NEW LIQUOR TAX EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY

(TORONTO)—Word has gone out to all clubs in British Columbia to start charging the new 10 per cent tax on liquor as of now.
The new tax, which increases the three per cent tax to 10, became effective Saturday when Lieutenant-Governor Wallace gave royal assent to all legislation before him and the legislature.

Kinsmen Complete Plans Hallowe'en Parties

Local school children hurried to town last night, Hallowe'en shell-out tickets of the Hallowe'en Kinsmen club were being distributed for bonfire and fireworks for the night.
Club expects to spend about $250 on the aerial display.
The sale of shell-out tickets will help defray that cost.
Defoe, chairman of the committee, told the Fire Chief Earl Becker.

Firm Ships Wood Cargo

(VICTORIA)—A 142-ton ship of plywood from the Plywood Corp. plant in Alaska, the largest ever shipped here Wednesday on the Alaska freighter Susan.

Cleanliness Necessary For Cafes In B.C. Seeking Liquor Licences

Health Director Issues Warning

Hygienic standards of eating places in Prince Rupert will have a direct bearing on whether liquor licences will be granted under the new B.C. liquor law.

This was disclosed by Dr. S. F. Carr, director of the Skeena Health Unit, at the quarterly meeting here last night at which he also said the "increasing incidence of bacillary dysentery" is one of the prime reasons for the present drive for improved methods of food handling here.

Results so far have been so successful, he told the meeting, that outside medical sources had informed him that Prince Rupert restaurants now have a better standard of cleanliness than many other eating places in B.C.

Sanitary inspector J. L. Hiebert completed an inspection of cafes and restaurants here about a month ago and several were warned to improve food-handling methods or they would be closed.

All operators were given until October 31 to remedy any defects.

"This drive for cleaner restaurants and improved food handling methods is not a sporadic drive, to be forgotten in a short period of time," said Dr. Carr, adding that he would rather have the restaurants all on a high plane of sanitation than have to refuse a liquor licence later on for hygienic reasons.

Regarding the spread of bacillary dysentery, he said "it is a serious matter, since the disease runs a protracted course, sometimes keeping workers away from their jobs a week to 10 days."

"It is extremely serious in young children and since the disease is becoming more common it is getting more difficult to control."

There is still considerable misunderstanding as to what constitutes perfect food handling, but sanitarian Hiebert was finding that visits to cafes and informal talks with the staffs proved more effective than formal lectures. A standard of procedure was usually reached which, though threatened by changing staffs, was passed on to newcomers for the good of the restaurants.

Alaska Salmon Packers Hit By Bad Season

(SEATTLE)—Alaska salmon packing firms have started notifying their 1953 employees that doldrum conditions in the industry make it impossible to assure re-employment next year.

It is an unprecedented move by the packers. Their letter to the employees describes 1953 as a "disastrous season." It says 1954 looks "equally bad."

The form letters from packing firms are being received individually by some 18,000 workers. It is addressed to them as "former employees."

The Fish and Wildlife Service report through Oct. 3 showed a pack of 2,882,083 cases, compared with 3,500,000 cases a year ago and nearly 4,500,000 in 1949.

W. C. Arnold, managing director of Alaska Salmon Industry, Inc., said today the 5,000 workers hired by packing firms for this year's Bristol Bay Season probably will be trimmed at least 25 to 50 per cent for 1954.

Arnold said: "After this year's ruinous season, consolidation of many plants is the least drastic step which could occur. Unless the economic situation improves, there is a definite possibility all Bristol Bay canneries may be closed in 1954."

Bristol Bay is Alaska's top red salmon district. The 1953 pack there was little more than half of last year's.

Death Toll In Floods May Hit 100

By The Associated Press

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy—Wild floodwaters swept across the toe of the Italian boot today and fears mounted that the final toll would pass 100.

By midafternoon 47 bodies—many of them children—already had been recovered.

Torrential rains, following tremendous cloudbursts, continued to hammer the poverty-stricken region, which had been devastated by other floods only last year.

The region, on the toe of Italy, is known to many Canadians as the spot here, on the night of Sept. 2-3, 1943, the British 8th Army launched an invasion of the Italian mainland with the 1st Canadian and 5th British Divisions.

RAINS HAMPER WORK

The rains, together with surging waters which swept over agriculture fields and into hamlets and towns, balked rescue operations. The prefect of Reggio Calabria, capital of the region, issued a call for helicopters to aid in rescue operations.

Eight rivers swept over their banks, and streams became rivers themselves, flooding fields and villages.

In Rome, the interior ministry said all available rescue units, including troops, have set out for the scene of the floods. It added that the provincial government had not yet been able to get any real estimate on the damage or loss of life because of broken communications.

Reggio Calabria is the capital of the province of the same name. It lies just across the Straits of Messina from Sicily.

Auto Traffic in London Faces Shutdown Due to Gas Famine

LONDON (AP)—London's busy motor traffic moved toward a shutdown today in the face of a growing gasoline famine caused by a wildcat strike of 2,600 tank-truck drivers.

