THE NEWEST ADDITION to the Marsalis Zoo family in Washington, D.C., is this baby muntjac female fawn, born just five days ago. The muntjac is a native of the India-China area, and reported to be the smallest of the deer species. A cup and saucer show the relative size of this newcomer, who when fully grown will attain a size slightly larger than a jackrabbit.

Prince Rupert Best-Off Town in B.C. for Number of Taxi-Cabs Per Person

Prince Rupert citizens are best off for taxi cab rides than any other city large or small in British Columbia according to information from the city council.

There is a taxi for every 150 persons in the city whereas according to a letter from Vernon city clerk there is only one cab per 1,142 persons in the southern interior town of the same population. Prince Rupert's 9,800 residents share a total of 65 taxi-cabs.

PER THOUSAND
The larger cities like New Westminster or Greater Victoria have a taxi for every 1,000 residents. Greater Victoria with an approximate population of 100,000 has 95 taxis. New Westminster with a population of 30,000, has 30 taxis.

The information was received by city clerk R. W. Long after he had sought information as to the number of taxis per person in other cities and information as to how other city councils handled re-instatement of chauffeur's permits after a driver had been convicted of driving liquor for sale. The letter was read to council this morning and filed for future reference.

George wrote that the taxi pass on every applicant for a chauffeur's permit and

Court Quashes Drink Charge Against Laing

VANCOUVER (CP)—A charge of being intoxicated in a public place laid by Vancouver police against Arthur Laing, B.C. Liberal party leader, was thrown out of court today by Judge Gordon Scott.

Magistrate Scott called a halt to the testimony after two police officers had given evidence for the crown and five barristers testified for the accused.

At now 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, and I think we have heard enough," the magistrate said in dismissing the charge.

Twenty-five persons appeared in court today facing the charge, that of intoxication in a public place, and if any of them had pleaded not guilty, they would find them in favor, I would find them guilty," Magistrate Scott

"I don't see why I should lean either way because this is a citizen of good reputation."

Modern X-Ray Unit Scheduled For Hospital Early In 1954

Equipment, Changes Will Cost $55,000

Installation of one of the most modern X-ray units in North America will begin at Prince Rupert General Hospital early in the new year.

Approval of the move was given unanimously last night at the monthly meeting of the hospital board of directors, who also endorsed a recommendation of the finance and long-range planning committees to renovate the top floor of the hospital to make room for the unit and an additional nine beds.

Cost of the X-ray unit, including a combination radiographic and fluoroscopic X-ray table, will be more than $20,000 and the renovation work will cost $35,000.

Through agreement with the federal and provincial governments, cost to the hospital for the two projects will be around $15,000.

The hospital will pay 40 per cent of the cost of the X-ray apparatus (slightly more than $7,000), the federal government pays the same, and the provincial government pays the balance.

In the renovation work, the provincial government pays 50 per cent, the federal government donates $1,000 for each bed added, leaving some $8,500 for the hospital.

Monies to be expended by the hospital for the projects will be taken from the modernization fund, which is built up through donations from firms and individuals interested in the hospital.

In deciding to install the modern X-ray apparatus, board members said they felt the time has come when the people of this area "are entitled to better service in keeping with the growing needs of this north country."

The present X-ray unit was built in 1937 and installed at the hospital in 1942.

Dr. Leila M. Goulden, radiologist, in a report to the board stressed that the present apparatus, set up when the population was only around 5,000, "is inadequate for the amount and quality of work now required at the hospital."

"Only a small number of films—such as films of hands and feet and adult chest—can be done in a completely satisfactory manner," said the doctor.

In keeping with its policy of modernizing the hospital, the board said renovation work in the attic will provide for a laboratory, pharmacy and central sterile supply departments as well as providing for the nine additional beds.

At the present time, the X-ray unit is on the third floor, the laboratory on the second. There is no sterile supply department.

Police Officer Under Arrest

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (CP)—A Ketchikan police captain is under arrest and held without bail as a result of the federal grand jury session that has produced a series of sensational developments here.

Close to 100 witnesses have appeared before the jury in the three weeks it has been convened to inquire into local conditions. It is expected to wind up its sessions before Christmas.

Capt. Erlend McKinley is the police officer under arrest. He was arrested a second time on a charge of intimidating a witness after having been released on $10,000 bail after a first arrest. The grand jury recommended his arrest last week end.

Birds Grade A Say Dealers

Turkeys being sold in town at 65 cents a pound are Grade A birds from Alberta. This was emphasized today by retail distributors who are selling turkeys at that price.

Their comment was made as a result of an item in The Daily News yesterday which stated that the lower-priced birds come from the B.C. interior.

"Our birds are shipped direct from Edmonton," one retailer explained. "They are absolutely tops in quality. Contrary to the information in that report, we also have an excellent supply of turkeys under 12 pounds."

The report carried yesterday was based on a national survey which stated that B.C. outlets were hit this year by a drop in the prairie crop, and that small birds were in short supply. Prince Rupert, however, has not been affected by this condition.

Costs Delay Postal Service At Metlakatla

The question of re-opening of the Metlakatla post office is still in abeyance due to excessive costs of carrier service between Prince Rupert and Metlakatla.

E. T. (Ted) Applewhite, M.P. for Skeena, reports that a recent call for tenders on mail service between Rupert and Metlakatla brought only one bid, at the rate of 60 cents a mile which the post office department considers too high.

Mr. Applewhite reports that the department will call for tenders again in the future, in an attempt to obtain a more reasonable offer for the service.

Indian Leaders To Be Feted

Four leaders among the Indians of the northern B.C. coast bands have been singled out for awards of the Queen's Coronation Medal, F. E. Anfield, superintendent of Indian Affairs, announced today.

