Alternative Vote Better

ELECTION officials would probably throw up their hands in dismay at the idea, but we think it unfortunate that the alternative voting system is not used in Dominion balloting.

Although provincial Liberal leader Art Laing has criticized the system on the grounds that it encourages the growth of too many parties, it seems to us that the parties are going to be there, with or without the system. In the case of the federal parliament, the single-vote method has done nothing to discourage assorted groups from aspiring to representation. Since they do exist and since they will put candidates in the field as far as they are financially and morally able, the rational attitude would be to adopt the system which to a great extent would eliminate the evil of minority representation. As it is, there are undoubtedly many members of parliament who are thoroughly detested by the majority of their constituents and who would be their last choice in any kind of preferential voting. If that means the true voice of the people is being heard in the direction of our affairs, then we will take vanilla.

It is probable that, even if the alternative system were adopted federally, the composition of the national parliament would not be greatly different from that decided by the present method. Although many strange and unexpected developments are precipitated by the transfer of ballots, the story of the final outcome begins to unfold with the very first counting. The trends assert themselves almost immediately as they do under the single count, and it is only the details which must await refinement.

But these details, which now receive no adjustment in our federal voting, are of tremendous importance. Pieced together, they mean that the winning party is composed as nearly as possible of representatives who have the greatest approval of the voters. As it is now, a relatively unpopular man can ride to victory because two opponents who are better liked have killed each other off. The virtue of alternative voting is not so much that it assures a party representation in proportion to its popular appeal—in a rough way, the present method does this, too—but that it acts as a selective screening for membership of that party.

The only losers under the alternative system are the radio listeners on election night. They must go to bed without a decision being reached. It is a bit of a let-down, but far better than the hangover of unfair representation.

Scripture Passage for Today

"Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord."

Canada Denies Vote to Hundreds Working in Foreign Countries

OTTAWA —Canada denies the vote to between 2,000 and 5,000 official representatives and some don't like it.

In fact some move may be made during the life of the Parliament elected Aug. 10 to end this situation, one which has already led to informal discussions in government quarters. No action is possible before this election because the Canada Elections Act must be amended and only Parliament has this power.

So there will be no vote Aug. 10 for the diplomatic, consular, trade, immigration and other official staffs which carry on Canada's business in roughly 50 different foreign countries.

Main reason for this is the fact that it would be quite an administrative job to work out a system which could cover so many small and scattered groups, get each man or woman voting in the proper riding, supervise the voting and get the ballots back in time.

But this sort of trail has already been blazed for the armed forces and the growth of civilian representatives aboard is strengthening the arguments of those who feel they, too, should have a vote.

The situation reaches the point of anomaly, say, in London where military members of the Canadian staff will have a vote in August while Canadian civilians who work beside them won't. In Hannover, Germany, members of the 27th brigade will vote but members of the Canadian immigration staff can't.

The armed forces, working with the chief electoral officer, are establishing two main overseas election headquarters, one in Kure, Japan, the other in London. These will funnel back to Ottawa the votes of some 20,000 members of the services now serving abroad.

EP Runs for MP

I HAVE been deeply honored by the nomination to run as Liberal candidate in Vancouver South in the present federal election.

It was a real thrill, when the Prime Minister was greeting all the B.C. candidates at the Vancouver airport, and said to me:

"We feel it a great honor to have you join our team."

The Prime Minister should have said "rejoin our team" for I ran before as a Liberal in South York in 1935 when this government came into power.

WIN OR LOSE, I hope to continue writing this column, and look forward eagerly to writing from inside parliament—if that is the wish of the voters of Vancouver South.

I have set myself only these goals in this campaign:

1. No predictions.
2. Stick as much as possible to the positive Liberal program, and let the other candidates and parties speak for themselves.

I am lucky to follow such a good man as Art Laing, who was the previous MP for Vancouver South, and who has just won the most impressive victory in the entire province.

But I am also lucky in that there are four fine candidates for the other parties, already nominated. Any one would make a good MP.

WITH THE cordial agreement of the publisher of this paper I hereby invite all the other candidates in Vancouver South to share the use of this column during this campaign.

If they accept, their articles will appear in this space, set up exactly like this one, and carrying their names and their pictures at the masthead just like mine above.

They are entirely free to write anything they like in their own behalf and in behalf of their parties.

If they accept, their columns should appear on the following schedule:

MISS LORRAINE JOHNSTON, Progressive Conservative, on or about Saturday, July 18 and Saturday, August 1.

IRA MONSON, Social Credit, Monday, July 20 and Monday, August 3.

CLIFF GREER, CCF, Tuesday, July 21 and Tuesday, August 4.

GORDON ELDER, LPP, Wednesday, July 22 and Wednesday, August 5.

THE REASON I am glad and proud to stand for the Liberals in this election goes back to the time I ran before—on the same ticket.

In South York, where I ran before in 1935, there were 18,000 people living on relief.