As the strike went into its fourth day, officials of the state-owned London Transport System said its buses would soon be stalled; garages hung "sold out" signs on their gasoline pumps, and there was a noticeable slackening of taxi services.

A spokesman for the British Automobile Association gave this gloomy picture:

"London, for all practical purposes, is without petrol. We are rationing hundreds of stranded motorists to a gallon apiece, so they can get home or go to a garage outside the affected area."

ASK PAY RAISES

The tank-truck drivers, members of Britain's huge Transport and General Workers' Union, are demanding pay raises of 10 shillings a week, retro-

Premier Sees Sacred Sweep Across Canada

VANCOUVER (AP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday night Social Credit will be the next government of Canada if the British Columbia party keeps its principles high.

"We must keep our principles high because all Canada is watching this government," he said. "We are the beacon and if we keep our ideals high, Social Credit will be the next government of Canada."

Mr. Bennett spoke to the women's auxiliaries to the Social Credit League of B.C. on the eve of the league's convention here.

He said that "never has such a government done so much in 12 months."

"Yes, there has been criticism. There is still some, but the press would not be human if it changed overnight."

He criticized the "unjust, untrue criticism," saying 90 per cent of newspapers stick to the truth, but that "there are those who will stop at nothing."

"It is these men with their poison pens who dare to mislead the nation against the sound principles of Social Credit."

Child Died By Misadventure

Accidental death by misadventure was the verdict of deputy-coroner George Dawes who held an inquiry into the death of five-month-old Lyle Alexee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Alexee.

The accident occurred Monday night at Port Edward when the child's baby buggy caught fire.

It is believed that one of the other Alexee children accidentally dropped a piece of lighted paper into the buggy. The parents were visiting with friends nearby when the accident happened.

First aid was given the baby at Port Edward before it was rushed to Prince Rupert hospital where it died early Tuesday.

The baby is survived by its parents, three brothers, Gary Edward, Charles Franklin and Gene Wayne and one sister Sharon Darlene. Funeral services will be held at 4 p.m. this afternoon at Grenville Court chapel of B.C. Undertakers.

Contrast in Salmon

EARLY CLOSURE the last week in August ended the agony of the poorest salmon season that Southeast Alaska has ever known.

It was a discouraging and disheartening demonstration of decline and depletion—of failure in management of the resource. These demonstrations have been occurring annually, with a severity and regularity which cannot be ignored and cannot be denied.

Especially damning is the contrast which exists between the situation in Southeast Alaska and that on the coast of British Columbia.

Consider it this way:

Physically, Southeast Alaska and the coast of British Columbia are closely similar. True, they are divided politically by an imaginary line which runs down Portland Canal and out to sea through Dixon Entrance. This line leaves no trace in the water, and even the smartest salmon doesn't know it is there.

These waters are inhabited by salmon of the same species feeding, on the same feed running at the same time.

The fundamental difference in the fisheries of this continuous and related coastline is that the fishery resources of the American section is sick, while that of the Canadian portion is healthy and productive.

During the past eight years—four pink salmon cycles—the average pack in Southeast Alaska has been 63 per cent of the 40-year average.

During these same eight years, the average pack in British Columbia has been 101.2 per cent of the 40-year average.

What is the answer?

The Alaska purse seiner will be quick to blame the traps, to point to the fact that there are no traps in British Columbia.

That is true; but it is also true that traps are the only form of gear whose number the Fish and Wildlife Service can regulate. Trap fishing is the only fishing operation whose intensity can be controlled—can be, and is.

Traps are the only form of salmon fishing gear which cannot go up the creeks and fish above the deadlines.

The trap operator will say that illegal fishing by mobile gear is one of the principal destructive influences on the American side; and provides one of the sharp contrasts with the situation in Canada.

The basic problem of the Alaska salmon is broader than gear and more complex than enforcement.

Essentially it is one of administration—administrative efficiency and administrative courage.

Clare Luce Loose

THE LEADING Italian newspaper hailed the recent announcement of U.S.-British intention to hand Trieste to Italy with the same big black type it also used when it was backing Mussolini.

Corriere della Sera explained that it was all due to the remarkable lady, Clare Boothe Luce, wife of the publisher of Time and Life, who is now U.S. ambassador to Italy.

"What happened has been to a great extent the work of a woman, Mrs. Luce, and it is right and necessary that the Italian people know it. . . . Perhaps one day we will learn with what patience, intelligence and diplomatic tact Mrs. Luce succeeded in bringing this arduous task to a happy end."

IT ALL DEPENDS what you mean by a "happy end." If the idea is to make the lady ambassador loom as large in history as with, say, Helen of Troy, "the face that launched a thousand ships," then you can call the Trieste announcement a "happy event."

Time magazine calls it a "bold stroke of power diplomacy." Most other observers call it the greatest allied blunder since the end of the Second World War.

