STREET IN GENZANO, ITALY, is in flower, each year, for the Festival of Corpus Christi. The whole town turns out to arrange or admire a mile-long display of floral designs. The street is blanketed, from one end of town to the other, with exotic paintings done in flower. Local artists, competing for prizes awarded at the close of the feast day, use tons of flower petals to make the beautiful display.

Truce Meet Postponed Again At Request Of Communists

Reply Expected To Allied Demands

By The Associated Press

MUNSAN.—A possible showdown meeting of allied and Communist truce negotiators was postponed for 24 hours today at the request of the Reds.

The recess put off until 2 p.m. Sunday an expected Red reply to reported allied demands that the Communists sign an armistice now or face the prospect of a breakdown in the negotiations.

The second consecutive 24-hour recess requested by the Reds was arranged during a one-minute meeting of liaison officers at Panmunjom.

North Korean Col. Ju Yon said the delay was needed for "administrative reasons" and the United Nations quickly agreed, an official spokesman said.

The extra day gives the Red high command more time to arrive at what may be a momentous decision vitally affecting the chances for a quick end to more than three years of fighting.

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Dulles said Friday night "we are ready for honorable peace" in Korea. At the same time he declared that "if the Communists want war, we must be ready for that, too."

In San Francisco, South Korea's ambassador to Washington said Friday that if the Communists have not agreed to unify Korea six months after a truce is signed, the RoKs will attack.

Dr. You Chan Yang added at a press conference that "we hope the United Nations will give us air and sea support."

"If you feel you can't fight communists any more," he said, "then don't stop us from fighting—and give us the help we need."

Child Stabbed 100 Times

ANCHORAGE (CP)—A children's game of cowboys and Indians brought death by stabbing to a five-year-old girl and her boy playmate, nine, is charged with first degree murder.

U.S. attorney Seaborn J. Buckalew identified the boy as Jimmy Ellis, neighborhood playmate of Bobbie Jean Denney. Parents of the two children are close friends.

An autopsy showed the girl's body had about 100 knife wounds.

Crash Kills 40 Naval Reservists

By The Associated Press

MILTON, Fla.—A U.S. Marine transport plane with 40 college naval reservists and six crew members aboard crashed in a takeoff at midnight Friday and the U.S. Navy said there are only six known survivors.

The plane was part of a flight of five transports ferrying 200 reservists from Corpus Christi, Tex., to Norfolk, Va., for summer training.

One plane had taken off and the second transport was gaining altitude when it suddenly plunged earthward and burst into flames in a wooded area 1½ miles northwest of the field.

Six persons including the pilot and co-pilot were reported to have been found injured and taken to the Whiting base hospital.

Harold Stokes, city editor of the Pensacola News-Herald, who arrived at the scene shortly after said the plane crashed into a clump of trees, smashed three parked automobiles and plowed into a barn.

QCA Weathers Storm to Bring Patient Here

A Queen Charlotte Airlines Norseman plane piloted by Captain Emerson (Wally) Wallace completed another mercy flight today when it weathered rain and wind to bring an expectant mother to hospital here from Mill Bay.

Captain Wallace left here at 9:45 a.m. and returned shortly before 11 with Mrs. Victor McKay, her husband, and Dr. MacAulay from the B.C. Packers camp at Mill Bay, about 48 miles north in the entrance to the Naas River.

An urgent call for a plane was received here by radio telephone from the camp.

Mrs. McKay gave birth to a boy shortly before 2 p.m.

Couple Charged With Murder Three Years Ago

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cecil Sampson, 30, and his wife, 26, were charged in suburban Burnaby police court Friday with the murder of an 81-year-old Chinese in Duncan, B.C., three years ago.

Magistrate George Grant remanded the couple, arrested in California, to July 25 for preliminary hearing. They will be remanded again pending preliminary hearing at Duncan.

The Chinese, Chew Deb, was killed in his cabin one mile from Duncan, June 30, 1950. A bloody beer bottle, apparently the murder weapon, was found nearby.

Sampson, an Indian, is from Lytton, B.C., and his wife is from Duncan, on Vancouver Island.

