Shoreworkers After Increase For First Time In Two Years

Demands Presented To Fish Companies

Shoreworkers of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union have presented operators of the fishing industry basic demands for a two-year renewal of their working agreement.

The union is reported to be asking a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase for male workers, although this has not been confirmed by spokesmen for the workers or the operators.

Other benefits sought include a shorter work week and sick leave, and an increase for women workers.

Present wage scale ranges from $1.36 to $1.59 an hour for men and from $1.04 to $1.29 for women, depending on experience.

Negotiations are expected to get underway before the March 9 UFAWU annual convention in Vancouver, T. A. Parkin, organizer here for the shoreworkers and fishermen locals of the union, said today.

First fisheries which negotiations will affect is the halibut industry. The season opens May 17 and more than 500 workers in Prince Rupert will be affected.

Most operators here declined to comment on the proposed UFAWU agreement but it is reported they will take a firm stand against granting further increases.

Mr. Parkin said the new demand was the first increase sought in two years. While not saying what the terms of the new proposal were, he declared: "The union will certainly seek an increase."

Increased wages, prices to fishermen and the problem of markets will be some of the uppermost topics of discussion at the UFAWU convention, said Mr. Parkin.

"Markets must be found or the industry will go on the rocks," he stated, adding that one outcome of the convention "very likely" will be a public meeting to which other organizations such as boards of trade, business and management officials will be invited to discuss the question of foreign markets for fish.

"An extension of long-term credit to the United Kingdom is one suggestion we will put forward," said Mr. Parkin.

"Right now we are depending completely on U.S. markets for our fish. What we need are foreign markets and we are putting the onus on the Canadian government to help us get them."

"Unless we get such markets, it doesn't matter whether or not operators and the union agree on prices or wages—there just won't be any fishing.

"A few cents a pound more paid to fishermen isn't going to make any difference if there is a market."

Meanwhile, one local operator said he had "lots of orders" for fish—sole fillets, specifically—"but when I tell them our price the orders are cancelled immediately."

He said the U.S. "would certainly buy our fish if we could compete" with prices asked by such foreign countries as Iceland.

Icelandic sole, he said, is landed at Seattle for 26 cents a pound. It cost that much to prepare a pound of the same fish for market here, not including packaging and transportation.

Delegates to the UFAWU convention from the shoreworkers here are Paul Taranger, president; Ray Gardiner, secretary; Mrs. V. Patrick and Mrs. Verna Parkin, both members of the women's auxiliary but also certified union members.

Fishermen meet Wednesday to select their delegates.

B.C. Giving Floats To Ottawa

The Cow Bay floats are going to be turned over to the federal government.

This was disclosed in the Legislature by Works Minister Gagliardi in answer to a question on the order paper by George Hills, CCF member for Prince Rupert.

Mr. Gagliardi said plans are being prepared to complete the transfer.

In his question, Mr. Hills stressed that the floats are in dire need of repair and urged action before there is loss of life.

This was recommended earlier by the Prince Rupert Liberal Association. City council, too, has made requests to both the provincial and the federal government for action.

Planks, daily are washed away, rotten timbers are breaking up by the pounding sea. The floats are used by hundreds of vessels for short stays during the fishing season. There is no other place for them to harbor near city centre, for easy access to stores and shopping.

Vice-President Seeks Leadership of IWA

Referendum Ballot To Begin Among Union Members

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER.—Stewart Alsbery's leadership of the British Columbia district International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) is being challenged by the district's first vice-president, Joe Morris of Duncan, B.C.

A referendum ballot to decide the presidency will begin within 10 days among 32,000 members of B.C.'s largest union. Results will be tabulated within 60 days.

Alsbery is seeking his third term as provincial president of the IWA. Morris has held his vice-president's position for the last four years.

Winner will be IWA president for the next two years.

Four men were nominated for the IWA presidency at the annual convention being held here. One of the nominees, S. M. Hodgson of Vancouver, was eliminated by secret ballot.

TWO ELIMINATED
Its by-laws require that when more than two men are nominated, a vote be taken eliminating one each time until only two names are left.

Nominations followed a demand by Al Hartung, IWA international president from Portland, that the woodworkers "quit bickering and start working as a team."

Executives of the B.C. section of the IWA earlier lashed back at President Alsbery for calling for a housecleaning of "self-seeking" members.

Alsbery said in the opening speech at the four-day 16th annual convention that some officers were more concerned with person gain than union welfare.

He did not name any member of his four-man executive in the speech.

A DIS-SERVICE
Secretary-Treasurer George Mitchell said later: "I believe the president has done a disservice to this organization and I think the delegates will have plenty to say on the matter before the convention ends."

The three union vice-presidents—Morris, Stu Hodgson and Fred Fieber—said they were surprised at the accusations.

Fieber, third vice-president, said delegates would not sit back and let "accusations of such magnitude" pass unchallenged.

Second Vice-President Hodgson said "charges of such nature should have been made at a place in the convention where delegates, and more especially executive members, could have replied."

30 Mounties Going to Kootenays

VICTORIA (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner says the British Columbia government is sending 30 RCMP constables into Sons of Freedom Doukhobor country.

"We are not anticipating trouble, we just want to be prepared," he told reporters Friday. More mounties would "ensure security in areas where incidents have occurred recently."

Ottawa will supply 20 RCMP and 10 will be taken from the mounties' B.C. detachment.

Mr. Bonner said the government had requested additional mounties about six weeks ago. About that time, a series of power pole blastings occurred.

Three CCF members from the Kootenays have suggested at the current session of the Legislature that the government crack down on the fanatical Sons.

Mr. Bonner said the new move is "in conjunction with general measures" being planned, but he declined to discuss them at this time.

