10 TUGS ASHORE AT KEMANO

Heavy Snowstorm Brings Towing Vessels

Vancouver tugs were today reported still near Kemano, Alcan's power house port in the canal, south of Prince Rupert, following a snowstorm which swept the area yesterday. The tugs are the Le Mars and the Laverne and two heavily laden barges, all owned by the Vancouver Tugboat Co. They went aground late yesterday. The Victoria tug Island Commander, owned by the Island Tug and Barge Co., was reported at Kemano awaiting a let-up in the storm to assist the stranded vessels. Radio reports indicated that the tugs were towing barges laden with costly machinery and equipment being delivered from Vancouver to Kemano.

U.S. Charge B.C. With Doukhobor Problem

OTTAWA (CP)—The British Columbia government is trying to pass on to Ottawa its responsibility for the handling of its Doukhobor problem, asserted Minister of Justice Hon. Stuart Garson. The minister told a railway-union group that lawlessness among the Doukhobor Sons of Freedom sect comes clearly under the provincial government's duty of maintaining law and order under the British North America Act. There is, the minister said, "no ground whatever" for the suggestion that the federal government has any responsibility. Mr. Garson made this statement in the Dominion joint legislative committee of railway transportation brotherhoods. The committee, in its annual submission to the cabinet had asked the federal government to take action to protect the railway service in British Columbia areas where the Sons of Freedom have been active, describing the situation as grave. The union said they are advised that, within the next two months, there will be "intensified acts of violence."

Cigarette Case Takes New Turn

A new turn appeared in the "cigarette case" yesterday afternoon at County Court when Crown Prosecutor T. W. Brown, Q.C. asked judge W. O. Fulton for permission to lay a new charge against Farrington of "receiving stolen goods." Two cases of cigarettes—a total of 23,320—which the crown has introduced as exhibits are alleged to be the property of Kelly-Douglas, and to have been in the hands of Farrington between November 19 and 23. RCMP testified they arrested Farrington November 23 when he was discovered delivering the cigarettes to a city cafe owner. Jack Clough, then owner of Three Sisters Cafe, told the court Farrington had also offered him chocolates, and lobster (canned) for sale "cheaper than wholesale."

Appelwhite Tells Commons Dry Dock Here Could Pay

OTTAWA (Special to Daily News)—If the defence production would make use of and if the minister of transport would put word with the Canadian National Railways to overhaul their own ships, the benefit of the Prince Rupert dry dock could be reap, E. T. Appelwhite, MP for Skeena, House of Commons yesterday. When the dry dock deficit was under discussion, the Skeena member drew attention to the fact that the deficit for the current fiscal year was $40,000 less than last year. The item to cover the dry dock deficit carried.

OCEAN-GOING BARREL—Peter Olsen, rear, veteran Norwegian seaman, plans to return to his homeland in June in the barrel-shaped vessel made in Waterloo, Ont., by a barrel and keg company. He hopes to cross the ocean, leaving from Sydney, N.S. The barrel was given to him by Mark Charlton, front, of Windsor, who had the barrel made in 1945. The barrel boat is equipped with two small hommocks, charcoal stove, batteries, lights, concentrated foods and a motorcycle. Mr. Charlton, who originally had the plan to cross the ocean to England in the strange craft, said the motorcycle was for touring the country. The barrel, six feet nine inches in diameter and 10 feet long, has a 700-pound keel and a 250 pound rudder and a stabilizing scoop at the stern. There is a 29-foot mast with three sails. (CP PHOTO)

Rayner, O.M.I., the parish priest. The church choir was in attendance. Following the mass service, interment was made in the Roman Catholic section of Fairview Cemetery. ### Four Canadians Killed in Korea

OTTAWA—The Army, on Friday, issued its ninety-ninth casualty list of the Korean war, reporting four men killed in action and six wounded, bringing to 35 the number of casualties reported within three days. This indicated that Canada's 25th Brigade has been in some of the heaviest fighting of the war—certainly the toughest since mid-December.

Cellulose Guard Expires in Room

A 62-year-old former guard at Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. was found dead in his room last evening. He was William Albert Emard of Inlander Rooms. Death is assumed due to natural causes. Undertakers, will be announced later.

WEATHER—Synopsis

An active disturbance which moved down the British Columbia coast last night brought strong winds and frequent snow showers to the north coast. On the south coast, however, temperatures were more moderate and light rain preceded the storm. The disturbance will move through the interior this morning and light rain or snow will occur during its passage. Cloudy weather is foreseen for all the province during the next 48 hours and the trend will be to cooler temperatures.

Inflation Reversing Itself in Canada—So Says Trade Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—The Minister of Trade, Hon. C. D. Howe, said Friday there are indications that "inflation is reversing itself" in Canada. Addressing a delegation from the Canadian Confederation of Labor, he said figures to be issued in a few days will show the cost of living index dropped quite substantially in February. Preliminary figures indicated a further drop will be shown at the end of March. Mr. Howe blamed the sharp rise in index last year to heavy buying in anticipation of shortages of goods and higher prices. The heavy buying has stopped, he said, and people are now saving their money in anticipation of dropping prices.