The breadwinners of the families representing over a million Canadians were out of work.

Homeless boys roamed the country—chased from pillar to post.

I would not be so childish as to imagine, nor so dishonest as to pretend, that the present Liberal government is responsible for the fact that this country is probably the most prosperous and stable country in the entire world today.

But I do think that on the whole, the governments led first by Mackenzie King and now by Louis St. Laurent, have given the people of Canada the best administration that we have ever had since I was old enough to vote—and the most stable and sound government in any country I have yet visited.

The township of Adjala in Simcoe County, Ontario, was named after a daughter of the Indian chief Tecumseh.

ONE OF THE FIRST 16-year-olds eligible to vote legally since Confederation, Gale Christianson of Flin Flon, Man., is an apprentice soldier in the Canadian army, stationed at Winnipeg. Gale, training as a signaller, has been officially inducted into the army and given the right to vote in the August 10 federal election.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

It's only opinion. And it's not final opinion at that. But right now it's the best this capital has to go on in its attempts to appraise impartially the yards being gained by the respective political parties in the current campaign.

Its source is the sizeable group of press gallery correspondents who have been on tour these recent weeks with Messrs. St. Laurent and Drew. These practised observers returned briefly to the capital during the past week as the two party leaders traded campaigning territories. The consensus of their reactions to what they have seen so far may be summarized in three simple—but possibly debatable—propositions, viz:

- (1) In no other general election within current memory has public opinion been so widespread or so apparent.
- (2) Prime Minister St. Laurent has got away to a faster start than Conservative leader George Drew and at the present time is running ahead of his combined opposition.
- (3) In constituencies where army camps are located, PC candidates are running into trouble in the form of resentment amongst the servicemen against the PC criticism in Parliament of armed services policy and administration and, in particular, of Defence Minister Brooke Claxton.

Some of the specific reports which correspondents brought back to Parliament Hill were of more than routine interest. In this category was the belief that the two old-line parties will elect no more than the traditional "corporal's guard" in the three westernmost provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Veteran Agricultural Minister J. C. Gardiner was reported to be fighting for his political life in Melville—with none-too-good chances of survival. Conservative ace J. G.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

The only one good thing about the end of the strawberry season is the indubitable fact that raspberries are turning ripe.

Wars will persist. Here's a fellow from San Francisco who calls himself a Republican. He plans an invasion of Canada. He was still in California Friday but had spent fifty dollars in the designing of a flag. Is that so? Canada might make some use of him yet.

The Ontario Appeal Court finds that a husband and wife are capable of criminal conspiracy. But that's no way to describe a wedding.

Just think of it! The last half of the year 1953 is well on its way.

MUST AND CAN

Speaking in London, Ontario, the other night, the Governor General said something when he declared the old, self-conscious doubting days are over. "Then," said Mr. Massey, "we were a plain, a slow people, their future apparently hinging on things beyond their own control. I suggest we may even now be approaching our own Elizabethan age. Now there is a change. We know now that we have a future of our own; we know that we must and can control it; we know that manifest or not we have a destiny for which we must make plans."

BECOMING RESTLESS

Passing a silent shabby looking little place on Third Avenue the other day we could swear we heard someone inside mutter, "yes, months ago we started that story saying we'd be torn down, and a new and stylish business block run up on this identical ground. I feel lonesome," someone murmured as the stillness returned.

It was a shade warm in Prince Rupert last week, with a welcome freshness on Saturday, but it's just as well to recognize the summer has a considerable way to go yet. When the frying of eggs on Second Avenue starts, the local public will have a better appreciation of how weather interest can wax or wane.

In the bright lexicon of today's job-seeking youth there is no such phrase as $25 a week.

Not that it matters much, unless it would be a gallant gesture to salute the family.

FISHERMEN!

Protect Your Fishing Vessels!

The Fishermen's Indemnity Fund, set up by the Government of Canada to enable fishermen to secure low cost protection against storms and other perils, will go into effect in the Province of British Columbia on July 13th.

This low cost protection will help you in time of need.

WHO ARE ELIGIBLE?

All commercial fishermen who operate their own fishing vessels.

WHAT VESSELS ARE ELIGIBLE?

All seaworthy fishing vessels valued at between $250 and $7,500.

WHAT COVERAGE YOU GET

Total loss—60% of the appraised value. Serious damage—If the damage exceeds 30% of the appraised value of the vessel, you will be paid 85% of the amount over 30%.

WHAT YOU PAY

The yearly premium is 1% of the appraised value of your vessel.

HOW TO SECURE COVERAGE

Get in touch with your local Fishery Officer, who will explain the plan and help you fill in the application form. Arrangements will then be made for an appraisal of your vessel. You pay the premium and your vessel is then protected.

A handbook with details of the plan can be obtained from your local Fishery Officer, the Department of Fisheries, Vancouver 5, or Department of Fisheries, Prince Rupert.

