Vessel Free Of Rocks At Kemano

Freighter Struck Reef in Sound
VANCOUVER — A small coastal freighter, the Tico, late yesterday crunched aground at the entrance to Kemano Sound but managed to free herself on the high tide.

The vessel struck a reef between Glide and Dupont islands, some 400 miles north of here, en route to Namu, B.C., from the Queen Charlotte Islands. The freighter was pounded badly on the rocks but none of her seams was opened. Meanwhile, salvage crews prepared today to make a third attempt to refloat the 60-foot fishpacker impaled on the rocks near Magdalena Point, 40 miles from Victoria.

The B.C. Power Commission has not heard from the Northern B.C. Power Company as to the selling price of its Prince Rupert holdings. In a letter to city council read at last night's meeting, S. R. ## Fresh Milk Deliveries Cut by Strike

NEW YORK — New York officials strove desperately today to effect agreement in a strike that has cut the flow of fresh milk for 12,000,000 persons in the metropolitan area. City prodding kept negotiations going early today in the wage-hour dispute between representatives of 200 companies and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) Union of 13,000 striking drivers and plant workers. Deliveries to homes and retail outlets were cut off by the strike, which started Sunday afternoon.

First Load of Big Crucibles For Kitimat Smelter on Way

VANCOUVER — A deep-sea gamble which began with toy boats and models has graduated into the real thing and now the $1,500,000 steel heart of Kitimat is being towed slowly up the rocky west coast of British Columbia. The heart is a number of monster pots or crucibles, largest ever built, manufactured at Portland, Ore., for the Aluminum Company of Canada's giant smelter at Kitimat. Arthur Elworthy, vice-president of the Island Tug and Barge Ltd., planned the huge 800-mile towing job with scale models and then gave the task to the sea-going tug Island Sovereign. Capt. Arthur J. Warren is in charge of the tug which will tow the steel barge Island Logger loaded with $500,000 worth of equipment. Capt. Warren will make the trip three times. The aluminum firm has advised the towing company that a loss of five vital pots would be crippling blow to the smelter's production schedule. "We are ready to withstand a hurricane if we have to," Mr. Elworthy said. "Our chief worries are Columbia Bar, Cape Flattery and bad weather in open sea." The first two loads for the Island Logger consist of 115 pots each weighing 12½ tons and measuring 33 feet by 12 feet. Each journey is scheduled to take five days.

Lifeboat Crew Dies in Storm

ARBROATH, Scotland — Six lifeboat men, weary from an all-night battle with the gale-tossed sea, were drowned early today within sight of the lights of their own homes. Only one member of the crew survived. The 35-foot lifeboat put out last night in answer to a report that a vessel was in trouble off Inch Cape Rock. The lifeboat failed to find a trace of the vessel it was sent out to help. Friends and relatives gathered along the harbor wall as the returning lifeboat approached the breakwater. They watched in horror as a giant wave caught it. Shouts from the crew reached them as the boat was tossed on the rocks only 50 yards from the shore. Then nothing could be heard but the roar of the sea and the howling of the gale.

By LARRY STANWOOD
KETCHIKAN—This city has a knack of introducing things "first" in Alaska. First of all, Ketchikan claims that it is the "first city in Alaska." Ketchikaners first introduced the salmon derby in the north which annually draws over a thousand participants. One of the first radio stations was operated there for the benefit of fishermen; now there are two radio stations. There are also two daily newspapers. And now its television with a capital TV and the first in Alaska. Anchorage, several hundred miles to the north, will also have TV, but because of a delay in projection equipment, its service will likely run behind Ketchikan's. ## Doctor Freed Formally On Libel Bid

VANCOUVER — Dr. William Norman Kemp went into the prisoner's dock in assize court today, but only for the purpose of being formally discharged from custody on a charge of defamatory libel. Mr. Kemp has been awaiting trial on a charge which was laid last May by John Joseph Perdue, then head of the B.C. Social Credit League and an unsuccessful candidate for election to the provincial legislature.

The doctor applied through his counsel, Paul D. Murphy, for his costs in the proceedings, but this was refused as no formal indictment had been issued by the attorney-general.

UN Holds Special Meet On Palestine

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United Nations Security Council called an extraordinary double session today to take up the explosive Palestine issue and study possible ways of ending the Israeli-Arab border killings and disputes. To make way for these urgent council deliberations, the General Assembly's political committee put off until Wednesday continued debate on American charges that the Russians directed a Red torture centre to bring from captured American soldiers "confessions" that they participated in alleged germ warfare in Korea. The new charges, made Monday, brought a quick denial from the Russians.