Transit Fares in South Upped

VICTORIA (CP)—Increased bus and car fares will go into effect on Vancouver Island and mainland April 6. Victorians will pay a straight ten cent fare instead of three tickets for 25 cents. Children's fares in North Vancouver and New Westminster will be eight for 25 cents instead of the recent 10 for 25 cents. The decision for increased fares was handed down Friday by the Public Utilities Commission.

4000 New Canadians

HALIFAX — More than 4,000 new Canadians arrived at Halifax since Saturday. Canadian National Railways operated 13 boat trains from dockside to Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg. Starting off the steady flow of immigrants was the arrival of the Cunard liner Georgic with 1,463 passengers Saturday. The other transatlantic ships were the Ryndam with 318, Qross Kull with 831 and the Ascania with 377 Sunday, and the Vulcania with 753 and the Skaubryn with 1,155 today. The arrivals this week-end brought the total number of immigrants welcomed at Halifax during the month of March to 14,600, the largest number to arrive this year in any month and exceeding last year's record month. They are going to every section of Canada from the Atlantic provinces to the Pacific coast. To transport the heavy month's immigration traffic, the Canadian National will have operated 29 special trains from dockside, as well as a number of extra cars on regular trains. During the month the company had to marshal 450 sleepers, colonist, dining and restaurant and baggage cars.

Liberals Have Power Meeting

Northern British Columbia Power Co.'s representations that it should be guaranteed adequate reimbursement for diesel installations estimated at a cost of $350,000 which should be made to protect the city from possible power shortage within the next year came before the executive of the Prince Rupert Liberal Association at a special meeting yesterday afternoon. The propriety of a political body injecting itself in a matter which was primarily the concern of the city council was discussed. The upshot of the matter was decision to defer making any representations at least until such time as city council had had time to deal with the matter following return of a delegation which is at present in Victoria to take up this and other subjects.

Police Take Mad Killer

Captured in Vancouver While Trying to Take Wife

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ontario's mad killer was captured by police Friday when he refused to leave behind his nineteen-year-old raven-haired common law wife. Melville Wilkie, 42, one of Canada's ten most wanted criminals, dared a police trap four times in a desperate attempt to keep his freedom and the woman he loved. Three times he snaked through a police cordon to meet the girl and try to talk her into escaping with him. On the fourth try he was run down in a 90 mile an hour car chase and taken without violence.

Football

WILKIE, alias Andy McPeth was known to the police as the "mad killer" after he had killed his wife and child 19 years ago at Owen Sound, Ont. He was committed to the Ontario mental hospital for the criminally insane at Penetanguishene from which he escaped for the fifth time July 19, 1950. Police quoted the girl as saying she met Wilkie in a Winnipeg boarding house soon after his escape. She did not know his identity although he used the name of McBeth. She lived with him and they came to Vancouver three months ago where they moved into a small vacant bungalow in the squallid East End. Police say they were tipped off two days ago—they declined to say by whom—about where Wilkie was living.

Oxford Wins Boat Race

LONDON (CP)—Oxford University crew pulled a stunning upset by defeating Cambridge today in the annual boat race. Oxford strained along the 4 1/4 mile wind and snow driven Thames River course, winning by a scant quarter length. The official time was 20 minutes and 23 seconds. Heavy snow and biting wind made for the worst conditions in the history of the race, the first of which was rowed in 1829.

Should Get Square Deal

IT IS not unreasonable but certainly natural that the Northern British Columbia Power Co., which, rightly or wrongly, is faced with the possibility of losing its franchise to supply the city with power on the expiry of its contract in 1954, should seek some guarantee that it will be reimbursed for interim measures it says it is prepared to undertake to keep the city adequately supplied with power in the meantime and particularly during the year or so immediately ahead.

Nor would it be unreasonable for the city council to do what it can to see that the power company gets a fair deal in this matter should such a thing occur as the British Columbia Power Commission or any other concern taking over the city's power supply. We think that the city council, no matter what it thinks about the merits or otherwise of the power company, would be disposed to do what it can to ensure that such a fair deal is granted.

Meantime, it is important above all that the city's power supply should be adequately maintained. We do not want more winters like some we have had in the recent past when there was serious shortage of power. Call the present anxiety of the power company about the possible power shortage death bed repentance if we like; admit, if we like, that we are at the mercy of the power company for the next couple of years, it is important that we should not make any false moves from a spirit of prejudice or indifference that would endanger our power supply.

