TORONTO REFUSES TO BUY GOWNS FOR MAGISTRATES

TORONTO —The police magistrate's gowns in Toronto frayed around the edges, and so, probably, is their dignity. Board of control has refused to abide by a provincial order compelling the city to buy new gowns for the five magistrates. They cost $125 each.

"Let them sue us," said Mayor Allan Lamport. "We pay them a good salary and they should be able to buy their own clothing."

"Their gowns are tattered and torn," said Controller Louis Brown. "It does not add to the dignity of the bench. You can't have uniforms for street cleaners."

As a result of their injured feelings, the magistrates were given a $400 salary increase.

B.C. Student Dentist Going to 'Head North'

(This is the second of three articles by Daily News Staff Writer Larry Stanwood who has just completed a tour of the Dental College at the University of Washington.)

By LARRY STANWOOD

Among British Columbia dentist students at the million medical, dental and nursing school at the University of Washington, Seattle, at least one intends to help the shortage of dentists in the northern part of the province.

It is Denning Waller of New Westminster, in his fourth and final year in dentistry. Any Canadian students who graduate from American dental schools remain in the U.S. to practice their craft, but this is Waller's plan.

He is going to head north. A more dentist will be needed in the north, and it's a brand new territory. I hope to become a member of the B.C. Dental Association, which is made up of B.C. newspapermen, members of the B.C. Dental Association who toured the city-owned Seattle dental school.

Waller was busy in the pre-dentistry department, learning the art of making artificial teeth, or just plain false teeth. In the clinic where final-year student dentists were fitting new teeth to patients, Dr. Lloyd Jacobson, faculty member formerly of New Westminster, pointed out "a graphic example."

Not-Fitting Teeth

This particular patient, a 45-year-old woman, had almost all her teeth worn away by ill-fitting teeth. Fallen-in lips of her teeth look more than 20 years older and she had to have her new teeth could be adequately fitted.

Waller has worn seven different sets of false teeth," she lisped.

Jacobson emphasized that a qualified dentist should be the public with artificial teeth.

Technicians may be able to fit the teeth but they certainly are not qualified to fit them to the patient's requirements.

Leslie Marshall, president of the B.C. Dental Association, accompanying the tour, said currently his organization is moving by B.C. dentists to have direct contact with the public made under the B.C. Dental Act. Such a move would be oral care for the public," he stated. The technicians have prepared a brief to the B.C. cabinet asking for this privilege.

Nearly Half Defence Budget Will be Used to Buy Planes

OTTAWA—Canada's drive to build a crack jet-fighter air force is now to its crest in the next year with nearly half the defence budget pouring into the RCAF to buy hundreds of aircraft.

Government estimates tabled Wednesday in Commons by Finance Minister Abbott indicated that appropriations will level off in 1953-54 and the already-paralleled concentration on air arm will be stepped up in further.

Fast Time to Continue

VICTORIA —The provincial government will abide by the wishes of the majority of British Columbians and continue sunning daylight saving time, a long-delayed source announced.

A roughly 55 per cent of the vote favored fast time in the province last June 12.

Twelve Persons Missing In Two B.C. Air Crashes

Pilot Lone Survivor In Butedale Mishap CBCA Aircraft Hits Log After Emergency Landing

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER.—With only one life known to have been spared, the possible death toll in a plague of plane crashes that swept across British Columbia and Washington stands today at 23.

Three planes failed to reach their destinations in a 24-hour period starting Tuesday. Wilderness and sea have surrendered proof of only one death so far. Twenty-two persons remain unaccounted for.

Lone survivor is a pilot who, it is feared, lost his six passengers to the paralyzing cold of the Pacific after bringing them unharmed through a forced landing.

Still missing without trace are an RCAF Dakota carrying seven men, one of them a soldier, and a U.S. Navy patrol plane with 10 aboard. They vanished yesterday.

The RCAF plane was on a training flight from Vancouver to B.C.'s Chilcotin wilderness area while the American craft, which recently returned from Korean service, vanished over Washington state's Puget Sound.

In hospital at the fishing village of Butedale is James Siddle, 38-year-old veteran of bush flying who was found yesterday 20 hours after he brought his "Sentinel" B.C. Airways plane in for a forced landing.

The CBCA plane was flying two union officials and four workers to the Aluminum Company of Canada power site at Kemano when squalls, wind and a near-zero ceiling forced Siddle to attempt an emergency landing.

The amphibian smashed into a submerged log and, although badly damaged, did not sink immediately. All stayed with the plane until it began to submerge. Then the passengers, like the pilot, donned lifebelts and struck out for shore.

The beach was only 200 yards away but only Siddle apparently survived the breath-seizing cold and treacherous currents.

