CAF Unit in Arctic Rescue

Parachute to Save Policeman

VANCOUVER.—Three Force men started out on an Arctic mission which will see them parachute into the North Territories settlement of Coppermine.

The RCAF said plans are for a pilot and two assistants to parachute into Coppermine to help a stricken RCMP man who was left there last night on a mission to pick up supplies. The plane will land at Yellowknife, on Great Bear Lake, and then strike for Coppermine.

Their destination is near Coppermine, some 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

Request for the flight came from a rescue co-ordination centre in Edmonton, a spokesman

Daily News Carriers Win Awards

The Daily News announces the winning prize winners among newspaper carriers returning the highest percentage of completed questionnaires in conjunction with the recent consumer index survey.

Prize of a Kodak Hawkeye camera was won by Christopher Harvey, for returning 92 per cent of completed questionnaires. Other winners, receiving Kodak Brownie Special cameras, are: Ronnie Hadland, 88 per cent; Marvin Starrett, 88 per cent; Melvin Bjornson, 86.6 per cent; Wilfred Erickson, 83.3 per cent.

The Daily News wishes to thank its readers for their interest and co-operation in completing the consumer index poll.

Historic Hill
TORONTO (CP)—A hill in Toronto, where rebel forces were halted in 1837 on their march south from Montgomery's Ward, is being levelled to make way for a commercial building. The old days it was known as "Hallows Hill" for a lone pine tree waiting for the ax.

Army Twins With Signals

THE SERGEANT-MAJOR at the Royal Canadian School of Signals at Kingston, Ont., has another problem these days trying to figure out who is who when he is confronted with the Johnstone twins shown above at work during their wireless operator's course. The twins are identical even to the freckles on their faces and are the sons of A. Johnstone, police magistrate at Sechelt, B.C. The 17-year-old boys are in the army under the soldier apprentice plan. Oh yes, that is Roger on the left and Robert at the right.

Intelligent Men Too Critical For Top Executive Positions

WASHINGTON (AP)—If your boss strikes you as being not particularly bright, don't fret. A smarter man might make a much poorer executive.

This advice comes from Dr. William J. Morgan, a psychologist who can tell you how to pick a man from anything, from a boss to a successful spy.

Let's look at the boss first. "A man of high intelligence," Morgan said, "often becomes impatient with other people's failings. He may be too critical, too quick to find fault. Furthermore, he may become bored with the routine that goes with every job."

"A man with a fine personality and temperament, but who isn't so bright, may do much better." Morgan, 43, said he had experimented with 13 students who were to take a course in the Russian language.

He got all the data he could about each student. Had he studied foreign languages before? Was he married? Any children? Had he won scholastic honors? Was he the ambitious type.

From this Morgan guessed what grade each student would get in the course. His guesses were sealed and kept secret.

At the end of the course they were opened and compared with the grades the students actually made. Morgan was right on the nose with 12 of the students. The 13th was scored as a near miss. Yet he didn't know the students, the teachers or the Russian language.

He said he began by assuming that each student was smart enough to learn Russian if he put his mind to it. Then he tried to figure how well each student would apply himself, how enthusiastically he would approach each job, how thorough he was. He added these somewhat indefinite factors together and came up with the conclusions on who would do best at studying Russian.

It still sounds tough, but Morgan had a tougher job while working with the British in the Second World War. He's telling about it in a book he's writing: "How to Pick a Successful Spy."

Morgan said some people won't do as spies at all. One daring fellow was simply too adventurous. He couldn't resist adventures with the ladies. Another was so unbending that even in peasant's clothes he looked like the professional soldier he was. By contrast, a rather unpromising spy was sent on a dangerous mission. From the start, everything went wrong. His parachute fouled up, and he broke a leg in landing.

He was taken to a hospital run by the Germans in occupied Europe. His leg was amputated. With this terrible start, the spy promptly organized his nurses into an active unit, and did his job almost literally under the enemy's nose.

NATIVE GIRL'S HONESTY SAVES LOGGER'S MONEY

A Prince Rupert logger who "foolishly" lost $140 the night before was greatly relieved when the money and wallet, turned up intact again.

It was returned by a young native girl who found the wallet and contents on the street near her West Ninth Avenue home. The girl turned her find into the police station.

Pulp, Paper Industry Told To Cut Prices or Lose Out

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian pulp and paper industry, which accounts for about one of every seven dollars earned by Canadians, faces vigorous competition in world markets, the president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said today.

R. M. Fowler told the 37th annual meeting of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada that the industry must concentrate on cutting costs or lose out in the export market. "I am convinced that nothing can stop the advance of this industry over the long run," he said, "but action taken now can profoundly improve our position or retard our progress over the short run."

In the last two years, pulp and paper exports accounted for 23 per cent of all Canadian exports. Canadian newspaper now totals 81 per cent of all newsprint moving in international trade.

Cold Storage Engineer Dies Suddenly

A well-known Cold Storage engineer and pioneer amateur radio operator here died suddenly yesterday afternoon at work.

He was William (Bill) Cumming, 50, of 667 Fifth Avenue East, engineer at B.C. Packers Ltd., at Seal Cove. He died of a heart attack at about 2 p.m.

A member of the Shrine Club here and the Tye Masonic Lodge, Mr. Cumming came to Prince Rupert at the age of 10 and attended school here. He was employed at B.C. Packers ever since leaving school.