The awards which will be made by Mr. Anfield will take place within the next month at ceremonies from the Naas River to Hartley Bay. The honorees are:

Peter Leighton, 69, of Metlakatla, for "outstanding service" in promoting the enfranchisement of his village.

Chief Heber Louis Clifton, senior, 82, of Hartley Bay, chief patriarch of all northern coastal tribes, for "outstanding leadership of his people."

Chief Inspiring Michael Bright, 84, of Alyanash, for his "lifelong devotion to the development of band music" among his people.

Mrs. Martha Azak of Canyon City, widow of the late Chief Henry Azak on behalf of her village of 80 persons, "an outstandingly progressive group in the fields of industry and social progress."

First of the medals will be presented to Mr. Leighton Wednesday at a ceremony before civic and government officials.

One of the "fathers" of the enfranchisement plan for Metlakatla, he has worked religiously for it since 1943.

Chief Clifton will likely get his medal next, said Mr. Anfield. The "paramount head man of every tribe on the coast," as Chief Clifton is referred to, was a student of William Duncan, first lay missionary on the north coast.

Returning to Hartley Bay as chief, he taught his people to develop a model community still in good health, he has five sons and 36 grandchildren.

Chief Bright of Alyanash at 84 is still active in the renowned Alyanash Silver Harmonic Band, although he has been blind for many years. He is the only original member of the band which was founded at the turn of the century. Its leader for many years, Chief Bright has done much to keep the band intact as a unit. The band has received recognition in Victoria, in New Westminster and Prince Rupert.

Mrs. Azak of Canyon City will receive the medal on behalf of the village which has been recognized for its prowess in boat-building and for its social development and ethics.

Canyon City, half-way up the Naas River, is known as the most law-abiding community anywhere on the coast.

Albert Richard De Cuyper, 30-year-old farmer, also receives the medal for rescuing the navigator.

Bobby and De Cuyper were first recommended for decoration in the November 27, 1952 issue of the Comox District Free Press, by Daily News sports editor Dick Ayres, who was then editor of the Courtenay paper. In a front page column, he urged that the RCAF or civic officials take action to see that the two civilians

A $35,000 RENOVATION JOB in the attic of the General Hospital here is expected to get under way early in the new year. The extra space will provide room for a new X-ray unit, pharmacy, laboratory, sterile supply department, and nine additional beds.

HERE IS THE OLD-STYLE X-RAY unit in Prince Rupert General hospital, which has been termed "inadequate for present-day needs" by radiologist Dr. L. M. Goulden.

Queen, Duke Feast Royalty With Popular Tonga Ruler

NUKUALOFA, Tonga (CP)—The two queens of the British Commonwealth feasted today in traditional South Sea surroundings as Queen Elizabeth and Tonga's queen Salote met for the first time since June Coronation festivities in London.

Popular six-foot-three Salote is the only head of government in the Commonwealth to hold the same title as the Queen, due to a long-standing tradition in the Tonga group.

After a short rest at Queen Salote's palace, the royal couple joined their hostess in a feast of whole roasted suckling pigs, chickens, yams, watermelons, crayfish and Tongan puddings. The Queen and the duke drank coconut milk from the shell and, with Queen Salote, ate their feast with their fingers.

Comox Boy and Man Awarded George Medals For Bravery

COMOX, B.C. (CP)—A shy, quiet 15-year-old boy knew a week ago he was to receive the Commonwealth's highest civilian decoration but he didn't bother telling anybody about it.

News that Robert Waters will receive the George Medal for his bravery in rescuing an RCAF pilot from a crashed and burning bomber Nov. 24, 1952, came Friday in a simple announcement in the Canada Gazette. Eight others died in the crash.

Albert Richard De Cuyper, 30-year-old farmer, also receives the medal for rescuing the navigator.

Bobby and De Cuyper were first recommended for decoration in the November 27, 1952 issue of the Comox District Free Press, by Daily News sports editor Dick Ayres, who was then editor of the Courtenay paper. In a front page column, he urged that the RCAF or civic officials take action to see that the two civilians were recognized for bravery under conditions for which they were not trained.

Group Capt. Austin, officer commanding RCAF Station Comox later recommended the pair for decoration.

"I was surprised to get it and proud too," Bobby said Friday night.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Waters, who own a small farm near here, said "we're very proud of our brave son."

Two months after his heroic rescue the lad was told he was being recommended for a citation, but he said he had forgotten about that. Then a week ago he received a letter with official notification, but he didn't bother telling anybody.

After he rescued the pilot, F.O. R. F. Johnson of Springhill, N.S., he saw he could do no more, so

TWO NEW TYPES of British planes recently made their debut. (Top) The batlike plane in flight is Britain's smallest jet aircraft. The tailless Short Sherpa research plane is designed as a 200-m.p.h. forerunner of experimental machines to prove the problem of ultra high speed flight several miles above the earth. (Bottom) The Seamew is Britain's new anti-submarine aircraft, which can operate from escort and aircraft carriers. The problems of NATO countries were specifically considered by the producer's design team, when the plans were conceived. The plane will now go into production for the Royal Navy

TAKING TABBY for her morning walk is three-year-old Alexis Kerr, who sees nothing unusual in this, except that tabby is rather large, and the streets of London are surprisingly deserted. Maybe little Alexis doesn't know it, but tabby happens to be Nizam, a two-year-old Bengal tiger that appears with the Bert-ram Mills Circus currently touring England. Though daddy happens to be an animal trainer, one would think that he could have selected an animal that was er—less frightening. However, Alexis doesn't seem to mind.

