DOWNWARD PRICE OF SALMON ESSENTIAL, SAYS OPERATOR

VICTORIA (CP)—Economic conditions and prevailing prices for canned salmon will not permit cannery operators in southeast Alaska to pay last year's prices for seine net fish, the managing director of the Alaska Salmon Industry, said Thursday.

W. C. Arnold said the conclusion was reached at a meeting of cannery operators and that fishermen are being notified of downward adjustment in fish prices is essential.

Cedar Log Shipment Leaves For Orient

First cargo of cedar logs—100 board feet—left here today afternoon for Japan on the freighter Yawo Maru.

The cargo—an experiment to open the doors to a 100-foot annual lumber shipment in the Orient for Prince Rupert is destined for the Fuji Trading Corporation in Tokyo, Japan's largest import-firm.

The low-grade cedar logs found acceptable to Japanese manufacturers—and T. Jimm, representing the importers, believes loading of the initial cargo will accept all such logs Columbia Cellulose supply.

The company's "by-product" operation of logging operation pulp wood. Cedar cannot be used for pulp making and the cut with the spruce, balsam and hemlock stands is not enough for local or other markets.

With some 20 small log operators in the north from Columbia Cellulose purchase pulp logs, mill officials are able to supply about 100 square board feet of this cedar annually.

can make use of the trade product because of its low labor, said Mr. Jimbo. Japanese workers are paid, in instances, 10 to 20 times more than workers of corresponding in Canada, he said.

waiters, bartenders day strike
VICTORIA (CP)—A strike that would close 65 beer parlors in Vancouver and North Vancouver was threatened Thursday by waiters and bartenders. Business agent Bob Beddome tabulation of a strike vote among 406 members of Beverage Dispensers Union (B.D.U.) showed 60 per cent in favor of strike action.

He said the chief issue between the hotelmen and the union is a demand by the union that part-time employees be included in the welfare fund.

Rosenbergs Face Death Tonight As Stay Of Execution Quashed

Eisenhower Rejects Plea For Clemency

By The Canadian Press

WASHINGTON. — The Rosenberg atom spy team—Julius and Ethel—lost their pleas today to President Eisenhower and the Supreme Court to save them from the electric chair.

U.S. Marshall William Carroll said the death sentences will be carried out tonight.

Carroll said he would leave immediately for New York for the prison. He said the early hour could mean the Rosenbergs, who are Jews, would die before the Jewish Sabbath which starts at 7:31 p.m. (EST.)

In mid-afternoon, their one last chance to escape the executioner's switch apparently was through a confession of the whole espionage conspiracy of which they were convicted—to give atomic secrets to Russia.

President Eisenhower shut the door against commutation under any other circumstances in a statement rejecting the clemency plea.

The president declared: "... I can only say that, by immeasurably increasing the chances of atomic war, the Rosenbergs may have condemned to death tens of millions of innocent people all over the world. 'The execution of two human beings is a grave matter. But even graver is the thought of millions of dead whose deaths may be directly attributable to what these spies have done.'

Within two hours Eisenhower issued his pronouncement within two hours after the Supreme Court by a 6-3 vote had set aside a stay of execution granted by Justice William O. Douglas Wednesday.

The court brushed away, too, after brief consideration, frenzied efforts by lawyers for the Rosenbergs to get a new stay from the court itself.

In another last effort, lawyers asked a stay from Justice Black as an individual justice—the same course Douglas had followed.

Perdue Drops Question of Resignation

VICTORIA (CP)—John Perdue, president of the British Columbia Social Credit League, said the question of his possible resignation has been dropped.

Perdue made the statement after a day-long meeting of the league executive board here.

Mr. Perdue said during the recent B.C. election campaign he would tender his resignation if the board considered him in any way "detrimental."

He made the announcement following charges by Dr. William Kemp, independent candidate in Vancouver-Point Grey.

Quartet Admit Theft

To Be Sentenced Next Monday

Four young men today admitted in police court their guilt in connection with breaking into and robbing the Government Liquor Store here Saturday of $9,503.84. They elected for summary trial before Magistrate Walter D. Vance.

They are: James D. Cripps, 27, of Prince Rupert; Joe Giordano, 26, and Ray DeBlasio, 24, of Montreal, and Irving Fraser, 23, of New Brunswick.

Crown prosecutor T. W. Brown, Q.C., requested the four be remanded until Monday for sentence, in order to give police time to complete their check on possible previous criminal records.

Mr. Brown also alleged that the total amount of money recovered by police upon arrest of the thieves was a good deal less than that stolen.

"If the accused will tell us how this money can be recovered, it may be taken into consideration upon giving sentence," said Mr. Brown.

The four were charged Monday with breaking and entering the liquor store early Sunday, but no specific amount of money was named in the charge. Bulk of the money was contained in a strongbox within the safe which the robbers failed to open.

Police later had it opened and the money was counted.

The safe itself was emptied by cutting out the steel back with an axe. The four suspects were arrested near the highway, 33 miles east of the city three hours after police were alerted.

Nearby, on the banks of the Skeena River, the big safe was found. The strongbox was hidden in the bush.

David Bain, government liquor vendor here, said from the witness stand that the total amount of currency and checks in the safe when receipts were counted Saturday night was $10,375.51.

This amount did not include some 180 unopened mail orders which Mr. Bain said contained an average of $20-$25 in cash.

This left, said Mr. Bain, $871.67 of known cash unrecovered.

Mr. Bain said also that $155 worth of liquor was missing between June 1 and date of robbery, June 14.

In this, Doug Hogarth, defending DeBlasio, Giordano and Fraser but not Cripps, closely cross-examined the witness.

