Two Aldermen, Instead of One Address Ratepayers Meeting

Members of the Community Ratepayers' Association and citizens attended a meeting in the Canadian Legion auditorium last night. Instead of just the one speaker, as had been scheduled to disperse the meeting, two aldermen, George Darrow and Darrow Gomez, were present. Gomez was the only one to speak, but his younger brother, in a surprise move, chairman J. W. Prusky took the meeting's speaker out for the good of the city.

150 persons in the audience, asked chairman J. W. Prusky if he could speak before Ald. Casey. Said Mr. Prusky: "This meeting was called by the Community Ratepayers' Association for the purpose of hearing Ald. Casey and as a ratepayer I think we should hear him." Ald. Gomez interrupted, saying: "I think city matters should be discussed at council meetings. I don't want the city to get a black eye by some statements that may be unfounded or are just hearsay." "Any smudge on our city could affect sale of city bonds which

Colonel Houle to Contest Skeena Seat For Liberals

Colonel Houle, a business man, stepped into the political ring last night when he announced his nomination as Liberal candidate for Skeena riding at a meeting held at the Skeena Hotel. Houle, an electrical contractor who has resided in Terrace for two years, is charter member of the newly-formed Chamber of Commerce in Terrace. He is moving to Terrace, Mr. Houle is a resident for 10 years in Alberni where he served on council and was Jaycee president for several years. Houle won his nomination from C. (Lefty) Gardiner, former B.C. police officer in Prince Rupert.

CANDIDATES
While the B.C. Native Brotherhood may have several candidates in the provincial election this year, but may not announce candidates before nomination day, May 19, a Brotherhood spokesman said this morning. Williams, on his way to attend the May 8 salmon price talks between fishermen and operators, himself a candidate prospect, Skeena riding, said possible more riding would be added by a native. The Brotherhood does not have candidates opposing other, he said. Atlin riding, CCF candidate Frank Calder, first and second elected to the B.C. legislature, is being opposed by Assu, another native, as credit candidate. Williams said Mr. Calder

Increased Industrial Activity Helps Make Climate Warmer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carbon dioxide from increased industrial activity is tending to warm the world's climate, according to Johns Hopkins physicist Gilbert Plass. He told the annual meeting of the American Physical Union that the increase in industrial activity during the present century is discharging so much carbon dioxide into the atmosphere that the average temperature is rising at the rate of 1½ degrees per century.

He said approximately 2,000,000,000 tons of coal and oil are burned each year, forming 6,000,000,000 tons of carbon dioxide that are added to the atmosphere. "The carbon dioxide in the air acts in the same manner as the glass in a greenhouse," Dr. Plass said. "It prevents the escape of the long-wavelength heat radiation from the ground, but is transparent to the short-wavelength radiation that comes directly from the sun." "Thus the carbon dioxide blanket keeps the ground at an appreciably higher temperature than it would have if no carbon dioxide were present. An increase in the carbon dioxide amount allows the blanket to hold in more heat near the earth's surface."

Two Fishermen Escape Injury In Sunnyside Boat Explosion

Ships Load Grain Full Crews Start Morning Shift

VANCOUVER.—Grain for world markets was being handled at elevators here today for the first time since mid-February as ships berthed to load the golden backlog of nearly 16,000,000 bushels. Full work shifts resumed this morning, ending a strike which started Feb. 16 at four grain elevators here and a fifth at New Westminster. The 250 workers, who won a wage increase of 7½ cents an hour, will be busy. More than 6,500,000 bushels of wheat are clogging giant terminals and another 9,000,000 bushels have been sitting out the strike in stalled railway cars.

HEADING FOR HOME after a successful day, two anglers of the younger school display the catch they reeled in at an out-of-the-way creek near Cornwall, Ont. Peter Whiteside checks to ensure that his friend, Richard Meunier, isn't over the limit.

Gillnetter Wrecked By Sudden Blast

SUNNYSIDE.—Two fishermen miraculously escaped serious injury or possible death last night when their fishing boat exploded, knocking off the cabin and splitting open the hull, then sinking beneath their feet near the float.

In Prince Rupert General Hospital with burns to face and hands are Kenneth McLeod, 48, and Anthony (Tony) Calder, 36. Both are reported in good condition. McLeod is the owner of the 34-foot gillnetter Lazy River. The heavy blast which ripped the boat apart at about 9:30 p.m. is believed to have been caused by exploding rock gas. It occurred a second after McLeod lit a cigarette, he told bystanders. A rock-gas stove was used on the boat. There was no fire following the blast, concussion of which could be felt over a large area, said Norman Tarbuck, resident office manager of Sunnyside Cannery. Mr. Tarbuck, one of the first to arrive at the scene, said McLeod was in the cabin of the boat and Calder had just stepped aboard. After the explosion, McLeod was still standing but there was no cabin, while Calder had been knocked down. Both stepped aboard a neighboring boat as their own sank beneath them. The injured men were rushed to Port Edward aboard the packer New Island and there were met by Prince Rupert city ambulance. Sunnyside Cannery is operated by B.C. Packers Ltd., for whom McLeod was fishing. His boat had just been painted and readied for halibut fishing. It is now considered an almost total loss, although it has been resurfaced and placed on a grid.

