

Cattle Embargo May Cause Unemployment

NATO Secretary Job Muddled

LONDON — L. B. Pearson, Minister of External Affairs for Canada, has decided not to accept an appointment as secretary-general of the new streamlined North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a well informed source of information said today. Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador to Washington, has already declined the appointment.

The Manchester Guardian described the delay in making the appointment of a secretary-general as an "unfortunate muddle." Pearson could hardly have been expected to accept the appointment after it had already been offered to Franks and turned down by him.

Allies Stage Tank Attack

SEOUL — A powerful force of Allied tank raiders smashed through a former Red supply base of Kumsong today and blasted Chinese entrenched north of the city.

The two-pronged attack battered the Reds for more than three hours.

Some of the larger General Patton tanks were damaged but others took them in tow and pulled them back to their bases, when the raiders broke off the fight.

Alberni Mill Man Drowned

PORT ALBERNI — A 35-year-old lumber mill operator was drowned Thursday when a lumber carrier he was operating kidded off a ramp.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police said they believed Tommy Sherriett was knocked unconscious when the vehicle dropped off the assembly wharf near the Tahsis Lumber Co. mill.

An inquest will be held Monday night.

Parliament Sings "God Save Queen"

OTTAWA — After the reading of the Speech from the Throne in Parliament yesterday every-one rose and sang "God Save the Queen" at the suggestion of Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent.

Should Fight for Conservation of Natural Resources

Candid Speakers Heard at Rod and Gun Club Gathering—Exploitation Scored

Prince Rupert hunters and sport fishermen last night heard a retired government official urge them to fight for conservation of natural resources—in particular the forests. He also called on the Rod and Gun Club to "stand firm" in its demand to have scientists stationed in northern B.C. to study game fish and animals.

Ontario Cattle Hit by Disease

OTTAWA — The Department of Agriculture disclosed Thursday that a new cattle disease has been discovered on an Ontario farm where a number of cattle have died.

The new disease was identified as a variety of typhus which is transmitted by a parasite. It has never before hit Canada.

The outbreak was discovered on a farm at Kintore, near Thamesville, Ontario.

EMPTY STOCKYARDS—Regina's stockyards are empty as a result of a ban on the movement of cattle in the district because of a foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in southern Saskatchewan. Infected herds are being rounded up and slaughtered. (CP PHOTO)

Throne Speech Tells Of Kitimat Railway

OTTAWA—The giant new aluminum industry at Kitimat in Skeena riding, figured yesterday in the Throne Speech at opening of Parliament.

The development was indirectly mentioned when it was indicated that the building of a 43-mile railway from Terrace to Kitimat was projected.

Retaliation By Canada

OTTAWA — Government trade and financial officials said today that Canada has "every hope" that the United States soon will lift offensive restrictions against imports of Canadian dairy products.

However, they said, if no action is forthcoming by next June, there is "every possibility" Canada may impose equally offensive restrictions against some American farm products.

The action would be in retaliation for refusal of United States Congress to rescind legislation imposing quotas in cheese and other dairy products.

Atlee Replies To Churchill

LONDON—Replying to charges of Prime Minister Winston Churchill the day previous, Former Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee denied yesterday that his government had agreed to extend the Korean war across the Yalu River into Communist China. He had, however, agreed with the United States that, if attacks by Communist bombers in Korea became too heavy, Manchurian air bases should be attacked.

PRINCE RUPERT MLA HEARD AT VICTORIA

J. D. McRae Defends Forest Management—Seeks Early Blacktopping of Highway

VICTORIA—Speaking in the Throne Speech debate in the Legislature this afternoon, J. D. McRae, MLA for Prince Rupert defended the government's forest management policy. The first forest management licence in the province, he said, had brought a permanent boom to the Prince Rupert area.

Mr. McRae felt that every consideration was being given to the small operator under the forest management system.

"However some restrictive regulations must be placed on small and big operators if we are to guarantee perpetual employment to our citizens in the forest industry."

Speaking of highway matters Mr. McRae said: it is reasonable that reconstruction and blacktopping should be done on the highway from Prince Rupert which is at the hub of expansion. Instead of waiting until black-topping is laid 700 miles from the south. He presumed that a practical program was to be laid down from both ends as well as possible mid-points and work will be done on the Rupert-Terrace section which has been neglected. Apart from 27 miles along CNR right-of-way, Mr. McRae held that there was 63 miles between Prince Rupert and Terrace which should be prepared for black-topping as early as possible.

In opening Mr. McRae expressed regret at the passing of King George VI and wished a good reign to Queen Elizabeth II.

He referred to the importance of the fishing industry in the area which, in spite of the expansion of industry, is still one of most importance to the city of Prince Rupert.

In keeping with the hope of the fishing industry to create a home market for canned salmon, he placed a tin of canned salmon—"Paramount Brand"—on the desk of each member. "May the deliciousness of this product induce the members to eat more fish products," he exhorted.

Mr. McRae felt that the government had acted wisely in deferring action on the report of the legislative inquiry board on the Industrial Conciliation Act.

Slaughter Of Cattle Proceeds

REGINA — Cattle, affected with foot and mouth disease, were herded alive into the first mass grave on the western outskirts of Regina today.

Once this pit is filled to its 200-head capacity, Royal Canadian Mounted Police constables will begin slaughtering them.

First burial pit is on the farm of Konstantine Haun, 69-year-old dairy farmer, who has forty of his cattle marked for slaughter because of the dread disease.

Storm in Maritimes

HALIFAX—One of the fiercest storms of the season swept the Maritimes yesterday. Shipping was held to port and railway, highway and air transportation was delayed or cancelled.

A gale reached velocity of sixty miles an hour and over. There were great drifts of snow. Snow here was followed by heavy rain which left streets and roads a sea of slush.

After sweeping over the three Maritime Provinces, the storm moved on to Newfoundland.

PETERBOROUGH, England (CP)—Kathleen Marsh, 56-year-old postmistress in this Northamptonshire city, is emigrating to Canada because she feels many people between 55 and 60 "get into a rut." She says "I feel that making fresh contacts will give me a new zest for life."