Mr. Hogarth first objected to the evidence since liquor was not mentioned in the charge. Then he said that "my clients absolutely deny they took any liquor whatsoever."

Outside of the strongbox, Mr. Bain said there was $1,628.83 in the safe. Of that amount police had recovered $785.92.

Sgt. Stewart said the money in bills appeared as having been in his pocket for some time and police considered it was not part of the liquor store loot.

Money taken from other prisoners, with exception of Cripps, was considerably more and in straight, flat bills, one a $50 bill, Cripps only had $14.

Halibut Fishermen Seek Return To 'Controlled' Fishing System

By LARRY STANWOOD

The present method of unrestricted halibut fishing which allows all types of vessels to take part in the fisheries and this year accounted for the shortest season in west coast history is termed "nothing but a rat-race" by old-time halibutters here.

But while members of the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union are seeking a way back to the former method of curtailed and regulated halibut fishing, the present system is being upheld from several other quarters making it the most contentious issue in the international halibut fisheries.

In the middle is the International Fisheries Commission charged with governing the taking of west coast halibut. So far, the commission has concerned itself primarily with matters of conservation—establishing opening and closing dates of seasons and quotas in different fishery areas.

The commission has not been willing to enter into any matter which concerns the economic side of the fisheries.

The Deep Sea Fishermen's Union in Prince Rupert and Vancouver has made representations to the commission and to the minister of fisheries for the past 10 years for a way back to the pre-war system of regulated fishing.

For many years before World War II, a method of curtailed fishing was practiced which allowed a set quantity of fish per man on each boat and required a certain number of days laying over by the vessels after each trip. This meant that, based on the quota set for each area, seasons would stretch to six months, sometimes longer.

The program of curtailment was drawn up and enforced by the fishermen themselves under the Natural Products Marketing Act. Because halibut fishing is international, American fishermen also had to participate in the curtailment. This was accomplished through their fishermen's union.

Canadian halibutters, however, partially blame the Americans for the breakdown of regulated fishing in 1941 when outside waters on the west coast were heavily patrolled by war vessels.

"Fishermen were told to get their quotas out in the fastest way possible, then get out because of enemy danger. Ever since then, the American union disregarded regulations and there's been unrestricted halibut fishing," a spokesman for halibut fishermen here explained.

And it's been only since the end of regulated fishing that small vessels and others not especially designed for halibut fishing have joined this industry on a part-time basis, and follow other fisheries when halibut season ends.

In fact, there are today very few full-time halibut vessels as in the days of restricted fishing. Those in favor of return to the old way claim that better distribution of fish would be the result, with better markets and longer fresh fish market—therefore, better fish prices.

The regulated method also would provide a full-time "sane, healthier way of making a living for straight halibut fishermen and not such a rat-race as it is today."

One group opposing the old system is the small vessel operators who would not be able to operate then. They—the part-time halibut fishermen on gill-nets and trawlers—depend on daily trips to the grounds. Any layovers would wipe out their chance of making a profit. Most of the small vessels get about 15 to 20 days of fishing depending on the weather, then turn to the salmon season.

Today, these small vessels account for 50 per cent of all Canadian caught halibut, and play a big part in the fact that 60 per cent of the total halibut catch on the west coast is taken by Canadians.

Halibut processors—the operators—are not in favor of a return to curtailed fishing which they claim would also mean a return to the days when American vessels landed 80 per cent of the total halibut catch.

Most American halibutters are still on a full time basis, working out of Seattle and Alaska ports. Under restricted fishing, U.S. vessels, more numerous than Canadians, would not have to compete with the small boats and so could partly monopolize the fisheries.

As far as market conditions are concerned, operators have increased facilities for freezing to meet with the heavy landings during the peak of the short season. But there is a percentage of spoilable, nevertheless, during the big rush and also the fresh fish market—most lucrative—is seriously shortened by a season of less than a month.

Recently, under a new treaty, the International Fisheries Commission was empowered to order more than one opening and closing of the halibut season. In this may lie the answer, certain observers—both fishermen and processors—believe.

Perhaps "split seasons" in the two main halibut areas, 2A and 3A, would be a compromise which would be a solution to what each school of thought considers a serious problem.

1,800 More Prisoners Flee Camps

SEOUL (CP)—New and bloody mass breaks from allied stockades today swelled to nearly 26,000 the number of anti-Communist war prisoners liberated in South Korea's bold defiance of the United Nations Command.

More than 1,800 bolted from five prison camps and a hospital Thursday night and early today on the heels of those ordered released Wednesday by President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea.

UN Command headquarters in Tokyo placed at 25,952 the total of Koreans escaping in the last two days, and at 9,398 those anti-Red Koreans remaining in custody.

Those making the break early today included 494 who battled United States marines at Ascom City camp, near Seoul's big port of Inchon on the west coast.

Whether the mass releases and breaks for freedom would wreck the two-year-long armistice negotiations—now in their 11th hour—remained to be seen.

At a Communist request, a full-dress meeting of the armistice delegations was set for Saturday morning.

The Sausage is Freed

WITH the international scene bursting into wild and perhaps momentous tumult, it is comforting to note this contrasting English newspaper headline: "The Sausage To Be Given Independence."

It may be news to most Canadians that the humble sausage had entered into politics and acquired the dignity of government recognition. This distinction was bestowed upon it by the Ministry of Food in the early days of the war when it was put under strict control. According to ministerial decree, the beef sausage had to contain 50 per cent of meat (beef, mutton, lamb, pork, veal, or edible offals) and be sold at not more than one shilling and ten-pence half-penny per pound. Pork sausage had to contain 65 per cent of meat, of which not less than four-fifths had to be pork, and be sold at not more than two shillings and five-pence per pound.

