MILLION DOLLAR FIRE AT WRANGELL

Alaska Community Hard Hit by Blaze

WRANGELL, Alaska. — Fire which raged through this Alaska seaport for several hours early today wiped out the entire waterfront side of the main street with damage estimated close to $1,000,000.

Canadian Gets Celanese Post

OTTAWA — Max W. Mackenzie, right-hand man of Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of trade and commerce and defence production, is leaving the government service to take part in a huge $100,000,000 chemical-industry development to be founded on Alberta's gigantic oil and natural gas resources.

The 44-year-old deputy minister of defence production, brilliant economist and top government adviser will be succeeded by Reginald W. Brophy, 49-year-old Montreal-born radio industrialist, who came to the Department of Labour as Production Minister Howe's production co-ordinator.

The shift, announced by Prime Minister St. Laurent, becomes effective May 1 next and will see Mackenzie, a native of Victoria, step into one of the biggest industrial jobs in the country. Although no announcement was made of the exact nature of his new job, it is understood he will become executive vice-president in effect the head man of Canadian Chemical and Cellulose Corporation, holding company controlling other companies developing basic chemicals in Alberta and even newsprint in British Columbia.

Fathered by Celanese Corporation of America, the new Canadian corporation is planning to float a public issue of stock and use this capital in development of its various Western Canadian holdings.

(Canadian Chemical at Edmonton is closely associated with Columbia Cellulose of Prince Rupert whose product it will use.)

