WORKING MODEL of the electronic mail-sorting machine which can do the work of 500 men and is said to be the fastest in the world. The first actual test machine is expected to start in about nine months. By 1957, it is hoped that the machines will be operating in three or four of the larger cities. A code is stamped on the letters. They then are fed in the letter-demand feeder as shown here. The letters then pass through a conveyor belt to the electronic reader which halts the letters until the electronic brain advises the routing of the letters.

Close Firm Obtains Funds for Expansion of Rupert Mill

Expansion of its mill and construction of a new mill at Edmonton plant, as well as additional capital for the Canadian Cellulose Company, has been announced in a report received from the company.

Net loss for the company in 1953 was $1,236,934, compared to $2,134,689 in 1952. Although operations at Prince Rupert resulted in a profit, this was not sufficient to offset the loss for the first few months of chemical and textile operations at Edmonton.

"Steady progress in production, both in quantity and quality, was achieved during the year at the Prince Rupert mill," the report continues. "For the greater part of the year production was confined to acetylation grade of high alpha pulp, with small quantities of paper grade being made towards the end of the year. The plant operated steadily throughout the year, with the exception of a 10-day shutdown in April occasioned by a mechanical failure, and a planned two-week shutdown for overhaul and maintenance in August.

"Production which was just under 200 tons per day at the beginning of the year was, towards the end of the year, running at 240 tons per day. Production is expected to be close to 300 tons per day early in the second quarter of 1954, when the sixth digester is expected to be in operation. Other changes are planned in the mill to meet the ever-increasing quality demands of today's highly competitive market for dissolving and other grades of refined pulps.

The report states that facilities for production of cellulose at Prince Rupert and of organic chemicals and cellulose processing at Edmonton provided the company with the basis on which a great variety of products can be made to meet the growing demands of modern industry. Pulp produced at Prince Rupert and lumber by the sawmills represented most of the sales for 1953 which totalled just over $18,800,000.

Referring to the company's plans for development of the Arrow Lakes region, the report says that "forest surveys and market studies are continuing, and lumber operations are being strengthened and expanded." It adds that negotiations with the B.C. government will be undertaken in the near future.

Queen Talks by MLA

A dominion conference on the education suggested here by Ontario cabinet member, Ontario minister and Ontario legislator, suggested such a conference on Indian affairs, headed last week after three days of conferences with the British North American Indian officials.

The dominion government is buying the services of the non-Indian British North American Indians to the federal government. Ontario is to pay $600,000 on its share under present arrangements.

While 75,000 Australians watched, Narelle slipped her little mother, sprang up to the monarch's lap and smacked her cheek.

Aircraft Overdue At Anchorage Lands In Prince Rupert Harbor

Pilot, Wife Spend Night on Beach

Fears for the safety of a five-passenger Grumman-Widgeon plane enroute from Seattle to Anchorage were dispelled this morning when the yellow and red aircraft landed safely in Prince Rupert harbor.

Aboard the machine were Mr. and Mrs. Gentry Shuster, who were forced to spend the night in their plane on a beach in Klewngugit Inlet, about 50 miles southeast of here after running into a driving snowstorm.

Mr. Shuster, a plane company distributor in Anchorage, had just passed over the Estevan Islands when he ran into a squall. "Up to that time we had good visibility," said Mrs. Shuster, "but we found we couldn't continue so headed over to Grenville Channel in the hope it would clear."

TAXIED INTO COVE

"We saw it would be useless and so came down in the Channel and taxied about five miles into a little cove in Klewngugit Inlet.

"That was about 4 p.m. Gentry tied the plane to a tree and then we went ashore and tried to light a fire but I guess the wood was too wet.

"The tide went out about seven o'clock and our plane settled neatly on a sandy beach. We were not too worried, although we could not make outside radio contact.

"We got into our bedrolls about 8 o'clock and it wasn't until shortly after 10 that we were awakened by the wash from a boat.

"Gentry flashed an SOS when we saw the boat and someone on the bridge answered.

The boat was the Union Steamships' Coquitlam enroute from Vancouver to Prince Rupert.

"She came to a stop and then came as close as she could before lowering a boat. About 10 crew members came to shore in a lifeboat and after we told them we were alright, the ship continued north.

SCRAPED OFF ICE

"We had a good sleep until about 4 o'clock this morning when the tide started to rise. I got up and spent the next couple of hours scraping the frozen snow and ice off the plane before we took off 7:45."

The plane came down here shortly before 8:30 and after reporting to the customs, the Shusters had breakfast downtown and spent the rest of the morning waiting for the weather to clear.

At press time, they were still at the airport and there was little hope they would take off today because of a low ceiling at Annette Island.

The Shusters had taken off from Seattle about 9:30 yesterday morning and planned to fly to Annette Island. They landed at Port Hardy shortly after noon for fuel and to clear customs and set 3:15 p.m. as their arrival time at Annette.

The plane was reported missing last night and the RCAF and U.S. Coast Guard planned to start a search this morning.

STARTED IN LOS ANGELES

The couple began their trip in Los Angeles a week ago today. The plane had been in California since Christmas receiving a complete overhaul.

They flew first to Seattle but were held there by bad flying conditions until yesterday morning.