The general manager of the power company has warned the council that there is real danger of further power shortage developing if augmented generating facilities are not at once installed. Whether we like the source of the warning or not, it is warning that should not be passed off lightly. And the city certainly has nothing to lose nor will it cost it anything to express itself in favor of the power company getting a fair break in the event of its losing the franchise. The question of whether or not the power company has lived up to its obligations and contract during the past is extraneous to the particular point now in question.

Korean War of Nerves

IT IS hardly surprising that nerves should have become raw and tempers thin over the course of the so-called "negotiation" in Korea. It has been apparent for a long time that there has not been, and perhaps never was, any real meeting of minds. The various Communist gambits designed to prolong and confuse the discussions have become increasingly transparent.

Under those conditions it is only natural that many persons should feel that the logical course for the United Nations is to put an end to the nonsense and to avoid at least the appearance, if not the substance, of continuing hypocrisy. We are fully convinced that there will be peace when, and only when, the Communists are persuaded that it is to their advantage and to our disadvantage. It is therefore frequently suggested that we might do well to take some abrupt action to put an end to what is an exceptionally irritating stalemate.

This point of view, however, does not take into account the factor of Communist motive. It is clearly the intention of the adversary to evoke precisely those sentiments among us. The negotiation, in the Communist book, is part of a real war of nerves. It is expected that in any such contest we, as against our more-stolid and better-disciplined antagonists, would be the first to break.

For that reason this is the time, above all, when we must meet guile with guile and obduracy with resolution. There should be no diminution of firmness on the one hand, but there should be no purely adventurous attempt to force an issue on the other.

As I See It

Big Two No Fools

ANOTHER writer has come up with a book to suggest that the western leaders lost out to Russia because we failed to knock out Germany in 1944, instead of 1945.

I have not yet read the British military writer's book. But the papers have carried generous digests of its main arguments. They are convincing as far as they go. But in my opinion they only tell half the story.

HIS MAIN argument is this: When General Eisenhower's armies had broken out of Normandy, Montgomery tried desperately to convince Ike that Germany could be beaten quickly by a single strong British-led thrust through the Ruhr and on to Berlin.

But to keep peace in the allied family Ike chose to advance on a broad front. That proved a tragic mistake. It was impossible to sustain such a dire attack—and in fact the forward drive stalled for lack of supplies. The Germans gained time to recover, and the war dragged out till May 1945.

THE WRITER seems to have made his main case that Monty's plan would have ended the war in 1944. But he is on dubious ground when he argues that the British and Americans would therefore have got to Berlin before the Russians in that event.

During the Hitler war it was my own job to make a nightly war analysis over the CBC. My old radio scripts clearly show where the various armies were on such and such a day. When I check back on any authoritative source I see plenty of evidence to cast doubt that our western armies could have beaten the Russians to Berlin if a race had developed in 1944.

The Britannica Year Book for 1945 gives the key dates in the 1944 battles. Thus on July 31 the Russian army drove to within ten miles of Warsaw. On the next day the U.S. first army broke out of the Nazi defence lines in Normandy.

But the Russians then halted their main push west and took "time out" to extend their control over the whole Balkan peninsula. By August 31 they had taken the capital of Rumania. By September 9 Bulgaria was knocked out. By December 30 they had effective control of Hungary.

THE THEORY that the western allies were let down or "sold out" at Teheran and Yalta is a giant fallacy. Things would not have gone worse for Russia, and better for the west, had there been no agreements. On the contrary.

That half-baked argument implies that Churchill and Roosevelt were boobies, or suckers, and hence Stalin was able to "put it all over them." The very reverse is the truth. Our leaders played shrewd power politics. Failing agreement, Stalin was in a physical position to take over much more than he did take as a result of prior agreement with the other two of the Big Three.

THE SAME principle holds true about the Far East. Roosevelt and Churchill used all sorts of inducements to Russia to promise secretly to come into the war against Japan. As President Truman makes clear in his published diary, this finally proved to be unnecessary and, in fact, unwelcome.

But Russia would probably

Reflects and Reminisces

Fifty-five thousand will be spent in magazine advertising to help draw visitors to British Columbia and arouse interest in all parts of the province. It's about time. We know local pioneers who came to Prince Rupert in 1909 and have not been up river yet.

EACH CAN SPEAK Organized labor, telling about unemployment, protests fresh arrivals from overseas. Giant contracts awarded out west, call for more men. So do oil developments all the way from Saskatchewan to British Columbia. Thousands of women are workless and anxious. It's the sort of situation where anybody can start the argument.

Speaking of profitable lines of business, finding out how to mind your own may be classed as one.

NOT TO BE THOUGHT OF No one saw $681,000 stolen from a truck in Danvers, Massachusetts, on a bright and busy forenoon this week, according to the Danvers police chief. But then, no one had enough imagination to picture a theft that size. Had it been a mere $10,000 or $15,223, now!

Brigadier General James A. O'Connor, under whose supervision was built the Alaska Highway from Dawson Creek to Fairbanks in 1942-44 was recently buried at San Diego. In a land of magnificent drives, this ranks have come into the war against Japan in any event—agreement or no agreement. She, too, had interests to promote. And she was in a position to take over far more territory than she did take.