Now all these restrictions have been swept away and the trade will be able to make the sort of sausages to suit local tastes.

This development has moved Toronto commentator Lewis Milligan to review the history of the sausage.

"One of the earliest was made from shrimps, crabs, oysters, prawns and lobsters," he observes. "The black pudding, according to one authority, is an ancient dish in England and Scotland, and is made of oatmeal, suet and hog's blood, variously seasoned with caraway, thyme, mint, garlic or onion, salt and pepper. The Scottish haggis, which was described by Burns as 'Great chieftain o' the pudding' race, is composed of the meat and brains of the sheep's head, combined with oatmeal, etc., in that animal's stomach. Haggis may be a good meal for a plowman who can work it off, or as a small side dish at Burns' dinners, but even with the latter the loyal Scot needs to take it with an anaesthetic in the form of Scotch whisky."

Presumably the haggis maintained its independence throughout the war, for it did not get into politics. Any attempt by the Ministry of Food to control the chieftain or prescribe its ingredients might have intensified the demand for Home Rule for Scotland. The proletarian sausage submitted without a murmur to dictatorship.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

The most striking feature around Progressive Conservative national headquarters these days is the complete absence of the over-confidence that existed in 1949.

It isn't that Leader George Drew and his High Command are at all low in morale. They aren't. But the 1949 campaign gave them a lesson in political realism from which they profited despite its pain. They're not forgetting it.

The simple fact was that back in 1949 Leader Drew relied for his information on the campaign's progress nation-wide mainly on PC party workers. Not too unnaturally, the party faithful didn't emphasize in their reports anything that they thought their Leader mightn't enjoy hearing. The result was that Drew passed the entire campaign in an atmosphere of complete political unreality. The results on voting night constituted a shock awakening for which he was wholly unprepared.

This time the PC Chieftain is being careful to stay as close and as accurately to actual public opinion as is humanly possible. By so doing he is at least protecting himself against the over-confidence that helped to betray him last time.

That doesn't mean that the PC Leader doesn't expect to win. On the contrary, his hopes run exceedingly high. In a field as thoroughly confused by Social Credit and CCF pre-emption of the political domain West of the Great Lakes, he believes that he stands an excellent chance of matching the government's strength and crippling its power in Eastern Canada. But he knows he has a fight on his hands. He isn't making the mistake again of under-estimating Liberal campaigning strength.

It is stated definitely by PC sources that before the campaign is ended—and probably at a rel-

Pearson's Sharp Line

THE SPEECH made by Lester Pearson at Harvard University on June 11 was one of the most important ever made by a Canadian statesman.

Pearson spoke not only as Canada's Minister of External Affairs, but as the authentic world voice of democratic principle. He was candid in his description of the "world Communist conspiracy." But he stood foursquare on British tradition when he warned that "some of those who have gone about to eliminate the real menace of the Communist conspiracy have done so by methods which weaken our democratic concept of law and justice, which have threatened to destroy that feeling of community on which free society must be based."

That was a polite warning to the U.S.A. that Senator McCarthy's witch-hunts are doing harm to western unity.

HERE, is the nub of what Mr. Pearson said about intervention in Asia:

"New forces have swept across the Far East since World War II. Some of these reflect the pulsations of the international communist conspiracy. Others are primarily related to the awakening urge of millions of Asians for national freedom and a better life. If we of the west are not able to agree on the distinction between these two forces which require a different approach and understanding by us, our co-operation in this part of the world may disappear."

"There are some who believe that Asian Communist is an implacable foe, bound hand and foot to Moscow, and that to negotiate with it in any circumstances is futile and perilous. Therefore, they argue, we must do everything we can short of all-out war—but even at some risk of war—to prevent the appearance of Asian Communist governments; and to weaken and destroy them if they manage to obtain power."

"There are others who will have none of this policy. They feel that Communism in Asia is a social, economic and political development, growing out of special Asian conditions and one primarily for Asians to deal with."

PEARSON'S proposition comes down to these hard-boiled policies:

1. Canada will stand by the U.S.A. to repel clear-cut military aggressions, such as occurred in Korea. Canada would probably enter a Pacific Pact to make such a policy effective.

2. But Canada will not support reactionary, social counter-revolutionary forces, such as that of Chiang Kai-shek, nor regimes which seek to perpetuate imperialism, in disguise.

Our policy must be, as he puts it: "Defeat Communism by doing more for the welfare of the underprivileged and undernourished millions of the East than Communism can ever hope to do."

THE PRACTICAL world peace-making of Lester Pearson over the past years has enjoyed the support of the overwhelming majority of Canadians. His sharp new line on Asia merits and should receive the continued support of the same majority—for any attempt to swing Canada behind the McCarthy "war for Chiang" line would split Canada from end to end politically.

If Opportunity Knocks—Don't Let A Lack of Ready Cash Hold You Back

A Low-Cost B of M Loan Can Save the Day for You

Opportunity is said to knock but once, so you don't want to risk missing it. It may require ready cash that you do not have, but even that need not stop you. If you have a regular income and are in a position to repay, you can obtain funds for any useful purpose at the Bank of Montreal.

A B of M Personal Loan is inexpensive and convenient. The interest rate is only six per cent, and the loan is repayable in easy instalments. And you pay interest only on what you still owe. If you borrow $100 and repay in monthly instalments over a year, it will cost you just 27 cents a month—a total cost of only $3.24. You can borrow more or less, for shorter or longer periods, at proportionately the same cost.

So next time you need money, don't hesitate to drop in and talk over your problem with Ernest Paulding, manager of the Prince Rupert B of M. You'll find him an interested listener and ready to help whenever possible.