'Violence' Feared In Doukhobor Area

TRAIL.—Premier Bennett sent a telegram to Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday night stating "violence is feared" in the Doukhobor country and urging the federal government to impose a curfew immediately. The premier took this action after addressing a meeting here in his second campaign speech for the June 9 provincial election. He was met by an angry group of 40 members from the Slocan Valley Citizens Association. The delegation had noted reports, denied by Social Credit headquarters here, that the premier was keeping his campaign travel route secret to avoid meeting groups on the Doukhobor question. Mr. Bennett telegraphed the Prime Minister that: "The Doukhobor situation in the Kootenays is extremely critical. Unless action taken immediately violence is feared. Strongly urge your government immediately impose under Emergency Powers Act curfew on all Doukhobors in Kootenay district."

SNAG CLEARED

One snag developed Wednesday after members of the CIO Grain Handlers' Union voted to accept compromise terms, but it was cleared up at a special night meeting of workers. The grain handlers struck for an increase of 12½ cents an hour after operators proposed continuation of a scale of $1.50 hourly. Under the compromise agreement, workers will get 7½ cents, job classification, two additional paid statutory holidays, a five-cent boost on the graveyard shift differential and double pay for Sunday work. The walkout was estimated unofficially as having cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 in wages, shipping and elevator costs and railway revenue.

Vachon Gets 3 Years On Burglary Charge

Phillippe Auguste Vachon, 30, of no fixed address, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary this morning on one count and two years on another after being found guilty by an assize court jury of breaking and entering, and possession of housebreaking instruments. Both sentences, passed by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, are to run concurrently. The six months Vachon already has spent in jail since his arrest October 28 will be taken into consideration. The jury returned its verdict last night after an hour's deliberation. Vachon had been charged on the two counts in connection with the breaking-in of Little, Haugland & Kerr Ltd. store in Terrace. Only the crown presented evidence in the case, prosecuted by T. W. Brown, QC. Robert Dumont of Terrace considered calling accused on the stand but reversed his decision after a short recess. Chief witness, RCMP Corporal Brue, said in evidence that he encountered accused in a narrow alleyway between the warehouse and store of Little, Haugland & Kerr Ltd. on Lakelse Avenue in Terrace on October 28. Corporal Brue said that on the night in question, he had made a patrol of the premises at 10:45. A wire he had strung across the entrance to the alleyway, about eight inches from the ground, then appeared intact. An hour later, the corporal saw the wire had been disturbed and investigated. When he saw the accused, he asked him, "What are you doing here?" "But I didn't finish my question. He attacked me right away." Witness said he called for help from a fellow police officer and together they subdued the accused, then arrested him. In the vicinity where Vachon was found, a window pane was seen leaning against the building. Overhead was an empty space caused by removal of the pane. Interior of the office, store and warehouse was investigated by Cpl. Brue and Dudley Little, company vice-president. An acetylene torch, which had been displayed in the office window, had been moved towards a big office safe. A smaller safe had been tampered with, said the witness. Mr. Little, also a witness, said that at times $3,000 would be kept in the safe. Nothing in the store, office or warehouse was missing, said Mr. Little. Cpl. Brue stated that when Vachon was searched, a steel drill wrapped in a handkerchief.

Police Seek Relatives Of Dead Man

A 44-year-old recent employee of a road construction company died suddenly from a heart attack in Terrace yesterday. He was Elvin Hoffman, home address unknown, employed by Wood & McClay Co. Ltd. RCMP are anxious to contact relatives.

Kinsmen Club Members Hear About Contest

A sneak preview of the Kinsmen Coronation Contest was given to the members of the Kinsmen Club at their regular meeting last night by the chairman of the Coronation committee, Bill Bond. Applause for his work on this contest changed to sudden groans however when he announced that Kinsmen, their wives and families, would not be eligible to participate in the contest. "How can I explain to my wife that she can't even try for any of these prizes?" lamented one Kinsman. Just previously, Bill Bond had read off the list of prizes—including three free trips—which are to go to the winners of the contest. He reported that all arrangements had been made to start the contest this Saturday in the Daily News. Most of the businesses in town had given their full support to the Kinsmen in setting up the contest and it was expected that there would be a large number of entrants.