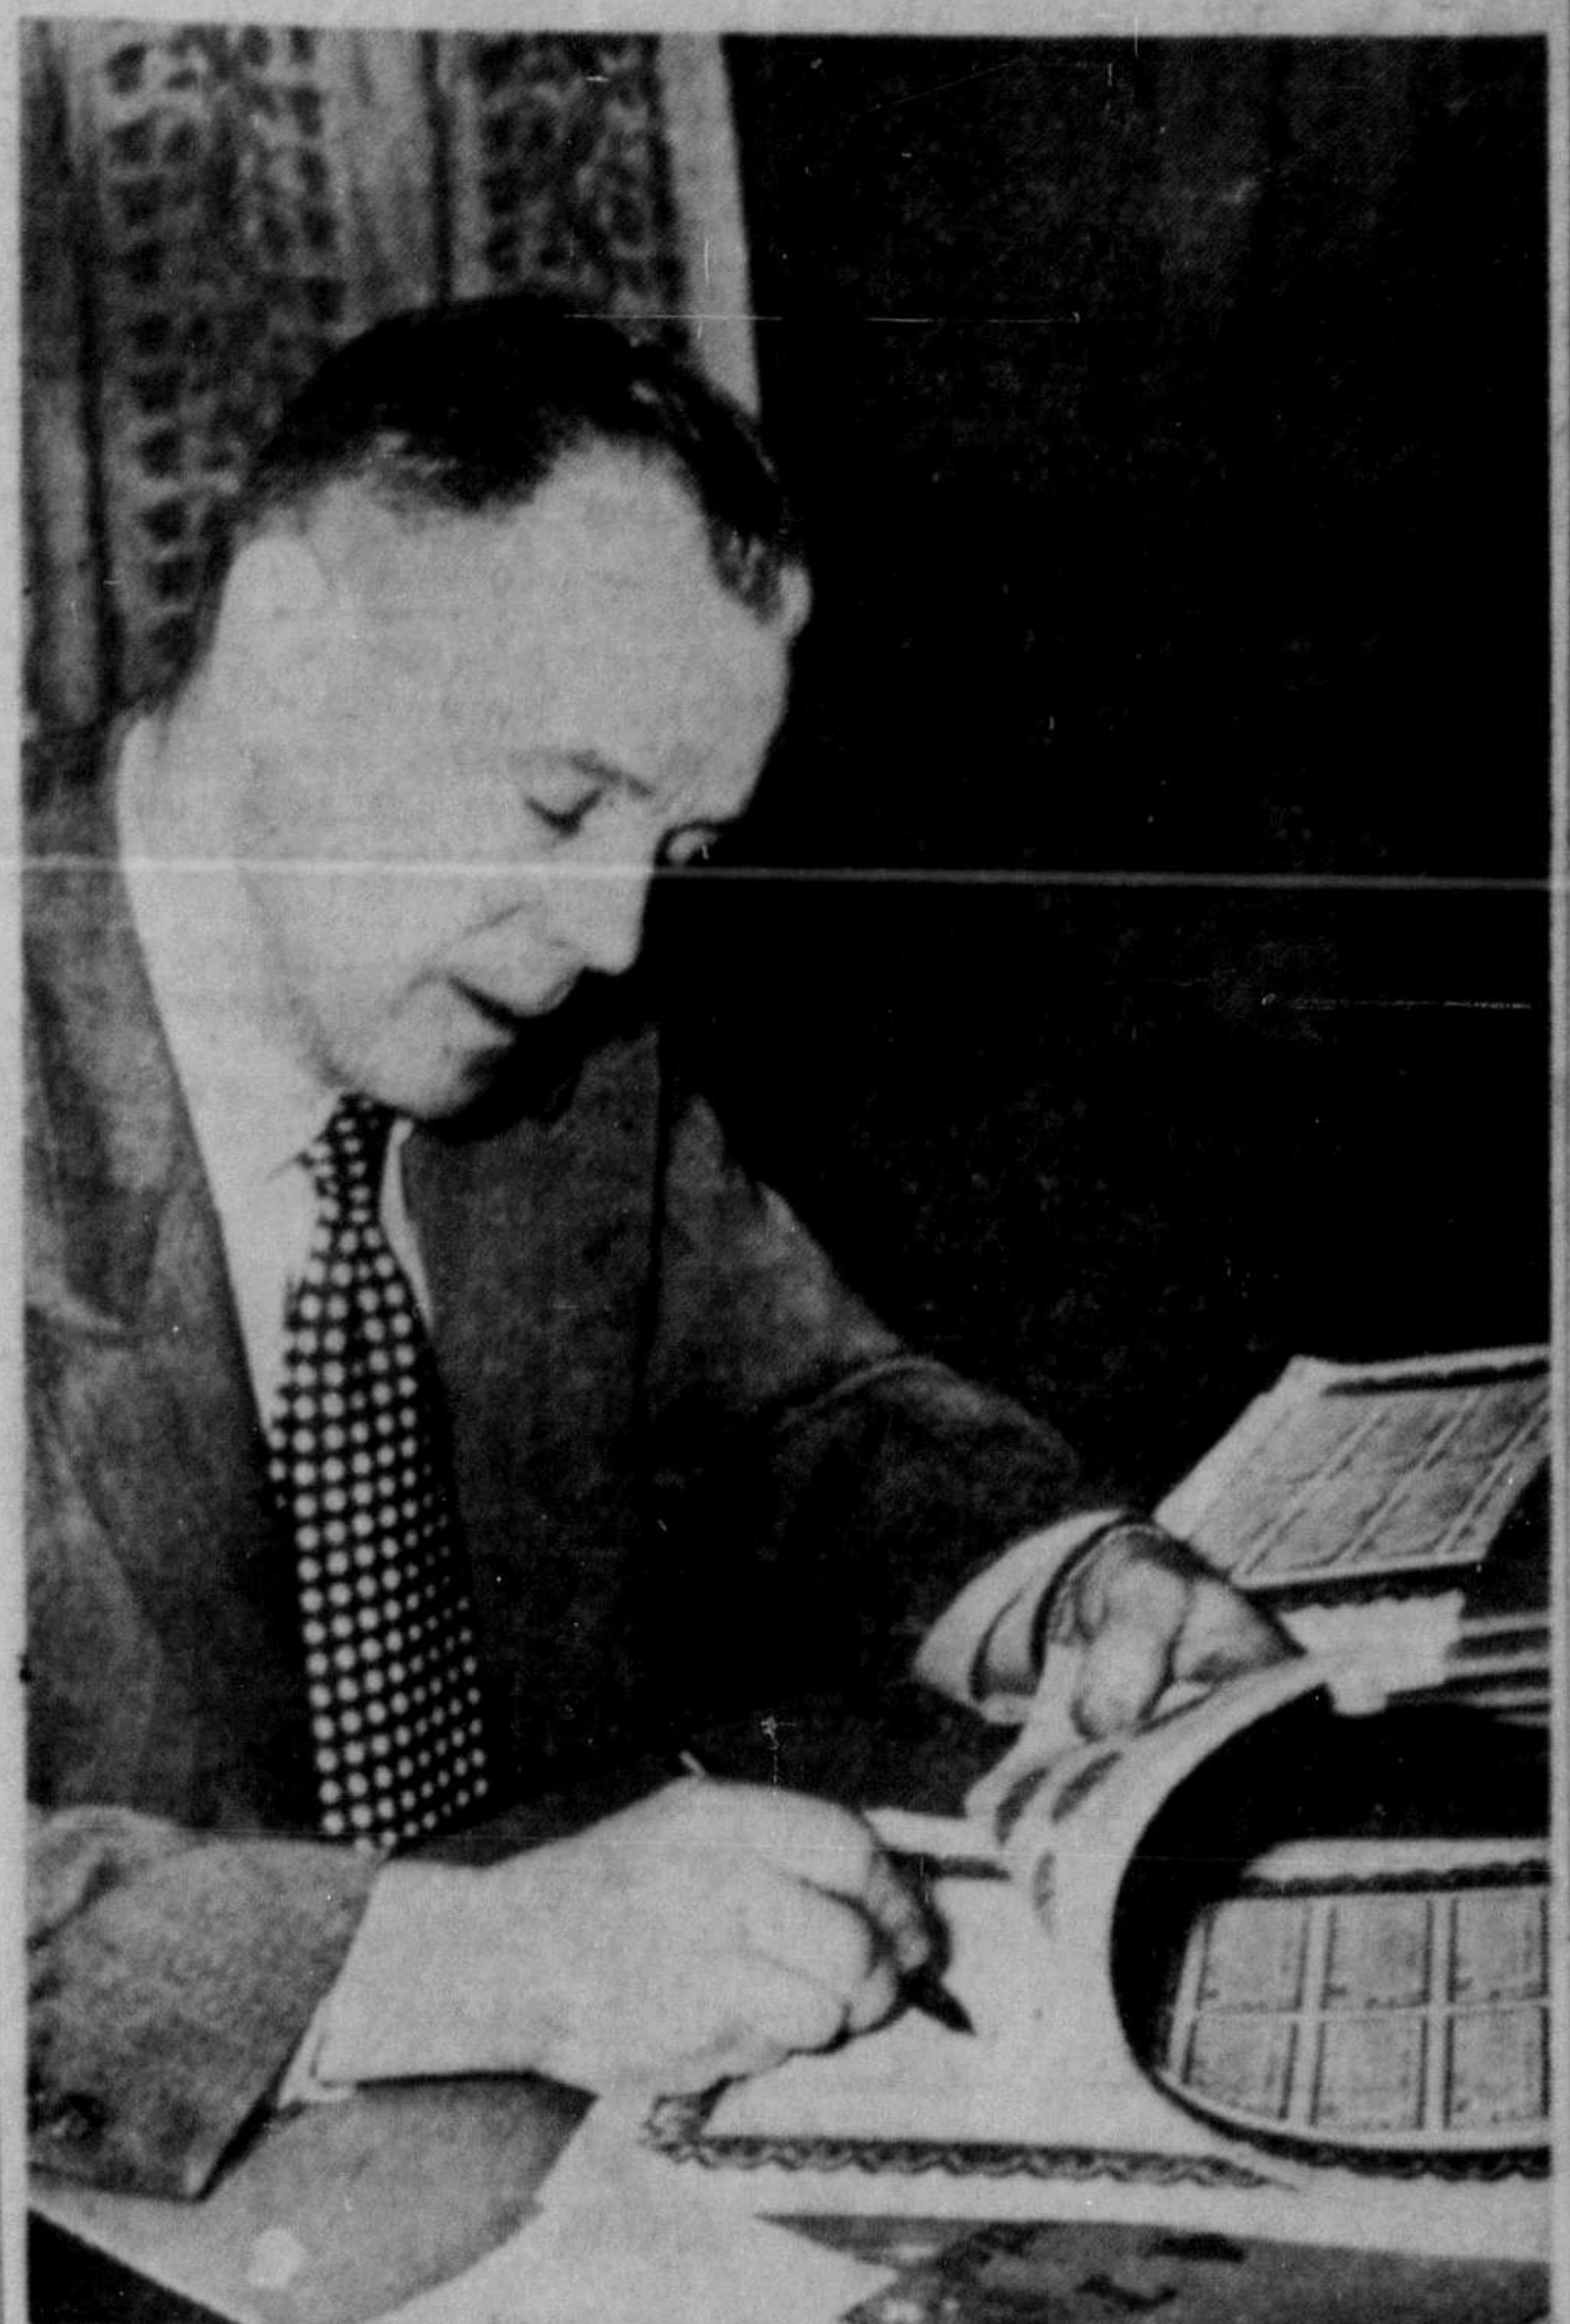

Twenty hours after he crawled ashore at Fraser Reach, six miles from Butedale, Siddle was sighted by another CBCA pilot who was participating in the search.

Later, tugs and fishboats criss-crossing the arm of water found one body. Nearby, they picked up a sack of mail. The plane, Siddle told his rescuers, did not sink until 2½ hours after coming down.

Passengers were identified as Frank Carlisle and Bob Watson, officials of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, and workmen Paul Kushner, Michael Fedyk, E. A. Copley and Gustavos A. Olsen.

ORGANIST-INTERPRETER—Kim Shin Min, 22-year-old chief interpreter at the 25th Canadian Field Dressing Station in Korea, entertains two friends. Kim, who plays the organ at Sunday church services, provides a little music for Sgt. M. J. Pouliot (left) of Camp Borden, Ont., and L. Cpl. Bill Zineck of Brantford, Ont.

Signing The Bonds

MAYOR HAROLD WHALEN signs the $675,000 city telephone debenture bonds before they are forwarded to McMahon and Burns, Limited, buyers. City council announced Tuesday night that all the bonds had been purchased, including the $100,000 waterworks issue, loan of which was approved last year. Sale of the bonds means there will be no delay in construction of the new automatic telephone system.

All MPs Support Plea To Assist Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP)—A new deal for Canada's fishermen was urged in the Commons Wednesday and won support from members of the country's farming as well as fishing communities.

The debate hinged on a motion by A. Wesley Stuart (Liberal—Charlotte), who suggested fishermen had been neglected. The motion asked the government to investigate the "economic condition" of the fishing industry with a view to recommending legislation providing assistance comparable with that now given agriculture under various acts.

Mr. Sinclair said aid was given to the fishing industry on the basis of need.

REGRETS COMPARISON

He regretted that some members had made a comparison between the fisheries and agriculture assistance on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

J. L. Gibson (Ind.—Comox-Alberni), west coast lumberman who also has fishing interests, said he sometimes feels the government does not give fishing the consideration it should.

It has acted with "almost unseemly haste" to put a floor price under pork and buy surplus stocks, but there was no action when the B.C. salmon fisherman lost the British market.

"Now," he said, "there is a 500,000-case canned salmon surplus in B.C. warehouses. One large co-operative already has gone broke and operators have lost heavily by distress selling."

The union group met in the Prime Minister's office during the morning and were followed by the presidents of the CPR and CNR.