Mrs. Heady Remains

THE flippant remark of kidnapper Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady as they fastened her in the gas chamber that she was not going anywhere had some truth in it, though not in the way she intended.
For the parents who lost their son, she and her accomplice still will be two nightmarish shapes destined to torment them for the rest of their lives. Wherever this is a reminder of Bobby, there too will be Mrs. Heady and Carl Hall. They will be beside his deserted toys, his little clothes and his empty bed.
To remove these pathetic reminders of a small dead boy is, unhappily, not a remedy, for the memory of a child's laughter, tears and affection cannot also be erased.

No, Mrs. Heady has not gone. But perhaps at last she will be able to serve a useful purpose. As long as the evil that she and Hall have done lives after them, society may try to discover and isolate their psychopathic kind before the crime is committed.

Guest Editorial

AGAIN today we see the familiar tripod erected in front of the post office and federal building on Third Avenue from which used to swing an old iron kettle, but which now supports a modern plastic bowl. The purpose of the tripod and bowl is to give us who so desire an opportunity to contribute to the winter relief fund of the Salvation Army.

Last year's contributions enabled the local corps of the Salvation Army to pack a large number of food hampers, mainly for the people who live on the borderline of penury. The balance was used, during the year that has now ended, to pay for the 677 meal tickets that have been distributed from the office of Captain Frayn and to take care of certain types of welfare work outside and beyond the limits of the provincial welfare department, indeed often at their request.

Then, too, this fund was a readily available source of money at the time of the tragic rooming house fire, and was placed at the disposal of the authorities at that time.

When the bell rings, its imperative call is not for mere charity but for a sharing of the blessings that have attended our ways this year. Let us give adequately and then trust the Salvation Army to spend it wisely.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

The Bobby Greenlease tragedy has not quite ended. Three are in their graves, yet not all has been explained and understood. That $300,000? Where and how come? A heap of money, in these days of strikes, strikes, and higher and higher and higher prices.

More wives would learn to cook if they weren't so busy trying to get meals.—Post.

JUST PICTURES, BUT . . . ?

A movement is developing in British Columbia to reduce if not eliminate the sale of "horror" books, regarded as bad for juveniles. Any age can understand pictures, but cannot comprehend literature. It's needless to go any further than the illustrations we see today, if morals are to be shocked.

A Quebec MP, the other night, suggested to parliament that New Brunswick be annexed to his province. Highly improbable, of course! And anyway, who ever heard of herring joining up with pea soup?

EACH CAN REMEMBER

Canadian veterans returning home aboard an American troopship complain of the chow. Rice becomes tiresome. So does macaroni and wieners and spuds after a while. But then anyone who's been in any army long enough has plenty of stories to draw on.

The Loch Ness Monster has been reported sighted in Scotland, its natural home. This is months too early. It will be around May or June before anyone on the British Columbia coast comes running with a tale of having seen the Ogo Polo shaking water off itself. As a rule the tourist season starts about May.

ILL-FED, ILL-CLOTHED

Speaking in parliament the other day, G. H. Castleden (Yorkton, Sask.) remarked: "There never was a time in the world when we needed the good will of people throughout the world as much as we need it today. The western continent today is choked with food. Surely it would be better to share this food and our surpluses with hungry people and to win their goodwill than it would be to frighten them with the iron fist. Two thirds of the world's people are today ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed."

Report From PARLIAMENT

E. T. APPLEWHITE

Last Saturday morning I took a run over to Montreal to have a little chat with Alcan officials about our Prince Rupert Drydock. I wanted them to look into the question of how the Kitimat operations and the Drydock could be of advantage to each other. That they are now doing.

I have been trying to get a bit more information on the cancellation of extra maritime insurance premiums for ports on the northern British Columbia coast. There has been confirmation of the report from London on the abolition of additional marine insurance premiums on the hulls of ships trading to ports on the mainland of British Columbia between 50° and 54° 30' north latitude.

This information will, I feel sure, be good news to the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce. It is anticipated that the Commonwealth Shipping Committee's report, which was made following the return of Sir Clement Jones to London will be available in the near future for distribution and I have arranged to get a copy.

LETTERBOX

TWO SIDES TO QUESTION

The Editor,
The Daily News—
You can judge the calibre of an athlete or a politician by his reaction in defeat.

Therefore, my friend who signed himself "Citizen" in a letter appearing in The Daily News Dec. 15 under the heading "What Next, Mr. Casey?" is "relatively a newcomer to Prince Rupert. Emanating from the school of big business, he appears more or less confused in a forest of people of many minds.

Through observing manner of expression of writers, I had no trouble in laying my finger on my friend while reading his advice and chastisement. As the writer did not care to reveal his identity, I shall not, though he and I have had a few previous battles but always in the open.

He, being the father of the Civic Affairs Association, naturally is concerned over the welfare of his family in council, whom I propose to treat with the same consideration and respect as they tender me.

Co-operation has of late become a slogan to my friend, as he tried to kill me with its use during the campaign. Let us briefly review the past couple of years. We will then see if he really understands its meaning or application.

Co-operation is not the answer to all things as there are often two sides to a question. But I agree in the main it is a good line to follow. Following is the brand of co-operation Mayor Whalen introduced in his campaign broadcast when he was elected mayor two years ago.

He informed his listeners that if he was elected mayor, I would be excluded from all important standing committees, a proclamation religiously implemented during his two years in office.

To me it sounded more like a proclamation of war against me than a bid for co-operation, although at no time did I allow those foolish words to become the foundation of my opposition.

