughout her collection, fitting in unbelted styles which exude "refined" femininity.

Many of her skirts stand well above the waist, hugging the rib cage, with the belt placed several inches below, at the natural waistline.

Father Mohan C.Y.O. Speaker

An informative lecture by Father O. P. Mohan, O.M.I., on the origin of the Catholic Youth Organization took up a good portion of the time of the local club's meeting last night in the school.

Tells About Korea Visit

Impressions of Japan and Korea were given at last night's meeting of the Holy Name Society by E. T. Applewhaite M.P.

Mr. Applewhaite was the words used to describe the war-ravaged city of Tokyo. He said there were many temporary buildings both business and residential.

In speaking of the layout of the city he compared it to the hub and spokes of a wheel, similar to Paris and Cairo, but the Japanese have adopted the eastern custom of numbering and lettering the streets. Department stores rival those in Canada with a good supply of consumer goods augmented by the American post exchanges.

Since he was addressing a church club the member pointed out in particular that Christianity is practically "nil" in Japan. Services are open Sunday, people work 16 days with one day off, or 27 days with 3 days off. Sunday is observed by a handful of westerners.

Mr. Applewhaite's account of 48 hours in Korea was full of anecdotes about informal chats with sailors aboard the Cayuga and Sioux and the active army on the field. He told vividly of heavy shellfire experienced by the navy men. He had been able to see actual positions of the Canadian advanced posts of the Royal 22nd, the R.C.R.'s and the P.P.C.L.I. Etic. Gen. Rocky Rockingham showed himself a genial but careful host because, when shellfire came close to his Parliamentary visitor, he shooed him 5 miles behind the lines.

Morale, morals, and efficiency are high among the troops, he maintained. He closed his talk by suggesting that "we at home match their morale, that we write letters and send them the home town paper."

Regular business of the meeting included a motion to start work immediately on the school gym. It was also decided to set a new date, Feb. 14, for the parish social evening.

The B.C. Catholic Association drive for membership is well underway, and President G. R. Breit will represent the Holy Name men at a Citizenship Council meeting tomorrow night.

TRADE MARK REG. IN CANADA

Centenarian Is Honored

Perhaps Joseph Stalin in the very near future will be sending his doctors, scientists and longevity experts to London, Ontario, to study the cases of Thomas Taylor and Charles Davis.

The Russians seem to take a great deal of pride in the number of centenarians inhabiting their country. Every few years, Russian scientists come out with some new medicine which will, they claim, make 100 years of age a commonplace happening.

No such wonder drugs are needed for Tommy Taylor who, Saturday celebrated his 100th birthday. As he steps into his second century Taylor can look back on the past 100 years which saw the birth of the steamship, aeroplane, telephone and automobile—long before the Russians ever thought of them.

But Saturday fate played a mighty mean trick on Taylor. In fact for the past week fate has been doing her best to prevent Taylor from reaching the century mark.

Three days after Christmas, he fell into his bathroom, and became wedged behind the door so that no one could enter. A gas space heater was only inches from his face and threatened to suffocate him in the un-ventilated room. Two constables had to chop their way through the bathroom wall to rescue the comparatively hale and hearty old gentleman.

A week later as he approached his 100th birthday, fellow pensioners and Canadian National Railway officials were converging on London to honor the centenarian. Then again, fate took a hand. On the eve of his birthday, Tommy Taylor suffered a heart attack, apparently a delayed effect of his accident, and was rushed to the hospital.

Meanwhile the gathering of pensioners and railway officials continued and plans went ahead to honor Taylor. The 100-year-old pensioner, confined to his hospital bed, was represented by a proxy—his 90-year-old son-in-law Charles Davis, also a pensioner of the CNR system.

Taylor, a Yorkshireman by birth, emigrated to Canada in 1882 and a year later entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway. Subsequently he was transferred to the London CNR car shops. He retired on pension in 1920.

His 90-year-old son-in-law Charles Davis was born in Wales and joined the railway in 1883, retiring from service only eight years after Taylor. Standing-in as proxy for his father-in-law Davis received the acclaim of over 200 visiting pensioners and was presented with a check and smoking jacket. The jacket was a gift from Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways. Messages from the King and Prime Minister congratulating Taylor were also received.

Among those on hand to honor Taylor and his son-in-law was the mayor of London, Allan Rush, who at one time was also an employee of the railway.

ships, carrying the whole wealth of the Peruvian City of Lima, captured by the Spaniards in 1821.

Lane, with his son, Tom, 24, a ship's steward, hopes to get the expedition on the move within 12 months.