No Extra Money For Highway 16

VICTORIA (CP)—In a return filed in the Legislature for E. T. Kenney (L-Skeena), Works Minister Gagliardi said $2,000,000 was budgeted for the northern trans-provincial highway in the 1952-53 fiscal year.

Of this, $387,483 was spent between April 1, 1952, and August 1, 1952, and $1,164,935 between August 1, when Social Credit took office, and February 1 this year.

A total of $447,581 remains to be spent.

Car Topples Over Cliff Killing Two

MERRIT (CP)—Two women were killed Friday when a car carrying four persons toppled over a 50-foot cliff on the highway near here.

Dead are Mrs. Edward Thomas and Mrs. Malcolm Quinn, both of Lytton.

Edward Thomas lay pinned under wreckage of the car for more than eight hours. He was reported in critical condition in hospital here.

Quinn scaled the cliff and walked a mile and a half to a ranch house for help.

Paratrooper Caught by Gear Lands Safely

EDMONTON (CP)—Private Jim Bodner, 18, of Mission City, B.C., took more than 30 minutes to reach ground after leaving a plane in a parachute jump Friday in a joint Army-RCAF airborne manoeuvre.

Jumping with a second wave of paratroopers in "Exercise Bulldog," Bodner was caught when his gear became entangled.

He hung under the aircraft until its third sweep over the target. The plane crew then cut him loose and he made a controlled jump.

Medical officers were surprised Bodner was not frost-bitten in the 20-below temperature at the landing scene, Norman Wells in Northwest Territories, 950 miles north of Edmonton.

PRICE OF CIGARETTES PUT BACK TO 40 CENTS

Wholesale tobacco distributing firm here received a telegram from its head office late yesterday saying the federal government has refused to absorb the excise tax on stocks on in warehouses and tobacco manufacturers will continue to sell cigarettes at the former price basis until stocks are sold up.

Asked the meaning, one city grocer said: "It means we're to continue to sell smokes for 40 cents a pack until our stocks are gone. We can't afford to sell them at a loss." At stores, consequently, have raised the price of cigarettes from 36 cents back to 40 cents.

DON HARTWIG... his big moment tonight

Crucial Game Tonight May Decide Cage League Winner

The most crucial game of the basketball season is scheduled for 8:30 tonight at the Civic Centre gym between point-leading Mansons and second-place Gordon & Anderson of the city senior league.

Don Hartwig's jewellers, playing their last scheduled league game tonight, automatically become league champions if they win tonight. Then Alex Bill's hardware squad plays two remaining games with CCCs, third team in the league, for second place and a chance in the playoffs. CCCs must win both games to tie G-A's, then play a rubber game to decide the second-best winner.

On the other hand, if Bill pilots his squad to victory tonight, he must remain victorious in the other two games for league championship. If G-As win one and drop one to CCCs, first place is all tied and will call for a sudden-death deciding fixture.

It was decided at the beginning of the season that whichever team wins the league championship gets the right to lead Prince Rupert into the senior B final playoffs here under colors of the Challengers.

Another factor which heightens the rivalry between the two teams tonight is the personal friction between team members and coaches which has increased with each league game.

Grande Prairie Backs Railway

ALTHOUGH we are late in using it, we think that in view of renewed efforts to promote a railway from Hazelton into the Peace River country, it is timely to carry a letter written a little while ago by Page Rideout of Nelson to the editor of the Record-Gazette at Peace River, Alta.

It will be recalled that Mr. Rideout has supported the scheme for many years. His letter follows:

"I draw your attention to this news item: 'Construction of a two-pronged railway through Peace River country to Prince Rupert and Alaska is being urged by Grande Prairie Chamber of Commerce. Chamber President J. O. Patterson has written the Edmonton Chamber to support its stand for a railway to Alaska. Patterson has also appealed in his letter for support for a long-held hope of Peace River residents that a rail link with the Pacific coast will be built.'

"I am sure there are a few of my old neighbors still left in the northland who will understand, after reading the above news item, how I was knocked into Wonderland as to where Grande Prairie has been during the last 20 years. When I recall the time, money and energy Grande Prairie exhausted on the Brule Lake line, the Obid cutoff, the Monkman Pass and other such schemes, I am forced to the conclusion had Grande Prairie devoted that energy with the other people of the north on our western route, we would have had our railway completed to our port on the northern Pacific long before this.

"While driving from this city of Nelson to the smelter city of Trail, one passes four large dams and power plants all on one river. While passing these power plants, I am forced to recall the vast waterpower, coal and mineral fields, and fertile valleys that are lying between Hudson's Hope and Hazelton. Then again I am lost in Wonderland as to what is wrong up north.

"But after 20 years of chasing the coast outlet by the most feasible route ghost, I am pleased beyond words to learn Grande Prairie has at last got that kink out of its neck and turned its gaze to the west. May one pray to high heaven Grande Prairie will multiply and work not only to procure our railway to the Pacific but to build up our own ocean port on the northern Pacific for all of Canada."

Thank you, Mr. Rideout! So say we.

OTTAWA DIARY By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

One of the problems that is worrying Mr. St. Laurent these days figuratively speaking, of course—is where his next Cabinet Minister is going to come from? Perhaps not the next Cabinet Minister. Nor even the one after that. But certainly the two or three still to follow.

For before election day dawns there are going to be a number of yawning and conspicuous gaps in the Ministry. External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson is slated to follow Trygve Lie as Secretary-General of the United Nations, unless present plans miscarry.