Five Hundred Packing House Workers Facing Prospect of Job Loss

VANCOUVER — Five hundred packing house workers may be thrown out of employment as a result of the embargo which has been imposed by the British Columbia government against live and dressed cattle from east of the Alberta border following the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

A spokesman of the Packing House Workers' Union today said there might be some justification for the embargo on live cattle but he saw no reason for an embargo on dressed meats.

The authority of the provincial Department of Agriculture to impose an embargo on inter-provincial trade is being questioned.

Bruntjen at Laboratory

VANCOUVER (CP)—On instructions from the veterinary division of the federal Department of Health, Will Bruntjen, German immigrant, who was picked up here yesterday morning as the suspected carrier of foot-and-mouth disease, into Saskatchewan, was flown last night to Ottawa.

Today at Hall, Que., laboratory tests will be carried out on the immigrant. There is no charge against him but the authorities wish to make sure he is not an innocent carrier of the disease.

Bruntzen was recognized when he walked into the immigration building about 10 a.m. and asked for a job.

Bruntjen arrived a few months ago from Westphalia, Germany, where foot and mouth disease was prevalent a year ago.

Why Mr. Drew Was Absent

Says No Provision Made For Him at Governor-General's Welcome

OTTAWA—Opposition Leader George Drew failed to appear at Union Station yesterday for the welcoming ceremonies on arrival of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

He explained later the reason—no provision had been made on the printed program for the Leader of the Opposition.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, were there.

Mr. Drew attended the swearing in ceremony later and, of course, the opening of Parliament when the new Governor-General delivered the Speech from the Throne.

Faure Quits And Reynaud Called Upon

PARIS—Following a defeat in the Chamber of Deputies last night, Premier Edgar Faure offered resignation of his cabinet to President Auriol who today called upon 72-year-old former Premier Paul Reynaud to form a new government.

Faure lost a pre-dawn vote on his bill to raise taxes fifteen percent in order to pay rearmament costs. He promptly resigned.

President Auriol then plunged into the tangled maze of French politics in search of a new Premier who can dig up the money to pay France's share of rising Atlantic defence costs. His choice fell upon Reynaud who flew home from London.

A rightist coalition might agree to a new sales tax but would find the harness troublesome on other issues. Faure's was the twentieth government France has had since liberation.

Would Put Divorce In Hands of Court

OTTAWA — Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg, is again introducing a bill in Parliament calling for divorces to be handled by the Exchequer Court of Canada instead of by Parliament. Knowles failed in a similar measure last year.