NO STEP BACK IN TIME, for this picture was taken just a few days ago, and the locale is not some small town, uninfluenced by progress, but the metropolis of Philadelphia. A postal worker loads mail into a horse-drawn wagon which will deliver it.

Parks Board Does Not Intend To Cease Functioning Here

Contrary to an impression apparently created as a result of its meeting Wednesday night, the parks board has no intention of ceasing to function.

Its proposal is to hand over the physical execution of its duties to the city engineering department so that it may act in an advisory capacity.

There is an opinion among its members that, under the present arrangement, costs of operation are too high for the value received. In addition, the members have insufficient time to supervise operations personally.

In clarifying the board's position, chairman Pat Forman emphasized today that more progress was being made than was indicated at the meeting.

"Among other things, we have just opened the new park named after Alderman George Casey, and work on McClymont park is going well," he said.

"Bulldozers have been busy there opening up an area for new picnic grounds and extensive work on the drainage system is all set for next week."

He also remarked that work is planned for Algoma park to improve facilities for the Little League baseball games and that the tennis courts have received considerable attention. He denied strongly that this was the poorest year ever experienced by the board.

At Wednesday's meeting Commissioner Art Murray said the board was having a "disastrous" year.

"We are having trouble with contracts, with supervision of the parks and with administration," he said. "We might as well face it, this is our worst year yet."

It was voted at the meeting that the city engineering department take over operation of the parks board as soon as possible.

97-Degree Weather Greet Politicians Touring East

Quebec was the election campaign cockpit for Prime Minister St. Laurent and CCF leader M. J. Coldwell yesterday while George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, concentrated on Nova Scotia's South Shore.

After a strenuous western tour, Mr. St. Laurent returned to his home riding of Quebec East. He found it even hotter there—97 degrees—than it had been on the Saskatchewan plains earlier in the week.

Speaking in French to an outdoor audience of about 2,000 in Quebec's white-collar district, the prime minister said Mr. Drew represents himself as a champion of autonomy to "win votes in Quebec province."

He said the Progressive Conservative leader had told Quebec voters recently that provincial autonomy was threatened.

"If such a threat existed I would be the first one to fight it," Mr. St. Laurent said. "I intend to do my share until my last breath to safeguard the autonomy of Quebec. But that does not mean that I intend to neglect the other provinces."

At another point, the prime minister put aside his notes and brought up the subject of a national flag. "Canada will have its own flag some day but it will have one when it will be a sign of unity and not a subject of quarrelling and dissension."

Earlier, he told a press conference that during his election tour he has found "more unity than ever" in Canada.

Mr. Coldwell, addressing a shirt-sleeved audience in a Montreal working-class district, attacked Premier Duplessis' pro-Fascist government "and the Fascists who are in power in Quebec."

He said that in all other provinces political parties could put up posters and distribute pamphlets without having to submit them to police chiefs. It showed how far Quebec was on the way to a police state like some European countries before the war.

At Bridgewater, N.S., Mr. Drew counter-attacked a suggestion by Mr. St. Laurent that the value of Victory Bonds might be endangered if a Progressive Conservative government employed deficit financing to carry out its promised $500,000,000-a-year tax cuts.

Mr. Drew, who stripped off his coat as he warmed to his subject before an audience of 1,600 in the town's sports arena, said the value of Victory Bonds had declined already because the government "broke its promise" to maintain their market price. The government had "betrayed its responsibility" to the people who bought Victory Bonds as a patriotic duty.

Forest Fire Under Control

VICTORIA (CP)—More than 300 grimy firefighters have brought under control an 800-acre forest fire at Tepee Creek, near Nelson, the B.C. Forest Service reported Friday.

Taxes in Alaska and the Yukon

IN VIEW of the great industrial development anticipated to the north of us, for which to some extent Alaska and Yukon territories are competing, the following editorial on incentive taxes that appeared recently in the Fairbanks News-Miner is of interest:

"Many Alaskans are wondering why Northwest Canada, our next door neighbor, is going ahead with giant industrial projects while the Territory of Alaska lags far behind. British Columbia and the Yukon Territory are developing mineral resources, building huge smelting plants to process aluminum and other metals, and expanding their industries at a rapid pace.