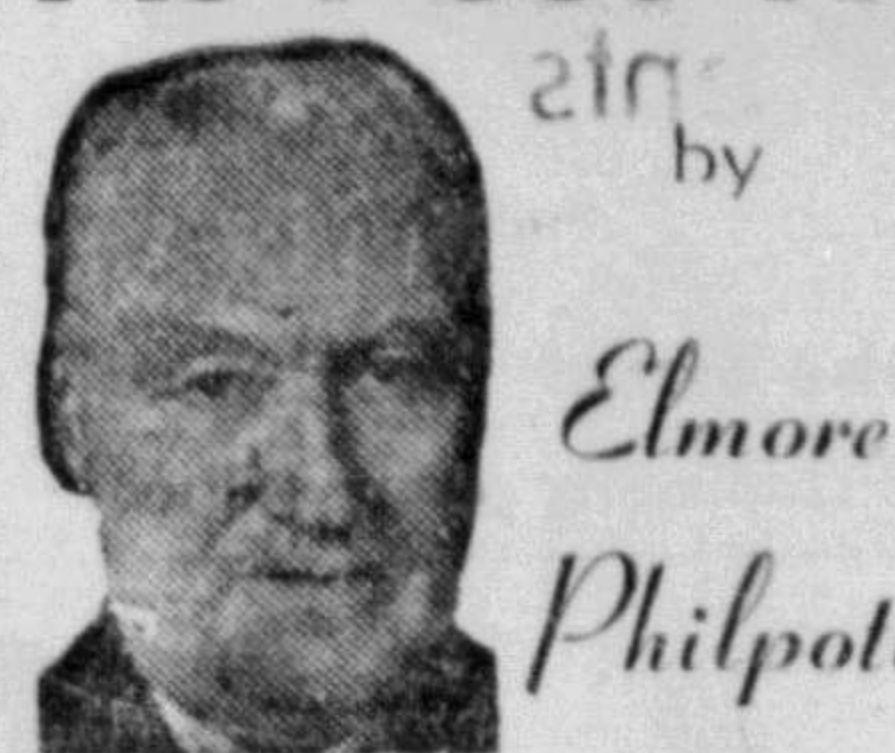

Finance Minister Abbott is retiring to private life and a lucrative law practice in Montreal. Veterans "Jimmie" Gardiner and Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe will stay through the election, but for a considerable time past rumor has associated the name of National Revenue Minister J. J. McCann with the Senate and of Public Works Minister Alphonse Fournier with a judgeship. More recently, reports from Alberta have suggested that the future Resources Minister George Prudham is far from clear.

The loss of at least two of the foregoing statesmen is going to confront the Prime Minister with real replacement difficulties. Cabinet Ministers are easy to find; almost every govern-

Secrecy Undermine UN

EVERY new move the top Social Credit leaders make at Ottawa shows they are part of the internationalist isolationist gang which is out to wreck the UN.

Solomon Low is the only leader of any political party in the entire British Commonwealth to support the insane plan by U.S. isolationist extremists to clap a naval blockade on China. Both British parties have sharply rejected this plan in advance. The Foreign Office has taken the extreme step of issuing a grave statement setting forth its reasons for Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan and India have all done likewise.

But the Social Credit leader publicly eggs on the U.S. extremists even though John Foster Dulles himself deprecates the crazy plan.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hansell is the storm centre of a parliamentary controversy arising from another fierce attack against UN, he is accused of having made in a Manitoba paper.

IT IS no secret that from the very beginning the top federal Secrecds have been dead set against the United Nations.

But the new attitude has now changed from negative hostility, petty pin-pricking and pettifoggery, to one of calculated sabotage.

Mr. Low is a well informed man. He knows perfectly well about the 1941 tragedy at Hong Kong where thousands of Canadian soldiers were caught, and hundreds died like rats in a trap. He remembers George Drew's robust and courageous exposures, following that ill-fated expedition. He has probably read Mr. Churchill's book "The Grand Alliance" which says, on page 177:

"Prime Minister to General Ismay—This is all wrong. If Japan goes to war with us there is not the slightest chance of holding Hong Kong. It is most unwise to increase the loss we shall suffer there. Instead of increasing the garrison it ought to be reduced to a symbolical scale."

MR. LOW knows perfectly well that if Hong Kong could not be held against Japan, when the entire Chinese population was on our side, what the prospects would be in a new war, where a mere barbed wire fence separates part of Hong Kong from Red China.

Why then does he whoop it up for a policy which Britain has plainly warned she would reject? I think the answer is quite clear. Mr. Low knows and the other isolationist Secrecds know, that a U.S. naval blockade of China would strain the whole western alliance, near the breaking point, and maybe administer a death blow to UN.

LET US not delude ourselves. The UN is far from perfect. But it is all we have in this generation to keep the precarious peace. If UN goes down, a lot more than UN will go down too—maybe the life of your own son.

In the United States the notorious Gerald L. K. Smith is heading a move to "take the U.S. out of UN and the UN out of the U.S."

Mr. Low once repudiated his late colleague, Mr. Jacques, for repeatedly speaking on the platform with the same Smith. How far apart from Gerald L. K. Smith is Mr. Low right now in his own attitude to UN?

Duker suggested that the names reflect the Indian background and the historical characters, special occasions and outstanding legends of the tribes.

THOSE PEOPLE NEXT DOOR—By James Redford in the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Formosa Calmly Watching Chapter Opening For Chiang

By FRED HAMPSON

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—This rejuvenated island fortress—potential springboard for invasion of Red China—is watching calmly the chapter opening for Chiang Kai-shek.

President Eisenhower's order that the United States 7th Fleet stop shielding Red China swings the spotlight back to a man with a consuming hatred of the Reds but who remains an enigma to most Westerners.

Chiang and his men still think they are going to win in any new fight on the mainland. However, there are formidable difficulties even for the limited blows many expect the Nationalists to deliver now.

Formosa is pretty much a one-man show. Many people think that's bad; that Chiang had his chance and flubbed it. That a new leader is needed. But the majority has come around to the other view that, for all his failures, Chiang still can rally more strength against the Chinese Communists than anyone else.

As Chiang takes the stage again, it is harder than ever to evaluate him against the cold-war background. A disgruntled ex-Nationalist general in Hong Kong once told me, "The people would prefer a new leader to Chiang but they'd rather have Chiang than the Communists."