Two Couples Exchange Vows At Pretty Double Wedding

In the first double wedding here of the summer, two former Alberta girls and two local boys exchanged vows in First United Church last Wednesday. Rev.
Archibald Greenway of Port
Simpson officiated.

United in marriage were Miss Roberta Frances Wymer, formerly of Lloydminster, Alberta, and Neil Stuart Forman, and Miss Margaret Piche, former resident of Port McMurray, Alberta, and Clifton Howard Borge.

Miss Wymer, carrying a colonial bouquet of yellow and blue carnations, wore a white and lace covered gown with long sleeves and net skirt. She wore a fingertip veil, lace edged and pearl embroidered headdress.

Her bridesmaid, Lana Watchell, wore a lovely pink dress and net headdress with matching colonial bouquet.

Flower girl was Karen Forman, sister of the groom, who wore a floor-length aqua sheer dress and carried a colonial bouquet of mauve and white flowers.
Peter G. Forman, brother of the groom, was best man.

Margaret Piche was gowned in white satin, with long sleeves and train. Her finger-tipped veil, in embroidered net with halo style headdress completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Her bridesmaid, Madeline Clark, wore a blue floor-length dress and net headdress with matching colonial bouquet.

Flower girl Karen Bellamy was gowned in yellow taffeta floor-length dress with a blue and white colonial bouquet. Best man was Jack Flewin.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forman, parents of Neil Forman, at which 75 guests attended. Master of ceremonies was Mr. Jack McKenzie.

The brides' table was centred with two- and three-tiered wedding cakes, flanked by bouquets of pink carnations and pink candles.

One of Originals in Colleymount District, Thomas H. R. Allin, Dies

Special to The Daily News

BURNS LAKE.—One of the original settlers of the Colleymount district on Francois Lake, Thomas Henry Russell Allin died in Burns Lake Hospital last week after a lengthy illness.

On July 4, St. John's Church here was filled as old timers from all over the Lake District gathered to pay their last respects to the well-known surveyor, packer and camp cook and Boer War veteran.

Rev. A. W. Atkinson, padre of the Burns Lake Legion branch, conducted the service.

Active pallbearers were William Bickle of Grassy Plains, James Brewer of Tatalrose, Kenneth Cassidy of Colleymount, L.
G. Saul of Burns Lake and Cyril Shelford of Wistaria

Honorary pallbearers were Hugh Cowan and Hubert Hewitt of Colleymount; Willson McNeil of Tatalrose and Barney Mulvany of Burns Lake.

Mr. Allin was born in Northampton, England, in 1875, and came to Canada in 1897, working his way west to central British Columbia.

With many others of the Lakes District, he joined the army during the Boer War. He had previously served in the 16th Lancashire Regiment.
Upon his discharge he joined the survey party of E. P. Colley after whom, along with Harry Eastmount, Colleymount was named.

Tom Allin made his home near Colleymount, surveying, packing and cooking for the different camps of the Forestry service. In the winter months he trapped—a vocation he followed up until 1947.

A member of many of the pack trains along the Bella Coola Trail which were made up almost exclusively of Boer War veterans, Tom Allin helped name the pack train camps after famous battlefields of the Boer War.

After retiring, Mr. Allin confined his attention to his vegetable garden which was famous even in the Lakes District and his flower garden which was the envy of all passers-by.

29 Girl Guides to Attend Summer Camp at Lakelse Lake

For the first time since 1949,
Prince Rupert and District Girl Guides will camp at the Kinsmen site at Lakelse.

This camp, which will give the Guides the opportunity to put into practice what they have learned all year, will be held from July 19 to 30, with 29 local girls taking part.

A summer camp is the ultimate goal of each Guide year, where, besides enjoying a healthful and relaxing vacation, girls are enabled to work toward such accomplishments as their swimmer's and lifesaver's badges, their second class nature study badge, or first class badges such as hiker's, compass work or mapping.

Girl Guide summer camps can only be entrusted to warranted Guiders over 21 years of age.
This year's camp will be in charge of Mrs. D. F. Baldwin, Captain of the Conrad Street School Girl Guides.

It is required by Girl Guide regulations that if there are over 25 girls at camp, there must be a registered nurse in the camp with them, a role that is being filled this year by Mrs. Victor Pick, RN. A qualified lifesaver will also be present in the person of Mrs. Ben Wells.

Regulations also state that there must be one qualified adult leader present for every eight girls. The full staff of leaders at camp will therefore be as follows: camp commandant, Mrs. D.
F. Baldwin; quartermaster, Mrs.
Fred May; lifesaver, Mrs. Ben Wells; camp nurse, Mrs. Victor Pick; house mother, Mrs. Robert Yamada.

Girls will not be required to pay the cost of transportation to camp, because cars have been donated by many citizens to transport them to and from camp.

Several cars are still needed, however. Those who have so far volunteered use of cars are:
Mayor Whalen, F. E. Anfield,
Mrs. D. Gomez, A. Rivett, Art
Murray, Mrs. B. E. Eyoifson, R.
Thorsteinson, G. Viereck, Mrs. H.
Powell, Mrs. D. F. Baldwin and Mrs. V. Pick.