Prince Rupert Man Has "Sure Cure" for Foot-Mouth Disease

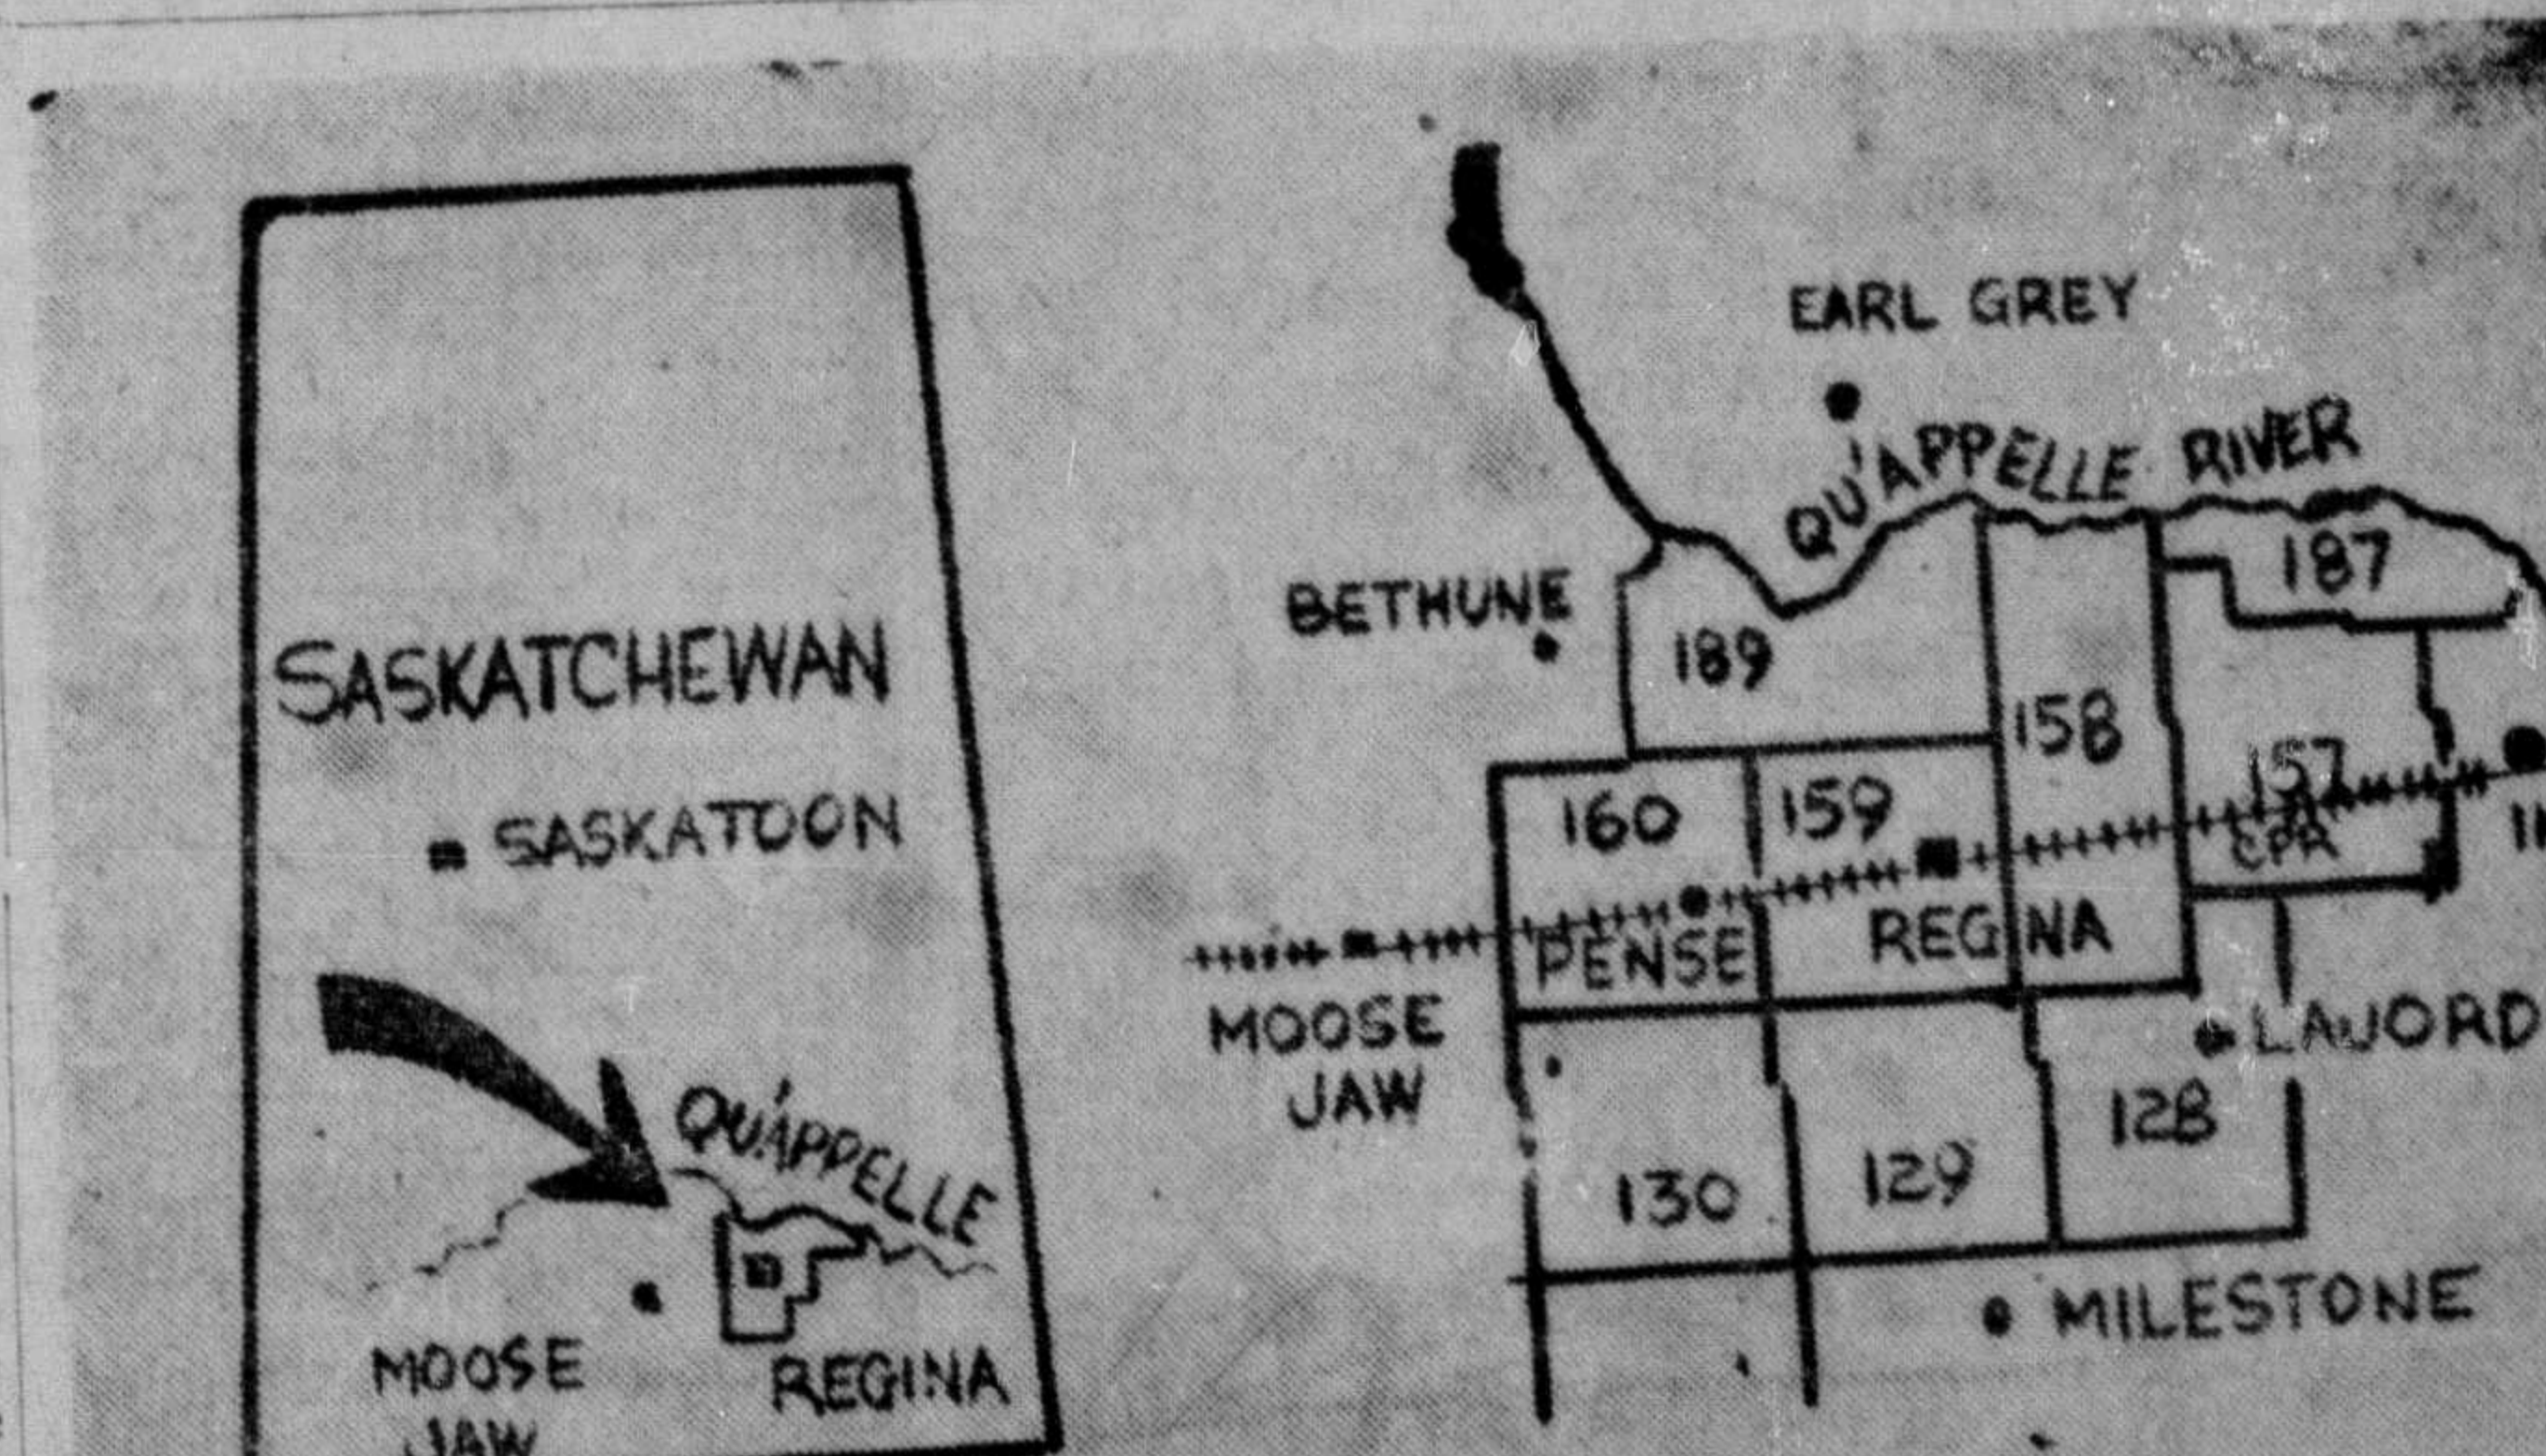

REGINA — Government officials yesterday laughed off several "remedies" for foot and mouth disease they are combatting in eleven municipalities surrounding Regina.

"Some of them are ridiculous," officials said. All of them are "a lot of malarky and useless." There is no known cure for the disease.

A man in Prince Rupert wired to say he could "guarantee positively to kill foot and mouth disease in one treatment." He said he could demonstrate his cure if some one would send him a railway ticket to Regina.

QUARANTINED AREA—Two maps show the original area in south Saskatchewan from which movement of livestock has been forbidden by the federal government. The agriculture department Tuesday moved to extend the area from nine to 10 municipalities. Elmsthorpe, not shown on the map at right, has been included in the quarantine section which resulted from an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among cattle in the Regina area. Map at left shows the area in relation to the province. (CP PHOTO)

HISTORIC RING

HAVANT, England (CP)—Experts believe that a gold ring discovered in a garden in this Hampshire village is actually the episcopal ring worn by William of Wykeham, the 14th century bishop who founded Winchester College.

"Otherwise your province will become denuded and will be a barren waste."

"Give all this foreign propaganda as to development of our natural resources much thought."

British Budget

SUSPENSE over Britain's new budget has politicians palpitating in anticipation. The British budget always causes excitement and apprehension, but this time it is something special. It is the first Conservative peacetime budget in 13 years. It marks the first decisive, thought-out stroke of policy under the new regime and it comes at a time of critical importance in the affairs of the country.

From the economic point of view, the budget to be presented March 11, may well determine whether a new devaluation of the pound will be needed during the summer. That is when the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves will be depleted if the pound continues at the present rate.