TIME magazine lost since gave up any such old-fashioned idea as giving the news straight. But what are readers in countries allied with the U.S.A. to think when they read such an appalling hodge-podge of fact and fantasy or downright fabrication as appeared in the New York Times for October 4, 1953?

Under the heading "PER-SUASION OF WAR PRISONERS," The New York Times says editorially:

"Actually, the United Nations Command, and the nations that it represents, should go much further than they have gone in protesting the outrageous decisions of the Neutral Reparation Commission."

"It was said in the armistice agreement that there should be no coercion in the process. Yet the supposedly 'neutral' commission has actually authorized a procedure in which individuals, against their expressed will, can be segregated and then forced to endure a continuous 'brain washing' for eight hours a day, six days a week, from now till December 23. Just where this falls short of 'coercion' has not been explained."

THIS fantastic bit of misinformation might be excused if it appeared in some newspaper rag with no integrity; or in a propaganda organ of a police state, where the editors falsify facts on instruction.

But the New York Times is one of the finest, most honest newspapers in all the world. It should have known, and reported, that no prisoner would be subjected to more than one brief session of explanation—that about three hundred prisoners per day would be screened only in batches, and never under duress.

Reflects and Reminisces

President Eisenhower will be in Canada next month. He will be present at a full cabinet sitting and address parliament. It is said, informally, that the American chief executive and Canadian ministers will discuss "affairs of the world." They could say, instead, "affairs of North America," and still not be wrong.

THE CHURCH SPEAKS OUT

Notice outside a Toronto church: "Do You Know What Hell Is? Come Inside and Hear Our New Organist."

Wild geese, perhaps the first of the season seen here, were sighted high over Prince Rupert Wednesday forenoon. One has to do a bit of figuring as to how far south they will fly, and the number of sturdy and beautiful birds are fated to die. The latter possibly depends on how many of our people are not sportsmen.

Within 20 years it will be easy to drive from Dawson Creek to the Alaska border, as it is now to drive to Toronto from Montreal. But who wants to drive to where there's only 130 days between freezing periods?

Sixty-two per cent of Canadians went to the polls on election day last summer. Germany also had an election last summer, and on that occasion 86 per cent of the Germans marked their ballots. Well, they set a first rate example—something Canada has not been admitting very much in recent years.

TEA FOR A CHANGE

American consumption of tea is reported to have increased 14 per cent within the last two years. Many of us know that in 1773 tea helped the Yankees win a war when tons were pitched into Boston harbor. But since then it helped her lick the Germans when the tea pot was put on the stove at the first far-off sound of an approaching bomber.

— THE LETTER BOX —

WANTS PROOF

The Editor,

The Daily News:

The following contains my reply to your editorial of October 15 on the police referendum. The principle of referendum is a means of recording public opinion on certain questions. Therefore, it's hard to understand why some editors oppose its use.

I hold that all governing bodies in a democracy should be directly attached and responsible to the people they govern. That's a simple principle of home rule and local autonomy.

Mr. Editor, your statement that the city police were thrown out years ago for good reason, is not correct, and I challenge you to prove it. Defects in the force were never mentioned and by only one single vote in council the trick was put over, not by referendum.

Here is the reason and I challenge contradiction and proof to the contrary. The motive was to defeat Mayor Newton, who held office as mayor for eight years, father and founder of the city hydro plant at Woodward Lake.

In order to seize the utility and barter it to the Power Corporation of Canada, Newton must first be removed from office, in addition to myself. To accomplish that it was deemed necessary to scuttle the police commission, a body consisting of the late George Frizzell, W. H. Montgomery and Mayor Newton, all three now deceased. The whole operation was quietly performed under direction of Col. S. F. McMordie, having the groundwork first as chairman of the utility commission, and completing the job as mayor. With Newton and myself out of office, the whole operation was successfully performed.

Then for a few short years going appeared easy while the few dollars received from sale of the city hydro lasted. But the fatal day soon arrived. Without that steady stream of power revenue, the city could not meet its liabilities, thereby defaulting. The provincial government then appointed Mr. W. J. Alder as commissioner. There, brother, is the story of the McMordie raid on the city hydro plant and police detachment.

Your bewilderment concerning the city's ability to cope with policing the city apart from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police indicates a fog-bound mind. We did it before and can do it again. In addition we will be keeping company with our own self-respect, master of our own ship.

And may I further state, in all Prince Rupert's history, never did we have two more respected citizens than Chief Billy Vickers and Sergeant Bailey of the city police detachment.

Regarding special privilege seekers, we know they are in every community. And, brother, please don't be simple enough to try and persuade an oldtimer like me that the Mounties are immune from human weakness. There's a weak spot in every human being . . . the secret is to find it.

Under a city police setup, the police commissioners would be responsible to the citizens. Let some citizen go to the police station now with his complaint and see how far he gets with the top brass if they don't like it. Their directors reside in Ottawa, not in Rupert. It's the nucleus of a police state, the charm of every dictator.

