Closer Check on Prisoners Urged by Coroner's Jury

Death from natural causes, brought on by a cerebral hemorrhage, was the verdict given last night by a jury under Coroner George Dawes in city court, inquiring into the death of Charles Ed. 69, of Smithers.

ingard died Sunday evening after he'd been taken to Prince Rupert General Hospital where he had been transferred from the city where he was detained on a charge.

Jury also recommended the police be instructed to check on prisoners in city jail, especially those in a state of unconsciousness.

Dr. P. Charbonneau told the jury that he had been called to the city jail, evening August 2, to examine a man who had not been conscious for a long time. As soon as he realized the seriousness of the man's condition, Dr. Charbonneau had him removed to hospital by ambulance.

Dr. Brown, Q.C., questioned witnesses on behalf of the city of Prince Rupert. ingard, the doctor said, had a coma and he diagnosed it as a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. W. R. S. Wilson, who performed a post mortem on the body of the deceased, confirmed Dr. Charbonneau's diagnosis, and told the jury of the severity of the hemorrhage. He testified that he had also examined the heart and lungs of Mr. Ingard and had found nothing wrong.

He told Mr. Hogarth that cerebral hemorrhages occur in certain groups and that such cases require immediate attention. However, he said, very rarely can anything be done to save the victim.

Kang Chi Wo, proprietor of the Rex cafe told the jury that the deceased had come into his restaurant and ordered chow mein about 9:30 on Saturday, August 1, and had later been seen slumped over the table in a booth. He said that he thought the man was asleep and that he was too busy to check too closely on him. He said that about 1:30 the RCMP

Cities Wrecked By Quakes

By The Associated Press
ATHENS.—The Greek government rushed aid today to a group of Ionian Sea islands devastated by a series of earthquakes.

The official death toll stood at 150, but survivors predicted it would top 400. The navy ministry announced that the landing ship Alfeios reached the ravaged island of Kefallinia Tuesday night with medical personnel and emergency supplies.

Prime Minister Alexander Papagos promised all possible government aid would be speeded to the homeless survivors of the tragedy.

Kefallinia and its neighboring islands off the west-central Greek coast have been rocked by a wave of recurring quakes since Monday. The fourth tremor in three days shook the area Tuesday night.

Scattered and fragmentary reports told of whole towns being destroyed.

The quakes knocked out most communications with the islands, but witnesses reaching the mainland said the town of Samis, on Kefallinia, had been completely wiped out. Samis was an important centre in ancient Greek days.

All buildings in the port of Ithaca, on nearby Ithaca Island, were reported destroyed. The island was the legendary home of the Homeric Greek hero, Ulysses. The port has a population of 8,400.

The main port of the island of Zakynthos, a town of 11,315 persons, was reported 75 per cent destroyed.

Girls Ordered To Leave Town

Suspended sentences of six months were handed out this morning to a young native and two juvenile girls for being members of an unlawful assembly outside the city hall on Sunday, August 2.

The sentence was meted out in adult court by Magistrate W. D. Vance.

James Duncan Ryan was released to the personal custody of Major W. C. Poulton of the Salvation Army.

The two girls were bound over on their own recognizance for six months and told to make arrangements to leave Prince Rupert.

The magistrate was particularly irate at the girls, he said, because they had used the names of two innocent girls.

The girls appeared in adult court last Thursday because they had given their ages to police as 18. They used the names of Nancy Conrod and Diane Miller, two girls who were still in Nanaimo.

Yesterday, they appeared in juvenile court and were transferred to adult court because of the serious charge. They were then identified as Tania Bajkoc and Gwen Lewis.

Magistrate Vance said he hoped the pair would attempt to make amends to the two girls whose names they had used, as the names had "been bandied" across Canada by the radio and the press.

T. W. Brown, Q.C., prosecutor, told court that due to the "extreme youth" of the trio, the Crown would forego its rights on this indictable offence and allow accused to elect trial and enter pleas.

Magistrate Vance told the boy and two girls that they could choose to be tried by him, elect to be tried by County court judge or be tried by jury.

Mrs. Willa Ray, appearing on behalf of Ryan and Doug Hogarth on behalf of the girls, said the three wished to be tried by Mr. Vance. All pleaded guilty.

Mr. Brown said that in view of the childishness of the girls' actions, the Crown was prepared to recommend suspended sentences.