"Alaska continues to live mainly from government handouts for defence construction, while its vast and rich land lies mainly undeveloped.

"WHY IS ALASKA LAGGING BEHIND CANADA IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF RESOURCES? There's no mystery to it. Just read the following taxation table.

"The Alaska office of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation drew up this table, which illustrates identical taxes a firm would have to pay during the first three years of operation in Alaska and Yukon Territory:

	Alaska	Yukon Terr.
Capital investment	$100,000	$100,000
Normal expected net income of 10%	10,000	10,000
Federal net corporate income tax of 52%	5,200	None
Territorial net income tax of 10% of federal tax	520	None
Dividends to stockholders	4,280	None
Personal income tax on dividends using 30% federal and 10% territorial	1,412	None
Net return to stockholder	2,868	10,000
Per cent of return to investor	2.9%	10%

"Therefore, if the Alaska stockholder is fortunate, he will get back a return that approximately is the same he would receive if he invested his money in U. S. government 'E' bonds. And remember, he is gambling on his Alaska investment and may lose his money!

"Isn't it obvious why Alaska's natural resources are lying dormant? What investor would pay money into risk development in Alaska when he can buy bonds and safely assure the same return?

"IT CAN BE SEEN HOW DESPERATELY ALASKA NEEDS INCENTIVE TAXATION TO DEVELOP ITS RESOURCES!"

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

A two-year-old Los Angeles boy, so terrified by a low-flying plane, ran screaming to his mother. In an emergency hospital he was pronounced dead. Childhood loves the gradual growth of beautiful Nature. But nothing, in earliest thoughts can visualize the roar and speed of a monster that draws closer every second. That is what is called scared to death. There is such a thing.

Every year sees an increase in the volume of motoring along the Skeena Highway. Canada's variety of driveways is hard to rival. Take, say from Prince Rupert to Terrace. At every turn, where wild peaks rise still higher, and the winding river is none the less swift and powerful, it's worth another look.

UNUSUAL SORT OF BIRD
It is perhaps not generally known that British Columbia has a colony of pelicans, found near Alexis Creek in Chilcotin. They number about fifty. A remarkable bird is the pelican. He can pack in his beak enough food for a week—and we wonder, sometimes, just how the hell can.

In all this more or less random conversation concerning Princess Margaret, Capt. Townsend, Lord Beaverbrook, Dr. Swanson, there are two distinguished personages who do not appear to have said a word—unless to one another. They are known as the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

The rattlesnake is reported found only in North America. We'd like to meet the party responsible for discovering the first.

FIFTY YEARS SINCE
How many today remember Cobalt? One must go back a full half century to see again that glittering silver camp in northern Ontario.

Cobalt is far from forgotten. Today, the fiftieth anniversary is being celebrated in rousing style. Old timers are there. Even some like to—or have to—sleep in tents and gather in small groups to recall the long age.

The mayor patrols the streets welcoming all strangers gorgeous in chain of office made from slabs of native silver.

Oranges have long been directly identified with southern California, but it's not going to be that way any longer. Because—and there is a big because—there's no money in the business. Orange growers have been hard put to it for decades, and it's getting worse. Nevertheless, the price of that weighty, juicy orange in New York or Chicago remains almost what it was ten years ago. Canned orange juice is the stiffest sort of competition.

Andrew Johnson, 17th president of the United States, was taught to write by his wife, whom he married when he was 19.

As I See It

Beaver Writes Bunk

LORD BEAVER—
BROOKS' papers are sounding the death knell of the United Nations too soon.

The Beaverbrook organs suggest that this will be the sequence of events:

1. There will be a cease-fire in Korea.
2. At the UN Assembly to follow that cease-fire, China's seat in the UN will be allotted to the real government of China—which of course is the Communist government.
3. In indignation at such a move the United States will quit the UN and the whole organization will go down the drain.

GRANTING for the sake of argument there will be a cease-fire and there will be a strong move in the Assembly to seat the government of China.