Troops Return To Barracks

LONDON — London gasoline truckers drove their big tankers to the city's garages and oil depots today for the first time in a week, ending an abortive strike over wage claims and union jurisdiction. Their return meant back to barracks for more than 6,000 service men brought to London last week-end to keep gas and oil supplies rolling. Their intervention killed the strike, which had thinned road traffic throughout the metropolitan area.

Buy From Bulkley Valley

THERE is a great deal to be said for the efforts of Bulkley Valley dairy farmers to create more interest here in their products.

With fresh milk arriving in the city three times a week from fertile farms so close to us, it is strange that many consumers in Prince Rupert continue to favor produce from the distant Fraser Valley.

As visiting farmers from the Smithers district have said, it is not their intention to run down their competitors but the physical facts of the situation are all in their favor.

In these circumstances, it seems that the failure of Bulkley Valley milk to gain greater acceptance locally must be based to some extent on misunderstanding in the public mind.

The truth is that cows of the Bulkley Valley—which are mainly Guernseys and Holsteins—are as healthy as any in the province and feed on grass of high nutritional content.

Another reason for wishing to see encouragement given to northern farmers is that development of the Bulkley Valley will add to the welfare of this whole northwest district.

But the initiative for this cannot be left to the public. The dairy farmers are showing a lead which other farmers should follow.

Once good service is provided, the public can be counted on to do the rest.

OTTAWA DIARY

If the CCF group remains in its present frame of mind, there'll be precious little co-operation with the Conservatives on the opposition side of the House of Commons when Parliament opens next month.

That will be a major change from past sessions. For while there has been no particular love lost hitherto between the Socialists and the Tories, the two parties on most occasions have been fairly reasonable about their enmity.

But now the CCF-ers have developed a hearty distrust of the PC's. They feel that they're trying to steal the Socialist party's political patent.

It all started with the post-election campaign of Col. Drew's supporters to maintain him in the leadership despite the August 10th holocaust that had overtaken the party.

But because of the generally good times prevailing. They said generally that the next election almost certainly will be fought in a depression and that Col. Drew then will win.

The CCF resent keenly the attempt which they suspect on the part of the Conservatives to become a depression party.

They have reconciled themselves for so long now to the fact that good times were hostile to the political access of their movement, that they considered themselves to hold a patent to whatever political advantage a depression might bring.

The Socialists already have had one experience of being bypassed by the voters. A few years ago they were on the march in a really big way with a comprehensive social reform program which won them successive by-elections.

It all started with the post-election campaign of Col. Drew's supporters to maintain him in the leadership despite the August 10th holocaust that had overtaken the party.

From the depths of your round doggy belly there came a thunderous bark. You named yourself from that moment. Ruff, we called you, from your bark.

You were a temperamental little lady, too, with your shiny jet black coat, and lovely brown eyes. You had the waggiest tail in all the world. But your feelings were easily hurt.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

There are eight morning newspapers in Warsaw says Frank W. Rounds, Jr., attached to the U.S. Embassy. They have no news as we know it; no weather reports or local news; no reporting of accidents; no human-interest stories.

Just what would be done in the event of there being no weather to curse. For after all, what a convenience.

United States interests thinking of spending eight millions on a new hotel for Vancouver. They say the time has come when this is a necessity. The same can be said for other communities, but we'd feel safer by leaving the figure eight strictly alone. Say half a million, or something like that.

NOT A DROP

No milk was delivered in New York Sunday and Monday because of a strike in the delivery service. It's not a bad guess to say it will not last long. All ages more or less depend on this white nourishing stuff that comes early in the morning, like the dawn. And of course we all love ice cream.

Changes in Unemployment Benefits Affect Holiday, Separation Pay

OTTAWA—Important amendments to Unemployment Insurance Benefit Regulations with respect to holidays, and money received on separation from employment, have been announced by the Unemployment Insurance Commission.
Under the new provisions, which are now in effect, benefit is not paid to an employee for the first week of a plant or factory shutdown for a general holiday, regardless of whether the employee is paid for the holiday or not. However, if the shutdown for holiday lasts for more than a week benefit is paid for days (other than statutory holidays) in the second and subsequent weeks, for which the employee does not receive pay. Holiday pay, received at termination of employment, will not deprive a claimant of benefit.