Neither do I think we will have to rely on cuis in a cheap uniform to spread goodwill. What we would expect and demand is that they know how to get along with people who are in pursuit of their own affairs and doing no harm to others.

The next point is cost. Possibly the city merchants are the best judges of what they now pay through loss of native trade court fines imposed. The matter of dropping in for a quick drink is common practice . . . to most humans, be they police officers, editors or aldermen.

Last, but not least, the matter of taking a referendum in face of hostile influence at work, of course as usual meaning Moscow, is just pure bunk and denotes downright foolishness unworthy of attention.

Power Workers Taking Vote On Strike Action

VANCOUVER (C)—More than 600 union members are taking a strike vote in a dispute which could halt industry throughout southwestern British Columbia.

George Gee, business manager for Local 213, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) said the government-supervised vote would be taken at Vancouver, Abbotsford and Victoria and results would be known tonight.

The IBEW seeks a 10-cent hourly wage increase from the B.C. Electric Co.

Mr. Gee said the union would continue to "try and negotiate with the company."

If the vote is for a strike and no settlement is reached, he said, pickets would surround power plants and generating stations.

"We know just how much power it takes to maintain essential services. If the company co-operates, we plan on producing just enough electricity to service hospitals and similar emergency institutions and households, but not industry. We would appeal to industry to shut down and leave the power to homes and emergency services."

Work of Enthusiasm Noted Retiring Head of CGA

As gavel beating as one could have been the song last night as the Credit Grantors' Association and its affiliated Credit Women's Breakfast held a joint dinner to conduct their respective meetings.

A generous supply of food and table favors were provided for the occasion. Organizations reviewed their plans for the year and elected new officers. The occasion also marked the annual dinner meeting of the Credit Grantors' Association with a large cake at the table to celebrate the first for the Club.

Speaker of the evening was Mr. Hankinson, recently manager of radio station WPR.

Selection of officers, the Credit Grantors' Association Norman Moorehouse. He succeeds Keith. Others chosen were Eric, first vice-president; Estelle, second vice-president; and Mrs. Bea Grant, Mrs. Catherine Laurie, elected secretary.

President's report, Mr. Hankinson, noted some lack of enthusiasm in the association last year. He expressed hope that the proposed flexible arrangement for holding non-meeting meetings would make it possible to obtain good speaking to better attend-

MEETINGS

Enthusiasm and interest appeared lacking rather than "this," he said. "This is the number of our meetings. We had eight meetings, three this year, and three in the number of meetings would be inspired by the fact that fewer meetings would mean larger attendances. Such was not the case."

He remarked that the three important elements of speech are appearance, the material of what is said and the mechanics of how it is said. A person's progress in life is determined by his capacity of expression, he observed, and he can go no further than this allows him.

The speaker was introduced by Phil Linzey and thanked by Phil Lyons.

KNOWLEDGE

In turn, should be added to our knowledge of finding means to make credit practical to the customer at the same time, eliminating as much as possible the risk to the merchant.

And tribute to the Breakfast for its good showing last year.

Retiring president of the Club, Mrs. Jocelyn, took over the chair to selection of new officers of the women's organization. Her reports, to succeed president, the meeting Mrs. Catherine Laurie. Officers elected were Mrs. Turner, vice-president; Anna MacArthur, corresponding secretary; Miss Maresa, recording secretary; Christine Sauer, treasurer; and Margie Johansen, re-treasurer. Directors elected were Miss Joan Min-tenko, Miss Mildred Olson, Mrs. Mary Ballanger and Mrs. Bolton.

In her report, Mrs. Bolton expressed the belief that the club had made "great strides and become a part of the community" since its inception in February, 1952.

MANY UNDERTAKINGS

She pointed out that, in addition to many other undertakings, the club had held two rummage sales, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, and a variety show in aid of the local museum. Proceeds from the latter, plus a further donation, totalled $350 for the museum.

She recalled that she and Mrs. Laurie had attended the district convention at Victoria last May where they were able to give a good report of the Prince Rupert club.

Among future projects, Mrs. Bolton saw the possibility of sponsoring a new club at Prince George or Ketchikan, or perhaps at both places. She also proposed that the club consider giving an annual award of $100 to a deserving girl at the high school who intended to follow a business career. The award would be based on need and ability.

As guest speaker, Mr. Hankinson addressed the meeting on "It's all in the way you hold your mouth."

"Speech is man's greatest skill," he said. "It distinguishes him from all other living creatures and gives him communication in time and space."

He remarked that the three important elements of speech are appearance, the material of what is said and the mechanics of how it is said. A person's progress in life is determined by his capacity of expression, he observed, and he can go no further than this allows him.

The speaker was introduced by Phil Linzey and thanked by Phil Lyons.

Unwarranted Criticism of Newspapers Deplored by Royal City Publisher

Unwarranted criticism of newspapers which did their best to bring world and local news to their readers was deplored by Miss Dorothy Taylor, publisher of the British Columbian at New Westminster.