His one worry is that the Peruvian Government may lay claim if he finds the treasure.

He claims to have secret information given him by Second World War German spy named Bergman. Lane says he saved Bergman's life during a brawl in Panama, when Lane was serving in the Columbian Navy.

Lane went to Cocos with the 1935 expedition led by the late Sir Malcolm Campbell. There have been many unsuccessful expeditions to the island.

He said his party would try to find treasure buried probably in three caches with modern electronic instruments used for finding metals.

Among letters and documents he possesses is an article by Sir Malcolm Campbell, saying he was certain immense treasure was hidden on Cocos Island.

Sir Malcolm Campbell believed hoards included: Buccaneer loot hidden by Captain Edward Davis, partner of the famous 17th-century pirate and explorer, Dampier.

Rat Battle In Alberta

Rodents Invade Prairie Province on 60-Mile Front
 By LORNE BRUCE
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—“Go west, young rat, go west,” the old rats tell the young rats.

That's the facetious suggestion of A. M. Wilson, Alberta field crops commissioner, who has the job of keeping rats out of the province.

For a long time Alberta boasted of being the only rat-free area in North America. Now the rodents have invaded the province on a 60-mile front along the Saskatchewan boundary.

“They have been found as far as 11 miles inside the province,” said Mr. Wilson.

The infiltrated area starts about 200 miles southeast of Edmonton at Bodo and runs south to Acadia Valley, about 150 miles east of Calgary.

The rats have gained a foothold, but Alberta has launched a vigorous counter-attack.

By keeping special crews on the job all winter it is hoped to wipe out all the colonies in the province before spring. Rats are easier to fight in winter because they live under barns and other buildings. In the summer they are in the fields.

PERMANENT JOB
 But even provided the existing colonies are wiped out, rat control in Alberta probably will be a permanent job unless the large numbers in Saskatchewan adjacent to the Alberta boundary are curbed.

In Alberta, a bill was passed by the legislature a year ago making rat control the responsibility of the municipalities.

“The responsibility passes right down to the man on the land,” said Mr. Wilson.

But the provincial government is keeping a close check. And it is providing supplies, without cost, of a new control agent called “Warfarin,” developed by the Wisconsin Research Foundation.

The poison brings death so slowly there is no warning to other rats. They die in three or four days of internal bleeding without convulsions or seizures. Often they die in their nests.

The poison has been highly effective in some test areas. In Alberta there have been no conclusive results. Because of the small number of rats in the province, it has been difficult to make a thorough test.

“The bait was removed regularly during the first week of our tests,” said Mr. Wilson of the Alberta experiments. “But nothing happened after that. We don't know whether we killed off all the rats or whether they became wary and are staying away.”

Mr. Wilson said the most serious danger arises from the steady westward movement of rats rather than from the arrival of individual rats in box-cars.

Why do rats move westward? One theory is that the gradual westward movement is caused by colonies to the east becoming over-crowded, with the result young ones are pushed out.

Alberta is protected from rat infiltration from the west by the Rockies, by sparsely-populated rangeland on the south and by sub-arctic wastelands on the north.

Although the province has lost its claim to being the only rat-free area on the continent, it is determined to be able to say it has fewer of the rodents than any other area. But it will be a tough battle—because one pair of rats is capable of multiplying by 3,500,000 in three years.

The basin system of irrigation by controlled flooding was used in the Nile Valley of Egypt more than 7,000 years ago.

LOGS ROLLING—

Millions of Feet of Timber Ready After Good Year in Woods

Fine Job of Organizing—A Train a Day From Terrace to Rupert

With 20,000,000 feet of logs lying in the water alongside the mill at nearby Watson Island, enough to feed the giant new pulp plant until spring, to say nothing of ten million feet cold-decked in the forest management area at Terrace and another four million feet ready for towing from the Khutzamateen camp, up coast from Prince Rupert, the logging department of Columbia Cellulose Co. can look back with satisfaction on its first year of operation.

Under the organization of quiet, hard-working Rae Johnson, woods manager of the company, Columbia Cellulose is today in an enviable position as regards log supply. Probably there is no big consumer of timber in the world in better shape and certainly it is a situation that might arouse the envy of many of the major mills on the coast whose timber supply was so seriously interfered with during 1951 by forest closures because of the long fire hazard period and for other reasons.

The big store of logs which Columbia Cellulose now has on hand is only one matter for satisfaction. Its woods operations have been fully organized for smooth production and the transit of timber from woods to mill has been effectively set up for regular and uninterrupted delivery.