Politically, the proposals of Richard Austen Butler in his first term as Chancellor of the Exchequer are equally touch-and-go. All signs are that the Labour opposition is in a sour mood. The Communists, small in numbers but influential in some trade unions, have already launched a campaign to use government economies as a trigger for strikes in industry.

By now, everybody knows that Britain is going broke. Nearly everybody agrees something should be done about it. The problem for Butler, in broadest terms, is how to do it without providing an obvious signal for industrial unrest in a country where the social climate sometimes tends to be tricky.

Britain is spending more than she earns. The three main items of government expenditure are defence, social services and food subsidies. Of these only the subsidies afford prospect of substantial saving.

The hitch is that Labour regards these as inviolate and that the effect of abolishing them would be dynamic. While posters which helped the Conservatives win the last election still wave on some billboards promising lower prices, removal of the subsidies would have an impact on every housekeeping budget. Price tags on bread, milk, meat and butter would show a sharp increase.

The Conservative argument would be that the change has to come, that the subsidies come out of taxes anyway, that it would only affect each individual by a sum roughly equal to that paid for a weekly package of cigarettes. The question may be whether the public is sophisticated enough to listen to such arguments.

Butler is not committed to any change. At an election meeting last October, he became wrathful when hecklers taunted him with proposing to clip the subsidies. In the Conservative election manifesto, it is stated although the subsidies had risen to "alarming proportions, in present circumstances it would clearly not only be unwise but impossible to make any radical change."

The key word may be "radical." It seems as good a guess as any that the subsidies will be modestly trimmed, come what may on the political front.

Flags at Half Mast

AFTER the death of King George VI, flags were lowered half-mast in sign of mourning. However, some complained about the way the flags were hoisted half-mast. Some says that they should have been lowered only their own width from the tops of their poles.