Miss Taylor, who has been with the New Westminster daily for many years, was speaking to the first meeting of the new Prince Rupert Canadian Club last night in the Sons of Norway Hall.

Speaking on "Journalism as a Job," she took her listeners on travels to Europe and South America as she stressed the opportunities for travel open to workers in the newspaper field, and told the large audience that newspapers in Western Canada at least were trying to give subscribers what they wanted.

She said that newsmen welcomed constructive criticism but pointed out that reporters could not get news—especially local news—without the co-operation of their readers.

In newspaper work, she said, there were many doors, not open, but "on the latch." Sometimes much manipulation was necessary to get through, but those doors often led to wonderful experiences, especially travel.

In the past year, she said, various members of her staff had travelled to Kitimat, to the oilfields of Alberta, and to Germany. She herself had travelled to Europe during the past summer, and had attended the Coronation.

In amusing reminiscences of the Coronation, she told of attending the Coronation service in Westminster Abbey, of getting into formal evening dress, complete with tiara, and walking down two blocks of parade route streets in that attire at 7 a.m.

Her press affiliation had earned her the right to attend the Coronation, as it had earned her trips to many other parts of the world.

WRONG PASS
But her press affiliation didn't do her much good on one trip. Determined to travel the Pan-American highway, she had set out, armed with letters from the British United Press. It was just after the Second World War, and passports and permits were necessary in all South American countries. When the highway came to an end, at the border of Costa Rica, she had trouble arranging her trip further south, but eventually visited a Latin-American official and showed him her United Press letters.

He seemed highly impressed and issued an official permit to allow her to travel on, ordering full co-operation from his underlings. But as she left, she looked at the permit and found he had listed her as a representative of the British United Fruit Company. Explanations were of no use, so she continued on with the blessing of a non-existent fruit company.

Miss Taylor flew here yesterday from Vancouver and returned by plane today. She was the first speaker of the season for the new Canadian Club, formerly a women's group and now open to both men and women. Membership in the club has increased by over 40 since it was opened to men.

Mrs. S. Darton, president, introduced the speaker, and Bill Smith thanked her on behalf of the club.

PANCHO, popular performer in animal acts at the St. Louis Zoo, takes time out for a combination drink and shower bath. He didn't bargain for the latter, though. The chimp was the zoo cut-up all summer.

Mrs. Watts Tells of Japan

A talk on life in Japan by Mrs. H. G. Watts highlighted this month's meeting of the Prince Rupert Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Watts resided in Japan for some years, where she and her husband, Anglican Bishop of Caledonia, were engaged in missionary work.

The club discussed plans for a rummage sale to be held Saturday, November 7.

Mothers Wait Patiently While Youngsters at Play

Yesterday was "kids day" at the Civic Centre, as it is every Wednesday when Tiny Tots and Toddlers take over for their play sessions.

The lobby was crowded with chatting mothers, who sat patiently waiting while their youngsters enjoyed stories and organized play in the Tiny Tot sessions in the gym. The 'teen room' was filled with mothers, too, who sat and watched over their toddlers, playing with Civic Centre toys and looking each other over.

The two kiddies' programs are designed to help children over the hurdle of social life before they start school.

At the Tiny Tot sessions, which mothers are discouraged from attending, youngsters aged three to six years hear stories and act them out, take part in organized games, learn to be happy as one of a group, to co-operate, and learn self-discipline and many other things.

SIX LEADERS

Mrs. Don Forward directs the Tiny Tots, with the assistance of six leaders, Mrs. A. Rivett, Mrs. F. Berg, Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. A. E. Carlson, Mrs. F. Peagan and Mrs. W. Bremner, and two pianists, Mrs. J. Donaldson and Mrs. G. Daniels.

Much of the work is done to music, the children learning to listen to the music as a guide for their actions, particularly when acting out stories.

The Toddlers' group helps prepare youngsters for the Tiny Tot sessions. In the Toddlers' group, there is no attempt at organized play. Mothers bring the babies and let them play with the variety of toys provided by the centre.

Many eye each other suspiciously, and at times there are tears when two toddlers want the same toy, or smiles when friendships are made, but the toddlers, through these sessions, get used to seeing other children, and so are better prepared for co-operative play in the Tiny Tot sessions.

ATTENDANCE DOWN

Mrs. Forward is disappointed in the size of the class this year. There are only about 50 youngsters attending the Tiny Tot sessions, compared to twice that number in past years, and she hopes more will turn out later this year.

The children sometimes listen to her stories with fascinated attention . . . sometimes they don't listen at all, but generally, as they become used to the sessions, they enter into all projects wholeheartedly.

She has the occasional problem to deal with, but says the youngsters usually come around to happy group play without much trouble.