He followed his hobby as a "ham" radio operator actively. His radio call was VE7DX.

Single, his only survivor here is a sister, Miss Frances Cumming.

Funeral service will be held at St. Andrew's Cathedral, 2:30 p.m., Sunday. Remains will be shipped to Vancouver for burial in Ocean View Cemetery.

BICYCLE CHECK

SASKATOON (CP)—Only 50 of about 425 bicycles were given a clean sheet when checked for safety at a school here. Biggest fault found was lack of a bell or horn.

Czech Workers Attempt To Oust Red Government

Pillage Town Hall; Raise American Flag

VIENNA.—Reports of first-class reliability say that rioting Czechoslovak workers stormed and pillaged the town hall at Pilsen last week and hoisted the American flag.

Reports reached Vienna from Prague today and were in part confirmed by Pilsen newspaper Pravda.

The newspaper said that rioting workers tore down pictures of Stalin and the former Czech president, Klement Gottwald, and trampled them underfoot.

It also said demonstrations had taken place "with the intention of overthrowing the Communist regime."

The riots, halted only by police action, took place in Pilsen in the days following a drastic currency reform that robbed millions of Czechs of their savings.

For many days there have been reports of disturbances, demonstrations and even bloodshed in Czech cities. Until now, these were lacking any confirmation that could be regarded as authoritative.

South Koreans Still Oppose Armistice Plan

SEOUL (CP)—South Koreans chanted, marched and wept through their fourth straight day of anti-truce demonstrations today as Allied and Red staff officers worked in secret on last details of an armistice that appears almost a certainty.

The stubborn South Korean nation and its unbending president—Syngman Rhee—gave no outward sign of changing their violent opposition to a cease-fire that would leave the battered peninsula divided politically.

However, truce appears only a matter of days away—the time it takes for staff officers to finish the final document in the morning and afternoon sessions at Panmunjom.

The United Nations command apparently is proceeding undaunted with its armistice plans in belief that South Korea won't make good its threats to reject the truce and fight the Reds alone.

—WEATHER—

A southerly current of moist air at high levels has brought cloud to much of southern and central B.C. and a few widely scattered showers are expected today. There will be some sunshine in most districts however, and afternoon temperatures in the interior will again be in the seventies or low eighties.

Tomorrow will bring decreasing cloudiness to most sections of the province.

Forecast
Variable cloudiness today and Saturday. A few showers in the southern part today. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Low tonight and high Saturday at Port Hardy, 48 and 60; Sandspit 48 and 58; Prince Rupert 45 and 60.

28 Per Cent of Workers Women

Women working at pay jobs now make up 28 per cent of the total United States employed, figures show.

If you're looking for good women-workers, place a Classified ad in The Daily News. Many of the city's best secretaries, saleswomen, bookkeepers, typists and other employees were employed through Want Ads.

Premier Holds Cabinet Meeting Confident of Sacred Victory

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier Bennett held a cabinet meeting here this morning following his return from Kelowna.

The premier was expected to discuss the election picture and future plans of his government which appears headed for reelection.

Only five of his ministers are considered certain to be re-elected, but Premier Bennett is confident the doubtful ones will squeeze through when the transferable votes are counted.

In Prince Rupert riding final first count returns from all regular polls have advanced the lead of George Hills, CCF candidate in the June 9 election, to 163 votes.

Hills now has 1,839 votes after returns from Osland and Oona River on Porcher Island were returned today.

Other candidates: Arthur Bruce Brown, Liberal, 1,676; William Murray, Social Credit, 1,563.

Returns from the last two polls were: Oona River—Murray 5, Hills 12, Brown 7. Osland—Murray 1, Hills 10, Brown 0. Election standings in the province now are:

Last Rites Held for John McKay

Funeral was held yesterday at Grenville Chapel of John McKay, 43, who died recently of a heart attack while travelling from Vancouver to his home in Stewart.

The Rev. L. Sieber officiated, and the organist was Mrs. J. Gilker.

Son of Robert McKay of Prince Rupert, Mr. McKay was born in Vancouver and came here as a child. For the past 10 years he has owned and operated Stewart Motors.

The pallbearers were Phil Crouch, Murdoch McKenzie, Gus Stromdahl, Doug Hague, Sig Hunter, and Les Tattersal.

LOGGER GRAPPLES COUGAR TO SAVE WOMAN'S LIFE

INGLEWOOD, B.C. (CP)—A logger who dared to grapple with a starving cougar with his bare hands was credited Thursday with saving the life of a woman attacked by the animal as she stepped from the door of her home.

A 24-year-old Indian woman, Mrs. Peter Coon, is reported in fair condition in hospital and the cougar was later cornered and shot by a predator hunter.

At the time the woman was attacked, her husband was out hunting the cougar which he believed many miles away.

Exclusive Club of 'Indians' To Maintain Highest Ideals

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP)—One of Canada's most exclusive clubs is the Kainai chieftainship, restricted to 35 members, all honorary chiefs of the Blood Indians of southwestern Alberta.

Formed in 1950, the organization meets only twice a year and is composed of notable public figures.

One of the chiefs, Earl Alexander, British defence minister, says the object of the Kainai chieftainship is to "preserve all the fine traditions of the Bloods, to broaden their knowledge so that they may, through an advanced system of Indian education, achieve that high level of citizenship for which they are so eminently qualified."