A. J. Kelly, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said the government made no specific proposals for settlement but he said differences between the brotherhood and railways have "narrowed down materially."

Cards Owner Convicted On Tax Count

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Fred M. Salgh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, was sentenced Wednesday to 15 months in prison and fined $15,000 for income tax evasion.

"This means, of course," he said, "I will have to dispose of the Cardinals. There is no way I can stay in baseball."

Judge Harper gave him until May 4 to get his affairs in order. Meantime, he is to remain free on $10,000 bond.

Plane Travel Resumes

Travel in and out of Prince Rupert returned to normal today following a four-day hold-over of air passengers at Sandspit and snowslides which blocked both rail and highway traffic yesterday and last night.

First flight into Prince Rupert since Sunday brought 20 passengers bound here from Vancouver, landing shortly after 10:30 a.m. It was the first break in the weather since a shroud of heavy clouds bringing both snow and rain, hung over Prince Rupert harbor and Sandspit airport alternately.

A heavy snowslide, brought on by mild weather after the snowfall, covered tracks and highway yesterday near Telegraph Point, 45 miles east of the city.

ROAD REOPENED

The highway was declared reopened this morning by Bill Meighen, Public Works engineer, but "daylight driving only" was recommended.

"The road is very slushy and there is continual danger of slides due to mild weather and heavy snows on the mountains," the Public Works office said today.

Last night's train arrived here at 9:45 a.m. today, after tracks were cleared from the Telegraph Point slide.

On Wednesday, 21 stranded passengers at Sandspit—combining two flights out of Vancouver—waited eagerly to complete the last lap of a trying air trip. But Prince Rupert weather would not clear.

Fourteen of these passengers, several of them Prince Rupert residents, had been marooned there since Monday. There was no plane from Vancouver Wednesday.

Today, at 9:50 a.m., the Canso departed for Prince Rupert bringing 20 passengers and the first air mail since last Friday, almost a week.

One passenger, Constable Ken Hill, RCMP, was "bumped" and had to remain behind. The Canso can only carry 20 passengers.

Meanwhile, a 15-inch snowfall in the city was fast dissolving into slush and streams of water yesterday afternoon and today under steady rain. Streets were cleared by the city works department at midnight.

No Broadcasts In Legislature

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said there will be no broadcasts of debates in the Legislature this year.

The request for a broadcast of legislative debates was made by Vancouver Labor Council to increase public interest in the government.

