Navy's Oldest Ship 'Loomed'

CONSTELLATION, oldest ship in the U.S. Navy—about two months older than its famed ship, the Constitution, lies rotting at its dock in the Charlestown Mass. Navy Yard. A bill pending in Congress that would demolish the 176-year-old frigate, which did service in the war of 1812, the Civil War, the fight against the French privateers, and the Tripoli pirates. The vessel cost $314,000 to build, but it is estimated that more than $4,500,000 would be needed to recondition it.

Canada Should Help Hungry Nations Ensure World Peace Says Webster

lieve that situation."

Mr. Webster, member of the Vancouver Park Board for the past 13 years and its chairman for the last three, in one of the best expressions of CCF policy ever delivered here, said "most of us believe we should back the United Nations and they have the organizations to help hungry people."

"I can't see where there can be any peace of mind in those countries where thousands are going hungry."

"The most intelligent contribution that any nation could give and eventually gain peace throughout the world would be economic aid."

"We have a duty to develop our resources and skills and make them available to others."

In a quiet, yet forceful tone, Mr. Webster pointed out that North America produces 42 per cent of the productive total of the world and "I submit, we must try to establish a more just condition."

"The CCF," he said, "has emphasized the importance of Canada taking a bold position in supporting agencies to assist in feeding millions of starving people."

"For every dollar we have contributed to economic aid in the past few years, we have spent $100 on defence."

"I say this is out of line. Through the UN, there are opportunities to do a great constructive job and assure and maintain peace in the world."

Mr. Webster referred to the apathy of some citizens during election time and suggested that each person "select the political group he thinks corresponds with his personal beliefs, and back them up."

"The CCF," he stated, believes the people should respect the process of democracy adding that people who have taken their democratic rights for granted have lost them in some countries."

He criticized the government for using the Emergency Powers Act when the House was in session and also scored the provincial Legislature for conducting business by order-in-council."

Mr. Webster said discussion is needed on matters pertaining to the country as a whole and "organizations should be encouraged to discuss problems and present them to government."

He backed an earlier statement by Harry Archibald, CCF standard-bearer for Skeena in the Aug. 10 election, that the government has a great responsibility regarding economic affairs of the country.

BENEFIT HUMANITY

Mr. Webster said he believed great scientific developments of today "should be tied up to social services and all new inventions should be used for the benefit of humanity."

"The development and use of new knowledge should not be left with private enterprise. Use science for human welfare."

He also stated that he believed the federal government should give more financial assistance towards education as it did after the war in assisting returned servicemen in their university education."

Mr. Archibald criticized the federal government for failing to assist in the sale of Canada's giant canned salmon surplus until last year.

"I say the government stepped in two years too late," said Mr. Archibald as he went on to state that B.C.'s three basic industries—lumbering, mining and fishing—currently "are going into a slump."

He was also critical of the increased tariffs imposed by the United States recently on Canadian goods and said "Canada signed her death warrant as far as trade is concerned when she signed a pact that all goods must be paid in cash."

Mr. Archibald and Mr. Webster left this morning for Terrace and Burns Lake.

WALLET, TWENTY DOLLARS BECOMES CHICKEN FEED

SMOOTH, O. (AP)—Twenty dollars became just chicken feed Monday for Ray Lintz.

Employee at a mill, he was grinding chicken feed when his wallet containing $20 slipped from his overalls pocket into the grinder. Before he could stop the machine the wallet, and all, had been ground into feed.

Lintz said he would send the bag containing the feed for analysis by U.S. treasury department experts in the hope that he get some of his money back.

Council Backs Police Action In Refusing Chauffeur's Permit

Bootleggers Termed Parasites by Chief

Prince Rupert city council last night gave a vote of confidence to its "police chief" and his RCMP staff when it refused to grant a chauffeur's permit to Pat Mazzie, former taxi driver.

Mazzie, appearing before council, said he had been convicted three times of keeping liquor for sale. Since two other men who had been convicted for the same offence had had their permits restored to them he thought it only fair that he should have his back.

He said in answer to an alderman that he'd had his licence cancelled a year ago for bootlegging. He had been turned down twice he said and when he approached Sgt. Norman, head of the city RCMP detachment, about it he said the sergeant told him he only wanted his licence back so he could bootleg. Mazzie said he resented it. Sgt. Norman, he said, had "jumped down his throat" and told him that while he personally refused to give him his permit back, he could appeal to city council.

MERELY EMPHATIC

Sgt. Norman told council that he hadn't "jumped down Mr. Mazzie's throat" he had merely been emphatic. He had read Mazzie Section 26 of the Motor Vehicle Act which stated that "any chauffeur convicted of keeping liquor for sale or carrying narcotics in a vehicle for hire... who in the opinion of the chief of police was unfit to be a chauffeur... should have his licence cancelled."

"That means cancelled, not suspended," Sgt. Norman told the council. "After that he may apply to the police chief for a new permit and if refused may appeal to the city council."

Sgt. Norman said Mazzie had had four convictions, three in the city and one at Burns Lake, for which Mazzie had paid a total of $2,300 in fines. Mazzie was in his opinion an unfit person to be a chauffeur.

"A bootlegger," the sergeant said, "was a parasite living on the weaknesses of his fellowman. In refusing Mazzie a licence I feel that we are saving both he and the city a lot of money."

Frontline Troops 'Retreat'

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP)—Allied and Communist armies today began pulling back front-line troops all across the battle-blistered Korean front.

United Nations forces started withdrawing at daybreak. Chinese and North Korean Communist units were seen pulling back during the day.

Each side must withdraw two kilometres—about 1 1/4 miles—to form a demilitarized buffer zone across Korea.

Far behind Red lines, the Allies began evacuating islands off both the east and west coasts of North Korea. The islands had served as radar station points, ground control stations for air strikes against the Communists and for air-sea rescue operations.

COMPLETE THURSDAY

In keeping with the armistice signed Monday, the battlefront withdrawal must be completed by 10 p.m. Thursday (6 a.m. PDT). The Allied-held islands must be evacuated by 10 p.m. Aug. 5.