White-Haired South Korean President Spends Many Hours in Spreading Garden

World attention is focused on strong-willed 78-year-old President Syngman Rhee of South Korea because of his adamant stand against a truce that would leave his war-ravaged country divided. What sort of a man is he and what is his background? Here are some of the answers—Editor.

SEOUL (AP)—Allied troops re-occupied Seoul in September, 1950, after landing at Inchon and routing the North Korean Reds. A throng of Koreans gathered in the battered capital city to hear an address by their white-haired president, Syngman Rhee.

It was a momentous occasion for the little man who had endured prison torture and 33 years of exile in his long fight against monarchists, Japanese militarists and now the Communists. Many present expected a dramatic, spine-tingling speech from the leathery-skinned graduate of Harvard and Princeton universities.

Rhee said: "We have returned to our beloved city. Now let's get the stink out of the streets and get some trees on those mountains."

The incident illustrated several points in the character of the 78-year-old president. He is a simple direct man with no apparent affections, but stubborn in persisting for what he believes is best for Korea.

He is a passionate lover of trees and flowering things. He has a mania for sanitation.

Today, in the midst of the armistice crisis, he still is exhorting Seoul residents at least once each week to clean up and plant.

His love is for a country in which he was born under a monarchy March 26, 1875; which threw him in prison when, as a Methodist mission convert, he tried to stir up the spirit of democracy, and from which he was exiled, fleeing for his life soon after the Japanese took control in 1910.

He returned to Korea in 1945 after Japan's defeat only to be caught up shortly in a war which kept him moving in and out of Seoul as its fortunes swung.

Rhee lives in a fine concrete-and-tile mansion on a Seoul hillside. He spends many waking hours in its spreading, beautiful gardens.

When Gen. Mark Clark flew to Seoul recently for an urgent conference over Rhee's bitter opposition to a truce with the Reds, they held their meeting in the "garden office."

While talking with important guests, Rhee is apt to stop his conversation momentarily while walking over to pull up a weed. He prunes his own trees and hedges and attends to his flowers and shrubs daily.

After a 6 a.m. arising and a light breakfast, Rhee reads the newspapers for an hour, then sketches Chinese characters on paper with a brush dipped in heavy black ink. His characters spell out such mottoes as "Respect Heaven and love humans."

At 8:30 a.m. he goes to a large pond and feeds bread and rice to more than 100 goldfish.

Then he walks to his office and receives reports on the war. He consults with his ministers. By 9:30 a.m. he is back in the garden receiving visitors and giving instructions to his secretaries.

Just before noon, he sits down to his typewriter to bang out personal letters or statements. Often they are appeals to his people to plant trees, use coal instead of wood for cooking and heating.

Rhee deplores the barren hills of Korea. He flies often to the battlefield in light army planes, scanning the terrain closely.

On several occasions, President Rhee has discovered tree or brush fires during his trips. Said his secretary, Chang Ki Bong: "On each occasion the president made note of the exact location and sent out fire fighters immediately."

At 12:30 p.m. daily, Rhee lunches with his Austrian-born wife, Francesca, 20 years his junior, whom he wed in 1934. He eats what he likes, including chicken, fish, beef and pork. He prefers western food but occasionally eats rice and some Korean dishes.

After receiving visitors from 2 to 4 p.m. and a 7 p.m. dinner, he listens to the radio. Before retiring, Rhee opens his Christian Bible and reads passages aloud to himself and his wife.

Alberta Man Finds Water With Branch

COWLEY, Alta. (CP)—An 81-year-old south Alberta man is one of the few persons who cling to the ancient practice of "water witching."

Ernest Cooknell of Cowley says he can locate an underground water supply by walking over the ground clutching a branch of a willow tree.

When the wand is over a water source it waves violently, he says, and sometimes the bark is torn away. Only a green willow is used. The wand, a three-foot slice of a young willow tree cut in the shape of a prong, sometimes will bend upwards and sometimes down. But whenever it "wiggles," there is water underneath.

ENGLISH ANCESTRY

Mr. Cooknell discovered his "witching" talent in his boyhood days in Oxfordshire, England, after watching some water searchers from London.

He says four of his family could make the wands wiggle over water, but four others could not. He doesn't know how or why he possesses the talent. He says it may have something to do with the individual's body chemistry, and possibly is inherited.

Mr. Cooknell claims he has found water at depths ranging as much as 230 feet.

He has never taken money for a job, believing the charm might be broken if used professionally.

Independent MP, John L. Gibson, Quitting Politics

OTTAWA (CP)—John L. (Jack) Gibson, 47, Independent member of the Commons since 1945 for the British Columbia riding of Comox-Alberni, said he will not contest the August 10 general election.

Gibson, who generally voted with the Liberals in Commons but often criticized the government's policy on specific points, told reporters he is leaving politics on his doctor's advice.

A wealthy British Columbia lumber executive, he bought a home here and moved his family to Ottawa a few years ago. He said they will move back to the west coast, but he was not sure where they would live—possibly somewhere on Vancouver Island.

Japan's deeply-indented coastline has been measured at more than 17,000 miles.

HALTON'S DISPLEASURE

Matthew Halton, London correspondent who hails originally from a little town in southern Alberta—Pincher Creek—made a few remarks to Soviet Russia yesterday. He wasn't thinking of diplomatic language when he called Moscow "helpless and half-hearted." A good line and maybe handy to the truth.

A diplomat is a chap who, when asked what his favorite color is, replies "Plaid."

At least part of the post office lobby is offering more space as the process of change-making continues. Undoubtedly, the business is going to take time. Men, for example, are different. Danish Entertainer Lists Recipe For Happy Marriage

By VIVIAN BROWN
NEW YORK (AP)—Right in the middle of this month of brides, let's pause and ponder an age-old problem—what is the recipe for a happy marriage.

