NEW YORK—A man here has saved more than 1,800 nickels, but he can't spend a single one. They're all wooden.

Lucas, an agent of Canadian National Railways department here, collects them as a hobby. When his friends unknowingly, but jokingly, warn him to "take any wooden nickels" Ted just laughs. He's used to get them.

His unusual hobby has won him a personal appearance on a television network show here Friday, with Bob Diz celebrating movie actor.

Senators Debate New Railroad Bill To Fence or Not to Fence

OTTAWA — Senator J. W. Stambaugh (L—Alb.) last night said in the Senate that Canadian National Railways should fence the proposed branch from Terrace to Kitimat in British Columbia if the area becomes settled.

Civil Servants Must Wait For Negotiations

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia's 10,000 civil servants probably will have to wait until after the June 12 election before resuming negotiations with the government for a five-day, maximum 40-hour week through out the Civil Service.

It was learned Monday there is little likelihood there will be another cabinet meeting before election.

Representatives of the workers had hoped for meeting this week. Last week the government's offer of five-day, 36-hour week for office workers and a five-day, 44-hour week for outside workers was rejected.

Immigration To Canada Down in '52

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Harris said yesterday Canada probably will admit 100,000 to 150,000 immigrants this year compared with last year's near record total of 194,000.

While giving the number expected this year, Mr. Harris also reported 100 percent increase in immigrants from the United Kingdom.

He told Commons that so far this year the number of British immigrants has been more than doubled the figure for last year.

In 1951, approximately 32,000 British immigrants reached Canada.

Mr. Harris made his statements before introducing legislation to provide for several administrative changes in the Immigration Act. He said amendments will not affect the general immigration policy.

He estimated 200 people in Civic Centre, H. H. W. Beyerstein described how the Social Credit party would solve the social problems of Canada.

describing what he termed "fallacies of the present economic system," Dr. Beyerstein said the only thing that is saving Canada's economy at present high level is "our war expenditure."

Continuous Operation Of Elevator

White Elephant Turns Hard Worker

Trade Minister C. D. Howe has assured Prince Rupert its formerly-dubbed "white elephant" grain elevator will remain in continued operation.

This assurance was read in a letter to the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce meeting last night from Member of Parliament E. T. Applewhite.

The Skeena MP amplified a telegram he had sent earlier advising the Chamber that Department of Transport Minister Chevrier had made a similar announcement.

Mr. Applewhite's letter quoted Mr. Howe in saying that the federal government anticipated "considerable grain business" for Prince Rupert.

Eight ships have taken on grain here for Japan since the elevator was reactivated this winter—after nearly 20 years of idleness.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce voted to record their appreciation to Mr. Applewhite, Mr. Howe, the late Alex Hunter and the Prince Rupert Daily News for their efforts in persuasion that the elevator be reactivated.

The Chamber of Commerce itself has as one of its major projects campaigned for operation of the elevator.

SUPPORTS FISH HATCHERY

Chamber of Commerce members also pledged their support to Prince Rupert Rod & Gun Association in their attempts to locate a game fish hatchery in this area.

Joe Scott moved the endorsement when a letter from Eric Martin, fish hatchery committee chairman, was discussed. Mr. Scott said the game commission had "long since" promised to provide Central B.C. with a fish hatchery.

Mr. Scott did not agree with A. P. Crawley, who said an increase in trout might, as predators, be harmful to the salmon industry.

Mr. Martin's letter stated that while only six percent of lower mainland residents purchased anglers' licences, 12 percent of the Prince Rupert residents were licence holders.

Mr. Martin called on that point as one of several—including the fact that more new people are coming to Central B.C. than to any other part of the province—for support in request for a hatchery.

TIMBER REMOVAL

The provincial government will be asked by the Chamber to subsidize the removal of timber from lands to be flooded by the Alcan development in Tweed smuir Park.

A letter from Lands Minister E. T. Kenney stated that while Alcan would not undertake to remove all standing timber on the proposed flooded lands, the company would be prepared to spend $250,000. Meanwhile, the government was granting permits to remove an estimated 80,000,000 feet of effected timber at purchasing power returned because those stocks on our store shelves were purchased by workers being paid to produce war material.