The following is an extract from "The King's Regulations and Orders for the Canadian Militia," paragraph 1413 (b), which will explain everything:

"When flags are order to be half-masted, they will be hoisted close up when first hoisted and immediately lowered to half-mast, i.e., the centre of the flag in line with a point midway between the top of the mast and ground or roof level, as applicable."

Railway Union Leader Retires

MONTREAL—A leading figure of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen since 1907, William G. Graham will retire as locomotive engineer with the Canadian National Railway and as chairman and vice-president of the Brotherhood at the end of this month.

Vice-President of the Brotherhood since 1941 with headquarters in Montreal, Mr. Graham was first elected local chairman in 1907 and became general chairman in 1926. He was made a member of the Brotherhood's board of directors in 1940 before being appointed vice-president.

Make Inquiries Regarding Alcan

More inquiries about the program of work to be performed in the Alcan undertaking continue to be received from industrial firms, schools, colleges and banks in Canada and the United States. There is a large re-run of the original brochure of information.

REFUGEES CROWD SEOUL—Despite a ban on crossing the Han River, refugees still crush into the overcrowded capital—sometimes at the risk of their lives. The jamming causes ration and housing complications inside Seoul, but everyone has a roof and enough food to live. KOREA SURVEY

New "Thirty-Eighth Parallel Found" On Great Han River

[Editor's Note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer in Korea, has completed a two-week survey of conditions among the civilian population during the Korean winter. This article is the fourth of a series based on interviews with United Nations, Korean Republic and civilian sources.]

By BILL BOSS
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—In Korean "Hangang" means "Great River." The word is reserved for one watercourse, the majestic Han which winds through Seoul in its westward flow into the Yellow Sea. It's frozen now.

Koreans bite out a new definition for its expanse of ice. They call it "the second 38th parallel the United Nations have given us"—because they are forbidden to cross it.

The people—as distinct from the government—are becoming increasingly acid and impatient over an Eighth Army order making the river's south bank the limit of free movement in South Korea, and forbidding them from entering their capital.

Public meetings debate the order both north and south of the stream. Newspapers devote editorials and articles to it.

And refugees from Seoul defy the ban, returning clandestinely, often risking and losing life.

Last May, Seoul, in peacetime a city of more than 1,000,000 population, numbered 240,000 and was a closed area. Today it numbers 680,000. One way or another more than 60,000 got back last month.

Officially, only four classes of civilians may enter the city: civic officials to keep government functioning, tax officials, utilities employees, and individuals working with United Nations units.

THE REASONS

Eighth Army pronouncements give four reasons for the no-crossing policy:

1. A shortage of rice and other foods.
2. Inadequate water, electricity and sanitation.
3. Overloading of the high-level bridge across the Han must be prevented because it is the only main supply route to the front.
4. Medical facilities inadequate to handle casualties that would result if the Communists decided to launch air raids.

SAY RICE ABUNDANT

The Koreans reply:

1. Rice is abundant in the markets, and 10 per cent cheaper than anywhere else in Korea.
2. The Eighth Army's own Civilian Assistance Command has announced the restoration of the utilities.
3. Most of the army's supplies and personnel move by rail and the bridge could handle

As I See It

Predicts Two Winners

THE GOVERNMENT OF Ontario has just announced a new housing scheme that is far ahead of anything so far in sight in the three westernmost provinces of Canada—all of which have governments which consider themselves more progressive than the Ontario Conservatives.

The Frost administration's plan is based on a rental purchase scheme. The government will take the responsibility of seeing that more new houses are built. The family will "rent" the new home. But in the "rent" there will be a margin included which automatically builds up the tenant's ownership in the property. It is the most sensible plan I have heard yet for Canada.

ALL THREE westernmost provinces are to have elections this year. I hereby predict the results in two of them:

CCF to win, hands down, in Saskatchewan—for it is the best provincial government that Saskatchewan has ever had.

Social Credit to win in Alberta, but with a reduced majority—with Liberals making gains. The weakest spot in the Social Credit record in Alberta is its lack of an overall health and hospital insurance scheme. Harper Prowse, the Alberta Liberal leader, has announced that he will make this a main issue in the campaign.

IN THE recent sharp fighting on the Suez canal the British were suddenly faced by well-organized attacks. I think you will find the answer to that mystery in a recent report by John Ashton in the Christian Science Monitor.

It comes from Germany and says that Colonel Hanak Hassim Bey, otherwise known as "Major Hans Muller," who served on Rommel's staff in Africa, is signing up ex-members of the German Afrika Corps to serve in Egypt, Syria and Iraq. According to Ashton report the following

Reflects and Reminisces

This can be said about a Prince Rupert fish. It has no feet and, as far as a mouth is concerned—well, that's no matter. And how does a halibut or a herring become infected, anyway?

ANOTHER OPERATION?

Waldo Demara, the ruddy rover who posing as a salt water surgeon showed real skill in the Canadian Navy is back from Hollywood. There, he is said to have offered the story of his life and signed a contract. He would like $100,000. Waldo has the right idea. Filmdom is interested only in big money.

The Duke of Edinburgh, husband of the Queen, has a sense of humor. That's more than the last Consort had.

Mardi Gras came to its glamorous conclusion for the year, this week. The ten day preceding Ash Wednesday brim with action, color, gladness, parades, shenanigans, jocularities and what have you. Historic New Orleans, founded almost three centuries ago and in that time under six flags, stages her most alluring show. Small wonder multitudes flock to witness it.

COMING OVER

Southampton workmen cheered the Duke of Windsor who expects to return to England in April or May, accompanied by the Duchess. The latter has not yet been received by the Royal Family. Times have changed since the abdication. And there may be more.

Now and not later is the time to complete vacation plans. For changes are always insisted on by the time real summer—or in other words—the real holiday period makes itself known.

used instead of Channel 7. This is not correct, as Channel 4 has been in use there for many years. As a preliminary to the information which we wish to convey to you, I would like to state that in the Vancouver area we are establishing a number of Frequency Modulated (F.M.) radiotelephone terminals and many of the subscribers at present using Channel 7 in this area will avail themselves of this new service and abandon the old channel. This will, of course, relieve the interference and should improve the service at Prince Rupert.