Is it a wordrobe of furs for the lady of the house? Or a palatable-tasting cuisine for the king of the roost? Or is it mysterious passion that keeps two hearts bound in wedded bliss?

"Nonsense," says Danish entertainer Carl Brisson.

"The secret of a happy marriage is so simple that many people discover it. Companionship—a mutual sharing of interest—is the one ingredient absolutely essential to the marital union."

Brisson ought to know. The popular international star, idol of the older woman for a quarter century, has been happily married to Cleo Brisson for 36 years—since both were 16.

Husbands are the principal offenders against this marriage rule, Carl says. He cites these examples:

Males who marry their jobs and underestimate the intelligence and compassion of their wives to understand their troubles. Women have a natural capacity for understanding, but some husbands treat them like servant girls.

Men who forget that many big fortunes are built frequently on a wife's penny savings.

Men who do not keep their wives occupied, so that they have too much time for quarrels.

Men who neglect to have a conversation with their wives. They come home from work and bury their noses in the paper while waiting for their dinner.

Men who fight back when the wife is in a temper, instead of quieting her with a firm commanding "keep quiet."

But it takes two to ruin a marriage, Carl agrees, and here are some of the mistakes he thinks women make:

Being jealous of other women. Cleo didn't mind even when a woman followed them around the world to watch Carl perform. Matter of fact, she said she was flattered.

They don't brag about their husbands enough. If they don't do it, other women will.

NOW IS THE TIME TO REMODEL

How about a rumpus room in attic or basement? Sound good? It will sound even better when you learn how little it costs!

Organization May Change Constitution

WINNIPEG (CP)—Proposed revisions in the constitution and bylaws of the National Council of Women were among recommendations in a report of the council's survey committee presented at the organization's annual meeting here.

The report was presented by Miss Esther Kerry of Montreal who directed a survey on the "organization and function of the council" which was done through a series of conferences and study groups. Its object was to recommend changes in the structure of the council.

The council of women is a federation of women's organizations formed to work together for high standards and practices in home and national life.

Miss Kerry said the recommendations are aimed at increasing efficiency while preserving the autonomy of its constituent bodies.

Some changes in procedure, mainly in the co-ordination of committees and the preparation of resolutions for submission to the prime minister, already have come into effect.

Newest Desks Scaled To Take Little Space

If you are doing without a desk in your home because you haven't been able to find "just the right one," plan to take another look in the stores in the near future.

The designers are out to please every taste and satisfy every need in the desk department.

If lack of space is your problem, you can get a drop-door desk that is part of a room divider, or a vanity-desk for your bedroom. There is also a small desk on a wrought iron base, with just enough storage space for letters, stationery and writing equipment.

The trend is for both modern and period desks to be rather light in scale. A graceful little French Provincial desk of fruit-wood with a leather writing surface is only 23 inches deep, 33 inches wide and 38 inches high. A charming Louis XVI secretary is slightly less than 17 inches deep (when the writing bed is closed) and 31½ inches wide. It has space for curios behind brass grilles doors.

The small desks are fine in homes where they are used mainly for correspondence. But the student or professional man or woman who does serious work at home will require more space and equipment.

There are on the market plenty of desks which offer more working space and are at the same time good-looking pieces of furniture. Many of the modern desks accommodate a slide-out typewriter tray or have a drawingboard attachment. Our new desk has both—plus an attached basket and light. The surface rises to become a drawingboard.

Crisis Reached in Second Trick
As Finesse Assures Nine

Mr. Masters considered his hand a shade short of a two no trump opening. However, when his partner was able to respond to the one club opening, he properly jumped to game at no trump.

Mr. Champion led the six of spades and at first glance it appears that the accumulation of nine tricks will be easy. Further study indicates that if both red kings are wrong, the contract will not only be difficult, it will be impossible unless declarer makes a fine and sensational-looking play at trick two.

Of course, Mr. Masters figured out the winning play. Winning the first trick with the king of spades over Mr. Abel's jack, he promptly laid down the nine of hearts.

Here was his reasoning. If he finessed the queen of diamonds at trick two and lost to the king, undoubtedly the defenders would continue spades until his last stopper was knocked out. In that situation, he would be able to run four diamonds and these, with two spade tricks, one heart and one club, would total only eight tricks.

To pick up the ninth trick it would be necessary to take the dangerous heart finesse toward Mr. Champion. If Mr. Champion got in with the king of hearts he would probably be able to cash enough spade tricks to defeat the contract.

To eliminate that threatening prospect, Mr. Masters was good enough to look ahead and try to eliminate the king of hearts from Mr. Champion's hand at the start. If it turned out that Mr. Abel had the king of hearts, a trick would be lost but that would be practically nothing compared to the safety of the contract itself.

As a matter of fact, the nine of hearts held the second trick although it would have made no difference if Mr. Champion had elected to win with the king.

Mr. Masters now took the diamond finesse and lost to the king. However, nothing could prevent him from winning nine tricks in all.

British Sub Travels 2,875 Miles Underwater From Bermuda to Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The first British submarine ever to cross the Atlantic without surfacing blew its tanks and popped above water in the English Channel after a 2,875-mile voyage from Bermuda.

"Snort" (snorkel) breathing apparatus made the underwater trip possible for the 1,600-ton Andrew. She was built in the final days of the Second World War when the Nazi navy was pioneering "snorkel" developments for its U-boats.

Most modern navies, including the Soviet submarine fleet, now employ the device which sucks in air and blows out exhaust fumes from below the ocean's surface.

On June 2 the crew "spliced the mainbrace" and toasted the health of the Queen as she was crowned. A double tot of grog was issued all around.