Another amendment provides that when an employer does not require his employees to work on the day before a statutory holiday, or on the day following the holiday, or on both, benefit will not be paid for any of the days on which the employees do not work.
Formerly, when a person received money from his employer on termination of employment (other than money representing pension payments or for over-time) that person was not paid benefit until the period represented by this money had elapsed.

Now all money received on termination will be disregarded in determining whether or not a person is unemployed, unless paid in consideration of the recipient undertaking to return to his former employer when required, in accordance with a guaranteed wage plan, for retirement leave credits, or in lieu of notice. If it is paid in the circumstances just mentioned a person receiving it will not be entitled to benefit until the period represented by the money has elapsed.

By ERIC MARTIN

The previously mentioned brick wall of carrying capacity is not a fully stationary point, it moves up and down with rainfall and other food growing factors. A mild winter causing a 30 per cent increase in carrying capacity would bring about a corresponding increase in reproduction, to be balanced by a larger kill during the hunting season.

It is easy enough to show that any given area is at its limit of capacity if the browse is eaten down to stubs, but areas with smaller yet adequate populations show very little sign of browsing; these populations have not increased during years of total or "bucks only" protection. Actually some of the best deer herds in the Northwest are the result of attempts to destroy herds in order to lessen game damage. An example is the Whidby Island herd in Washington. This island is about 50 miles long and three miles wide, and yielded kills of around 100 buck deer yearly before 1937. At that time the strawberry crop was being severely damaged and the Game Commission decided that the only solution was to allow hunters to eliminate the offending deer herd.

In 1937 the whole season was opened on deer of either sex, with no limitation on the number of hunters; about 400 deer were killed. Such a season was continued the next year with the hope that the remaining deer would be cleaned out, and again more than 400 deer were harvested. This same season has now been continued for 16 years and the average take is between 500 and 600 animals annually. Here there was no obvious range problem, yet it was definitely demonstrated that the carrying capacity for deer had been reached, and it was only necessary to harvest the increase to keep them "erupting."

THEORY TRUE

We now arrive at the seemingly contradictory conclusion that the only way to produce and have more game is to kill more game. It doesn't seem logical, but it is true. If the habitat bucket is full, the reproduction is largely wasted, unless we dip more out of the bucket. A game crop is not "money in the bank," it is a perishable product, it may be compared to a warehouse full of apples which, if not utilized, will rot before another season.

When only buck deer are harvested, the kill rarely exceeds 10 per cent of the herd; however, most herds reproduce 35 per cent or more per year. A properly harvested deer herd should yield the equivalent of a three-fold increase over its kill of bucks alone. One hundred per cent increase in kill can be derived from does alone and the other 100 per cent comes from increased survival of both bucks and does; thus a 10 per cent kill increased three-fold would equal a 30 per cent harvest. This is merely a general figure and may be too high for practical management of most herds, however, it well illustrates the potential of harvesting that still is available and serves as an objective for future management. Even at the present time the waste of game through failure to harvest far exceeds that killed by hunters.

It should be apparent that harvest of any wildlife species actually is beneficial rather than harmful to that species, a harvested big game population should remain at a generally higher level than a similar population that is unharvested. A farmer who sold no female animals from his herd of livestock over a period of years soon would have a sickly, diseased, underfed herd. Natural losses would control the size of the livestock herd, but the surviving animals would all be in poor condition. A properly harvested game herd, like the properly harvested livestock herd, will be made up of strong, healthy animals.

MAINTAIN RATIO

To economically utilize the forage supplies available for big game, an equal sex ratio should be maintained. Excess hunting pressure to keep buck numbers down will result in greater carrying capacity for females, thus producing a higher reproductive potential. On a black-billed deer study at the Clemons Tree Farm in western Washington, a two-week buck season followed by a three-day either sex season resulted in a harvest of 50 per cent of the bucks and 20 per cent of the does. This area supported a kill of 10 deer per square mile out of a pre-season population of about 40 animals per section. This seems to be a desirable kill ratio, but further study may show that the harvest can be increased.