Any time I dissented it was founded on what I considered good and sufficient cause, that no sane person could condone—unless it could be my citizen friend who appears to grieve at the sight of the Casey Camp flag still in the air, by the skin of my teeth—reinforced by an acid test certificate of public opinion, despite the vitriolic bombardment of The Daily News.

ALD. G. B. CASEY.

[Editor's note: it does not appear that Alderman Casey has identified the writer correctly. Although we do not disclose names if so requested, it is not a breach of confidence to advise that the writer in question is a woman who had no known part or connection of any kind in the recent campaign.]

The report of the Department of Fisheries for the fiscal year 1952-53 indicates the progressive advancement of previously declared policies of the government along with the introduction of new ones. New implementing legislation to the Pacific Halibut Convention was submitted to Parliament during the 1953 session and additional regulatory powers given the Commission.

There was amendment to the Fisheries Research Board Act with a view to improvements in processing and handling of fish. Steps were taken during the year to initiate new policies for the benefit of fishermen, and to try to overcome their difficulties in securing insurance and credit.

I met my famous cousin—or to be more exact—second cousin this week, Captain Nicholas Monarrat who is best known as the author of "The Cruel Sea." He is here in charge of the United Kingdom Information office and tells me he hopes to pay an extended visit to B.C. in the spring.

There is something which I think should be made very clear. No serious-minded person in these Parliament buildings ever believed that the actions of the Senator Jenners and Chicago Tribune's in the United States represent official U.S. government policy, any more than the utterances of Social Creditor John Blackmore represent the views of the Canadian government.

There are times, you know, when we do practice economy down here; one such incident was the adopting of an Act to enable us to use for any by-elections, stocks on hand of printed forms, etc., left over from the general election, even though, technically, they are obsolete. The Hon. Jack Pickersgill, newly-appointed Secretary of State, sponsored the measure; Davie Fulton of Kamloops, B.C., was Opposition leader in the debate.

Shortly after the general election, the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, were brought into effect and Pickersgill, as the minister to whom the Chief Electoral Officer reports, was advised, that on the coming into force of the new Revised Statutes all the printed material used for the holding of elections, both general elections and by-elections, would no longer be usable, because, although there was no difference in the substance of the law, most of the sections in the Revised Statutes were numbered differently to those in the Act of 1938 and that all the references in the printed matter were to the old Act and not to the new one.

This was obviously a technical point that no one had thought of, but it had very important practical consequences because the

Steve and Nancy Santa Claus

The story so far: Santa is taking a nap while Steve and Nancy do his job at the North Pole workshops.

Chapter VIII

No sooner had Steve put the telephone back on the tree, than it started to ring again.

"Mr. Steve," a voice at the other end of the line said, "this is the train department. If we take a messenger away from the delivery work now to send you a train we won't have enough workers to get all the trains to the shipping department on time. What shall we do?"

"Would it be all right if I came and got it?" Steve asked.

"Certainly," came the reply, "and thank you, Mr. Steve."

"I guess I'll have to go get my own train," Steve told Nancy. "You watch out for things while I'm gone and I'll bring back a doll house for you."

As Steve left for the train department the telephone rang again.

This time it was the book department. "Oh, Miss Nancy," the voice from the book department said, "I'm so glad it's you! We're having terrible trouble and we need you over here right away. Please hurry."

"Well, I don't know what I can do to help," Nancy answered, "but I'll be glad to come over."

When she got to the book department, she found all the dwarfs gathered about a big red book lying on the floor. They were tugging at it, and they found it very hard to move.

"What's the trouble?" Nancy asked, all out of breath.

"I'm Timkin. Tinker's assistant," one of the dwarfs said. "I was working on the Arizona book when all of a sudden it toppled from the shelf way up there, and hit on the floor, ever so hard."

"Well, let's put it back," said Nancy, picking up one end of the book. She could almost lift it by herself, for she, as little as she was, was bigger than the largest dwarf.

"Oh, but that's not the worst of it, Miss Nancy," Timkin said. "The book hit on one end and jammed all the A's and B's and C's together so hard we can't read any of them."

"That is too bad," Nancy said, "but first of all let's get the book back up to its shelf so we won't forget where it is supposed to go."

So Nancy, with the help of the dwarfs, moved the book up the ladders to its shelf near the top of the room.

All the while the dwarfs were moaning, "Oh, what shall we do? All the A's are jammed into the B's and C's."

They had the book almost to the top of the ladder, when suddenly the ladder began to tip and Nancy had to grab the wall and hold on tight. In doing so, she lost her hold on the book and down it went, crashing to the floor again.

"Oh, woe is us!" the dwarfs wailed. "The book has dropped again." Down the ladders they climbed to the floor and opened the book.

"Well, what do you know," said Nancy. "The book hit on its other end this time and jarred the A's and B's and C's right back to where they are supposed to be. I guess that clears that up. Let's put the book back where it belongs and no mistakes this time."

Nancy ran back to Santa's office and there was Steve answering the phone. "No, I don't know where to get any more logs for the toy log trucks," he was saying.

Just then another phone rang and Nancy answers it. "You say the electric train whistles are going 'chirp, chirp'?" Oh, how awful.

When the phones stopped ringing for a moment, Steve said, "What are we going to do? They haven't enough logs for the log trucks. The stunts for the little boys were made too long. And the toy canary birds go 'Toot, toot' instead of 'Chirp, chirp'."

"They do?" said Nancy, her face breaking into a smile. "Well, I know how to fix that. I've got some trains that are going 'Chirp, chirp,' and all we have to do is trade sounds with the canaries that go 'Toot, toot' and everything will be all right."

"And we can cut off the stunts and use the extra pieces we've cut off as logs for the log trucks," Steve added.