Earl Alexander's Indian name is Pit-O-To-Kon which means Chief Eagle Head.

Literally speaking, Kainai means "many chiefs" but the accepted meaning in the Blood tribe's language is the name of a Blood Indian band.

When the chieftainship was formed, it absorbed those who had been made honorary chiefs by the Bloods earlier. These included the Duke of Windsor, who was made a chief in 1919 while he was Prince of Wales.

The one vacancy open now is being held for Hon. C. D. Howe, federal trade minister.

Terrace Community Spirit

AN ASTONISHING example of community spirit was provided in Terrace this week when the Aluminum Co. of Canada gave the first public showing of its newest film, Prelude to Kitimat.

Since Terrace is Kitimat's closest neighbor and will benefit to a major degree from the industrial expansion foreseen as a result of the Alcan project, the film was something that as many as possible should see.

The problem, however, was to make sure everyone heard about it and understood the importance of the occasion. Co-operative as always, the weekly Omineca Herald gave good publicity to the coming event but, as several days were to elapse between publication date and showing of the picture, a strong follow-up reminder was advisable.

Under guidance of the Terrace and District Board of Trade, it was handled in this way. Signs were placed at the four corners of Terrace's main intersection announcing the event. The school principals passed on the word through their classes. The Herald pasted an announcement in its window beside the election results. Then on the day the picture was to be shown, five volunteer girls worked all morning and afternoon phoning everyone in the book as a reminder of the event to take place that evening.

As a result of this real effort, at least 1,000 of all ages packed the Civic Centre to see the excellent picture. When chairs and benches ran out, they improvised their own seating arrangements, and when these ran out, they stood.

It was another example of what is going on in Terrace. With every justification, the people there believe in their own bright future and are going all out to make it come true. The effect is as refreshing as a summer breeze. With a spirit like that, it is a safe bet that they will get everything they are hoping and working for.

Scripture Passage for Today

"Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus to seek Saul."—Acts 11:25.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Whether from long practical experience or simply because they are the possessors of plain common-sense, the ministers in the St. Laurent cabinet believe implicitly in the wisdom of the time-tested principle of putting first things first.

Hence over recent weeks they have given top priority—both at home and in the heart of the Empire—to the Coronation. Their contribution to its success has been without stint of labor or planning.

But the ministers in the St. Laurent cabinet also believe no less implicitly in the wisdom of putting second things second.

Consequently, through all the weeks during which the Coronation officially has been holding the spotlight, they have been carrying on with the staff work of the coming general election. Despite the absence of the Prime Minister and key ministers C. D. Howe and J. G. Gardiner in London, no time whatever has been lost from the important task of oiling up the Liberal campaign machine for the battle ahead.

The atmosphere of impending warfare has been made more realistic from the fact that the scene of many of the conferences on strategy has been the office of the minister of National Defence. As acting prime minister Hon. Brooke Claxton has been the chief figure in the decisions that have either been taken or are in the making. Of special interest is the fact that J. H. Pickersgill, whose status at the moment is that of cabinet minister-designate for the province of Newfoundland, has been the Number Two figure in the strategy conferences.

No circumstance has indicated more clearly the conviction of the Liberals that this time they have a real fight on their hands than the activity of the cabinet here during the weeks which the coronation has dominated. In addition to the succession of top-level planning conferences, the ministers have been spreading themselves—and incidentally, party propaganda—around the country wherever they can find audiences to listen to them. They report encouraging receptions from all fronts, notably Ontario, where they had been warned against expecting too great enthusiasm.

The picture of earnest bustle in the Liberal camp has provided a dramatic contrast to the suspension of all significant activity in Progressive Conservative circles in the capital during the Coronation weeks. With national leader George Drew and Ontario premier Leslie Frost both in London, the PC campaign picture has, resembled nothing so much as a particularly faithful study of a calm before a storm. The scene promises to change any day now that leader Drew is returned.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

Korean Victory Real

WHEN the history of these times is written the American intervention in Korea will surely go down as a decisive step toward world peace under law.

I call it "American" intervention for that is what it was. The UN was only brought in after the decisive step had been taken by President Truman. Only the U.S.A. had the military power at the spot where it could do the most good. Because the U.S.A. was resolute enough to use that power, to resist the Communist aggression in Korea, a half-dozen larger aggressions-in-the-making were nippe din the bud.

HAD Truman not taken the bold, big step I think the Communists would have repeated the stunt in other, more crucial spots.

Had they been allowed to get away with the sweep into South Korea, and had the UN been unable or unwilling to act in the Korean crisis, Yugoslavia would surely have been next on the list.

The pattern which existed in Korea before the Korean attack was precisely the same as existed in Germany. Had Truman not chosen to fight in Korea in June 1950 he would probably never have had the chance to fight in Germany in 1951—because everybody in western Germany would have seen from the debacle in Korea that resistance was futile.

WHILE the whole free world should pay a sincere tribute to two American Presidents, it is also possible to learn from simultaneous American mistakes.

President Truman was right to jump in quickly as he did in Korea. But there was no legal justification whatsoever for his simultaneous tie-up with Chiang Kai-shek.

All over Asia people saw that fatal photograph of General MacArthur bending low and kissing Madame Chiang Kai-shek's hand. That carefully staged photo told Asia, in a message more vivid than words, that in American minds there were two objectives: To make Sygman Rhee boss of the whole of Korea, and next to restore Chiang Kai-shek to power in China.

