Officials, Workers Greet Deepsea Ships at Kitimat

Kitimat (AP)—The first ship to arrive was the Saguenay Terminal's Canadian Flagship Sunwhit, out of Montreal, which arrived with heavy industrial equipment and raw materials for the Kitimat smelter.

Her 6,900-ton cargo is part of a 30,000-ton shipment scheduled to be carried by seven Saguenay Terminal vessels, before the close of navigation in the St. Lawrence river.

Consisting mainly of smelting equipment and raw materials, the shipments will provide much of the necessary material for the production of the first aluminum ingot scheduled for mid-summer next year at the Aluminum Company of Canada smelter here.

Fishermen in Port

PRINCE RUPERT (AP)—For the first time in 450 years Newfoundland fishermen have quit fishing.

Offered by exporters for this fall dropped so low that fishermen could not cover expenses. More than 1000 men stopped fishing last week after an announcement by the Canadian government that it would not come to their aid with support.

Baby Dies In Mishap At Cow Bay

A 14-month-old native baby girl was found dead in her bunk on her father's fishboat at Cow Bay yesterday morning in a freak accident following a mixup in time changes.

The infant, Dixie Woods, was found dead in her bunk aboard the Melinda W when Oliver Woods of Aiyach and his elder daughter Melinda returned from breakfast up town.

Mr. Woods immediately used artificial respiration and after failing to revive his child called RCMP. A doctor and coroner Don Forward attended.

Mrs. Woods was in hospital at the time of the accident.

Mr. Woods told police he had gone up town for breakfast at 6 a.m. by his watch, having forgotten to set back the time one hour. When he got up town he found the restaurants still closed and he and his daughter waited until they opened. When they returned at 8 a.m. they found the boat had sprung a leak, the water rising in the boat above the engine block and covering the baby.

The tide had receded and the boat was lying on its side partly submerged.

Coroner Forward held an inquiry yesterday afternoon and ruled that the baby came to her death accidentally from drowning.

Dixie Woods is survived by her parents and sister Melinda.

Funeral arrangements, in the hands of B.C. Undertakers, have not been completed.

CMHC Turns Over Homes to City Board

Effective October 15, the Prince Rupert Housing Authority—first body of its kind appointed in B.C.—will take over complete operation of 50 homes built here by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

This was announced today by William DeSilva, project inspector for CMHC here, who has been appointed inspector for the new $2,000,000 project now under construction in the Little Mountain area of Vancouver.

Mr. DeSilva has been here since May, 1952, and on arrival in Vancouver will complete papers authorizing the Housing Authority to officially take over the homes here.

Orme Stuart is chairman of the Authority, appointed November 20, 1952, by the provincial government. Other members are Norman Bellis and Mrs. Willa Ray, who hold office until December 31, 1954. Robert G. Moore and Hugh A. MacKenzie, whose terms expire at the end of December this year.

Victor Whiting is secretary-manager of the Authority.

Members may be re-appointed at the expiration of their terms.

All 50 homes—16 at Seal Cove, 22 in Section 2, and 12 on 11th Avenue—have been completed and brush and stumps have been cleared from lots.

The Seal Cove homes were constructed by Mitchell & Currie, and the others by D. Robinson Construction Company of Nanaimo.

None of the homes can be purchased by tenants.

Construction of the houses was started May 1, 1952 and the last home was completed a year later. All are occupied.

The first home was occupied last March 1 in Seal Cove and the Section 2 homes were completed this summer.

Mr. DeSilva was advised of his Vancouver appointment by J. McCulloch, assistant western

Condemned Slayer Granted Extra 'Time'

VANCOUVER (AP)—Condemned slayer Charles Mathews was granted six additional days of life Friday — because Canada's official hangman will be busy elsewhere Oct. 27.

Mathews was slated to die on the gallows on the 27th for the hammer-murder of Mrs. Los Angeles Smith in her Vancouver rooming-house last March. But Mr. Justice J. V. Cline announced in Supreme Court Friday that Mathews had been granted a reprieve until Nov. 2 because the hangman couldn't fill the date.

Mathews, a 20-year-old professional boxer, was known in the ring as Sonny Jones.

Dr. Sven Johnson said the Hollywood star was "absolutely getting better."

Salmon Fishing Comes to Halt

Salmon fishing in all mainland areas in District No. 2 from Cape Caution to the Alaska boundary was closed over the week-end, the Department of Fisheries said this morning.

The central and southern areas of the Queen Charlotte Islands are closed until further notice to allow escapement of fall salmon. The north area of the Queen Charlotte Islands is still open to net fishing, but according to reports catches of coho and chum are negligible.

The whole of the Queen Charlotte Islands area is open to trolling.

Failed to Notice String of Boxcars

SMITHERS.—Two men were seriously injured in the Canadian National Railways yard here last night when the speeder they were riding collided with the rear of a freight train.