That applies to Korea, where Soviet troops occupied half the country weeks before the U.S. armies were in a position to land at all.

In a recent column on War Veterans Allowances I wrote that "The DVA officials are forced by law to crack down on them and reduce their beggarly $40.41 by the amount earned." I should have added "if the total income including the WVA grant is more than $50.83 for single persons or $91.66 for married couples."

The WVA men are allowed to earn an extra $10.42 per month before the cut off, applies.

He Carried Our Sorrows

(By REV. H. O. OLSON, St. Paul's Lutheran Church)

Isa. 53:4—"Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God and afflicted."

The wickedness and carnal prejudices of the Jews induced them to reject Christ, but various circumstances proved occasion for it. They expected the Messiah to spring from the acknowledged heir of King David and to be openly known as born and educated at Bethlehem and to come forth in a splendid manner, as a King and conqueror.

among the first. It is a scenic monument to his memory.

The Federal member for Skeena is described as having made a slashing attack on the CCF in the House of Commons. There come times when, in Parliamentary affairs, an aggressive movement becomes a necessity.

STEEL AND ICE Double fractures and broken arms happen in hockey but it must be acknowledged this is all part of the game. Ken Mosdell's right leg has been damaged twice, and Canadians are in mourning. The blow is harder than the average hockey stick inflicts. And Johnny MacCormack's smashed arm is another reminder.

But He was born of an unnoticed Virgin conceived of the Holy Spirit. He grew up and lived a long time in obscurity. He appeared as an itinerant teacher unauthorized by the priests and scribes. He grew up before God in such a manner that He appeared as a tender shoot, whose root was in the dry ground. He grew so that, notwithstanding the wisdom and grace of His words, the power of His miracles and the holy beauty of His character, they could perceive no form or comeliness in Him for which they should desire and welcome Him as their Messiah.

He was, therefore, despised and rejected of men. The people hid their faces from Him as ashamed to own Him, until at length even the disciples at Gethsemane and at the judgment hall denied or forsook Him. The Jews with one consent preferred a murderer to Him.

Likewise today, God will not force anyone to receive His Son as Saviour. Each person must choose Him for Himself. Those who seek earthly greatness and fame will be disappointed at the Gospel message. "The natural man receiveth not the things of the spirit of God for they are foolishness unto him." Jesus Christ is revealed only to the faith of a penitent sinner. All that Christ wrought on our substitute—our Saviour. When the Holy Spirit reveals what we have in Christ we will break out in the deepest gratitude. "Surely He has borne our griefs and our sorrows. He was wounded for our transgressions and He was bruised for our iniquities." It was our punishment He carried and we have found healing in His stripes. This is the message of the gospel that God is sending out to lost and condemned sinners so that everyone that believeth in Him shall not perish but have eternal life. There are no exceptions with God. Either you have received Christ and have eternal life, or you are without Him and eternal life destined for eternal death.—AMEN.

Sailing and Summer Days Big Talk at HMCS Chatham

With the arrival of the two new 14-foot sailing dinghies, talk at Chatham has turned to fine summer days and sailing. Plans are under way to have races held over a triangle course which will be laid out in the harbor and a monthly prize will be awarded to the crew with the fastest time.

The 27-foot Navy whalers will still be used for basic instruction in both rowing and sailing but since these craft require a stiff breeze to make headway the dinghies will be used for pleasure sailing.

BUSY STOREMAN

A Naval storeman's life is always interesting and usually busy, but as the government fiscal year closes March 31. Leading Storesman George Waddell finds the working day is not long enough to cope with the year-end rush of paper work, reports, as well as the daily stores routine.

Contracts for fuel and stores have to be closed off and new contracts commenced. All the equipment held at Chatham from anchors to furniture as well as clothing stores is "mustered" and to top it off—new stores ledgers are being rewritten.

A "big game" hunt is at present in progress in the Stationery Stores. L/S Waddell has decided to try his hand at exterminating rats who have taken a fancy to the bindings of the books stored there.

WRENS

The Wrens spent a full hour and a half at drill during the last parade under the direction of Lt. N. Langham. There was a decided improvement in their marching by the end of the evening.

ing, even though it did cost the girls tired and aching feet. However, they will get used to that, as they will have plenty of marching during their summer training period at Cornwallis.

Wren Phyllis Tomlinson was elected president of the Wrens' mess at a short meeting after Evening Quarters. Other officers were elected and are Wren Nancy Hopkins, vice president; Wren Olive Miller, secretary.

As expected, the first duty of the president, was to organize a work party, and all Wrens set out to clean the windows and wax and polish the deck of their new mess. This took place Friday and the mess is now ready for their furniture which should arrive soon. The Wrens hope to take occupancy by the middle of April.