Nobody in his right senses expects that such a move would be rushed through in the face of the adamant opposition of the United States. Apart altogether from the fact that the U.S. could probably legally veto the seating of Red China, such a move would not make sense.

China has the right to be represented by the real government of China and not by the ex-government, now located on Formosa.

But it would be a mighty poor bargain which brought Red China into the UN only to have the United States walk out as a consequence.

THE SITUATION that will exist when there is a cease-fire in Korea will call for tact and patience.

The nations of the British Commonwealth have made it plain that they intend to recognize the Communist government of China as the government. But as our Prime Minister pointed out after the London conference, timing of that recognition will depend on circumstances.

IT SEEMS to me that Nehru is likely to play a key part in the solution of this crisis-in-the-making, just as he played a key part in ending the deadlock over prisoners in Korea.

Some time ago the Prime Minister of India suggested the following as a possible basis for solution of the general question of China, Chiang and Formosa.

The real government of China would get China's seat in the UN. But the UN would simultaneously guarantee the protection of Formosa for several years to come. In other words, Formosa would be "put into cold storage." It would be protected from attack from the China mainland, but the China mainland would also be protected from attack from Formosa.

At the end of the stipulated period the people of Formosa could freely decide their own future destiny.

THE UNITED NATIONS is still the chief hope of world peace. If it goes down, look around for a good deep cave for atomic war will surely be on the way.

But there is no proof yet the UN is going down. The first great fact about UN is it can't work without U.S. membership, much less survive.

Newly-Published Book Outlines How Germans Controlled Spy Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—How German agents literally took over the British-Dutch spy and sabotage ring in Holland for 18 months during the war is told in a book published here today.

The feat shapes up as one of the most amazing ever recorded in the everlasting hush-hush warfare of international secret agents.

Titled "London Calling North Pole" and written by H. J. Giskes, the German anti-espionage chief in wartime Holland, the book relates that:

● Fifty-four British and Dutch agents fell into German hands during the North Pole operation, as it was called. Forty-seven died.

● Nearly 200 drops from airplanes of Allied men and material were made into the waiting arms of German "reception committees."

● Twelve four-engined Allied bombers used in the drops were shot down immediately afterwards by German night fighters.

● Allied sabotage, spy and partisan warfare plans in Holland were so confounded that the Allies would have courted disaster had they tried to land in Holland in 1942 or 1943.

These revelations caused such a stir when the book was first published in London earlier this year that the dust hasn't settled yet. A member of Parliament, Arthur Lewis, who demanded a public hearing on the affair, says:

"It seems this is a secret the government wants to keep to itself. Yet it is conceded by high-informed sources that the story is substantially correct."

BASICALLY TRUE

In Amsterdam, Dutch officials who served with the Dutch government in London, says Giskes' account is basically true.

Now 57 years old and a business man in Hamburg, Giskes wrote the book, he says, because Germany broke her pledge not to execute the Allied agents that fell into his hands.

The project began when Giskes' men pounced on a Dutch agent who had been sending radio messages to London. The Germans got him to continue to operate his station as if nothing had happened, but to send out carefully faked messages instead of genuine spy reports.

Persuasion, Rather Than Denunciation Helping Pres. Eisenhower Get Along

by ED CREAGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—Political honeymoons, like the other kind, seldom last forever. Frequently you can look for some sort of crisis after the first six months.

So it was with former President Harry S. Truman in his relations with the U.S. Congress. And so it is turning out for Dwight D. Eisenhower, who succeeded Truman in the White House six months ago next Monday.

Strange as it may seem, Truman and the men on Capitol Hill exchanged hardly a cross word in the momentous first half-year following Franklin Roosevelt's death.

It was only after Truman submitted his first legislative program, a few days short of the six-month mark, that the sparring, which later became a donnybrook, began.

Until that time, Truman's difficulties with his former colleagues were, if anything, less notable than Eisenhower's have been. There were no such controversies as the one over confirmation of Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defence, or, more recently, over the U.S. Air Force budget.