Habitat improvement is one method of moving upward this "brick wall" of carrying capacity and definitely is good management. Some assume that if we improve the range we will not have to kill does. Actually, we find that it is usually necessary to harvest does to reduce pressure on the range while it is being improved. It is also necessary to keep in correct perspective the benefits to be derived from various types of management. On a buck kill basis this increase would be hardly discernable by the average hunter. Yet there is now available, without cost, a surplus from which the deer harvest may be increased at least 100 per cent and possibly up to 200 per cent by merely inaugurating a harvest of females. This indicates clearly that habitat improvement must be accompanied by herd management.

Next week's column will conclude this series with a resume of the foregoing, together with purely local reasons why we must prepare ourselves for open seasons on the two sexes of our game animals.

Second Season Big Worry To Baltimore Not First

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The new Baltimore Orioles are not worried about their first season in the American League. They expect to sell around $500,000 worth of tickets by opening day. But they realize they will face trouble the second year unless they have a greatly improved ball club, plus some color, and that was why they made their unsuccessful bid for Frank Lane, whose lavish trading pulled the Chicago White Sox out of the doldrums.

Actually, some of the members of the Baltimore group would have favored bringing Bill Veck along with his St. Louis Browns franchise, at least for a season or two, because they realize they need such a go-getter and showman to tide them over during the rebuilding process. They know that the attendance record Veck set at Cleveland in 1948 still stands.

"But we can't sign him," one of them said, "because the group of owners who hate him got it down in writing that we couldn't before they agreed to let us have the franchise."

Scouting the minor leagues is a sad story these days, says Billy Myers, the former Pittsburgh pilot who now is beating the bushes for the same club and trouble snooting for Branch Rickey.

Flyweight Champ Retains Crown

TOKYO (CP)—World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai tonight turned back the challenge of London's Terry Allen in 15 dreary rounds that were heavy on clinches and light on action. The decision was unanimous. It was a dismal fight. Two more reluctant fighters probably never tangled for a world crown.

As the sun goes down tonight.

...it will be the signal for a great spectacle to spread westward across this broad land of ours. Millions of people will see it, yet scarcely one of them will think it worthy of comment. It is the forgotten wonder, lost among so many newer wonders. It is electric light.

From myriad city windows it will shine forth, creating its own beautiful patterns in the night, as in the view of the Vancouver waterfront above. It will stream from the open doorways of farm buildings in remote communities... poke probing fingers of light into the sky from airport beacons... and, everywhere, set about its task of adding pleasant hours to the day for well-earned recreation.

Today we have moved far beyond the point where we light our homes solely for the purpose of being able to see comfortably; we now devise interior lighting schemes for each room to add to the decorative effect of furniture and drapes. We have increased the intensity of outdoor lighting until there is hardly an activity of the daytime that cannot be successfully carried on "under the lights"—from playing baseball and tennis to loading freight cars and landing airliners. In our stores, we use lighting to present the goods in a sales-compelling setting. Schoolrooms have a high level of uniform light so that every pupil can study without fatigue.

Modern street lighting, not only adds to the safety and convenience of pedestrians and motorists but provides a reassuring sense of security to householders as well.

Canadian General Electric has been in the business of making electric lamps for over sixty years. It has pioneered a long succession of improvements that have resulted in better illumination—including the inside-frosted bulb, the new White Bulb with even higher efficiency and softly-diffused light, and the remarkably economical, long-life, fluorescent lamp that has revolutionized the lighting of industrial plants, stores, and offices. In no small measure, its work has resulted in the cost of good lighting falling consistently over the years. Not so many years ago a 60-watt bulb cost close to a dollar. Today you can buy one for about a fifth of that and yet it will give you much more light.

As a public service, the Company maintains a Lighting Institute where people from industry, hospitals, hotels, municipalities—wherever good lighting is needed—may learn all that is newest and best in lighting practice.

Long a leader in lighting research, Canadian General Electric can be depended upon to head the steady march of progress towards better, more efficient and more abundant light to serve Canada's needs.

All Modern Comforts Slated For GIs on Guard in Korea

SEOUL (AP) — The freezing winter wind is whipping over Korea and the United States Army is tucking its soldiers in like a fussy mother.

For three winters soldiers died in the snow and ice on Korea's bare hills.

This is the fourth—the warm-winter. Grizzled veterans would shudder; they're even building heated "hobby shops."

LINE COLD BUT—
Sure, it's going to be cold up on the "line" on the edge of the demilitarized zone, where troops will stand frigid watches in case the Reds decide to break the armistice.

But they can walk back to a tent and warm up by two stoves. One stove already has been issued for each tent and stocks of fuel oil are piled high in dumps.