Mrs. Ray said her client had merely watched the unlawful assembly and had taken no active part. Mr. Hogarth said his two clients had committed no overt act and that arrangements had been made for the two girls to leave town.

Magistrate Vance said he would accede to the wishes of counsel, but warned the trio that if at any time they got into trouble during the next six months they would be brought before the court again and charged with a breach of their sentence.

Pipeline Crews Moved to Fraser Valley

VANCOUVER.—Construction crews working on Trans Mountain Oil Pipeline project have moved into the Fraser River Valley on the last lap of the 718-mile system between Edmonton and Vancouver.

Machinery released from a completed section near Edmonton has been moved to the Fraser Valley.

In order to maintain schedule and complete the line by the first week in September it will be necessary to lay more than one mile per day. For this reason two ditching machines are in operation. One is working east from Burnaby Tank Farm and one is working east from Port Mann.

Nearly 1,000,000 barrels of oil are now in storage at Edmonton tank farm preparatory to filling the line.

Pump stations have been tested at Edmonton and Kamloops. Burnaby tanks will be completed by October 1.

Drivers Switched Court Told

Trial of Kenneth Bruce

Harris, charged with impaired driving following an accident near the Totem Theatre on Saturday, July 18, was adjourned until later today, after police evidence was heard this morning in police court.

The charge against Harris arose out of an accident when a car driven by the accused was in collision with an elderly man, Titus Campbell, who was in the company of a young girl, Judy McCartenay at the time. Mrs. Willa Ray, appearing for Harris, entered a plea of not guilty.

RCMP Constable Wasson told court he had been called to the scene of the accident at the corner of Third Avenue and First Street on the night of July 18 and found the accused sitting on the right hand side of a car parked on the south side of Third Avenue. Harris, he said, was sitting beside George Norman Turner who was behind the wheel of the car when he arrived on the scene.

ON SIDEWALK

After arresting Turner, who at the time he believed to be the driver of the car, Const. Wasson said that he returned from the police van to find Harris out of the car on the sidewalk. He said the accused smelled of liquor, was unsteady on his feet and he attempted to place Harris under arrest for intoxication under the Indian Act.

He denied grabbing Harris by the neck but stated that he had considerable trouble getting Harris to the police car because the accused refused to move. He said that Const. Evans and himself were forced to move Harris bodily to the police van, and that Harris had hit him. Const. Evans confirmed the evidence given by Const. Wasson and said there was difficulty in making the arrest.

NO LICENCE

RCMP Const. Hill said that the following morning, he had overheard Harris talking to Turner and admit that he (Harris) had been the driver of the car at the time of the accident. A charge of impaired driving was then laid. He heard this, he said, in presence of Mrs. Willa Ray, Harris' counsel. He also heard the accused state that he had changed places with Turner because he was not in possession of a driver's licence.

Court was adjourned until this afternoon when evidence of Titus Campbell, victim of the accident, will be heard.

An Unpretentious Man

ALTHOUGH it is impossible to determine just how much the Prime Minister's personal influence affected voting in the federal election, there can be no doubt that this exceptional man is one of the important reasons why the Liberals continue to have such decisive control at Ottawa.

He has three qualifications in particular which explain to some degree his remarkable success as a Canadian leader. The first is that he is a member of the French race who can speak with equal fluency in the country's two principal languages. Those who listened to the radio Monday just after the polls closed here and heard that a government was already elected had a first-hand example of the power of the French vote in Quebec.

There is nothing sinister or unfair about this. The individual voter there carries no more or less weight than anyone else. But it stands to reason the French-speaking inhabitants of that province are apt to favor a leader who can talk their language in every sense of the phrase.

Second on the Prime Minister's list of qualifications is that he is a lawyer with a brilliant trained mind. The politician with legal training has an immediate advantage in that he is doing on the floor of the House almost precisely what he would do in a courtroom. He is trying to deliver a convincing case. Mr. St. Laurent's personal effectiveness as a lawyer is reflected in his present performance.

Third among his qualifications—and perhaps the most important of all—is that he is an unpretentious man who seems as well suited to be father and grandfather as to be Prime Minister. In contrast, his chief opponent, George Drew, does not have this quality. Although a leader of pronounced ability and accomplishment, Mr. Drew simply does not have his rival's gift of getting down to a comfortable, approachable level.

Although other reasons for Mr. St. Laurent's success undoubtedly can be found, these are sufficient in our opinion to mark him as one of the great Canadian Prime Ministers of all time.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

The world is full of good men who, as boys made plenty of mischief. Only then they had to be assisted in getting rid of what was called wild oats. That's much better than "juvenile delinquency."