Flag for the camp has been donated by Mr. F. E. Anfield, Boy Scout Commissioner. All the sugar for the camp is being given by Mrs. Ray Wood and Mrs.
R. Yamada.

leader is covered by insurance

Alaska Communication System Seeks 12 Lines Into Rupert

Special to The Daily News

WASHINGTON—A submarine coaxial cable between Haines and Prince Rupert is planned by the Alaska Communication system to provide 12 voice telephone channels from Haines to Prince Rupert, the facility to be extended aurally to Seattle, via Prince Rupert, Prince George and Vancouver.

The program was revealed when hearings on the defense department appropriation bill for the 1954 fiscal year were released this week. The Haines-Prince Rupert cable is one of several projects contemplated for expansion of telephone and telegraph facilities of the system.

The house appropriations committee approved $11,185,000 for construction, maintenance and operation of the Alaska Communication system in the appropriation bill considered by the house.

Of this total, $7,004,449 would go to improving the telephone and telegraph facilities, to include, in addition to the submarine coaxial cable, expansion of long line facilities between Anchorage and Haines Junction, Canada, and between Haines Junction and Haines.

"At the present time," Major General George F. Back, chief signal officer of the army, stated in his testimony before the committee, "there is a wire line extending from Tok Junction down to Haines Junction, Canada. Also, there is a wire line, completed last year, between Anchorage and Tok Junction. We would increase the facilities by placing additional wires between Tok Junction and Haines, and installing carrier equipment, so as to increase the number of channels; and similarly between Anchorage and Tok Junction."

Completion of these projects, according to General Back, would make available 12 additional telephone channels between Anchorage and Prince Rupert which could then be extended to Seattle by leasing 12 channels between Prince Rupert and Seattle from the Canadian government.

At the present time there are 11 telephone channels connecting Alaska with the continental United States which, General Back stated, "are totally inadequate to meet present service demands. A study which he had made indicated, he said, that 24 telephone channels are now required to handle current potential traffic."

Coldwell Also Criticizes PM For Promise of Health Scheme

By The Canadian Press

Prime Minister St. Laurent twisted Uncle Sam's beard during the week-end while George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, were yanking at his own moustache.

In an election campaign speech at Stampede-ferred Calgary, Mr. St. Laurent implied that the Republican party got into power in the United States with such "hot air" promises as tax cuts and then failed to deliver the goods.

The prime minister, seeking re-election for himself and the Liberal party he leads in the Aug. 10 contest, employed this implication to attack the $500,000,000-a-year tax reduction promised by the Progressive Conservatives.

At Jonquiere, Que., Mr. Drew criticized Mr. St. Laurent for saying the Progressive Conservatives couldn't deliver on promised cuts in defence spending.

He said Mr. St. Laurent shouldn't contradict Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative military critic, and others "who have served in uniform and know what military service is."

Mr. Coldwell concluded his Saskatchewan campaigning at Outlook by contending at a CCF picnic that Mr. St. Laurent's promise of a national health plan—providing the Liberals were re-elected and the provinces agree—was "typical" of the Liberals' "practised deceit" at election time.

"They're always stooped to these tactics before an election," Mr. Coldwell told the gathering on the banks of the South Saskatchewan River.

Did Not Refer to U.S. by Name

Mr. St. Laurent, in his speech before a Liberal rally, did not refer to the U.S. nor the Republicans by name but an official of his party said later "the U.S. is obviously the country he meant."

"Once upon a time in another land," the prime minister said, "a political party had been out of office so long it was apparently willing to try any kind of hot air to blow its way in."

"Well, this political party that had been out of office so long didn't bother about cold facts. Oh no. It just went merrily along promising to balance the budget and reduce taxes perhaps by the simple expedient of eliminating all the milk costs in that country."

"... And the people believed them and put them in office."

"They haven't been able to keep their promises to balance the budget and they are begging the people not to ask them to keep their promises to reduce taxes they find they need quite desperately to meet the cold facts of life."

Meanwhile, Mr. Drew referred to the prime minister's speech at Victoria Friday in which he called for a "straight answer" from the Progressive Conservatives on how savings could be made.

"The last person to talk about straight answers is the head of the government at Ottawa," Mr. Drew said.

"Let him tell us when he is going to do something about the waste and extravagance that has been found in every department of government subject to an independent investigation... We want a straight answer as to when they will get the horses off the payroll."