Britain, Canada and other countries allied with the U.S.A. immediately saw the danger and the glaring contradiction in U.S. Asian policy—trying to stop a war in Korea, while starting another one in China. Both Britain and Canada ostentatiously tried to detach themselves from the U.S. entanglement with Chiang.

But the harm had been done. As I pointed out in this column at the time, Asia thought of MacArthur's drive for the Chinese border through Korea as "running interference for Chiang Kai-shek." Korea seemed to them, the door-knob to China.

PEACE in Korea will pose a great problem in American-British Commonwealth relations.

Britain is publicly committed to admission of Red China to the UN "soon after an armistice." All the Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth have backed Churchill and Attlee in this general aim.

But meanwhile President Eisenhower has had to yield to pressure from the Senate and to promise that U.S. will lead the fight in UN to keep Red China out.

It is most unfortunate where the two main pillars of world peace publicly adopt contradictory attitudes from which neither can we weasly back down.

THE AMERICAN Medical Association, meeting this week in New York, was given a demonstration of color TV by Smith, Kline & French Laboratories, Philadelphia. The six-foot screen allowed viewers to witness a delicate eye surgery. SKF is now negotiating with proponents of closed-circuit pay-as-you-go television with the purpose of eventually bringing telecasts directly to doctors' homes from clinical and surgical instruction centres.

Truman Works Hard as Ever In Three-Room Office Suite

By CLARENCE A. JOHNSON KANSAS CITY (AP)—His office telephone is Baltimore 6160, and it's no private, unlisted number. The door to his three-room office suite on the 11th floor of the Federal Reserve Bank building is always open and there's a constant stream of people in and out.

As Harry S. Truman, ex-president of the United States, explains it: "Many people feel that a president or an ex-president is partly theirs, and they are right to some extent, and that they have a right to call upon him."

So Harry S. Truman makes himself accessible.

WORKING OVERTIME The man who left the White House four months ago is working overtime in his new job as private citizen, putting in as many hours as he did as president.

His mail sometimes runs to 1,000 pieces a day. There is constant traffic through his office. Some are well-wishers. Some want him to make speeches or just put in an appearance at some function. He gives them all a hearing.

He is affable; smiles readily, but when he says "No" there is no doubt he means it. He's always ready with a joke or quip. Some of his best anecdotes are off-the-record.

He looks the picture of health. He moves briskly. He talks the same way. His hair is greying, and receding a bit. For relaxation and recreation, he sticks to walking. As for a session of poker with the boys:

"I would if I could," he says. "I just don't have the time for it."

"I'm not commenting on anything in the way of national or international affairs. I want to be as charitable as I can in this period of adjustment for the new administration. I know what it is to be in that situation myself."

But for the 1954 congressional election campaign he is definitely on call.

A DEMOCRAT "I am a Democrat by environment and conviction," he said. "If they want my services I'll be glad to furnish them."

Much time is spent on his memoirs, which won't be published until after the 1954 elections. Although he has not disclosed what Life magazine will pay him, other sources have set the figure at $600,000. Life has sold exclusive newspaper rights to the New York Times and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE LETTERBOX

BOOSTING RUPERT The Editor, The Daily News:

Lately I have been reading quite a few letters in your Letterbox criticizing the Coronation Day parade.

When are people going to look on the better side of things and give a few words of well-deserved praise?

Being practically a newcomer to Prince Rupert, I for one think that the parade was wonderful. It is good to see, in this day and age, so many of our young boys taking an interest in Sea Cadets and Air Cadets. I don't suppose any of these complainers realize that the men who have organized these groups have taken of their own free time to make a success of their boys.

I couldn't help but admire the women of the Legion, the Wrens and Job's Daughters for their marching and despite the odd shower they just held their heads up and kept going. Hats off to the men of the armed forces, also the personnel of the armed forces who were in the band. The little school children who took part in the parade should be thanked and their teachers for helping them.

Now that all the personnel have been praised, we should thank the native bands which played for us. I think they would give very strong competition anywhere. Next, a vote of thanks to all the people who helped and took part in the floats. They were something to admire.

Last but not least we should thank the Kinsmen for making it possible for all the free treats for the children and also those who gave of their time by waiting on the children.

Everyone is always saying, "Be a Rupert booster"—well, folks, let's start now by saying it was a swell parade, the best ever. V. TRUNSON.

More Than A Million Canadians Pay Bills By B of M Cheque

Every day, every office of the Bank of Montreal handles hundreds and thousands of cheques. Some cover business transactions of millions of dollars, others are used to settle personal accounts of just a dollar or two. All over the country, people in every walk of life find it convenient to carry a B of M cheque book.

When you pay your bills by cheque, you avoid the time-wasting round of stores or offices. The stubs give you an exact record of how much you've spent, and your cashed and cancelled cheques, which your bank will return on request, serve as your receipts.

It's safer, too. If you have the misfortune to lose bills or coin, you may or may not find your money again. But you can't lose the money in your B of M account, and no cheque is worth a cent until YOU have signed it.

Ernest Paulding, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch at Prince Rupert, cordially invites you to open an account at his office. Try out for yourself the merits of a B of M chequing account. (adv.)

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor were not on the official guest list at the Coronation. Instead, they were in Paris. He had made it clear that he preferred being the third husband of Wallis Simpson to ruling as the King of England. That's not forgiven.