In the early hours of the armistice no violations or incidents were report.

While Allied and Communist soldiers moved freely in the open today, the joint Allied-Communist military armistice commission held its first meeting at Panmunjom to begin supervision of the truce.

Gen. Mark Clark, UN commander, completed signing copies of the truce document.

Marines reported that unarmed Chinese wandered through the new buffer zone and "came close enough to our bunkers to ask for a cigarette."

"We didn't fraternize with them," the marines said.

The Reds, waving flags, went to work in full view of the marines to clean up the battle area around their positions and pick up their dead.

Allied troops are under orders to leave nothing of value.

South Korean units, whose actions were in doubt until President Rhee announced on Monday they would not obstruct the truce for the time being, also began pulling back.

De Gasperi Government Defeated

ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's eight government fell today, cut down by a no-confidence vote. It was the first time the 72-year-old Christian Democrat leader suffered such a defeat since he took the reins of Italy's government on Dec. 10, 1945.

There were howls of delight from the Communist and extreme Socialist left as the 282-to-263 vote was announced.

It was the first time since before the advent of fascism that an Italian government was thus overthrown.

For the weary de Gasperi there remained the formality of offering his resignation to President Luigi Einaudi for the government he had reluctantly agreed to form two weeks ago, following the national elections.

The Italian constitution requires that the government must have the confidence of both chamber and senate.

PILE OF ROCK ON CLEARED GROUND and a partially completed house at Panmunjom give evidence of Red displeasure. As a subtle psychological threat, the Communists halted construction of the house in which the truce was to be signed, immediately upon hearing that war prisoners had been released by Syngman Rhee, but completed it later in time for truce signing last Sunday.

City Assumes Parks Program; Board To Plan and Set Policy

The Prince Rupert Parks board will still set the policy concerning city parks, City Council was told last night.

The question arose after the board of works committee under chairman Ald. Mike Krueger recommended that the city engineer's department take over the operation of the parks board program as requested by the park board a fortnight ago.

Ald. Krueger said the work would be done by the city engineer's department with city equipment and men. The recommendations of the parks board would be followed and all charges made to the parks board's account.

PRISONERS RETURN PURSE WITH ALL MONEY INTACT

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Maybe the wrong people are in jail.

A woman left her purse containing $40 in jail while participating in religious services for the prisoners.

The prisoners turned the purse over to police officers—with the $40 still in it.

Parley May Be Limited To Contributing Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. may press for a United Nations delegation to the Korean peace conference made up exclusively from among the 17 countries which actually fought the Communists.

This was reported under consideration today after Senator William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.) told the Senate "we must not allow neutrals who sat out three years of war" to have a decisive voice in the peace talks, due to begin within 90 days.

Authorities said State Secretary Dulles and his principal advisers have started a close study of plans for the conference.

The UN general assembly has been summoned to meet Aug. 17 to receive a formal report from the UN command on the Korean armistice.

Even if the delegation should be limited to those countries which took part in the fighting, the U.S. might find itself in the minority.

House Opens September 15

VICTORIA (AP)—First session of British Columbia's 24th legislature will open Tuesday, Sept. 15, Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced today.

He said the session would be a regular one and not special as reported earlier.

It will deal with legislation on education costs and changes in liquor act, including proposals for cocktail bars, and changes in motor vehicles and sales tax acts.

902 File Nomination Papers For 265 Seats in Commons

The Liberals have the biggest slate of candidates for the Aug. 10 general election, with the Progressive Conservatives right behind them.

The government party named 264 contestants in Monday's nominations for the 265 House of Commons seats, and the official Opposition put up 250.

Both the big parties in their formal nomination day filings gunned heavily for the Ontario and Quebec seats, where the issue could be decided.

So did the CCF and the Communist Labor Progressives. Social Credit, despite earlier expectations of an eastern invasion, largely stuck to the west.

Social Credit—which picked off the British Columbia administration last year—ran only nine candidates east of the prairies—one in New Brunswick and eight in Ontario. The party had a total of 71 in the running.

All parties nominated a total of 902 compared with 848 in the general election four years ago and the record of 954 in the 1945 voting.

It was divided this way: Liberals, 264; Progressive Conservative, 250; CCF, 172; Social Credit, 71; Labor Progressive, 100; others, 45.

In 1949, with a 262-seat House compared with the 265-seat chamber now following the redistribution of the last session, the Liberals nominated 260 and the Progressive Conservatives 249. The CCF had 180 candidates and the Social Credit 27. The Communists then had only 19.

In Ontario, the Liberals named 84 and the Progressive Conservatives 85. In Quebec, the Liberals put up 75 and the Progressive Conservatives 73.

Behind these provinces came 22-seat British Columbia, which picked up four seats out of redistribution and where 100 candidates jumped into the running. Largely Liberal-held at dissolution, British Columbia will be contested by an almost-equal division of Liberal, Progressive Conservative, Social Credit and CCF opponents.

Help, Don't Hinder Police

THE EXHIBITION of law enforcement and law-breaking in this city on Saturday night is something we do not wish to witness again.

If the citizens of Prince Rupert want to have their town orderly and one of which they can be proud it would help both themselves and the RCMP if they would back the police force, not hamper them.

The RCMP know from observation that people deliberately make a point of going to the lower end of town to watch for incidents. But surely it is not a pleasant sight to see anyone being handled roughly either by a policeman or a fellow citizen and it is our view that the citizens should aid police by keeping away from trouble spots rather than hindering officers in the execution of the law.

The RCMP have been employed by the city to maintain law and order. It is their duty to see that the citizens are protected, not molested.

It is also the duty of the police to see that the city is a safe place in which to live and move about.

With that in mind, it is our opinion that more citizens should respect the uniform of a police officer and help maintain the law, not flout it.

It is a known fact that policing in this city is different than in any other, but the law is the same in every centre and it is our responsibility to see that we obey it and help those entrusted with the duty of enforcing the rules.