Eisenhower has tried so hard to avoid trouble with Congress that some Democrats have complained his administration lacks strong leadership.

However, persuasion, rather than denunciation, is Eisenhower's stock-in-trade. And, half-way through his first year in office, he has found it advisable to persuade offender and harder than ever before.

But he couldn't stop a House sub-committee from voting to slash more than $1,000,000,000 from the president's foreign aid program—a cornerstone of his whole foreign policy.

There's a chance for part or all of the cut to be restored later in the legislative process. But time is short and persuasion takes time. The next two weeks may tell whether Eisenhower's honeymoon with Congress, like many another honeymoon, will be interrupted by a quarrel over money.

All Aboard By G.E. Mortimore

A man called Juan Martinez and a lady called Evelyn $50,000 "Treasure Chest" West had their names in the news recently.

Juan is a one-legged Puerto Rican, aged 64. His name sprang to prominence when he boarded the wrong airplane at New York and found himself on his way to Germany instead of Puerto Rico.

Evelyn $50,000 "Treasure Chest" is a dancer. Her odd handle was committed "to print" because she had just acquired it legally after shedding her former name, Patricia McQuillan.

As for Juan, he knew no English, only Spanish, so he didn't find out for some time that he was on the wrong aircraft. When the stewardess spoke to him, he answered with his own name, Juan Martinez, which sounded so much like "One Martin" that the stewardess brought him a dry martini from the bar.

Three martinis later Juan arrived at Gander, Newfoundland, en route to Germany by mistake. Luckily he was sober enough to notice the lack of palm trees in the Newfoundland landscape. He made someone understand him and was flown back to New York, and thence to Puerto Rico.

Had things happened differently, poor Juan would have been turned loose in Berlin, full to the brim with martinis, and lost.

To make matters worse, his name might have sounded like something entirely different in the German language. Every time he said "Juan Martinez," people might have imagined him to be saying "Please direct me to the nearest zoo," or something of the kind. After reading about Juan Martinez' plight, a thirsty friend says he may change his own name to A. Ryan Gingerplez, Rumond Coke, or even Minte Julippe.

However, if he expects stewardesses to come running with drinks in their hands every time he mutters his alcoholic name, he is in for a disappointment. I tried standing on a street corner and crying out "Double Scotch and soda," but nobody paid the smallest attention.

Whether your name is Smith or Pale Ale, you still have to be on an airplane before you can get free drinks. Even then, you must pick the right air line. Too bad.

And then there is the case of Evelyn $50,000 "Treasure Chest" who once insured her bosom with Lloyd's of London. Some people knew her as Evelyn West, others as "The Treasure Chest." So she had a court of law in Petersburg, Ill., weave the two titles and the amount of the insurance policy into a new legal name, to discourage imitators.

Others may follow her example. We may live to see a clothing merchant call his son Today Only $998 McGee, or a financier send his daughter into the world with a clean-cut name like $1,000,000 Jones.

MARLENE STEWART OF FORTNELL, ONT., known as "Little Miss Robot" to British golf writers, produced perhaps the most consistent play of her life to win the British Women's Amateur Golf championship, first Canadian to do so, at Porthcawl, Wales. One of the British writers called the 19-year-old schoolgirl "clearly one of the world's finest players today" and another said she was "a girl who will surely become the greatest-ever woman golfer."

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—If George Kell wins the American League batting championship, as well he might, it will be a triumph of will power over aches and pains.

There are days when Kell fears he won't be able to drag himself out of bed in the morning, let alone put on his Boston uniform to play third base. Still he has played more than three quarters of his club's games, and is leading the league in hitting.

Doctors tell George that it's simply a case of too much bending, sliding and tumbling for his spinal disc. They say it's similar to the trouble that forced Bobby Doerr into retirement and sent Charlie Keller to the hospital for an operation. "I don't want any operation, if I can help it," Kell said the other day. "I'm sure my back will be all right for ordinary every day life with the proper rest. It's just the bending I have to do in baseball."

NEARLY GAVE UP
In mid-May there was a time when Kell thought seriously of giving up. In chill, damp days, such as we had often this spring, he had the miseries. His boss, manager Lou Boudreau, told him to forget playing and not even show up for a few days.