Premier Bennett said there is a room available for any radio station wishing to broadcast important speeches or announcements.

BOURGET and Pascale Petrecc are handcuffed and in police custody after their arrest in Montreal on charges arising from operations of a ring which allegedly helped the illegal entry of European immigrants into Canada. Caldwell Top Witness In Police Court Trial

VANCOUVER —The star-studded performance of "Tobacco Road" was staged in police court Wednesday but the final curtain won't be rung down until some time next week.

At the end of a full day of testimony by 27 witnesses—including author Erskine Caldwell—counsel for eight members of Everyman Repertory Company, charged with staging an obscene production of the play, called for adjournment until Tuesday.

Twenty-one citizens appeared in the witness box to defend Caldwell's earthy tale of hardships in the Southern States and the stage adaptation as presented at the Avon Theatre here.

But the star performer, of course, was Caldwell. In his 20-minute appearance on the stand the urbane novelist said he saw nothing in the actions of the principal characters, even Ellie May, who spends a good deal of her time wriggling about the stage in a dress described as "somewhat longer than a sweater."

Ellie May—portrayed by 25-year-old Tamara Dluho—was the chief offender in the eyes of the police.

Mrs. H. M. Henries, appearing as a crown witness, described the play as "definitely the worst amateurish filth I have ever seen."

On the other hand, Rabbi David Kogen saw nothing wrong with the performance.

"It was a serious play which left plenty of room for thought," he said.

Good Citizen Nomination Deadline Nears

With coupons continuing to arrive in large numbers in the Good Citizenship balloting, Gerry Pettenuzzo, chairman of the award committee for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, today reminded prospective voters that deadline for the ballots is Jan. 31. To be considered, they must be submitted to the Daily News office not later than that date.

The committee of judges will meet Feb. 3 to consider the nominations and it is expected an announcement will be made the next day, listing the four top nominees in alphabetical order.

The winner will be announced at the presentation dinner on Feb. 11 at the Commodore Cafe. A plaque, on which the winner's name will be placed each year, will be awarded to the Good Citizen of 1952 on that occasion. All four nominees will attend.

Tickets for the dinner will be on sale for the public at Jerry Lemire's barbershop, starting Feb. 4.

Disc-Shaped Object Makes Sweeping Pass at U.S. Jet

U.S. AIR BASE, NORTHERN JAPAN —The U.S. Air Force Tuesday night reported a small metallic disc-shaped object made a controlled sweeping pass at an American jet fighter bomber and was observed at very close range by another pilot.

The sighting was made over Northern Japan at 11:20 a.m. March 29, 1952 on a bright cloudless day. The pilot described it as about eight inches in diameter, very thin, round, and as shiny as polished chromium.

The object caught up with the F-84 Thunderbird jet, hovered a few moments and then shot out of sight. The F-84 pilot did not see it.

It is the second disclosure in a week by Air Force Intelligence on mysterious flying objects over Northern Japan, near the Russian Siberia area.

Don't Block Immigration

"NOTHING annoys me quite so much as the short-sighted individual who opposes immigration on no better grounds than 'we don't want a whole bunch of foreigners coming over here to steal opportunities away from Canadians.'"

This was a comment in a recent address by Rhys M. Sale, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, and it is one with which many will agree.

No matter how vast its forests, how rich its mineral deposits or how fertile its soil, a country can measure its real wealth only by its people. If this were not so, one might say the North American continent was richer before the arrival of explorers than it is now because its resources were then undiminished.

Yet there is an apprehension in Canada that an expanding population will harm the country. There are those who see its economy in terms of a limited area of employment which, by no stretch of the imagination, will ever become greater. In their view, the ultimate has been reached and now is the time to settle down and hold what we have.

Had this view been shared by those who arrived in Canada first there never would have been a Canada as we know it today. They would have remained in the Maritimes and Quebec and wondered what in the name of civilization was the use of men marching across the frozen plains to the west. Was not life formidable enough as it was?

No doubt there were some who raised the question even so, but fortunately a more enterprising spirit prevailed in those days or this country would never have been settled at all.

Although today there are several million Canadians, the situation has not greatly changed. In spite of our large cities and busy commerce, Canadians are relatively only a small step removed from the stage of early settlement. If anyone doubts this, he need merely to board a plane at any of the main centres like Montreal, Toronto or Vancouver and start flying north. Within a couple of hours he will be over country that has changed very little since the days of our ancestors and he will still not be anywhere near the barren lands.

Yet this is the country that some are trying to defend against the advance of immigration. They should step aside because they are blocking a pretty magnificent view which those they are trying to keep out might see with more appreciative eyes.

As I See It

BY

Elmore Philpott

• Tobacco Road

PENTICTON.—Here in the peach capital of Canada radio reports from Vancouver about the closing down of the play Tobacco Road seem unreal.

It happens that I attended the production of the play on the night before the Vancouver police gave their ultimatum to "clean it up or close it down." I went in on my complimentary ticket and paid for two box seats, for my wife and her aunt.

We saw a fine, faithful performance of Erskine Caldwell's modern classic. It deals with ignorant and decadent southern whites, in the last stages of social decay, lacking the veneration even to move off their soil-exhausted lands. No—it is not a "nice" play—but it is not in any true sense lewd or obscene.

I came out of the theatre feeling gloomy that human beings could allow themselves to get in such conditions; but feeling very proud that we had in Vancouver live theatre alive. I knew that a could stage such a difficult play in such an admirable manner. I remembered how Sidney Risk had carried on his company for years, losing money, and suffering terrible hardship in traveling by truck throughout western Canada—determined to keep the live theatre alive. I knew that a long string of big names, now in lights in London or New York, had received their schooling right here. And what gave me the thrill was to see that at long last these people who had fought through and refused to quit, were at last coming into their own right in Vancouver.

IMAGINE my amazement and indignation next day when the phone rang. Would I join a deputization to the Mayor to try to stop the police from closing down Tobacco Road. I was outraged to think that a play which had run for seven years in New York and seven months even in Toronto could not run unpersecuted for seven days in Vancouver.

THE MAYOR was exceedingly courteous and kindly. He summoned the Police Chief and City Prosecutor. They heard our stories, and read letters from numerous reputable citizens. But the Prosecutor said there had been complaints. They did not deny what the management said—namely that the Morality Squad had visited the show on opening night, and indicated complete satisfaction. But the Prosecutor read a digest of the police reports, made on the same performance I myself had seen and reaching a totally different conclusion from that of all competent critics.

Miss Dorothy Davies, producer of the play, repeatedly and urgently requested the Police Chief and Prosecutor to have the morality squad attend a rehearsal and indicate any words, situations, or gestures which might be considered lewd or too crude for performance. This the Prosecutor refused point blank to do.

The company was never given a chance to "clean it up," for somebody, somewhere, was obviously determined to close it down.

Reduction of American Tariffs Could Set Off Era of Prosperity

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The United States must make, possibly this year, a decision which will be historic for itself and the rest of the world.

The decision will be whether to continue to make it difficult for other countries to sell in the United States, or to open up an easier way for entry of their goods.