Compromise Plan Offered By Communists

PANMUNJOM.—The Communists today unveiled a new compromise plan to break the Korean truce deadlock and the Allies immediately asked time for top echelon study. The eight-point proposal accepts one insistent Allied demand that the 48,500 Communist prisoners who refuse to go home be held in Korea after the armistice rather than be sent to a neutral country. It offers other concessions. Even though the Reds made it clear the Allies must accept all or nothing, this appeared to be the first major break since the truce talks re-opened April 28 in an effort to agree on the exchange of prisoners, last major barrier to an armistice.

$13 Million Power Project Announced by B.C. Electric

VANCOUVER.—A $13,000,000 project which will feed an additional 120,500 horsepower into British Columbia's industrial lower mainland was announced here Tuesday by the B.C. Electric Company Limited. A. E. Grauer, company president, said a generating unit for 62,000 h.p. will be added at the company's Bridge River plant, 130 miles north of Vancouver. This, the B.C. Electric said, will make it the most powerful single source of energy in the four western provinces—248,000 horsepower.

Some 25 miles east of the Bridge River plant, where Seton Creek joins the Fraser River, the company will build a power station, completely automatic in operation and controlled from Bridge River by a supervisor carrier system.

He Had Faith in Rupert

A SAD LOSS to the city will be felt with the passing of John Lambie, another of the pioneers who went through the city's good times and bad to make their enduring contributions to its history.

Mr. Lambie came to Prince Rupert at a time when it was prospering, and he came on the railway that was expected to keep it that way. But when the city's fortunes failed to follow their predicted course, John Lambie did not light out in another direction. He kept faith with the place of his choice and, staying on through its trials, came to have an important part in the development of its public utilities.

A true Scotsman, Mr. Lambie had all the tenacity and purpose of his race. It was, in fact, due to the determination of early citizens such as he that Prince Rupert survived its bitter years so that it can now move into the brightening future which they saw for it.

We owe them much and can reward their endeavors by showing the same kind of faith with which they were blessed.

Ninety Million Ties

IT COSTS a lot of money to run a railway. Just how much, the CNR tells in a new booklet with lots of pictures and few words.

If 27,000 people crowded Toronto's Varsity Stadium and each of them paid $2, says the CNR, the stadium would have to be filled nearly two and a half times to take in enough money to buy a single railway coach.

A sleeping car costs as much as 16 modern suburban homes, and 14 high schools could be built for what it costs to equip the Continental Limited.

Then comes the coup de grace. A railway tie costs $3.09. And there are 89,655,378 of them in the system. We would like to see the one-long, one-short-step character who walked the rails to count them.

Some facts are missed. No mention is made of how many pennies are put on the track to be flattened out each year. And no one has thought of the barked ankles from slipping off the rails or how many freights have been "jumped."

And no one has counted the number of cream cans tossed off in the early hours of the morning at Hoedunk Hollow just as you have been shunting off to sleep, or how many whistle blasts have disturbed the early morning slumbers of the citizens of some faraway Ville St. Jacques-de-la-Tremouille.

Still, it's a good story.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

In the comfortable spirit haven in which Albert ministers to the distinguished thirst of a mainly Parliamentary clientele, discussion often turns appropriately upon spiritual subjects.

The late Prime Minister Mackenzie King's interest in psychic phenomena in the last years of his life is a favorite theme. That the great Liberal leader hoped like the great Houdini to make contact with this world after he had departed it is well known to those who were his former intimates. After about the second portion of Albert's Magic Mixture, when the idea of impossibility begins to lose its hold over the mind, the chances of the late Party Chieftain piercing the veil often are discussed in terms which reveal most creditably the extent of the theological interest and knowledge which some MP's possess.

Albert himself is a frank sceptic. "I almost believed in Spiritualism once," he said cryptically to a corner table audience. "That was when one of my customers here insisted on me coming up to the House of Commons to see the devil. Since then I haven't been interested." He lapsed into unsatisfactory silence. "Tell us about it, Albert," his audience insisted. Albert complied.