Perhaps some of our policemen act too quickly. We do not always know the circumstances involved in investigations but that is no reason to take it upon ourselves to attack or obstruct a policeman. If we don't back the police, we can't expect to have law and order.

The police have their hands full without being distracted by jeering bystanders who are merely satisfying their morbid curiosity. Help, not hindrance, is needed.

Visitors must have looked and listened with disgust at the disgraceful exhibition of milling crowds on Third Avenue last Saturday.

No person, whether he be a policeman or a civilian, likes to be called vile names or become involved in affrays by some who are unable to control their emotions after drinking alcoholic beverages.

It is our opinion that those who cannot control their actions after imbibing should take a good account of themselves before setting out from home.

There is nothing more disgusting than tussles between persons who have been drinking and who, without realizing it because their minds are impaired, might inflict serious injury or permanent scars by fighting for reasons which, in most instances, are obscure.

It would be far more beneficial to all if the citizens—both whites and natives—realized that the police are here to enforce laws approved by our government, and if we break the law we deserve to be punished.

Back the police, avoid trouble, and we'll have a good city in which to live.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

No fewer than five physicians in London are claiming there is on such thing as the disease called floritis. There is though distress causing pains in neck, back and shoulders. This has been confirmed by a psychiatrist who says wives are responsible. But they must nag.

Who was it said: Freedom is what we used to have before we fought wars to save it?

IT'S POSSIBLE

It's been disclosed, in Yukon, that age of a candidate is eighty. We never knew before that in Canada a man can run for the Senate.

At 76, Frank Randall of Lawrence, Mass., has seen fit to retire after devoting 57 years to the business of barbering. When Mr. Randall started, a haircut was 20 cents and a shave a dime. He began about 50 years too soon.

TWICE-TOLD TALES

A general election is at hand, but perhaps a lot of folks have not yet heard this one. A small boy wrote the Almighty asking for $100 for illness in the family. In some way a kind old lady in Ottawa received the letter and sent $5, signing the letter "God." The perplexed youngster wrote in reply: "Dear God. Thanks for the $100. Only next time please don't send the money through Ottawa. They took out $95 for taxes. Sincerely Billy."

Dangerous combination — the old swimming pool and the old swimming pool. If you consistently do your best, the worst won't happen.

SOMETHING VITAL

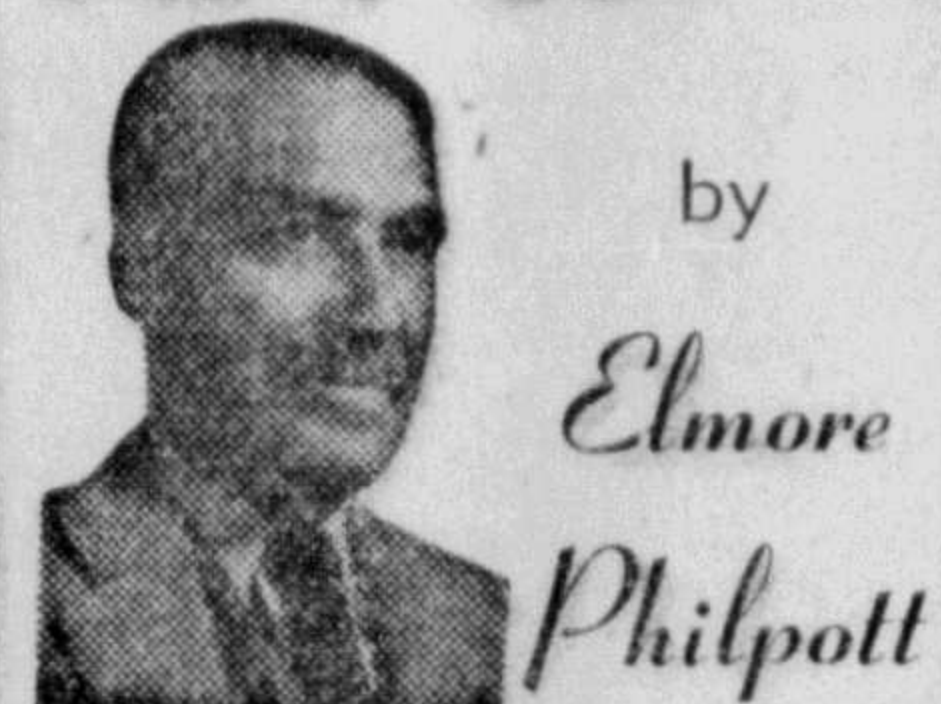

Ninety years ago, Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie, chief justice of B.C. never wearied emphasizing the importance of law enforcement, and the principle is equally vital today. The people, says The Province, must be satisfied justice is done. This means the courts must be open, that their business must be conducted in public and that the press, which represents the public, shall have freedom to be present and freedom to report the proceedings. Publicity is a safeguard.

One sure way to get your wife back from a vacation is to send her a copy of the local paper with any one item clipped out.

THIS MAP SHOWS THE REDISTRIBUTION of seats, based on the 1951 census, which boosts membership in the Commons to 265 from 262. The redistribution gives 84 more seats than the first house after Confederation, which had 181 members. Representation is based on population. The Yukon and Northwest Territories are given special treatment. Previously the vast northern area was represented by one member. In the new Commons the Yukon will have one member and the Territories one member.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

C. D. Howe Letter

NOT LONG AGO somebody said to me, "What have you done in your life of which you are really proud?"

I felt like answering "not much."

Now that I am getting along in years the things which seemed very important a few years back do not seem to loom so large.

But I said "well, when I was a boy on the banks of Lake Ontario I planted a silver poplar tree, and it is now a beautiful giant."

I HELPED to plant a political tree too—and that tree too has grown and grown till it too has become a giant.

That came back to me when, of all the letters I got about my nomination, this one gave me the biggest thrill. It came from Canada's world famous Minister of Trade and Commerce, and it read:

Ottawa, July 6, 1953
Dear Mr. Philpott:

I am glad indeed to learn that you have been nominated to represent the Liberal party in Vancouver South. I wish you every success. As I know that you would be a useful man in Parliament.