This delivery of logs from Terrace, the principal source of Columbia Cellulose timber, at a rate of three to five million feet per month, is proving a great boom to the Canadian National Railways. It means a full train of 25 to 30 cars of logs every day from Terrace to Prince Rupert, keeping 130 cars in constant use between coast mill and the interior assembly area.

While Columbia Cellulose Co. leans heavily now on the railway for delivery of most of its timber from Terrace to Prince Rupert, towing experiments on the Skeena River during the past year established the feasibility of water transport. Last year two million feet of logs were towed down the Skeena River from Shames river camp at Watson Island. A considerably larger amount will be transported in this manner during the summer of 1952.

Except for a close-down during the Christmas and New Year period, logging operations in the forest management and timber sale area on the west side of the Kitsumkalum River at Terrace is a continuous operation throughout the winter as well as summer. The holidays there ended with the resumption of operations today. Terrace logging means employment for about 140 men.

Meanwhile several feet of snow in the rugged terrain of Khutzamateen has caused cessation of that operation for three months until March. The camp has been closed down and the 120 men brought to town. Some of these are, however, finding employment on repair and maintenance work of boats and other equipment at Prince Rupert.

Columbia Cellulose logging operations are employing about 368 men in all and, in the normal course of events, there might be an increase of the force in view of anticipated mill expansion at Watson Island and consequent timber consumption.

CCC has not, as yet, interested itself in the residence camp idea whereby loggers are established in communities with families in residence. But if you could provide 100 houses in Prince Rupert, we would soon establish a boat service between Prince Rupert and the camps whereby men

Cellulose Co. Aids Terrace Fire Fighters

TERRACE—The Terrace Volunteer Fire Department, entertained on New Year's Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lyman, were presented with a check for $1000 from Columbia Cellulose Co. as a subscription toward the fund which is being raised for a second fire truck.

In a letter accompanying the check, Dr. R. H. Ball, general manager of Columbia Cellulose Co. offered the suggestion that Terrace had reached a size where its fire department should be financed from taxation rather than by volunteer subscription.

Quits Bank to Enter Insurance

Morris Wightman, for several years accountant in the Prince Rupert branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and more recently manager at Terrace, has decided to leave the bank service and is to enter the insurance business at Terrace with J. H. Smith.

For the past few months Mr. Wightman has been at Smithers looking after sub-branches out of there. He will be returning to Terrace about February 1.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

Two liners of Union Steamships Ltd. were in port last night in the course of their regular weekly voyages. Steamer Chilcotin, Capt. William McCombe, arrived at 6 p.m. from Masset Inlet points and sailed at 8 p.m. for Vancouver. As the Chilcotin was departing, the steamer Camosun, Capt. John Boden, was arriving from Vancouver, sailing at midnight for Alice Arm and Stewart whence she is due back here tomorrow morning southbound.

Lateness of arrival of the Camosun was due to a special call having been made at Kemano with workers on the Alcan power house project returning to the job after holidaying in Vancouver. There were about fifty of them. The Camosun also brought about fifty passengers for Prince Rupert and points north.

Good Prices For Second-Hand Furs

LONDON (CP)—At a Christmas auction of top grade second-hand furs many husbands solved the Christmas present problem and the No. 1 sale was a natural Canadian mink that brought £920.

In the chancellered auction rooms mannequins paraded in coats on which the bids rose £10 a fall. Although most of the 13 furs went to trade buyers, housewives found bargains too.

Mrs. Freda Robson of Northwood, Middlesex, found herself the proud possessor of a black-capped Canadian squirrel model coat for £155. Part of the price reduction can be explained by the fact that second-hand furs in Britain without the crippling 100-per-cent tax effective on new coats.

At ranks beside the auctioneers' desks there were 600 coats, capes, ties, stoles and cloaks, the bulk of 2000 items submitted for sale. Low-priced sales included a muskrat at £30, a Russian ermine coat that brought £75 and a leopard jacket and muff costing £50.

Although some women had already found bargains, they sat through the sale of the minks—just looking. One housewife, Mrs. Ann Kennan of Bexleyheath, Kent, gave a typical woman's answer to a question about the eternal fascination of mink.

"It would make you feel so good," she replied.

January Clearance Selling

TORONTO — January sales, prewar-style, are back with a bang in most areas of Canada.

Disappointing over-all Christmas business (for most retailers), the need to clean out inventory for quick cash, are sparking this biggest wave of January sales in the postwar period.

Substantial price savings are being offered—particularly in the fur, dress and home appliance fields.