COMING AT RIGHT TIME

Near Panama hats or no hats, light clothing and shoes appear to be more frequently worn in Prince Rupert just now, although weather can hardly be called warm. It's pleasant, which is better. But should you fear feeling sticky and itchy before winter just remember that Canberra in Australia is to have a record smashing wool crop.

LIONEL BERTRAND, Liberal candidate in the Quebec constituency of Terrebonne, smiles happily after receiving word of his election by acclamation into the House of Commons. Mr. Bertrand's only opponent, a Progressive Conservative, withdrew from the federal contest, thus making Mr. Bertrand the first candidate elected in last Monday's federal election.

JUST KEPT ON

L. E. Russell, editor of the Mid-Ocean News of Hamilton, Bermuda, is dead. He had spent about half his lifetime employed on papers in Winnipeg and Montreal—two of Canada's oldest cities. One would think, after making the sort of change Mr. Russell did, he would stick around a while. Imagine the contrasts in climate.

This column last week told about Fred Hardy joining the GTP steamer Prince George when the first war broke out in 1914. The vessel had been converted into a hospital ship. This was correct, except with one grave exception. It was Bill Rance, his business partner who joined the Prince George. These little errors will occur despite everything, and so, with all made clear, we'll pass on to the next order of business.

It now appears that periodic "health tests" are recommended for automobiles. But it will not be the pedestrians who will risk becoming run down.

KEEP AN EYE OPEN

A scheme for reducing the power of Niagara Falls after dark is being studied. The power, or regulation of the falling water as we all realize, must be tremendous. In fact, we feel sympathy for the poor engineer, lying awake trying to remember whether he turned off the Falls before he went off duty.

New Waltari Book

THE FINNISH author Mika Waltari is one of the most prolific of our times.

His novel "The Egyptian" is one of the most powerful written in this century. It is not only a cracking good love story, but its theme is also one of mighty power.

What happens in an empire when the emperor is a reformer too far ahead of his time?

Now Waltari has written another fine novel. It is not as good a book as "The Egyptian" by a long shot, but it is better than most of his others of recent years.

It is "THE DARK ANGEL," published by Thomas Allen at $4.00. It deals with the conquest of Constantinople by the Turks some five centuries ago. But the background of the fall of the city is symbolic of much of the background in the power politics of today.

Waltari is a mystic with a strong belief in re-incarnation. Thus he makes his hero of "The Dark Angel" a man with a conviction that he has known his love-at-first-sight beloved in some previous life.

There is a strong sense of doom through the whole book. You feel the certainty of the fall of the city long before it actually happens. But you feel it above all because of the deadly division inside the ranks of the defenders.

Constantinople of course was the capital of the last Greece. For a long time Rome and Constantinople had been fierce rivals for supremacy. In the end Rome won out and Constantinople lost out. But the story deals with the psychological aftermath of that outcome.

The proud Greek aristocrats were so bitterly resentful at having to bow to Rome that they secretly welcomed the Turkish conquest, and indeed some of them actually acted as its fifth column.

In our own times we have seen nations go down, as France went down in 1940, as a part consequence of the idea "Better Hitler Than Blum." But if Waltari is an accurate portrayer of the fall of Constantinople its top men were saying in 1452 what Vichy-minded Frenchmen said five centuries later.

The earlier version was: "Better the Turkish turban than the Papal Mitre."

All through the book you have the feeling that Waltari is using the jealousy between Rome and Constantinople in the old days to warn of the jealousy between Britain and the U.S.A. today—with Britons now playing the role that the Greeks played in earlier times; and with the less cultured but more powerful Americans now representing the more powerful Romans of earlier centuries.

There were crude signs "Latins Go Home" away back in the last days of Constantinople's glory, just as there are "Yankee Go Home" signs today. Yet the Latins were there to keep out the Turks.

As a patriotic Finn, Waltari may not be able to write as directly about Russia as he might. If his own homeland were thousands of miles removed from the border of the Soviet.

But in this novel one gets the impression that he is saying to the west "Watch Out"—or the fall of Constantinople will be a small scale model of the fall of western Europe.

CONSUMER PRICE INDICES

THE CONSUMER PRICE INDEX rose half a point in June to 115.4 from 114.9 under the impact of a seasonal increase in food costs and higher prices for clothing, rent and other commodities, the bureau of statistics reports. It was the second consecutive monthly rise following a steady half-year of decline. The dotted line shows the United States consumer price index which advanced between mid-May and mid-June to a record 114.5 of the 1947-49 average.