"That sounds wonderful," said Nancy. "By the way, where is the doll house and electric train you went to get?"

"I didn't have time to get them. It looks like being Santa Claus is going to be a full-time job. There goes that phone again."

And Steve was surely right. The telephone tree was ringing so hard that it seemed it would shake to pieces.

Commissioner and Scouts Given Awards at Party

Santa Claus came in a big way to the Second Prince Rupert Scouts and Cubs group last night as it held its annual Christmas party at the Conrad Street school.

With about 90 members of the group, and attendant brothers and sisters, cheering him on, Santa emptied a huge bag of goodies to climax an eventful evening of entertainment and presentations.

Two highlights of the occasion were the awarding of Queen Scout badges to David Ridsdale and Jim Baldwin, and presentation of the Coronation medal to district scout commissioner Frank Anfield.

In pinning the Queen's badges on Scouts Ridsdale and Baldwin, Mr. Anfield commended the boys for their keenness in competing for this honor. He termed the award the "highest that a Scout can earn."

Presentation of the Coronation medal, with citation, to Mr. Anfield was made by Robert Cameron, chairman of the group committee. He pointed out that the award was well earned by Mr. Anfield for his outstanding community service, which included his encouragement to the scouting movement and his work among the natives.

Others who received honors were Scout Jim McLean, who was awarded his knotted badge, and Scout Frank Anfield, who was given his pathfinder's badge.

The Ravens were named the most efficient patrol, for which the prize was a pup tent. The Wolf patrol received an axe as runner-up.

With Cubmaster Art Williamson, Scoutmaster A. Van Roche and assistant Scoutmaster Harry Winston directing proceedings, a series of skits and community singing filled out a lively program for the many parents and other guests.

Cubs who gave individual performances were George Denning and Murray Kellough, both of whom gave piano solos, and Rob Roy, Don Quast and Ron Quick, who sang hymns in trio. The Cubs also led the singing in chorus.

Following are patrol members who took part, and the skits they presented:

Beavers in "The Lone Ranger" were Jack Rudolph, Robin Cameron, Danny Pick, Tom Lindstrom, Charlie Willson and Gary Ogilvie. Ravens in "Whodunit" were Joe Scott, Frank Anfield, David Clegg, Bruce Roald and Bill Kergin.

Buffaloes in "Dognet" were Carl Engstrom, Al Hunter, Henry Peterson, Jim McLean and Harry Turner. Hawks in "Christopher Columbus" were Harry Schrader, Bob Bussanich, Lloyd Quast, Everett Hall and Gary Nelson.

Wolves in "Worst-Aid" were Jim Baldwin, Philip Thom, Don Murray, Dale Turcotte and Dennis Griffiths.

The evening concluded with a generous supply of refreshments provided by the women's auxiliary.

Sunday Night New Deadline For Jaycee Light Up Contest

Although this is the final day of the free Christmas Light-up contest sponsored by the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the merchants of the city, the deadline has been extended to Sunday evening.

While a fair number of entries have come in, response has been slower than was anticipated. The committee in charge of the campaign feels that the cash prizes has offered a first prize of $20 with second prize of $10. Along with these cash prizes the contest offers additional merchandising awards to the first and second prize winners.

Chairman of the committee, G. P. Woodside, announced today that entries will be accepted by telephone up to 6 p.m. Sunday to permit those who wish to enter to contact him. They may do so by calling Blue 192 and leaving their name and address.

Extension is offered to widen the field of entries and to broaden the competition.

The local contingent of RCMP also paraded to the well-attended service for the late chief magistrate, at which pallbearers were E. T. Kenney, Herb Spencer, Claire Giggey, Jim Norington, John Hagan and Lloyd Johnstone. The Rev. M. W. O'Connell officiated.

Legion rites were conducted at the graveside where Sam Kirkaldy sounded the Last Post.

Cars in B.C. Up to 337,198

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia will have nearly 500,000 motor-vehicles by 1958, a motor-vehicle branch official said today.

"We're gearing our whole operation on having nearly half a million cars in the province by 1958," he said.

The province now has 337,198 vehicles—one for every 3.6 persons. Ten years ago there were only 130,068 vehicles.

There are 426,925 licensed drivers in the population of 1,230,000. In 1943 there were only 145,500.

Naturally, it would be mutually advantageous if Canada with her large hydro potential would build her own northern industrial empire including an aluminum plant, and tell the products to lessen its "debts to the United States."

A quick look at the same "hold card" points out that not only is Canada America's best customer but also a convenient source of cheap raw materials.

Sgt. Boulton of Burns Lake Wins Coveted RCMP Medal

Another member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Prince Rupert sub-division has been awarded the force's coveted service and good conduct medal.

He is Sgt. Philip Boulton of Burns Lake, who received the medal and praise for exemplary service in two forces, the RCMP and the now defunct B.C. Provincial Police, at a ceremony in the divisional headquarters here yesterday afternoon.

Fellow members of the force, in their dress red serge, looked at Inspector W. M. Taylor presented the silver medal to Sgt. Boulton. The inspector, stating that a man must be of sterling worth to win the award, said that Sgt. Boulton's case was most unique, in that he was honored for service in two forces. He had come through more than 20 years of service with a clean slate."

Sgt. Boulton is married and has two children. He was the third member of the force in this sub-division to receive the medal, which is awarded only after 20 years of exemplary service.

Inspector Taylor and Patrol Sgt. Ross Clayton received the long service and good conduct medals last month.