I recall that we campaigned together in 1935, when I first ran for Parliament, and that you helped me a great deal in that campaign when I badly needed help.

I hope to have the privilege of speaking in Vancouver later in the campaign, when I will look forward to seeing you.

Yours sincerely
C. D. HOWE

MY MIND goes back to 1935 when, as Mr. Howe said, we stood together. Over a million Canadians were in families whose bread-winners had no jobs.

Trade was at an all time low—you could hardly give wheat away.

While city folks went hungry, farmers sometimes threw eggs against the barn wall and broke them—for the price they brought did not pay for the trouble to take them to town. Many farmer's wives made clothing of flour sacks.

C. D. HOWE's name will be forever associated in Canadian history with a vast industrial expansion, and business prosperity before and after the Hitler war.

It is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Howe is regarded by statesmen all over the world as a veritable genius in the field of getting things done. A wisecracker might say "Howe knows how—and how!"

But I venture to say that one achievement of Mr. Howe's will yet go down in history as the most far-reaching of all the things he has done for the good of Canada.

That was when he devised the plan of "a shelf of public works" to take up the slack when real peace comes, and the world no longer has to divert so much of its production for defence against the threat of war. That plan is now included in the Liberal platform.

Who knows, maybe the great C. D. Howe carried over those ideas from the speeches which were made all over his vast northern constituency by myself.

For that was my message then, just as it is my message now: I said it—but the great C. D. Howe did it.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

How would you like to travel to Egypt, revel in picturesque Cairo, and dream of the fatal beauty of Cleopatra as you barged by moonlight on the waters of the mysterious Nile?

How would you like all this—and release from the Capital heat wave and the turmoil of a federal election campaign as well?

Chances are that, like the immortal Barkis of Charles Dickens, you'd "be willing."

But you still mightn't have the money to finance such an escape from the somewhat uninspiring political contest which currently is embroiling these parts.

Well, who said you'd need money? This invitation is to enjoy Egyptian hospitality with all expenses paid, right from the time at which you step on the TCA trans-Atlantic plane at Dorval to the time a fortnight hence when you disembark at Dorval again with your memories of Cairo, the Nile, and Egyptian hospitality unsteady.

That's the sort of temptation that makes sort characters—at least for the time being—of press gallery correspondents. But here's the full story:

It seems that July 23 was the anniversary of the first arrival at power by Egyptian dictator General Mohammed Naguib. The present Egyptian regime—which means mainly Naguib himself—apparently designed the occasion to be an international holiday, with elaborate tribute being paid to the improvement which the dictatorship regime constituted over the old days of British control.

The obvious problem in plans of this kind was to secure a suitable number of celebrants. With a view to packing the Cairo hotels for the occasion, the Egyptian agents aboard were instructed to issue the most lavish sort of invitations to foreign newspapermen. They made it plain that the correspondents could sit on their hands for the entire period of a fortnight's air tour, so far as paying any of their own expenses was concerned. But the Egyptian diplomats also made it clear that the purpose for which the journalists were being taken buckshee to Cairo was to have a little about the Naguib regime in the western newspapers they represented.

It's to the everlasting credit of the parliamentary press gallery that none of its members could be found who was prepared to sell Britain short and Naguib long. The invitations were peddled with all the enthusiasm of a Fuller Brush salesman by Egyptian Consul-General H. M. El-Hakeem. They found no takers amongst the press gallery's senior members. It wasn't that they didn't want the trip. They just didn't want to pay the price that was implied.

Hitch-Hiker Pushes Driver Out of Truck

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—William Meise, 32, of Allenby, B.C., is in "good" condition in hospital after being pushed out of his moving truck Saturday night by a hitch-hiker.

The truck, a 1950 one-ton panel, crashed and burned 300 yards from where Meise was found unconscious by a Greyhound bus driver, who took him to hospital.

Meise told police the man he picked up was 25 to 30 years of age. In the truck, the hitch-hiker opened a suitcase and offered Meise a drink. Meise refused.

The hitch-hiker then struck him over the head and pushed him from the vehicle.

Increase Sought For August Oil Production

CALGARY (CP)—Value of Alberta's crude oil production during August is expected to amount to around $650,000 a day with crude oil buyers asking for a record $268,950 barrels daily, according to the nominations for purchases submitted to the petroleum and natural gas conservation board.

The August nominations are an increase of 13,283 barrels daily over July and compare with production allowable of only 196,574 barrels daily for August last year.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line accounted for most of the increase, asking for 33,000 barrels daily for line fill and storage, compared with 25,000 barrels daily in July.

Largest bidder was Imperial Oil, asking for 151,250 barrels daily down from its July nomination of 156,250 barrels daily.

Crude oil production in Alberta set a record for the second consecutive week, during the week ended July 20.

Daily average product was 274,029 barrels, compared with the previous record of 265,465 barrels daily during the previous week, and 265,933 barrels daily for the corresponding week last year.

LETTERBOX

CITIZENS' RIGHT

The Editor,

The Daily News:

I wonder how many of our citizens know how crude our present form of law enforcement is getting to be. Saturday night was typical of many previous nights when a man didn't dare stand on the sidewalk or stop and talk to his friends without being told to "get going or we'll throw you in."

One of several similar instances is that of an elderly white man, who was watching the "law" throw someone into the wagon when an officer struts up to him and told him to go home. He said "Okay," turned around and walked over to another corner where he met four of his friends. The officer promptly returned and told him to get going again.

The citizen then asked him if it was a crime for a white man to stand and talk on the street and the officer bluntly retorted with, "There's white men and dirty white men." There's plenty of witnesses to this incident and I'm sure everyone will agree that men of the caliber of this constable should not be allowed to wear the uniform of the RCMP.

Another intolerable incident witnessed by several people occurred after a fracas had started in one of the cafes. Approximately 10 officers came tearing down the sidewalk pushing everyone aside. One man, disliked being pushed without apparent reason and told them so. Immediately he was overpowered by about five police and thrown into the wagon. This man was obviously sober, minding his own business when the law, disliking his manner, threw him in the jail with approximately 10 others. Now a good percentage of the people that were in that particular night should have been there at all, and the opinions whereupon I informed our police that they threw water upon them, they threw water upon them.