PERSONALS

Congratulations to Douglas Cushman who was attested into the RCN as an ordinary seaman stoker mechanic on Thursday by Lt. Langham.

Chief Cleghorn and family are now comfortably settled in the married quarters of Montreal Circle.

Mrs. Harry Flood is convalescing at home after a lengthy stay in Prince Rupert General Hospital.

Friends of Chief Harry Cutress will be glad to hear that he arrived safely and is now settled at the Navy Wireless Station at Coverdale, N.B. Mrs. Cutress will leave early in April to join her husband.

CANADIAN NAVAL HISTORY—1911

Recruiting for the RCN was started in February, but was stopped about a year later due to a change in policy when Sir Robert Borden succeeded Sir Wilfrid Laurier as prime minister. In this period all training was carried out on the Niobe and Rainbow. The latter vessel often visited Prince Rupert in the early days. Uniforms worn by officers and men were the same as in the Royal Navy. His Majesty the King approved that the Canadian Naval Service be known as the Royal Canadian Navy.

Norway Sons' Whist Party

Sons of Norway whist drive last night attracted forty players of which the following won prizes: Mrs. Steve Erickson, ladies' first; Mrs. L. Larsen, second; K. Dahil, men's first; H. Grindstrand, second; Mr. McManus, door prize; O. K. Olsen, chair prize.

Mrs. Barney Roald was in charge of refreshments, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John Pedersen, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Peterson, Miss Astrid Pedersen and Mr. Olsen. Dancing followed to music of Mike Colussi.

esty the King approved that the Canadian Naval Service be known as the Royal Canadian Navy.

Rear - Admiral Sir Charles Kingsmill, RN, became the first Director of the Naval Service.

The Royal Naval College of Canada was founded in the Naval Hospital Building, HMC Dockyard, Halifax.

To Members of Branch 27, Canadian Legion

It is with pleasure that the President and Executive of Branch 27 of the Canadian Legion look forward to the party on the occasion of the second anniversary of the official opening of the present premises.

Much has been done in the last two years to make our premises something our members may be proud of and well worthy of a celebration.

During the past two years your executive, in conjunction with the Ladies' Auxiliary, has provided some very fine social evenings and it is our hope to do even better in the future. We have the talent, the organizers, the facilities and look forward to a most successful year.

Let us start out the new year by being in attendance at the second anniversary party on April 1 and assure its success.

Invitations have been mailed to all members.

Any member who has not received his invitation due to change of address is requested to contact the secretary-manager, Mr. B. Ash.

Evening Wedding at St. Peter's

Miss Lavinia Elliott and Peter Gerard Exchange Vows
Before a candlelit flower decked altar in friendly little St. Peter's Church at Seal Cove, Lavinia Doreen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elliott of this city, and Peter Gerard, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Finnigan of Smithers, were united in marriage by Rev. H. G. Bird at 7 o'clock Thursday evening before a large congregation of relatives and friends.
To the strains of the traditional wedding march from "Lohengrin," the radiant bride, wearing an exquisite floor length white bridal gown of fine French lace fashioned into a three-quarter length overskirt over rustling taffeta, entered the church on the arm of her father. Her gown featured a dainty low-cut scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves. A delicately bordered fingertip veil, cascading from a pearl studded tiara, and a pearl necklace, gift of the groom, completed her costume. Her bouquet was American Beauty roses and white stephanotis.
The bride's three pretty attendants were each in diverse pastel shades in keeping with the vernal season.
The matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Graham, wore a frothy floor length gown of sea mist green fashioned with a full skirt and tiny matching bolero. The bridesmaids, Misses Margaret Wide and Margaret Johansen, wore diaphanous gowns of subdued mauve and soft pink respectively.
All three attendants had hair coronets of gathered lace holding in place shoulder length veils in colors matching their gowns. All three wore matching elbow length gloves and carried bouquets of mixed daffodils, tulips and irises.
Charles Graham was groomsmen and Lloyd Pedersen and Ernie Braman acted as ushers.

RECEPTION

Following the exchange of vows, a reception was held in the Sons of Norway Hall on Fifth Avenue for a large gathering of friends and well wishers.
The newly married couple, with the parents of both bride and groom, received the guests beneath an archway of spring colored streamers. Mrs. Elliott looked charming in a gown of black net with matching accessories set off by a small grey hat. Mrs. Finnigan's smart costume consisted of a wine crepe gown with black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.
Toast to the bride was proposed by Charles Graham and to the bridal attendants by the groom. Andrew Wyatt, who acted as master of ceremonies for the evening, read several out-of-town telegrams of congratulation.