The Andrew surfaced before dawn off Britain's southwest coast and headed for the royal naval review at Portsmouth 5 miles to the east. Time for the Atlantic crossing was not announced but the Admiralty said the sub arrived "well ahead of schedule."

"It was a trip carried out for normal experiments and to test the snort apparatus," he Admiralty announced. "The submarine carried normal supplies of food. The crew were not given any special rations to keep them going."

Lt.-Cmdr. William Scott, the Andrew's skipper, said the submarine had behaved well in rough seas.

He said there had been some breakdowns on the way over and the sub had to settle for underwater repairs. Once they went down for eight hours to fix some diesel engine auxiliary equipment.

"On two occasions we had to make sudden deep dives to avoid collisions with merchant ships. This was at night when we were about halfway across the Atlantic," he said.

The Andrew, designed originally for service in the Pacific, carries about 60 men and its diesel engines drive it at 18 knots maximum.

Colonel Stone to Become Instructor at Camp Borden

OTTAWA (AP)—Lt.-Col. James Riley Stone, 44, is leaving command of the first Canadian unit to fight in Korea just before it sails for overseas again, this time for Germany.

The army announced that an October shift will see colorful Big Jim from Salmon Arm, B.C., relinquish command of the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to a 33-year-old paratrooper, Lt.-Col. S. C. Waters of Edmonton.

The unit, now in Calgary, is scheduled to sail for Germany late in the fall to serve with the 7th brigade under the banner of the Atlantic Pact. With it will be other units of the original 25th brigade in Korea.

But Col. Stone will be left behind as chief instructor at the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, Ont., to teach officers and NCOs what he learned in winning the Distinguished Service Order three times and the Military Cross once in Italy, northwest Europe and Korea.

He rose from private to commanding officer of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment in the Second World War and his 2nd Patricia's were the first Canadian unit to fight in Korea starting in the fall of 1950. They came home a year later to become a paratroop unit.

Col. Stone commanded the army contingent in the London Coronation parade.

Col. Waters now is a member of the directing staff at the army staff college in Kingston, Ont.

A graduate of the University of Alberta, he did his second war fighting with the Canadian-American special service force and the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion. He enlisted originally in 1941 in the ranks and was sent home from England to take officer training.

Another shift arising out of these two will take Lt.-Col. R. M. Bourgeois, 38, of Montreal from the chief instructor's job at the Borden school to the staff of the army staff college.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GALE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—In the wake of the Yankees' sinking and pillaging of the last remaining Indian settlement on Lake Erie, columnist Ed McAuley of the Cleveland News says in sepulchral tones:

Organized baseball is in trouble. Its ailments will be aggravated seriously if the four-time winners continue to make a joke of the flag race."

Truer words were seldom spoken. If the American League has a headache in its chronic television problems, just until Casey Stengel's run-in with the Yankees increase their lead to 18 games along in August.

McAuley goes on to say, "The task of balancing the league belongs to the clubs and them, not to the coaching leaders," he sighs. But the following paragraph, Ed McAuley says in sepulchral tones:

also aided G-A's scoring spree. Christensen was never in trouble, giving up only one hit—a single by Allingham in the third inning—and striking out 12 batters.

First big blow-up by Esquires came in the third inning. G-A's scored once in the first off a double by Hartwig and a single by Sunberg. In the third, Sunberg started off the hitting with a three-bagger which brought home the first two of seven runs in the inning. Ford, lead-off man, had gained first on a free base on balls and Hartwig was safe on an error.

Another outfield error allowed Don Scherk on base, followed by brother Sid who was safe on a walk. A single each by Young and Marshall and a high fly by Ford missed in centre field accounted for five more runs before the final put-out.

The fourth inning was almost as hectic for Esquires as the third, Sharpe being belted with a three-bagger, two-base hit and a pair of singles, which accounted for two more runs.

Irregularities Charged In Manitoba Election

By The Canadian Press

WINNIPEG.—The Free Press said in a newspaper story that charges of irregularities in election procedure are being raised in two Manitoba constituencies over the June 8 general election.

The newspaper says Leon Michalchuk, defeated Independent candidate for Fisher constituency, has sent a lengthy, unsigned submission to Charles Prudhomme, chief electoral officer. The newspaper says a covering letter indicated the statement contained charges of irregularities. Mr. Prudhomme said he had not yet had time to read the statement.

The Free Press also quotes an unnamed CCF supporter as saying Tom Kobzey, proposed CCF candidate in Emerson constituency, was "railroaded" out of Vita, Man., the day before nomination day.

It quotes the supporter as saying Kobzey was approached by a group of men while collecting signatures for his nomination papers and told to get out of town. He allegedly was followed by the men in a car.

The CCF did not contest the riding and party officials said they have not decided on any action on this claim and others that returning officers marked voters' ballots for them.

L. O. Baskerville of Dominion City, Man., Emerson returning officer, said no protest had been made to him, but he understood the defeated Social Credit candidate, George I. Friesen, had applied for a refund of his election deposit.

On first count, Mr. Friesen polled only 220 votes compared with 2,329 for the winner, John R. Solomon, Independent Liberal-Progressive.

The Election Act calls for forfeiture of a candidate's $200 deposit if he does not poll one-third the votes of the first candidate. Mr. Friesen sought a refund on the grounds his name was listed on election material as John I. Friesen instead of George I. Friesen.

Mr. Baskerville said the error was not noticed until the day before the election.

Alternative voting is used in Emerson and other single-member Manitoba constituencies. Transfer of Mr. Friesen's second choices gave Mr. Solomon 2,353 compared with 2,234 for the official Liberal-Progressive candidate, Frank Casper, on the second and final count.