The visit to Prince Rupert is the first for Mrs. Shuster and the second for her husband. He passed through here 10 years ago enroute to Spokane to purchase his first plane.

Gas Dealers Price Fixing Says Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's three-man anti-combines commission has accused two trade organizations and 31 gasoline dealers of combining illegally to fix retail gasoline prices in the Vancouver area.

In its strongest action since it was set up two years ago, the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission urged the government to seek a court injunction, forbidding the accused from continuing their alleged illegal operations.

The commission's 165-page report, tabled in the Commons today, charged that the combine has been operating since 1951, and despite "condemnation," the gas price boosts fixed by the operators "will probably continue" unless a court ban is obtained.

The commission observed that the price-fixing operations in Vancouver had the impact of boosting retail gas prices in most of British Columbia.

Named in the RTPC report are:

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada and George R. Matthews, head of the association's B.C. board; the Unincorporated Automotive Retailers Association of Vancouver and its secretary, J. L. Kinnear; and these 31 Vancouver area retail gas dealers:

Council Endorses Letter Asking Action on Power

City council, at a special meeting last night, approved draft of a letter written by the city solicitor to the B.C. Power Commission asking for a ruling on the city's application for it to become the supplier of the electric power in Prince Rupert.

The letter reminded the Commission that the city had asked it a year ago to expropriate holdings of the Northern B.C. Power Company and urged it to advise the council as soon as possible on its stand.

Council also endorsed draft of a letter to Farris, Stultz, Bull and Farris, barristers and solicitors for NBCPC, seeking clarification of their stand now that its agreement drawn up in 1929 has expired.

In answer to a query by Alderman Norman Bellis, Mayor George Hills said there has been no discussion with NBCPC officials since the agreement ran out.

Asked by Ald. Mike Krueger if there was any way of forcing the commission to answer promptly, Mr. Brown answered in the negative.

"Actually," said Mr. Brown, "the commission would have to get sanction for its action from the Cabinet but I don't know if they have ever approached the premier or ministers."

Printers End Five-Year Strike

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—The International Typographical Union local No. 158 has voted to end its nearly five-year-long strike against Springfield Newspapers, Inc.

Carl Onken, union president, said the members voted 23 to 19 Tuesday night to end the strike.

A spokesman for Springfield Newspapers, Inc., publishers of The Evening Leader and Press and The Morning News, had no comment.

The newspapers have been using teletypesetters to get out their editions. Union stereotypers and press men did not join the strike. The printers walked out July 11, 1949, during contract negotiations, during which wages were to be discussed.

Allies Must Deal With China Eventually Says St. Laurent

TOKYO (AP)—Canada's world-travelling prime minister spoke out again today on the controversial question of Red China, telling reporters at a press conference that "it is only the commonsense, realistic approach" that Allied countries eventually will deal with Communist China as the government "in effective control of the China mainland."

Prime Minister St. Laurent made his remarks before his visit today with Emperor Hirohito on this last official stop of his world tour which ends back in Ottawa March 17.

CONTROVERSIAL WORD

In his remarks on China, the prime minister said "I think I had better keep away from that word 'recognition,' because there's been a lot of controversy."

Six Whalers Begin Search Off B.C. Coast

COAL HARBOR, B.C. (AP)—Six sturdy boats hoisted anchor here Wednesday to start the northern Pacific coast's only whale hunt.

They'll range 100 to 200 miles from this shore station deep in Quatsino Sound, on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island, 200 miles northwest of Vancouver.

In a six-months' season, 600 or more humpback, finback, blue and sperm whales are expected to fall under their harpoons.

Owned by B.C. Packers Ltd., the six boats carry 150 men in the half-year hunt through the whaling grounds north of the island.

THIS CIRCULAR MACHINE smokes about three cartons of cigarettes an hour—60 a day—and feeds the smoke into a room containing mice. The rodents are being observed to determine what connection, if any, cigarette smoke has with lung cancer. Not a new device; prompted by recent headlines linking smoking and cancer, the machine has been used secretly for two years by Dr. Basil Martin Wright of Llandough Hospital, Cardiff, England. He reports that lung tumors developed more frequently in "smoking" mice than in others, but he says the method is inconclusive in settling arguments about lung cancer in human beings.

Watch That Slip

WHILE Prince Rupert worries with considerable cause about the fate of its drydock and shipyard, and its unborn airport, it must not overlook an item on the brighter side.

In the new CNR ferry slip, the city has an addition to its waterfront which conceivably could be the first step in reshaping the coastal shipping lanes of the Pacific Northwest.

It is with good reason that transportation interests in Seattle are seriously concerned over this development. To a large extent, Seattle reached its present eminence on the strength of its Alaskan connections, and it is no mere chance that its main waterfront thoroughfare bears the name of the territory north of us.

Now, handicapped by a difference of about 500 miles, it is in danger of having much of its valuable Alaskan trade taken over by Prince Rupert.

Although railway cars moving in and out of our port will not produce the same kind of business as ships, they will serve as useful traffic nonetheless. As CNR movements to and from Prince Rupert increase, so will the importance of the whole northern line. That, in essence, represents almost everything we have been fighting for.

