A Challenge To Be Met

IN POLLING BOOTHS throughout the province today thousands of British Columbians are writing their future in numbers. When their ciphers are sifted through the machinery of the alternative vote, a government will be elected to assume direction of our affairs in a period which many anticipate will be a difficult one.

Although B.C. is prosperous and has been the subject of much enthusiastic outside comment, the task of the incoming government is not going to be an easy one. On the other side of the ledger are climbing costs, narrowing markets and reduced production. There is no better example of this than the case of the lumber and fishing industries.

These are problems which, influenced by world conditions, are beyond the power of a provincial government to solve. Yet this same government must deal with the effect and somehow remove its sting. If it is unsuccessful, it will lose public support, no matter how blameless. Perhaps it would be politically wise, therefore, to let the other fellow have control at this particular stage of the game.

Yet the chances of success offer a challenge that cannot be turned aside. For a prolonged period now, B.C. has suffered from lack of political stability. From that point of view the next government has everything to gain. The public is so weary of uncertainty that it is unlikely any party will court another quick election. For this reason, whichever one is in power should feel some assurance that it can act decisively without constant concern for political niceties.

But a more solid consideration is the fact that B.C. has too many things that the world needs to be deterred for any extended period of time. There is nothing very sickly about a province which is spawning a town like Kitimat, or which has untapped land like the Peace River and Chilcotin country, or which is being explored for a site at which to locate a giant metallurgical development like that proposed by the Frohisher interests.

It is true that a province is not made by the money it attracts. It gains its identity and strength from the nature of its people, just as Quebec has derived character from its habitants, Nova Scotia from its fishermen and the prairie provinces from their wheat farmers.

But more than any other province, B.C. is in the process of growing and, in being so, is developing a breed of settlers in remote places which will become as distinctive a tribe as any other. Money in large quantities to redistribute civilization is making their existence possible.

The mercenary aspect, therefore, is not just a matter of making a fast buck. The making of a people is involved and, though the pioneer today uses an expensive bulldozer instead of a handmade plough, the result is no less impressive.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

Of course, plenty of folks will not be leaving home to see the Coronation for another few weeks. It will be easier to find a room, and expenses will be less. As for the royal procession, that's old stuff. But London will continue to remind one strongly of a coronation.

Battling Nelson isn't dead, but he might as well be. No one ever hears of him today. Once the world's almost ablest fighter, he is at 71 a shrunken, destitute little man, existing in a shabby room in Chicago. For that's the way it goes.

During the last week of May it was mentioned in the British press that coronets for peers, which are made of brass were available for 15 pounds. It is understood this failed to interest anyone in western Canada.

Make every attempt to have a restful and pleasant atmosphere when eating, says a contributor to a nutrition column. It can be done, but elections and food costs do have a way of leading to arguments.

Ends on a Smile

PENTICTON: Here in the interior the B.C. election ended with smiles, chuckles and even a laugh here and there.

Nobody knows how this election is coming out, and few experts in these parts would do much betting.

But right now all over the interior people are quietly chuckling at the expense of Premier Bennett.

For it seems that Mr. Bennett tripped himself up in a quite important matter by forgetting a lady, which is bad, and a Doukhobor lady, which is sometimes more serious.

THE STORY goes back to Mr. Bennett's first campaign trip up into the Doukhobor country. The non-Doukhobors in those parts were pretty much wrought up just then, for somebody had been burning and dynamiting in the Sons of Freedom areas.

You can get yourself an argument as to who was doing the burning, for there are some shrewd people hereabouts who say that in this case the Sons of Freedom were not to blame—that some other groups were trying to pour oil on the always smouldering Doukhobor problem in order to get rid of the Sons.

However that may be, it has no bearing on the main story. In any event an irate deputation of anti-Doukhobors finally caught up with the premier who had been dodging them (or maybe the Doukhobors) on that trip. When they finally cornered Mr. Bennett they "persuaded" him to write his famous telegram to the national government at Ottawa demanding the imposition of the War Measures Act.