NO QUESTION

It is estimated there are more than four million birds in North America. By the time you start planting your garden—or maybe earlier—you will no doubt be believing it.

Seen in Literary Digest in 1899:

"The 'horseless carriage' is a luxury for the wealthy; it's price will probably fall in the future, but it will never, of course, come into common use as did the bicycle."

Strolling up from the SS Prince George yesterday, we were overtaken by someone who asked how we liked it away out here. Pretty fair, he was told, and we started once more trying to "place" the stranger.

"Must have seemed odd to you at first," he remarked.

"Oh, no. I've roamed from Rupert to New Brunswick, 'way down East."

"That so? And I've always been taking you for a Swede!"

Half a century ago Canada knew a little about Doukhobors—just enough to plant the idea that they would be the very people to plant wheat in the west. There has been ample time since then for Canada to learn an unhappy lesson. Canadians have discovered that the Doukhobor sect is nothing new in Russia, and that fanaticism can be a form of frenzied zeal leading to consequences the gravity of which is almost impossible to foresee.

Rev. G. C. Pidgeon speaking at the annual conference of the United Church in Toronto said marriage laws differ in every province, and knowing the laws of the province is as necessary as knowing the order of the ceremony. He believed the three main problems confronting the minister in dealing with such things were mixed marriages, runaway weddings, and divorcing persons. The core of every wedding ceremony should be the personality of the minister presiding.

We've not farewell Liberal and Conservatives for a long time by the situation is not that. For the day will come when the Tories will again be in power as they have in the past. Each possess principles of economic policy clearly seen in the building of Canada.

Paul-Pottle Rites Held in St. Andrew's Church

Joyce Edith Pottle, daughter of Mrs. Alice Paul, 704 McBride Street, and John Gardiner Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul, 118 Ninth Street, were recently united in marriage in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

The ceremony was officiated in marriage by her father, William Pottle, the groom's father, who looked charming in a tulle dress of nylon tulle with a strapless and tulle bolero. A white veil was held in place by a chain of seed pearls.

The bride wore a cameo pendant and a bouquet of red roses and white lilies.

Arline Pottle, matron of honor, wore a ballerina length yellow dress of blue tulle tulle and matching shoes.

Miss Jean Sharpe, bridesmaid, wore a length dress in pale blue and pale green nylon tulle tulle with flowered headpiece. Both carried colonial style bouquets of roses and spring flowers.

The bride's mother wore a white nylon print dress, and accessories with a pair of pink rosebuds; the groom's mother, a black and white accessories, a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The reception was held at the Ball Hall. A three-tiered wedding cake on a lace centrepiece was attractively decorated with pink and white ribbons and pink candies.

Certificates To be Given To Scouters

The certificates for all those who passed the Scout Training Course will be presented at a re-union party to take place at the Anglican Cathedral Monday, June 15, 8 p.m.

Mr. Anfield, Scout commissioner, said today.

Mr. Anfield also has application forms for those who wish to take the correspondence course, and for those who would like to register for active work as scouters next fall.

Cellulose Officials on District Tour

Cellulose Chemical and Cellulose Pulp officials of the Canadian Chemical and Cellulose Pulp Association left here last night for a tour of the operations at Edmonton and Prince Rupert.

Included in the party was Mr. W. Brown, vice-president of the Brown Pulp and Paper Co., newly-appointed executive vice-president of the Canadian Chemical and Cellulose Pulp Association in charge of western operations. Mr. Brown's appointment becomes effective in October, will have his headquarters at Vancouver.

It is reported that he was impressed with the company's development and progress in this region.

Company officers with Mr. Brown were M. W. Mackenzie, vice-president, and Weldon, president of the Pulp and Paper Co., who is a director, Charles Ham, director of forestry for the Columbia Cellulose Company and Celgar Development Co., who was also in the party. They will leave Prince Rupert by this week-end.

Wilted Lettuce Recommended As 'Favorite'

OTTAWA —When the department of agriculture, consumer section, starts recommending "that old fashioned favorite wilted lettuce" — it's time to investigate.

But wilted lettuce they said and wilted lettuce they mean.

And here's the recipe which should serve six:

Six slices chopped bacon; one hair cup chopped onion; one-third to one-half cup vinegar; 1 teaspoon sugar optional; 10 cups leaf lettuce, 2 quarts, broken into large pieces; salt and pepper to taste.

Cook the chopped bacon until it is crisp and brown. Add chopped onion to hot fat and saute the onion until it turns yellow. Now add one-third to one-half cup vinegar, depending on how tangy you like it and add the sugar, if desired.

When the vinegar is heated, add half lettuce, cover pan and cook until the lettuce is just wilted, but no longer.

Season with salt and pepper and serve hot.

FLUFFY, the kitten, wants everybody to know about her special feet, so she climbs up over a plate-glass table top to show that she possesses an extra toe on each tiny tootsie. Owned by 12-year-old Pat Moorhead of Kenilworth, Ill., the kitty will be a real terror with 24 claws when she grows up. Right now, though, she's just a cute ball of fur.

Mrs. Woodside Motors South

Mrs. G. P. Woodside and three children left today on a motor trip to Vancouver. They were accompanied by Mr. Fred Matheson, father of Mrs. Woodside, and Mrs. Lillian Miller, 1429 Pig-gott Place.