How long will our city allow the RCMP to carry on present means of "maintaining order in the city"? The Police were a good softy and with less members, the present RCMP managed to hold the law in a decent responsible manner, in all fairness to the local force, some under mostly under size have been to rude and unreasonable odds to maintain order. I hope that our new mayor B.C. will bring back the Police so we can once again at ease on the streets.

McKelvie Starts Probe To Cut Curbs on Harbor

A tour of all interior Social Credit party groups and memberships was wound up Saturday night by Jim McKelvie, Social Credit candidate in the federal riding of Skeena.

Mr. McKelvie said his trip was a most successful venture especially at the Morrison-Knudsen construction camp at Skins Lake where he addressed several hundred workers. Assisting him there were Bob Wylie and Bill Hodgson, both of Burns Lake.

Other points covered by the Social Credit standard bearer were Prince George, Houston, Telkwa, Smithers, Hazelton and Terrace.

At Terrace Mr. McKelvie had Minister of Public Works P. A. Gagliardi speaking in support of him.

Mr. Gagliardi, who was in the Terrace area on an inspection tour of the Terrace-Kitimat highway project, said that the highway would definitely be completed as quickly as possible.

One point which Mr. McKelvie brought out in his numerous speeches was that the Prince Rupert-Prince George highway would be brought into the trans-Canada highway system so that costs of construction and maintenance would be shared by the federal government.

Importance of this plan, he said, was that at the present moment British Columbia itself has 23,000 miles of provincial roads to maintain.

Mr. McKelvie said investigations into the telephone and telegraph systems in the Skeena riding had shown that improvements were urgently needed. The Social Credit party intended to attend to this as soon as they got into power.

Mr. McKelvie said he personally was conducting an inquiry to see how restrictions on Prince Rupert as a world port could be removed. He said he had had representations from Peace River grain operators asking him to check into the freight and insurance rates that presently prevent Prince Rupert from competing with southern ports.

Mr. McKelvie will be speaking in the Canadian Legion auditorium Wednesday night on the same platform as Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

He will leave next Monday to fulfill an engagement at Kitimat on August 4. Other meetings will be held at Kamano and Kamano Bay. Mr. McKelvie will return August 6 when he will make another swing through Smithers, Telkwa, Houston and Burns Lake.

Noted Writer Mrs. Livesay Dies at 78

TORONTO (CP)—Florence Randall Livesay, 78, poet and newspaper woman, died in hospital here today.

She had suffered injuries last Friday when she fell while travelling by bus from her home in Grimsby, Ont., to Toronto.

Mrs. Livesay was the widow of J. F. B. Livesay, general manager of The Canadian Press from 1919-1939, who died nine years ago. They married in Winnipeg in 1908 when Mr. Livesay was manager of the Western Associated Press, pioneer co-operative news-gathering association and forerunner of CP.

They had two daughters, Dorothy (Mrs. Duncan Macnair) now of Vancouver, one of Canada's best known creative writers, and Sophie (Mrs. James U. Stewart) of Newtonards, Northern Ireland, an artist.

Born in Compton, Que., Nov. 2, 1874, Mrs. Livesay started newspaper work with the Ottawa Journal, went to South Africa after the Boer War to cover the post-war period, and later worked on the old Winnipeg Telegram and the Winnipeg Free Press.

She was a writer of sensitive verse. Her publications include "Songs of Ukraine," "Shepherd's Purse," "Saviour of Salt," and "Marsilia," a novel translated from the Ukrainian.

In 1947 she edited a collection of her husband's literary papers under the title "The Making of a Canadian," introduced by a finely sensitive memoir.

Besides her daughters she is survived by a sister, Helen Randall of Vancouver, and three brothers, including Philip of Vernon.

Dredging Model

VANCOUVER (CP)—A large scale model of Vancouver harbor will be constructed at the University of British Columbia to study effects of dredging to the first narrows, tidal fluctuations and navigational conditions. Present plans call for removal of 8,560,000 cubic yards of silt from the bottom of the first narrows.

Law May be Drafted City to Control Dogs

Council is seriously considering drafting a bylaw to control stray dogs in the city. At the only bylaw dealing with dogs within the city of Prince Rupert, all dogs must be licensed.

After issued by the federal government of agriculture about months ago to keep all dogs on leashes because of threat is still in effect.

Mayor Gomez broached the idea during "new business" session and said that there were many dogs running loose in the city and polluting.

Mr. R. W. Long read the proposed bylaw in the city council. It provides that all dogs must be without a licence, and that the owner, and not the dog, shall be liable to be impounded and destroyed.

Reclamation Experiment Underway

DELHI (Reuters)—About 100 miles south of the Kirakud of Sambalpur, on the fringe of the rich forest reserve, a reclamation experiment is being carried out with tigers, elephants and other wild animals.

The police committee, under chairmanship of Ald. Gomez, recommended that the tender of R. Rahner for painting the exterior of the public convenience and the court room of $130 be accepted. Also agreed was that the exterior of police office and the exterior of the women's jail be stuccoed at an estimated cost of $450.

Ald. Mrs. Kay Smith and Ald. Mike Krueger were appointed delegates to the U.B.C.M. convention in October. As the deadline for resolutions to be presented at the convention has been set at July 31, council decided to hold a special meeting at 5 p.m. Wednesday, July 29 to consider resolutions.

Moose Swamped 23-12 By Hard Hitting Chums

The hard-hitting Conrad Street Chums battled a scrappy Moose team to gain a 23-12 victory in a Little League Baseball Association fixture at Algonia Park last night.

The Moose went all the way down their batting order in the first inning to bring in four runs but Jack Rudolph led the Chums into the fray with a smashing home run way out over centre field. His team mates scored another three tallies to tie the score.