This same cycle could happen again, said Dr. Beyerstein, "but not under the Social Credit philosophy of balancing production and consumption."

"We are living in an era of false dreams," he said as he related achievements of the party in Alberta.

He explained that when the Social Credit Party came into power in Alberta in 1935 there was a provincial debt of more than $167,000,000 and "through our good government, it has now been reduced to $97,000,000 and we have a reserve fund of $71,000,000."

"Under Social Credit," said the MP for Camrose, "production would operate just the same as it is today, but we would restore to Parliament the right to issue its own credit."

Carpenters Vote Strike For Wages

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver carpenters have voted for strike action to back up wage increase demands, it was announced today.

The votes, counted after a ballot last week, showed 266 in favor of strike action and 181 against.

Carpenters are seeking a pay increase of 50 cents an hour over the current rate of $2. Conciliation board recommended no increases.

a nominal rate of 50 cents a thousand stumpage.

Mr. Scott asked the Chamber to write the government that it subsidize the removal of timber, in addition to the Alcan concession.

INDUSTRIAL REPORT

President T. Norton Youngs told the Chamber he would be responsible for a complete report of the industrial facts of the Prince Rupert area to the Associated Boards of Trade of Central B.C., as requested by its secretary, Duncan Kerr.

Greetings will be sent to the village of Metlakatla when it receives its enfranchisement, due this summer.

Murray Flays All Parties In Campaign Speech Debut

The "many ridiculous laws made for a few" will be thrown out if a Social Credit government is elected in B.C. on June 12.

At least, that's what Art Murray, the party's candidate for Prince Rupert, told more than 200 persons in the Civic Centre last night.

Mr. Murray, a parks commissioner and well known sports promoter here for many years, ridiculed the CCF party platform and asked: "How can anybody figure out a deal life this?"

"The CCF say they're going to build roads for public needs. Well, what else would you build roads for?"

"They're going to roll back hospital insurance. Where are they going to roll it? Why, there isn't a sound statement in this whole leaflet," he said as he waved a CCF pamphlet which is being distributed from the party's campaign rooms.

"Furthermore," said the former taxi cab owner here, "the CCF say they're going to give you car insurance at cost."

"I'm telling you they couldn't do it on a sound basis. Stay away from car insurance, it's bad business to get mixed up in. You might make it pay in Saskatchewan where it's all flat, but when a car cracks up here it's got a long way to fall."

He said the CCF "is catering to every fisherman in this district, but they don't say what they're going to do for them. All they want is to be elected so they can put into effect their socialist ideas that are hidden from this pamphlet."

"The CCF say they'll drag more from Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, but they don't say what they'll drag from the fishermen."

In attacking various "accomplishments of past governments" he said he'd defy anyone to tell him the difference between the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives.

"Put them all into a sack, feel them, and draw one out, and what have you got? I don't know, and I can't see how you people do either," he said to his audience amid roars of laughter.

"These Coalition partners say they have done a lot of things. Well, they sure have, but how much of them are good?"

"These strikes that are facing us this year are the job of the government to prevent. These conciliation boards must

Shriners Invade Rupert For Third Pilgrimage

One hundred and fifty fez-capped, laughing and fun-loving men will descend on Prince Rupert next Friday afternoon for a two-day ceremonial convention.

They are the Shriners, beloved by all for their quiet deeds of good to children, making their annual pilgrimage. Prince Rupert has been picked as their site the third time in 25 years.

Last time they were here en masse was May, 1947.

The Shriners will come from all parts of the province and Alaska.

At 2 p.m., 106 of them, and many wives of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will arrive on Union Steamship Chilcotin.

Several are coming on the Canadian Steamship's Kathleen, the following day. From Prince George, 12 are due by train and 16 are coming by plane from Ketchikan.

The gala event during which two impressive Shrine ceremonial rites take place will be topped off with a huge dance at the Armories Saturday night at which 600 people are expected.