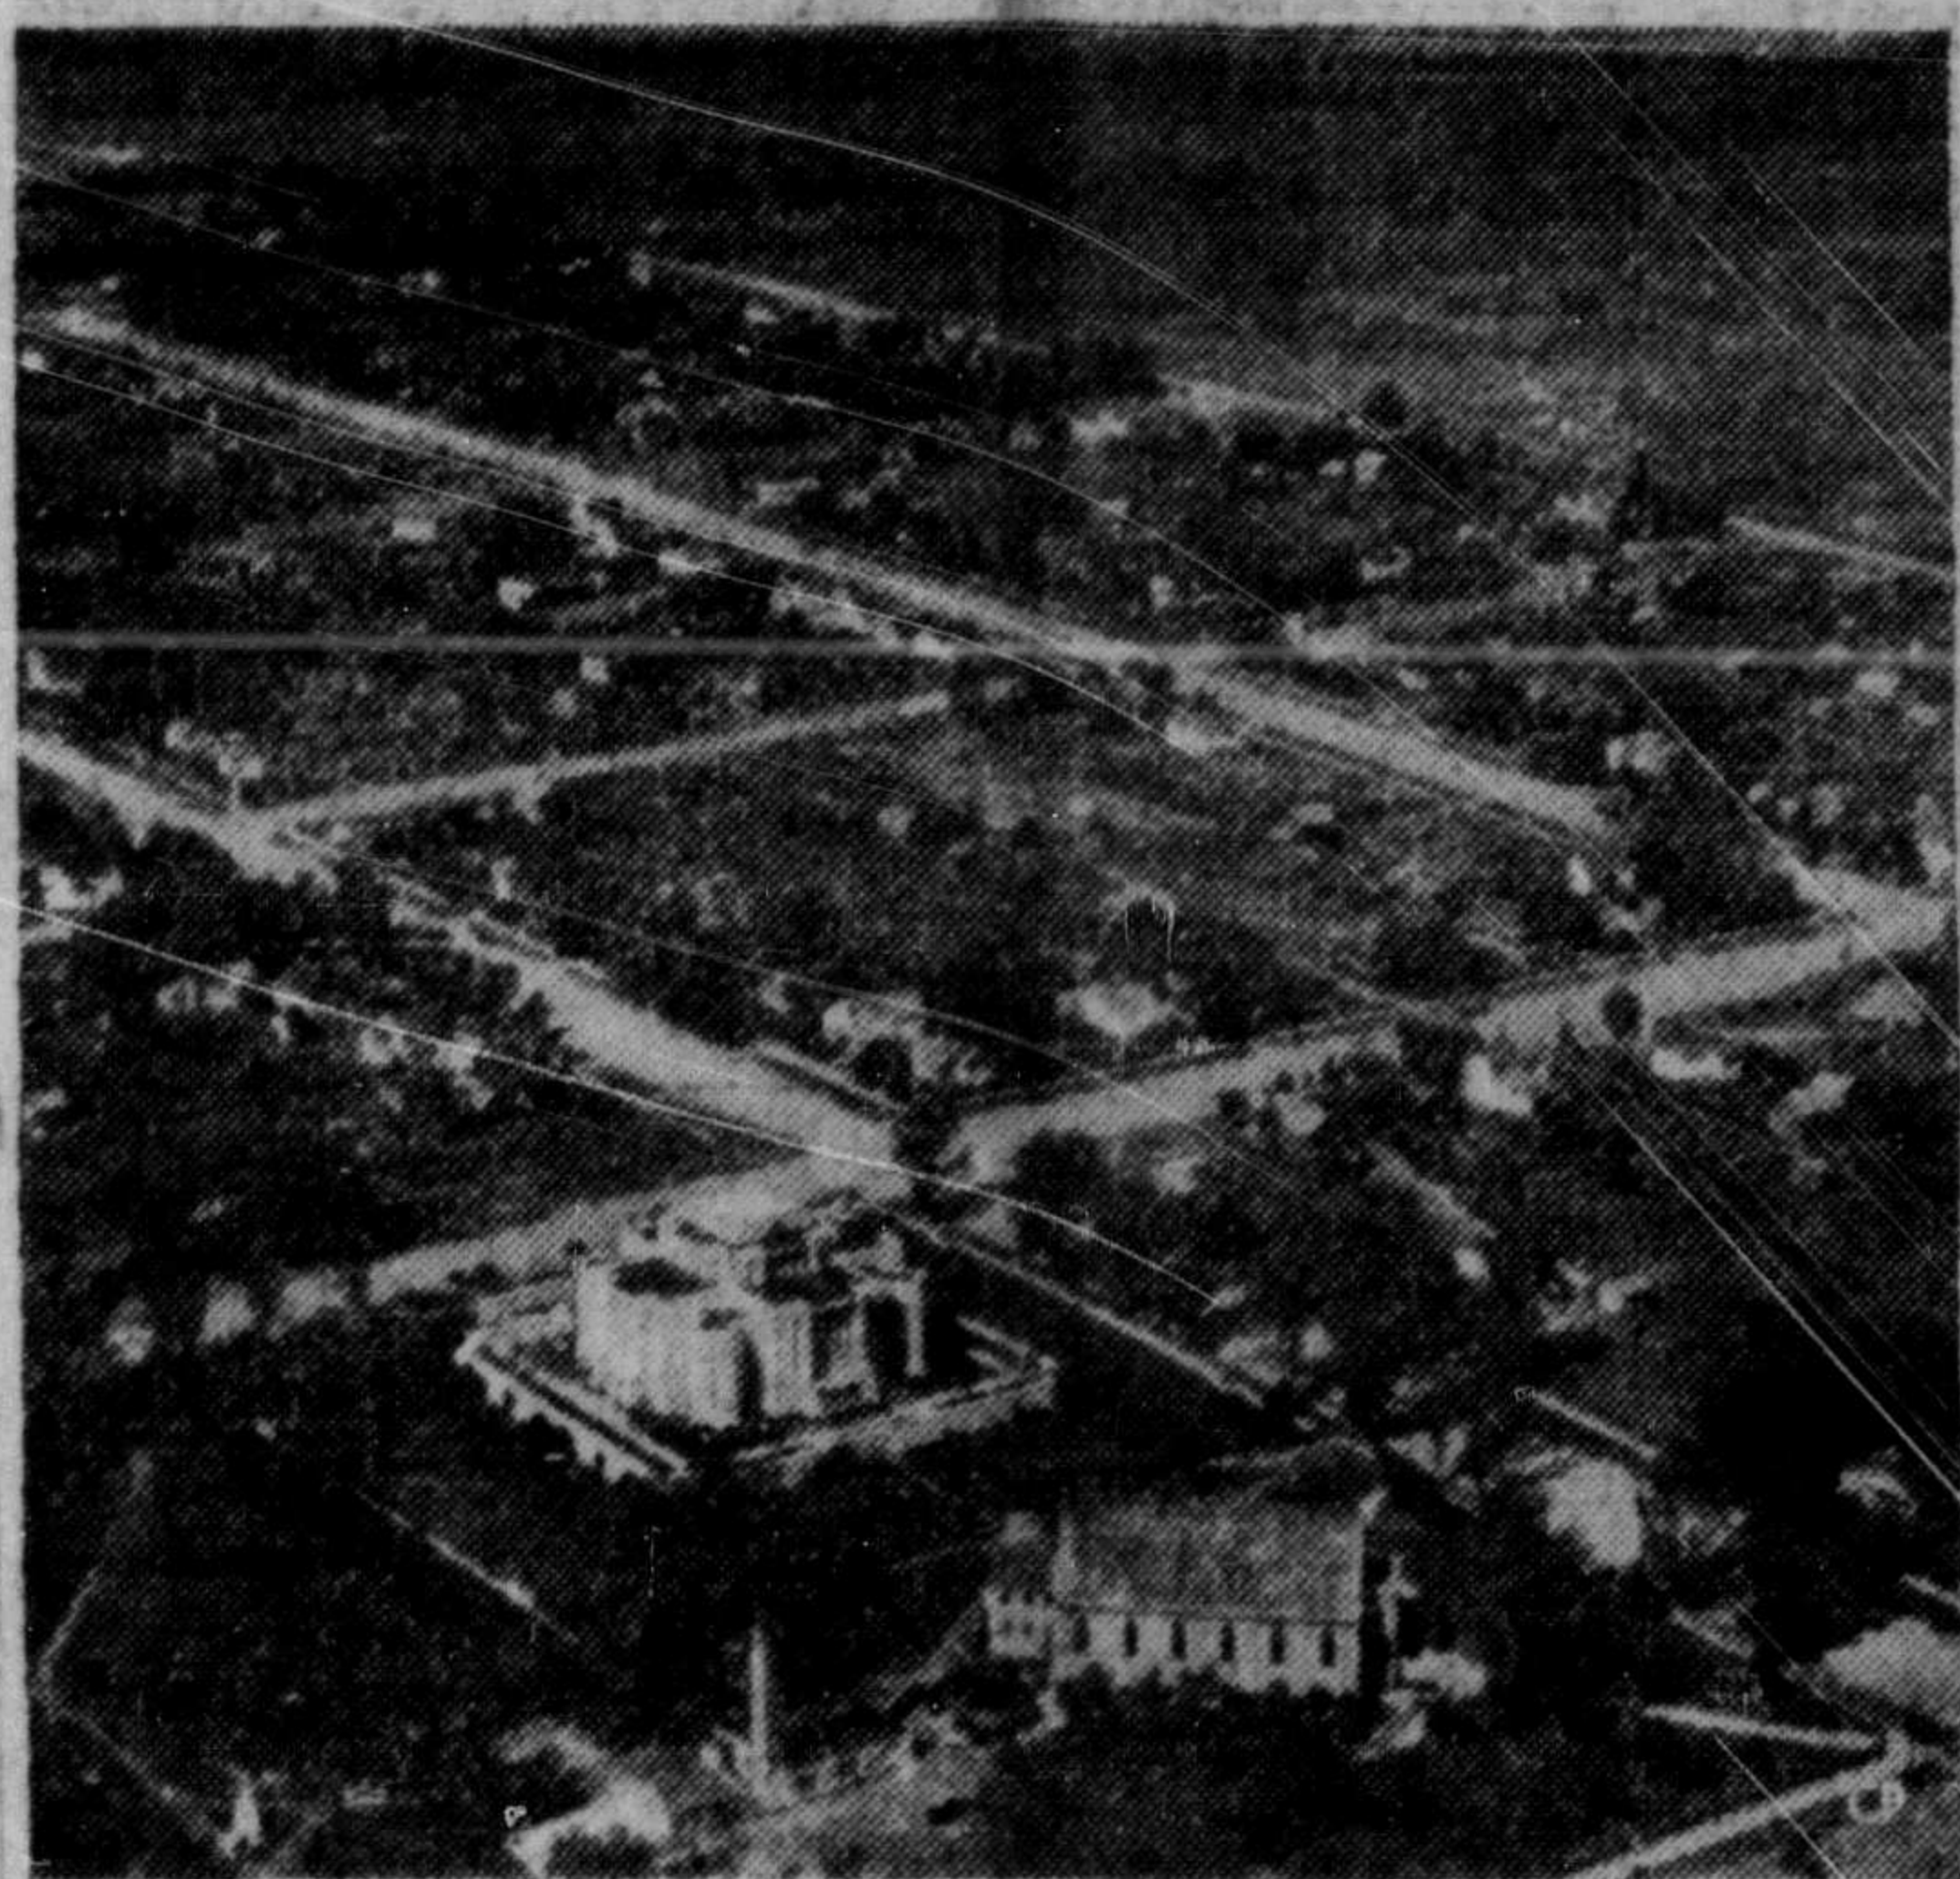

Douks Asked To Live in Guatemala

NELSON — The Doukhobor sect, including the radical Sons of Freedom, have been invited to emigrate from West Kootenay homes in British Columbia to Guatemala in Central America. In a letter to Mike Hadikin, elder of the Doukhobor community near here, the Palmavarian Fellowship of Guatemala City said the government would welcome them with open arms because the country is "desperately in need of good agriculturists."

Leaders of 10,000 Doukhobors made no immediate comment on the letter.

US Senate Must Pass Alcan Pact

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP) — Any long term agreement to buy aluminum from Canada will be submitted to the United States Congress for approval, Manley Fleischmann, defence production administrator, said Friday.

Senator Owen Fulbright, Democrat, Arkansas, who questioned Fleischmann about the aluminum program, called this statement reassuring.

Fire Hits Apartment

VANCOUVER — Two women were injured and many others were forced to escape through windows or down smoke-filled halls when fire swept through a two-storey apartment block in suburban North Vancouver late last night.

Mrs. John Mills, aged 39, who suffered back injuries, and Mrs. Arthur Marshal, 25, burns, are in hospital.

Thirty-two persons were in the 16-suite building when the fire started in the basement and raced through light wells to upper hallways.

Resignation of South Africa Premier Asked

CAPETOWN — The leader of the Opposition yesterday called for the resignation of the Malan government and the calling of an election in view of the serious constitutional crisis which had arisen following a court invalidation of the government's legislation on the disenfranchisement of other than white people.

Prime Minister Daniel Malan said Friday that he will seek legislation to curb the power of the courts to judge constitutionality of South Africa's laws. The Supreme Court on Thursday struck down Malan's racial segregation law, touching off a constitutional crisis. Malan's nationalist government promptly refused to accept the ruling of the court.

472,301, with a capital surplus of $230,627.32.

A total of $18,913.40 had been written off for bad debts and free cases, said Mr. Stevenson, and had given him and the hospital board much concern.

He said 15 per cent of patients admitted had not been insured and that majority of these were transients. Others could not afford to pay the insurance, nor could they afford to pay hospital accounts.

"All accounts are thoroughly investigated before being classified as bad debts," he stated.