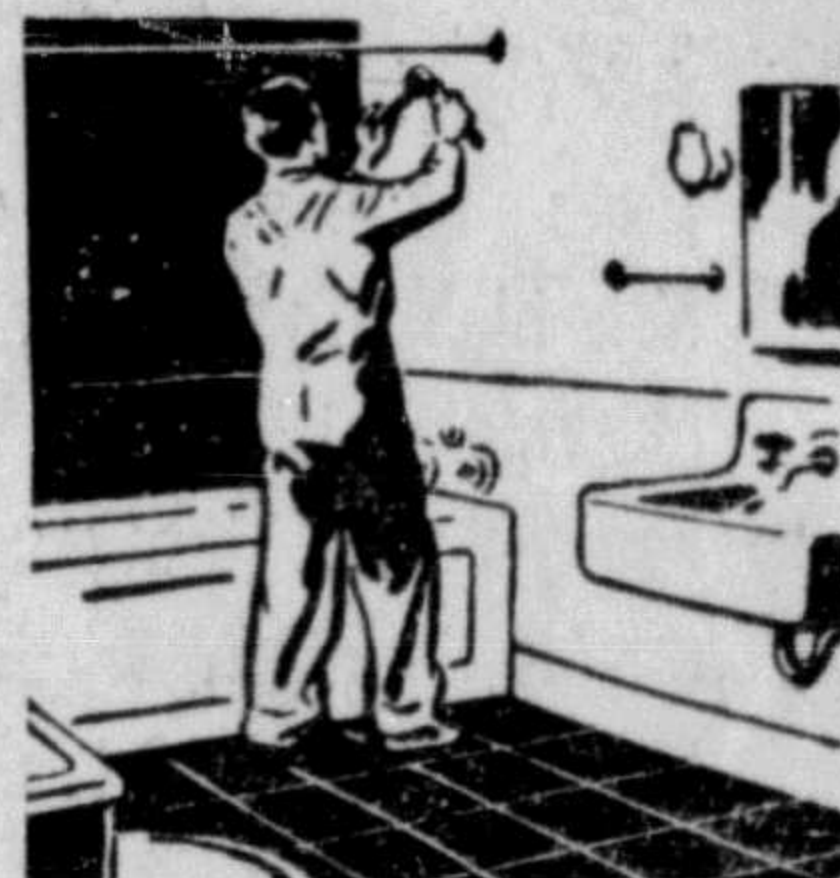

Mr. Drew made two speeches in French, one at Jonquiere and the other at St. Joseph d'Alma, and spoke later in English as he made a day-long tour of the Saguenay valley 140 miles north of Quebec. He opens his week-long tour of the Maritimes today at Campbellton and Bathurst in New Brunswick.

Mr. St. Laurent will be at Red Deer, Alta., today and then will fly from Penhold to Edmonton to speak at the opening of the Edmonton Exhibition.

Mr. Coldwell flew across five provinces to Moncton, N.B., where he also opens a Maritimes tour today.

The election is four weeks from today and it was nomination day in 21 scattered ridings. Nominations in the other 242 constituencies close July 27, two weeks before polling day.

One-Day Fair To Be Held At Smithers September 5

SMITHERS—The Bulkley Valley Agricultural and Industrial Association has decided to go ahead with plans to hold a one-day Fall Fair here September 5.

John Schoeder, was elected president of the association after Ray Oulton resigned.

Committee chairmen are: J. Watson, manufacturer's industrial exhibits; A. G. White, entertainment and sports; G. Young, finance committee; A. K. Bates, Telkwa; gate, J. J. Herman; exhibits, A. C. Fowler; publicity and advertising, W. D. Yorke-Hardy; livestock and poultry, F. Ollary; hobby display, A. N. Dando, Telkwa.

For a new exhibit building this year have been dashed by lack of funds within the Community Association as to whether to go ahead and make a start with monies in hand or await more complete financing arrangements.

The organization had hoped the village of Smithers would be able to issue debentures to raise part of the necessary monies, but its request to the inspector of municipalities was rejected.

Existing buildings have been allowed to deteriorate since the last fair in 1949. Considerable work will be necessary to rehabilitate them for use this year. An active committee with volunteer help will do the work.

Lateness of decision to hold the fair this year may possibly affect the number of entries but it is hoped increased interest may be shown in the livestock and poultry divisions in light of the increasing market potential for produce from the Bulkley Valley.

Exhibits of most farm products are expected to be of top quality. Ample moisture and freedom from late spring frosts now followed by warm, sunny weather is indicative of a good crop year.

Plans are for a parade on Main Street with prizes for the best in almost any class of produce. A full program of sports planned to include revival horse racing on a small scale.

Afternoon there will be a display of boxing, wrestling, gymnastics, a greasy pole, hardball and a ladies softball game.

DUBLIN (AP)—The film of Queen Elizabeth's Coronation is being shown in the Irish Republic—but it's a virtual underground manoeuvre. The showings have been private with attendance only by invitation. Moviehouse owners decided against running the Coronation film for fear of touching off reprisals by Irish Nationalist extremists who resent partition of the country. Organizers of the private showings keep the time and place secret.