Chiang always had clique trouble. One still hears rumors of new power alignments but so far he has the team working together.

How his forces ever pulled themselves together after the debacle of 1949 when they were thrown off the mainland, how they ever re-grouped, retrained and got back their soldiers' respect, tanks—as a miracle—whether they ever recapture China or not.

Today Formosa is taking its denaturalization much more calmly than Hong Kong.

Despite British troops being in Korea, Hong Kong regards itself as a "neutral" toward the Chinese Reds. It hopes to increase trade with them and is fearful of reprisals.

Formosa stands out in sharp contrast as the Far East's stoutest holdout against Communism. The island may, in some dark week ahead, get the living daylights pounded out of it. But Formosa knows it and accepts the risk. It goes on planning to fight back to the mainland and carry on the civil war which never stopped as far as the Nationalists are concerned.

Reflects and Reminisces

Somehow bank robbers cannot but help feel a shade surprised these days when they realize what money is actually worth.

Fifty-one ounces of rye must always be kept when you're planning on some cake making. Sounds like eating your cake as well as drinking it.

It seems a real test of alertness is at what age in 1953 you stop writing on letters and cheques.

IMPOSSIBLE!

No fewer than 21 Canadians feel they are not entitled to a seat in the Senate. In other words, no one can persuade them they do not deserve fat, lifetime jobs.

People who have been in Toronto continue to bore others with cold weather tales. The common cold is described as so elusive. Yet there's any number who find it so easy to catch.

We might just as well cheer up and let Mr. Abbott know about it. True enough, the taxpayers have had a tough time trying to honestly admire him, but he's at least thinking of making a turn for the better. Then, we're not forgetting cigarettes and all that.

Reading the world press today, one might jump at the conclusion that the real administrators in Sudan are not British. Yet they are. The Governor General, all the governors, British commanders all are. Communist efforts to "oust the foreigners" make no headway.

The impression is that Mr. Claxton will succeed Mr. Abbott as Minister of Finance. Undoubtedly this is the rumor, although the idea of keeping horses around is something of a nuisance. Nevertheless, what's going to be done about changing horses in the middle of a stream?

Casa Loma, Toronto's castle. It was thought might be torn down, will continue to stand indefinitely. So now Canada has a baronial pile for ever, how about a baron?

UNDER OUR ROOF

By JOHN STURDY

EN ROUTE HOLLYWOOD.—We crossed Canadian-U.S. border last night—Little Augie Hamish and Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.)

It is surprising to me that the border authorities allowed my companions to enter the United States, because you know how nervous the Americans are these days about letting people into their country.

Of course there is nothing subversive about Little Augie and Hamish and the Colonel—politically subversive that is. But as the immigration man on the Canadian side said anxiously to me: "You don't think they'll be coming back, do you?"

"I'm afraid so," I said. "We ought to tighten up our re-entry laws," he grumbled.

There was trouble, of course, before the Americans passed us. It started when they asked the Colonel if he was a Communist, or had Communist leanings, or had any small plans for overthrowing the U.S. Government. People do not talk like that to Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Rt.). I could have warned the immigration officer, but he went foolishly on, asking the Colonel all sorts of personal questions.

"Listen, you uniformed minion!" the Colonel interrupted suddenly. "Who was the Father of your country?"

"George Washington," "And who was George Washington's father? And George Washington's father's father? And his father? And his father before him?"

"Where did he originally spring from? Where did we all spring from?"

"Well..." "I'll tell you, Monkeys. Now get out of my way, you ape, and let me pass."

Things were quite simple as far as Hamish was concerned. Hamish looks so quiet and self-effacing that no one would ever accuse him of even thinking a subversive thought.

There was more trouble, however, with Little Augie. When they tried to take his fingerprints there was an unholy row, because in Little Augie's mind, finger-prints are associated with only one thing, and that has bars on it. As a matter of fact it took some little time to convince Little Augie that he was not on his way to jail.

"They only want a record," I said. "In case you overstay your permit."

"That's what I'm worried about," Little Augie confided. "With my record I won't have to overstay my permit—I'll be in for life."

But eventually he was passed, and I uttered a sigh of relief. My friends were safely on the other side of the border, and now there was only the mere formality of giving them my own name.

"You look like someone," the immigration officer said, staring hard at me.

"Certainly," I replied. "I look like me."

"Naw," He called to a man across the room. "Hey, Joe, do you think this guy looks like him?"

The second man looked at me thoughtfully. "Could be," he decided.

"I'll have to detain you," the first man told me. "I got to check with Washington."

I was led away to a kind of cell where I was locked up, with a feeling inside me of sheer terror that made me bite my finger-nails to the core.

Three hours later the immigration officer came back and unlocked the door.

"It's okay," he said. "I checked with Washington, and you're not him."

He led me out, and trembling I asked him: "Whom am I supposed to look like?"

He smiled at me. "Just don't push your luck too far, buddy."

Liberals Formulate Convention Policy

Policy on questions involving the liquor inquiry, the Labor Relations Board, and hospital insurance was formulated last night at the Liberal convention in the Civic Centre. Views agreed upon will be presented to the provincial convention at Vancouver following the current session of the Legislature.

The convention was also passed urgent resolutions regarding the liquor inquiry, the Labor Relations Board, and hospital insurance.

Mr. Norton was re-elected president of the district association, and Mr. Smith was named secretary. Elected to the executive committee were J. D. McRae, Mrs. Smith, William Beynon, Mr. Leod, Paul Blain, Mrs. Smith, William Bacon, and Mr. Mitchell.

The committee of honor resolutions agreed that with regret the failure of the liquor inquiry committee to meet the wishes of the people by not making liquor available at moderate prices to the average citizen.