At Kell's suggestion he tried left field when he returned. It worked out fine. But the club needed George back at third so he went back to his old job. When the thermometer hit the 90s the old cricks in his back melted away. It's the night games on cool evenings and the rainy days that bother him most.

When Kell first came up to the majors, out of Swifton, Ark., he was a school teacher.

WOULD LIKE TO COACH
School teaching is not for Kell any more. He prospered in baseball at a healthy wage scale in Detroit and Boston. He has a going farm back home in Arkansas with cattle and cotton as his specialties. Eventually he'd like to come back to baseball as a coach, or maybe manager, but first a year off to rest that back on the farm.

But Kell wants to win the batting championship this year more than anything else in his career.

When Kell won the championship with .343 in 1949, beating men like Ted Williams and Joe Dimaggio, some said it was a fluke. If he wins this one, bad back and all, he should rate the most valuable player award.

Van Ireland Paces CYO To Victory

CYO scored another victory in the Sheardown Trophy competition last night when they eked out a 5-4 victory over General Motors.

In the well-played but close-checking game, Dave Murray, Motors' centreforward, scored all four goals but his teammates were unable to find the range.

Gerry VanIreland drove in the first three goals for CYO in the first half of the game and Adrian Tambourini sank the others in the last session.

Motors opened the scoring about 15 seconds after the game got under way when he took hold from the faceoff, dribbled down the field without letting the opposition touch the ball and drove in a hard shot.

The goal was the opening signal for Motors to drive through-out, but VanIreland got the jump to give CYO a 3-2 half-time lead.

Battery play Kispix here tonight and next Wednesday the CYO and Battery tangle again at Roosevelt Park.

So far in the competition, CYO have lost only one game—to Battery.

USING STREAMERS AND BUCKTAILS FOR LARGE TROUT

LARGE TROUT SEEK THE QUIET, DEEP HOLES BELOW FASTER FEED-LANES DURING THE DAY WHERE THEY HARDLY MOVE A FIN IN REST. DRIFT THE LURE DEEP IN THESE POOLS AND LET THE CURRENT MOVE IT AROUND AT WILL. DON'T BE IN A HURRY TO RETRIEVE IT. A LARGE TROUT MAY WATCH IT QUITE AWHILE BEFORE DECIDING IT'S A SAFE BITE.

IN LATE-AFTERNOON THE LARGE TROUT MOVE UP INTO THE FEED-LANES. DRIFT LURE DOWNSTREAM ON A TAUT LINE TO DART TO-AND-FRO IN THE CURRENTS WITHOUT FREQUENT RETRIEVES.

WHEN YOU CALL "O'BRIEN" around the Pittsburgh Pirates' dugout two heads turn—and the faces are identical—for Second-sacker Johnny (left) and Short-stop Eddie O'Brien are twins. The 22-year-old bonus babies from Seattle University, better known for their basketball exploits than baseball, are the third set of twins to play in the major leagues and the first to play on the same team.

No Reduction in Taxes Seen Until Korean War Concludes

SUDBURY (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent feels "no embarrassment" at the size of the Liberal majority in the last House of Commons.

Addressing a Liberal rally here Mr. St. Laurent urged voters not to favor the opposition parties just because of the lop-sided majority in the last House. The Liberals captured 190 seats in the 262-seat house in the 1949 federal election.

He said that during his cross-country tour "some good Liberals" had suggested it would be better if the party hadn't such a large majority this time.

"But I have felt no embarrassment at the size," the prime minister said. Electors should vote Liberal and not take any risks, he added.

He suggested that under a Progressive Conservative government Canadian bonds may drop in value.

"Perhaps the Tories believe in deficit budgeting and in increasing the national debt," Mr. St. Laurent said, in referring to the Progressive Conservative promise to reduce taxes by $500,000,000 a year if elected.

"If they do, the millions of Canadians who hold Victory Bonds and Canada Savings Bonds are not very likely to look on them with much favor."