Mrs. Woodside and family will visit with relatives among whom will be Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Woodside at White Rock, B.C. Mr. Woodside was a long-time resident of Prince Rupert, having been connected with the Canadian Customs for many years.

Mrs. Miller will travel to Kelowna for a visit with her family prior to enrolling at summer school in Victoria.

CALGARY (CP)—For the first time here a Supreme Court judge admitted his son to the bar. William G. N. Egbert of Calgary was called to the bar before his father, Mr. Justice W. G. Egbert. The young lawyer was graduated from the University of Alberta law school last year.

Coronation Tea Held By Women's League

A well patronized Coronation tea party, given by the Catholic Women's League, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. M. P. McCaffery where each room had been tastefully decorated with portraits of Their Majesties.

Mrs. A. Brebner and Mrs. McCaffery received the guests and Mrs. R. Brett acted as cashier.

The cooking was done by Mrs. R. Fleming and Mrs. V. Garon, and making the beverages in the kitchen were Mrs. S. Dickens, Mrs. O. Wingham, Mrs. L. Evans and Mrs. L. Doiron.

Also working hard but enjoying themselves were Mrs. G. Fahy, Mrs. G. Wells, Mrs. D. Rowse who were serving, and Mrs. H. T. Ross and Mrs. S. Amour who were pouring.

The door prize, a ham, was won by Larry Bond, and the second prize of a Coronation plate, went to Mary Astoria.

Keeping YOUR Dollars at Par

One of the most difficult problems facing today's earners is concerned with the difficulty of buying dollars for future use which will, when used, still be worth the dollars that are paid for them today. We suggest that prudent investing in Canadian Investment Fund will go a long way toward solving that problem. Canadian Investment Fund represents a constantly supervised interest in over 60 of Canada's strongest companies. C.I.F. pays regular quarterly dividends based on the earnings of those companies. These dividends are automatically attuned to the real value of the dollar at any time they are paid out. Investing in C.I.F. is one of the surest ways of making sure the dollars you save today are worth the dollars you will spend in your later years.

Appeal to Halt Wismer Libel Suit Until Fall

VANCOUVER (CP) — Proceedings under Mr. Justice A. M. Manson's month-old "tell all" order against Blair Fraser and Maclean's magazine in Gordon S. Wismer's libel suit against them have been halted by the Court of Appeal until fall.

Mr. Fraser and his publishers are to appeal in September from Mr. Justice Manson's order that they give the fullest particulars of the libel the former attorney-general alleges was contained in their article of February 15, 1952, headed "B.C. Coalition Committed Suicide."

When he granted Mr. Wismer's request for the particulars, the judge stipulated that they must be given by June 9 or the defence would be struck out.

Senator J. W. DeB. Farris, counsel for Mr. Wismer, told the court Monday he is applying this week in Supreme Court for an order compelling Mr. Fraser to answer questions he refused to answer in a two-hour examination held in Toronto last month.

FRED ASTAIRE and his son, Fred, Jr., pose with justifiable pride beside the 222-pound marlin that the nimble-footed dancer landed in an hour-and-a-half battle. Astaire, his son and wife, brought in two marlin, two sailfish and four swordfish in two days of fishing off Guaymas, Mexico. Fred, Jr. landed a 141-pound marlin while Mrs. Astaire landed two sailfish on her own; one she brought in in a record 12 minutes.

Hotelmen Suffer First Loss

Carole Hurls Shutout for G-A

Pitching three-hit ball and rescuing himself from three threatening innings, Vic Carole led Gordon & Anderson to a 2-0 shutout victory and the first loss in 11 games by Commercials in a regular league game last night.

A tight game all the way with both sides threatening several times, one run was earned in the first inning, and the other, on errors, came in the last inning after a series of bobbles.

Gordon Cameron, hurling for Commercials, allowed four scattered hits, two singles in the first frame which accounted for the first run by G-As.

Bill Sunberg, lead-off man, teed off for a single, and after Young and Hartwig went down, Don Scherk, G-A catcher, drove in the run.

First real threat by Commercials came in the third inning when three men gained bases on two walks and a shortstop error. With bases loaded and only one down, Carole was in real trouble, facing the top of the batting order, Nick Pavlikis and Bill Gunn.

Both, however, flied out to retire the side.

A similar situation faced Carole in the sixth and seventh innings. Both times bases were loaded. In the sixth, Pavlikis pained first on a hit and Gunn drew a walk. Miner Simundson and Morgan both went down and Joe Davis, playing his first game of the season, was passed purposely to load the bases.

Simundson, playing manager, then put in Williamson to pinch hit for Glen Carlson, fire-base-man, but the slight and dangerous hitter struck out.

In the seventh and last inning, final attempt of a Commercial rally came after Bruce Simundson tagged Carole for a single. Pavlikis got on by an error at shortstop and Gunn drew his second straight walk.

With two down, Miner Simundson popped up to third baseman Don Hartwig for the final out.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
Poor Player Won't Take Deception Play "Bait"

Strangely enough, the better your opponent is, the more chance you have of fooling him with a deceptive play. The reason is that the fine player notices and remembers every card played. He draws inferences from the order in which his opponents play their cards.

On the other hand, a player like Mr. Muzzy barges right through a hand on a preconceived and unalterable plan—if indeed he has a plan at all. Your false-card or other stratagem which is meant to lead him astray is very unlikely to go completely unnoticed.