Mr. Solomon's re-election previously was indicated by the Canadian Press trend analysis.

The House standing is Liberal-Progressive 30, Progressive Conservative 15, CCF 5, Social Credit 2, Independent 4, Independent Liberal-Progressive 1, Labor-Progressive 1, deferred 2. Total 57.

Victoria Man Committed On Theft Charge

VICTORIA (CP)—Vernon Reid, 31-year-old Victoria man, was committed for trial in a higher court by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court here following a preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

He is alleged to have broken into the Salvation Army Citadel here on the night of Feb. 9 and taken bearer bonds owned by Maj. C. J. Milley of the Salvation Army.

Police said a safe was stolen from Maj. Milley's office on the night in question.

It was the first of a series of safe thefts in the city which netted thieves close to $1,500 in cash and bonds over a two-month period.

A perjury charge against Reid was dismissed by Mr. Justice J. B. Clearhue in County Court Thursday.

FOUR CANADIANS were selected as gold staff officers for the Coronation and acted as royal ushers at Westminster Abbey. They carried short gold staffs bearing the Queen's cipher and directed the guests to their seats at the Abbey. Left to right: G. G. Crean of Toronto, counsellor; Lt.-Col. H. E. Price, Quebec city, secretary of the Canadian joint staff in London; Louis Couillard, Ottawa, first secretary at Canada House, and Robert Campbell Smith, Vancouver, commercial secretary.

Medical Society Acclaims Country Doctor

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Dr. Roderich J. MacDonald, a country doctor for 66 of his 96 years, is acclaimed by the Prince Edward Island Medical Society as perhaps the dean of his profession in the world.

Still going strong and with no thoughts of retirement, Dr. MacDonald was given a testimonial dinner and presentation recently by the society.

ALWAYS ON JOB

Dr. MacDonald hasn't yet refused a call—day or night—during his practice at St. Peter's, as the only physician within 15 miles. He once spent a winter night on the ice of St. Peter's Bay, marooned while on a call. He has rushed to so many emergency cases that his walk rather resembles an average person's spring.

Mention retirement and his usual reply is: "What do you think I am, Slipping?"

Dr. Harold Shaw, president of the P.E.I. medical group, said Dr. MacDonald is "a splendid and outstanding example of a class of physicians who for years have been the heart and soul of the profession, the general practitioner, better known as the family doctor."

"We are not aware," Dr. Shaw said, "that a similar record has ever occurred in medical history and we hereby claim for you not only a provincial or dominion record but a world record."

New Zealand Track Star, Yvette Williams Hopes to Set World Record at Vancouver

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP)—Yvette Williams, New Zealand's greatest woman athlete who won the Olympic broad jump at Helsinki last year, is a definite starter in the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver. She holds the games record of 19 feet 4½ inches set in Auckland, N.Z., in 1950.

And if anybody thinks they can keep up with the tall, attractive athlete, they should start training right now. Yvette, already in training, has her sights on a 21-foot jump, which would be six inches better than the world record.

New Zealand paid her singular tribute this year when she was named the Dominion's sportsman of the year, the second straight year she has held the honor. It went to her because of her Olympic performance—broad jump winner, sixth in the shot put, and 10th in the discus.

LONG DISCUS THROW

She jumped 20 feet 5¾ inches in the Olympic games and since her return from Helsinki has thrown the discus 155 feet two inches, in an unofficial toss. This has not been equalled by any woman athlete outside Russia and is nearly 14 feet short of the 168 feet 8½ inches hurled by Olympic champion Nine Romashenkova of Russia last year.

Yvette has lost count of her records. She holds the Olympic Empire Games, New Zealand, Australian and Fijian records for the broad jump; Australian, New Zealand and Fijian records for the shot and discus, and the Fijian records for 50 yards and 100 yards. She has broken records in relay teams, and is a top-class basketball player.

She is beginning her preparation for the 1954 games at once, and to show her determination to exceed her present performance, is transferring from Dunedin, in the far south of New Zealand, to Auckland in the north because the coaches who have trained her for four years, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bellwood, have moved to the northern city.

Yvette says she feels she owes it to New Zealand sport to defend her Empire Games broad jump title.

HUMOROUS APPROACH

Now 23, Yvette is unassuming and unspoiled by her performance.

Former Polish Lawyer Becomes Red Cross Nurse to Meet Women

TORONTO (CP)—A former Polish lawyer, Mrs. Mary Kindler, wanted to become more thoroughly acquainted with Canadian women so she took up Red Cross home nursing.

Recently she was one of 285 women to receive awards from the Red Cross at ceremony here.
Mrs. Kindler's work in Poland was mainly concerned with children's guardianship and delinquents. During the war she was active in the underground and afterwards spent two years in Sweden doing industrial work.

She married a lawyer who was serving with Polish troops in England and later they came to Canada. She says she was embarrassed because she could not speak English. "I was so happy when I first learned to say 'thank you very much' that I said it on every occasion," she said.

Some Canadian Soldiers Return Home Without Having Any Leave in Japan

IN KOREA (CP)—Canadian troops in Korea are eligible for one five-day leave in Japan after four months' service. In practice they get one such leave during their year here.

Staff officers say some soldiers returned to Canada with their units without having had any Japan leave at all.

The leave situation was explained here after an Ottawa government answer to a Commons question March 12 said troops get a five-day leave in Japan plus travelling time "after every four months' service in Korea."

Soldiers here don't complain about welfare conditions, which they say are the best possible under the circumstances. But they and their officers say the statement about leave is inaccurate.

The conflict lies in the difference between Ottawa policy and the capacity for its fulfilment under present arrangements for Commonwealth troops.