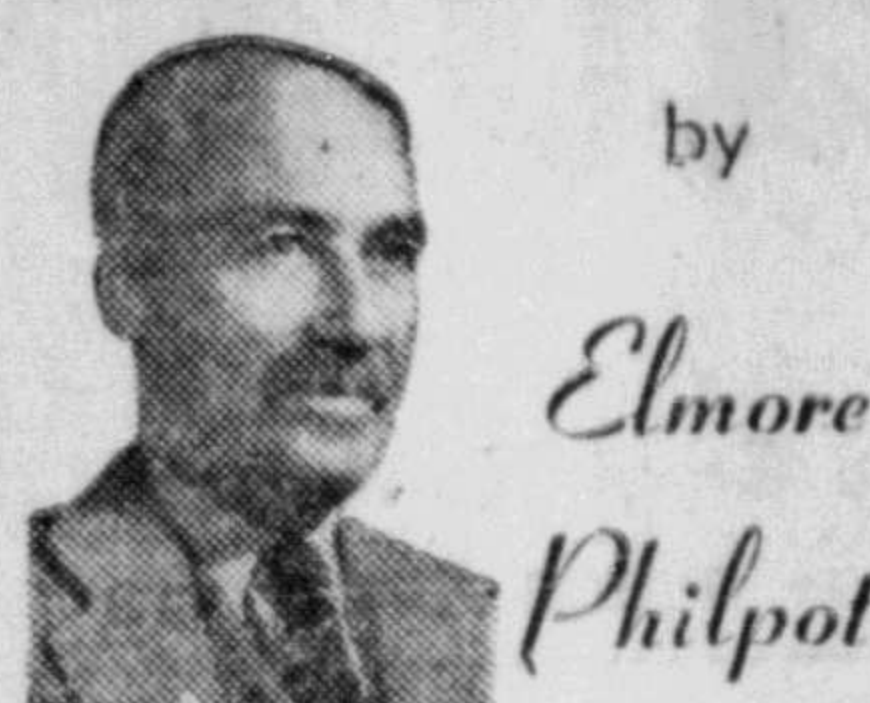

"I will call this MP Henri, because he was French-Canadian and Roman Catholic," Albert commenced. "That was what made it worse for him—Roman Catholics aren't supposed to believe in spiritualism. Well, Henri was a customer here away back in the days before prohibition. He wasn't too good a customer. Just about right. But we were pretty good friends.

"One night he left here late to go back to his office to write some personal letters. About a quarter of an hour later he telephoned me. He wanted to know if I had put anything extra into his glass of Magic Mixture. I told him I hadn't, because Magic Mixture didn't need anything extra. He said that he would accept my word, but that he was more worried than ever. I asked him what had happened. He said that the Devil had just passed his open doorway. 'In the morning, Albert,' he told me, 'I go to confession.'

"I was still wondering whether those Magic Mixtures mightn't stand a touch of water in them when Henri made his second call. He told me that I must come up right away. The Devil had passed his door again. This time he had seemed to look in. 'I put a flask of Magic Mixture in my pocket just in case it was needed and went up. Henri was white and frightened and I poured the Magic Mixtures without any hesitation. Henri drank his right down and held out his glass for another. But before I could pour he let out a shriek. Out of the corner of my eye I caught a glimpse of the red spectre passing the door.

The MP's at the table waited for Albert to take a refreshing sip from a glass before he enlightened their perplexity. "In those days," he finally explained, "one or two of the more thrifty MP's used to live in their offices. Henri's devil was one of them. He would go several times during the night to the washroom for a drink of water. This night it was winter and he was sleeping in his red flannel underwear.

As I See It

Plump or Not Plump?

READERS of this column are aware that I dislike the confused, switch-vote system which we now have in B.C.

I favor the good old tried-and-tested British system of voting—where you put just one X opposite the name of the candidate you want elected.

True the one system slants the result in favor of the party which comes first. But far from being a bad thing I think that is the greatest argument in its favor. It makes sure the winner gets a working majority.

But the point is, we are "stuck" with the switch-vote system for this present election in B.C. It is vitally important that intelligent people everywhere should realize just how it works.

THE MAIN question in the mind of the average voter is: Should I plump or not plump? That is—should I mark only my first choice? Or should I use all my choices—and vote 1, 2, 3, 4?

The answer depends. If you are only interested in electing one particular person then by all means plump. One thing is sure. Your ballot can never be used to elect some candidate or party that you do not want if you do not vote for that candidate any place on your ballot.

But if you are really interested in getting good, stable government for B.C., then use all your choices and use them intelligently.

HERE is my hint to voters who are not yet sure how to mark their ballots:

USE YOUR FIRST CHOICE TO TRY TO ELECT THE PARTY YOU PREFER.

USE YOUR SECOND, THIRD AND FOURTH CHOICES TO DEFEAT THE PARTY YOU MOST WANT TO DEFEAT.

Let us consider what would have happened last year had all the Liberals, Conservatives and CCF given each other their second and third choices.

We know very well that a considerable number of Liberals and Conservatives would not then, and will not now, give their second choices to the CCF—and the same thing applies the other way around.

But this fact is now clear: If the Liberals, Conservatives and CCF want to make sure of beating the Soered government then they should teach all their supporters not on any account to give any of their second or third choices to the Soereds.