Reporting on last year's Modernization Fund campaign, he said it was still $13,000 short of the $75,000 objective.

Tornadoes Kill Nearly 200 People in Southern States

LITTLE ROCK, Arkansas (Canadian Press) — Tornadoes rumbled with black fury across southern states on the Mississippi yesterday and 174 dead and more than 1000 injured.

Even as rescue workers toiled through muck and debris of shattered areas, the Washington Weather Bureau warned that fresh tornadoes may hit in Tennessee, Kentucky and Alabama this afternoon.

The bureau added that by nightfall storm conditions will reach into the western parts of Virginia and West Virginia.

Up and down the Mississippi River in Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri and north Mississippi, large sections looked as if some vast artillery barrage had been laid down.

Damage to homes, factories, public utilities and farms was expected to run into millions of dollars.

Worst hit was Arkansas where a vicious black funnel, laced with rain and shot through with lightning, killed 115 persons.

Forty persons died in Tennessee, eight in Mississippi and 11 in the Caruthersville area of Missouri.

Throughout the night rescue workers stumbled through muck and debris seeking victims. The screaming sirens of ambulances added to the nightmare.

School houses, churches and armories in many places were swamped with rain-soaked, shivering injured.

Hospitals were jammed. Tales of death were many. At Dyersburg, Tennessee, a vicious wind dipped on to a road and picked up the car of Patrol Sergeant Joe Williamson and tossed it 300 yards. Williamson died.

At Judsonia, Arkansas, Glenda Eadie, her parents and two brothers dashed for a brick restaurant. Swirling winds crumpled the cafe. Glenda died with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Eadie, and her brother, Ed. Another brother and her father were critically hurt.

Hospital Stay Average Here Low—Profit Shown In 1951, Ass'n Informed

Average patients' stay in Prince Rupert General Hospital is little more than half of the average for British Columbia. There has also been a decided decrease in number of patients per hospital day here in the last year from 1950. And the hospital has been operating at a profit.

These were some of the facts disclosed to members of Prince Rupert General Hospital Association by Administrator D. C. Stevenson at last night's annual meeting.

Average stay of patients in hospital last year was 7.3 days, compared with 7.6 in 1950, and compared to the average for the province which is in excess of 13 days, Mr. Stevenson reported.