Crisis Developing Between Coal Producers in U.S.

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—A crisis is building up in the United States coal fields today even while the huge bituminous coal industry is on the doorstep of a glowing future.

The collapse of war-swollen markets, increased mechanization of mines and competition of oil and gas have shaken an industry sprawling across 31 states with its hearts in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky. But one segment has been hit hardest.

The immediate crisis is developing among the high-cost producers and the smaller independent who sell on the open market. They are being squeezed in the fight for markets which have shrunk to a little more than 400,000,000 tons compared to the record 1947 production of 630,600,000 tons.

For the first time in history, king coal has been deposed as the major source of energy for the United States. Oil has moved into the lead. Last year, according to U.S. bureau of mines statistics, coal supplied 34 per cent of energy needs (once it supplied 35 per cent) while petroleum supplied 39.4 per cent, natural gas 22.5 per cent and water power 4.1 per cent.

MANY UNEMPLOYED
Already thousands of miners are jobless or working only two or three days a week. Some coal regions have reached or are approaching a depression state.

There is bitter and increased grumbling from hard-hit producers that John L. Lewis is "pricing coal out of the market" by his successful demands for higher wages and benefits for United Mine Workers members.

Mine union chiefs deny the troubles can be traced to wage increases. They insist coal companies individually will live or die on their own ability to increase efficiency and thus lower production costs.

PREFER LOWER PAY
Some union leaders say the steady trend toward mechanization will force out the high-cost and inefficient producers. They say frankly they would prefer a smaller industry with high wage standards to a big industry with low pay.

Against this picture of immediate hardship, there is the contrast of a bright future seen by coal's own economists.

These forecasts are based on the expectation that U.S. population will climb from today's 154,000,000 to 190,000,000 by 1975—and that industrial production will double by 1975 to meet the demands of this population.

Much of coal's future is expected to lie in supplying fuel to fire the steel plants and electric utility steam plants. It is estimated steel production will rise from 105,000,000 ingot tons produced in 1951 to 150,000,000 tons in 1975.

Gas and liquid fuel can be made from coal. The processes are not yet economically competitive. However, coal men have estimated that 120,000,000 tons may one day be used in a synthetic liquid fuels industry.

Malenkov Weathers Power Struggle Inside Kremlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Malenkov has successfully weathered a grim power struggle inside the Kremlin and now stands virtually unchallenged as Russia's ruler.

This is the carefully-considered view of senior U.S. foreign affairs experts who have been watching developments within the Soviet Union since Premier Stalin's death.

Active support by powerful Red Army leaders, they said, probably was a deciding factor in maintaining Malenkov's power despite widespread uncertainty after the sudden purge of deputy-premier Lavrenty Beria.

MAY PLEDGE LOYALTY

It would be no surprise to these American experts if in the coming weeks Malenkov's most prominently mentioned rival, Foreign Minister Molotov and his defence minister, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin publicly avow their loyalty to Malenkov.

A closing of ranks within the Soviet high command, in their view, does not rule out potential unrest within Russia and the satellite world later. But it does plainly indicate that Malenkov now is definitely top man at the Kremlin and director of the Communist network stretching throughout the world.

The conclusion that Malenkov has won his battle, at least temporarily, stems partly from the tone and content of his recent speech to the Soviet Parliament. He scolded Communist party chiefs and talked like a man completely confident of his position.

George Kennan, former American ambassador to Moscow, meanwhile predicted in a speech that "revolution eventually would break out" in the Soviet orbit.

He told a university seminar here Russia's structure is "faced today with severe strains and crisis" and said: "It will eventually earn the retribution it so richly deserves."

Kennan cautioned against any American government interference in Soviet affairs at this time, lest it unify the Communist world and prevent the revolt he foresees.

Kennan, author of the Truman administration's "policy of containment" toward Russia, thus took issue with the Eisenhower administration's policy of aid to Russia's satellites by every peaceful means to help them throw off the Communist yoke.

South Korea To Use Armistice Period To Train For Offensive When Needed

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today South Korea's army will use the armistice period to train "for an offensive whenever necessary."

The statesman also said in a statement that if the post-war political conference fails to unify Korea in 90 days "the 16 United Nations, including the U.S., will join us in an effort to achieve our unification by other means."