Former B.C. Cruise Ship Now Under Italian Registry

NAPLES (CP)—A one-time British Columbia cruise ship which in wartime steamed the seas as a Canadian armed merchant cruiser, began a new career last week under a new name and a new flag. The former SS Prince Robert, now named the Lucania by her new Italian owners, sailed for the West Indies, Miami and South America with 700 passengers on her maiden voyage since her re-conversion. As the wartime Canadian auxiliary cruiser Prince Robert she captured a Nazi merchant ship.

The 11,000-ton vessel now is owned by the Italian shipping firm of Fratelli Grimaldi which bought her from the Canadian government in 1946. She was built in 1930 in England for Canadian National Steamships and served on the B.C. coastal run with sister ships Prince Henry and Prince David. In June, 1939, she carried King George VI and Queen Elizabeth from Victoria to Vancouver on the first stage of their homeward journey of the royal tour that year.

Nose-Piercing Latest Fad Among London's Younger Set

LONDON (Reuters)—When a man buys a ring for his girl here these days it may be for her nose. Nose-ringing is London's latest fashion fad and bright young things are pestered ear-piercers to pierce their noses so they can wear gold rings through them. Cyril Wilkinson, ear-piercer to the Queen, explained: "They want to wear rings through their noses. They won't wear them through one nostril like an Indian woman wears jewels. So far I have refused to pierce noses. I still have to find out more about the results. There is always the risk of infection. When they won't go away, I give them a spring ring and they go out happily wearing it." This ring, usually gold, is about half an inch in diameter, and fastens under the nose by means of a spring clip device. Wilkinson's clients are insistent. One young man brought his fiancée to have her nose pierced and wouldn't leave until she at least wore a spring ring. A girl of 25, a doctor's secretary, threatened to stay all night if Wilkinson did not pierce her nose. "I want to set a new fashion," she said.

Terrace Wallops G & A For Easy 8-4 Victory

Terrace C.C.'s pitcher Mathews threw a six-hitter at the visiting Gordon and Anderson baseball club as the home town boys downed G & A 8-4 at Terrace Sunday.

Errors proved costly to the Prince Rupert nine and after two innings of scoreless play walks and safe hitting by Terrace saw the home-towners bring in seven runs on as many hits, knocking Squire, G & A starter, out of the box.

Gordon and Anderson managed a run in the bottom of the third and three more in the fourth but Mathews steadied down and held the visitors scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Meantime G & A pitchers Christensen, Endridge and D. Scherk were in trouble as Terrace added one more run in the

Battery Halts Win Streak Of CYO XI

A much-improved 120 H/AA Battery team put an end to CYO's long string of victories Friday night when they chalked up a 2-1 win in a Prince Rupert Football league game at Roosevelt Park.

Mohan opened the scoring with a clean shot to put the soldiers ahead but good goal-keeping and fine defensive work by the Rutten brothers kept the score down through the rest of the first half.

A long shot by H. Nuyten from about 30 yards range fooled the Battery goalie and tied up the contest. Battery tried hard to break the tie and just before the final whistle a penalty shot taken by Boltong gave Battery the game.

The game showed much better co-ordination by Battery players. They were particularly well-served at outside left and centre half while the remainder of the team were on their toes throughout the game. CYO were handicapped through the absence of some of their more outstanding players and the youths deserve credit for the effort they made to score a win. The Rutten brothers and Hurley played top-notch games while Nuyten's goal was the reward of opportunism and was one of the best scoring shots seen for some time.

Pat Forman turned in an excellent job as referee.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano has decided to fight again this year and will defend his world heavyweight title against Roland La Starza in New York, preferably at Yankee Stadium in late September.

There never has been any reluctance, of course, of Rocky to defend. Al Weill, his manager, preferred to take his time before he allowed himself to be persuaded by Jim Norris, who runs the International Boxing Club.

Weill also picked the opponent, as was his privilege under New York state rules, at least as long as it was a legitimate challenger. Rocky still has four months to go before the six-month rule forces him to defend. Only in such a case can the New York commission in-

Douglas Edges Ulrich to Win Canadian Open

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO — Dave Douglas, a seasoned tournament player, got hot for 30 minutes Saturday and left a blazing trail of three straight down-to-the-wire birdies that gave him his first Canadian Open golf title and $3,000 first-place money. He needed every one of them.

The lanky 35-year-old shot-master from Newark, Del., started the final 13 of the 72-hole medal play tournament over the Scarborough course four strokes off the pace, whittled it with a three-under-par first-nine 33 and topped it with birdies on the 16th, 17th and 18th for a brilliant five-under-par round of 66 and a total of 273. He won by one stroke over Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., whose recalcitrant putter cost him the big money and the Seagram Gold Cup. Ulrich took $1,500 second-place money.

Dutch Harrison, an old-timer in the play-for-pay ranks and winner of the title in 1949, ended with 276 for third-place money of $1,200 and Saskatoon's Pat Fletcher made his fourth-place tie with Gardner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla., the best Canadian showing since Bob Gray of Toronto was runner-up in 1941.