"This indicates that there is little or no abuse of hospital facilities here," he said. An average of 75.2 patients per hospital day in 1951 showed a decrease of 12.5 from 1950, Mr. Stevenson said. Number of patients admitted was 3,815, a decrease of 184 from the preceding year.

House to Vote Next Week

Public Works Estimates

The British Columbia Legislature yesterday passed the public works department estimates of $14,618,490. It is now expected that the House may be called next Tuesday when the estimates will be presented to the House.

Public Works E. T. presenting his estimates, to deal yesterday with questions from sixteen members, then former Minister of Works E. C. Carson, Progressive Conservative member.

Carson urged that all ferry be scrapped. He said that Canada Highway allocation will be behind $14,000,000 next year.

Bill which would prolong of the hospital insurance committee, was introduced by Minister of Health and A. D. Turnbull. It would that reports and recommendations of the committee be a minister designated cabinet before the next of the Legislature.

Dr. Greene Hospital President

New Board of Directors Named—Rorie Re-appointed Auditor

Dr. L. M. Greene heads the 1952 Prince Rupert General Hospital board of directors as president. Five new members who were elected to the board at last night's annual meeting of the hospital association are R. G. Moore, E. D. Forward, William Scuby, Norman Bellis and Allan Armstrong.

Mr. Forward was elected vice-president and D. C. Stevenson, hospital administrator, as secretary.

Other members of the board are P. H. Linzey and Gordon Forbes, Federal and Provincial government representatives; Mrs. R. G. Moore, ladies' auxiliary representative, and Ald George Hills, city council representative.

Dr. Greene represents the Prince Rupert Medical Association.

FINANCIAL REPORT Because the previous board of directors had not accepted the financial report, considerable discussion took place before the report was finally approved and accepted by a motion from the floor.

T. W. Brown, past director, said he could not accept the report because it did not carry "enough explanations and is not intelligible to me."

Dr. Greene, also a member of last year's board, said he had voted for the approval of the report.

"I can assure you we have received satisfactory explanations. There is nothing wrong with the audit."

T. B. Black, a member, said the board had presented to the association "a very difficult and confusing" set of circumstances and should have been in complete agreement in recommending to the association whether or not to accept the audit.

Last year's auditors, George Rorie & Co., were re-elected to perform the 1952 audit after he and A. P. Gardiner & Co. were nominated.

—WEATHER—

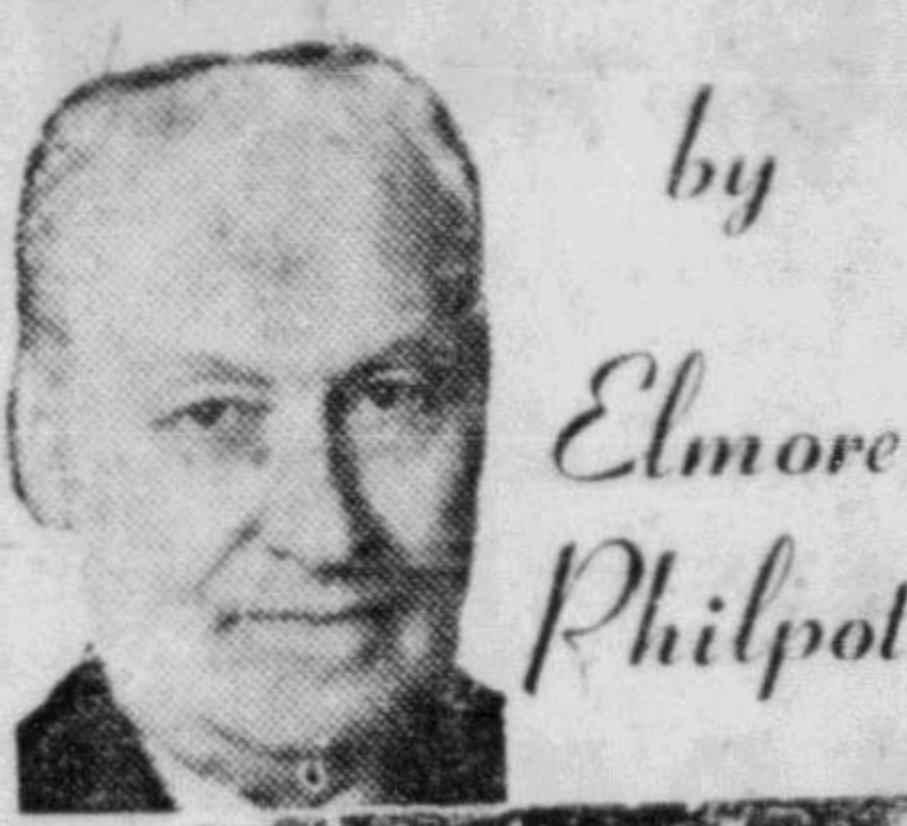

Synopsis
Gales and rain lashed the north coast last night and cloudiness from this disturbance was spreading over most of the province this morning. Snow, whipped by 35-mile an hour winds, has spread into the Prince George region. However, a ridge of high pressure remains well established over the southern part of the province and although considerable cloudiness is in prospect for southern B.C., no rain is forecast. Temperatures will continue a trend toward higher values.

Forecast
North coast region—Intermittent rain today and Sunday, mostly along the mainland. Little change in temperature. Winds—southerly (20.) Lows tonight and highs tomorrow—at Port Hardy and Sandspit, 40 and 50; Prince Rupert, 40 and 48.

As I See It

Moses Got Mad Too

WHEN Les Pearson and I were boys around Hamilton, Ontario, we had many ties, beginning with athletic ambitions.

But we were also ministers' sons and had to bear the gibes of the other fellows who wisecracked in those days that "this is no place for a minister's son."

I thought of that the other day when Les's CBC speech reminded me of the story of Moses, for I can imagine either one of our fathers preaching a sermon on the theme.