It was made very clear in Parliament that the War Measures Act could only be applied in actual wartime, but nobody blamed Mr. Bennett too much for getting the War Measures Act mixed up with the Emergency Powers Act. Everybody in Parliament recognized that Mr. Bennett was on the hot spot when he wrote that telegram. But here is where the laugh comes in, and why the folks in the interior are chuckling.

THE ANGRY CROWD was shouting at the Premier to demand that Ottawa impose a curfew against all Doukhobors. "No, no, that's going too far," the Premier protested.

But the crowd shouted all the louder for a curfew against all Doukhobors in the Kootenay country.

So the Social Credit premier gave way, and dictated the telegram as demanded by the shouting crowd.

That is where Mr. Bennett forgot the lady—and that is why the laugh is not on the lady.

ONE of Mr. Bennett's own cabinet ministers, Hon. R. E. Sommers of Rossland-Trail, is himself married to a very lovely, highly educated and universally respected Doukhobor lady.

Hence, had Ottawa yielded to Mr. Bennett's ill advised and excited ultimatum as Mr. Bennett himself had yielded to the anti-Doukhobor crowd, the RCMP would have had to post guard outside the door of the Social Credit minister's home to keep that same cabinet minister's wife from going out after dark! Mr. Sommers would have had to lock up his wife at sundown!

BEHIND the smiles, chuckles and laughs there is a lot of head-shaking and serious thought.

People are asking themselves and asking each other: "Is that the way we want our laws made in B.C.?"

LETTERBOX

MAKES PEOPLE THINK

The Editor,
The Daily News:
Although I am still of Social Credit persuasion, it certainly pleased me to see your take a stand in your May 19 editorial, "Elect a Liberal Government."

This is a good healthy attitude to take and it has the effect of making a person start thinking and searching out the reasons why he is one way inclined or another.

It is also one reason why I believe the L.P.P. should not be outlawed in Canada (barring treason proved). It makes people think! I know in my short sojourn into the LPP it started me into a study of the aims of said party. The outcome was that many of the ideologies contained in the Communist manifesto appealed to my nature. And it is this like appeal that has captured many Christians.

It wasn't until later when I was converted to Christianity that in a like zealous study of the Christian faith I came to realize that communistic ideals (not dialectical materialism) have been in the main taken from Christian teachings.

The real root reason so many people are led astray into communism is because they have neither studied communism nor Christianity assiduously enough to discern that any truth the former may have has been usurped from Christianity.

LIBERAL VOTES CCF

The Editor,

month have been for the Liberals only. You shouldn't have had to do that. The public memory isn't that short. The people remember quite well what they're like. How can you tell what a cake tastes like until you have tried it?

Why not try CCF? If we don't like them, we can throw them out like the Social Credit. This is my opinion. I may be wrong, but who can tell? The CCF are well-liked in Saskatchewan—so why not try them here?
ALEX MORLEY.

FLAGS HAVE MEANING

The Editor,
The Daily News:
Criticism can be in two categories—niggling and destructive or generous and constructive. Criticism in the latter sense is the essence of democracy.

I also witnessed the Coronation parade, and my reactions were exactly those of Mr. Hurst's. The American flag, leading the parade, struck me as strange until I paused to watch the antics of the American sailors, when I paid attention to their "drill" (?). I came to the conclusion that the leading group were just clowning, and that it was a burlesque—a pantomime act—not really true of the U.S.A. at all, and that someone with a sense of humor had arranged this to cause a laugh.

When I accepted this outlook, I was able to accept the "Stars and Stripes" out of step sailors' absence of the White Ensign.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

OTTAWA.—One of Parliament Hill's demon statisticians who has been working on the figures of the recent Nova Scotia provincial general election has come up with the disclosure that a switch of 390 votes is all that would have been necessary to instal a Conservative administration in power.