"Woman Is Dangerous"

A high-powered drama of romance and intrigue, "This Woman Is Dangerous," which stars Joan Crawford, Dennis Morgan and David Brian, begins a local engagement at the Capitol Theatre on Monday.
As a woman high in the social register of the underworld, Miss Crawford is seen in the type of role which affords her the opportunity to display her dramatic talents to their best advantage. She also is seen in some outstanding dress creations.
In one of the leading male roles, Morgan portrays a doctor in love with Joan who believes he can help her elude the government agents on her trail. It is Morgan, however, who brings about her downfall and subsequent reform.
David Brian is a notorious gangster whose unbridled jealousy leads to the picture's suspenseful climax.
Felix Feist directed "This Woman Is Dangerous."

Wood Cuts,
Photographs
Peeling

The 50 woodcuts and photographs depicting the environment of their national surroundings are included in many areas which will appeal to the Arts and Crafts Centre next week from the School of Arts, Mexico City, these and lithographic prints means in such activities as tortillas, corn husking, junk collecting and one print showing man's main form of recreation—the inactivity of the block print is a print on a block of wood on which a picture is cut. Where white ink is used the picture is left protruding like a relief. Where black ink is used the picture is cut into the wood. For the woodcut the grain of the wood is used. The wood engraving the grain. For woodcuts a usually used making v-blocks, then all the white is cut out with a small block and the wood is left black and white masses. The artist changes the work out the picture. Often the grain of the wood shows, giving an interesting texture. The wood engraving being done on the end grain of some hard close grained wood such as boxwood, is free from danger of chipping, so meticulous work can be done with a variety of fine tools that scratch and gouge the surface. Such fine shadings of greys can be obtained with close parallel or criss crossed lines, that the wood engraving is often called the more refined of the two types of prints. Woodblock prints are used in some books. They can be printed easily along with type, and the wood stands up to a large printing. If done by a good artist the blackness of the print blends with the thickness of the line of the type making a very unified and artistic whole.

A LITHOGRAPH
To make a lithograph the artist draws on a flat piece of porous limestone with a greasy lithographic pencil. The stone is then wetted. The greasy pencil drawing repels the water but will pick up ink, whereas the uncolored portion of the stone absorbs water, so making it repel ink. It follows then, that when paper is placed over the stone it picks up ink only from the pencilled lines of the drawing. A zinc plate, which also absorbs water, often replaces stone in color printing today, but with it the interesting textural effect of the stone is missing.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM (Mendelssohn) — By the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, Ferenc Fricay conducting. At the age of 17, Mendelssohn composed the overture to Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Opus 21, which was the result of an extraordinary sensitivity to the unique qualities of the Shakespeare play. For even a mature composer, much less a boy of 17, the work was astonishing in its remarkable evocation of the play's atmosphere.

Sixteen years later, in connection with a series of plays to be presented, the King of Prussia commissioned Mendelssohn to produce complete incidental music for "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The composer went to work and the overture he had composed in 1826 was to play an important part in the new work. It would be used intact as an opener and its themes would form the basis of much of the other music. Many critics have held that the unity of style in combining the youthful Mendelssohn of 1826 to the Mendelssohn of 1843 is the result of a perfectly controlled technique and singular objectivity.

The fact remains, however, that Mendelssohn's problems of stylistic development were never so intense as those of the characteristic romantic composers. He found an expressive language for his innate lyricism when he was young, and form concerned him only in that it should supply a suitable frame for his special lyric qualities.

This present LP recording on Decca Gold Label, with Ferenc Fricay conducting the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, is complete except for a certain amount of musical material supporting dialogue and characterization. Two choral numbers are presented by the Rias Chamber Choir with Rita Steich, and Diana Eustrati solists.

SONGS OF THE VELD—Recorded by Josef Marais and His Bushveld.

South Africa, like America, is a country where many races black and white, have mingled. The earliest settlers were Dutch or Boers, followed by French Huguenots, English, Scots and Germans. The Boer influence remained dominant and through the years the language spoken by the early Dutch farmers persisted, gradually evolving into a kind of dialect or "Plat Holland" known as "Afrikaans," spoken or understood by all peoples in South Africa.

South Africa is primarily a farming country and the varied population is scattered over what is known in South Africa as "the veld." The term "veld" is applied to any great flat expanse of land, broken only by undulating "kopjies" or little hills. From this region has come a wealth of delightful folk lore and folk song, to which all the many races have contributed something although the dominant flavor is Boer and the language "Afrikaans."

Josef Marais was born on a sheep farm in the Bushveld. He showed special aptitudes for music in his early years, and in Capetown the young Josef gained much of his basic musical training. At 20 he went to London and the Continent to continue his studies.

Marais is the first South African to attempt an English translation of these African songs. He has tried as far as possible to keep the original spirit, although he admits that in many cases it is quite impossible to do justice to piquant Afrikaans expressions in the English language. However, he has succeeded admirably in retaining the naive simplicity and the peculiar flavor which make these little songs so attractive. For lovers of folk songs, Volumes I and II by Josef Marais will prove a source of continuous enjoyment.