Channel 7 is preferable to Channel 4 because the lower frequencies on Channel 7 will not reach out as far as those on Channel 4 and so will not receive the same amount of interference from Vancouver. Alterations in the Prince Rupert area will improve transmission on Channel 7.

In view of the fact that it is highly desirable that Channel 7 continue to be well served, arrangements for Channel 7 as well as the version of this news in the Daily News will be made.

Mrs. Priest's Shells Make Intriguing Hobby Display

Mrs. Thomas Priest has on display at the Civic Centre until tomorrow night the results of years of a very fascinating hobby—shells. Five hundred of them, she has collected shells of every size and shape from many parts of the world, but the greatest number are from the local beaches or those of Queen Charlottes.

Some of her hobby many have for her odd shells are mounted on sea life such as shells or sponges. With some glue, modeling clay or plastic wood and a little imagination, Mrs. Priest can make flowers, figures or other things in the details of her hobby. Mrs. Priest's shells form the full of a lady's dress, while some are the flowers on a dress. A large shell forms a bath tub, a small worm house for a small armadillo turn into a house and full grown ones are used for shell bouquets, polished shells form perches for bluebirds or peacocks, a shell coral, which forms a picture, makes an attractive picture for the side of a house.

Her plane was twice forced back from landing at Minneapolis because of bad weather. At Detroit she missed her plane while looking for her luggage. She finally reached Toronto by train. Then Lady Luck smiled. A department store supplied her with new luggage and clothing; she placed second against six boys in the cornet solo class under 12 years and finished third against 11 boys in the under 15 class. # Elizabethan Style Era

Queen's Dresses Will Affect Clothes Trends

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Pondering on fashion in the new Elizabethan era, British writers forecast that dresses worn by Queen Elizabeth II, like those of her ancestor, "Good Queen Bess," will affect clothes trends—but on a far wider scale.

When the first Elizabeth influenced only court styles, the new Queen's sense of fashion will be reflected at all levels of society.

After the Canadian tour, women in all parts of Britain and the Commonwealth discussed and envied the rich velvet coats, slim tailored suits and glittering crinoline gowns worn by Elizabeth. These were recorded with beauty of detail in such epic as the Canadian tour film, "Royal Journey" (now showing in Prince Rupert).

Styles worn by Elizabeth on many important occasions have been in production within the month—and sold at prices acceptable to the general public. Such things as the coat and hat she wore to leave London on her honeymoon were reproduced and sold by the hundred, on home and overseas markets.

LOVES GLITTER

Taking into consideration the increased elegance and maturity of the Queen's styles since her marriage, fashion writers incline to think Elizabeth will play an even greater role as fashion leader. Edna McKenna of the Daily Graphic says that styles worn during the Canadian tour may signify a revival of essentially feminine clothes.

Like her ancestor of the earlier Elizabethan era, Elizabeth loves the glittering finery of jeweled, encrusted crinoline ball gowns that give a sparkle to formal state occasions. And with the femininity she shows preference for the graceful sweep of princess lines that effectively emphasize her waist.

The Canadian wardrobe included many such styles. One example was the olive-green velvet coat with nipped-in waist and swinging skirt.

Queen has already set her seal on more than one current fashion favorite. She was the first of the royal family to wear shorter evening gowns. Ballet slippers, dresses formed part of the Canadian and Australian tour wardrobes.

SECRET WARDROBE

In the 11 days of her reign, observations on the Queen's fashion sense were based partly on clothes worn in Canada. So far, this would be Australian attire remains a secret aboard the Gothic. It is expected, however, that the clothes worn in London for wear in June when court mourning is ended.

But the more elaborate of these styles are unlikely to be worn for some time. The summer choice is expected to feature delicate hat shades with a smattering of white and black. The Queen has shown a preference for black on other occasions than court mourning.

Gardening....

FOR BIG HOME GARDEN YIELD, EFFICIENT SEWING NECESSARY

Carrots Are Root Crops

Chard Is a Leaf Crop

Before buying seeds for a garden this spring, devote a few evenings to considering what vegetables you will grow. To some extent, the list will depend upon the amount of space you devote to this leisure-time activity.

Heaviest yield from small space can be obtained from vegetables of which we eat the leaves. These include the "greens" which are cooked, and the salad leaves, which are eaten raw. They yield abundantly they are usually overplanted.

Next in food production, compared to space occupied, are vegetables of which we eat the roots, stems, or seed pods. Beets, carrots, parsnips, broccoli, snap beans, turnips and onions all give heavy yields, are rich in vitamins and minerals.

Don't discard any of these on the theory that you do not like them, unless you have eaten them when half grown, fresh from the garden. This is an experience which only home gardeners can enjoy, and it will give a new conception of how delicious vegetables can be.

Vegetables which give the lowest return in food value for the space they occupy are those of which we eat the seed or fruits such as melons, cucumbers, squash, peas and lima beans. But if you can grow these on stakes, trellises or fences, thus exploiting the air rights of your garden area, you can afford the luxury crops even in a small garden.

Melons and pole lima beans are all good crops for training on a garden fence, where they yield well.

Plan which keeps your garden space busy throughout the season will require some study.

Snap Beans Are Pod Crops

Pod crops which require the most planning are those which give a late harvest and should be planted one after the other. The tendency is to sow too much in the spring, so there is more than you can use from the first harvest, then a scarcity later on.

The faster a vegetable grows, the less time it remains in good table condition after it matures. To prevent waste, you must sow at first only enough seed to produce the vegetables you can use before they lose quality. Then make other sowings, to mature in succession, so you always have a new crop in harvest or approaching it.

This takes figuring, but is not really difficult. A few hours devoted to planning this winter, will save much wasted effort in the spring and summer. To enjoy a garden, you should keep it as small as practical, fertilize it richly, give it plenty of water, protection against insects, and good cultivation. Such a garden will produce as large a harvest of superior quality, and with less work, than twice as much space upon which the same amount is planted.