In the Bulkley Valley District Hospital in poor condition suffering head lacerations and possible internal injuries are Steve Wolansky and R. V. Rasmussen. Both men, from Vancouver, are members of a CNR ditching unit.

According to CNR officials the two men on the speeder were proceeding into the yard in the face of a driving rain about 7:40 p.m. It was already quite dark and it is believed they failed to see the string of boxcars on the main line being made up for a train.

The impact of the crash threw Ramsden 30 feet to the right hand side of the box car and Wolansky 20 feet to the left hand side. The speeder was jammed under the box car coupling. The accident happened about 400 yards east of the Smithers station.

Medical aid was immediately sought and Dr. K. M. Leighton attended. The injured men were taken to hospital by Smithers district ambulance. CNR officials are investigating.

Critics Score Liquor Laws, Hotel Space

By STEWART TILLEY
MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Australia's chronic shortage of hotel rooms and her stringent liquor control laws are being subjected to critical scrutiny as the country prepares for a royal tour a few months from now and the 1956 Olympic games here.

Architects and building officials assert the country's hotel accommodations are 20 to 30 years behind the times while critics add that her liquor laws are even more out-dated.

During the royal tour, the shortage of hotel space will be felt directly in every state capital while the pinch during the 1956 Olympics will be felt most directly in Melbourne where the games are to be held.

But in every state capital right through every year, the prevailing scarcity of hotel rooms puts a damper on the plans of thousands who, for business or other reasons, would be on the move.

The cold shoulder given by hotels to people travelling from one state to another, or from country districts into the capitals of their own states, is a pointer to what conditions will be like during the royal tour.

Aggravation of the hotel problem will arise from Australians crowding into state capitals to make sure of seeing the Queen and her husband.

The general building program in Australia is so far in arrears that it is now generally accepted that nothing could be done in time materially to increase hotel accommodation.

But, critics say, if nothing can be done to put up more hotels, time would not appear an obstacle to altering the country's liquor laws. Under these, hotel bars close at 6 p.m. in New South Wales and Victoria. In other states they close at 10 p.m. Night clubs laws are only slightly more lenient. No liquor is sold on Sundays.

Chamber Makes Presentation To USS Captain

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce on Sunday honored the senior captain for Union Steamships Limited.

Headed by COC president Orme Stuart, a delegation boarded the Camosun on her arrival from the north and presented Captain John Boden with a silver cigarette case.

In a brief speech, Mr. Stuart wished the 71-year-old skipper "good luck and many happy days" after his retirement.

Captain Boden will end 48 years' service with the USS when he reaches Vancouver.

Accompanying Mr. Stuart were P. M. Ray, COC secretary; Phil Linzey, T. Norton Youngs, and Frank Skinner, USS manager here.

Among others who wished the skipper continued health was N. A. Beketov of the Department of Transport here.