THE ORIGINAL CHRISTMAS PRESENT

By Rev. L. A. Thorpe, Pastor of the Regular Baptist Church
"The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Despite all that has been said, the emphasis at Christmas is on receiving instead of giving. It seems to be human nature to be more taken with getting than with giving. So let us remind ourselves that the true Christmas spirit is one of generous unselfish giving to those who need a hand and cannot repay. The blessing of Christmas is lost to those who think of personal gain, but is surprisingly rich and full for those who consider the poor and the sick and the lonely. Are we not raising, subconsciously, another generation of Christmas "getters"? Do we not train our children to take our place by giving so much to them at this season? They receive presents at home, at Sunday School, and at several children's parties, and are never shown that the real Christmas happiness is gained by seeing someone else receive a real surprise.

Let us examine the original Christmas present and see that the first celebration of this favorite season began when God gave to us His only Son. It is God's great Gift that we rightfully remember on Dec. 25th. If we remember Christmas by our receiving of the Christ-child we are mistaken, because He did not become our Saviour until He had voluntarily given Himself as a vicarious sacrifice for sin. His mission to give Himself to us and rescue us from sin was but only launched at Bethlehem. At Christmas, God gave His Son; at Easter we received Him.

Thus generous, unrewarded giving has been the true pattern of Christmas from its very inception. We should first of all be appreciative for God's great eternal Gift, for He means as much today to every believer as He did to the shepherds and the wise men. He still imparts eternal life to every heart that He can enter. After our praise is raised to God, we should please Him by a proper, unselfish celebration of this happy season.

"It is more blessed to give than receive."

Boy Facing Murder Charge Released on $10,000 Bail

MANALMO, B.C. (CP)—Roy Mil-Kenny, 15, charged with murdering his father at their home near Wellington, B.C., was released on $10,000 bail by Mr. Justice MacBride.

The youth, charged with striking the one blow which killed his father last Wednesday, is scheduled to appear before Magistrate Potts Dec. 23 for preliminary hearing. Officials said another remand is likely to allow him to spend Christmas at home with his mother and a 13-year-old sister on their dairy farm.

The father, George Harold Kenny, suffered a broken jaw and fractured neck.

Kenny's sister Audrey visited her brother in jail here Friday. She said Roy told her "tell Mum not to worry. I'm ok."

She said her brother was the sole support of the family and "mother needs the help. She milks 14 cows twice a day."

This Winter's Weather Pretty Rough But Worst Storm in '17 Says Oldster

The weather is perhaps the most-talked-of subject along the waterfront this fall.

"Never seen it so wicked"—"Just one gale after another"—"Worst winter in 40 years." Such remarks are frequent among the old-timers.

But we talked to one oldster, Pete Leighton, born in Metlakatla over 60 years ago, and he says the winter of 1917 was worse. He says he recalls the year mainly because of several shipwrecks, and one in particular which was survived only by one of three in the crew and he was a man of 60 years and rheumatic at that.

What's more, said Leighton, the old man stayed alive for over a week on an isolated and almost barren island of the Tree Knob group where the boat was smashed on the rocks.

"The storms were so fierce the village boats couldn't leave to look for the lost boat. When the weather finally cleared, the boat was overdue almost two weeks.

"They found the old man, finally. He had been living on raw potatoes. He had managed to save a few from the cargo-full their boat was carrying at the time of the wreck."

Also voicing strong opinions on the weather at sea was Captain C. W. Ernschaw, skipper of the Department of Fisheries vessel, Howay, which docked for supplies here recently.

A LOT SUFFERED

"I've never seen it so consistently rough on the coast as this fall. While we've come through all the storms without damage, I know a lot of fishermen didn't."

Capt. Ernschaw said he had heard of several vessels which had lost their propellers or other gear on the fishing grounds, bucking high tides and gale-force winds.

"But we came into port with both our wheels intact, although it was quite dusty out there," said the veteran captain as the Howay took on fuel and grub at an oil dock.

The 125-foot fisheries patrol vessel is a beautiful ship. Powered by twin 400-horsepower diesels, she cruises at 11 knots and can stave off damage in most any kind of sea.

MATTER OF TIME

And since the 1949 tuna run off the Charlottes, the Howay has scouted for the elusive blue-fins each summer, up to 150 miles offshore. Capt. Ernschaw says he is sure that the tuna come north every year. "It's just a matter of finding them—like gold."

But when the Howay finds tuna (she ran into a small school last summer) all 15 of her crew get into the act as they start fishing—with handlines.

Best trolling speed to catch tuna is seven knots, says the captain, "but that's too fast for us to land them. So we usually troll at six knots. The pull then is not too heavy and the tuna stay on the hooks."

"At first, it's a lot of fun, catching these hard hitting fish, but after handling a dozen or so into the boat, the 'sport' end of fishing ceases and work really begins."

Capt. Ernschaw has hopes that scientific investigations into habits in northern waters will come up with an answer that may bring another seasonal source of revenue to B.C. fishermen.

In This Corner

By DICK AYRES

Good news on the basketball front for local fans is the fact that Bo-Me-Hi cagers will play host to the New Westminster Duke of Connaught high school rep team at the Civic Centre on Monday and Tuesday nights, December 28 and 29. The inter-high school engagements cancel out, temporarily, the round robin hoop tourney planned by the Prince Rupert Basketball Commission but the keen competition provided by the Duke's should bring in a couple of welcome crowds to the hitherto half-filled Civic Centre gym.

The Duke of Connaught high school cagers held the B.C. title for four or five years and only lost this spring to South Burnaby by two points. Bo-Me-Hi's rep team lost out to Duke 38-30 in the 1952-53 provincial school tourney so Rupert's high schoolers are out for revenge with the added advantage of their own floor.