Moses, the great law-giver, had gone up in the mountain, been fired by divine inspiration, and came back with the Ten Commandments, all printed in stone.

But he found the people making whoopee, far off the Moses track. So, in a rage, he threw down the tablets, and smashed them all to bits—and then had to do the job all over again.

WHEN the Honourable Lester Pearson got home from Lisbon he too, like Moses, had proof of a great achievement in his hand. For he had, at last, the blueprint of the plan which sets up effective political control over the military side of NATO.

He knew how hard he and Acheson and Eden had had to work to keep the military in their proper place, that is as servants, not masters. He knew he had won.

But he too, like Moses, got boiling mad and spoiled a little bit of his own work when he flew off the handle and said foolish things about the CCF.

Granted that in this respect one sentence of the CCF statement had warranted some indignation. For it was just not true, as the CCF national council police statement said, that "NATO policies seem to have fallen completely under the control of the military."

Granted too that only a few days earlier Mr. Pearson had made a speech in New York which must have delighted the heart of every CCF stalwart, for he told the U.S.A. what Canada would and would not do about China.

But when he suggested over the CBC that the CCF was moving towards the Communist line, for challenging the goal of 50 divisions in NATO by the end of 1952 and 100 two years later, he was—well, as mistaken as Moses. If they were wrong, why not show them where?

IN A DEMOCRACY, you can't get the right decisions unless you have full and free discussions of public issues. That goes for our parliament at Ottawa. That goes for NATO.

It would be impossible to unite Canada behind the idea of the bigger NATO defence force unless the people are sold on the idea—and kept sold on it.

The CCF following in Canada amounts to at least a fifth of the people on all questions, and to a great deal more than one-fifth on most questions of war and peace. It would be impossible for Canada to attain her NATO quotas, either in peace or war, without the wholehearted support of the CCF following in the population.

Moreover, many more people than CCF followers seriously challenge the practicability of the new NATO program. From the Tory side, like the London Times, you get the argument that the program is beyond our capacity. From the other side you get the argument that it can only be carried out by drastically reducing living standards. Some say it will ruin Europe, including Britain.

The point is we should be able to reason out our national and NATO program if it really is reasonable. But we can't do that unless we stick to facts and issues.

Putting Japanese Fish Treaty Issue Straight

Editor, Daily News.

A recent issue of the Daily News carried a story in which Senator Tom Reid is alleged to have made certain derogatory remarks about the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union and its officers. These remarks were made by the Senator during a speech defending the proposed Japanese fisheries treaty. At the regular local meeting of the Prince Rupert local of our union, strenuous objections were raised to the statements of Senator Reid, which, if he was quoted accurately, not only contained some misleading information relative to the treaty but inferred that the present opposition to the treaty was the work of certain officials of the union who were attempting to create friction between the United States and Canada. A resolution was unanimously adopted censuring the Senator and instructing the northern representative of the union to reply on behalf of the membership. We would, therefore, request space in your paper to set the record straight.

To begin with the Senator has suggested the present campaign to block the passage of the treaty is the work of certain union officials and has not the support of the membership. We wish to firmly repudiate Senator Reid and point out to him that no union official in this organization has the right to speak on behalf of the union without the endorsement of its membership. The 38 locals that comprise the membership of this union have all officially condemned the treaty and over 12,000 cards have been forwarded to British Columbia M.P.'s calling on them to oppose the ratification of the treaty when it comes before the House.

We deplore this approach to the question by Senator Reid who is attempting by smear tactics to cover up the fact that our representatives made a poor deal when they bowed to pressure from the U.S.A. The last resort of a politician when defeated in an argument is to fall back on a false appeal to patriotism and prejudices by accusing his opponents of subversive motives. The last vestiges of political freedom are gone when people who disagree with government policy can be classed as subversive or enemies of the state. It is interesting to note, however, the Senator is free to make such accusations, fortified as he is by a life-time job in the Senate without the need to answer to the people at the next election.

In defending the treaty the Senator suggests that, for the first time, Canadian fishermen will have the right to fish in Alaskan waters and certain other waters off the American mainland. We would like Senator Reid to show any sections of the treaty that extend our fishing areas beyond those previously held. Halibut fishermen have operated in Area 3 off Alaska for many years. The proposed treaty does not extend this right but does provide areas exclusive to United States fishermen. At the same time other areas are set up in which our fishermen agree to keep out. The Senator also knows full well that the right of Canadian fishermen to fish in Area 3 was granted by international treaty which also gave Americans the right to fish in Canadian waters where the largest part of the halibut quota is taken.

We would like Senator Reid to speak to the trawlers who are operating out of Prince Rupert at the present time. They will tell him of the large American dragnets they are competing with at this time in Hecate Straits. They will also tell him in no uncertain terms what they think of the introduction of a further fleet from Japan which will happen if this treaty is signed.

Mr. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, has recognized the strong opposition of the people of this province by announcing in the House that the treaty will not be introduced at this session. We consider this a signal victory but at the same time we want the assurance that the treaty in its present form will never be introduced in the House.

In his column "As I See It," the well known columnist, Elmore Philpott, had this to say of the treaty: "The only real justification for the acceptance by Canadians of this treaty was that they either had to take this or nothing at all. At best we have a treaty which allows the Japanese to come back into our waters to fish for certain types of fish but not for other kinds. Can anybody familiar with Japanese trade practices of earlier years imagine that it is going to be an easy job for our fisheries patrol vessels to compel the Japanese to catch only one kind of fish and not another?"

As we have pointed out before, the treaty does not give our patrol vessels the right to confiscate vessels or their catch when they are found illegally fishing salmon, halibut or herring, the three main species they

Saturday Sermon

Strengthening Faith (Furnished by REV. L. G. THORPE, Regular Baptist Church, from the Wesleyan Methodist)

"Faith is the subtle chain that binds us to the Infinite."

"Faith is the key that unlocks the cabinet of God's treasures."