Of course, the switch would have to take place in certain strategic ridings in which the results were close. For example, there was a photo-finish in one constituency where the Liberal candidate only held his seat by five votes. In that case a switch of just three votes would have given the Conservatives another member.

With the federal contest now just around the corner, this sort of political arithmetic is entirely too close for the comfort of Parliament Hill's prospective gladiators. It points up a little too vividly the possibility of anything happening to anybody. There's a growing feeling that in the campaign now dawning there's no such thing as security for any contestant—regardless of any past glories which he may have achieved.

The classic example of this uncertainty is the apprehension which Liberal circles are feeling over the return of Hon. "Bob" Winters, minister of reconstruction and supply. His constituency of Lunenburg is predominantly Liberal in its tendencies. But from 1926 to 1935 it returned a Conservative in the person of the late Hon. W. G. Ernst. There's a fear in Liberal circles that it may be on the point of wavering again.

The grounds for the anxiety lie in the fact that in the recent provincial election the Conservatives made a gain of three seats in the area which comprises the federal constituency for which Hon. "B" Winters sits. It's a fishing area and the commercial fishermen aren't any too happy economically these days. Their discontent is a factor that's likely to carry through into the federal polling. The prevailing opinion is that if the minister of reconstruction and supply wins out in the campaign ahead, it will be due to the personal popularity which he enjoys amongst his own people.

One of the chief federal arguments of the moment centres

Baby Bonus Payments At New High

VICTORIA — Federal welfare payments in British Columbia in May reached an all-time high of $5,351,930. Of this amount, $3,242,150 went to Old Age Security pensioners and $2,109,780 to Family Allowances recipients, W. R. Bone, regional director, said today.

Old Age Security pensioners numbered 80,515, while Family Allowances were paid to 359,081 children in 174,748 families.

During May, 112 Old Age Security pensioners moved to British Columbia from other provinces while 101 left. 533 families receiving Family Allowances left British Columbia and 421 entered this province. The bulk of the movement in both cases was to and from the prairie provinces.

$300 Netted In Tag Day For Museum

A tag day last Saturday which netted $300 in aid of the Prince Rupert museum will enable this tourist attraction to open and keep operating this summer, F. E. Anfield, museum board president said today.

Mr. Anfield said that due to other planned events there were not as many taggers available as anticipated but the volunteers who took part worked with enthusiasm.

Leading taggers for the day were Patsy Wong, Frank Anfield and Violet Watson, who will receive prizes for their energetic service.

Thanks were also given to Peter Wong of Broadway Cafe for his co-operation in donating lunches for all taggers and to Harry Black who provided theatre passes.

A campaign this coming winter for funds to construct a new museum is planned by the board, said Mr. Anfield.

KHTADA! The beautiful name of one of Heaven's gifts to the anglers of our town, yet so many of them have never visited this beautiful water.

Only eating fish that were deep-hooked or unlikely to survive were used in the frying-pan.

The fly-rod flatfish was among the fish-taking lures, and although the lake water is high and full of feed, the anglers met with difficulty in travel or angling.

A second party of Cellulose people including GEORGE ROBINSON also went in to Khtada, their report is similar to the foregoing, but full details are not available.

Add to the dollops at Port Edward a big run of sea-trout; to be precise these excellent fighters are sea-run cutthroats, they will take on the easily recognized markings after a short stay in fresh water, but while in their green colors are quite similar to (but darker than) steelheads.

There is a very definite distinguishing mark by which anglers may be certain whether or not a fish belongs to the salmon, trout or charr family. This is the adipose fin, a small fleshy protuberance about a quarter-inch high, semi-circular, and around three-quarters inch long in fish up to say five pounds; this fin is located atop the wrist-like portion of the tail, and behind the ordinary dorsal fin.

In addition is the fact that trout and salmon each have square tails, but dollops and lake trout show noticeable forked tails; to define more clearly means going into teeth, etc., except that the imported so-called Eastern brook trout does have a square tail and is a true charr.