The new Billy May instrumentals, tops with listeners and dancers alike, run from "pop" tunes like "Charmaine" and "Unforgettable" to oldies like "All of Me" and "My Silent Love." Many fans find the most enjoyment in his original compositions, "Fat Man Boogie" and "Lean, Baby."

Other fine May recordings are "Silver and Gold," "When I Take My Sugar to Tea," "When My Sugar Walks Down the Street," "I guess I'll Have to Change My Plans," and his latest, "Always and There Is No Greater Love." All of these numbers are on the Capitol label. Besides his own on records, the "May Way" of making music can also be heard in the background when you hear some of Capitol records' top vocalists.

RELIGIOUS ART—Theodore Baran, from the Ukraine, came to Saskatoon after two years in Poland and four years in a displaced persons' camp in Germany. Trained as an artist he has done a number of religious paintings in Greek Catholic and Greek Orthodox churches in Saskatchewan, since his arrival. (CP PHOTO)

Juniors Preparing For Forthcoming Hobby Show

Most of the craft work done by all classes at the Civic Centre these days is in preparation for the hobby show, April 5 to 7. Especially busy have been the junior girls' and boys' departments.

A new craft was introduced Monday to the junior girls with the use of raffia. Both Marieta Ferguson and Ann Christensen made hot pads and were pleased with their work. Other girls in the class were busy with work started last week.

Diane Forman completed her shopping bag; Margaret Cable wound colored wool on her flower vase bottle, and Marina Postulev and Innes Macphee did weaving. All are eager to complete their projects for the hobby show.

The junior boys' class in leather work, for those aged 11 or over, is the busiest place in the Centre Wednesday nights. Last minute touches also are being added to projects by the junior woodworking class: Boys who have taken projects home which they completed at the Centre have been asked to bring them to their classes this coming week for final touches of paint for display in the show.

In the leatherwork department, Rodney Pearce successfully completed a combination key case and folding purse, an inexpensive but very useful item.

Drawing is to be made April 7 on the raffie being held in connection with the Hobby Show.

Stalin Prizes
To Non-Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—Stalin prizes in literature were given today to seven non-Russians—the first time prizes went outside the Soviet Union.

Among the 104 awards, one went to Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich for his composition of 10 poems for chorus. He got a second place award of 50,000 rubles ($12,500 at the Russian-set official exchange rate). (Shostakovich has been denounced frequently on the grounds he has strayed from the Soviet line with his music.) Non-Soviet winners were authors of works translated into Russian. All these awards were of second and third prizes.

Four of the foreign winners were Chinese. French writer Andre Steele won a second prize for his novel "First Blow." Third prizes were awarded to two Hungarians.

FROM HERE TO ETERNITY
By James Jones — One of the most impressive novels which we have read in years. Many will rank it with the best work of Dreiser, Hemingway, Faulkner, etc. A story of army men in garrison life in the months before Pearl Harbor—of their loneliness and the women they seek; of their unspoken comradeship and the savage feuds of men living close together; of their sardonic humor, their wild nights on the town, and the poignancy of Taps played in the melting Hawaiian darkness. "Written with merciless clarity for adults and not for teen-agers," says John Marquand, "... but definitely the work of a major novelist."

Reading Machine
Speeds Students

ANTIGONISH, N.S. — Students at St. Francis Xavier University here are being taught to read faster—by a machine. So far, the "reader rater," as the collegians call it, is still in the experimental stage but professors report that definite improvement has been shown in most cases.

Harry R. Lent, the university registrar, found that many students entering college were poorly trained in the rudiments of reading. He asked physics professor William Reid to construct a machine similar to one being tried out in United States colleges.

The machine consists of an electric motor geared to move an aluminum cover at varying speeds, thereby forcing the student to read faster and eliminating mind-wandering.

Students take the test one hour a week for six weeks, and each trial is followed by a comprehension test.

Season's awards, two minor league playoffs and a high-tension exhibition match will feature in the final basketball program of the season tonight.

A season's Booth Memorial High School debate will be settled when senior Bo-Me-Hi Rainmakers (Hi-Golds) meet intermediate Hi-Greens in a student basketball tussle on the Civic Centre floor.

The Hi-Gold-Hi-Green battle has been selected as the feature exhibition attraction to support the pee-wee and junior league finals.

On the bench, coaching the younger students will be Les Matthews; for the seniors, Jack Evans. Even the coaches are reported to have had several "hot discourses" on which team is the better, along with speculation of a host of basketball fans.

Between the junior playoff and the exhibition game, season's awards will be presented, which will include Sportsmanship award and the Most Valuable Player award; league and

Welcome Back, Good Old SS Prince
Rupert—Rearming Coastal Ships

Stronger, smarter and in better all round trim than for many a year, the steamship Prince Rupert was back in Prince Rupert this week, resuming her schedule for the first time since last summer's accident.