In today's hand Mr. Muzzy led the jack of hearts and Mr. Dale knew, from the strength of his own hand and the looks of dummy, that Mr. Muzzy almost certainly had no other face card. Therefore any deceptive play he chose to make would certainly do more harm to Mr. Champion than to Mr. Muzzy.

The queen of hearts was put up in dummy and Mr. Dale played the king. Muttering over the fact that the queen had not won the trick, Mr. Champion ducked. Now, the normal and usually the best return from Mr. Dale's heart holding is the deuce. But, in order to give Mr. Champion a wrong impression as to who held the long hearts, he led back the six spot.

Mr. Champion ducked again and Mr. Muzzy won with the eight and returned the king. The ace won and Mr. Dale played the four on the trick.

No matter how lucky he might be in diamonds and spades, Mr. Champion had to get at least one club trick to make his contract, so he laid down the king of clubs. At this point he believed that Mr. Muzzy had started with five hearts and that Mr. Dale was out of that suit.

He was delighted, therefore, when it was Mr. Dale who turned up with the ace of clubs. Mr. Dale did not cash a heart trick here. Instead, he led back a club.

Mr. Champion won in his own hand. Now, if the heart had been cashed against him, he undoubtedly would have given himself every chance by laying down the ace and king of diamonds and, if the queen did not drop, resorting to the spade finesse.

But since he had only lost three tricks, he decided to pay it absolutely "safe" by finessing diamonds toward Mr. Dale. Mr. Dale won with the queen of diamonds and, at long last, re-

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—We can tell you on some of the best authority there is that the transfer of St. Louis Browns to Baltimore will be approved when the American League magnates hold their next meeting in Cincinnati July 13.

The success of Milwaukee's debut as a big league city has altered the picture radically, our informant says.

Where only two clubs—Cleveland and Chicago—voted to approve the transfer last spring, the count should be virtually unanimous this time.

Some of the owners still will not like Bill Veck, the Brownie president, any better than the did in March and the feeling will be strongly reciprocated; but the rival league's Milwaukee venture has convinced them they are missing a bet. They like money, and they are not getting it in St. Louis.

One report is that a Baltimore group is prepared to pay Veck and his associates more than $2,000,000 for the franchise.

How wrong can you get? Only two weeks ago we assured all who would listen that the sands were running out on the Brooklyn veterans such as Jackie Robinson and Pee Wee Reese, that the club's pitching was shot with uncertainty and that things looked bad in Flatbush.

Since then Charlie Dressen's club has practically killed off the opposition—all except the Milwaukee Braves.

Roy Campanella, the team's sweet catcher, has stopped hitting home runs every day. But the team's "Old Hoss" has come out of a protracted slump to again become one of the league's most feared sluggers.

Heavy Rains Delay Crop Seeding In Prairies; Fruit Yield Higher

WINNIPEG — Further heavy rains in southern sections and at some points in central areas of the three prairie provinces again delayed seeding operations during the past week as a result.

Also because of the lateness of the season significant acreage changes will be recorded at points where rains were heaviest. The department of agriculture of the Canadian National Railways reports that the heavy soil in the Red River valley has been most affected by excess moisture, but other districts in southern Saskatchewan and Alberta show almost comparable delays in completion of seeding.

Warm, dry weather is required throughout the west to promote rapid germination and uniform growth.

OKANAGAN
In the Okanagan, weather was cool with several showers. Blossoms did not set on several varieties of fruit as well as was expected due to cool weather as well as damage to trees during the winter of 1949.

Present indications are that the cherries and apricots will be about the same as last year, with peaches up 15 per cent, pears 10 per cent, pears 15 per cent, the apple crop somewhat higher than in 1952.

Cool weather and rains have not damaged the cherry crop as this is not yet sufficiently advanced to cause splitting.

AS FORD MOTOR COMPANY moves into its second half-century, Henry Ford II, standing, the company's president since 1945, and his brothers, Benson, left, vice-president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury Division, and William Clay, vice-president and general manager Special Product Operations, carry on traditions of automotive progress handed down by Henry and Edsel Ford.

Ford Company Celebrates 50th Year As Many Pay Tribute to Founder

Eleven hundred birthday cakes in Ford of Canada dealer show rooms across the country will herald the start of birthday celebrations honoring the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Ford Motor Company in 1903.

On June 16 the dealers are joining hands with Ford of Canada and other Ford companies, subsidiaries and representatives throughout the world, in paying tribute to the late Henry Ford and the men and women—the pioneers—who put the world on wheels.

The dealer open house birthday parties are only one phase of the world-wide anniversary celebrations being carried out this year in 25 countries.

Fifty years ago James Couzens, a young Detroit businessman, had a hard time persuading his sister, Rosetta, to invest $200 in a new kind of concern called an automobile company that was being organized by a man named Henry Ford. Rosetta was skeptical. She didn't think Ford's gasoline carriage would amount to much. With great reluctance, she agreed to let her brother risk $100 of her money in the wild scheme.

In the years that followed, Rosetta Couzens Hauss must have scolded herself for being so cautious. In 1919, after collecting $95,000 in dividends, she sold her $100 interest in the company to the Ford family for $260,000.

The tale of Mrs. Hauss' $100 and how it grew is one of the many colorful stories that will be recalled by automobile men during the anniversary celebrations.