While the Christmas business pattern varies considerably from product to product, store to store, area to area, a broad cross-section shows Christmas buying generally below most retailers' expectations.

This year in the two pre-Christmas weeks—normally the heaviest business period for furs—business was "very slow" and "far below" the same period of last year. There was little pick-up in the majority of appliance lines; sales here were also generally "far below" 1950. Sales of women's dresses lagged substantially. Sharp price cuts are indicated in these lines.

Big impetus to January clearance is the fact that many banks and manufacturers had extended loans to give business the advantage of normally heavy Christmas trade so that much of the unmovable merchandise will now have to be cleared at cut-rate prices.

TOYS, LINGERIE UP

The story is far from one of universal gloom, however. The fact that business was below last year in many lines doesn't in itself signal a sharp general business contradiction. Last year was a record one. And some lines went even better this year—toys, lingerie and some footwear.

"Wherever a merchant had new lines to offer, the sales response was very good," an official of a large department store told The Post. The expanded lines of mechanical toys from U. S. and Europe boosted toy sales to new heights. New fashion lines boosted lingerie sales.

Mail order business was good, suggested that country and town buyers are less inclined to wait for "next month's bargains" than urban dwellers.

Retailers bear the "savings-minded" mood of the public for the over-all Christmas business drop.

"They have it in their heads that cash will buy a good deal more a month or two hence than now," a clothing retailer stated. "And if enough of them keep thinking that they'll be right."

Other factors tending to strengthen the consumer picture are wage rates catching up with the rising cost of living in many trades; flattening out in the cost-of-living picture gives no indication at present of repeating its 1 per cent rise of 1951.

Army Golf In Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reporting that the Army has 41 golf courses at different overseas bases, a Senate Armed Services subcommittee has questioned whether they are an unnecessary luxury.

The subcommittee on preparedness, which has been doing a watchdog job on the multi-billion dollar defense program, said Tuesday that Army golf courses are also numerous in this country, but it did not say how many there are.

It noted that five of the eight Army training centres visited by its investigators had golf courses. Nearby Fort Belvoir, Va., had two, one an 18-hole layout and the other nine.

The report said the 41 overseas golf courses included 18 in the European command, 17 in the Pacific, five in the Caribbean command and one in Alaska.

The Senate group sharply criticized what it called waste in some Army activities but used softer terms in discussing recreational facilities.

"The committee does not question the need for adequate recreational facilities," the report said. "However, particularly in regard to golf courses, we question whether the outlay and overhead is wholly justifiable in terms of utilization."

The Senate group called some facilities "over-elaborate" and asked the Army to "review its recreational program and carefully determine if the advantages gained in terms of morale offset the spending of public funds for the incidentals of construction and maintenance."

LONDON (AP)—Effects of United States cuts in film production caused by the popularity of television programs are being felt in London by such well-known and popular actors as Hamilton-born Robert Beatty.

It works like this. Many top American stars, finding fewer opportunities at home, visit British and accept lead roles in British films. This often means that actors here, such as Beatty, are relegated to lesser roles.

In two of his most recent productions, for instance, Beatty has taken second place to Zachary Scott and Walter Pidgeon, a veteran Hollywood star formerly of Saint John, N.B.

Pidgeon, Beatty and Margaret

Leighton were the lead stars. "Calling Bulldog Drummond," an up-to-date remake of the series, "Wings of Danger," which Scott has not yet been released and is a story of a counter-espionage gang working the racket air.

Between movies Beatty does radio, television, stage and elementary work. Recently he was on the air in "The Front Page," a well-known newspaper series. After that, Bob as he's known by friends, spent a quiet Christmas at home with his English wife, Dorothy, and 2-year-old child, his sturdy, fair-haired son.

Home is a 10-roomed, two-story house overlooking the sea. He has a quiet life. He likes to relax and to do in his hobby of "mending things."

"Trouble is," said Beatty, "the voice that goes over big most of his fans, 'by the way, I've bought the tools I could have bought for less.'"

Human Drama Is "Blue Veil"

Unique drama of the devotion of a bereaved woman who finds happiness in giving service to others after losing her own is the story of "The Blue Veil," feature offering on the screen of the Capitol Theatre this Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Jane Wyman, in the leading role, plays the part of a World War I widow who loses her baby at birth and leaves hospital facing the problem of earning her own living. In a temporary job, she becomes nursemaid for a motherless youngster and finds happiness in being of service to the children of others. As the years go on, she takes on one such duty after another, neglecting more than one chance at romance and marriage. Her self-sacrifice comes to a surprising and warmly dramatic climax.