He said Canada, even under a

Liberal government, could not avoid some share of the worldwide inflation caused by war, but because the country is playing a leading part in world affairs it has been "willing to pay the premium for the insurance against totalitarian aggression."

"As long as there is war in Korea we cannot afford to reduce that premium. But if the fighting should end, then there is the possibility under a Liberal government of a reduction in taxes."

Record Number Play Over Jasper Course on Anniversary of Opening

JASPER—More golfers played over the championship course at Jasper Park Lodge yesterday than on any other day so far this season.

To establish the new record, 305 golfing enthusiasts teed off during the day, which was 32 more than the previous high total.

It couldn't have happened on a better day for just 28 years ago on July 17, 1925, the late Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British forces in the Great War, and a former captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, officially opened Jasper's beautiful 18-hole course.

A bronze plaque, affixed to the outside front wall of the club house building, records the opening event.

Keith Spalding, of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Spalding were the first players to tee off. Both are guests at Jasper Park Lodge and are on a month-long vacation.

Abbott Gives $100,000 To BEG Society

VANCOUVER (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott has turned over a federal cheque for $100,000 to the British Empire Games Society to help finance the 1954 games here.

In the course of his Western speaking tour, Mr. Abbott attended a regular weekly meeting of the games executive to present the cheque, half of a proposed federal grant of $200,000 to the games. The first half was approved by Parliament and the other is expected to be voted next year.

With a laugh, Mr. Abbott referred to the federal election campaign, saying the money would undoubtedly be voted unless "there is the possibility that some campaign against waste and extravagance might uphold the payment."

"But seriously," he said, "I am sure you needn't fear that any other possible government would not make a further federal grant."

Canadians Take Lead In Cup Play

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's tennis veterans held a 2-0 lead over Mexico's youngsters today as they met in the doubles match of the first round North American zone Davis Cup play.

Henri Rochon of Montreal trounced Mario Llamas of Mexico, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 Friday and Lorne Main defeated Pancho Contreras 9-11, 8-6, 6-3, 8-6 in the other singles match.

Smithers Unable to Issue Debentures To Help Finance Community Centre

Special to The Daily News
 SMITHERS—Village commissioners have been informed by B. C. Bracewell, inspector of municipalities, they were correct in their opinion the village was not able to issue debentures to finance or assist in financing a community centre here.

The inspector's letter said the village has no power to borrow by a delegation of the Bulkley money not repayable in the same year for such a purpose.

Prince Rupert Daily News
 Saturday, July 18, 1953

AT 20, FO. GERALD KERR of Welland, Ont., is the youngest pilot in 439 squadron at No. 1 fighter wing, North Luffenham, Eng. In the Royal Air Force review for the Queen at Odiham, Hants, last Wednesday, Kerr flew one of the 36 Sabre jets in the 663-plane fly-past.

Further discussion took place in connection with a proposed federal-provincial rental housing scheme in Smithers. A letter received from the provincial housing commissioner outlined briefly the village financial responsibility and that the village must establish the need.

The letter did not contain all the village commission felt it needs and it was decided to write Prince Rupert for information on a similar housing project there.

HOMES NEEDED

It is generally considered rental houses are a definite requirement and the Smithers District Chamber of Commerce who investigated the move will carry out a survey to establish the need.

Erosion by the Bulkley River threatening the village pump house will be checked by construction of a rip-rap wall to deflect the current away from the river bank. A grant of $2,500 has been received from Victoria to cover estimated costs. The village is to undertake the necessary work.

NO CONTRACT

After consideration, garbage and sanitary collection will not be contracted, it was decided. A request for a contract was received last month, but the village will continue to hire a man and use one of its own trucks for the job. It was felt better control could be maintained of the service provided, to continue as is. Contracting the job had been tried in the past and reported unsatisfactory.

The proffered free survey for a sewage system by a firm of municipal consulting engineers is to be taken up. The need for something to be done in regards the drainage problem here has been stressed recently in reports received by the village from the district provincial health inspector.