United Nations headquarters in New York announced last Friday that the 16 countries with troops in Korea had agreed to take up arms again if Red forces break the truce and attack South Korea again. The announcement made no mention of renewing the war to unite Korea or of a time limit on the political conference.

Rhee told his people "there is no definite commitment that they will resume warfare." But he said the countries involved "certainly recognized our right to pursue our objective by our own means and, in such a case, we firmly believe we will have the more effective aid from the United Nations Allies."

U.S. State Secretary Dulles, en route home after negotiating a mutual security pact with Rhee, told newspaper men in Honolulu "Thursday that he had 'categorical assurance' from Rhee that South Korea would not upset the armistice."

Dulles said that as far as continued peace in Korea is concerned "we have a formal signed agreement."

In his statement today said: "We are particularly subject to continued training, physically, mentally, for an offensive ever necessary."

Baggage Man For Royal Tours On Job 50 Years

MONTREAL (C)—S. A. Blodeau, responsible for handling baggage on two royal tours, has completed 50 years' service with Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Blodeau, now 62 and almost three years away from retirement, joined the CN in 1902. He has risen from call boy to district baggage and mail agent, with headquarters in Montreal.

Described as a man who moves mountains of baggage in Quebec and New England, Mr. Blodeau was chosen to handle the royal baggage during the 1939 tour of the late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, and the 1950 tour of the then Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

During the 1939 tour, he guarded the royal baggage with his life, sleeping in special quarters in the baggage car throughout the cross-Canada trip.

There were 130 pieces of baggage stored in one half of the car, and clothes were moved to the car of the King and Queen as they were needed.

"We always knew what the King and Queen were going to wear the next day," he recalled. Mr. Blodeau's job now is to supervise the handling of baggage and mail over 3,000 miles of line in Quebec and to Rousselle Point, N.Y., and Portland, Me.

He regards his work as his hobby.

By JOHN A. SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States officials seem to feel a Communist refusal to return war prisoners convicted of "crimes" would violate the Korean truce agreement as well as the Geneva Convention.

State Secretary Dulles has demanded prompt repatriation of every United Nations prisoner held by the Reds—hale, ailing or jailed after Communist trials.

Otherwise, he said, the United Nations will reciprocate in kind.
Dulles' statement, upon returning this week from his trip to Korea, followed in the wake of reports that the Communists intend to keep prisoners they convicted until the imposed prison terms are completed.

Dulles ordered his legal aides to study the international aspect of the issue—which could snarl the Korean truce—in search of legal ammunition to reinforce his stand.

LAYS DOWN RULES

Informants said the legal experts carefully weighed the Korean truce agreement and the Geneva Convention, which lays down international rules for handling of war prisoners. They said it was tentatively decided that both documents would be violated if the Reds held onto the prisoners convicted of crimes.

These informants conceded
that, in looking over the Geneva war prisoner provisions, they found the Communists could legally insist upon completion of sentences meted UN prisoners while under captivity.

But, they said, in such cases
the country holding the prisoners must notify their government and identify them.

The Communists have made no move to inform the UN command of any such detention plan and, accordingly, could be charged with violating the Geneva pact.

Overriding the Geneva Convention, however, is the detailed truce agreement signed with the UN by both the North Korean and Communist Chinese representatives.

NO MENTION

This agreement makes no mention of the right to hold prisoners convicted of crime. It specifies that all prisoners are to be freed.

With this legal opinion backing him up, Dulles is expected to pursue American demands
for the return of all prisoners.
His threat of retaliation represents strictly an American view at the moment. But officials are confident other UN countries would adopt the same position in a showdown.

The Geneva Convention,
adopted at Geneva, Switzerland,
in 1906, has never been ratified by the United States. But at the outset of the Korean war in mid-1950, Gen. MacArthur, then the UN Far East commander, announced the U.S. and Allies
would abide by its provisions.

Second Group Of Campers To Leave

Second group to attend the Lakeshore Bible Camp at Lakelse Lake is scheduled to leave here by charter bus tomorrow morning.

Campers, ranging in age from 12 to 18, will be in charge of Mrs. Nellie Lund and Rusty
Thain. They will return Aug. 22.
The camp is held annually by the Regular Baptist Church
with Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Thorpe
in charge.

Also helping at the camp are Ethel Moorehouse and Dick Kilbourn.