When preparing freshly caught fish to bring some distance home, be sure to scrape away ALL the blood from along the backbone; very often failure to do so means spoiling the flavor of delicate small trout. Avoid using water when first cleaning fish; in the kitchen, immediately before cooking, is the right time and place for this ablution.

Another trip along Silver Creek, this time by DICK GILBERT and WHIT LEWIS, reports that the steelhead for this year were finished. Dick got hold of two but failed to subdue either; they penetrated beyond the forks to the falls and will not work the water again before fall.

Further evidence from a reliable source anent the Kamloops-rainbow in Shawatians, also JERRY WOODSIDE and party brought out near limits of fish and claim them to show no sign whatever of red throat markings; LARRY STANWOOD corroborates this on a trip made earlier. Concerning Silver Creek, three other are reported working there; this is about the time when kits are well along and finding for themselves.

Two more Salmon Derby weekends remaining, ample time to make a trip outside the harbor; about a month before the early chos show up, remember that the Field & Stream contest awaits your entries, and the winners could very likely be taken from local waters.

Selected Football Team Downs Visiting U.K. Squad

A selected city football team proved too good for a team from the visiting British grain boat Sedgpool, now in port to load grain, and won easily, 6-0.

Nuyten opened the score for the locals and then Tambourini scored with a fine cross drive just inside the far upright. Mills was clean through and added a third and Rutton with a fine header put the locals four up at half time.

The visitors had more of the play in the second half but were unable to beat Maron.

Verhaar added a fifth for the locals with a hard drive and Hank Nuyten scored the sixth and last.

Maron had more to do towards the end but kept the score sheet clean. The locals were lucky when with Maron out of goal, a shot was going in but Carolei caught the ball and cleared. From the resulting penalty kick Pounder placed the ball just outside the upright and missed a great chance.

CHATTER—The locals gave a nice display of football against a weaker team. They did some nice passing and interpassing plays.

The men from the Sedgpool showed they knew football but they were always a little slower than the locals and could not get or hold possession of the ball.

This is only to be expected as they got no chance to practice on the ship, and their previous game was around the New Year. They had nice touches and played hard to the end. One very notable feature was their good sportsmanship. They asked for no special consideration at any time.

It would be hard to pick out any star though their goalkeeper, somewhat lacking in height for that position, did very well. Their centre-half, Boags, was sound and resourceful.

Tomorrow night CYO and the General Motors get together in a regular North Star League fixture. In their last encounter General Motors handed the CYO their only defeat so far this season though neither team was at full strength.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The job Bucky Harris is doing with the glued-together Washington Senators at the moment once again demonstrates what we have long contended: That the old "boy manager" comes close to being the greatest handler of baseball players in the game today.

The latest official averages, you may or may not be surprised to learn, show that Bucky's weird assortment of bargain basement athletes are leading the American League in club fielding and double plays and are second only to the champion New York Yankees in collective batting.

Frank (Spec) Shea, upon whom the Yankees gave up last year, is pitching some of the finest ball of his career for Harris when his shoulder doesn't hurt. Wayne Terwilliger, waived out of the National League, is playing a bang-up second-base. Ed Fitzgerald, who flunked every test with Pittsburgh, is making passes at the first-string catching job under his new manager. Clyde Vollmer, still another ex-National Leaguer recently cast off by Boston Red Sox, has gained new outfield life for Harris.

It's all mystifying. Scarcely a player on the club cost any real money and its salary list must be about the lowest in either league. There is no bench strength whatever. One of its pitching mainstays is a 45-year-old cigar smoking Cuban named Conrado Marrero. The team possesses only one genuine long ball hitter, Jackie Jensen.

But it's up there in the race, and the answer must be Harris.

Remember When

Jim Jeffries knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons in the 11th round at Coney Island, N.Y., 54 years ago tonight to win the world's heavyweight boxing championship. Jeffries retired in 1905 after a six-year rule during which he beat Fitzsimmons a second time and twice defeated former champion Jim Corbett.