FOR CHANGE

People voted for a change in the liquor law, they said, to see liquor by the glass sold in what are now called parlors. Mr. Blain said that if the liquor commission's recommendations are not adopted, it will only result in an expensive cocktail which will not operate to the benefit of the average citizen.

Mr. Blain thought liquor by the glass should be sold at government-controlled prices. He said that the person with a license, through private sale, can obtain his liquor without change in the law being made.

As to the part-time Legislature Board decision, the provincial government, at the meeting agreed to a resolution urging a full-time board be re-

Appointment Of Truant Officer Urged

A truant officer attached to the staff of Booth Memorial High School but with all district schools under his jurisdiction would be of much benefit to the city, A. M. Hurst, high school principal, told members of the King Edward Parent-Teacher Association at its regular monthly meeting.

Mr. Hurst said that although there was no rampant truancy among city pupils, there were enough casual occurrences to warrant the services of an officer.

The P-TA also celebrated a candle-lighting ceremony in honor of P-TA founder's day with guest of honor being Clarence Insulander, manager of radio station CFPR, first president of the organization.

Mr. Insulander spoke briefly after a candle was lit in his honor.

A donation of $50 a year to a $200 bursary to be provided by the Parent-Teacher Council for a well deserving student entering teacher training was approved.

Such an award would be made to a graduating high school student, but decision on whether there will be one $200 bursary or two $100 bursaries rests with the Council. The meeting favored the larger single award.

A white elephant sale was planned for March 12, to be held at the school. The membership voted appreciation to Mrs. R. E. Mortimer who instigated the plan of fixing "scotch-lite" reflectors on pupils' bicycles, a project carried out successfully by all PTAs recently.

The meeting was entertained by pupils of Grade V, division four, who presented an original parody on Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island, directed by Joe Goscoe, class teacher. Mr. Goscoe's room also won the attendance award for the month.

Queen Must Decide Soon Role For Duke of Edinburgh

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP) — The Queen and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, will have to decide soon what role is to be played at the Coronation June 2 by her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

There is no sure guide, in precedent or law, to what the consort of a reigning queen should do.

The archbishop has the authority to decide, for he will be, in supreme charge of the ceremony at Westminster Abbey. But he will listen to the suggestions of the Queen and it seems probable the Duke himself will be consulted.

It generally is expected the Duke will take an important but not an overly conspicuous part in the ceremony. It is likely he will have his own place in the procession inside the abbey, and that he may be the first of all her subjects to do homage.

For a coronation, a king with a wife is simple. Each gets a crown and the queen consort has an established place in the proceedings.

Queen regents, with husbands, have been rare. Seeking a precedent, authorities had to go back to 1702, when Queen Anne was crowned. But the precedent was not very helpful.

Queen Anne was married to Prince George of Denmark long before she came to the throne. "Unfortunately for future ages," wrote a historian, "Prince George of Denmark made so little impression on his contemporaries that no one seems to have remembered to record exactly what he did or where he sat during the actual service."

But it is known that the Danish prince had a place in Anne's procession and that he was the first, before the archbishops and bishops, to do homage to the Queen.

It is expected that this scrap of precedent will be followed. But the Duke of Edinburgh, in a short time, has gained more esteem than the Danish prince did in many years. So the archbishop may decide to give the Duke a more important role.

Retiring CNR Agent Honored

Pacific coast members of the passenger-traffic fraternity gathered in Hotel Vancouver to honor one of their number who retires February 26 after 45 years service.

He is S. M. (Shev) Greene, general passenger agent B.C. district CNR.

Among guests was Ken Robertson, CN passenger agent here.

Highlight of the party was the presentation of a matched set of travelling bags to Mr. Greene and a Coalport china floral centerpiece for Mrs. Greene.

Born and educated in Deroy, England, Mr. Greene came to Canada in 1905 and started with the railway as a clerk at Saskatoon in 1908.

He will be succeeded by A. C. L. Warner, who returns to Canada after 30 years in the United States with the passenger department of the CNR.

WITH BOTH HANDS EARNESTLY

"He said unto the man, stretch forth thy hand. And he did so; and his hand was restored whole as the other."—Luke 6:10.

The man Jesus healed on that Sabbath in the synagogue had only one good hand—his left hand. Jesus' work restored to him his right hand so that he had both hands to work and play with. What joy this must have been. With what earnestness he must have entered into his home life and his work.

A few words from Micah 7 haunt me. Micah is deploring the wickedness of men. He says: "The good man is perished out of the earth... they all be in wait for blood. That they may go evil with both hands earnestly. The prince asketh, and the Judge asketh for a reward, and the great man, he uttereth his mischievous desire: So they wrap it up."

The words are: "With both hands earnestly." We are not to copy what they did, but their earnestness of doing it. We are to be as keen and ingenious and as creative and as enthusiastic in the Service of God, the Kingdom of God, the Church of Jesus Christ, as these men were in the service of evil.

With both hands... How often we say to our children, Use both hands. But do we follow our own advice? We think we can do sufficient good with one hand to allow the other to do as it pleases. We are only half good enough... Having only one hand and then receiving the use of the other, this man didn't think one hand was enough.

An African missionary wrote home from the Congo: "We train our young African converts to put both hands in the Saviour's hand and we endeavor to make as certain as is humanly possible that they have renounced their trust in witchcraft and idolatry."

The plain fact is we cannot live a Christian life satisfactorily even to ourselves in a half-handed way.

Have you ever read Alexander Irvine's book "My Lady of the Chimney Corner"? It is the story of his mother. It tells the story of himself. Speaking of the night that he was converted he says that his mother called him into the kitchen and made him take hold of the rail of the kitchen table and close his eyes tight. Then she said: "Alex, think that you can see a long, long field. You are plowing it. The other end is so far away, you cannot see it. You see a wee bit of the furrow. Squeeze the plough handles, hold them with both hands. Listen, laddie, ye've put your hands to the plough for Jesus. Ye must never, never take them away. All through life ye'll have them plough handles in your hand. Ye're God's ploughman. Laddie, give a straight furrow." With both hands earnestly.