"Faith makes the discords of the present the harmonies of the future."

The above quotations show us the importance of faith. Thus our supreme lesson to learn is, How can I strengthen my faith? If you would strengthen your faith, shorten the distance between your soul and God. God seldom talks to us over long distance. Get quiet before Him. Wait for His voice. "Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you." Faith will not operate in a cold apathetic heart. Wait on the Lord. Continue to look into His face. Faith will grow stronger as new visions of God come to the soul.

If you would strengthen your faith, live obediently. Surrender to the whole will of God. Be sensitive to the leading of the Spirit. Count it the soul's highest privilege to know and do the will of God. It is the fervent prayer

Squamish To Vancouver

UP HERE in Prince Rupert we can look with detached interest at the squabble over connecting up the present terminus of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway at Squamish with the city of Vancouver, a distance of 50 miles around Howe Sound through the Capilano watershed or by the West Vancouver shore. Some want a railway. Some want a highway. Some want both. There is objection by some at going through the Capilano watershed. West Vancouver is not keen about having a railway deteriorating the municipality.

Premier Johnson first says he is going to have a highway and not a railway. Then the railway committee of the Legislature gets into the picture and recommends against the highway. So it is called off. And, for the time being at least, it looks like there'll be neither highway or railway.

But who should worry? The important thing is that the missing gap in the Pacific Great Eastern Railway is being pushed northward from Quesnel to Prince George. Next will be to drive the railway north from Prince George into the Peace River country—something a good deal more important than the line from Squamish to Vancouver.

After all, once there is access north and south to Prince George, the PGE will have its outlet to the fine railway line leading westward to the port of Prince Rupert, a better and easier road than that to Squamish or Vancouver through the rugged country of mountains and rocks will ever be.

It may seem a rather ludicrous state of affairs, this bickering and indecision about the south end of the PGE, but maybe, it is just as well if it is permanently shelved for it's a bit of railway building that is by no means essential. They can go on hauling into Vancouver from Squamish by barge and nobody need suffer very much.

Totem-Pole Land

FRANK CALDER added a subtle touch to his mantle in the Legislature the other day when he addressed the house in his native tongue and later interpreted his remarks for those who are "new" in his country. Although no doubt gently meant, the implication added pique to what the young Indian member had to say about tourist attractions.

He made a nice point when he said that a totem-pole design on a motor licence was all very well but didn't carry the magic touch. Even though B.C.'s real totem is fast becoming a matter of electric power and vast industrial expansion, he hit a certain nail on the head. The word "Totemland" was what he would substitute for the present unclear design.

It is all too true that Indian totem-poles have merely been removed from their setting as a tourist lure, and that without a guide to explain what they stand for, a visitor to any one of the various public park collections goes away none the wiser. Thunderbird Park is a good example of what Mr. Calder had in mind.

If the tourist trade is to be drawn to this province by Indian lore and legend then there may be virtue in suggesting that tourists should be enabled to see at first hand, on their own ground, the creators of the totem-poles. This might at least cause some improvement in the amenities of Indian reservations, whose infelicities cannot all be laid at the inhabitants' doors. It might also serve to rebut the implications of the word "new," which is by no means offset by the gesture of allowing Indians into beer parlors.

Irrespective of his political affiliations, Mr. Calder will prove to be a valuable member of the Legislature if he does nothing else but keep the record straight as to his forebears and works indefatigably on behalf of his own people. Not often enough have they had a champion who could be heard in the right quarters.

Old Sharpie Discards Only Potential Loser On Spade in South's Hand—How About It?

When Mr. Dale went to three clubs for his first rebid, he sent quite a message to his partner. He said he had close to half the high cards in the deck.

That's what is needed to go freely to the three level on the second round of bidding—and distribution which almost always includes two five-card or longer suits.

When he bid five no trump, Mr. Dale verified all the values he had shown, guaranteed his side had all the aces and showed interest in a grand slam if Mr. Masters had what it took. With 10 honor cards in his hand and two of the top three spade honors, Mr. Masters went to seven spades.

DISDAINS FINESSES

Mr. Meek opened the trey of diamonds and at first glance the contract seems to depend on a finesse in one of the red suits. As you can see, both red kings are wrong.

However, Mr. Dale didn't waste much time thinking about finesse. He found a better line of play which involved discarding his only loser, the deuce of hearts, on one of dummy's spade honors.

Here's how the plant went. Mr. Dale won the first trick with the ace of diamonds. He led the four of diamonds from the board and ruffed with the nine of spades.

DISCARDS ON KING

He led the four of spades to dummy's eight spot, returning another diamond, and ruffed with the ace of spades.

Next he overtook his 10 of spades with the queen and ruffed dummy's last diamond with his last spade, the jack.

Now the jack of clubs provided

— Platter Parade —

by DICK WESCH

With tallies almost completed for 1951, the team of Les Paul and Mary Ford wound up in a photo finish with Patti Page as top selling record artists. The Paul-Ford combo is expected to reach a total of six million discs sold, with their biggest hits being "How High the Moon," "Mockingbird Hill," "Tennessee Waltz," "World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Whispering."

Patti Page hit the jackpot with "Tennessee Waltz" and with this, added to eight successive records, her total is also expected to reach the six-million mark. Mario Lanza may pass the five million mark. He turned in two million sellers, "Be My Love" and "Loveliest Night of the Year," the first time one artist has had two such sellers on a classical label in one year.

Nat Coie remained close to the top, selling close to three million discs in 1951, his biggest one being "Too Young." Rosemary Clooney's "Some On-a My House" also put her in the top ten. Billy Eckstine and Joe Louis are reported merging their interests in the marketing of sports equipment. . . . Tony Martin is making a new RKO musical, "Song Forever." . . . Billy Daniels is slated to go coast-to-coast via NBC radio net after his return from England. . . . Burl Ives opens in England next May. He'll tour through the summer travelling as far as Australia. . . . Robert Clary, diminutive singing comedian, is now playing at the La Vie En Rose nite club in New York. . . . Jo Stafford has just been married to orchestra leader Paul Weston. . . . Bell Sisters have been invited and are flying to Bermuda Easter week-end to highlight a special program.