In the second inning the Moose gathered one more run and their pitcher P. Halvorsen struck out the first Chum to face him, picked out an easy grounder to take the second but was submerged as Jack Rudolph started an uprising again. Rudolph was the first of seven Chum batters Halvorsen had to face before the side was retired with another seven runs scored. Charley Lindstrom, who pitched the entire game for the Chums, blanked his opponents in the top of the third and his team got him four more runs in their half of the inning.

In the fourth Moose revived as a walk, two hits and another walk brought in another run to put Lindstrom in a tight spot as the bases were loaded. However, the Chum hurler settled down and after a short popout to short left was fielded he struck out the two remaining batters.

The Chums brought in another four runs in their half and although the Moose got those back in their half of the fifth the Conrad Street gang added another four in the bottom of the fifth. Moose were held to two tallies in the top of the sixth.

Lindstrom for the Chums gave up 12 hits, 9 walks and hit the same batter, J. Oskey, twice while striking out 10. P. Halvorsen who pitched the first three innings for the Moose gave up 7 hits, walked only one and hit one batter, struck out 5 giving up 15 of the runs. Eddy Eyford who took the mound in the fourth for the Moose, allowed 5 hits, fanned 2 and walked none for the other 2 runs. The fans saw seven good infield plays, six fly balls caught and watched 20 batters pulled.

Seals Trim Chinese A's

Oceanside Cannery Gold Seals took the measure of Chinese Athletics, 15-9 last night in softball game played at Gyro Park.

Athletics led off with one run in the first inning and Chinese A's pitcher Justin Huang held the Gold Seals scoreless in the bottom of the inning.

A's added another tally in the top of the second but the Seals came back to break the tie and go ahead in the bottom of the third.

Seal's opening pitcher Jack McGregor was hit in the eye by a foul ball in the third inning and switched to catching while Tommy Sedgewick went to the mound for two innings. McGregor came back to pitch the remainder of the game.

A's took the lead again in the fifth adding four runs but Al Dean's homer in the bottom of the sixth started a Seal rally that saw eight runs come in.

McGregor held the A's scoreless in the top of the seventh.

Most valuable player for the A's was Wally Mar at short who time after time saved the day for his team mates. In the bottom of the sixth Seal's Ken Johnson hit a line drive to short that Wally had to dive for but he held on to the ball. It was the most sensational catch of the game.

Ronnie Yuen made a good job of catching for the A's and Ken Johnson was behind the plate for the Seals for four innings.

Umpire was Matty Sedgewick. Tomorrow night Oceanside Cannery Seals meet Prince Rupert All-Stars in a game that should be well worth seeing.

Many of the city's veteran softballers are slated to be out on the field and game time is at 7 p.m. at Gyro park.

TWO-YEAR-OLD LIBBIE JACKSON thinks it's a little strange that fish should be bigger than she, and she's trying to make sure that the "monstrous" scaly specimen is really something that might be served for her supper. The 22 1/4-pound lake trout, caught in Winthrop, Me., is 41 inches "tall" and measures 21 1/2 inches in girth.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By JACK HAND

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—The good people of Cooperstown went home from Doubleday Field mumbling to themselves—"So this is the team that's going to beat out the Yankees?" They had a point, too, for the Chicago White Sox staged a weird exhibition of sleepwalking Monday on their visit to baseball's birthplace.

It was only an exhibition game, of course, and chances are the Sox will all make like Hornsby and Cobbs tonight when they play the Red Sox at Fenway Park.

Paul Richards, the manager, talked about his ball clubs as he squirmed on the bench while Cincinnati scored four runs in the first inning. Every time he looked up a ball was dropping in front of an outfielder or rolling into the overflow crowd for a ground rules double.

Under the circumstances, it was hard to keep your mind on any pennant race. "Things never work out the way you think in the spring," he said.

LOCATING THE FISH

UNLESS YOU KNOW A STREAM'S BEST FISH HIDE-OUTS, IT WILL PAY YOU TO MAKE A SILENT APPROACH WITH THE SUN AT YOUR BACK. WHEN CLOSE ENOUGH TO SEE THE BOTTOM, THROW YOUR SHADOW ACROSS THE WATER. IF THAT DOESN'T SCARE THE FISH, STAMP THE BANK OR TOSS A FEW STONES IN THE WATER. SOMETIMES YOU WON'T SEE THE FISH BUT YOU MAY SEE HIS DEPARTING WAKE. RETURN LATER OR NEXT DAY WITH CAUTION TO FISH WHERE THE QUIETEST FISH HAVE RETURNED TO THEIR FAVORITE HIDE-OUTS.

WHERE YOU CATCH A FISH IN A CHOICE HIDING PLACE, ANOTHER FISH WILL TAKE ITS POSITION SO FISH IT ON LATER TRIPS.

OUTDOORS With Marty

Some of our spinning tackle enthusiasts are meeting difficulty in efforts to get out that extra long cast. The angler gets well set, rears back, and then really lets go; and the lure flies off into the middle distance while the line birds nests around the butt guide! This happens because a lure of too great weight to balance the light line is employed, and can only keep on resulting in disaster. Never use a lure over one quarter ounce with lines of six pound test or less.

It is also wise to stay at the half ounce mark at all times; the use of lead to gain depth is not for spinning tackle, which rigging is solely for use against active fish which will defeat themselves by their own efforts to gain freedom.

The spinning expert knows the limitations of his outfit and will not pit it against the bottom feeders, which are frequently the more sluggish fishes who will sit tight downstairs and defy all efforts to raise them on the slender mono-filament. Better leave this work for the spool type reel. Be careful to examine the guides on your spinning rod, for they are taking almost as bad a beating from nylon line abrasion as the pick-up arm on the reel does, should you notice the line showing very fine shreds hanging from itself, watch out brother, you have trouble! It is useless to merely buy another line and install it, find out the places where the line grooves are forming and make necessary repairs without delay. This goes for all types of rods after heavy usage with nylon, particularly the braided lines; but this columnist is not trying to disparage nylon, it is an excellent product and a great boon to all.