King Regains Lightweight Boxing Title

TORONTO (AP)—Arthur King of Toronto regained the Canadian lightweight boxing championship Monday night with a dull 12-round decision over defending champion Armand Savoie of Montreal at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Canadian Boxing Federation reversed its previous stand and sanctioned the fight.

The bout was also for the British Empire lightweight title. Savoie will place his Canadian title on the line and King, who fights out of Philadelphia, will have his British Empire crown at stake.

Gene Latourneau of Quebec City, CBF national commissioner, previously had refused to sanction the 12-round bout for the Canadian title on the grounds that King no longer is a Canadian citizen.

Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletics commissioner, informed the CBF that King is still a Canadian citizen, although a resident alien of the United States.

The bout was the second one between King and Savoie. In their encounter three years ago King was awarded a unanimous decision.

She is a modernized "Fleet V" class destroyer, well armed, having a top speed of 33 knots, and with a complement of 248 officers and men. Doubly honored, she has the honour of conveying Her Majesty (then Princess Elizabeth) and the Duke of Edinburgh from Vancouver to Victoria and back during the Canadian Royal Tour. In May 1952, Crusader left Canada to fight under the U.N. flag in Korean waters. From that date to May, 1953, she steamed 64,160 miles, and spent 247 days on duty for freedom at sea. *The Trainbuster's Club draws its honourable membership from ships of the United Nations fleet. J. H. Spicer Transferred To Kamloops

Three new appointments in the engineering department of the Canadian National Railways involve posts at Vancouver, Kamloops and Prince Rupert.

Moving from Prince Rupert to Kamloops is J. H. Spicer, division engineer here since 1951. He will replace J. L. Cann as divisional engineer for the Kamloops division who has been appointed assistant district engineer for the B.C. district with headquarters in Vancouver.

Mr. Spicer served as engineer at Vancouver and Winnipeg and as division engineer at Port Arthur and Winnipeg before moving to Prince Rupert.

Replacing Mr. Spicer here is Swedish-born Ruben Staffanson who began railroading with a bridge and building gang in 1929.

Structural field engineer on construction of the CNR's Lynn Lake line in Manitoba, he served in a number of posts in the engineering department including assistant engineer at Winnipeg and B and B master at Kamloops.

Mr. Cann, who becomes the new district engineer, was born in Winnipeg and started with the railway as a chairman at Atikokan, Ontario in 1939, while attending the University of Manitoba. On graduation in 1943, he returned to the engineering department as an instrument man at Montreal. He returned to Winnipeg in 1946 as assistant engineer and later as division engineer before moving to Kamloops in 1950.

France Still Without Government

PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly has refused to invest Pierre Mendes-France as Premier, leaving the country still without a government as the important Big Three Bermuda talks draw near.

Mendes-France almost made it. The official count Thursday night showed he received 307 votes—just seven short of the required 314 majority.

Mendes-France was the fourth man to try to end the latest cabinet crisis, which has left the country 12 days without a government.

trailing of the Red Ensign, etc., etc.

Had I taken it seriously, I would have been in complete agreement with Mr. Hurst, as I thought it was all a joke, I only felt it was slightly in bad taste to ridicule our American cousins.

But I know some places in the world where people have been shot for less.

Flags of all countries have meaning, they stand for loyalties to things common the world over—courage, pain, victory, defeat, loyalty to causes greater than country.

To know the meaning of any flag, of any country, is to treat it at all times with the dignity it has earned. It can be but ignorance of the history of the flag which accounted for the display at the demonstration, or the intention to be insulting, I like to think it was the former.

Well done, Mr. Hurst, perhaps now we shall have people reading about the meaning and plate of flags in the universe—an absorbing study for the winter months.

JEAN AIRD.

THE MONEY SYSTEM

The Editor,
The Daily News:

Mr. Bonner and other candidates say they believe in the theories of Social Credit as expounded in the many thousands and varieties of booklets and pamphlets distributed in this election campaign.