MAILED CHEQUES
Oldtimers also will remember the day in 1914 when Henry Ford promised to return between $40 and $60 to each customer who bought one of his cars during the next 12 months if sales in that period topped 300,000. A total of 308,213 Fords were sold. Fifteen and a half millions of dollars in $50 cheques promptly went into the mail.

It was also in 1914 that Henry Ford rocked the financial world with his Five Dollar Day. The prevailing wage scale for U.S. factory workers at the time was $2.34 for a nine-hour day. When Ford announced that he would pay a minimum of $5 for an eight-hour day, bankers and businessmen thought he had lost his mind.

Ford contended, however, that higher wages would mean better business for the employer. Time proved that he was right.

Cowboys, sailors and lumberjacks showed up in Detroit, looking for work at the Ford plant. When Ford employees went downtown on Saturday nights, they wore their company identification badges proudly on the lapels of their best suits.

RUGGED CAR
In 1903, when Ford Motor Company opened for business in a barn-like building on Mack Avenue in Detroit, the automobile was an expensive plaything of a few wealthy families. Henry Ford decided to make a car that anyone could buy and keep in repair, a car designed for rough roads and hard work as well as for Sunday driving. This was the rugged and simple Model T.

Ford was asked by his engineers how much space should be left between the Model T's front and back seats.

"There should be enough room for a farmer's milk cans," he said.

Ford was able to keep down the price of the Model T because of his assembly line, which lowered the time required to put together a car from 14 hours to 93 minutes.

Henry Ford predicted early in the century that the automobile would give the country good roads, making it easier for the farmer to bring his crops to market and making it possible for the factory worker to live comfortably away from the smoke of the factory.

His prediction came true sooner than anybody expected. By 1927, the roads were so good that the heavy-duty, high-riding Model T became outmoded. Ford then brought out his famous Model A, with a standard gear shift transmission.

GREAT EVENT
Frederick Lewis Allen, the historian of the twenties, called the debut of the Model A "one of the great events of the year 1927, rivalling the Hall-Mills murder trial, the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, the Lindbergh flight, the Mississippi flood and the second Dempsey-Tunney fight in its capacity to arouse public excitement."

When the car was shown at Madison Square Garden in New York, the size of the crowds broke all records for any kind of an indoor exhibition. Tin Pan Alley commemorated the event in a song: "Henry Made a Lady Out of Lizzie."

During his lifetime Henry Ford turned down several offers to put his business on the stock market. His son, Edsel, was president of the company from 1919 until his death in 1943. Henry Ford then reassumed the presidency, finally stepping down in favor of his grandson, Henry Ford II, on September 21, 1945.

Henry Ford died on April 7, 1947, at the age of 83. He was active to his last day. A simple and hard working man, who liked square dancing and practical jokes, he was one of the few Americans who became famous and successful without leaving his home town. He died at his estate in Dearborn, only a mile from the farm houses where he was born and where he lived when he was first married. His tremendous manufacturing plant at the Rouge, the biggest in the world, was in his home town, too.

After their grandfather's death, Edsel Ford's two younger sons, Benson and William Clay Ford, followed their brother into positions of responsibility in the management of the U.S. Ford Motor Company. Benson is vice-president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division and William is manager of special products operations.

Sea Monster As Big As Submarine

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—A tale of a sea monster as big as a submarine intrigued the maritime colony here.

Sam Randazzo of the purse seiner Endeavor, who is known as a good fisherman and a steady, hard worker, told the story in a letter to the Fishermen's Co-operative Association, whose manager, John J. Real, passed it along to the coast guard.

The coast guard, in turn, gave it to newspapers with the comment: "The coast guard is not concerned with the story."

Randazzo says that two weeks ago, in daylight, off San Clemente Island he and eight other crew members saw a beast, with a neck about 12 feet long, cone-shaped protruding eyes and, judging from the exposed part of the body, as big as a submarine in length.

"The Endeavor approached this beast to a distance of 15 feet," Randazzo said.

"It looked like something that would tear up our nets so I fired two shots into it from my 30-30 rifle."

"We were close enough to hear the thud of the bullets into the monster's flesh. It didn't bleed, but quietly submerged."

Randazzo said he and his mates had been reluctant to tell of the incident "because of fear of ridicule."

Real said he is sure Randazzo saw something out of the ordinary, because the fisherman and his companions are old hands who have frequently seen whales and are fully aware of previous tales of strange, unidentified sea monsters.

BASKING SHARK
In San Diego, Dr. Carl Hubbs of the Scripps Institution said Randazzo's description indicated the "thing" might have been a basking shark, often mistaken for sea serpents.

He said basking sharks, averaging 2,500 pounds in weight, have neck constrictions which give them a sea serpent appearance. A 45-foot specimen of basking shark has been caught.

SWEDISH CAPTAIN BLAMED IN DARDANELLES COLLISION

ANKRA, Turkey (Reuters)—The captain of the Swedish freighter Naboland Sunday was found "entirely guilty" of responsibility for the loss of the Turkish submarine Dumaniyar with 99 lives last April.

The Turkish commission investigating the disaster said the 4,000-ton freighter commanded by Captain Oscar Lorentzon was about 234 feet off course when it collided with the submarine in the Dardanelles on the night of April 3.

The commission said Lorentzon had not taken the precautions required by standing regulations in operation in the Dardanelles.