THANKS to a masterly statistical analysis made by Jim Denniston, a retired naval intelligence officer, it is clear that the real choice in this B.C. election is between the Liberals and the Soereds.

His final figures show that 82,447 former Liberal voters deserted the party last year and gave their first choice to Soereds. Conservatives lost 58,344 former supporters to Soereds. CCF lost 33,489.

Yet on the first count the Liberals only ran two per cent behind the Soereds—while the Soereds in turn ran five per cent behind the CCF.

Even a moderate swing back to the re-vitalized Liberals could elect them with 30 seats. Take the case of Salmon Arm. This has become the political stormcentre of the province, due to the Soereds' attack on teachers and teaching in B.C. schools. The Soereds gained as follows from the other three parties: From Liberals 561, from Conservatives 423, from CCF 460.

If you study those figures you see what the last chapter could be.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

India is demanding return of the great diamond called the Kohinor, worth about six million, greatest gem in the British crown and sometimes described as "a mountain of light." Well, it must be said this is an awkward moment to ask for it back.

SAILING TIME For 79 days at Vancouver grain handlers and waiting ships killed time. And now it seems to be about over. If these are what you call incidents, they are not at all uncommon or extraordinary.

Stalin's successor staged a gracious entry to the Kremlin.

More paintings and drawings of Canada's cities are appearing, and it's not a bad idea. There's no question about our familiarity with Canada's scenery. But

By the time he had said his piece, the western powers were almost ready to feel the immediate happiness of Europe was at hand, for there was now but a minimum reason to anticipate any future anxiety concerning Soviet Russia. But Matthew Halton, hardboiled and experienced correspondent, spilled a dish of beans the other day. The Soviet, unexpectedly, is being called on to explain.

A married man acquires a large vocabulary by marrying it, and by and by turns into a bachelor who became a fellow whose luck finally gave out.

it's different with most of our modernized provincial centres. More than a few are in the big city class, and that could not be said was so long before.

Several years back, Egypt's claims for possession of the Suez Canal became more and more pronounced and it not any the less now. And today she is calling loudly on Britain to return Cleopatra's Needle, originally from Egypt. This has long been standing on the banks of the Thames, and that isn't the Nile.

LETTERBOX

HARD TO REALIZE

The Editor, The Daily News. Hearing the radio-broadcast offer of a cash payment to the first deliverer of a compact Russian MIG aircraft filled me with amazement and alarm. How such an offer could be used by those most interested for propaganda can hardly be realized.

Those of us who try to analyze the full significance of news items, the above offer can have but one effect, for taken in conjunction with previous statements of the utter inefficiency of these machines as a fighting unit it is quite impossible to accept news items as authentic.

If these machines possess novel and most-sought-after features which give outstanding performance then the previous statements are quite incorrect.

Possibly my reaction to the cash offer made was influenced by schoolboy code of honor in that any boy who disclosed the tactical methods employed by his home team or divulged the names of any of his schoolmates responsible for certain escapes was placed in "coventry." He was ostracized by all. His entry into the assembly hall or classroom was greeted by low hisses. His only escape was to leave.

Surely we are not compelled to adopt such methods as a cash payment for such service rendered when we have a department financed to obtain such information. The question now arises: Do such offers as above produce that mental outlook so necessary if a peaceful solution is to be found for the settlement of international differences?

Booth Junior High School Band Highly Praised By Adjudicator at Music, Drama Festival Here

By LILLIAN MILLER

Booth Memorial Junior High School Band gave a rousing opening to last night's contests in the Prince Rupert Music and Drama Festival, with the playing of "Field General," followed by a beautiful musical picture of "Sunset Hour."

Adjudicator Mrs. Mary Wood remarked: "If this is a junior band, I'd like to hear the seniors." She described the band as very well disciplined and harmonious. Band leader, Mr. Fred Huber, was highly praised for his fine work with the youngsters.

Highest marks of the evening went to Mike Colussi's Elks Accordion Band, which was not only beautiful to hear but lovely to see. Mrs. Wood praised the group for its complete feeling of wholeness, each player working for the group.

She suggested that a more relaxed attitude and bigger smiles would have helped the "feeling" of the music.

Three very tiny people from Ketchikan did a very big job of three very little pieces. They were the Junior String Ensemble which captivated the hearts of the audience with their violin versions of "The Little Song," "Just Me and Ma," which was played without bows in an almost professional manner, and "Jolly Fellow."

Mrs. Wood said "this is the very beginning of chamber music." Conductor of this wee group was Mr. Scott.

Twenty angelic looking girls of the St. Andrew's Junior Choir, led by Peter Lien, sang "Dear Land of Home" and "As Torrents in Summer" with a great deal of feeling.