The Shriners will provide their own music too, and all the fun for which they are so famous, for the two-day program.

The well-known Giech Temple Pipe Band will hold a concert on the Court House grounds Friday evening.

A march through the city by the band and Nobles will be the inaugural parade from the depot. The Prince Rupert Shrine Band has been active in preparing for the arrival of their Noble brethren.

How Bright Our Future?

BRITISH COLUMBIA today stands in the doorway of a golden era. Of all the provinces in Canada, statistics show that B.C., since 1939, has had the greatest growth.

Its population has increased from 792,000 to 1,200,000 today.

The average hourly earnings of B.C. workers, for instance, have increased from 50 cents in 1939 to $1.57 today.

Eight major projects in industrial expansion of our province are headed by the Aluminum Company of Canada development—the greatest undertaking in Canada today.

All this could not have happened without the confidence of investors in our province. And investors will only risk their capital in a sound, free enterprise province which does not frighten them away with talk of nationalization, high taxation, unfriendly government attitude.

When we go to the polls June 12, let's vote thoughtfully, for our future pay cheques.

Each and every one of us has a pretty large stake in our province. We want it's future progress. There is no land of brighter promise on the face of the earth today than Western Canada . . . of which B.C. is the most favored province.

UNDER OUR ROOF

By JOHN STURDY

There has been a certain amount of confusion about the re-allocation of rooms in our house since Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.), one of our apparently permanent guests, married Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs, who also seems permanent.

Of course, I had the silly idea that, seeing as I owned the house, I might conceivably get the bedroom for my family. Not that I mind living in the shed, but as my wife says, it's no place to bring up a child.

Anastasia wanted the extra room as a store-place for her collection of stuffed animal heads, which she had brought with her from India, and the Colonel wanted it for a study where he could write his memoirs, while Hamish, who has the gardening bug, planned to turn the space into a greenhouse.

The only one who stayed aloof from this heated controversy was Little Augie. Ever since he arrived on the island Little Augie has been very quiet and subdued.

bars in the East, and that of course made it impossible for him to make an honest living. That was why he came to B.C., where the laws concerning liquor refreshments were better for a man in his line of business—or, as he called it, "purveying portables to the underprivileged."

Well, nobody could agree about the bedroom, and in the meantime there were four perfectly good walls and a floor going to waste. Hamish and the Colonel and Anastasia were watching one another like hawks, and that gave me a brilliant idea. If they were so busy watching one another, they might not notice me.

So the other evening I snaked into the disputed room just to scout the situation. The interior surprised me. For one thing, the bed and most of the furniture was gone.

I was scratching my head in perplexity when I heard a knock on the door. I answered it and there stood a little man I had never seen in my life before. "Joe sent me," he said, nervously.

"Joe who?" I demanded. He looked confused. "Just—Joe," he said, taking off his hat and sitting at one of the card tables. I took a seat at another table and we looked at each other.

"Nice weather," he suggested. I was about to reply when there was another knock on the door. Again I answered, and a stout man entered. "Frank sent me," he said.

With this he headed for a table and, seating himself, began to read a newspaper.

"Not so chilly tonight," I heard the little man say. Suddenly the stout individual snorted and put down his newspaper with a loud slap. "Just been reading that column 'Under

As I See It

Beaverbrook Blunder

I AM usually an admirer of that tough old war-horse, Lord Beaverbrook.

Although I cannot go along with him in some of his die-hard ideas on domestic politics in Britain, it seems to me he is about the last big public man in Britain who realizes that what we used to call the British Empire is still big enough to save itself.

It is certainly one of the ironies of history that, while the British world kingdom outnumbered either the U.S.A. or Russia by more than three to one, we are now caught in the nutcracker of their two-pronged world squeeze. Some say Uncle Sam will save us from Uncle Joe. But some ask, who will save us from Uncle Sam?

IF YOU include India in the Commonwealth you see that one quarter of the people of the world are still in it. In fact, our new Queen Elizabeth will reign over more human beings than have ever been subject to any monarch in all human history. True, she will "reign but not rule." But the legal fact is that her world-wide kingdom is the most populous in all history—by far the most numerous of any international organization in the world today.