Fletcher shot 71 Saturday to give him 277 and Dickinson got one under in his final 18. Each received $900.

Rupert XI Downs Smithers in Mediocre Game

A Prince Rupert football eleven made up mostly of CYO players salvaged a mediocre 7-6 game from a rejuvenated and reinforced Smithers squad after the visitors had tied up a 5-0 first half encounter at Roosevelt Park.

Smithers team, short about five players due to a car breakdown, were reinforced with local players but were still completely outplayed in the first half.

Three minutes after the game got under way Renato Baptiste scored for Rupert on a pass from Tambourini. Tambourini made it 2-0 for the locals when he banged in a shot from Ed Rutten. Rutten also gained an assist on Prince Rupert's third goal when he passed to Vanierland who beat John Konst in the Smithers net.

Tambourini made it 4-0 for Rupert on a pass from Nuyten and made the hat trick when he scored the local's eleven's fifth tally on a pass from Vanierland. The second half was a different story.

Rutten and Boltong were swapped for local players on the Smithers team and Konst played the right wing with A. Maron going into the Smithers goal.

E. Rutten led the Smithers rally, scoring on his brother in the Rupert goal, on an assist by Konst. Konst made use of his new position and smashed in a hard shot on a rebound from the local goalie. He made it 5-3 when unassisted he drove a long shot into the corner of the Rupert net that left the local net-minder spread-eagled.

Draw Likely In Test Match

MANCHESTER, England — Rain washed out play on the fourth day of the third cricket Test between England and Australia today.

The pitch and the outfield were waterlogged following almost continuous rain since before noon Sunday. It was still raining when the captains, Hulton and Hassett, arrived and without hesitation decided that no play would be possible today.

With only a maximum of six hours left on the final day Tuesday, a draw seems likely. The first two tests in the best-of-five series were also drawn. On Saturday England scored 126 for four in reply to Australia's 318.

Smithers team but three sensational saves by Maron robbed them of sure goals.

Two neat goals by Furunes tied up the game at 5-5.

A driving shot from Philips on a pass from Murray put Smithers in the lead.

Trying desperately to break the tie, Jerry Vanierland finally made it when he soloed from the left wing and beat Maron with a drive to the corner of the net.

A penalty shot in the last minute of the game which Vanierland also took gave him the hat trick and also provided the clincher for Prince Rupert.

Broncs Back In Contention For WIL Lead

By The Canadian Press

The Lewiston Broncs appear to have shaken off the slump that cost them the Western International Baseball League first half championship and are ready to battle the leaders for the remaining berth in the post-season playoff for the pennant.

The Broncs, WIL pace-setters until their mid-June collapse, took both ends of a doubleheader from Yakima, 6-4 and 6-3. Sunday's win vaulted them into a third place tie with Calgary, two games behind front-running Salem.

Salem and runnerup Spokane both split Sunday twin bills.
 The Senators whipped Tri-City 6-3 in the first game at Salem but were shut out 5-0 in the nightcap. Spokane came back from a 7-4 defeat at Wenatchee to down the Chiefs 7-2.

The league's four other clubs were idle.

Canadians Win Empire Trophy

BISLEY, Eng. (CP)—The Canadian team competing at the National Rifle Association annual meet has won the Empire Trophy for the first time since it was introduced in 1907.

Canada won the trophy, donated by Australia and previously won only by British and Australian teams, with a score of 1,826 Sunday. New Zealand was second with 1,793, Australia third, with Britain fourth with 1,772, followed by the British West Indies with 1,718.

The eight-man Canadian team was led by Lt.-Col. Steve Johnson, 48, of the King's Own Calgary Regiment with 238 of a possible 250. He also was leading individual scorer with 49 of a possible 50 on the 300- and 500-yard ranges and a perfect 50 at 600 yards.

Scientists Use Canada's Largest Swimming Pool

OTTAWA (C)—If National Research Council scientists went in for swimming on the job, they have Canada's biggest swimming pool to do it in.

As it is, they use their pool—450 feet long, 25 feet wide and 10 feet deep—to solve problems of naval design for the Royal Canadian Navy and for civilian ship-building firms.

They use the pool to find out how a new ship design fresh from the drafting-board of the naval architect will behave in the water.

Scale models of the new ships are either towed along on the glass-smooth 700,000-gallon pool or fitted with electric motors complete with scale-model screws and allowed to run themselves.

RADICAL DESIGNS
From data derived from these tests come craft of radically new design.

The specifications of a new type of flat-bottomed tug which will soon be chugging across Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories were drawn up from data calculated at the NRC tank. So also were specifications for a new car ferry which will ply between islands of the Pacific Coast and for a new type of lifeboat which may some day brave the gales of the North Atlantic.

Calculating ship specifications is more complicated than specifications for aircraft or submarines. An aircraft flies wholly in the air and a submarine moves wholly under water and either type of craft meets only one type of resistance. But a ship which runs part in the water and part out meets both a water drag and a surface friction drag.