One little boy yesterday afternoon stood in a corner of the gym all by himself, but went through all the motions as the other youngsters did them in the centre of the floor. Mrs. Forward said that for the first two or three sessions, he just sat by himself, neither speaking nor moving . . . just watching with big eyes. She was pleased to see him making the motions yesterday and believes that next week, or the week after, he would be right in with the crowd.

Those are the sort of children she likes to have at Tiny Tots, because they are the type who would find starting school, and all its social life, very difficult without some such experience as this.

PERSONALS

Magistrate and Mrs. Walter D. Vance, 2155 Atlin Avenue, returned yesterday aboard the Prince George from a month-long holiday trip which took them by boat and train to California. While in San Francisco they watched the World Series on television.

Mrs. F. Antrobus, 230 Fifth Avenue East, also returned yesterday on the George from a vacation in Eastern Canada. She has been visiting for the past seven weeks with her mother and other relatives in Welland, Ontario, and Brandon, Manitoba.

Paying a brief visit here yesterday, while en route to Kitimat, was Mr. Horace Duhamel, a pioneer of this city who has been residing in Vancouver for the past six years. Mr. Duhamel will spend a week in Kitimat with his sisters.

SMITHERS.—Rev. C. J. Vanlaar held his inaugural service in the Christian Reformed Church here Sunday at which he urged his Dutch congregation to become good citizens of their chosen new country and community.

Mr. Vanlaar arrived last week as home missionary of his church for Smithers, Telkwa and Terrace, from Red Deer, Alta. He was home missionary for Central Alberta from 1950. The minister and his wife will reside in Smithers.

Smithers volunteer fire brigade's second annual firemen's ball is being held Friday. Proceeds from the ball will go to augment the monies received by the brigade from the Village of Smithers to further complete the new Smithers firehall and add new firefighting equipment. Practice and fire call fees paid the firemen by the village also go into this fund.

The brigade, through volunteer effort, started construction on the new two-storey firehall a year ago. While still not completed, it was made ready for occupancy the first of the year, and has housed the department's two trucks and fire equipment and the Smithers district ambulance since that time. The firemen, all trained in first aid, also man the ambulance which is on 24-hour call.

One hundred and thirty-six dollars net was realized from sale of apples by First Smithers Boy Scout Troop on their Apple Day last Saturday.

The funds will give the newly reorganized Scout movement here added incentive and the finance necessary to purchase troop equipment.

Plans Near Completion for U.S. To Funnel Military Aid to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans are about completed for funneling United States military aid to West European countries through the projected European Defence Community as soon as it is ratified.

This was reported today by government officials who pictured State Secretary Dulles and other top officials as confident that the long-stalled EDC treaty will be finally approved in the next three or four months.

That action would clear the way for rearming West Germany, the only state which has ratified it so far. Other signers are France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Informants have said a special agreement covering the delivery of American aid to EDC, being worked out with a defence community preparatory commission at Paris, is substantially completed.

In general, it follows the line of agreements required by the U.S. Congress with all the individual countries receiving American assistance.

Bobo Olson New Middleweight Champ As Randy Turpin Absorbs Beating

Unanimous Decision Gives Hawaiian Title

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobo Olson may not be the greatest middleweight boxing champion the world has seen, but the tattooed man from Hawaii will do until a better one comes along.

Bobo did a competent job on Randy Turpin of England in their 15-round showdown at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. He did not score a knockout, but only because the man from Leamington Spa had a tremendous lot of heart when he was being badly punished in the closing rounds.

Turpin made a fight of it, and made no complaint of the unanimous verdict against him by two judges and the referee. He only said between battered legs that he believed he could have done better if he had been free mentally.

Exactly what Turpin meant by that is not clear here. It is a matter of record, however, that the British pugilist has been having some sort of feminine trouble in his home country. After the fight he told a British writer that he thought he might have knocked Olson out within eight rounds if he had been "right."

ONE-SIDED DUEL
This might this have been the first world's championship decided between heart throbs, none of which were visible to the capacity crowd of 18,689 within the Garden or to those millions who witnessed the somewhat one-sided duel on TV. This particular observer saw it more or less as the officials did. We thought that Olson whipped the Briton by 10 rounds to four with one even—in other words, that Olson won the title going away.

Turpin won the first three rounds and then he took a whipping. The only other round which Randy was credited with was the eighth, wherein he belted Olson a right on the chops that staggered the new champ. However, Turpin was unable to follow up his advantage.

For some obscure reason, Turpin was a sucker at getting caught with his back against the ropes. Every time the former champ staggered into the strands, Olson followed him and poured in the leather. Randy couldn't explain this weakness himself.

Olson said he had not known beforehand of his opponent's weakness, but that once he discovered Randy was a sitting duck against the thongs he took full advantage.

The closest thing to a knock-out probably came at the tag end of the ninth round. Olson had caught Turpin in his own corner and had sent the Briton down with a flurry of solid blows to the head. The bell changed, however, as referee Al Beri reached the count of five.

In the following round Turpin went down again almost at the outset, but got up and was ready to go as Beri reached the nine-count. He took a severe beating the remainder of the round but was in no danger of going down again.