The fact that we have not done so is a reflection only on ourselves. We have all the "makings"—but one. Our political theory and self-help was obviously inadequate for the times in which we live. Otherwise we would not have had to bow down to American leadership, as we have done, even in the face of the gigantic challenge of Russian-led Communism.

BUT how could Lord Beaverbrook, so great a believer in the British world kingdom, be so unwise as to re-open the old wounds that date from the abdication of the present Duke of Windsor?

This would have been bad enough at any time. But it was most mischievous at this particular period, between the death of the late King and the Coronation of the young Queen Elizabeth.

FELT SO PLEASANT

Most of us, this long ago, feel a bit embarrassed if asked what date it was the first through train arrived in Prince Rupert. The casual stranger or new comer thinks a sourdough ought to know. He should, for that matter. Well, it's 38 years ago—

WHAT HO, FOR EAST?

Not until 1911 was it possible for a train to travel any distance from Prince Rupert. On the fourteenth of June of that year, one managed to reach Mile 45. Passenger cars totalled perhaps three or four, together with a string of freights. There was no sign of the Skeena, though near. A mile or more back from the rails, towered mountains with a waterfall foaming from top to bottom. On the platform of the rear car sat a couple of men with legs comfortably crossed. One's hat, so far as color went, could have been from Panama.

FINAL CONTACT

It was near Fort Fraser in Central British Columbia on April 7, 1914, that the track layer made the last connection. Fort Fraser is hundreds of miles from Prince Rupert and on this day of days, the sky was clear, and there was no lack of snow and people.

Well, I was about to reply to that, too, when my attention was suddenly diverted to a calendar hanging on a wall that separated this room from a large clothes closet. It seemed to me that the calendar was moving.

In fact, it was, and in its place appeared a pair of eyes, looking out from what seemed to be a hole in the wall. Then a strange, familiar voice asked: "What'll it be, boys?"

"The usual," said the stout man. "Make it two," said the little man. "Make it three," I chimed in, completely fascinated.

In a couple of minutes the calendar moved again and this time a hand appeared, holding three glasses. The stout man, the little man and myself got up and each took a glass.

"Put it on the cuff," the stout man said. "Same here," the little man said. "Same here," I said. The hand tapped my shoulder. "Sorry, bub," said the familiar voice. "Strictly cash for new customers."

Theatre-goers Shocked At Shooting

LONDON (Reuters)—House lights were turned on soon after a new play opened at the Fortune Theatre last night and a grim manager stepped on to the stage to announce that the leading lady had been shot.

Police flanked him as he warned a shocked audience that no one must leave the theatre and that everyone was under suspicion.

Then he called a doctor from the audience. The doctor examined actress Helen Cordet, slumped in a wing chair, and reported: "she's dead."

Some theatre-goers nearly panicked at this. But quicker-witted ones soon realized Miss Cordet would be "shot" again tomorrow night—all as part of the plot of "Murder In Motley," name of the play.

the London Times for "turning public opinion against the morganatic marriage" between King Edward VIII and the then Mrs. Simpson. That seems to me a woeful over-simplification—and in fact, misrepresentation of what Edward proposed to do. The crux of the whole matter was, as one British book reviewer summed it up last year, the misguided young king wanted to marry a lady whom he had met while she was another man's wife.

The British can laugh, and sing music hall songs, about the marital escapades of Henry VIII. But four hundred years of history have brought great changes. The real basis of the British throne today is affection, based on respect, of all the people. That could not have survived the morganatic solution then proposed.

the United States there was no shade of "anti-Americanism" in the decision of the British parliament to accept the abdication at that time. Every government in the Commonwealth backed that move. Had Edward chosen to wed any American maiden, her nationality would have been an asset, not a liability. The more humble her origin, the more popular the match Edward could have married a poor commoner from any country on earth—yes, certainly including Soviet Russia. But he could not do what he wanted to do in 1936 and still remain what any British monarch must now be—a "king of hearts."

the head of the Family of Nations must show a decent respect for the institution of the family. It is amazing that a shrewd public man like Lord Beaverbrook should fail to face this fact.