And Duren's great painting, "The Praying Hands." You feel as you look at it that he is praying with both hands earnestly. As you stand with Jesus and see that widow put the two mites into the temple treasury you know that she gave with both hands earnestly. Yes, and Jesus did too. See the pierced hands; He gave His life. In the face of these things, we are aware of how little we give. Certainly we do not give with both hands earnestly. Like the priest and the Levite in Jesus' story "The Good Samaritan," we pass by, too often, on the other side. Well, I should have liked to have been this man going home that day Jesus gave him his right hand. I can understand his joy of using both hands earnestly. Can't you, too?

Trawling And Filleting Industry Almost at Standstill in Rupert

Lack of markets for west coast fillets of sole, flounder other flat-fish and cod has resulted in almost total closure in northern waters of the normally lucrative trawling and filleting industry.

The Fairview Co-op plant has a handful of women fishworkers on staff but it's only a fraction of a total of 300 to 400 women employed almost steadily last winter in the industry.

One company, however, has found a new use for flat-fish—practically all kinds of ocean fish, actually—and last week purchased close to 85,000 pounds of fish at 1½ cents a pound to fulfill its orders.

Royal Fisheries Ltd. is marketing a product it calls animal food, a wet substance reduced from raw whole fish by physical and chemical processes.

Manager A. L. Fletcher said today he is keeping himself and three men busy in the new industry and more orders are coming in.

Selling fish to Royal at present are Fred Khose of the B.C. Producer and Julius Bart of the perambulant David Scott. Fletcher says he can handle more fish. The new process was developed by Royal engineers after spending several thousand dollars in experimenting last year.

Royal Fisheries' liver plant also has gone into production and Fletcher now is buying dogfish livers taken from the Prince Rupert area, at seven cents a pound. Skidegate livers will fetch between 15 and 25 cents but it's considered still too early in the season for successful dog-fishing in the Queen Charlottes.

Several small vessels operated by Port Edward Japanese fishermen are also plying a new trade here—shrimping, and selling the product ready-cooked to fish companies. This product is packaged in cellophane bags and frozen for Canadian and U.S. markets.

Out black-codding are Einer Telseth's Balsae I, feared missing for a short time this week; Vic Fossum's Singal and Pete Park-vold's Island Queen.

Small operations in crabbing are taking place in the Masset area with catches going to Queen Charlotte Cannery.

The Prince Rupert Wholesale Fishdealers Association is following up a Fisheries Association request to E. T. Applewhite, MP for Skeena, for consideration of dredging Skidegate Channel this year.

A copy of this letter will be sent to the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, said Harold Thom, secretary.

It supports the request of west coast fishermen that the narrow channel between the north and south islands of the Queen Charlottes be cleared of sand bars which are causing much hindrance to navigation.

The letter points out that a dredge will be operating in the Masset area scraping out Delkatala Slough and that it would be a small matter to divert the equipment after completion of the north island project to Skidegate.

Often the narrow channel between the two islands is blocked, especially at low water, by the shifting sands and prevents larger fishing vessels from cutting through from either coast of the islands to the other. The channel is about 30 miles long from mouth to mouth, while the shortest route around the island is more than 200 miles.

A break in tides and the weather has given clam diggers their first chance for production this year and B.C. Packers Ltd. has been taking all it can get for its canning operation.

Last four days, 35 women and 10 men have been employed steadily at the clam cannery. The clams are collected by packers from the sands of Dundas Island, the Tsimsean Peninsula and other coastal areas.

Deep-sea vessels in port this week made it a busy waterfront—busier than it has been for several months. Docking here were: the Greek grain freighter Georges Panoras; the Island Prince and Alaska Prince, of Northland Navigation Co.; the Cassiar, operated by Frank Waterhouse; and tankers Imperial Nanaimo, the Standard, Britannic, and the Argos.

The coastal freighter Sidney also arrived from Ketchikan with a cargo of frozen fish.

Isis Kline, Davey's trainer, who was to testify, failed to appear. The commission wanted to determine whether Davey actually had the flu or whether members of his entourage said he did as a means of alibi.

"In the emotional surroundings of the dressing room after the fight I may have said that Davey three weeks previously had a slight cold," Hector Knowles, Davey's manager, testified. "Davey was in excellent shape for the fight."

HONOLULU (CP)—Maj.-Gen. Chiang Wego, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's son, says Chinese Nationalist forces on Formosa "are prepared to attack the Communist mainland on a minute's notice."

The general is enroute to the U.S. mainland for a three-week tour of military installations.

Russia Now Wants to Enter World Hockey Championships

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Dr. Fritz Kraatz, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, announced today that he had been approached "unofficially" by the Soviet Union with a request to accept the belated admission of a Soviet team to next month's world hockey championship in Switzerland.

Dr. Kraatz said he replied favorably and gave the Soviet Hockey Federation until the end of this week to submit their formal application for admission to the championships. The official time limit expired Feb. 7.

Admission of the Soviet Union to a world hockey championship for the first time would revive the general interest in the tournament which has threatened to weaken.

Dr. Kraatz said Russian circles had approached him unofficially to explain the Soviet Union's failure to register for the tournament within the prescribed time limit was due to the fact that the Soviet Hockey Federation was only recently admitted to the international body and was not sufficiently familiar with the regulations.

Canada, which has dominated world amateur hockey since competition began, and the United States decided not to take part this time unless expenses were guaranteed. The Swiss sponsors refused this concession.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians' personal income amounted to a record $17,146,000,000 in 1952, the government estimated in a white paper tabled in the Commons.

Of the total, Finance Minister Abbott's white paper calculated, the earners spent $14,290,000,000 on goods and services, $3,180,000,000 on various taxes, and saved $1,558,000,000.