New President of UN Assembly Is Woman of Many Firsts

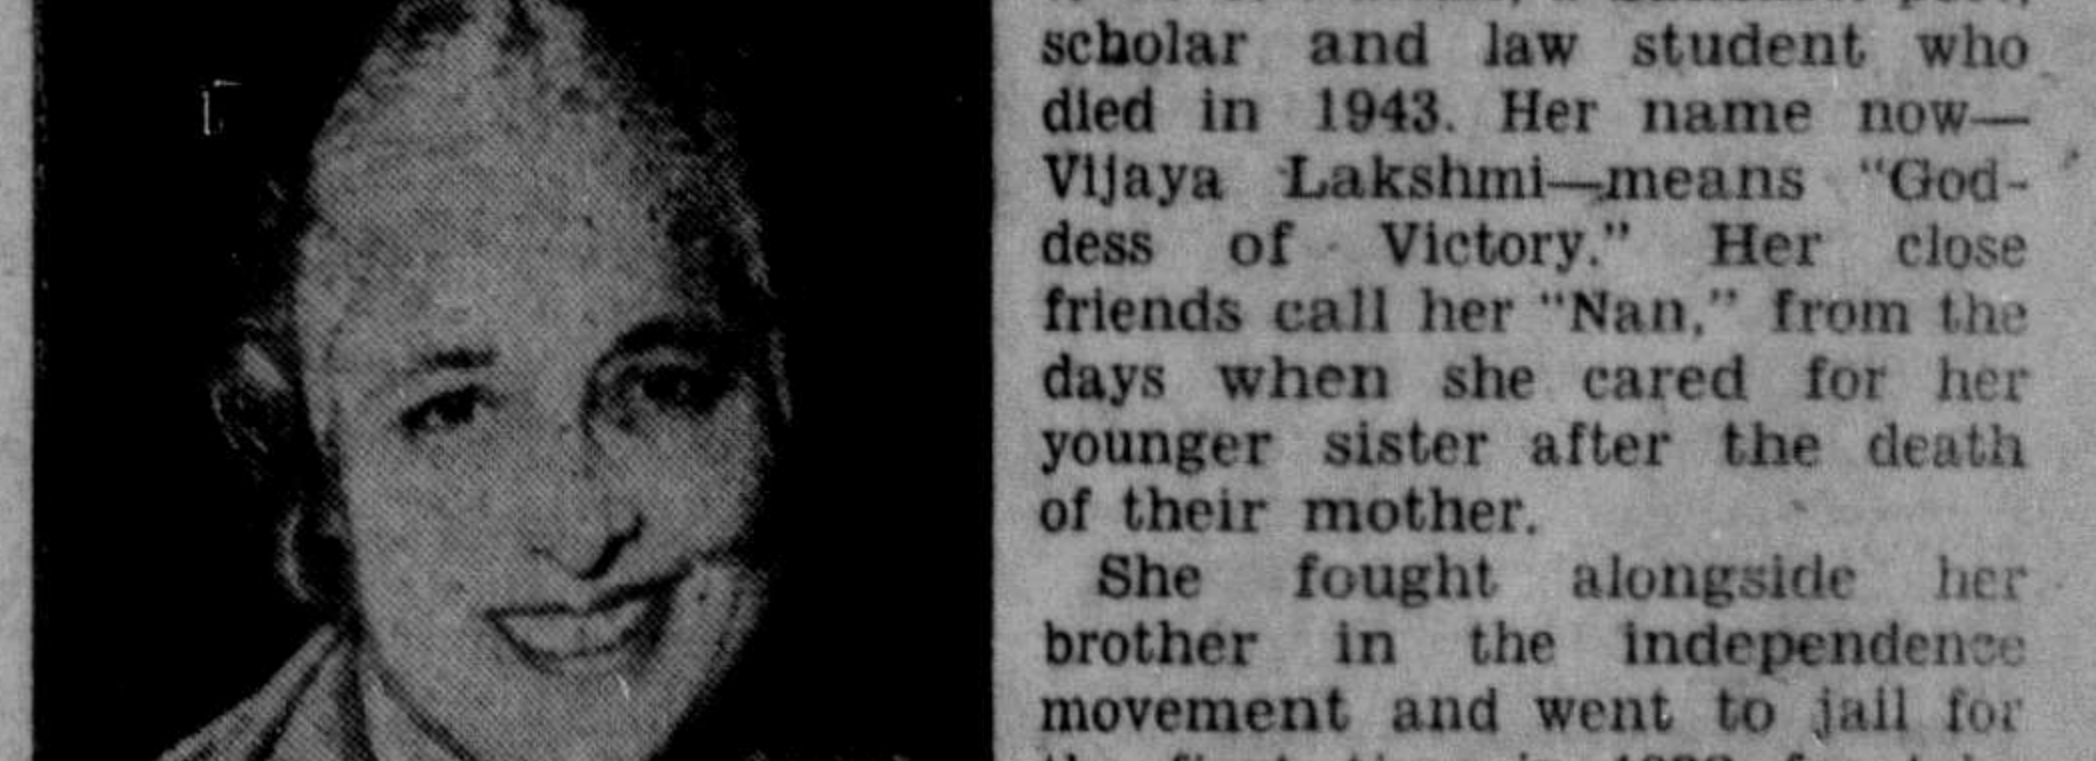

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The new president of the UN General Assembly is a handsome, grey-haired woman of 53 who has had a liberal education for her important role in world affairs ranging from the cold reality of a jail cell to the gentler atmosphere of a Swiss finishing school.

She is Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and a woman of many firsts in the fields of domestic and international politics.

An aristocratic rebel who dedicated herself to the fight for Indian independence with such fervor that she was three times jailed for participating in civil disobedience campaigns against the British rulers, she was India's first woman cabinet minister, her country's first woman ambassador to Washington and Moscow, the first woman to head a UN delegation, and now the first woman president of the UN Assembly.

But while leading her sex in so many fields of international affairs, she prefers to be considered first as an individual, second as a woman. She claims little interest in clothes and likes to dress in conservatively colored saris or simple but tasteful suits.

A widow with three daughters,

she devotes much of her time at home to her four grandchildren, an interest which has revealed to her a shortage of good books for children in India.

But also to have a world view." Born Aug. 18, 1900, she was christened Swarup Karum—Beautiful Princess. As is the custom among Kashmir Hindus, she was re-christened when she was wed May 10, 1921, to R. S. Pandit, a Sanskrit poet, scholar and law student who died in 1943. Her name now—Vijaya Lakshmi—means "Goddess of Victory." Her close friends call her "Nan," from the days when she cared for her younger sister after the death of their mother.

She fought alongside her brother in the independence movement and went to jail for the first time in 1932 for taking part in a demonstration against British and Indian government police. In all, Mme. Pandit spent a total of 32 months in prison. Her servitude is considered a badge of honor by Indians.