However, Mrs. Wood felt this group must practice an immense amount of scales and chords before they can be really good. The second piece was given much more praise than the first, because the girls enjoyed singing it.

Mrs. Wood had more constructive criticism for Shirra Holliday and Alleyne Ritchie, who played a two-piano duet called "Irish Dance." She said that any playing in two parts is not easy unless the players know each other's parts as well as their own. She felt that the pair have great possibilities.

Robert Jensen chose a "masterpiece for the violin" when he chose Concerto in A Minor by Bach, and he did a beautiful job of interpreting the piece. Mrs. Wood felt that part of the work was beyond his technical ability, but with much work and "slugging" he will be a master violinist.

A group of three adult solos were all given high praise. Mrs. Rae Moir and Mrs. Patricia Wicks were both told they have good voices, but they do not use their breath to advantage. Again, with "slugging" these can be beautiful voices. Abel Rush sang with "a very pure and very true voice." A careful study of English pronunciation will help. Mrs. Wood encouraged him to continue singing for a lot of people.

The evening was closed by two piano duets. Norma Johnson and Margaret Olsen must practice and study each other's parts in order to really play duets well. Mrs. Wood praised the "gay pace" of their number. Myrna Knutsen and Victor Prystay were urged to continue their excellent playing, but never to stop working and studying.

Once Upon A Time, my washing used to have a yellow tinge. I'd scrub and rub, with no success. Then I remembered something from my school-days... that seven colours combine to make white—and one of them is blue. So, of course, I said to myself, the answer to the problem of my yellow wash—is Blue. You know you must rinse your wash to get the clothes clear. Then simply put a dash of Blue in the water—so get them really white. Your sheets, shirts and table linens will fairly sparkle! What's more, Blue is kind to fine fabrics—won't harm them in the least. And it costs just a few pennies a month... a sound investment!

Yes, for the whitest wash, use RECKITT'S BLUE.

VACHON IODE Holds Beauty Show

a crescent wrench and an alarm clock were found on him. Witness demonstrated on the window frames, which had been produced as exhibits, how such tools "could have been used" to pry the window loose. There were several marks on the frames.

Staff Sergeant Mallow, scientist of the criminal detection laboratory at Regina, told the court in evidence that he had examined particles of paint samples he had received from Cpl. Brue and paint found on shoes said to have been worn by accused at time of arrest.

In comparison, both paints came from the same source, said the scientist.

Putty samples and putty on the shoes also were similar, said Staff Sergeant Mallow.

Cpl. Brue had stated earlier that both samples had been taken from the window through which accused was alleged to have entered the building.

A statement by accused was admitted as evidence after a trial within a trial.

Statement, taken verbally by Cpl. Brue, said that Vachon had entered the lane to relieve himself. He had found the tools and alarm clock there on the ground.

Defence counsel held that accused could have gathered paint on his shoes during the struggle with police officers. Boards near the ground were painted with the same paint, evidence revealed.

Mr. Dumont also cited that while no particles of paint were found on accused clothes, a ladder which crown alleged had been used to gain entry through the window had been moved about 20 feet and according to testimony paint on the ladder was peeling freely.

"I maintain that if accused had carried that ladder, some paint would be expected to be found on his clothes by a scientist."

Mr. Dumont asked the jury for an acquittal because "the crown has not produced sufficient evidence."

When the jury returned its verdict, Mr. Justice Wilson said: "Frankly, I can't see how you could have arrived at any other verdict."

Depleted Battery Team Trowned 7-0 By Fast-Breaking CYO Eleven

A depleted and inexperienced Battery team was no match for the well-balanced and fast-breaking team of CYO in last evening's North Star football competition and went down to defeat by the score of 7 to 0.

Playing with only 10 players the Battery was on the defensive and though Leopold saved well a hard shot, before the defence got it cleared, Vanerland scored with a good drive. Verhaar added a second and then one of the neatest plays seen for many games was a back-heeler from Neerland to Tambourini and the latter finished it off with a sparkling drive.

Leopold saved well again and then when the CYO back division slipped up, Louis Matte was through but finished weakly. Hank Nuyten made it four nothing. After some squabbling about refereeing, a change was made and Charlie Mills took over. Louis Matte did well but got little support.

GOALIE SHINES

The second half was nearly all CYO attack. Leopold's goalkeeping was the feature of the play but he could not foil all the efforts of the resourceful CYO and goals were added by Hank Nuyten from Letourneau and then Hank Nuyten from Casey Nuyten. In a misunderstanding A. Maron turned the ball past his own goalie to add to the opposition's score. Silversmith brought off one fine save when he punched a grand shot from Gofras over the bar. Final score: CYO 7, Battery 0.