Mr. Abbott's income levy took the biggest tax jump—$1,177,000,000. The aggregate income figure—which includes family allowances, pensions and the like—compared with a previous high of $15,582,000,000 in 1951. In that year, consumer spending and taxes were lower at $13,234,000,000 and $1,027,000,000, respectively, but savings were up at $1,591,000,000.

In the previous two years, all categories were lower.

The eight-per-cent increase in personal income during 1952, the white paper said, occurred despite a substantial decline in farm income from its record 1951 level. The net farm income was shown as dropping to $1,877,000,000 from $2,174,000,000—not including undisturbed wheat board returns.

Abbott Figures National Income Will Increase by $1 Million in '53

OTTAWA (CP)—Record national production of $24,000,000,000 in 1953 was predicted by Finance Minister Abbott in his budget speech.

Mr. Abbott said he was basing his budget on the assumption that the value of national production will increase by approximately $1,000,000,000 from the previous peak of $23,000,000,000 in 1952.

"My estimate assumes, of course, that we will not experience extensive crop failures nor serious industrial work stoppages."

The national production figure represents the value of all the goods and services produced in a year by Canadians. The figure is used to estimate the yield from taxes at various rates. It plays an important part in the shaping of taxation policies.

The production forecast was contained in a 7,200-word fiscal portion of the budget speech.

In his speech, Mr. Abbott made these points:

- 1—The present level of prosperity is expected to continue throughout 1953.
- 2—Indications are that expenditures on expansion of industry and the development of resources will continue at a high level.
- 3—Demand for exports is expected to continue at a high level.

4—With labor and other incomes running well above the 1952 average, consumer demand is expected to remain strong in 1953.

5—An increase in labor income combined with a downward trend of prices made 1952 a year of prosperity without inflation.

6—There has been a reduction in inflation pressures in many parts of the world.

"I expect our present prosperity to continue out this calendar year, but a continuation of the present rate of inflation and general economic situation," said Mr. Abbott.

Every Break Against You?

Study the Game More

"The player who constantly complains every break is against him probably isn't a very good player," remarked Mr. Champion. "One mark of a fine player is his ability to overcome bad breaks and to make his contract even when 'every finesse is wrong.'"

This comment stemmed from the fact that Mr. Abel had gone down one at his contract of six hearts. Mrs. Keen opened a trump and Mr. Abel won and took a second round of trumps.
He then cashed the king of diamonds and finessed the jack.
Mr. Champion winning with the queen.

The diamond return was taken by dummy's ace and Mr.
Abel then tried the spade finesse. When this lost, the contract was defeated.

"Sorry, partner," said Mr.
Abel, "but I'd want to be in the same contract again on those cards. If either finesse had worked or if diamonds had broken 3-3, I would have made it. The odds in favor of one of those things being right must have been overwhelming."

"That's beside the point," said
Mr. Champion. "It was ice-cold all the time. You overlooked the winning play because it required laying down an ace from ace-queen, something most players hate to do. And yet it was necessary in this deal."

Mr. Champion pointed out the correct play as follows. Win the opening trump lead but do not take a second round of trumps as dummy's hearts represent vital entries. At trick two, play the ace of spades and follow with the queen.

Now, if the spades are divided no worse than 4-2, there are enough entries on the board to set up the fifth spade on which a diamond discard from the closed hand can be made. If it should turn out that spades are divided 5-1, the diamond finesse can be tried later as a last resource.

Housing Investment Increased

OTTAWA (C)—Investment in plant, equipment and housing in Canada last year increased by $328,000,000 over 1951, it was estimated in a white paper tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott.

The estimated 1952 figure was $4,138,000,000, compared with $3,810,000,000 the previous year.
Of the plant-equipment-housing investment, the largest amount—$1,859,000,000—was in new machinery and equipment.
New residential construction amounted to $803,000,000, while other construction investment totalled $1,476,000,000.

The largest increase was in non-residential construction, up 17 per cent in value and 10 per cent in volume.

Housing rose by about three per cent in value, but volume was virtually unchanged. In the last half of the year, the white paper said, housing starts were running at the rate of 90,000 a year, compared with 70,000 in 1951.

The white paper listed public and private capital expenditure in 1952 as $5,122,000,000 compared with $4,577,000,000 in 1951.
Biggest item was $942,000,000 in manufacturing, compared with $793,000,000. Housing had been the main 1951 figure, with $821-000,000.

ier than his native Turin in

U.S. Lifts Price Controls From Lumber

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States government Friday lifted price controls from milk, butter, ice cream and other dairy products. Drugs, cosmetics, coal and most service charges, such as for auto, radio and television repairs, also were freed from controls.

Price Stabilizer Joseph Freehill said the items in the new list affect about 10 per cent of the articles used in making up the cost of living index.

Missing from the list was cigarettes and other tobacco products on which OPS had planned to lift controls. The agency, however, decided to substitute milk and dairy products and oleomargarine for the tobaccos.

Freehill estimated that more than $50,000,000,000 worth of goods and services based on the annual business volume was affected by the order.

Freehill predicted at a press conference there would be price increases for many of the newly exempt items.

Among major commodities and services freed in the new list, effective at once are:

Lumber, wood products and related services, including such things as plywood, siding, poles, wallboards and pilings.

NOVA SCOTIA DEFEATED Manitoba 12-8 in the first round as the Canadian school curling championships got under way at Saskatoon. Ten rinks from across Canada entered the round-robin event, Ontario finally winning the title.

Extension of Emergency Powers Act For Another Year Sought by Garson

OTTAWA (CP)—An emergency unique in Canada's history, the emergency of "apprehended war," makes it necessary for the government to retain special powers to act on a moment's notice.