From there on it was strictly a matter of whether Turpin would go the route. Several times Olson had him in trouble, set up for a series of clean shots to the jaw, but each time the Briton called upon his stamina and his ability to slip punches to get away.

The only visible damage to either fighter was a cut which Turpin received under his left eye in the third round, and a cut mouth.

The most that could be said of the fight was that both boys did their dead-level best, and that Olson won his title legitimately, by the count of his brow. Bobo should hold the 160-pound title with no trouble until he meets Kid Gavilan, supposing that the Cuban keeps beating Johnny Bratton at Chicago Nov. 13.

When Bobo fights Gavilan, that will be different.

British Papers Blame Training For Turpin Loss

LONDON (AP)—Randolph Turpin's defeat by Bobo Olson in the world middleweight title fight in New York Wednesday night is a ring tragedy that can be explained at the moment only by inadequate training methods, George Whiting said in the London Evening Standard today.

In a story from New York splashed across the front page, Whiting blamed Turpin's defeat on his lack of condition.

The Evening News said: "Sackcloth and ashes and do not look for any excuses. Turpin was well and truly beaten." The News said Turpin's training methods were suspect from the start.

VERA HOLDSWORTH of Calgary continues to pile up trophies, by her skill with a rifle. She shattered 97 out of 100 targets in one event in women's competition at the 54th annual grand American trapshoot at Vandalia, O., and placed third in the women's champion of champion events. She also was a high scorer in the events against men competitors. She is shown with some of her trophies won in 1952.

Milwaukee's Charlie Grimm Named National League Manager of Year

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Milwaukee's Charlie Grimm, who boosted the Braves from seventh to a surprising second-place finish in one year, today was voted the National League manager of the year.

Grimm, runner-up to Casey Stengel Wednesday for major-league managerial honors, had no trouble outscoring Charlie Dressen, Brooklyn's deposed manager, for National League top spot.

The 55-year-old Grimm drew 110 of the 179 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Association in the annual Associated Press poll. Dressen was second with 66 votes, Eddie Stanky of St. Louis and Rogers Hornsby of Cincinnati, the only other managers to receive recognition, divided the remaining votes.

Stengel naturally was selected as top man in the American. He received 143 votes to outdistance his challengers easily. Lou Boudreau of Boston was second with 19, seven more votes than Paul Richards of Chicago received.

GRIMM NO NOVICE
Grimm, who succeeded Tommy Holmes as Braves' manager in mid-season of 1952, is no novice. He served two separate terms as pilot of Chicago Cubs, putting in a total of 10 full seasons and parts of three others. He led the Cubs to pennants in 1932, 1935 and 1945.

Bryan Lofgren, Ross McNeil Tied For Men's High Single Honors

Improved Leafs Tie Red Wings

The suspicion is growing that Toronto Maple Leafs may have a hockey team this year.

Nuged out of the National Hockey League playoffs last season for one of the few occasions in their history, the Leafs are away with the leaders this fall. And there are indications that they may stay there.

In fighting the league-leading Detroit Red Wings to a 1-1 tie Wednesday night, Toronto showed promise of better things.

Trailing 1-0 after rookie Bill Dineen sank a 25-footer while they were a man short in the second period, the Leafs took command of play, bombarding Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit cage until he yielded the equalizer midway through the final frame.

The tying goal was netted by 19-year-old Eric Nesterenko.

Seattle Edge Royals 5-4

NEW WESTMINSTER (AP)—The Seattle Bombers rallied in the third period last night here to edge the home team 5-4 in a Western Hockey league battle. The Royals, going into the third period with a 3-1 lead, saw the Bombers score four more goals to the New Westminster's one.

In a story from New York splashed across the front page, Whiting blamed Turpin's defeat on his lack of condition.

The Evening News said: "Sackcloth and ashes and do not look for any excuses. Turpin was well and truly beaten." The News said Turpin's training methods were suspect from the start.

GEORGE "FOGHORN" WINSLOW is attempting to secure the clothes off Clifton Webb's back for a Boy Scout drive in a scene from Twentieth Century-Fox's hit comedy "Mister Scoutmaster," which starts at the Capitol today. Little does Webb realize that soon he will become the Scoutmaster of a pack of daredevil Boy Scouts, and in doing so wind up with many a headache and much more grey hair. Edmund Gwenn and Frances Dee are also starring in the riotous comedy.

"Ray" Recalls Highlights Of Capitol Theatre Opening

By BILL RAYMOND

It's 25 years since the formal opening of the Capitol Theatre—an occasion meaning an outlay of $100,000 and a general toning up of community spirit and good cheer.

This was not Prince Rupert's first playhouse, but never before did a place of amusement become established giving the same pleasing impressions and possessing such welcome comforts and conveniences.

In a word, everywhere could be detected the modern touch. As a matter of fact the Capitol emphasized the gradually increasing contrasts in municipal expansion. The October evening that saw the thronged theatre opened, might be called notable in local development. There were addresses, music, and a film.