The number of recordings made on two of the top songs on the Honor Roll of Hits stands as follows: "Cry" leads with 20 different versions, followed closely by "Slow Poke," which has been recorded 17 times on various labels. "Sin," which is no longer in the top ten, has also had 17 versions put on wax.

Blonde Harry Somers is one of seven Canadians whose compositions will be performed here by the Toronto Symphony March 26. Sponsored by the Canadian League of Composers, the concert will be heard on a CBC network and around the world via a short-wave international service. Mr. Somers began studying piano and theory at 14. After wartime service with the Air Force and Army, he continued studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music with the help of Veterans Affairs Department grants. In 1949 he won a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Canadian Foundation. This sent scholarship awarded through the him to Paris for a year. But "a Canadian composer entering the serious field must make up his mind he won't make a living at it," said Mr. Somers. "At least under existing conditions—he must find some other income and work at his music as much as possible."

"North Country," a work composed by Mr. Somers, has been performed by the Toronto symphony. It was written in 1948 following a trip to Northern Ontario. At present the young composer is at work on a set of 12 fugues for piano, to be followed by a set of 12 preludes, then 12 one-movement sonatas. The complete work will take between two and four years.

NATION'S HONOR ROLL OF HITS:
1—"Wheel of Fortune," Kay Starr.
2—"Cry," Johnny Ray.
3—"Tell Me Why," Four Aces.
4—"Any Time," Eddy Fisher.
5—"Little White Cloud That Cried," Johnny Ray.
6—"Slow Poke," Pee Wee King.
7—"Blue Tango," Leroy Anderson.
8—"Please Mr. Sun," Johnny Ray.
9—"Bermuda," Bell Sisters.
10—"Be My Life's Companion," Mills Brothers.

THE BOOKSHELF

THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD

By Fulton Oursler — This reverent and faithful retelling of the story of Jesus has made a deep impression on thousands of readers, and has been highly praised by ministers of all Christian faiths. The author was a "contented agnostic" for many years. However, while on a tour of Palestine in 1935, he found the intensely religious feelings of his youth reawakened and he began a devout contemplation of the life of Jesus. Out of this study grew his award-winning radio program, "The Greatest Story Ever Told," and this best-selling book.

THE HOLY SINNER

By Thomas Mann — Hailed by critics as the liveliest and most readable of Mr. Mann's novels, this new book by the dean of living novelists recounts a famous medieval legend of romance, sin and expiation. It is the tale of a noble young knight-at-arms who becomes a great Pope despite his grave transgressions. In his report, Henry Seidel Canby called this book "one of the most entrancing stories Thomas Mann has ever told—for more direct and lively than his previous works, carried forward with continuous suspense and flavored with a delicious dry wit and a quite indescribable 'bouquet'."

1000-Book Hospital Library

Achievement of Women's Auxiliary During Past Year

An outstanding achievement of the Women's Auxiliary of the Prince Rupert General Hospital during the past year was the bringing of interesting reading to the patients of the hospital. Under the leadership of Mrs. R. G. Moore, an active committee set itself a goal of 1000 hard-covered novels and, with good response from the public, that goal was reached.

Now the library at the hospital has on hand approximately 900 novels, 900 pocket books and a variety of magazines and digests. The books and magazines are distributed to the patients twice a week—Tuesday afternoons and Friday evenings—the service carrying on through the summer holidays without interruption.

CONTINUING TASK

It is a continuing task, requiring the giving of time unselfishly by the women who engage in the work. At least one evening a week is spent sorting and discarding magazines, cataloguing, carding and checking books and setting up library cards. The hard covered novels have all been catalogued, carded and arranged alphabetically on the shelves.

Nor has the benefit of the work been confined to the Prince Rupert General Hospital itself. Books and magazines, when found out of date but still readable, are packed into boxes and sent to Miller Bay Hospital and the Pioneers' Home. Some even find their way to personnel stationed in the lonely lighthouses along the coast.

The work, popular and appreciated by patients and hospital staff, has now reached a point, the committee reports, where a room is required for the library and, when the new wing of the hospital is fully opened, it is

THIS WEEK'S ARTIST

This week the spotlight falls on CHAMP BUTLER. Still single at 24 years of age, red-haired, freckle-faced Champ is "the possessor of a voice that can wrap itself around an amorous ballad or a bouncy jump-tune with equal skill."

In his high school days Champ, which incidentally is his real first name, would sing for fun at parties and dances, but fired by a strong determination to make "big money," he suddenly quit school just six months before graduation. Before being called he hoped that the hospital board will make such provision.

THE WORKERS

With Mrs. R. G. Moore as chairman, the 1952 committee consisted of Mrs. W. S. Kergin, Mrs. M. B. Lemon and Mrs. H. A. Breen.

The committee was assisted by the following volunteers: Mrs. J. Munthe, Mrs. C. G. Ham, Mrs. A. M. Hurst, Mrs. B. Lester, Mrs. G. E. Moore, Mrs. E. Boulter, Mrs. H. A. Breen, Mrs. L. Charbonneau, Mrs. D. Galbraith, Mrs. J. P. Cade, Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. R. Johnson, Mrs. R. Davidson, Mrs. A. D. Ritchie, Mrs. T. N. Youngs.

The work of the committee was so appreciated that it was re-appointed en bloc at the W.A. annual meeting this week.

into the armed services Champ concentrated on making money and having a good time. He was working at some of the biggest night spots in Hollywood, however, not as a singer but as a parking lot attendant.

In March, 1945, Champ was called into the army and for the next two years lived the life of a paratrooper and later that of an MP. While in the service he realized that he had been foolish to quit school when he did, and immediately after his honorable discharge, went back to school and in a short time received his diploma. Now he returned to the parking lots in order to earn enough money to pursue his career in full force.