IT IS 329 YEARS SINCE the Indians sold Manhattan Island and some warrior chiefs finally got mad—but not about that. It seems an ingenious press agent decided to have an Indian beauty contest in a New York department store. He picked Little Sunshine (left) as the winner but the braves rebelled, and selected She Who Is Single (right). The latter won and the press agent kept his scalp. Here Little Sunshine, who looks anything but happy, congratulates She Who Is Single.

Moose Thrive On Island In Ontario

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—There is an island in Lake of the Woods that is 53 square miles of moose haven.

R. C. Passmore, Ontario department of lands and forests biologist, reports one of the densest moose populations on the North American continent on the little patch of land. He surveyed the area recently in a helicopter.

Mr. Passmore estimated a total of 130 moose on Big Island. With a tangle of brush on the west side making counting difficult, the figure is probably a conservative one.

Purpose of the survey was to determine ages and sex ratios of the animals. The heavy population is explained by fires which burned off large trees and logging which further reduced the timber stand. This encouraged smaller trees and underbrush on which the moose thrive.

Mr. Passmore said food is becoming scarce again as the trees increase in size and some animals have already died of starvation.

Jump Bid Doesn't Always Force Partner To Game

Here is another situation where a jump raise of partner's opening bid of one in a major suit is not forcing.

Mrs. Keen was the dealer and passed. The next hand passed and Mr. Dale opened the bidding with one heart. Mrs. Keen, with a near-opening bid and a fine fit with her partner's bid suit, jumped to three hearts.

This was a strong bid but it was not forcing because of Mrs. Keen's previous pass. If she had felt there was a good play for ten tricks even if Mr. Dale had opened an absolute minimum, then her job was to go straight to four hearts.

As it was, Mr. Dale went on to four anyway. He had a minimum in high cards but with a six card trump suit and a singleton there was a chance of doing some maneuvering. In addition, it was his thought that the defense might be expected to slip a little.

Mr. Muzzy opened the four of diamonds, the dummy was played from dummy and Mr. Abel won with the jack. He returned the 'rev of spades and the ace won.

With a sure loser in spades and diamonds, Mr. Dale knew he would lose the hand if the club finesse lost. He found a way to avoid that finesse.

At trick three he led a small heart to dummy's queen. He returned the king of diamonds and ruffed it high when Mr. Abel covered with the ace. He entered dummy again with a heart to the ten and led back the ten of diamonds on which he pitched a club.

Mr. Muzzy won with the queen of diamonds and, too late, returned a club. Mr. Dale went up with the ace in dummy, led the nine of diamonds and parked his last club. He conceded a spade trick and claimed the rest, losing a spade and two diamonds.

SCREEN ★ FLASHES

Diana Lynn, the young actress who parlayed a piano keyboard to screen fame, is today one of Hollywood's busiest young stars. The actress is currently starring in Universal-International's Technicolor "Meet Me at the Fair," opening Monday at the Totem Theatre.

In addition to her motion picture work, Diana has become increasingly active in theatre and television. She has appeared on most of the top dramatic TV shows originating in New York, and in recognition of her stature in the television field a leading magazine recently used her picture on its cover and made her the focal point of an article on today's leading television actresses.

Alluring Miss Lynn is also well known as a pianist, having established an enviable reputation in this field before she saw the inside of a motion picture studio.

"Meet Me at the Fair," directed by Douglas Sirk and produced by Albert J. Cohen, features Hugh O'Brian, Carole Mathews, "Scat Man" Crothers, Rhys Williams and introduces Chet Allen, 13-year-old singing sensation from the Columbus Boy Choir.

Copper Mine Encouraging Results

"Encouraging results" are reported from the copper property being tested by a major mining company high in the northwest corner of B.C.

The exploration work was made possible by flying mining equipment in ski-equipped planes last winter to the isolated area.

Diamond drilling and tunneling has been carried out by the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Company, Ltd., at its Granduc holdings, four miles east of the panhandle.

Four large mineralized veins have been found on the surface. In the first lateral hole, an indication of 40 feet assayed 10 per cent copper, with one immediate section carrying per cent.

The second lateral hole, in the same direction, cut off ore assaying 2.3 per cent copper.