Some of the money that will send Prince Rupert all-star cagers to Penticton and Vancouver (we hope) already has started to come in—and mostly from tight little fists clutching pennies, dimes and occasional dollar bills. Sports Director Fred Calderoni says the kids—junior and pee-wee basketball players—were some of the first to offer their donations.

Others, adult sport fans, also are coming to the fore with $1, $2 and $5 bills, all earmarked for the kitty now known as the "On To Penticton Fund."

A committee appointed to look after the fund and campaigning is headed by Basketball Association Vice-President Don Forward and includes Boyo Gurvich, Dan Doswell, Jack Marchant and Calderoni. B.A. President R. H. "Slim" Davidson is ex-officio on the committee.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Maybe Mr. Muzzy Should Play All His Hands Blindfolded

In a team of four match against the Uptown Club, Mr. Champion had made four spades on the East and West cards. When the hand was replayed in the other room, his teammates, sitting North and South, had defeated that same contract.

"How did you beat this hand, Dale?" asked Mr. Champion. "Mr. East must have had a card misplaced or must have revoked."

Mr. Dale explained that somebody had a card misplaced, all right, but it wasn't Mr. East. It was Mr. Muzzy.

Here's what happened. Mr.

(Mr. Dale)
(Mr. Muzzy)
(Mr. East)

The bidding
North 1D East 4S South West All pass

Muzzy led his singleton diamond and dummy's 10 went to Mr. Dale's jack. Mr. Dale returned the king of diamonds and Mr. East ruffed.

Up to this point the play had been the same in both rooms. But here it took a sharply different course. Mr. Muzzy didn't overruff with the king of spades—because he didn't know he had it.

He had that card mixed in with his clubs. In fact he had considered bidding five clubs on his hand, believing he had a seven-card suit and a lone spade.

Anyway, he discarded the eight of clubs at trick three, signalling that he wanted that suit led. This weird manoeuvre started a strange, though logical, train of thought in Mr. East's mind. He was now sure the king of spades was in Mr. Dale's hand and the bidding served to confirm this belief.

He didn't want to take a spade finesse, lose to Mr. Dale's king and have a spade pounded back at him. That would leave only one trump in dummy and Mr. East had several bad hearts to ruff. Besides, there was a pretty fair chance that Mr. Dale had the lone king.

Accordingly, Mr. East led a spade and went up with the ace. He was disappointed when the king failed to drop. He led back a heart and finessed the queen.

Mr. Muzzy took the king of hearts and it was here that he noticed the king of spades in his hand. "Wait a minute," he cried. "We're mixed up."

His opponents got quite a laugh out of this, pointing out that the only person mixed up was Muzzy himself. Their mirth was short-lived, however, as Muzzy cashed the king of spades and shifted to a heart. Mr. East had to lose two heart tricks in all and these, plus the diamond and spade losers, sent him to defeat.

House-Cleaning Menus — As surely as spring house-cleaning is just around the corner, it's time to clear the old desk-drawer of a hotch-potch of homemaking hints and recipes. There are sewing tips and directions about making "daisies" out of turnips. There's even a health menu left over from Health Week a few weeks back.

The menu incidentally was used for a luncheon in Toronto. Here it is: tomato juice; beef (at least four ounces); baked potato; peas and carrots; salad (cabbage, lettuce, carrots, tomato with French dressing); two wheat rolls; butter or fortified margarine (one-half ounce); cheese (one-half ounce); stoned wheat thins; coffee (clear); iodized salt; whole milk (eight ounces).

The turnip tip came from the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers Association. The daisies add a decorative touch to the sandwich or relish tray. "Just cut very thin slices cross-wise of the turnip," say the fruit wholesalers. "Then cut holes in the centres of the slices with the tip of a knife and insert a light carrot curl—now with your kitchen scissors, snip the turnip up to within one-

Rabbits — From Ontario's Lands and Forest Department comes a dish said to be a favorite with conservation officials—rabbit-pie.

Cut the rabbit into frying pieces and brown in frying-pan on top of stove. Remove meat and cool. Cut meat into small pieces. To the liquid in the frying-pan add one cup of port wine.

Pot rabbit and juices in deep baking-dish. Cut up and add one onion. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until tender. Add one can of condensed mushroom soup. Cover with biscuit dough and bake until done.

renheit until tender. Add one can of condensed mushroom soup. Cover with biscuit dough and bake until done. By the way, rabbits have formed an important part of the meat diet in rationed Britain these last few years, particularly at the inns where "jugged hare" is seen frequently on the dinner menus. But despite the fact Britons have meat rationing did you know they are exporting meat to Canada? A release from the United Kingdom information office at Ottawa explains this: "The export of canned meat products to Canada is an important part of Britain's drive to earn more dollars to pay for essential food and raw materials." Spring Sewing—Those in the know saw that "torso" skirts will be popular this spring—some to feature pleats stitched to the hipline. Others will have a hip yoke from which the skirt bells out. Important pattern styles for spring: brief cape-line jacket; curved jacket suit; turtle-neck blouses; full swing skirts; shirt-dresses worn over crinoline petticoats.

Speaking of the liquor plebiscite Mr. McRae proposed the following questions as the fairest way of getting a popular answer:

"Are you in favor of the following on a local option basis?"

"1—The sale of beer and wine in restaurants.

"2—The sale of alcoholic beverages by the glass in licensed premises."

"By answering a question in this manner the majority opinion of the province could be obtained," felt Mr. McRae. If the count indicated that the majority favor such changes then the local option basis could be used. In the various areas of the province, similar to the manner in which the beer plebiscite is handled at the present time.

"Some opinions have been expressed that, if the majority are in favor of a change in the liquor laws, that such changes will be inflicted on the whole province. Personally, I feel that any changes in the Liquor Act should be uniform and in conformity with the existing legislation which is practised today.