India's rice production of 23-

TRUE DAVIDSON, CCF candidate in York East, used an airlift to distribute her election should every citizen vote?"

checked the cafe and that three policemen had carried the man out without a struggle. Under questioning he said he couldn't tell whether the man was drunk or not. He had tried to wake him, he said, as had the police,
but neither met with any success.

RCMP Const. Wasson told the jury that when he tried to wake Mr. Ingard as he lay slumped across the cafe table,
he had smelled liquor in the vomit on the table and on the man's clothing. He shook the sleeping man, he said, and later helped carry him out to the police van. He said that the man looked no different to any man unconscious from overdrinking.
He said that he didn't see the deceased again until 4 p.m.
Sunday when he was lying on a mattress in the middle of the cell block. He checked him several times but at 6 p.m. when Mr. Ingard appeared to have difficulty in breathing he called Dr. Charbonneau and the man was removed to hospital.

Under questioning from Mr.
Hogarth, Const. Wasson admitted that an information had been laid against the man but that the report did not mention that he was unconscious when brought in to the police office.

Const. Simpson confirmed Const. Wasson's evidence that the man was carried by three police officers out to the van without a struggle. He asserted that the man couldn't have been dead when carried out of the cafe as he was not completely relaxed and was breathing.

Sgt. Norman, head of the city
RCMP detachment said that he personally along with Inspector Taylor, head of the Prince Rupert RCMP sub-division, Mayor Harold Whalen, Indian Superintendent Anfield, and City Clerk R. W. Long, had been standing outside the city hall
when the deceased was carried in. It was just following the dispersal of an unlawful assembly outside the city hall, the sergeant said, and Inspector Taylor ordered the constables carrying Mr. Ingard into the police office to handle him carefully because of his age.

The sergeant said that it was a standing order in the city jail that prisoners be checked every half hour. Prisoners, especially on Sunday he said, are let sleep and not disturbed. However, he said, since this incident, a notice had been posted that unconscious intoxication cases are to be aroused after six hours of sleeping and if they can't be aroused a doctor is to be called.

Corporal Baker who was in charge of the detachment after midnight August 1, said that when the man was brought in he examined him and helped carry him into a cell. As the man had been vomiting, he said

the deceased was laid face down to prevent him from choking himself to death. Cpl. Baker said that he checked the man at 3 a.m., 5:30, 7:30 a.m., and 8:30 a.m. There were no signs of wounds, injuries or blood on the man, he said.

At breakfast time he had tried to wake Mr. Ingard but the man had mumbled something and waved him away.

Cpl. Cawdell testified that he had watched the man being admitted and that he smelled of alcohol. At 2:30 p.m. August 2, he said, he found the prisoner lying on his left side on the floor of the cell. He had found a mattress and the prisoner had been removed from the cell and laid on the mattress and covered with a blanket. He told the jury that the magistrate was not informed Monday morning that a prisoner had been removed to hospital, but that it was not common practice to do so.

The jury consisted of Keith De
Witt, foreman; Kenneth Boyse, Trevor Hill, John Martin Abbott, John Fitzgerald, Douglas Geistad.

Commissioner of Patents Settles Battle of 'Ogopogo'

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The
"Battle of Ogopogo" ended Monday with a damp "phut" instead of a loud boom.

Harmonious relations between this Okanagan Valley city and neighboring Vernon are being hastily restored.

The breach developed last week when a Vernon group, led by radio-station manager A. G.
Seabrook, said they had taken steps to copyright the name of "Ogopogo," famed monster of the Lake Okanagan depths.

Mr. Seabrook said Kelowna, which has used the Ogopogo in promotion of its annual regatta, would not be able to use the name in the future without his permission.

But the commissioner of patents in Ottawa, J. W. T. Mitchell, says Mr. Seabrook's copyright only pertains to "literary and artistic work."

Thus the general term Ogo-pogo cannot be registered. It can be used as a title on an object of work, but only the work can be registered, not the title alone.

Everyone's happy. Nobody's heard from Ogopogo himself
yet, though.

Mrs. O. L. Carlson is leaving
Thursday evening aboard the ss.
Prince Rupert for Vancouver
for a three weeks' nouday visit with her sister Mrs. Eddie Kane.

Before you buy any car today
do as more and more* Canadians are doing

Look for the Vital value

*Today, automobile buyers and the industry itself clearly agree on V-8 Power as the Great Canadian Standard of Value—this year and for the years ahead.