It is noticed that a few of the newer brethren of the rod are not taking as many fish as they would like. Perhaps they will get many more strikes by bearing in mind that a large proportion of a fish's feed is alive and moving; just try holding the line over the forefinger and "feeling" the weight of the sinker and bait, keep up a gentle lifting movement of a foot or so, and when sufficient sensitivity of touch is developed the angler will actually feel the fish "lift" the bait before trying to make off with it.

At this time the fishes mouth is closed around the bait, and a smart strike will set the hook. Very often the fish has already sensed a certain resistance to his movement when the angler first feels the bite and is just expelling the bait as the angler strikes, consequence is another missed fish and our tyro mistakenly thinks the fish are only nibbling and not biting.

Old timer Bert Wouden is getting good mixed bags of dories, cutthroats and rainbows off the sandbars in the Kwinitsa, right near the Highway bridge; worms and salmon are the preference on the receding tide. Several of the faithful every bit as avid as the commercial men for news of the albacore tuna run recently sighted many miles to the south. Marty quite anxious for another try at these worthy battlers whose initial dash when hooked is rarely less than 400 feet; woe betide he who challenges these warriors with reel in poor shape or line that is not full strength, it's an expensive lesson!

Only five weeks and some of the hunting will be open season. It's time to check up on license equipment and such, and did you take care of that sighting job on the rifle?

When you hit the jackpot on trout, just stop to think that by taking out too many you are removing good sport that will never replenish itself in your lifetime, and that in spite of all the eggs that a trout deposits per hatch, it is believed on good authority that only two trout of each hatch ever reach spawning age.

Yacht Club habitués and others feel some concern for safety of those fast boat folk who dash out into the shipping lane at high speed, there were several "near-misses" during the weekend, and the wash which sets moored boats to dancing is disconcerting to people dining aboard.

Has your engine lost its new car pep? Re-power with...

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

TCP*, a Shell-discovered additive now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, actually re-powers your engine by stopping short-circuiting of spark plugs and controlling pre-ignition. Gives up to 15% more power... increases spark plug life up to 150%.

Today's driving—often at low speeds in traffic around town—increases the amount of combustion deposits, which actually short-circuit spark plugs and cause pre-ignition of the fuel-air mixture.

Because these deposits accumulate in all engines—both old and new—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP is essential to keep your engine delivering power—because the TCP additive actually stops power-crippling effect of these deposits.

Today, Shell Premium with TCP is available in this area, but only from your Shell Dealer.

Electronic Plan

Being Studied

For Future Roads

NEW YORK (AP)—The happy auto driver of the future may be able to relax and enjoy the scenery without even glancing at the road.

The backseat driver, and jokes about same, may become as obsolete as the dinosaur.

You may be able to zoom along a superhighway on a foggy day watching a television show and with nothing to worry about but the cool drink in your hand.

You'd have no worries about staying on the road, passing other cars, or smash-ups with other carefree drivers.

All of this may become reality through the magic of electronics.

A model five-foot car electronically equipped now is being put through its automatic driving paces by Dr. V. K. Zworykin, television and electronic scientist of the Radio Corporation of America.

Zworykin and his assistants at RCA's David Sarnoff research centre in Princeton, N.J., have a laboratory car which can:

1 Steer itself along a prescribed route.

2 Stop itself when it approaches a metal obstacle.

3 Turn out of its own lane to pass a slower car.

In miniature, the scientists are working out a system which could be applied to superhighways of the future so that passenger cars could operate the same way.

The system calls for a two-lane highway with an electric cable buried in the concrete in the middle of each lane. Each cable would set up a magnetic field of a certain frequency.

The cars of the future could be equipped with two coils, one on each side, to pick up the electrical waves from the cables.

If the coil on one side gets more of the signal than the coil on the other, electronic equipment controlling the steering gear would bring the car back on course.

For passing other cars, the two parallel road cables would be connected at frequent intervals with diagonal wires.

The presence of a stalled car or a slowly moving car ahead of yours would be signalled by "radio tail" sending up warning signals.

When your car picks up the warning, it is shunted over one of the diagonals to the passing lane.

Bodies of Soldiers Not Shown Reporters

Here is a glimpse back to the days of Stalin's war against Hitler—and some of the questions about it that are still unanswered. Eddy Gilmore, who has just come out of Russia after serving 11 years there as an AP correspondent, wrote this uncensored article while en route home to the United States.

By EDDY GILMORE

PARIS (AP)—At the end of the Russian-German war I was in Moscow with one mighty conclusion and two huge question marks. The conclusion—The Russian people love their country, no matter who's in charge. And they'll fight for it and fight well.

The questions:

1. Where are all the dead I never did see on numerous visits to the front from 1942 to 1945?

2. Why didn't the Germans ever seriously bomb Moscow?

Time and again we would read of a tremendous victory and how

Truce to Mean Some Savings In Defence Costs—St. Laurent

By The Canadian Press

Prime Minister St. Laurent says Canada should continue her defence build-up until no possible aggressor would dare attack her or her allies.

In a political campaign speech Monday night at London, Ont., the prime minister said the Korean truce will mean some savings in defence costs, such as ammunition, but there must be more than an armistice before there can be any substantial reduction in Canada's $2,000,000,000-a-year defence budget.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, was in his home riding of Carleton, Ont., for a rough-and-tumble nominating convention at which all four candidates spoke from the same platform.

Later, in a free-time political broadcast over a CBC network, Mr. Drew said a Progressive Conservative government would shear $400,000,000 from income taxes. Tax exemption for a married man would be raised from $2,000 to $3,000, for a single person from $1,000 to $1,500. The other $100,000,000 of the promised total $500,000,000 reduction in taxes would be met by cuts in indirect taxes, he said.

At Winnipeg, where a polio epidemic is raging, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said a national health insurance plan, advocated by the CCF, has become the No. 1 issue of the election campaign.

He said an individual in Manitoba now has no assurance, if struck by polio, that his hospital and medical expenses will be met.

Mr. Coldwell called on the Liberals to state their stand on hospital insurance before the elections Aug. 10.