Martian Secrets

SOME killjoy astronomers are said to hope that the coming nearness of the planet Mars will once and for all liquidate the Martians. For these bulging browed, hairless, over-civilized creatures of human phantasy have constantly intruded on the attempts of cautious scientists at objective, precise consideration of the frigid red neighboring planet.

The future status of the Martians seems to depend largely on what is learned about the so-called canals. With Mars coming within 40 million miles of the earth this June, the nearest in 13 years, it is hoped definite photographs may be taken of the strange geometric network that marks the planet. Past observers of these have disagreed in their reports and interpretations.

The late Sir Percival Lowell held that the "canals" are irrigation ditches. But most astronomers credit them to nature and insist the only life possible on Mars would be lichens and mosses.

All sorts of peephole forays on Mars are being organized—movies by means of the giant telescope at Mount Palomar, Calif., a nine-month photographic study at Bloemfontein, South Africa, by the National Geographic Society and the Lowell observatory, stratospheric observations by means of planes, and possibly guided missiles. The Soviet Union is setting up an observatory in the heart of Asia. Whatever the result of these studies, one safe prediction may be made: the Martians will still be around, in fiction, comic strips, on the radio, in flying saucers and in conversation.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

"I am going back to Canada, feeling I have had a new education, and hope this will be of some value in maintaining and strengthening good relations," says Premier St. Laurent, now in Japan, and shortly to take off for home. There are quite a number who happen to be in agreement with him.

The world is full of willing people. Some are willing to work, while others are willing to let them.

Americans drank 1,600,000,000 more cups of tea in 1953. Turning over a new leaf, so to speak.

A machine that unwrinkles raisins is the latest boon to the bakery trade and if it will do the same to necks we can see where it is due for a big play in barber shops.

We're too disease conscious! We read that one out of three dies out of this, one out of five dies out of that. We should accept the fact that one out of one dies of something—and get on with the business of living.

An old timer of Dutton in Ontario was talking prices a few days back. A reported chance to be taking ear. "Twenty five years ago," the O.T. recalled, "we sat down to stewed chicken and dumplings or pan-baked biscuit, bowls of creamy mashed potatoes, a pound of butter on a butter plate with silver butter knife, a glass of domed cheese dish with a huge chunk of tanyg cheddar cheese in it—and to all this you just helped yourself."

With half a million mortals reported unemployed in Canada, an advertisement for a married man to work on a reasonably modernized farm brought five answers. Three were from Hollanders. Providing no one gives signs of weakening, it can be a great life.

HOW IT CAN WORK Recipients are being encouraged to "live in sin" under the present system of dole payments. This charge is made by Secretary R. E. Daniel. If a couple meet but neglect to wed, they can draw $80. But suppose, after a while, they loathe one another. Anyway, you are free. There is that to it.

GETTING AT FACTS Vancouver city officials say they estimate there are 20,000 gas fixtures used in rooms where people sleep, and that most gas deaths are the result of bootleg installations, ancient appliances, carelessness and not enough inspectors.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

The PM On China

THE MOST important policy statement made by the Prime Minister on his round the world trip concerned the recognition of the government of China.

Sooner or later, he said, to newspapermen in the Far East, we would all have to accept the fact that the present government of China has been accepted by its own people.

Mr. St. Laurent was of course only repeating and underlining the joint decision taken last year by all the prime ministers of the Commonwealth. The importance of his statement arises from the fact that there is one wing of the U.S. party in power which regards recognition of Red China as tantamount to treason.

IN INDIA our Prime Minister did a really fine public relations job on behalf of the U.S.A.

While making it very clear that he was not criticizing in any way India's determination to keep outside the two rival power blocs, he did stamp down hard on the statement that the U.S.-Pakistan military alliance was deliberately designed to make bad relations with India. On the contrary, he showed that not one per cent of the people of U.S.A. would have tolerated the alliance any such move had they the slightest suspicion that it was designed for anything else than defence against potential aggression from Russia.

But now Mr. St. Laurent does the other half of his job. He speaks out, for what is India's main international aim in Asia, though that aim is directly contrary to the present wishes of the government of U.S.A.

Perhaps we should more precisely write, contrary to the acknowledged wishes of the present U.S. government. There is good reason to believe that John Foster Dulles knows that the recognition of the government of China is only a question of time, and that it would be a wise move. But the whole climate of the U.S.A. has been poisoned by the hysteria, known in its most extreme form as McCarthyism.

CANADA was in fact pretty well set to recognize the real government of China in the very year the Korean war broke out.

Hon. Lester Pearson was the head of a UN sub-committee which was dealing with that very question. There are a good many realists, familiar with the inside story, who argue that the Korean war never would have happened had China been recognized in time; and others who reason that even had that been done after the war began the small war could have been kept from becoming a big war, by the simple expedient of allotting China's seat on UN to the real government, and not the ex-government.

RECOGNITION of Red China has long been the main plank in India's long range plan for peace in Asia.