Look at the buying trend: In 1953, Ford of Canada cars have captured a 20.8% larger share of total Canadian new car sales than last year. Of the three leading Canadian manufacturers ONLY Ford of Canada has registered a gain in public acceptance of its products in 1953 to date* as compared to 1952.

Look at the trend in modern design: More and more car makers, too, are swinging to V-8 Engines. Today, all but one of the leading fine cars built in North America offer V-8 Power. But ONLY Ford of Canada give Canadians this vital, modern value in every car it builds.

You look for the hallmark when you buy sterling. Look under the hood when you buy a car today! Invest in a Ford of Canada V-8, and you get the best for your money today. Look ahead, and you'll realize you will be money ahead with a V-8 tomorrow.

*Based on latest available official new car registration figures.

WHAT AN INDEPENDENT AUTHORITY SAYS ABOUT THE FUTURE OF THE V-8 :

"Rise of the V-8 in popularity has been consistent . . . As an engineering concept the V-8 is ageless, and far superior to present day competitive power plants . . . V-8 consciousness seems to be a motivating influence in both car and truck purchasing. Smooth engine performance may be another deciding factor . . . other V-8 attributes of compactness, economy, ruggedness and rigidity. In any event, once the V-8 trend gains momentum it'll take more than an In-Line Six to maneuver out of its path."

—Quoted by permission from June 29, 1953, issue of Ward's Automotive Reports, a well-known independent organ reporting automotive industry news and developments, published in Detroit, Mich.

Marshall Pitches No-Hitter

By The Canadian Press

Vancouver's Clarence Marshall reported in with the Western International Baseball League's first 1953 no-hitter Tuesday night, but lost his bid for a shutout due to wobbly control.

The 28-year-old righthander, making his second appearance in a Vancouver uniform since his release by the Pacific Coast League Hollywood Stars, held Salem hitless for nine innings but walked nine men as the Capitanos rolled to a 12-1 triumph. The Senators combined three bases on balls and a long fly in the eighth inning for their only tally.

The loss dropped Salem two full games back of the pace-setting Spokane Indians who shaded Tri-City, 4-3. In other games, Victoria turned back Yakima 8-3; Lewiston edged Calgary 10-9 and Edmonton and Wenatchee divided a doubleheader. Edmonton taking the first game 5-1 in seven innings and Wenatchee the nightcap 3-2 in ten.

Marshall, who was signed by the Caps as a free agent last week, almost lost his no-hitter with two out in the ninth inning when Salem's Gary Ballard left a long fly to left centre field. Gale Taylor made a stab for the ball and lost it but the official scorer ruled it was an error.

Marshall pitched for the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns prior to his stint with the Stars. In his first start for Vancouver last week, he was driven to the showers in the early innings by the Victoria Ties.

Wenatchee's Charley Oubre turned in the evening's next-best pitching job, a five-hitter in the extra-inning affair with Edmonton. It was his 13th win against 11 losses. Edmonton's John Conant was trying for his 20th win but suffered his 10th loss.

First Division Teams Stand Chance to Catch Leaders

By BEN PHILEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The first division teams in both major leagues could look at the calendar today and tell themselves "we can still do it." That's because on Aug. 12 two years ago, New York Giants were 13 games behind Brooklyn, yet they caught the Dodgers on the final day of the season and went on to win a playoff for the National League pennant.

The teams in second, third and fourth place in both leagues go into today's contests less than 13 games out of the lead. In the National, Brooklyn is 7 1/2 in front of Milwaukee Braves with Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals tied for third, 11 1/2 games back. In the American, New York Yanks lead Chicago White Sox by six games with third-place Cleveland 11 behind and fourth-place Boston 12 1/2.

The size of the leads changed in both leagues Tuesday night. The Yankees lost a full game as they bowed to Washington Senators 2-1 and Chicago defeated Cleveland Indians 6-2. The situation was reversed in the National where Brooklyn whipped New York 4-0 and St. Louis edged Milwaukee 4-3.

Boston Red Sox won twice at Philadelphia, whipping the Athletics 7-6 and 7-5. Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns tied for the lead in the ninth inning. In the second game, Ellis Kinder preserved Skinny Brown's 11th victory.

Stars Leading By Eight Games

By The Canadian Press

Eight games separate first-place Hollywood, and the pursuing Seattle Rainiers in the chase for the Pacific Coast League pennant.

Hollywood's "cousins," the Sacramento Solons, who've won only four of 20 games from the Stars this season, bowed to the leaders Tuesday night, 3-1. Los Angeles, meanwhile, was turning back Seattle, 4-1.