Mr. St. Laurent told an applauding audience of 3,500 that if the Liberals are returned to power Aug. 10, he would continue to build up Canada's armed services. If this would help to prevent war, he would feel he had done his duty and that defence expenditures would be money well spent.

He contended that a Progressive Conservative pledge to cut defence expenditures by $250,000,000 was "contempt of Parliament."

"Those defence expenditures were authorized by Parliament as recently as last May, and not one Conservative suggested at that time that they should be reduced."

Mr. Drew quoted the prime minister as saying that Canada's economic strength, stature and unity had all been achieved while the Liberal party was in office.

"Did you ever hear such utterly incurable modesty?" Mr. Drew asked.

From the way the Liberal talked, one would think everything came about under a Liberal government. But the CPR, CNR, CBC and unemployment insurance all had come into being while Conservative governments were in power.

SCREEN ★ FLASHES

LONDON — British actor Robert Morley says his mother-in-law is the sort of person who drives 20 miles to buy the right kind of Gruyere cheese.

The mother-in-law so defined is Gladys Cooper, for 40 years one of the most beautiful actresses on the British stage. Miss Cooper, now 63, is still appearing regularly in the west and as the star of Noel Coward's Relative Values.

As far back as the First World War, Miss Cooper had a special place as an actress. A London columnist says men who were boys when she was a girl "will never forget the incomparable profile on the glossy postcards, the mother of all pin-ups."

Her stage triumphs included The Letter, The Last of Mrs. Cheyne and The Indifferent Shepherd.

Morley's tribute to Miss Cooper came at a London luncheon marking publication of a book about the actress called "Without Veils." Morley, star of stage and screen, said in his speech:

"Proposing Miss Cooper's health is rather like proposing the wealth of the Aga Khan. She has a wonderful ability to master health. I have never known her to complain about anything except a slight headache. She never sits down and hardly eats at all, and that is why she keeps so well."

MINSTREL SHOWS may be making a comeback, if the efforts of these two vaudevillians have anything to do with it. Plenty of sex appeal is combined with the old-time razzmatazz to keep the audience applauding. The gal with the legs is Mary Matsubara, while Masao Egawa handles the black-face routine to the delight of a mixed Japanese-English-speaking group at the Nichi Geki theatre in Tokyo.

"Dumb" Play Makes Champion Go Down

The offensive power in today's deal was so well distributed between the two sides that none of the players knew for sure who was sacrificing. Mr. Champion finally landed in a hopeless six spade contract which he would have made if Mr. Dale had not defended carefully.

The opening lead was the king of diamonds and Mr. Champion ruffed on the board and discarded the ten of hearts from his own hand. He then led the jack of spades from rummy and overtook it with the queen.

Next came the jack of hearts and this was the critical moment for the defence. It was a terrific temptation for Mr. Dale to put up the ace but he was not stampeded into making that play.

Counting the hand instead of depending on "instinct," he recalled that Mr. Champion had played the ten of hearts at trick one. His own hearts, under the ace, were four, trey, deuce. After looking at dummy's hearts it was clear that Mr. Abel had queen-eight doubleton.

If Mr. Dale delayed the ace of hearts, all of remaining hearts on the board would be good and the ace of trumps was still there for the necessary entry.

Mr. Dale therefore ducked the heart lead and although Mr. Champion made the correct guess and went up with dummy's king, he still had no chance for his contract. Not a bad bargain for Mr. Dale, to give up one trick to get three—especially playing against a doubled slam contract.

"A very dumb play, to duck that heart lead," said Mr. Champion. (Every play that works to his disadvantage is a dumb play.) "If I'd had only one club loser—with something like a 10 9 7 in clubs—you would have been giving up the setting tricks."

"Not so," replied Mr. Dale. "If I go up with the ace of hearts, you'd have enough good hearts left in dummy to discard all your clubs including the ace."

Lost and Found

STRASBOURG, Sask. —Mrs. H. Anderson lost her wedding and engagement rings during a picnic a year ago at nearby Long Lake. This summer, when the family returned to the same site, the rings were found in the sand—untarnished and good as new.

We know one bellicose dog who won't welcome the latest thing in aluminum: an electric dog-prod. Next time Towser rushes into battle, you can nonchalantly produce this two-foot aluminum rod and apply it to the handiest part of the dog's anatomy. The resulting shock is quite harmless, but they say a few "treatments" cure the pugnacity of even the toughest tyke.

Speaking of electricity, Canadians can take pride that the largest stranded electrical cable ever made for an overhead transmission line has been delivered by Alcan's Shawinigan Falls plant to the West Coast, to carry power to our new smelter now a-building at Kitimat. ST. LAURENT

In 1949 the Canadian people expressed their confidence in St. Laurent and the Liberal program. This glance at the record reveals some of Canada's tremendous accomplishments under St. Laurent's leadership. No other country has fought a war, balanced its budget, reduced its debt, cut taxes—all at the same time.

Now there's another big job ahead. And Louis St. Laurent has proved that he, more than ever, is the Canadian best fitted to do the job.

of 250,000 shares at 30c a share in the new Company of

ALLIED MINES LIMITED (N.P.L.)

Who recently acquired the Allied Mining and Development Co. Ltd. along with additional claims.

The men responsible have held this mine for 14 years. They have slowly developed it and bought additional surrounding claims with merit, to make it a producer. It is in the Adams Lake area, northeast of Kamloops—an area known to be well mineralized.

It yields SILVER, LEAD, ZINC, GOLD and BARITE in three large bodies, recoverable and useful in many ways, including the drilling of oil wells. It is close to transportation, thereby insuring economical shipping. Men are already at work on the property, under the management of the resident Consulting Engineer, W. S. Hamilton, A.C.S.M., M.C.I.M.

Funds for the preliminary work are already on hand, and the returns from the sale of these 250,000 shares will be used for the completion of the mill and other necessary equipment and for further development, including diamond drilling.

The property is free and clear of all encumbrances, and has no other kind of shares, mortgages or debentures.