Jack Evans will be coach of the Rupert squad which will be made up of six players from Inter-A loop Fraser & Payne and six from North Stars. Representing Prince Rupert will be Freddy Kristmanson, Ron Black, Bill (Mouse) Morrison, Art Helin, Rod Tait, Greig Forbes, Gary Morison, Doug Sankey, Roy McKay, Dick Nickerson, Jimmy Stewart and Ron Ciccone. Team manager is John MacDonald. Guiding the Duke's destinies on its northern tour will be Bob Hindmarch.

Original alternative plans to hold the postponed round-robin basketball tournament in the first week of January were dropped when it was realized that Challengers, composed mostly of Manson's Omegas will be on its Ketchikan tour on January 5, 6 and 7. The Connaught high school tour, while welcomed by the financially-embarassed basketball commission as a stimulant to basketball, has sort of kicked the props from under the commission which was hoping to make sufficient moola from the tourney to assist the Challengers in their trek north. The Challengers have got to be in Ketchikan and Metlakatla on the appointed dates. The only way they can do it is to produce the money by digging into reserves if there are any, or by borrowing it and hope that they can break even when the round-robin tournament comes off. And the only way for the commission to break even is for Mister and Missus, sister and brother, girl friend and boy friend basketball fan to support the 10-game series when it is staged in the near future. The commission isn't in business to make money for itself. It merely wants to provide the public with the best type of cage entertainment it can. And while they are digging for funds to send the Challengers north the commissioners might as well delve deep enough for ten players instead of the planned six or seven. A team half dead from playing without substitutes isn't going to do Prince Rupert any good, either in the way of reputation or attracting good gates in Alaska.

Understand that radio announcer and basketball Mel Thompson who became a proud father this week, is on the horns of a dilemma. He doesn't know whether to steer his new son into basketball or into radio. While the new arrival has the lungs for voice work its the question of the CBC accent which may prove the problem. . . . CCC coach Pop Pay has headed south for his Christmas holidays. His Pulp Mill squad are hoping that he gets back in time for the first CCC game of the new year. Maybe he will bring back a solution as to why the Cellulose gang can play so doggone hard and still not win. . . . The rule book comes out tonight as high school coach Jack Evans tries to convince Fred Calderone that his (Jack's) interpretation of the foul ruling on "the approach to making a shot" is correct. We're betting on Freddy. . . . Incidentally it will probably be Fred and Vern Ciccone for the refereeing chores for the Bo-Me-Hi and Dukes games. . . . With no intention of bragging, it could be casually mentioned that we think the Daily News entry in B Division of the Mixed bowling league set a new team high single game record for the year. The newspaper gang composed of Eric and Claude Sanderson, Jean Nixon, Muriel Ayres, Noble Powell and yours truly racked up a one-game total of 1283. Of course there's a handicap to come off that. Unconscious that's us. ("Okay dear. You better clip this out and send it to the folks. It'll probably never happen again.") . . . Tonight at the Civic Centre Senior B loop cellar-dwellers, Gordon and Anderson's will try to whittle down the six-win-one-loss record of Manson's Omegas. In the Inter-A loop, Watts and Nickersons are still out after their first win when they meet Fraser and Payne and in the Inter-B circuit climbing Nelson Brothers will try to edge ahead of second place General Motors.

Australian Miler Fails

LONDON (Reuters).—Running on a chilly breeze, Australian miler Don MacMillan today fell more than five seconds short of matching the four-minute, 10-second qualifying time for inclusion in his country's Empire Games team.

The Australian Olympian, now teaching school in southern England, was fighting for a place on the squad in competition with runners at home, who now are well into their summer season.

The Australian tired in his final lap and hit the tape in 4:15.4.

At the same time in Melbourne, Australia, John Landy, who has been chasing the elusive four-minute mile for the last year, ran the distance in 4:16.2 today in 101-degree heat.

Although the great Australian runner had announced he was not going to try for a record, the relatively slow clocking was a disappointment to track fans here. Last week he ran the mile in 4:02, the third fastest ever. The world record is 4:01.4, set by Gunder Haegg of Sweden in 1945.

Ken Watson's Curling

HOW ABOUT A RAISE, BOSS?

The greatest offensive shot in the curling game is the raise, yet it is a manoeuvre too seldom played. Potentially, a well-executed raise combines two shots in one. It affects a draw and a guard, both carried out with one stone. Under most circumstances its effect is so devastating to the opponent's strategy, it requires the waste of many opposing rocks to undo the damage in an often futile attempt to get control of the end again.

Short guards a foot or two in front of the rings offer the best opportunity to put this lethal weapon to good use. A stone on the front rings invites the thought too, particularly if it can be pushed gently into the four-foot circle out of range of enemy artillery. A thousand and one opportunities of this nature beckon the imaginative skip during a curling season, but if you want to be particularly effective in undermining your opponent's composure, keep these points in mind:

- Play the law of averages — short raises are easier.
- Draw around a long guard but raise a short guard.

Frosty's Down Rainbirds 32-22; Sailors Tied For League Lead

A first quarter lead of 10 points to 2 stood Frosty's in good stead last night as the 'ood locker quintette racked up its second win of the season when they downed Bo-Me-Hi Rainbirds 32-22 in a regular 'irls' league basketball game at the Civic Centre.

In the Junior Boys league Sea Cadets chalked up their fourth straight win to pull into a first place tie with Sports Shop for the loop leadership as they trounced Annunciation 38-21.

Orme's handed Bulger's a 32-12 shellacking to place them right behind the junior league pacesetters with two wins and two losses. The loss nudged the jewellers into a fourth place tie with Annunciation with one win and three losses.