Do the citizens realize that, taking the Secords at their word, all prices for goods and services would be fixed by a "government appointed three-man commission" which would be all powerful? This would mean that everything would be fixed even down to the last killawatt or shoe-shine, including all wages.

Such control would not rest in our Legislatures but with "The Monetary Commission." Secords glibly quote "give me control of the credit of a nation and I care not who makes its laws," how true that would eventually be. It would simply mean complete regimentation and an army of bureaucrats.

What I honestly believe is that our British Parliamentary system would be gradually eliminated in the event of Secord federal power. Social Credit is predicated as a single dictatorial control.

My attendance at meetings, questions asked, and my letters to the papers are prompted solely in an endeavour to get the facts to the people.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE,
Victoria, B.C.

The Editor,
The Daily News:

I would like through the medium of your paper to express my gratitude to the staff of the General Hospital during my stay there, the longest I have had yet, matron, nurses, nurses' aides and maids couldn't have been more kind and patient. The more one sees of them the more they are to be admired for their work, tired often and understaffed they never lose patience, not only from duty but from real kindness.

GRATEFUL PATIENT.

Defence Needs Initiative,
Imagination—And Cards

"The trouble with you, Muzzy," said Mr. Heinsite, "is that you just won't use any imagination on the defence."

"Who asked you?" replied Mr. Muzzy simply.

Mr. Heinsite barged right ahead. "Bidding and dummy play are routine, but you recognize a real player by the way he defends. You've got to have imagination and initiative."

"Please tell me more," said Mr. Muzzy. "Give us just one more hour of these fascinating remarks."

Mr. Heinsite shrugged resignedly and picked up his hand. He glowed inwardly when he saw it contained no less than 10 honor cards. He elected to open the bidding with one club. Mr. New responded with one diamond.

Here Mr. Muzzy asked for a review of the bidding. Reassured that Mr. Heinsite had indeed bid clubs, he went into a huddle. Finally, determined not to be kept out of the bidding, he came in with one spade.

Mr. Heinsite now unloosed his big guns. "Two no trump," he said loudly. Mr. New tried to scurry to cover with three diamonds, but his partner persisted in no trump.

Mr. Muzzy was confused by these developments, but after some thought he said, "I think I'll double."

Mr. Heinsite's tone was mocking. "And I think I'll redouble," he said.

The double in this situation strongly suggests that partner open the doubler's bid suit and Mr. Dale dutifully led a spade. Mr. Muzzy won with the ace and carefully and slowly rattled off six club tricks to put the contract down 1600 points.

Mr. Dale congratulated Mr. Muzzy on his spade bid which ultimately guided him into the "right opening lead."

"If I can do this well on just one lecture, Heinsite," kidded Mr. Muzzy, "what could I do if I subscribed to your whole course?"

"Luck," snarled Mr. Heinsite. "Pure luck." Mr. Muzzy replied, "Oh, no." Mr. Muzzy replied, "It was imagination and initiative, plus one thing you forgot to mention—good cards."

The first classes at Queen's University in Kingston, Ont. were opened in 1842.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITALS TO GET LARGE MOBILE AQUARIUM

The Hospitals Aquarium Trust Fund in Vancouver plans to equip the Children's Hospital and the Preventorium with large mobile aquariums which can be moved from ward to ward.

In an effort to purchase the aquariums, an appeal is being made for funds, and the committee in charge announced today that any surplus monies on hand at the close of the current appeal will be established as a maintenance fund and for future replacements.

Too late for Agincourt

EVEN THE BOWMEN who toppled armor-plated knights at Agincourt would have been impressed by the range of a modern aluminum bow used at a recent British archery championship. It shot the winning arrow a distance of 353 yards. Made of a special alloy, the bow had a tensile strength of thirty-two tons!

While sturdy aluminum is playing an essential part in Canadian defence production for the free world, we're afraid the new aluminum bow is a little late for defence use in our atomic age. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).