When the soldier steps out of the tent, he'll look like a combination Eskimo-skier going hunting. Wrapped in ski socks, long underwear, lined pants, a hooded parka, a muffler, heavy mittens and "insulated Mickey Mouse" boots, he's ready to wait for what he hopes won't come.

And if he needs them he can have ice shoes with spiked soles and other arctic gear.

He already has his winter gear, putting it on piece by piece as the winter walks in.

PLUSHY BREAKS
A while on the line, and he'll get a break—a trip back to division. That's even plusher.

There the engineers are building jumbo quonset huts for snack bars, community centres, theatres, recreation halls, chapels and junior-grade gyms.

Smaller huts are going up as libraries and reading rooms and hobby shops.

Billets front and rear have been winterized with wooden floors.

This is winter in Korea—1953 style.

DONALD C. MACDONALD, 39, national organizer and treasurer of the CCF, has announced he will be a candidate for the party at its provincial convention Nov. 20-21 in Toronto. The former newspaper man, a member of the Ontario provincial CCF council since 1946, will seek the post left vacant in August by the resignation of E. B. Jolliffe.

U.S. Urged To Reject Bid

WASHINGTON —The fisheries council of Canada has urged the United States to reject New England demands for fish import restrictions, emphasizing that thousands of Canadian workers will be hit if the curbs are imposed.

The council, spokesman for the Canadian fishing industry, told the U.S. tariff commission that the possibility of U.S. tariff curbs which would "throttle" Canadian exports "is a disturbing prospect."

It could result in a breakdown in Canada-U.S. fish conservation co-operation and raise the issue in Canada of how far American and other foreign vessels should be allowed to fish off Canadian shores.

Finnish Immigrant Forced Out Of Business by Marauding Bears

GRIMSHAW INLET, B.C. (CP) —Mr. Forsman, a 38-year-old Finnish immigrant, his wife and twin daughters, came to this Queen Charlotte Islands logging centre last spring.

All went well on the logging job, but Mr. Forsman soon found the bears too much for him.

Twice, bears broke into the kitchen and ate everything in sight. Mr. Forsman replenished his depleted larder the second time by shooting the marauding bruiser as it munched a ring of garlic sausage. The same night, he killed three others as they prowled around the cabin. He estimated the total number of bears in the area at 50.

Mr. Forsman took the bear invasion in stride until the hungry bruiser started chasing his daughters, Inga-Lill and Maj-Britt. That made him decide to leave his job and seek employment in the comparative safety of Vancouver some 350 miles.

"They were hungry and we do not think we should stay around and supply their food."

Safe From Ragweed

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Fears of one councillor that ragweed, bane of hayfever sufferers, was invading the north was allayed when Timmins town council received a letter from an Ontario agricultural department official at Matheson. He reported no evidence of common ragweed in areas north of North Bay.

How much does a wildcat cost?

A "wildcat" is a well drilled in an area where oil has never been found. Drilling costs vary, but the average wildcat in western Canada runs to more than $100,000. One well cost $1,600,000—and found no oil!

Oil is making an increasingly important contribution to our standard of living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

- How many wildcat wells find a new oil field—
1 in 32? 1 in 72? 1 in 232?
- Since 1939 the cost of living index has risen by 85%. During that time has the price you pay for gasoline gone up by—44%? 79%? 103%?
- A lot of oil has been discovered in the west since 1946. In that time have Canada's oil reserves increased—4 times? 23 times? 37 times?
- How many companies, would you say, are engaged in the oil business in Canada—23? 174? 750?
- Canada's growing oil industry means orders for many businesses, jobs for many Canadians. Last year Imperial's purchasing department bought equipment and supplies from Canadian firms amounting to—$12 millions? $56 millions? $110 millions?
- The long-term average in western Canada is 1 in 23. Only 1 in 87 has found a field capable of producing as much as 2,000 barrels a day.
- The average retail price of gasoline is only 44% higher than prewar, even with higher road taxes in all provinces.
- Reserves have increased 23-fold in the past six years. Canadian fields now supply all the prairies and part of B.C. and Ontario.
- About 750 companies in which the public has an investment interest, as well as several hundred private firms and partnerships. And this doesn't include the thousands of privately operated service stations and other retail and wholesale outlets for oil products.
- $56 millions. About 4,500 Canadian companies sold Imperial supplies ranging from heavy steel plates to paper clips.