As its name suggests, the F "99" Two-Way Treatment acts both internally and externally to combat eczema, boils, leg ulcers, infantile eczema and acne. Even in psoriasis, some good results have been reported, but it is not possible to predetermine which cases do not respond to this treatment. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F "99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value. F "99" is being used for skin troubles with remarkable results, even in cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

Always consult your doctor for a correct diagnosis of your ailment.

TWO-WAY TREATMENT

F "99" taken internally, by capsule or liquid is absorbed into the blood stream, and will build up an essential fatty acid deficiency. The ointment works externally by direct absorption of the effective ingredients.

The discovery, made by clinical research in many countries, established that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in the body metabolism can be one of the main causes of skin diseases. Ten years of untiring effort by a Swiss Chemist resulted in extracting from pure vegetable oils, a concentration of highly purified biologically active essential fatty acids. These highly unsaturated fatty acids are now contained in the F "99" preparations.

Answers to a few questions about ALTERNATIVE VOTING

- Question: What is Alternative Voting?
- Answer: A form of voting which allows the voter more than one choice in the marking of his ballot.
- Question: What is the purpose of Alternative Voting?
- Answer: To prevent the election of a candidate on a minority vote.
- Question: How does a voter mark his ballot under Alternative Voting?
- Answer: He marks his ballot in the order of his preference by using the figure 1 for his first choice, the figure 2 for his second choice and so on.
- Question: May a voter vote for one candidate only, in other words, "plump"?
- Answer: Yes.
- Question: Is "plumping" or voting first choice only considered advantageous?
- Answer: No. Suppose a voter marks only one choice: that voter has virtually said to the Returning Officer "I am only interested in my No. 1 choice". Upon distribution of the low candidate's ballots to the remaining candidates, the ballot of a voter who voted one choice only, cannot be further dealt with. It is, in other words, an "exhausted ballot". Such a voter simply deprives himself of full participation in the contest.

THE ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

INDIANAPOLIS — The great sprawling speedway on the city's outskirts where Friday's 500-mile race was run stands idle on every other day of the year. Nothing else could be held in the place except, possibly, a ivant. Scattered through the vast infield there are hundreds of towering trees. Spectators in the long grandstand on the home straightaway get only brief glimpses of the races, as they speed through the distant backstretch. The owner of the speedway, they explain, loves trees.

Those who live from year to year for the "500" are fearful of Louisville and its horse race. They estimate, conservatively, that the roaring bugles attract twice as many spectators as the Kentucky Derby. Some of the more delirious fans began parking their cars at the numerous entrances a week ago, making certain of choice vantage points in the infield.

This being a U.S. national holiday—Memorial Day—Indianapolis locks its bars and liquor shops tight. They claim, however, that their pre-race parties rival in number and hospitality anything seen in the blue grass country.

Racing cars have shrunk since they shivered with admiration as Barney Oldfield shoved his red Christie around the Washington Park track at El Paso, raising an airplane. They appear to be faster, too. The biggest car in today's classic, a diesel job, stands only 29½ inches off the track. It has no spark plugs, so what keeps it going? They offer all kinds of explanations, but none is acceptable.

Another extreme/ingenious feature of the "500" is the means by which they keep track of the number of times each contestant has completed the 2½-mile circuit. This is important. Well, it seems there is a man for each car up in the official stand, and he has before him a stack of 200 numbered cards. Every time he sees his car whiz past, he turns another card. The first one to turn the last card, his driver wins. Works every time they say.

Most of the young hellions driving today are graduates of the stock car and hot-rod schools, which flourish in the west.

In all, 42 drivers, mechanics and spectators have been killed since the first Memorial Day race was run back in 1909.

Nameless Nine Win Softball

Coming in to relieve Jerry Ford in the fifth inning, "Pop" Rusty Ford put out a fire that had begun early to eat into the Number 1 softball team in the league opener with CCC300.