"Trade-not-aid" is the slogan with which other countries approach the United States on the matter.

In various ways, American tariffs have been considerably reduced in recent years—but the big decision as to whether the United States will depart from high-tariff attitudes remains to be made.

The Republican party has been the high-tariff party of the past and it may seem odd to expect that party to give a lead towards freer trade. Yet that is what Republicans may find themselves doing.

Once made, the decision could set the world off on an era of unparalleled prosperity.

A lower-tariff policy for the U.S. does not, of course, envision subjecting American industry to unfair competition. It does envision other countries having an opportunity to sell sufficient goods of proper quality and price to enable them to pay for the things they wish to buy from the United States.

It was a worrying time . . . when it should have been a happy one. The stork was flying our way, but we didn't have the money needed to welcome our new baby. After going over our finances for the umpteenth time, we decided there was nothing for it but to cash our bonds. There had been too many 'surprise' expenses.

Luckily for us, our B of M manager had other ideas. "Here's a real chance for you to save, and you're missing it," he smiled.

"Save? At a time like this?" we nearly shouted. "It's not as hard as you think," he said, "... quite a few of my customers do it."

"First, you have to plan yourself a budget . . . You need a road map, if you're to know where you're going with your money. Here's a little booklet called 'Personal Planning'. Read it carefully. It shows you how to work out your own way of getting ahead, financially—and how to save regularly from now on."

"But how can we save in our present pickle?" I asked him.

"Borrow against your bonds," he said. "You've got a steady job. After all, if you cash your bonds now, you'll have the money you need, but you won't have any savings left. If you use your bonds to borrow, you get them back by paying off your loan instalments. In other words, you're saving your savings. This is one of the times when borrowing is really saving."

Our story has a happy ending, because our financial worries went out of the window before the stork flew in. Yes, our baby had a happy welcome. We paid back the loan. Now, we still have our bonds, we're living on a budget suited to our needs and aims, AND we're saving regularly.

Saving is the only way to move ahead of your worries, and stay ahead. And—sometimes—borrowing at the B of M is the best way to save. Find out how to save despite today's high prices. Ask for your copy of "Personal Planning" at your neighborhood B of M branch. It's yours for the asking.

Civic Centre Operation Shows $10,000 Deficit

In spite of a poor financial showing last year, Dr. R. G. Large, retiring president of the Civic Centre Association, saw definite reasons for encouragement in his report to the organization's annual meeting last night.

Looking on the brighter side, the Centre has continued to play an important part in supplying the recreational, educational and cultural needs of the community. Dr. Large said in his report. Such annual affairs as the University Extension Music and Drama Festival and arts and crafts courses and plays were carried through with enthusiasm and success.

For the first year the Alaska Trail has received sufficient support to make it a financial success. This is due in small measure to the efforts of the newly formed auxiliary.

A well organized city-wide drive for new members was conducted with the encouraging result that we have well over 2,000 members this year and should reach 2,400. A new maple floor was laid in the auditorium and roller skating has been instituted. This is proving popular with old and young alike, and will see in our budget for 1953 that we anticipate a substantial revenue from this source.

CLASSES SUCCESSFUL

Dr. Large, unable to be present because he was "stranded" in Vancouver, also noted the success of the art classes this fall conducted by Victor Amadio.

In expressing appreciation of the work done by Fred Jones as general secretary, Dr. Large said the atmosphere of the Centre reflects his enthusiasm.

With the other members of the staff, Mr. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. Svendsen, Mrs. Parent and Mr. McIntosh, we have the confidence of the executive and, I am sure, of the membership as a whole.

The president also acknowledged as a "great asset to our organization" the automatic illuminated scoreboard for basketball donated by Ormes Drugs, North Star Bottling Works and Gordon & Anderson.

At a meeting of the board of directors which followed the general session, W. F. Stone, vice-president, was elected president for 1953. Other officers elected to the executive council were: vice-president, George Viereck; honorary secretary, Miss H. Silversides; treasurer, E. D. Forward; directors, T. N. Youngs, A. P. Crawley, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Fred Calderoni, Dr. G. D. Galbraith and J. F. Major.

Members-at-large elected by the association were W. Lambie, Roy Moore, Mr. Stone and Mr. Major.

Having gone through what Dr. Large described as a "truly disastrous year" in a monetary sense, the association agreed on appointment of a special committee to investigate possibilities of raising additional revenue.

It was decided the committee should have an unlimited field of inquiry, including examination of a proposal that the Centre undertake construction of a skating rink.

BIG DEFICIT
Operating deficit of the Centre last year was more than $10,000, the greatest in its six years of operation.

In his treasurer's report, Mr. Forward pointed out that an exceptionally cold winter and repairs that could not be anticipated were among the unforeseeable reasons why expenditures exceeded estimates.

He further observed that due to an unavoidable late start in the patrons membership drive, funds from this source were $1,100 less than anticipated. However, much of this amount was raised in October and November and will show in this year's revenues.

POOR CAGE YEAR
Basketball suffered a poor season with revenue down by $400, he added.

"Present increases in membership amounting to nearly 500 members; the success of roller skating, and a revenue surplus for the October, November and December months of our current year, exceeding the same period by $2,500 over last year, give every indication that we will be able to operate within the budget presented with this report," he said.

"One task remains, and that is to determine how we can raise the $3,500 deficit estimated for the fiscal year 1952-53."

A vote of thanks to Dr. Large was passed by the meeting for his valuable work as president.

Al Berner Bids Farewell To Rupert

A large gathering of well-wishing railway officers and employees last night honored Mr. C. A. (Al) Berner, superintendent of the Smithers Division, CNR, prior to his departure on "No. 196" for Prince Albert, where he will head the Prince Albert Division.

Mr. Berner, a long time resident of Prince Rupert, was presented with a handsome desk clock, humidity gauge and thermometer, as one of the gifts by Bridge and Building Master H. C. Halliday, a friend of many years.

Mr. Halliday eulogized Mr. Berner's entire railway service on the Smithers Division, the latter having actively engaged in the construction of the line and subsequently in its development to the prominence it enjoys today. Mr. Halliday also stressed the fact that as a "boss," he held the esteem of all those who worked under him.

In replying, Mr. Berner expressed his regret at having to leave the territory, and particularly the many friends acquired over the years in Prince Rupert, but stated it was his intention to "come back home" to B.C. when he retired.

He also thanked officers and employees of the Smithers Division for the splendid co-operation he had enjoyed before and during his tenure as an official.

MINIATURE MODELS STARTED OF ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

TORONTO (CP)—Experiments with scale models now starting at the University of Toronto will play an important part in the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The experiments will be under supervision of Professor G. Rose Lord of the mechanical engineering department.

In the big laboratory of the university's modernistic engineering building, miniature scale models of the St. Lawrence River and the proposed seaway will be built of wood, plastic and tin.

The models actually are from 10 to 50 feet in length. By building them true to the originals, engineers will know how their theories and plans will work in actuality. Stress and strain, water currents and pressures can be accurately determined and tested in advance.