The rig the NRC uses to tow the models is therefore fitted with a variety of instruments, many of local design, for recording the two types of drag. The rig operates by electric current from overhead trolleys, tried to within 1-100th of an inch.

REALISTIC CONDITIONS
Everything possible is done to simulate the action of a ship making its way through the water.

The testing pool is the property of the NRC's division of mechanical engineering which also operates supersonic wind tunnels for aircraft research, an engine laboratory and a low-temperature laboratory.

THIS IS THE SORT OF THING that makes truce talks seem thousands of miles away for the soldiers on the firing line in Korea. Arrow points to shell leaving a 4.2 mortar on its way to enemy-held positions as crew member holds his ears.

Much Lighter 46-Man RCMP Contingent Leaves For Home

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (C) — Twenty pounds a man lighter, the RCMP Coronation contingent sailed today for Halifax and the less hectic tasks of keeping Canada's criminals under control.

The two-month period of horseback riding and hospitality had a slimming effect on the 46-man unit.

"Some of the men were alarmed but it's quite natural," said Staff Sgt. C. W. Anderson of Ottawa, riding instructor.

"The hard work and long hours always knock down the weight when it's a fellow's first trip."

Despite the rigors of the adulation inflicted by Britons, the Mounties were sorry to leave—except for British haircuts.

Crew cuts are standard styles for most of the RCMP—a type British barbers don't have much demand for.

"I tried several barbershops," said Constable Duncan Donald of Ottawa. "Although they all said they had never cut it like that before, they were willing to try."

"But it looks as though it's been chewed off."

Squeeze Saves the Day
When Things Look Bleak

Mr. Champion muttered a little when he saw the dummy in today's hand. This was not so much that Mr. Dale had overbid his cards as that Mr. Champion found himself unable to count up to 12 tricks.

Even if he could get four heart tricks, he had only 11 winners in sight. The queen of clubs was opened and he won with the ace. He laid down the ace of hearts and Mr. Abel followed suit with the nine.

Was that a singleton or (happy thought) had Mr. Abel started with J 9 doubleton? Mr. Champion realized that if the nine were a singleton, it would be fatal to cash another high heart.

That would drop dummy's 10 and eventually Mrs. Keen would hold J-7 over the 8-5. In that case, he would win exactly three tricks in hearts.

To make sure of at least four heart tricks, he entered dummy with the queen of spades and led the 10 of hearts. Mr. Abel discarded a small club and the 10 was finessed, losing to Mrs. Keen's jack.

Back came the jack of clubs and dummy's king won. Mr. Champion discarding a small diamond. Still only 11 tricks in sight.

However, there was always the chance that a squeeze might develop. Mr. Champion returned to his hand with the ace of spades and noted that Mrs. Keen played the jack.

It now appeared that Mr. Abel had the spade suit stopped. That wasn't good, but if he also had the queen, 10 and nine of diamonds or any five diamonds, so the burden of stopping that suit was also his alone, then he was gone.

Mr. Champion cashed his ace and king of diamonds, then his three good hearts, discarding clubs from the board. On the last heart Mr. Abel had to get down to two cards.

He had left the 10 and one spade and the queen of diamonds. If he played a spade,

Vote to Cost $5,500,000

OTTAWA (C)—The federal election will cost an estimated $5,500,000. Some of this will come back to the treasury in candidates' lost deposits.

Each candidate must post a $200 deposit, which is forfeited if he fails to poll more than half the votes of the winning candidate in his riding. In double ridings, he has to get at least half the total of the low-vote winning candidate.

In 1949, the treasury picked up $72,000 from the lost deposits of 360 candidates out of the 850 in the running. The high point in revenue from this source came in 1945, when 462 candidates lost $92,400.

Elizabeth Taylor, who proved herself a consummate dramatic actress in "A Place in the Sun" and the more recent "Ivanhoe," now tops both these earlier performances with her dynamic role in M-G-M's "The Girl Who Had Everything," in which she co-stars on the Totem Theatre screen with Fernando Lamas and William Powell.

In this emotionally taut romantic drama she is seen as Jean, the beautiful and spirited daughter of the famous criminal lawyer, Steve Latimer (William Powell), who has brought her up to believe that she can do whatever she wishes so long as she is willing to pay the cost. This liberal and modern code backfires on the father when Jean becomes infatuated with Victor Ramondi (Fernando Lamas), a notorious racketeer with a tough and disreputable past. Breaking off her engagement to Vance Court (Gig Young), a man of her own class, and disregarding the pleas of her father, Jean runs away with Ramondi with the intention of marrying him. It is now that the father is desperately driven to a measure that will save his daughter's happiness—an act that costs the racketeer his life, but not before Jean's eyes have been opened to the coarseness and brutality of the man who had swept her off her feet.

The casting of Miss Taylor and the romantically electric screen newcomer, Fernando Lamas, as the principal protagonists of "The Girl Who Had Everything" was an inspired one.