The public—or much of it—lingered outside to feast their vision on the brightness of the new enterprise.

Misak and Paul Aivazoff were behind it. Both had been here since strictly pioneer times. The former, a dresy looking old timer socially inclined, had long been identified with the late M. P. McCaffery in business. Paul, it is assumed, continues active, being a resident of Vancouver, and the Famous Players Association stays prominent since inception.

It was an evening when it was a simple matter to enliven anyone. There was, for example, the gifted services of a born entertainer, Will Edmunds. He's not been here in many a year. Just where he's wandered to, if still in the land of the living, seems a bit uncertain, so far as Prince Rupert is concerned. Under the supervision of Jack de Janssere, an experienced orchestra played a captivating program, and others sharing in a memorable program included J. C. Brady, MP, J. W. Nicholls, P. H. Linzey, Frank Gow, A. A. Easson, W. Mitchell, and assisting were Ermy Zarelli, Kathleen Owen, Allen Davies, Florence Rose, Louis Amadio and Ernest Read.

Mr. Brady at home on stage or platform was in rare good form. To begin with he hailed from Erin's Isle and looked the part. He was living in Australia when he decided to move to Canada, settling in Prince Rupert to take over the duties of school teacher. Both himself and wife were talented from the histrionic standpoint. They have made their home near Ottawa for more than 20 years.

Ernie Read, the doorman, was a lifelong theatre lover, but not an actor.

He was a tall Englishman with a delicate sense of humor. He lived in Prince Rupert up to the time of his passing which occurred late one evening in the theatre, a few years ago. Read had witnessed no fewer than three coronations. Had he lived there would doubtless have been a fourth, for if there was anything he did not propose to miss it was a coronation. Read also had a prize memory. He could recite Gilbert and Sullivan for hours—from Bab Ballads down through the Mikado, Pinafore, and "what have you."

Time To Think

PAEROA, N.Z. (CP)—Jail is one of the best places to teach men to love their wives, says Mrs. Hilda Ross, New Zealand's minister of social welfare. She told a meeting here she had been astounded at how many men suddenly discovered in jail that they loved their wives and appealed to them to help them.

Board Trying To Avert Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—New talks aimed at averting a strike in the southern B.C. interior lumber industry have been inaugurated by the British Columbia Department of Labor.

A spokesman for the department said that a conciliation officer may meet jointly with the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and operators today.

The IWA voted last week in favor of a strike by a narrow margin following rejection of a government conciliation board recommendation for a three-cent hourly wage increase. No strike date has been set. Operators also rejected the award.

GROWING FAMILY

EDMONTON, England (CP)—Mrs. Robert Taylor gave birth to twins in this Middlesex town near London. She was already the mother of boys aged 12 and 10, and quadruplets aged four.

Famous B.C. Detective, Forbes Cruickshank, Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Forbes Cruickshank, one of British Columbia's most famous detectives, died Tuesday. He was 86.

Mr. Cruickshank won international fame for his work in solving the notorious Beryl G hijacking and murder case in 1924 and was given credit for clearing up a $42,000 Nanaimo, B.C., bank robbery the following year.

The Beryl G, a small vessel in the rum-running trade between Canada and the United States, was found off the State of Washington in 1924, her decks covered with bloodstains. The owner, Capt. George Gillis, and his son Bill, 17, were missing.

With only a camera and a hat as clues, Mr. Cruickshank, then an inspector with the B.C. provincial police, started an investigation that took him through the Gillis and hanged in 1931.

THE LOG OF HMCS SIOUX

Two Tours of Duty in Korean Waters

Built in the United Kingdom, the 2500-ton HMCS Sioux was commissioned in the Royal Canadian Navy on February 21, 1944.

Saw active service in Norwegian waters... escorted convoys to the North Russian port of Murmansk... participated in invasion operations in the English Channel and off coast of France.

Carries a complement of 225 officers and men. Maximum speed 34 knots.

In 1950, at Esquimalt, B.C., was modernized into an anti-submarine destroyer, and equipped with missile and rocket launchers.

Participated in the invasion of South Korea—on July 5, 1950—HMCS Sioux was one of the first three R.C.N. destroyers to sail to the Far East. Completed her first Korean tour in February, 1951; returned three months later for second tour of duty with the United Nations fleet.

During her two tours, took part in the Inchon invasion... in many heavy bombardments on enemy positions... in patrol and blockade duties... destruction of enemy mines.

Returning to Canada from her second Korean tour in April, 1952, HMCS Sioux was employed for the balance of the year as training ship.

This last summer the Sioux was part of the six-ship force representing Canada in the Coronation Naval Review at Spithead.

Comradeship aboard and abroad... adventure on the high seas... important work in a qualified trade... In Canada's modern Navy you acquire new knowledge... new experience... become a specialist... join other trained technicians in a smooth and efficient operation... a man's life at sea on the Navy team!