Nehru reasons that this is only facing the facts of life—

HARDLY BIGGER than a present-date kernel, that's a 5,500-year-old corn cob which Prof. Paul C. Mangelsdorf of Harvard University is holding in his fingers. Discovery of the ancient ears of corn in Bat Cave in New Mexico has convinced Harvard researchers that corn is a native of this hemisphere and that it did not descend from a Mexican grass called "teosinte," as some had supposed. The relative size of the fossilized cobs is shown in the inset where they are compared with a penny. Mangelsdorf, who is wearing a combination eyeshade and magnifier, says the cobs probably bore about 50 tiny kernels and grew on stalks a foot or two high.

LETTERBOX

The Editor, The Daily News:

You have quoted Brother Harold Sinclair in Monday's edition of your paper, protesting against granting fishing licences to our Japanese brothers.

First I wish to say, I admire Brother Sinclair for his unrelenting fight for our people under very trying conditions, but I wish to remind him of the real principle for which the Native Brotherhood of B.C. was formed.

My late father, Alfred Adams, travelled extensively throughout Alaska and noticed how advanced the same race of our people were up there. They had their own qualified teachers, nurses, lawyers, etc. They took active interest in the governing of their country.

When he investigated why the same race of people should advance so much more rapidly than us, he discovered that the Alaska Indians had a strong organization, which acquired many concessions to aid them to acquire better education for their children.

My father's greatest ambition was to see our people prove themselves good citizens of our great country and to assist our governments in bringing us to that coveted status. He saw the need of an organization similar to that of our Alaskan brothers and sisters to reach our goal, so he helped to form the Native Brotherhood of B.C.

As a leader of the organization, he unceasingly fought for better schooling, social security, health facilities, etc. The Native Brotherhood of B.C. was never meant to be a labor organization, but when it was forced to negotiate for its fishermen members, he still fought in the true Christian spirit of brotherhood. The true spirit of brotherhood is not to form ourselves into one selfish group to gain our own ends, nor to try to retard the progress and livelihood of any particular race, hoping to gain at the loss of the other.

Our fishing industry is over-exploited, but we cannot blame any particular race for it. If we should exclude one race, there are many more to take its place. We can only solve the problem by having one fishermen's organization to deal with the subject scientifically and from practical experience, instead of having several organizations fighting and blaming each other for the conditions.

We have a great country that is expanding beyond our fondest dreams. Many of our brothers and sisters are bringing great credit to our people by taking part in its rise. We have many Indian contractors, construction superintendents, foremen, skippers, qualified engineers, teachers, nurses, office workers, officers in our armed forces and taking part in governing of our country.

Let us continue our progress, and those who choose to participate in our great fishing industry, continue to fight for their rights, but do so in unity and in the true spirit of brotherhood.

(Signed) IVAN ADAMS

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. ...

Amongst Parliament's three major headaches of the present session—the wheat surplus, the farm machinery industry, and the textile industry—the really king-size one is the textile industry.

As yet no light shines in its darkness. Instead, its gloom keeps getting steadily blacker.

Right now it is caught in a particularly vicious volume-costs squeeze. The more outside competition cuts into its market, the higher do its costs rise as a result of lower volume. Hence the more difficult does it become for it to meet foreign price competition. No end of this squeeze appears to be in sight.

The problem is complicated for the government by the fact that the industry clearly is not of uniform efficiency. Even under present competitive difficulties, its larger mills are not doing too badly. That is because their efficiency compares favorably with the efficiency of foreign mills. The concerns that are feeling the squeeze of current conditions are mainly older and smaller mills—many of them survivors from the days when a local mill supplied mainly the needs of a local or a restricted market. Such operations could flourish in wartime or in a seller's market. But in a buyer's market their ability to compete is severely limited.

In brief, the government is actually of the opinion that what is now in process in textiles is the liquidation of the inefficient section of the industry. It is clearly contrary to government policy to subsidize or protect inefficient industry. But it is also political suicide in some two dozen constituencies to throw the old-established industries to the wolves. That is the crux of the dilemma which the government faces.

The government's difficulties are increased by the fact that the new Japanese trade treaty has been ready for some time now and is awaiting signature. It cannot be put off indefinitely.

But the Cabinet Ministers have prepared an uneasy feeling that a trade pact which, among other things, will facilitate the entry of low-priced textiles to the Canadian market, isn't going to be too well received under present conditions.

There is just one ray of hope in the generally black outlook. It lies in the pending negotiations for Russian trade. It has been intimated that Moscow is prepared to make some orders for textiles. Such could give the industry a needed lift. Consequently, would provide only a partial solution; the long-range efficiency of the industry will still depend on the government's action on Parliament Hill.

$1,000 Advance Granted For '54 Library Budget

Request from the library board for a $1,000 "advance" on its 1954 budget was approved by city council this week.

The board secretary asked for the money to purchase new books now, instead of having to wait until the budget is brought down by council.

Three Councillors—Mike Kruger, Phil Lyons and Norman Bell—have been named a committee by Mayor Hills to study a memorandum sent to council by the district of West Vancouver concerning the proposed southern extension of the PG&E. A letter from the reeve of West Vancouver said the government's extension plan "has not been justified by any facts made public and the pyramiding of debt will affect every taxpayer in B.C."