Ford went on to win his own game, edging Pulp Millers 10-9. CCC300 stacked up an early 9-2 lead in the first four innings but then couldn't hold it.

The "nameless" nine scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth and four more in the eighth. In the ninth Ford senior walked, then stole second, went to third on a fly ball and stole home to win the ball game.

Lepage and Hopkins led the pulp mill nine in batting while Cameron and Shier were the hitters for the winners.

INVITING TROUBLE Overcrowding the front seat of an automobile, forbidden by law, is one of the most dangerous of driving practices.

Moral Frontiers Must be Guarded, IODE Warned

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire were told today that they showed an increasing awareness of the need for knowledge and understanding of current problems during 1951.

Mrs. H. S. Angus, Toronto, said in her report of the National Empire and World Affairs Committee, one of a number prepared for delivery to the IODE's 52nd annual meeting, that interest had increased in such general discussion subjects as current events, world affairs and Communism.

Addressing the organization's annual meeting, she said:

"The preservation of faith in ourselves, our belief in our way of life and our hope for the future is the high purpose of this committee . . . one of the dangers to our society at the present time is a tendency to ignore simple truths and accept what is base and worthless because of a popular demand by unthinking people.

"We must guard our moral frontiers as well as our political rights."

Mrs. Laurence Grout of Toronto, national secretary of the organization's quarterly publication Echoes, in her report told of the inauguration of provincial stories in the Christmas issue.

The first four were about eastern chapters, that from Ontario would appear in the spring issue and the western provinces would be covered in the summer issue.

Mrs. Grout said she "would like to point out that the order is unique in that there is no other national women's voluntary organization in Canada able to publish a magazine in any way comparable to Echoes." She urged members to support it in further "maintaining and increasing its scope and significance."

Reporting for the Immigration and Canadianization Committee, Daisy Taylor, Ottawa, said that between February and November, 1951, the Federal government lent 15,000 immigrants approximately $200 each to help pay their passage to Canada.

She said the immigrants repay loans within two years after arrival in Canada. Repayments totalled more than $500,000 this year.

IODE chapters in British Columbia conducted citizen schools. One had 20 classes a term with 92 pupils. Members of another chapter gave lessons in English to Dutch, Italian, Hindu and Chinese children.

In her report as chairman of the Queen Mary Carpet Committee, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., Oakville, Ont., announced the order had raised $104,350 for Britain through its exhibition of the needlepoint carpet. Proceeds from the sale of literature had been more than enough to pay expenses of the project.

Mrs. Walton said that the transfer or assignment of the copyright of the carpet to the order had been completed and registered in the name of the "Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and Children of the Empire."

"It is hoped that some day when conditions are more favorable, more dollars will accumulate in the Queen Mary Carpet Fund through licensing or selling the copyright to interested American, Canadian or British firms," said Mrs. Walton.

Mrs. Hugh L. Allward of Toronto, presented the report of the National Film Committee. She announced that the committee had recently purchased 25 prints of "Mother of Parliaments" for use of chapters and for rural circuits. The film is a 10-minute short of the opening of the new House of Commons in London.

Ex-Champion Quits Ring

LONDON (CP)—Former Guardsman Jack Gardner, who lost his British and Empire heavyweight titles last March to rugged Welshman Johnny Williams, has retired from the boxing ring for good.

Gardner, who dethroned former champion Bruce Woodcock with an upset victory in November, 1950, plans to devote his time to his farming interests at Market Harborough, in Leicestershire.

His fight with Williams marked the only major clash of his brief reign. But at the comparative early age of 26 his retirement came as a surprise to his followers who had sought to talk him into a comeback against Ray Widing.

"Proposals that I should meet Widing leave me absolutely cold," Gardner said. "I have definitely quit the boxing game and there is no chance of a comeback."

Would Change Coronation Day

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Express today calls for a change in the date of the coronation of the Queen.

This paper describes the established date—June 2, 1953—as the most ill-chosen day possible.