Frosty's win over Rainbirds gave them a two-win two loss record and edged them closer to the thus-far unbeaten Doms. Dot Marshall scored 8 points to pace the winners and Margaret and Nina Youngman netted 7 and 6 points each respectively. Top scorer for the losers who went down 10-2, 7-6, 10-10 and 5-4 by quarters, was Sue Martin with 8 points.

Flood was the standout for Sea Cadets as they mowed down Annunciation, scoring a total of 21 points, 10 of them in the first quarter. The sailors, who committed 9 fouls and sank 8 out of 10 free shots took the game 14-1, 6-7, 6-10 and 12-2. Annunciation collected 7 personal and one technical foul and made good on 8 free shot in 11 tries. Bury scored 13 points to lead the schoolboys.

Bulger's 10-point rally in the final quarter was much too late as the druggists took the first frame 10-0, the second 7-2, the

NEW YORK—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today American capital is ready to increase its stake in B.C.'s Peace River block. The Social Credit Premier and two of his cabinet ministers wound up a two-day visit to New York for discussions with Wall Street bankers and investment concerns.
"We've been successful in enlisting further private investment in development of natural gas and oil fields of the Peace River section of B.C.," the Premier said in an interview.
Premier also reported "great interest" here in plans to extend the Pacific Great Eastern Railway from Prince George to Dawson Creek and from Squamish to Vancouver.
"We believe the time is ripe now for further development of the Peace River section of B.C.," he said. "Development of gas and oil makes it imperative that the rail connection between Vancouver and the Peace River be completed."

Label Kidnapping "Fantastic"
TORONTO (CP)—"Bizarre, fantastic. Nothing about it adds up, no matter how you look at it." That's how Detective Inspector Harold Adamson of suburban Scarborough township describes the disappearance two weeks ago Sunday night of 17-year-old Marion McDowell.
He and fellow officers have checked and re-checked more than 200 persons, have driven more than 20,000 miles, have poked through thicket and farm, and have followed every tip, lead or suggestion. They have found nothing worthwhile.
The township's 10-man detective force has worked 20 hours a day since James Wilson, 19, walked into the Scarborough police office dazed and bleeding and said a tall masked man forced his way into the car in which he and the girl were sitting on a lovers' lane, slugged him and the girl unconscious, then, a short time later, drove away with the girl in a car trunk.
"In practically every investigation, some concrete starting point is found," Insp. Adamson said Friday. "So far, we have turned up no such point in this case. We have considered every possible theory, yet each one is untenable in the face of the known facts."

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE
By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
Old "Saws" Often Need New Twist
There is an old bridge axiom, "Aces are for killing kings." Like all other such old saws, this one is not completely reliable. To it should be added the words, "at the right time."
In today's deal Mr. Dale correctly decided he didn't have quite enough to come into the bidding freely after Mr. Keen's overcall. When his partner doubled for a takeout he was still a little too weak to do anything but make a minimum response in diamonds. However, when Mr. Champion kept right on with a bid of two no-trump he was happy to go on to game.
Mrs. Keen opened the jack of spades, Mr. Abel played his lone king—and Mr. Champion played the deuce. The play looks somewhat sensational, but actually it was based on the simple rule I have suggested for use in determining whether it is necessary to hold up. That is, you do hold up unless the number of stoppers you have in the danger suit is one more than the number of times you have to use the lead.
In this hand Mr. Champion saw two sure winners in spades, three in hearts and three in clubs. That totalled eight. He needed at least one trick in diamonds for his contract. To get that trick he had to knock out the ace and king of that suit. In other words, he had to lose the lead twice.
The hold-up, then, was necessary. To prove it, suppose the ace of spades had been played at trick one and a diamond led. Mrs. Keen would win with the king of diamonds and persist in spades until the queen was knocked out. Since she still held the ace of diamonds, there would be no way to prevent her from regaining the lead later to cash the rest of her spades.
As it was, Mr. Abel could not lead a spade at trick two. He returned the jack of hearts and Mr. Champion won with the queen and fired a small diamond. That lost to the king. But Mr. Champion was now one jump ahead of the opposition. He won the spade return with the queen and knocked out the ace of diamonds. At this point he still had spades stopped and in fact all the rest of the tricks were his.

Escapee Says Reds Hold 24
Who Want To Go Back Home
PANMUNJOM (AP)—A South Korean captive who fled from a pro-Communist prisoner compound said yesterday die-hard Red leaders are guarding three and perhaps four Americans and 20 South Korean prisoners who may want to go home.
The young soldier said compound leaders have stalled Allied explanations to prisoners who refused repatriation because they fear "defections."
He named four Americans who might come home if given an opportunity but the names were withheld by military authorities to prevent possible reprisals.
Far East command censors later permitted identification of one, Cpl. William A. Cowart of Monticello, Ark., because of prior publication in the United States.
The Indian custodial command said meanwhile one of the 22 non-returning Americans wanted to hear "come home" explanations, but later changed his mind and now is standing with the others against explanations. He was not named.
The South Korean crawled through barbed wire surrounding the compound holding prisoners listed as pro-Communist and asked an Indian guard for repatriation. He was returned to the United Nations command the same day.
There was some official skepticism over the report of Pte. Kim Mun Du, a 22-year-old soldier captured by the Reds in the summer of 1951.
The Indian command, which guards unrepatriated prisoners in Korea's neutral zone, has said all of the Americans and the one British prisoner appear to have firm political convictions.
The UN command has said repeatedly it will interview any of the prisoners who will leave the compound. But there are only six days left before the Dec. 24 deadline for talking with prisoners who refused to return home.
Allied officers have said there appears to be little hope that interviews with the remaining South Koreans and the Americans and Briton will be held before the deadline.