A woman of many interests, she loves flowers and good food and likes Broadway plays.

She speaks English melodiously and flawlessly and makes hard-hitting speeches at home in Hindustani. She knows the classics in ancient Persian-Urdu.

The fact that she was not given a cabinet post in the present Nehru government was a surprise to many who thought she wanted such a job. But she maintains that she prefers international affairs.

Repair The Drydock

ARRIVAL at Kitimat of two vessels of major tonnage carrying equipment from overseas for the Alcan project awakens the realization that the time is close at hand when this district will be visited frequently by ocean-going vessels.

Further long-haul supplies are scheduled to come by water to complete construction and, when the smelter goes into operation next spring, ships bearing alumina from the tropics will arrive almost daily.

There is reason to expect that Prince Rupert, too, will have a greater share in oceanic trade. Besides the possibility of Kitimat-bound vessels looking for return cargo here, there is the already increased activity of Prince Rupert as a grain port.

On top of this, there are efforts being made by the Central B.C. Associated Boards of Trade to have the federal government promote this city as a receiving point for incoming cargo. Noting that none of the 37 ships which took on grain here during the six months ended last June discharged any cargo at Prince Rupert, and that this port has an advantageous position relative to the Orient, their resolution calls for a closer study of the matter. It suggests that potential shippers of goods to Canada be kept better informed of the sailings of ships intending to take delivery of grain here and that Canadian representatives aboard have more active responsibility for disseminating this information.

In view of these brightening opportunities for attracting deep-sea trade, it is important that the Prince Rupert drydock be put into fully efficient working condition without more delay so that visiting ships may be assured of complete servicing facilities.

To those acquainted with the developing picture of activity in the northwest coastal area, this observation merely points up the obvious. It has been emphasized by politicians, shipping officials and others with less specific concern. What disturbs us, however, is that all the discussion has so far failed to ignite any spark of action. The wait-and-see attitude, so comfortable in circumstances where one is contemplating the future, is being exploited to its fat and complacent maximum. According to this line of thought, if the need materializes, then someone may do something.

Unfortunately, the drydock meanwhile is rotting away and the chances of serving that need are going with it. The choice between delay and action is all but gone, and the first is making the second more expensive all the time.

OTTAWA DIARY By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

Official Ottawa witnessed during the past week probably the most significant private function of the post-World War Two era so far.

It was an elaborate luncheon held in the spacious banquet suite of the Chateau Laurier. A half-dozen Cabinet Ministers sat at the head table with a representative turnout of the heads of foreign missions on Embassy Row. Another 150-odd guests represented senior government officials and the top level of the Capital's business and journalistic circles.

In brief, the gathering was the most impressive cross-section of the Capital's government, diplomatic, professional, journalistic and business life assembled, in the one place in a long time.

But if the guests were significant, the host was also a world celebrity. He was Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher of the world-renowned New York Times. And the occasion of the function was to both introduce Raymond Daniell and his wife, Tania Long, as the newly-appointed New York Times correspondents in Canada, and also to announce the paper's plans for vastly expanding its coverage of Canadian news.

To the ordinary individual the news that the husband-and-wife writing team of Raymond Daniell and Tania Long had been assigned to Ottawa probably would mean little or nothing. But in journalistic circles it is an announcement of major interest. For Raymond Daniell and Tania Long are the top correspondents of the New York Times foreign staff. They have headed its London European Bureau for the past ten years, during which they have trailed events of world importance in Paris, Berlin, Athens, Cairo and continental Europe generally. Their by-line on foreign news despatches is perhaps the most widely known of any in the United States.