Justice Minister Garson advanced this argument in the Commons Wednesday in asking for a one-year extension of the two-year-old Emergency Powers Act, due to lapse May 31 unless renewed by Parliament. It was passed in 1951 and extended in 1952.

The act gives the government wide powers, involving almost all phases of the economic life of the country, including communications, shipping, transportation and manufacture. It can act without reference to Parliament.

PRO-CONS OBJECT

Progressive Conservative members have argued that the War Measures Act, used during the war, is still on the books and could be revived. They said there is no need for a further extension of the Emergency Powers Act.

Mr. Garson said Canada faces "a condition of emergency unique in our history." It is "an emergency of apprehended war but unlike war emergencies of the past this present emergency may be of indeterminate length."

The government felt that in an emergency of indeterminate length it was not advisable to invoke the broad, arbitrary powers of the War Measures Act which invaded not only the field of civil rights but also of personal rights.

The government believed it more desirable to outline just what powers it should enjoy in the present emergency, as had been done in the Emergency Powers Act in 1951. The emergency of 1951 was not any less today and the act should be renewed for another year.

Those who argued that the power of the executive should be curbed and the civil and parliamentary rights should be upheld could not but support the extension. If there was no extension the government would be left with all-embracing power under the War Measures Act.

Israel's Plea For Aid Gets 'Cold Shoulder'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported turning a cold shoulder to Israel's urgent plea for aid while lining up limited military and economic help for Egypt.

The Eisenhower administration, it was learned, has decided to sidetrack Israel's bid, temporarily at least, in order to avoid antagonizing strategic Arab governments.

Seven Arab countries jointly told the state department "any more help of any sort" might endanger the uneasy truce between Arabs and Jews in the Middle East.

The bitterly worded Arab complaint said Israel was trying to "exploit" its diplomatic break with Russia to win special assistance from the U.S.

Top U.S. officials, already worried about rising tension between Israel and its Arab neighbors, are reported to have assured the Arab diplomats the administration would treat all Middle-East countries equally.

To back up this policy, arrangements are being made behind the scenes to pump some dollar aid and weapons shipments to Egypt. This move is viewed by U.S. officials as desirable in the next few weeks in order to encourage Egypt's strong man premier, Gen. Mohammed Naguib to join the proposed Middle-East defence alliance against communism.

LILIAN MILLER

Prince Rupert Little Theatre has been rehearsing "Lovers' Leap" at the rate of two nights a week, and the play is progressing very well. The enthusiastic cast is ready to begin learning lines for the second act this week.

Alice MacNeil is still looking for two women for the cast of "Strange Road." Anyone interested in the role of a young, serious-minded girl in her late teens, or that of a motherly woman in her forties should contact Alice at 1117 7th Ave. E. (not the address given in error in a previous column). Experience on the stage is not necessary.

Good-byes will soon be said to two faithful members of the club, Nina Youngman and Phyllis Tomlinson, both are leaving the city.

Little Theatre meets again on Sunday afternoon for rehearsal in the Civic Centre auditorium.

SCREEN ★ ★ FLASHES

David Wayne, the new Hollywood favorite, has become a filmland rarity—an actor who actually lives in Hollywood.

According to statistics, the great majority of stars make their residence either in Beverly Hills, Brentwood or Bel-Air, but Wayne, star of Twentieth-Century-Fox's lavish Technicolor musical, "Down Among the Sheltering Palms," is an exception.

The actor, father of three children, has just leased a two-story colonial residence occupying a two-acre site in the heart of Hollywood.

"Living there has made me a special curiosity," Wayne admits, "but I stay in Hollywood because I enjoy it. My house is three blocks from Hollywood Boulevard and I'm old-fashioned enough to get a kick out of taking a walk down the street just to see the sights."

"It's also a matter of convenience," Wayne continues, "as we're only a three-minute drive from Hollywood Bowl where we spend many of our evenings. The studio is only eight minutes away which is a convenience in itself. People say I stay in Hollywood because I'm a comparative newcomer, but the longer I stay the more I'm sold."

Province Backs Yellowhead Pass Route

EDMONTON (CP)—Support for a proposed defence highway through Yellowhead Pass in the Rocky Mountains has been received from Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Mayor William Hawrelak said today.

The mayor, president of the Trans-Canada Highway Association Yellowhead Route, said he received letters from the premiers and highway ministers of the three provinces saying they support the association's demands that the highway be built as soon as possible.

Letters also were received from Manitoba officials who intend to discuss the matter with the Manitoba cabinet.

Mayor Hawrelak said it is hoped the three governments will take joint action in pressing the federal government to start construction. The highway has been endorsed by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and has also received the support of army personnel.

Ike's Efforts to Break Korea Stalemate 'A Sham'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Melvin Price (Dem.-Ill.) said today proposals thus far advanced by President Eisenhower to break the Korean stalemate have been "a sham" and "little more than campaign politics."

He dismissed as "window dressing" the President's references to Korea in his state of the union message to Congress and called for a return to bipartisan political co-operation on foreign policy and security problems.

Price, a member of the House of Representatives Armed Services committee, wrapped up in a speech prepared for house delivery probably the most outspoken attack on the new Republican administration yet to be voiced by a Democrat in Congress.

Price said he was "dismayed" by plans announced thus far to fulfill Eisenhower's "implied promise" during the campaign to bring an early and honorable end to the Korean war.

Price said the two main points dealt with training of additional South Korean divisions, and ending use of the U.S. 7th Fleet to keep Nationalist forces on the island.

Price said Eisenhower "has learned" that the U.S. has been embarked "for well over two years now" on an interminable program of training South Koreans.

Price said Chinese Nationalist troops "for some months" have been conducting "pin-point" raids on the Chinese mainland from islands off the China coast. He added it is doubtful that even later Chinese forces could raid the mainland from Formosa without naval and air support.

"It is, therefore, a sham to say that we will no longer aid Red China," he said.