PIGS ARE BECOMING an increasingly popular dish, say Toronto butchers. Five-year-old Meredith Clarke helps hold a 15-pound suckling pig—which sells for about $12—in her father's store.

Plenty of Markets Foreseen For Western Canada's Oil

Ole Berg, president of British-American Oil Co. Ltd., predicts there will be plenty of markets to take Western Canada's growing oil production.

Addressing the Petroleum Club of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce Monday, he said in part:

"When all the pipelines at present projected are completed, Canada will have an oil transport system capable of handling more than 650,000 barrels of crude daily."

"To date, the problem has been the lack of facilities to transport available crude to markets. Once these lines are completed, the problem will be to produce sufficient oil to meet the enlarged markets they will have made available."

"Because of this, the present year and succeeding years will see ever-greater activity in exploration and development work in the western provinces with I am confident, a resultant substantial increase in new discoveries and new reserves."

A pipeline, being built from Edmonton to the Pacific coast, Mr. Berg said, will find the marketing position considerably brighter than when it started.

Mr. Berg gave the estimated increase in Canada's oil reserves in 1952 at 500,000,000 barrels for a total of 2,000,000,000 barrels at year-end.

He said: "It is also believed by many that in 1955 Canada's ability to produce may pass 500,000 barrels daily, or the equivalent of self-sufficiency."

THE EXPERTS Say...

When selecting meat for roasting, look for the red and blue brand grade marks.

A prime rib roast is a good, tender one which may be purchased as a standing rib roast—that is, with ribs left in—or as a rolled rib roast where the bones are removed and the roast rolled.

A rolled rib may also come from two ribs next to the prime rib section. This roast is often divided as an outer or inner roll. The inner roll is best for roasting.

Another roast which may be selected is the cross rib roast which is from the meatiest part of the front quarter next to the blade.

Many people prefer a rump roast. It is next to the round section of the hindquarter and though not quite as tender as the others, it is rich in flavor. It may be cut as a round end or square end roast or may be boned and tied to hold its shape. If this roast is very lean, a piece of fat may be placed on top to help baste the roast during cooking.

Home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of agriculture, say that when roasting meat, place it on a rack in an uncovered pan—as the fat melts it automatically bastes the roast and helps to make it juicy.

Never spoil a roast by adding water—this is done only with less tender cuts which need moist heat. No cover should be used for this creates moisture which gives the roast a steamed flavor.

Roast the meat in a moderately slow oven 325 degrees F., to the desired degree of doneness. It is a good idea to use a meat thermometer, if one is available. Place the thermometer so that the tip is in the centre of the largest section of the roast, taking care not to have the point resting on bone or on a layer of fat.

If the beef is to be rare, allow 20 to 25 minutes per pound for a standing rib roast or a thermometer reading of 140 degrees F.

For a medium rare roast allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound or a thermometer reading of 150 to 160 degrees F., and for a well done roast allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound or a thermometer reading of 170 degrees F.

For roasts with the bone on allow 10 minutes per pound extra cooking time. Turn the roast once during cooking.

Charts Needed For Canada's Northern Coast

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian map-maker said today on-carrying ships can be expected to ply the Arctic waters off Canada's northern coast "in the near future" and charts must be made for them.

F. C. G. Smith, Dominion hydrographer, said adequate charting of northern waters is necessary for "defence, economic and scientific development."

"The bleak coasts of the northern seas contain great mineral wealth," he said in a paper prepared for a panel meeting of the American Society of Photogrammetry.

There were 10,000 miles of water passages in Canada's Arctic archipelago. "The charting of this vast ramification of interlocking channels presents to hydrographers a tremendous challenge."

He said those concerned with Arctic defence are greatly interested in the fact that the submerged continental shelf north of North America is part of the same plateau which holds all the Arctic islands of Canada, Greenland, Iceland and most of the islands north of Europe and Asia.

Government Halts Sale Of Butter

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in recent years, Canada appears to be moving through the winter months harboring far more butter than she requires.

As a result, the surplus in government warehouses next spring may be a lot bigger than it was a year ago.

With a stockpile of some 35,000,000 pounds in its cupboards, the federal agriculture department has called a temporary halt on the sale of its butter.

The halt was ordered by Agriculture Minister Gardiner and became effective Monday. It will be continued until at least next Feb. 2 when Mr. Gardiner returns to Ottawa.

Barbara Brents BUYS AND WHYS A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, January 29th—I have a financial programme that's working out beautifully. I'll be able to have the house painted and go on a two-week vacation trip this year—and still buy a fur coat in the fall. How do I do it? The BANK OF MONTREAL's Personal Planning system of family financing is the key to my happy state of affairs. You see, it's taught me how to save regularly. And now I've discovered, thanks to Personal Planning, how to spend without using up my BoM Savings Account. I simply borrow against it! Then, when I've paid back my low-cost Personal Loan, I still have my nest-egg complete. Frankly, I don't know how I ever got along without Personal Planning (the fact is, I didn't, very well!). Why don't you try it, too? Ask for your free copy of "Personal Planning" at your neighborhood branch of the BoM tomorrow.

The Good Things In Life come in twos. I find... good companions; good luck—and HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP. Yes, I always buy two bottles of Heinz Ketchup at a time—one for the kitchen and one for the table. The folks love its spicy, exciting flavour with all kinds of foods—and I couldn't get along without it when I'm cooking. It works wonders to pep up leftovers, stews and casseroles—and that's not surprising. Because Heinz Ketchup is made of ripe, red "Aristocrat" tomatoes speed and seasoned to perfection by Heinz' experienced chefs. Ask your grocer for Heinz Ketchup next time you're shopping and discover for yourself how good it is.

Home From The Office or from shopping...

...feeling all tuckered out? Then I'd suggest you try the fastest "perk-me-up" I know... INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. It's quick and easy to make—takes no longer than boiling the water. And isn't it good? The flavour's there—and the body—and the real lift... thanks to the Chase & Sanborn coffee experts. I always keep a jar handy. It's a real friend when I'm feeling tired... and a real delight when guests drop in. You see, it's as easy to make ten cups as one. And so economical. The regular-size jar of Instant Chase & Sanborn gives you the same number of cups as a pound of ground coffee and there's a big difference in price.

Lemons On My Shopping List...

they're on it regularly. Because you see, I use lemons constantly in my cooking... and now, during January's cold-catching days, lemons are "sure-fire" cold chasers, as well. Here's how: Drink the juice of one lemon in a glass of water with a half teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda... added very slowly. Do this every 2 to 3 hours the first day... then 3 or 5 times a day thereafter, if necessary. See how quickly lemons alkalize your system and you feel better. And do be sure to use SUNKIST LEMONS... they're the finest, juiciest grown.

You Know, In This Coronation Year...

my thoughts just naturally turn to England, and if, like me, you have ever had to find your way around London by bus, you'll know how well that system of using different coloured buses to identify the various routes works out. Well, here's a colour system you can use in buying tissue handkerchiefs. For the strongest, softest, 2-PLY tissues ever, get FACE-ELLE in the green box. For the extra cushioned thickness of 3-PLY tissues, get Face-Elle in the pink box. You can also get 3-PLY Face-Elle in Man-size and in Pastels... but in regular white tissues, the green box means 2-PLY and the pink box means 3-PLY... and believe me, either box contains Canada's finest tissue handkerchiefs.