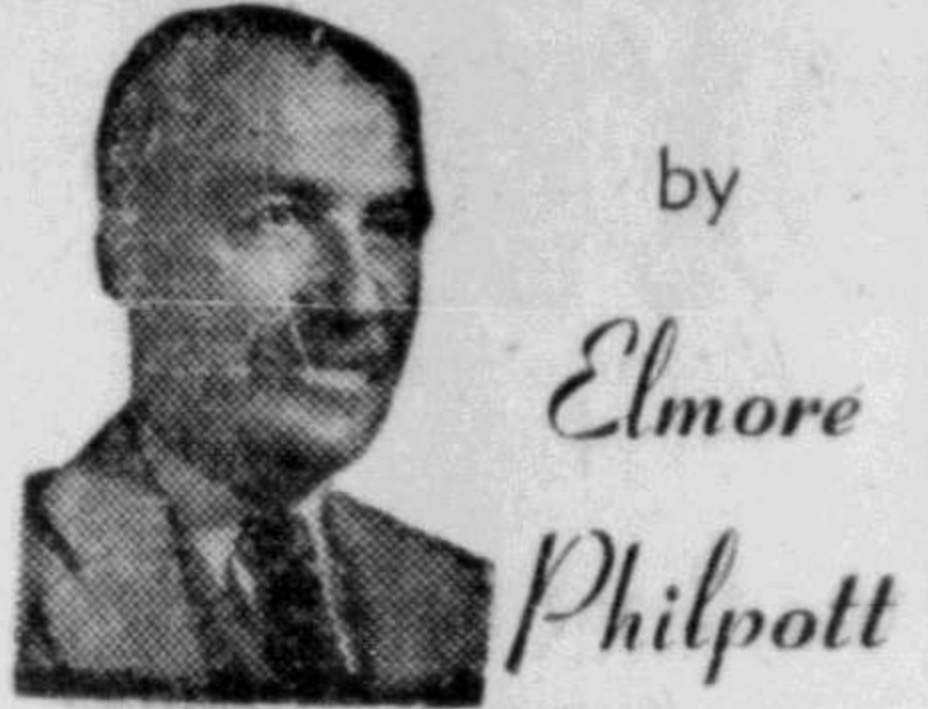

It is only a matter of a relatively few years ago that Ottawa news had relatively little interest for world diplomacy.

West Coast Opera

WARNETT KENNEDY is a Scottish architect, recently moved to B.C. in connection with the Duke of Westminster's vast industrial development near the city of New Westminster.

Those of us who visited the Festival of Britain saw some of Mr. Kennedy's striking work in the strong industrial buildings. His assignment was to tell the story of the development of industry in Britain, and he made a masterly job of it. And vast numbers of small boys all over the world have become "Space Ship Minded" partly because this versatile Scot designed and built an imitation Space Ship for the "Britain Can Make It" exhibition in 1946.

Warnett rather wistfully admits that he knew absolutely nothing about what Space Ships might look like when he was given the strange commission by a British government department. But before he could make a convincing looking Space Ship he had to spend months finding out what a Space Ship would have to be like if there were any such things as Space Ships in which we earthmen might take off for the moon.

MR. KENNEDY is a man of many parts—surely a new type of Scot without bagpipes. He is helping to bring to the west coast of Canada a solidly based international opera company.

The plan is to have this company play year after year on a seven-city circuit from Portland in the south to Vancouver in the north. The first 1957 appearance of this company in Vancouver will be on Monday, October 19, when Dorothy Wareskjold will sing the lead in "La Boheme." The "sold out" signs are indicated in Tacoma, Portland, Yakima, Olympia and Everett. It may or may not be true that west coast people are almost as eager to go to Grand Opera as they are to the newspaper-sponsored lectures by famous doctors. Perhaps the people of the six American and one Canadian city are so astounded at the thought that somebody intends to give them real opera, not just once in a dog's age—but several times a year, every year.

EUGENE LINDEN of Seattle is the general director of the Northwest Grand Opera Association. He points out that this is a serious combined effort by seven cities to produce opera on

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Every week-end, the CBC has been broadcasting Canada's wooden ship building era—approximately a half century. It tells a helpful and informing story, for there is still much left to describe. How many Canadian school students—and possibly some adults—know what's meant when you inquire about the Blue Nose fleets?

MARCO POLO

Long ago, before most of us saw birth, these ships, built and sailed by Canadians, voyaged the oceans of the world. All this did not come easy. In England, oak was regarded the correct wood for construction, but in this country other ideas managed to prevail.

WORLD RACES

The fastest freighter and passenger craft of the day, the Marco Polo, was launched with some misgivings at St. John, in New Brunswick. This was in the early fifties. It was thought there had been a defect in design, but whatever the handicap

U.S., Britain Reach Agreement For Atomic Tests

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australia today welcomed signs that the United States and Britain are drawing closer together on atomic co-operation.

It was learned here that highest-level agreement was reached between Washington and London for the dispatch of two U.S. B-29 "flying laboratories" to aid in Britain's forthcoming atomic tests at the Woomera rocket range. Australia announced today that the planes are due in this country today, and will help secure final data on atmospheric conditions.

The weather findings will play a large part in setting the actual time for the two major atomic explosions slated for early October.

Australian experts, who have been kept closely informed on British-American negotiations over the last months, pointed out this is the first break in the close security guard the United States has kept over all aspects of its atomic knowledge. Even weather data in the highly specialized field of atomic testing has security aspects. The United States is known to be far ahead of other countries in the development of equipment for atmospheric and meteorological observations.

Officials here interpreted today's news as a sign that the two countries may be taking first steps toward integration of their atomic research and experimentation programs on the same basis as operated during the Second World War.

No American observers will witness the tests. But scientists here hint that the Woomera explosion will provide them with technical knowledge not yet possessed by the United States.