Easterners Win Hockey Championships

WINNIPEG—Barrie Flyers won the Memorial Cup and Canadian junior hockey championship on Wednesday night, trouncing St. Boniface Canadiens 6-1 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series. Barrie took the series 4-1.

At Kitchener, the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen won the Allan Cup, and Canadian senior hockey championship by defeating Penticton 5-0 to take their best-of-seven final 4-1.

It was the first time since 1913 that the title has been won by Kitchener.

Pitcher Hurls No-Hit Game In First Start

NEW YORK (AP)—For the second time in the history of baseball, a pitcher has hurled a no-hitter in his first major league start.

Alva (Bobo) Hollaman, graduate from Syracuse Chiefs of the International League, who had only two previous relief appearances on his American League record, turned the trick Wednesday as St. Louis Browns blanked Philadelphia Athletics 6-0.

Hollaman faced only 31 men, walking five and allowing a sixth to reach first base on his own error.

CYCLONE TAYLOR ENTERS POLITICAL ARENA AGAIN

He was nominated along with lawyer Glen McMaster to contest Vancouver Centre riding. Mr. Taylor was unsuccessful candidate in the riding last year while Mr. McMaster is a newcomer.

Eddie Mathews Using Bat Given to Him by Hank Sauer

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The bat Eddie Mathews has been swinging to gain the major league home run leadership actually is Hank Sauer's.

Mathews has blasted five homers in the three games he has used the bat he obtained, through a friend, from Chicago Cubs' outfielder, 1952's National loop's most valuable player. He got one earlier with his own for a total of six, best in the majors.

The Braves' 21-year-old third-baseman was too bashful to ask Sauer for a bat himself. He had read, he said, that the Cubs' slugger improved his batting by taking a heavier bat. Worried about his own work at the plate, Mathews wondered if it might help him.

When the Braves arrived at Wrigley Field, Mathews watched Sauer take his cuts in batting practice and tried unsuccessfully to get up enough nerve to talk to him. Finally he asked Ebba St. Claire, the Milwaukee backstop, to approach Sauer on his behalf.

"I didn't know him very well,"

Mathews explained. St. Claire obliged, and came away with a new bat, a gift from Sauer to Mathews.

The first time the youngster used it he slammed two home runs. The next time, he hit another, also against the Cubs.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Leave Us Face It, You Can Miss Out on Breaks

Now and then a situation comes up where you must be frank with yourself and admit that there is no chance for your contract unless the opposing cards are distributed in a certain, specific way.

Of course, you must recognize this fact and play accordingly. If the opposing cards are not distributed the way they "have to be," then you are down. At least, you know you have done your best.

In today's deal, Mr. Abel was tempted to bid two spades over his partner's one diamond response. However, his partner was Mr. Champion and he did not want to take a chance of running into a flood of criticism in case the hand got too high.

But when Mr. Champion raised his one spade call, he went into action and bid game. Mr. Dale decided to try for a heart ruff and led his singleton. Mrs. Keen won with the ace and returned the 10. The 10 suggested that she wanted a diamond return in case Mr. Dale was able to ruff.

Mr. Dale did ruff the second trick and casually led back the ace of diamonds. After starting at his favorite spot on the ceiling for a few moments, Mr. Abel played the jack from dummy. Mrs. Keen won with the queen and gave her partner another heart ruff. The ace of diamonds made it a two-trick set.

Mr. Champion started screaming at once. "Safety play the diamonds, man, and the hand plays itself."

Mr. Abel felt that this was one time when his play could not be fairly criticized.

"You're getting worse than Heinste," he said. "Guessing the diamond situation was exactly a 50-50 proposition. I can't help it if I guessed wrong."

"You miss the point entirely," Mr. Champion continued. "Don't you see that if Mrs. Keen has the ace of diamonds she will win with it and give Dale another heart ruff for down one. Therefore you must play for the ace of diamonds to be in Dale's hand."

"Go up with the king in dummy. If it wins, you're all right. If it doesn't win, you couldn't have made the hand anyway."

Amnesty Decree Issued by Czechs Doesn't Include AP Correspondent

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters)—The amnesty decree issued by Czechoslovakia has focused attention on the case of William Oatis, Associated Press correspondent jailed as a spy by the Communists.

Oatis, the major foreign prisoner held by the Czechs, was sentenced to 10 years in Prague in July, 1951. The court ruled that half this sentence would be remitted in the event of "good behavior."

The amnesty decreed by President Antonin Zapotocky frees immediately all persons serving sentences of less than 12 months and youths and pregnant women sentenced to no more than two years.