Here's Extra Protection For You...

Your favourite BLUE BONNET DE LUXE MARGARINE now has each golden-yellow quarter pound individually wrapped in pure aluminum foil with inner parchment lining. Truly "De Luxe" protection for Blue Bonnet's sunny-sweet flavour! You'll find De Luxe Blue Bonnet extra convenient, too. Just unwrap what you need and serve. No slicing, scooping, or re-wrapping. And you can forget your measuring cup when you're cooking with De Luxe Blue Bonnet. The handy chart on the package shows exactly where to cut for recipes. Ask for De Luxe Blue Bonnet Margarine, and get all these "De Luxe" advantages—and Blue Bonnet "De Luxe" quality.

British Hockey Officials Plan New Face-Off Rule

By ARCH MACKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Always alert for anything new, the British Ice Hockey Association may display a type of face-off that will make Canadians blink. The players would jockey for the puck with about four feet between them. Bodily contact would be forbidden on pain of a penalty.

The plan comes from J. F. Ahearne, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association. It may be adopted in the English National League in the next phase of a two-part schedule.

Credit Grantors Hear City Businessmen

A panel discussion will be held at the regular dinner meeting of the Credit Grantors' Association at the Civic Centre tomorrow.

Members of the panel will be Mr. Cook, Bill Bremner, Mrs. J. B. Bovey and Mrs. Jocelyn Bovey.

Members of the panel will be asked a series of questions of business interest. Afterwards the meeting will be thrown open for questions from the floor.

The meeting will start at 6:30 p.m.

There's a wait-and-see attitude in some quarters but Thearne figures the proposed move will add a crowd-pleasing touch to the game, which fans here prefer on the cream-puff side.

Under the proposed innovation, players would face each other from behind lines four feet apart. Exact distance hasn't been set yet pending dry-land research on the advantages that the string-bean type player has over a smaller opponent at the face-off.

If a player moves his feet over his line, he'd draw a penalty. Battling for the puck would be confined to stick manipulation. Ahearne argues that the English fan, raised on soccer, wants less bodily contact and more short passing, stick-handling and fancy skating.

Richard Red Stapleford of Stratford, Ont., veteran coach of Streatham in the English League, says the proposed face-off "might be useful." But he'd prefer its introduction on a trial basis and in co-operation with Canada.

OPPOSES CHANGES

"We wouldn't think of changing a soccer rule in Canada," says Stapleford. "Why should we change hockey rules here?"

Canada has great stands of timber in forests covering more than 1,000,000 square miles.

of films, which runs the studios, began answering complaints about bad movies by saying that it could not get new scenarios because script writers are boycotting the studios.

The authors admitted they would rather turn out novels than scenarios, but said that the ministry hasn't the facilities to turn out better films anyway—even if it had the scenarios.

An analysis of public complaints shows that the movie-going Russian wants these improvements:

- Brighter films. Most films show "the glorious Soviet way of life" as being too dull.
- More nationalist films. There should be more pictures about the lives of Russian heroes like Peter the Great. This does not clash with current Soviet ideology since the Czars now are represented as heroic defenders of Russia against foreign intriguers and war-mongers.
- Fewer documentary movies and more films suitable for children.
- Films with a better ideological content.

WATCH YOUR FEET!

Today's teen-agers' taste in their selection of winter clothing defies description. In footwear, many have turned to warmly lined air force type overshoes, which, although snug and warm, resemble the proportions of violin cases. When I see a young lad trying to stuff one of these into a hack to get a toe-hold for delivering a rock, I close my eyes and shudder inwardly at what might happen if one of his gunshots were to slip.

The footwork involved in balancing and swinging a stone on a slippery ice surface should be studied very carefully. It stands to reason that heavy, clumsy footwear will hinder proper manipulation of the feet in the hack and during the delivery, so don't wear heavy soled shoes, flight boots, or similar gear on the ice. Basketball players, bowlers, football players, etc., all wear special shoes to meet conditions demanded in their particular sports. Why should curlers try to be indifferent to similar requirements for co-ordination and effectiveness?

Light soled shoes with rubber heels, I have found, give the best satisfaction. For warmth, kid leather is better than the usual calf. Thick soled brogues gave me my worst season in curling. Crepe or rubber soled scampers are worn by Jimmie Welsh and his rink.

If you want a follow-through by sliding on the ball of your left foot, the suggestions above are worth remembering.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

A Timid Partner Often Ruins Your Good Hand

Nothing is more disappointing than to pick up a good hand, including a singleton, and have your partner confine his efforts to a series of bids in your shortest suit.

Admittedly, it is hard to give up the high hopes you had when you first picked up your hand. However, the winning player is the one who practices self-control in this situation—the player who knows the best thing to do with a misfit is to drop it. Fast.

Mr. Muzzy had a pretty fair hand in today's deal and opened the bidding with one diamond. He frowned a little when Mr. Champion responded with one spade. He tried two clubs and frowned harder when Mr. Champion bid two spades.

At this point the maximum on the North-South cards had been reached. But Mr. Muzzy didn't quit. He looked across the table suspiciously. Surely Champion had some kind of preference between diamonds and clubs. He was probably being stubborn.

(The weaker the player, the less faith he has that his partner is bidding his cards correctly.)

Anyway, Mr. Muzzy made another try with a bid of two no trump. Beginning here, the hand was overboard. Mr. Champion properly bid three spades and Mr. Muzzy passed. But it was too late. The defenders had no trouble taking two hearts, two spades and a club for down one.

When partner bids a suit in which you have a singleton or a void and on the next round makes a simple rebid in the same suit, you had better discount your own hand at least a full trick in deciding whether to bid again.

If Mr. Muzzy had mentally discounted his hand a full trick in this deal, he would have had left just a bare minimum opening. And with no suit fit and no jump bid from Mr. Champion, game was extremely unlikely.

Toronto Granites, Canada's Olympic hockey team, beat Sweden 22-0 in the Olympic winter games 29 years ago today at Chamonix. Granites went on to win the title with a 6-1 victory over the United States in the final. Edmonton Mercurys were Canada's Olympic title-winners last year.

Fort Prince of Wales at Church Hill on Hudson Bay was built by Britons between 1733 and 1771.

Lake Superior is easily the deepest of the five Great Lakes, with maximum depth of 1,302 ft.

Britain Seeks Russian Aid in Grain Shortage

LONDON (AP)—Britain has asked Russia to help her meet an estimated 600,000-ton shortage in grains this year, official sources report.

Ornithopter Ready For Trial Flight

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. — A flying machine with moving wings is ready for a trial flight at this southeastern Alberta city.

Called an ornithopter, the 280-pound machine made of metal and balsa wood has two sets of wings.

"It will be the closest approximation to bird flight ever designed by man," said James E. Caldwell, the inventor-engineer.