It is felt that this will heighten Britain's bargaining position regarding a possible sharing of atomic information.

must have been an advantage. Her phenomenal speed couldn't be explained. Winning around the world races—the making of money—maintaining a prestige that knew no decline—the Marco Polo's record was without serious rivalry, until weakened and worn, her days ended. The circumstances were not without drama. Not on some strange, foreign shore did she lie, but back home—or almost there. The Marco Polo drove on the coast of Prince Edward Island.

ASSAILED JOHN A. Canadian shipping—in her yards and on the seas—was at its zenith when Confederation was being pushed in the Maritimes. "Why sell us to Ontario and out west?" cried the ship builders, "our future is here." And for a while it almost looked that way. Sir John A. Macdonald had to fight for his political life.

Canada's east coast prospered. Ships, ships and more ships from Cape Breton and Nova Scotia to Quebec. Young fellows who might have been farmers absorbed navigation and studied the world from San Francisco to Cape Town. Youngsters in many a down-east home attended school on the ocean and lost nothing by the change. In after life many could picture scenes around Melbourne, Hawaii, Bombay, Rio IRON AT LAST One of the largest windjammers in the history of the industry was built at Schubencadie (Nova Scotia) at the head of the Bay of Fundy. Her launching took place in 1873 or '74, and had a long and distinguished record. And thus it went. So it went until the inevitable, when iron vessels gained mastery. Today, Canada's marine business is vastly greater, yet it lacks something. Not in generations have blue nose sailors been sighted or their skill and endurance noted. Not in a lifetime have crews clambered aboard the Black Ball liners and sailed away to adventure as well as hardships. We have sailors today, of course, but they are different from those who went before.

GOOD BYE The alternative idea in ballet casting has long been a source of annoyance in British Columbia, but it's not going to last much longer. For this relief pray accept the gratitude of a patient public. While no downright announcement has been made at the legislative opening, the country knows the last has been seen of what amounted to a stupid nuisance.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

Edward Defence Beats Unbeatable Contract

The test of a fine defender lies in his ability to find ways to beat unbeatable contracts. If that is contradictory, see how wily old Mr. Dale defeated today's hand.

Opening lead was the jack and Mr. Abel properly followed from dummy and his own hand with the ace. Survey of his prospects led him to bring in hearts in diamonds to break the contract. So he led to king, returned a small card and finessed the jack. He won with the queen, and there was no way to trump by straight play. As you see, he was right. Mr. Abel had four diamonds, three diamonds, and already won and the hearts if Mr. Dale cashed up of spades, dummy's would furnish an extra trick. Dale realized the ace would be a give-up and actual return was the spades.

It is easy to say that the ace should be played from hand. But remember that you could see only his own and dummy. His first trick was to put up the ace. But suppose Mrs. Keen led with the ace and the spades. In that case, the play was to duck so the ace would block the third round.

Mr. Abel had a tough guess and guessed wrong. He ducked the ace, dropping hearts and setting up two tricks in the suit—enough to break the contract.

Mr. Abel should have put himself in this position. He should have played the ace differently, leading first and following with a diamond, hoping to duck the lead into Mrs. Keen's hand. You see, his reward for a correct play would have been full of the queen. Then he would have made an easy 10

FRIGIDAIRE Filtra-matic Electric DRYER

No toting! No clothes baskets to lug up and down stairs!

No tugging! No twisted ropes, no tangled clothes, no pins.

No weather worries! No rain, snow, wind, mud—every day is "sunny".

WON'T THROW OFF STEAMY HEAT OR STICKY LINT!
—thanks to the amazing new FILTRATOR!

See, too, how the FRIGIDAIRE AUTOMATIC WASHER with Live-Water washing gets all the dirt from all the wash.

Here's the washing companion to the Frigidaire Dryer—the new Frigidaire Automatic Washer.

Just set a dial to wash—and that's that. Live-water washing sends hot water and cleansing suds surging through every fiber of every piece. Out comes the dirt! And Frigidaire's exclusive Float-Over Rinse floats it up, out and away from your clothes along with the suds. Automatically, Frigidaire's super-fast Rapidry Spin whirls out far more water than any other washer. Then, the Frigidaire drains itself, cleans itself, shuts itself off.

Freedom forever from the clothes drying problems of Canadian winters! That's what a Frigidaire Filtra-matic Electric Dryer will do for you. No more chills bringing in stiffly frozen clothes. No more heavy lifting. No more unsightly clotheslines in the basement. No more waiting for a good "drying day" winter or summer. You dry your clothes any time—at the touch of a dial!

And a Frigidaire Filtra-matic Dryer dries clothes the way you want them... bone-dry for folding and immediate storing... or damp-dry for ironing.

And here's great news: you can have a Frigidaire Filtra-matic Clothes Dryer even if your home does not have "heavy" wiring. In addition to the 220-volt model, Frigidaire now makes a 120-volt model that operates on ordinary house current.