Portland outslug Oakland and took a 10-6 decision in Portland. The game produced 25 hits, 16 by Portland. Jehoshiah Heard, Portland rookie, went the distance for his 13th victory, but Bill Howerton found him for a homer in the eighth with two aboard.

San Francisco and San Diego Bradford hurled San Francisco divided a doubleheader. Bill to a 4-2 victory in the opener, besting Lloyd Dickey of the Padres. Bob Kerrigan was the difference in the second game as he blanked the Seals, 6-0, and permitted only four hits.

Death-Defying Feats Slated In Kinsman-Sponsored Show

On Saturday night, Roosevelt Park will be the scene of crashing, rolling cars and speeding, crashing motorcycles as the Vancouver Death Dodgers put on a fender-twisting exhibition. Managed by A. L. Klatt of Vancouver who has been 16 years in the automobile and motorcycle stunt business, they will give a solid two hours of nerve-tugging entertainment.

The Death Dodgers are being sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of Prince Rupert. Funds raised by the club will be used for the numerous Kinsmen projects such as the Kinsmen Kiddies' Camp at Lakeelse Lake.

Although this show will be something new in Prince Rupert, automobile and motorcycle stunts done by experts has become one of the most popular entertainments in the last few years. The Death Dodgers themselves are well known throughout Canada as one of the top troupes.

It is hoped that the full crew of 10 entertainers will be on hand for Saturday night here.

Declarer's Play Can Give Clue to Correct Defence

Sometimes an alert defender can get a clue as to the correct defence, from the way declarer is playing the hand.

In today's deal, the defenders could have defeated Mr. Champion's four heart contract by two tricks. They could have won two tricks in clubs and then knocked out the ace of diamonds. Later, when Mr. Abel got in with the king of spades, his side could have cashed two diamond tricks.

But unfortunately Mrs. Keen didn't relish leading away from either of her minor suit kings. She opened the nine of trumps.

Canadians Still in Fight For Open Title

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Some of the top women golfers in Canada and the United States got through the opening round of the Canadian Ladies' Open golf championship here Tuesday and enter the third day of play for the title today.

Marlene Stewart, Canada's 19-year-old golfing hope from Fonthill, Ont., was in top form Tuesday, defeating June Marker of Winnipeg 7 and 5 as she showed a great improvement over her qualifying round of 78, one over par for the difficult London Hunt Club layout.

One of the toughest battles of the day came as defending champion Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., downed Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., 2 and 1. The Canadian was up one at the sixth, but the U.S. player gradually moved ahead as she found her form.

Among Canadian survivors who play today besides Miss Stewart are Ada Mackenzie, Toronto; Shirley Woodley, Toronto; Babs Davies, Vancouver; Mrs. Helen Cleat, Vancouver; Anne Sharpe, Fonthill, Ont.; Mrs. J. H. McCarter, Toronto, and Mrs. W. S. Edey, Winnipeg.

Eight Americans are also in the running, including the defending champion.

One of the favorites for the title is Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., twice champion, who won 8 and 7 from Marlene Wanh of Winnipeg after taking seven holes in a row to win on the 11th. She meets Mrs. Edey today.

This gave Mr. Champion time to develop the hand but even so he should have been down one. He took the first trick in his own hand with the ace of hearts. He led a small heart to dummy's queen, Mr. Abel discarding the eight of clubs.

Next came a low spade from the board and Mr. Abel was on the spot. He decided to win with the king. He returned the queen of diamonds but Mr. Champion won with the ace, cashed the jack of spades, entered dummy with a trump and discarded his two losing diamonds on the ace and queen of spades. Thus he lost only one spade and two clubs.

Mr. Abel should have asked himself why Mr. Champion had pulled a small spade out from under the ace-queen. With two worthless spades, the play would have been to lead from the closed hand and finesse the queen.

Also, with three spades to the jack, Mr. Champion's best play would have been to finesse the queen of spades, then play the ace. If the king of spades were doubtless on his left he would lose no tricks in the suit.

Now if he had the jack doubtless, the play would make some sense. In that case, Mr. Abel could win one spade by going in with his king. But Mr. Champion would then take three spades.

If Mr. Abel ducked, he would win no spades at all. But on the other hand, Mr. Champion could then win only two spades. This defence would have beaten the hand as Mr. Champion would have had to lose two clubs and two diamonds eventually.