"We believe the proposal is a good example of political railroading but is a poor sample of business government," the memorandum says, in part. That freight—such as grain, minerals and lumber—will be shipped from the Prince George, Quesnel and Peace River areas "must, of necessity, travel the shortest distance and must terminate at the nearest tidewater for export."

Commissioner For Pakistan To Speak Here

Pakistan's high commissioner to Canada will be guest speaker at this month's meeting of the Rupert Canadian Club, scheduled for Wednesday, March 10, at the Canadian Legion auditorium.

M. O. BAIG
Pakistan Commissioner

His Excellency M. O. Baig has chosen as his topic, "Pakistan—Partner in The Commonwealth." Born in 1904 at Bombay, India, he was educated at Clifton College, England and commissioned in the Indian Land Forces in 1924. He served in the Indian Cavalry until 1930.

His political career began when he was transferred from the cavalry to the Indian Political Service and held various appointments in India until 1942.

In 1933 he became British Consul in Portuguese India, in 1946 first secretary at the British Embassy in Washington, in 1947 counsellor in the Embassy of Pakistan at Washington, in May, 1949, acting high commissioner for Pakistan in Canada, and in 1950 was appointed minister in the embassy of Pakistan at Washington.

He returned to Karachi in 1951 as non-political head of the ministry of foreign affairs and commonwealth relations.

In 1953 he served as the advisor to Pakistan's prime minister at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference and in September last year he was appointed high commissioner to Canada.

The commissioner will arrive here aboard the Prince George Wednesday.

"Therefore Squamish or Prince Rupert is their logical export terminus and not Vancouver."

It further points out that Rupert has deepsea docks and a 1,250,000-capacity grain elevator and reminds readers of federal grants totalling $100,000 from 1949 to 1951 toward construction of a lumber assembly wharf at Squamish "for the express purpose of exporting from that port . . . and up to now it has not been expended."

A request from the Health League of Canada for a grant to aid it in its health campaign was referred to the finance committee.

Council approved payment of $10 for the annual membership fee in the B.C. Aviation Council.

Queen Mary Chapter, I.O.O.F., has been granted permission to hold a tag day April 24.

Recommendation by A.L.D. George Casey, chairman of the board of works committee for purchase of $6,688 worth of pipe, and other equipment was approved by council.

On recommendation of the utilities committee, the city clerk has been authorized to let the contract for replacing the fire-hall smoke stack, at a cost of $279.75, to Thom Sheet Metal, Limited.

Trade licences have been granted; Robert L. Player, refrigerator sales and service; Northwest Builders & Awning Co. Ltd., roofing and siding contractor.

Building permits totalling $14,320 were issued by the city during February. This compared with permits to the value of $14,850 in January.

The total is only a few dollars above values for the months of January and February, 1953, which were $10,875 and $16,900 respectively.

In last month's total were two permits for construction of small homes, one to the value of $2,300 and the other for $3,000.

Cast of Eight To Highlight 1954 Musical

"Impressions of 1953," a musical production by eight talented local artists will go on stage at the Capitol Theatre this Sunday night, marking the end of on-stage programs at the theatre this season.

The show, which features records of popular artists synchronized with actions on stage plus some live talent, will include hit songs of the past year.

Not a variety show, the musical will be in two acts, one predominately western, the other modern pops.

Included in the cast of eight are Mel Thompson, CPC announcer; Pat Bolton, drummer with the Four Dukes dance band; Mel Skalmerud, navy vet who has been active in show business since his arrival here in 1945; Marie Lavigne of Kitimat, formerly of Rupert where she has been active in Little Theatre and various shows; Carol Brentzen who also has been active in local shows; Frankie Murphy who is making his first local stage appearance; Jim Cummings, a Little Theatre member who plays with the Dukes and the Navy Band, and John Currie another Little Theatre member.

Marie Lavigne replaces Nina Youngman in the show, due to Miss Youngman's Little Theatre commitments.

The Westerners also will be heard in Sunday night's show.

NOBILITY ON THE ROCKS in England, and Lady Perdita Blackwood, 19, has taken a job as waitress in a London restaurant "to keep the wolf from the door." Lady Blackwood, who is the daughter of the Marchioness of Duferin and Ava, works from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the eatery where her employer is Madame Madeleine Bailey, who, until a short time ago, designed clothes for the Princess Royal.

Classroom Tour and Tea Feature Borden "Open House"

Tours of classrooms and afternoon tea served by the Parent-Teacher Association highlighted the Open House session at Borden Street school Tuesday afternoon.

The tea room and serving table were attractively decorated for the event convened by Mrs. George Cook and much enjoyed by parents and friends.

Mrs. Morris Wayman, vice-president, with Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. W. R. C. Jones received the visitors. Presiding at the tea and coffee urns were Mrs. R. C. Telford, Mrs. G. F. Freeman, Mrs. B. Dack and Mrs. Logan. Girls from Grade Six were the efficient serviteurs.

The visits to the different classrooms were much enjoyed by parents and other friends, interest in their own children's work was paramount.

In Grade One, Mrs. Stone's division, pleased mothers and fathers were impressed specially by the printing and reading of the young students. In Mrs. Calderwood's Grade One the weaving and sewing attracted favorable comment while painting at the easel impressed visitors.