It was constructed by Hartley D. Shannon, a Medicine Hat business man who is an aeronautical engineer. It will be piloted by William Francis of Medicine Hat Air Services on its test flights.

"In principle," said Mr. Shannon, "if this model is what we hope it is, the cost of air transport would be cut down to the cycle class."

In appearance the 'thopter is radical in design from modern airplanes, helicopters and gliders.

Its main feature consists of the four wings or flaps which simulate a bird's locomotive and gliding power. Each wing is eight feet long and five feet from lead to tail edge.

The pilot sits front and centre and there are two wings on each side of him. The wings move one foot both up and down from normal position. Behind the pilot's seat is a 12-horsepower motor which Mr. Shannon says is more than ample for the lifting power required.

Russia hasn't said yes or no and negotiations are going on informally, it was stated.

Britain's shortage of wheat, barley, oats and corn came about because Russia slashed supplies from a yearly average of 1,000,000 tons to 200,000 tons last October. The coarse grains are needed for Britain's bread and to feed her animals and livestock.

In any agreement Russia is expected to keep the right—as it has done in the past—to halt grain shipments to Britain if Commonwealth rubber supplies are denied her.

Russia wrote this reservation into past contracts with Britain because the West's embargo on the export of strategic goods to Communist countries obviously had worried Russia. Under United States pressure, Britain in 1951 stopped rubber sales to Communist China. Supplies to Russia were limited to her normal peacetime consumption—about 7,000 tons monthly.

In general, Britain has maintained a rigid embargo on the export of war-potential goods to Iron Curtain countries.

She has paid above-average world prices for Russian grains, timber and fish because of her shortage of foreign moneys. The Russians in turn have used the pounds they have earned to pay for Empire wool, rubber, machinery and some raw materials.

Firm Plans $10 Million Oil Survey

HOUSTON (AP)—Woodley Canadian Oil Company and two associates plan to spend $10,000,000 in Canadian oil exploration and development this year. Announcement was made of the plans following a two-day meeting here of representatives of Woodley Canadian, Socony-Vacuum Exploration Company and Southern Production Company of Fort Worth. Woodley Canadian is a subsidiary of Woodley Petroleum Company of Houston.

Marilyn Sandlin, president of Woodley Canadian, said the 1953 program will include 150 wells to be drilled in five proven fields on a 1,000,000-acre block which the associates have under lease in Saskatchewan. They also have two other blocks of 250,000 acres each.

Sandlin said a major problem is a market outlet for the oil. The group may build a pipeline 175 miles to reach markets.

There were 35 wells in the five fields with production potentials of from 300 to 2,000 barrels daily from each well.

In addition to the 150 wells, Sandlin said, an extensive program of seismograph surveys will be carried out on the unexplored and un-surveyed acreage.

The afternoon crafts class was well attended this week, but Mrs. Holtby was missed when she couldn't attend. This is believed the first time that this keen craft enthusiast has not been to an afternoon meeting for about four years. The purses which most of the ladies are making should be ready for spring.

The evening class of teenagers was excited as the huge order with most of their wants and wishes in it was opened in time for the class.

Flowercraft will start next Friday and early registration is necessary as the class will just hold 12 persons. This class will meet for three weeks and then 13 more will learn the art.

Three flowers will be taught, one each week.

Square dancing is to be held on Saturday night in the auditorium.

Don't forget the band concert Friday evening with assisting artists.

Rowley Miles will be on the air with Miss Cross tonight at 3:45 and will discuss the UBC Extension Department.

Britain Begins Survey To Correct COL Index

By R. B. MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Government investigators will probe the domestic budgets of 20,000 British families down to the last penny in an ambitious survey to make Britain's cost-of-living index more accurate.

The sample families will be picked from all over the country and will represent all occupations and income levels.

They will be asked to chronicle every penny they spend over a three-week period and compile the information in a 20-page printed form.

Father will list how much he spends on cigarettes, beer, horse races, haircuts.

Son must tell how much he spends on Saturday dates and for what.

But it is all confidential. The Department of Labor, sponsors of the project, stress that no member of a family will see another's entries. Nor will any other authorities, even the income tax collectors.

For the trouble, each citizen will receive £1.

TO CORRECT METHOD

It is the biggest spending analysis ever undertaken here. A total of 10,000 families were checked in the last survey, made in 1938.

Object of the investigation is to correct the method of working out the official cost-of-living index which provides the basis for automatic wage increases for 2,000,000 workers in Britain.

A change in the system was advocated by a special investigation committee a year ago. The probe was set up in answer to criticism of the existing index.

CHANGED IN 1947

The 1938 system was in use up to 1947 when the government made some drastic changes to account for the most obvious shifts in British spending patterns born of the war. But that index was only a stop-gap.

Experts claim it remains more or less accurate, but only by counterbalancing—with such under-weighted items as rent, which was totally altered by the war.

—WEATHER—

Forecast

Mercy League To Observe 60th Birthday

An effective section of Salvation Army endeavor—the League of Mercy—observes its 60th anniversary next week.

Adding importance to the anniversary is the fact this branch of Army activity, which now operates in most parts of the world, began in Toronto, Canada. Sixty years ago few people took any interest in those inmates of institutions who had neither relatives nor friends.

This friendless host of men and women engaged the attention of Mrs. Herbert Booth whose husband, a son of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, was in charge of the work in Canada.

She gathered a small group of devoted women around her, each of whom promised to visit at least one institution once a week with a cheering and comforting message in word, song, or kind deed.

Today, according to the national secretary, Mrs. Colonel G. Best, there are 70 Leagues of Mercy in Canada. There are 802 members. Every week they call at 348 institutions.

To relieve anxiety Leaguers write letters or make telephone and personal calls on relatives. They take care of children, or keep a watchful eye on families whose breadwinner is in hospital, or perhaps, in jail.

To banish loneliness they distribute periodicals, and often sit and read them to those whose sight is failing or whose heart is too heavy for concentration.

Radios have been provided for those who have no other diversion.

African Tribesmen Fly to Work

By DENNIS RYAN

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Primitive tribesmen from some of the most remote regions of southern Africa, who until recently had only hearsay knowledge of flying machines, now are travelling to work by plane.

Their chance to fly has come from two "airlifts" operated from Momo in the KwaZulu-Natal province, a part of the Transvaal province, and from Lilongwe in Nyasaland, to Francistown in northern Bechuanaland for the benefit of tribesmen who want to go to work in the Witwatersrand gold mines, or who, having completed their agreed period of work, are returning to their distant homes.

In the first eight months of 1952, 13,500 Africans used these airlift services to reach Francistown, from which they travel by train to Witwatersrand. Since last August, there have been five flights a week from Lilongwe and three a week from Momo.

Both routes lie over wild country in some areas of which the Africans are living today under conditions no different from those seen by explorer David Livingstone more than 100 years ago.

After they are medically examined, vaccinated, inoculated against yellow fever, issued clothing, have their work contracts completed, they are taken to the airport.

Africans waiting for their low fever inoculations to effect watch the airplanes arrive and depart. Some pass the measurements of the span. Others poke the plane gingerly with their fingers.