Just how many times the Prince Rupert has sailed around the globe, should one wish, to reckon the total mileage of her coastal trips in that way, can be discovered easily enough. It would make an impressive number of miles. For more than forty years, in war and in peace, in storm and in sunshine, this dependable craft with her three funnels of red, white and blue and familiar whistle, has been a feature of northern travel.

"She's good for another fifty years," remarked Captain Eccles Wednesday.

"And we'll be glad to have her," may be the unspoken thought of old timers dwelling along the shores of Skeena.

CALDER ON TREATY

The fisheries treaty with Japan does not enjoy the unqualified support of Frank Calder, CCF member for Atlin in the provincial legislature.

"I would oppose the signing of any treaty with Japan until I am fully convinced that the rights and privileges of Canadian fishermen are completely safeguarded," he declared in a recent interview.

Tourists, when they journey north, are hungry for the unusual. Each has a keen eye for what is novel, and if there is a laugh, anywhere, so much the better. It's what so many watch for when sauntering through Prince Rupert or when getting better acquainted with Juneau and Skagway.

It was Martin Itjin of the latter camp who provided the maximum of amusement. He had converted his automobile into an enlarged vehicle which became known as the "Skagway Street Car." It called at all spots made notorious by Soapy Smith and other sourdough celebrities. Martin always had a special story for each. He had a genius for bringing things up to date. There was an answer to every query. His patrons—and there were thousands from all over the continent—did not look for much in the way of service—but they did expect entertainment. They were given each and more humor than any had known in months.

Martin Itjin shipped his one man street car from Skagway to Seattle, from which city he drove to Los Angeles where he soon made the acquaintance of Mae West, celebrated screen star. There was something about Martin's yams of the north that captivated the actress. It had the touch of a new novelty. The largest daily in Los Angeles printed a half page picture of Mr. Itjin and Miss West standing by the street car and looking interested in life as they were finding it. Itjin has long since departed. He sleeps in the hillside cemetery, a few miles out the road from Skagway, where Soapy and Commissioner Reid, who shot him, also repose.

Jens the troller, who spends most of the winters in and around Terrace, was in Prince Rupert yesterday on a brief business trip, and expects to soon be back for the season. When he isn't fishing, he operates a trap line. The past winter, so far as the latter is concerned, has not been particularly active. Beavers were comparatively few.

Although he did not get back to business until he had figured in a bus accident, "Dutchy" Martin, halibut fisherman of many a year's experience, is confident he will be at sea again this year, as usual. He has spent part of the winter in Holland, his native land, and it was while in Seattle, enroute to his home, that he suffered a head injury. He was recently reported to be making a satisfactory recovery.

Vic Kobler, fisherman, is getting along in years, but that does not mean he isn't as keen for a catch as ever. He is 73. He has been in hospital at Alert Bay for a while. His boat was smashed at Cormorant Island, but he managed to replace it. In many respects this has been a mean winter but he refuses to admit defeat. He is still a fisherman, and active at that.

REARMING COAST SHIPS

Ottawa has appropriated half a million dollars to arm deep sea and coastal craft. Ships totaling 151 tons will be equipped with defensive gear against magnetic mines, and strengthened to carry gun platforms. At least thirteen coastal steamers of the CNR, the CPR and the Union line fleets are expected

Teen Dance Is Popular

A bi-monthly event which has swept the teen-agers of Prince Rupert with its popularity is the Friday night teen dance at the Civic Centre. Last night was no exception of its fast gaining attendance as 150 students and friends danced for two-and-a-half hours.

The dances, organized by the Civic Centre Teen Club two months ago, were first held in the small gym but attendance has increased so much that more room was required and last night the first dance was held in the auditorium.

Music was supplied by records, purchased or loaned by the club, and a popular part of the night's program was given to playing request numbers.

With several High School teachers and Civic Centre Director Jack Stirm attending, the event was described as very pleasure-giving.

Several younger teens also attended the dance, with 14 and 15-year-old boys being very formal in their bowing and requesting the pleasure of the young ladies' company in a dance.

Most popular tunes appeared to be slow fox trots—standards—and waltzes, with the novelty schottische playing a prominent part. It appears that teen-agers have fallen away from the more demonstrative type of "live" dancing that was an evident rage in the late Second World War period and for several post-war years.

Included in the executive which arranged the dance and gave service were "Popeye" Kristmannson, Ross and Rena Ingram, Danny McAphee. Teachers present included R. H. Davidson, Les Matthews and Misses Elaine Maynard and Ball.

Next dance, which is to be held after Easter, will be the Easter Ball complete with decorations, refreshments and prizes. Parents and friends of Teen Club members will be invited.

to be so provided. There may be no third world war, but if there ever is, it is felt this will not be neglected by the enemy.

When a fishermen's fleet called at Victoria recently to meet and talk over economic affairs with the government, no fewer than forty of their wives were aboard. They report having enjoyed an experience novel as well as stimulating. They took part in marching and singing and a great impression was proud of the opportunity.