Clocks to be used in learning to read the time and vari-colored kites in number work had a novel appeal in Miss Smith's Grade Two room. Miss Bernhof's pupils were occupied in drawing fish. In Mr. Dack's grades three and four room, samples of number work, spelling and penmanship were commended.

Mrs. Cobb's Grade Four room presented a colorful appeal with the many displays of art. Three dimensional snowmen in varied costumes, cleverly-drawn characters, a novel Valentine house and a modern farm held the attention of all who saw them.

In Mr. Freeman's Grade Five room the children's work books were viewed with appreciation and samples of art displayed on the walls were centres of interest.

Grade Six pupils gave a musical program when several flute numbers were given, some in unison, some in harmony. With the addition of violin played by Don Lewis and Peter Fladset and piano-accompanions with Larry Eby and Chri Downey providing base accompaniment the items were much enjoyed.

Practical art exhibits done by the children of Grade Five and Grade Six under instruction by Mrs. A. Ruthford were also stand-out attractions at the successful "open day."

Conrad, Seal Cove Children Put on Colorful Program

Parents and other interested adults flocked to Conrad Street and Seal Cove schools yesterday afternoon for the Open House events staged in conjunction with Education Week.

The afternoon's program began with visits to the bright and colorful classrooms where pupils were engaged in various activities. In each room they enjoyed seeing displays of social studies, arithmetic, science, health, spelling, reading and other subjects.

Following the visits to the classrooms, some students from Seal Cove moved to Conrad Street school for a varied program by primary and intermediate pupils.

T. G. Bateman, Conrad principal, opened the program with a welcome to parents.

Miss Irving's Grade 1 class took the stage first with reading of a story from their school reader and an action song, "Looby Loo."

Miss Jean Burns' Grades 1 and 2 staged a musical skit interpretation of "Three Billy Goats Gruff" and Mrs. Eldsvik demonstrated the steps in teaching a song, with her class learning "The Birdies' Ball" on stage.

Two lively folk dances were presented by Mrs. Reeves' grades 2 and 3 classes.

A precise and expressive demonstration of choral speech was given by Mr. Harrington's Grades 4 and 5 class and a health study project, "Care of the Teeth," was demonstrated in the form of a skit by Mrs. Weise's Grade 3 class.

Miss Wong's Grade 1 from Seal Cove performed a poem, "Traffic Lights" and song, "We Are the Indians," while two pupils from Mrs. McBroom's Grade 2 class at Seal Cove gave recitations.

Mr. Bateman and his class wound up the program with a comparison of modern and old-fashioned teaching methods, choosing social studies as the topic, with students singing songs of the south to illustrate their present social studies subject.

Following the program, tea was served by members of the Conrad and Seal Cove Parent-Teacher Association under the direction of Mrs. Mackl.

P.J.A. To Buy Patrol Capes

Purchase of rain capes for school patrol boys was approved at the monthly meeting of the Conrad School Parent-Teacher Association held Tuesday night at the school.

The group will buy two special capes with hoods attached for use of youngsters guiding students at street intersections en route to and from school.

Mrs. J. Murdoch, president, conducted the meeting at which the Maple Leaf Honor Roll for increased attendance was received along with congratulations from the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

Mrs. M. Hubel was named delegate to the forthcoming Cancer Society annual meeting and canvassers were named for the Cancer fund drive scheduled for next month.

The meeting also discussed plans for a white elephant sale to be held April 3, after which the parent-attendance pennant was awarded Miss Burns' class and refreshments were served.

Board Sets Plans McClymont Park Work

Plan for improvement of McClymont Park and start on preliminary work on the project was discussed at last night's meeting of the parks commission.

The parks board will ask representatives of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club to attend the next parks meeting to discuss the service club's plans for park development projects.

Possibility of obtaining a miniature railway for installation in McClymont Park also was discussed and Commissioners Art Murray and Charlie Balazno were appointed to investigate the matter.

The miniature electric train, designed to carry small youngsters, is owned by the Civic Centre Association and was used at the Centre's annual fairs in past years.

If the train is in workable condition and suited to the park terrain, the Civic Centre will be asked to turn it over to the board for use in the park.

At a former meeting, the parks board asked the Civic Centre to take over direction of recreational activities at the parks during the summer months, but no reply has been received.

Other business at last night's session included a request to city council for an interim grant of $6,000 to carry on parks work pending completion of budget estimates for 1954, and ordering of two flags for McClymont and Roosevelt parks.

The Scrapbook

(Past and present in the Sports World)

By JACK CLUET-JESSOME

When I was a lad my Dad and his friends would gather at home and chat for hours on sports, and the top story would always be on some boxer. On numerous occasions it would be about the "Durable" Dane.

Whenever fight fans in days gone by discussed gameness and durability in a boxer the name of Nelson was always mentioned as the yardstick by which all fighters were measured. Old-timers, especially those in close to the fight game, often said that as a fighter Nelson was not much to look at. But he more than made up for this by continually charging in and wearing down his opponent until he was sufficiently softened up for the knockout punch.

Dear Battling Nelson, better known in his boxing days as "The Durable Dane", was born on June 5, 1882, at Copenhagen, Denmark. He stood 5 feet 7 inches and weighed in the vicinity of 133 pounds.