Ex-Premier of Egypt Pleads Innocent to Treason Charge

CAIRO (AP) — Former Premier Ibrahim Abdel Hadi pleaded innocent Saturday to charges of high treason and instigation of corruption before a special revolutionary court.

Hadi, Saadist party premier during the 1948 Palestine war, was arrested with 23 other persons earlier this week. He was the first of the group to appear before the military tribunal, whose powers extend to pronouncing death sentences. Others rounded up include former premier Mustapha Nahas and his wife, and Ibrahim Farag, former Wafdist party spokesman.

Hadi, who has held many high government posts besides the premiership, was accused of "high treason, conspiracy with foreign powers to undermine Egypt's regime," and various abuses during his term as head of the government.

Hadi's indictment charged further that during his premiership he had "created a rule of tyranny and torture" and taken action which led to corruption of the government.

Rites Unite Dick and Rita

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes were married here in a three-minute ceremony that looked more like a Hollywood press conference than a wedding.

The bride's two little daughters, Rebecca, 8, and Yasmin, 3½, sat on a divan while their mother and Haymes went through the ceremony in a hotel. The children kept turning their heads from the photographers back to the wedding ceremony almost as though watching a tennis match.

Former Rupert Citizen Receives RCAF Award

A Prince Rupert man has received a coveted RCAF award. He is James Evan Love, second son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Love, formerly of Prince Rupert and now of Vancouver, who received a radio engineer's handbook for achieving the highest marks in RCAF exams at the Provincial Institute of Trades, Toronto.

Mr. Love achieved an average of 93.5 per cent, and his marks in final exams were 88, 88, 95, 100, 100, 94. The course dealt with electronics and the theory of radio and radar.

Thirty-two years of age, Mr. Love was born and educated in Prince Rupert, and served with the armed forces in the Second World War.

He has now started another seven-week course at Clinton, after which he hopes to return to his wife, the former Francis Crossley, and baby daughter Marjory at Victoria.

45 Douks Jailed

VANCOUVER — Forty-five grim-faced and silent Sons of Freedom Doukhobors Friday were sentenced to three years—the maximum—for nude parading. Seven others got lesser sentences.

Sixty-four men and 57 women paraded before Magistrate Graham Ladner in a make-shift courtroom in suburban Burnaby following trial and conviction on charges of appearing in public while nude.

Of the men, 35 received the maximum three years, one got two years and one four days. Ten women were sentenced to three years, one to one year, one to three days and two to one day. The others were remanded one week.

Effective Living Course Criticized Again in House

VICTORIA — The department of education's effective living course came in for more criticism in the British Columbia legislature during the debate on the throne speech.

Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC-Victoria) said even pupils "scoff" at many aspects of the course that came under fire from J. Allan Reid (SC-Salmon Arm) in his controversial "sex textbooks" charge in the legislature just seven months ago.

Mrs. Arsens praised some parts of the effective living course but said much of it should be eliminated.

"Even the pupils scoff at the idea of sex in their schools... a waste of time in many of the effective living course," she said.

She called for an improvement of the course by Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Robinson.

She said opposition leader Harold Webster in his speech on the throne debate had said that communism is "not to be taught in schools." He had said that communism should not be objectionable as long as it was not advocated.

 The core and centre of the plan is that seven cities might support one good opera company, whereas one city alone has not the slightest chance to do so, on its own.
 The intention is to hold auditions in each of the cities with a view to giving local talent its chance to perform with a high class company.

THE ONLY temporary mistake that I can see these opera people made was to leave out one city which would be a "natural" for this particular enterprise.
 New Westminster bears about the same cultural relationship to Vancouver as Edinburgh does to London. That is, Westminster has fewer people but they are different, if you get what I mean. I am willing to bet that on a year after year opera circuit New Westminster will sell three times more seats than Vancouver on a per capita basis.
 Don't ask me why.

Clara Bellamy and Dan Wick Top Local 708 Kegling Loop

Clara Bellamy—with a 275 score—led the women keglers Friday night as the Pulp and Sulphite Workers Local 708 Mixed bowling league got under way and Dan Wick with a 280 had high single for the men. Clara also annexed the three-game high for the girls and Jim Perry was high-triple man with a 657.

Always WRINKLE-FREE Chix Gauze Diapers

WALLACE'S DEPT. STORE

The Woodbutchers' team had the top high single team game with 920 and also high triple with 2680.

Jerry Williams and Mrs. Way were winners of the draw.

Averages for the Pulp and Sulphite Mixed league will be tallied up at the end of three weeks' bowling and then play for points starts in earnest. However, any high scores made during the averaging period will be eligible for prizes during the season.

Any person rolling a "300" game becomes a member of the "Better than 300" club and will receive a gold lapel pin of crossed bowling pins. Should anyone score a 400 game they will receive a gold ring with crossed pins.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Except that they both like to talk and stay up late in convivial company, Casey Stengel and Charlie Dressen probably are as dissimilar a pair of world series managers as ever matched brain waves in the autumn classic.