While working on the parking lot of the Mocambo night club, Champ was asked to do an audition by Barbara Belle, who was then also Fran Warren's personal manager. Champ signed a contract and with Miss Belle behind him he was finally on his way. Within a matter of weeks he signed a long term contract (Continued on page 6)

Lady Curlers Plan Bonspiel

Close on the heels of the men whose bonspiel is now in full swing, Prince Rupert women curlers will go into action with their bonspiel next week-end. Mrs. Ed. Boulter, bonspiel organizer, already has fourteen rinks entered. Mrs. Joe Scott, who is getting the prizes together, says several interesting awards have been put up.

The awarding of the prizes will take place at the semi-annual meeting of the Women's Curling Club to be held April 14 at Civic Centre. Election of officers will also take place at that time.

Taller Players And Bigger
Hall Experience Necessary
For Sr. A Success—Calderone

To make an effective bid for Senior A basketball championship honors, it is necessary to have taller players than Prince Rupert presented at Vancouver this week when the local Challengers were decisively turned back by Vancouver Eilers in the provincial finals, says Fred Calderone, sports director at the Civic Centre, who was back in his gym yesterday

Remember when?

James J. Braddock, then a comparative unknown, won a decision over Art Lasky in 15 rounds 17 years ago tonight to gain recognition as leading contender for the heavyweight boxing title. Less than three months later Braddock won the world crown with an upset victory over Max Baer, but he lost the title to Joe Louis in 1937.

Spring Salmon Few—Sunnyside Rebuilding—
New Control of Sunnyside and Klemtu

While considerable catches of spring salmon, or kings as they call them there, are being made by the sports and commercial fishermen out of Ketchikan, very few, apparently, are being caught around Prince Rupert so far. Of course, there are more trollers out around Ketchikan than there are here. Season for both trolling and netting of springs is now open here.

Dragers for flatfish at Two Peaks and the Flats on Hecate Straits have not been doing so well of late. The fish seem to have become scarcer, some report. However, several boats are still out, bringing their catches to the local plants for filleting.

While fishing activities are still in the doldrums, Prince Rupert waterfront boat repair plants and machine shops are plenty busy getting the fleet ready for the halibut fishing, which commences May 14, and the salmon fishing that will follow a month later.

B. C. Packers is still proceeding with an extensive program of rebuilding and renovation at Sunnyside cannery in the Skeena Slough, the company's salmon canning headquarters for this area. Last week considerable work was done. Sunnyside will be a much improved plant when 1952 operations commence.

Reports persist that a deal, in which Robert Gosse, member of a pioneer coast salmon canning family is involved, has been consummated whereby the Inverness and Klemtu canneries of J. H. Todd & Sons Ltd. come under new control. Confirmation is not obtainable locally. J. Wilson of North Vancouver has become manager of Klemtu cannery, it is reported. As far as known, C. H. McKinnell is remaining at Inverness.

B. C. Packers claim canning plant at Seal Cove continues busy. Substantial quantities of the shell fish have been coming in for some time from various beaches on the neighboring coast, natives to large extent doing the digging.

Chinese Nationalist freighter, Hai Yu, loading grain at the local elevator, is expected to be ready to sail by Monday. The vessel is taking about 330,000 bushels to Moji, Japan. She arrived on Thursday morning from Vancouver.

Examinations for candidates for tugboat masters' and other tickets following the school for navigation held here during the past winter by Capt. William Kougham, harbor master and port warden, have been set for April 15. It is expected about fifteen candidates will sit. Capt. John Llewellyn, examiner of masters and mates, is coming from Vancouver to conduct the examinations.

for records, was screen tested and also guest-starred on a number of radio programs. Champ's biggest break happened when Fran Warren, who was scheduled to open at the Mocambo in Hollywood, came down with laryngitis. And so, the some Champ Butler who, less than a year before was parking cars at this fabulous night spot, was now the star attraction.

His two different styles of singing can be heard on his new recordings, "Them There Eyes," "Looka There Ain't She Pretty," "At Your Beck and Call," and "These Precious Things Are Mine."

"Frenchie" Exciting

Shelley Winters and Joel McCrea Head Cast In Capitol Feature

Return of a notorious gambling lady to a western town to avenge the murder of her father years before provides the basis for "Frenchie," an action-packed picture which comes to the Capitol Theatre here next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Glamorous Shelley Winters plays the title role.

Joel McCrea is the he-man law enforcement officer who finds it unnecessary to use a gun even in the most ticklish circumstances with the toughest of outdoor badmen.

How Miss Winters accomplishes her mission of trapping the murderers of her father by setting up a fantastic saloon and gambling place, almost involving the sheriff in a case of murder, makes an exciting story.

Marie Windsor also has an important part and is highlighted in a wildcat battle with Miss Winters on the barroom floor. Paul Kelly, Elsa Lanchester, John Russell and John Emery round out the supporting cast.

Comedy, Romance

Larry Parks and Barbara Hale, of "Jolson Sings Again" fame, come back to the Totem Theatre next Monday and Tuesday in "Emergency Wedding," a swift-paced and hilarious comedy of a couple who celebrate their courtship, engagement, nuptials and quarrel in record time.

Parks is a young man with plenty of money and nothing much to do who earnestly hunts for a career and finds in it being jealous of his new wife's own career. Miss Hale, the bride, will not even stay for breakfast because she has plans of her own.

The romantic conflict thereby engendered is complicated by the presence of an inordinate number of stalwart males, all ready and willing to help the bride.

Willard Parker heads the supporting cast as a former admirer of Miss Hale who still remains her lawyer after her marriage. It is Parker who supplies the straw that separates the newlyweds by arranging a surprise which is mistaken by husband Parks as a rendezvous. However, everything comes out satisfactorily in the end.

Una Merkel and Alan Reed also contribute to the plentiful comedy.