Nelson, after winning the lightweight title from Joe Gans in 1908, scored a knockout over Dick Hyland in 23 rounds, and fought a 10-round no-decision contest with the lad who was later destined to relieve him of his crown, Ad Wolgast. The fight took place in 1909.

Again on Feb. 22, 1910, Nelson and Wolgast were brought together at Fort Richmond, Col. That was to be a 45-round match with straight rules, each man to protect himself at all times and no fouls were to be called unless a man was actually incapacitated by a foul blow.

There was intense bitterness between these two boxers as was shown in their memorable scrap. It was give-and-take, no quarter asked and none given. However, Nelson made a courageous effort to retain his title against the younger Wolgast.

In the 35th round Wolgast was fouled to the front and battered Nelson unmercifully up to and including the 40th round. When Nelson went to his corner after that round referee Eddie Smith humanely prevented any further fighting and declared Wolgast the winner and new champion.

We wonder if present day fights, especially some of the heavyweight bouts, would fire old timers to chat with such enthusiasm as they did of the long-ago boxing game.

CONGRATULATIONS

And while on the subject of fights we would like to add our congratulations to those of others to Golden Gloves middleweight champion Andy Marshall for his grand showing down at Vancouver and

Still Money in Fund For Boxing Team Trips

Generosity of Prince Rupert, business houses and individuals has made it possible to set up a fund for Prince Rupert boxers to make further trips if necessary.

Prior to the Golden Gloves attended by Andy Marshall, Bill Morrison and Bill Tsuchiya, a collection, sparked by Johnny Odowes, was set up and there is still $196.84 in it for future contingencies.

The city's boxing contingent is back home again, with Andy Marshall flying home with Billy Tsuchiya Monday and Bill Morrison and trainer Joe Ward arriving back yesterday afternoon on the Prince George. Andy, the city's 1954 Golden Gloves middleweight champion was greeted at the Seal Cove airport by Mrs. Marshall, and the three Marshall boys, Johnny Odowes and Martin Saunders with his junior boxing club.

Johnny Odowes also met Joe Ward and Bill (Mouse) Morrison as they arrived yesterday and all members of the boxing team expressed their appreciation of the kindness and goodheartedness of the firms and folks who contributed to the fund.

Collecting the money with Johnny Odowes was Gunnar Anderson and Bill Murray.

Mr. Odowes said today that although there is still $196.84 in a special account for Prince Rupert boxers, anyone wishing to boost the fund may still do so in the event any boxers wish to make any further trips to enhance the city's name in the Ivy was signed for three years, the same as Royal. Royal, however, was released last month so he could become head coach at Mississippi State.

DON ZIMMER, heir apparent to Pee Wee Reese's shortstop berth with the Brooklyn Dodgers, whips the ball to first base from high in the air in a double-play drill at the team's Vero Beach, Fla., training camp. Zimmer, a highly regarded prospect, may spend one more year in the minors while waiting for Reese to hang up his glove.

Elks Leading Junior Series

VANCOUVER — A meagre 100 fans watched Wednesday night as New Westminster Elks took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three series for the British Columbia juvenile hockey championship. Elks trampled Nanaimo Clippers 4-2.

The next game will be played tonight at New Westminster.

Chances For Playoff Berth Get Pretty Slim for Rangers

By JIM BASTABLE

New York Rangers, behind hockey's eight-ball all season, still have a chance to make a Stanley Cup playoff berth. But things are getting to the mathematical stages even with the Rangers winning some clutch games.

Packers Take Second Game Of Playoffs

By The Canadian Press
Kamloops Elks the one game away from elimination in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League playoffs.

Elks went down 3-1 in Kamloops as the Kelowna Packers took the second game of the best-of-five semi-finals.

The game was featured by close checking and top net minding. The first Kelowna goal came at the 20-second mark as an Elks power play rebounded.

Kamloops roared in from the face-off but Ken Amundrud carried the length of the ice to slip the puck behind Hal Gordon. Frank Kuly picked up an assist on the play.

Kelowna took advantage of another fast break to go two-up in the second stanza. Kuly collected his second assist as he fed Bill McCulley the disc.

Don Smith made it 3-0 before Fred Denny passed to Carlson at 12:13 for Elks' only goal. Next battle between the two is Friday night in Kelowna. Penticton plays in Vernon tonight. The V's lead the series 1-0.

in a point of catching the fourth-place Boston Bruins Wednesday night by taking a 4-2 National Hockey League victory over Chicago Black Hawks. Unless the Bruins lose a few games the Rangers haven't a hope because Boston has two games in hand.

The New Yorkers picked up their 26th victory in 65 starts by scoring two goals in the third period. They have five games left in the 70-game schedule.

It was the only encounter of the night and the end came when rookie Camille Henry and Bob Chrystal drove two shots past Chicago netminder Rollins in the last 12 minutes.

MEET BRUINS TONIGHT

Coach Muzz Patrick and his Rangers will know tonight just how tough the race will be from here on. They meet the Bruins at Boston in a key game for both clubs.