"As is well known the City of Victoria objects to licensed premises within its boundaries and they are therefore non-existent. Should not such an area have the same prerogative when dealing with matters on the wider use of alcoholic beverages?"

THE CHALLENGE

This year again the Red Cross Appeal presents us with a challenge . . . and an opportunity. Wherever our deepest sympathies lie . . . with the victims of disaster, of war or accident . . . there the Red Cross is working on our behalf. As the need to alleviate suffering grows, the generosity of Canadians grows too. But today the task is almost beyond measure. New victims of war wounds, greater need of lifesaving blood transfusion services, the inevitability of great disasters of fire and flood . . . all must find the Red Cross ready. There is the challenge. The opportunity to help is before you.

Should Fight For

"Outside countries want only one thing from us—profit. They do not give a damn about Canada but for that, and when they are through with our country, you will find you are left with only a shell."

Mr. McLeod, who has spent most of his lifetime in the customs service, and has devoted much time to problems of sportsmen, called "our forest cover the most important asset we have as far as big game, fish and upland birds are concerned. Without that there is no habitat."

He gave figures of the annual timber cut of B.C. compared to the program of reforestation and pointed out that it takes "between 60 and 80 years before young trees reach the stage of small merchantable timber."

"We must put into effect an immediate policy of reforestation."

He reported on the last meeting of the Fish and Game Council which passed a resolution "strongly protesting" flooding of lands by the Alcan project in the Tweedsmuir Park area before removal of all timber and debris to high water mark.

Under present agreement with the B.C. government, Alcan was not required to remove any timber, he said, "yet there is 90 million feet of timber in the area."

CLOYAH CREEK PROBLEM
Mr. McLeod urged the sportsmen to pass a resolution at its annual meeting next month "that a competent fishing officer be stationed at Cloyah Creek dam during every summer and fall, to see that sufficient water is in the creek at all times to spawning waters above the dam."

He referred to the dam which was constructed by Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. to provide water for its pulp mill here.

"The dam was to allow sufficient water in the creek at all times so fish can reach their spawning grounds. Last year there was not sufficient water in Cloyah on many occasions and thousands of salmon fry died on the creek bottom for want of water."

He said he read a statement of a local Fishery Department official who said sockeye salmon only swam up stream at night to spawning grounds.

"When a responsible government official peddles such bunk over a serious question as this was, it's time for action."

He suggested the resolution be forwarded to Hon. K. W. Maynew, minister of fisheries, and Mr. T. Appiewhaite, MP for Skeena.

FISH HATCHERY
Mr. McLeod also urged the Rod and Gun Club to fight for a fish hatchery in Northern B.C., to be in charge of a fishery biologist who would be permanently stationed at the hatchery and his services available for advice on various streams and lakes in this area. He also proposed a game biologist for northern B.C. to study and give advice on game question.

"These casual hurried visits of biologists to such a large area as ours is of little value."

Eric Martin, Provincial forester formerly stationed at Smithers and at present in Terrace, denounced "foreign ownership" of Canadian hunting and fishing grounds.

HUMAN PREDATORS
"Right now we have the best hunting and fishing territory in the world right here, but it can only become worse, not better."

"We have to fight with everything we have at our disposal to keep out the commercial rangers on our natural heritage."

Drowning at Pt. Clements

A 38-year-old logging engineer was drowned at Port Clements Wednesday, RCMP said today he was Arthur Germya, employed by Kelly Logging Co. He was on holidays and is reported to have fallen off a barge.

Body has not been recovered and RCMP are conducting dragging operations. He is single and has a brother, Claude, superintendent of the logging company.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

The Greek sulphur ship, 5,700-ton George M. Embiricos, Capt. John Goulondris, sailed Monday after discharging a cargo of sulphur for Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. pulp mill at Watson Island. Agents for the Greek ship are Brett & Field.

We should enlist the help of newspapers, such associations as this, and other organs," he declared.

He pointed out many ravages on game fish, animals and birds and said humans, not wild animals, were most destructive predators.

"You are not squealer; when you tell the game warden about infractions of the game laws. Those animals, birds and fish are your own. When people destroy more than they need they should be dealt with in the same way as a chicken thief."

Mr. Martin urged sportsmen to import and develop large-mouth black bass for sport fishing in local lakes unproductive for trout, and gave a vivid description of the sporting qualities the fish which is natural to eastern Canada and U.S.

He supported Mr. McLeod's call for a fish hatchery and said trout should not be released into streams and lakes before they are eight inches long. That was the only way to ensure their survival.

TERRACE SPEAKS
Jeff Lambie, president of the Terrace Rod and Gun Club said the group he represented fully supported the demands of a fish hatchery here.

"The Commission promised it would build a fish hatchery here in Central B.C. for every hatchery they build in the south. So far we have nothing, they have 12."

Mr. Lambie passed along greetings from the Terrace club and asked for close co-operation between all Rod and Gun associations in Central B.C.

Flour Bleach Is No Menace

LONDON (P)—Lord Horder, physician to the royal family and adviser to the minister of food, has assured the British public that bread made from "agenised" flour has had nothing to do with the outbreak of nervous or other diseases in the country.

His assurance followed an attack in the House of Lords against the use of agene, a chemical agent employed by British bakers for more than 25 years to give a whiter and larger loaf.

Charges had also been made by Dr. John Coghlan, a Hull practitioner, that thousands had died and the health of many more had been endangered by eating the chemically-treated bread.

Replying to those who demanded instant abolition of agene, Lord Horder said: "We don't say, because chromium has been used in motor car manufacture for the past 20 years, that therefore the increase in road accidents is due to chromium."

The same "fallacy" in elementary logic entered into the current bread-whitening controversy.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that we cannot trace any nervous complaints prevalent in this country to the use of agene as an improver in bread."

When Lord Chorley remarked that the practice of using agene had been discarded in the United States, Lord Horder retorted: "But the Americans change from day to day. They have a very sensitive administration. They hear something, then go back to it, and do not always tell you."