It also reduces sentences in certain specified cases. While it does not apply automatically to saboteurs, spies and some other categories of prisoners, it does provide that the cases of those sentenced for espionage, sabotage and certain other offences may be reviewed and reductions recommended.

This clause opens the way for the United States to make a fresh approach to the Czech government asking for a "review" of the sentence on Oatis. Oatis is considered by the U.S. officials to be the victim of framed charges, Washington called the trial and conviction "a ludicrous travesty of justice." The Czech amnesty follows one in Russia March 28. The Russian amnesty freed all prisoners serving sentences of up to five years and cut by half sentences of more than five years imposed for non-political offences provided they were not murder or "banditry."

Duke Becomes Full-Fledged Pilot on Receiving Wings

By IAN McEWEN

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh, already a marshal of the Royal Air Force, has received the wings that make him a full-fledged pilot.

The 32-year-old Duke had the wings pinned on at a private ceremony at Buckingham Palace by Britain's chief of air staff Air Chief Marshal Sir William Dickson.

Only a few hours earlier he passed his final flight tests with flying colors, and won a round of compliments from his instructor, Flt.-Lt. Caryl R. Gordon. The Duke was "terrifically enthusiastic" and "easily the best pupil I have ever had," Gordon said.

Prince Philip, with 90 flying hours in light trainer planes to his credit, now plans to go on to piloting multi-engine planes and even hopes to tackle a 600 MPH jet.

He started his flight training last November, two months before the Queen conferred on him the rank of marshal of the RAF. At the same time he was made an admiral of the fleet and a field marshal of the army.

A career naval officer until shortly before Elizabeth succeeded to the throne, the Duke has also done his best to familiarize himself with the army.

French Group Welcomed At Airport

PARIS (AP)—Amid laughter and tears, 14 French civilians returned to France this week, free after two years and eight months as prisoners of the North Koreans.

Five men, eight women and one child alighted from a French military plane which had flown them from East Berlin, and flung themselves into the arms of excited friends and relatives.

Le Bourget air terminal was thrown into happy confusion as the repatriates, led by Georges Perruche, former acting charge d'affaires and consul-general in Seoul, were beset by photographers, reporters and relatives.

The group, freed last month, left Pyongyang for Moscow on April 17 and were flown to Berlin in a Soviet plane.

All appeared in good health. Perruche said none of the 14 had been physically mistreated.

Fisherman Unfit to Face Murder Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three medical experts Tuesday recommended that an assize court jury should find Earl D. Haworth, 63-year-old fisherman, mentally unfit to stand trial for murder in the death of Peter James Albertson, January 2.

Because the issue of insanity was tried first, Haworth was not asked to plead on a charge of murder and details of Albertson's shooting were not entered into evidence.

A jury of 10 men and two women accepted doctors' evidence and found Haworth mentally unfit to stand trial for murder.

Dr. Kerr said Haworth believed he was wrongfully emasculated by a certain person and "he felt justified in obtaining redress in his own particular way."

Statuette Arrives For Festival

By STEPHEN SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP)—A beautifully-sculptured statuette, carved in wood and standing 30 inches high, is the new award for the best play in the Dominion Drama Festival.

The award, the Calvert challenge trophy, and 13 smaller but equally impressive statuettes which are awards for regional festival winners, arrived here 'tust in time for the opening of this year's festival.

They are carved by three of Canada's leading sculptors especially for the drama festival. All are symbolic of Canadian art.

They were donated to the Dominion Drama Festival by Calvert Distillers, Ltd., new sponsor of the festival.

Some use the grain of wood to show detail. After the festival they will be shown at the Toronto Art Gallery.

The challenge trophy was done by Florence Wyle of Toronto. Made of whitewood, it is a simple statue of a man dressed in a toga and holding one of the traditional masks of the stage.

It takes the place of the Bessborough trophy, until this year the top award of the festival. The 13 others were created by Miss Wyle, Francis Loring and Sylvia Daoust.

Discovery of copper led to the invention of bronze in the ancient east, about 5,000 years ago.

Score Arrested After Shooting Of Newsman

TUNIS (AP)—French authorities have announced the arrest of a score of Tunisian nationalists and Communists in connection with the assassination last Saturday of Deputy Mayor Cheddi Kastally, an Arab newspaper publisher generally considered pro-French.

Among those seized and sent to detention camps in the southern desert was Mohammed Kralem, secretary-general of the Tunisian Labor Federation. Kralem assumed the post after union leader Farhat Hached was mysteriously slain last December 5.

Kastally was shot by a young machine-gunner as he was walking to work along a street separating the European and Arab sections of Tunis. Police arrested three young nationalist terrorists and said one admitted the killing.

The shooting occurred on the eve of municipal elections in which Kastally was again a candidate for the city council.