In two other games tonight, second-place Toronto Maple Leafs go against third-place Canadiens in Montreal and the last-place Hawks, with only 11 victories in 65 starts, clash with the league-leading Red Wings at Detroit.

The Hawks made it tough for the Rangers at Madison Square Garden. They battled from behind a 2-0 count to tie the game early in the third period but couldn't do anything after that.

The other Ranger goals were scored by Eddie Kullman and Nick Mickoski. George Gee and Lou Jankowski scored for the Hawks.

ITALIAN ACTRESS Rosanna Podesta, 19, demonstrates how she carries her newborn son, Stefano, around her Rome home with her hands free. The infant rests in a large light wool scarf that hangs from Rosanna's neck. The young mother claims she got the idea while watching a movie in which American Indian squaws carried their papooses. His facial expression seems to indicate that Stefano doesn't think too much of the novel arrangement.

Royals Edge Cougars 5-4; Seattle Bows to Saskatoon

Victoria Cougars and New Westminster Royals provided most of the action in the Western Hockey League Wednesday night as the teams near the end of the schedule.
Saskatoon and Seattle also had it out on the Prairie but the Bombers showed little fight as they went under 6-0. The Seattle team now is out of the running as sixth-place Royals topped the Cougars 5-4.

BLACKWOOD or BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
This One Still Has Mr. Muzzy Stumped

Mr. Muzzy is still trying to figure out how Mr. Masters got away without losing a diamond trick on this hand. As a matter of fact it isn't too easy to see, even looking at all the cards.

Mr. Masters bid his hand strongly, knowing that cautious Mr. Meek probably had something in reserve for his club ruff. On the second round Mr. Meek quickly got out of the no-trump department but, not to be denied, Mr. Masters went on to game at clubs.

Mr. Muzzy led the jack of spades and Mr. Masters carefully refrained from covering with dummy's queen. The reason was that he placed the king on his right and wanted to throw Mrs. Keen in at the proper time for a diamond return.

Winning the first trick with the ace of spades, he cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart on the board. He then led a club to his ace and learned that he had a loser in that suit when Mrs. Keen discarded a small spade.

He ruffed his last heart and led a spade. Mrs. Keen was in with the king and if she returned a spade or a heart, Mr. Masters would ruff in dummy while discarding a diamond loser from his hand. Therefore she led back a diamond, selecting the nine, although any diamond would have brought the same final result.

MASTER CARD
Mr. Masters covered with the ten, Mr. Muzzy played the jack and dummy's queen won. Now, consummating a beautiful double end-play, Mr. Masters led a club and put Mr. Muzzy in the lead.

Again, a spade or heart return would give Mr. Masters a sluff and a ruff and Mr. Muzzy had to lead a diamond as his only hope. He led the seven, dummy's eight covered, Mrs. Keen played the king and the ace in the closed hand won Mr. Masters' six spot was now the master card in the suit and it won the game-going trick.

Kiner Showing "Old Form" In Exhibitions

By BOB MYERS
MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Ralph Kiner of Chicago Cubs gives every indication of a young man who hopes to regain the home run championship of the National League and of re-establishing his claim as an all-round baseball player.
Hit bat sank New York Giants Wednesday for their fourth straight defeat, 10-7, with a performance that started with a two-run homer his first time at bat and a grand-slammer later in the game.
In five exhibitions to date, Kiner is hitting well over .500. He has three home runs and has driven in 10 runs.
Kiner reported to camp weighing 190 pounds, seven less than when he finished the long grind last year and 10 or 15 pounds under the figure he carried last spring into the quarters of his former employers, Pittsburgh Pirates.
The general impression is that Kiner had a "bad year" in 1953, though many a club would like more "bad" years from a guy who belted 25 home runs, drove in 116, hit a creditable .279 and had a fielding average of .973.
But not written in the records are the facts that Kiner in 1953 played under the handicap of a groin injury and got off to a poor and late start because of a row initiated by his boss then, Branch Rickey, Sr.
The Rickey mess is past history and Kiner is happy to be with Chicago.
Kiner was home-run king of the National League for seven straight years until Milwaukee's Eddie Matthews dethroned him last season.

Arrow Lakes Power Project Being Studied

SPOKANE (AP)—Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. may construct a water power project in British Columbia to help firm up its supply of electricity during low water periods, a company spokesman said Tuesday.
Norman L. Krey, manager for the company's Northwest operations, said the company has been studying data on available sites and has had discussions with both Canadian authorities and Bonneville Power Administration officials on the subject.
Kaiser engineers will start preliminary field surveys for a possible water storage dam on lower Arrow Lake, north of Castlegar, within the next few weeks, he said.

BABY'S COLDS

Help Nature To Fight Them Off
Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds—only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence—cooperate at once with Nature. See that baby is kept warm, get plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish.
One Nova Scotia Mother says: "My baby of 20 months caught a nasty cold on I tried Baby's Own Tablets and she threw this cold off quicker than ever before. I certainly use for Baby's Own Tablets from now on." Equally good for restlessness and peevishness resulting from irregularity at feeding time, for constipation, digestive upsets and other minor infant troubles. Get a package today at drugstores.

No one was hurt in the three-alarm blaze, which spread quickly through stores of inflammable merchandise and gutted the building.