Headquarters officers say several limiting factors make it unlikely that soldiers here will ever get more than one trip to Japan in a year as a general practice. These factors include lack of air space and limited accommodation at the Tokyo leave centre.

Occasionally a unit is allotted more vacancies than it has men with four months' Korean service. Then the chance for a second leave opens for a few soldiers with longer service.

Few get the second chance and fewer still use it. By that time most are saving for their return home.

Canadians stationed in Japan, just as those stationed in Europe, qualify for one 14-day leave every four months. But there is no compensation for those in Korea who forego that privilege. The Australian army credits soldiers with extra pay for leave they lose in Korea.

Coldwell Scores Capitalistic Dictatorship

SHAUNAVON, Sask. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, says Liberal members in the Commons have done little to introduce a national health scheme since they promised 34 years ago they would enact one.

Speaking at the second Saskatchewan centre in one day as he opened his party's campaign for the Aug. 10 federal election, Mr. Coldwell said he hoped to see the day "when the best in curative and preventive medicine will be available to everyone with no charge except ability to pay."

Claiming that for every $1,000 Canada spent on defence only $1 was spent on technical aid, the CCF leader said he had no use for capitalistic dictatorship which caused misery at home and in the world.

On education, he said that as long as the Liberal government was in power, the prime minister would be opposed to further grants for education.

Health Minister Bentley of Saskatchewan also spoke at the rally, urging that if the viewpoints of farmers were to be presented in Parliament, "we must have CCF members, not members dominated by the Liberal caucus."

REGULING THE EAR and betwitching the eye, Rosemary Clooney makes her screen debut in Paramount's brand new Technicolor musical, "The Stars Are Singing," now playing at the Capitol Theatre. Co-starred with Rosemary in the delightful tune-filled film are Anna Maria Alberghetti and Lauritz Melchior.

Engineers Attempting to Eliminate Noise in Subway

TORONTO (CP)—Subway engineers are trying to make the city's system, expected to be ready next February, the quietest in the world.

They say Toronto is the only place in North America where acoustic treatment of a subway has even been attempted.

The biggest noise problem is the "barrelling" effect created when a train sets up a noise at a given point, travels down the tunnel with the noise proceeding with it and adding to the racket as it travels.

A. G. Keith, Toronto transportation commission architect, said the noise snowballs and by the time a train reaches a station the din equivalent to it can be heard in a boiler factory.

One way the engineers are going to beat sound is by installing perforated fibre board on station ceilings and fibre glass with corrugated aluminum coverings on inside walls and pillars in the tunnels.

This way, sound which would otherwise last five seconds is cut to one second.

Acoustic materials are also being used under the platform lip and between the lip and the floor, both spots close to the source of the sound. Sound waves can be trapped by perforations in cement asbestos which has acoustical backing to deaden them.

The engineers are laying the tracks carefully. The rails will be made with precision and laid with precision. Noise has also been studied in regard to the trains themselves and many devices will be used to cut noise.

Floors will be covered with rubber and have a 1 1/2-inch layer of cork and corrugated stainless steel underneath to stop drumming. Brakes will have self-adjusting shoes to prevent jarring and they will do it quietly.

Best sound killers of all, the engineers say, are the passengers because their bodies absorb vibrations. There will be more noise during off-hours than when the rush is on.

Socreds Plan Full Slate in Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—The Social Credit party will nominate a candidate in every Saskatchewan constituency for the Aug. 10 federal election.

Joseph Thauberger, Saskatchewan Social Credit League president, made the announcement at a party banquet here. He said nominating conventions will be held next week in Meadow Lake, Rosthern, the Battlefords and Kindersley.

E. G. Hansell, MP for Macleod, said Social Credit is a "monetary technique to equate consumption with production." Mr. Hansell, also the party's national president, attacked the current monetary system as inadequate and said Social Credit is not "essentially" a political party but a "great crusade for the emancipation of the people from the unseen powers of the money monopoly."

Beauchesne Nominated in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, for 23 years clerk of the House of Commons, has been nominated Progressive Conservative candidate for Ottawa East in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Dr. Beauchesne defeated Mrs. G. A. Kingston of Ottawa, a graduate nurse and mother of four children, for the nomination, which came on Dr. Beauchesne's birthday—his 77th.

The soft-spoken retired clerk is recognized as Canada's top authority on parliamentary procedure and his books on the subject remain the standard authority for operation of the House.

Dr. Beauchesne will oppose Jean T. Richard, a Liberal who has held the seat since 1945.

Dr. Beauchesne began his career as a newspaper man. He later turned to law and in 1916 became assistant Commons clerk in 1925. Since his retirement in 1948 he has acted as adviser to the Quebec government on federal-provincial matters.

Steel Price Upped $4 Ton

PITTSBURGH (CP)—U.S. Steel Corporation boosted steel prices an average of $4 a ton today, presaging an industry-wide increase which could send the U.S. living costs higher.

Rated capacity of Canada's steel furnaces early in 1953 reached 4,303,000 tons per annum.

Announcement

Following the example set by the leading men's wear stores of the nation, we are proud to announce the installation of an up-to-date Made-to-Measure department to cater to both the ladies' and men's trade.

We are especially fortunate to be able to announce that Mr. Garnet Hull, made-to-measure specialist of many years experience will be in charge of this department, assuring our many customers benefit of proper material selections and fitting which Mr. Hull has gained during his associations with the trade in most of Canada's larger centres.

To the many men and women that find ready-made clothes present a problem and require special attention, we offer a special invitation to inspect our materials and discuss fitting problems with us.

Many will also be surprised to learn that a made-to-measure suit, jacket or topcoat will cost very little more than a ready-made garment. The customer's pocketbook is just as much our concern as his.