"It comes in Derby Week, at the opening of the London season, when the capital is already packed," the Daily Express says.

"There is a quick and simple solution to the coronation confusion. Set the ceremony early in May, when there will be room for everybody, and those who wish to stay on can enjoy the full swing of the London season."

"Through the lovely water lanes of Findlayson and Grenville Channels the ship follows a winding course into Prince Rupert. The northern seaport boasts the world's largest cold-storage fish plant, and welcomes visitors. You'll probably be more interested in the totem poles, set in natural surroundings in city parks. With a population of some 12,000, Prince Rupert is a bustling city, sprawled over a greater area than appears from the waterfront."—From Saturday Night.

Whooping Cough

'Upsy-Daisy' Newest Cure For Old Disease

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Chief Flying Instructor Ronald Watts of the Lethbridge Flying Club appears well on his way towards an honorary degree in medicine, part-time. He's just proudly announced his second whooping cough "cure" in the last three weeks.

The Watts' system is a simple one. Just load the infant victim into one of the club's aircraft, climb to 12,500 feet in the shortest time possible and then come down again by easy stages. The whole process takes about two hours.

"Don't ask me how it works," Watts said today. "Even the medical men don't know. But usually, the child has quit whooping by the time we land."

So far, three children, all under one year, have taken the treatment on the recommendation of their doctors. Two are definitely cured. The third appears to be but it may be a few days before it's definitely known whether the treatment worked.

The club makes such flights free, as a community service, with either Watts or Flying Instructress Vera Strodl at the controls.

"Differences in pressure on the way up and on the way down have something to do with the cure," said Watts, who first learned of the treatment while in England. "But don't quote me. I only know it seems to work."

CNR Builds New Compartment Passenger Cars

HALIFAX—Among 147 new passenger cars Canadian National Railways will construct, many will provide only compartment space.

"There is a growing trend among Canadian travellers for enclosed accommodation," said H. B. Parr, general manager, sleeping and dining car department, in making the announcement of new service here today.

New equipment was necessary for other reasons, said Mr. Parr. During tourist season and peak holiday periods, the company was frequently pressed for equipment.

Priority is given to Navy, Air Force and Army movements, which often occur during the heavy travel season, he said.

Judges Resign Over Pegged Pay

LONDON (CP)—The economic squeeze, which has slashed the purchasing power of the pound and boosted the burdens of taxation, has let two British high court judges to see their release from office.

The approach has been made by Sir Terence Donovan and Sir George Lloyd-Jacob. Both enjoyed highly-specialized practices before their election to the bench and if their petition is granted they plan to return to the bar.

The action has focussed attention on judicial salaries. They were fixed in 1873 at £5000 a year, subject to taxation.

A judge, however, is barred from earning anything more from his profession than his salary. And since the stipend was fixed nearly 80 years ago there have been no adjustments in income with the result that taxation has whittled the net amount received annually to about £2800. Many top lawyers earn about £15,000 in private practice.

33 Killed In Bus Accident

DUNKERQUE, France (CP)—A bus, carrying supporters of the Belgian football club, plunged into a canal near here Sunday, killing 33 passengers. Fifteen persons were rescued including two children.

The bus, carrying supporters of the La Gantoise Club of Ghent, was returning to Belgium after a match in Ypres and a visit to Cape Gris Nez.

SCREEN ★ FLASHES

Never in the history of motion pictures has a picture been brought to the screen with the breathtaking spectacle, scope, gigantic cast, color and pagentry as that presented in MGM's much heralded Technicolor production of "Quo Vadis" which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

Robert Taylor, Deborah Kerr, Leo Genn, Peter Ustinov and Buddy Baer head a cast of thousands.

"Quo Vadis" is based on the celebrated novel by Henryk Sienkiewicz and is filmed against the grandeur of historic Rome, an undertaking which required 12 years of preparation and actual filming.

The story is the thrilling drama of the birth of Christianity in a pagan world and the love of a Roman warrior for a beautiful Christian hostage is pitted against the corrupt and extravagant imperial court of the Emperor Nero.