Fact is, they don't even talk alike. Dressen, the cocky little pilot of Brooklyn Dodgers, talks plain English for the most part, although leaning heavily on the personal pronoun. Earnest men conversed with Casey of New York Yankees for upward of four hours and afterward been found wandering in a dazed condition.

Dressen is a natural-born gambler who almost never gambles on the ball field. He plays it by the book—the sacrifice, the stolen base, the hit-and-run. By comparison, his veteran opponent runs the Yankees more or less by ear, shunning the conventional and obeying his hunches, even if it means tossing a lefthander into the breach against a line-up packed with righthanded power, as he did in the final game of last year's play-off.

Casey does his master-minding strictly from the bench, whereas Chuck is cut there in the third-base coaching by directing traffic and stealing signals like mad. When Dressen goes out to jerk a wavering pitcher, he stays jerked. Stengel is more inclined to talk things over a time or two before he beckons toward the bullpen.

Casey believes in delegating authority. Jim Turner, his pitching coach, has the last word in rotating the staff, though he may smilingly deny it. Bill Dickey and Frank Crosetti, two former Yankee greats, coach the catchers and infielders, respectively, and Stengel listens to them.

Dressen's three coaches—Cookie Lavagetto, Billy Herman and Jake Pytal—all are former infielders. Charlie is his own pitching coach, though he never threw a curve in his infielding career, and his takes great pride in shuffling his staff about. Charlie is the complete boss of his little empire, and he leaves no one in doubt about it. If any mistakes are to be made, he'll make 'em, and he is equally ready to take credit when he feels it is due.

DIZZY CHANGES

Where Stengel is famed for his dizzy line-up changes virtually from game to game, the Dodgers' manager is of the old school which believes in finding an effective batting array and sticking with it, from lead-off man right down to pitcher. Dressen isn't afraid to shift his stars about on the field, as witness his conversion of Jackie Robinson into an outfielder this season, but he wants them to hit in a set pattern.

Stengel sits after each game and mulls it over and tries to figure where he might have done better in a given situation if his batting order had been a little different. It's a never-ending search for perfection. He'll even devise different orders to fit his own pitchers. For instance, he doesn't want Phil Rizzuto leading off when slow-footed Vic Raschi is on the hill. Little Phil is adept at bunting and hitting behind the runner, and these qualities are more or less negated when he comes up with a truck horse on first. Some think Casey is a deeper thinker than Chuck.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press
Andre Routis, the game little French featherweight, stripped Tony Canzoneri of his world title 25 years ago tonight at New York. Routis staged a whirlwind come-back in the late rounds to win the 15-round decision. Routis later lost the featherweight crown to Bat Battalino, while Canzoneri moved up to win the world lightweight crown.

King Clancy, Former NHL Star and Referee Confident of Leafs' Chances This Year

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. CATHARINES (AP)—"If I didn't think we could make the Stanley Cup playoffs I'd go home."

Frank King Clancy, the quick-tempered little Irishman, thus summed up his observation of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, the team he played with 23 years ago and will coach this season for the first time.

"They've got class written all over them," Clancy said as he whipped the Leafs into shape for the 1953-54 season at their training camp here. "They're big time from the water boy up."

Clancy, one of hockey's most dynamic players and later its most colorful referee, isn't worried by the fact that he's working with substantially the same Leaf club that missed the playoffs last year after shooting the works on youth and a new goaltender.

KIDS GROW UP

"The kids have grown up and the veterans are hungry," he says. "This may be one of the best Leaf teams in years. Why, we've got depth, a hot goaltender, a good defence and fast, classy forwards."

brought up from the farm several games last year, right-winger Ron Stewart.

The defence chores are handled by four holdovers—Horton, Jim Thomson, Ferguson and Leo Bowman. Hugh Bolton or Frank Mahovlich will be fifth rearguard.

Harry Lumley is slated for goalkeeping duties against the AHL. Bailey, 22-year-old native of Kenora Ont., went strong in training.

THE Austin A-40 SOMERSET

The delivered price of the Austin A-40 Somerset is an honest price. That low figure buys you a complete new car. There are no extras to buy. The quoted price includes such features (usually priced extra) as foam-rubber cushioning, wear-defying, soil-resisting genuine leather upholstery and an air-conditioning heater that will give you living-room warmth all winter. It also includes directional signals, non-stall electric windshield wipers, plus a powerful 12-volt electrical system. But that's only half the story. The other half is the satisfying, able way your Austin performs—at savings as high as 50¢ on each operating dollar. Try an Austin on the road. You can see through that wide, nothing-in-your-way windshield. You can match traffic at its toughest—and cruise smoothly at highway speeds in day-long comfort. And you can be sure of Austin service wherever you go. These are reasons why more than 80,000 Canadians now drive Austin.
