It's Air Force Day

AIR FORCE DAY TODAY GIVES THE CITIZENS of Canada an opportunity to look over their RCAF stations and see what their air force is doing. This year's Air Force Day finds the RCAF working on a latter phase in its current expansion program, aimed at producing a modern fighting air force with the world's finest aircraft and with the most modern equipment. With squadrons serving the cause of world freedom in England, France and Germany as well as the land, the RCAF is playing a decisive role in Canada's growing strength and authority. Upper left shows a dead-on view of the CF-100, the RCAF's all weather long-range jet fighter. Upper right, RCAF aero engine technicians replace an engine cowling on a CF-100. Lower left a flight of airwomen are seen at attention on the parade square at RCAF Station Clinton, Ont. Lower right: Some of the pilots of No. 4 Fighter Wing are seen climbing into the cockpit of their F-86 Sabre jet fighters before taking off for Baden-Soellingen, Germany. Insert is Air Marshal C. # B. C. Nineteen-Year-Olds To Be Granted Franchise

Socreds To Scrap Alternative Voting

VICTORIA.—In a surprise move, the British Columbia Social Credit government has announced it will lower the voting age requirements in provincial elections.

Making the announcement during the throne speech debate Friday, Premier Bennett said only that the franchise would be extended to "young people" but it was learned after the session that the age limit would be reduced from 21 to 19.

The premier said many persons who "should be entitled to vote" were not allowed to cast ballots. Young persons could judge the problems of the country as well as present voters, he said.

Mr. Bennett said a person reaching the age of 21 this summer after the government had just been elected for four years would not be able to vote until he or she was 25.

The speech from the throne Tuesday revealed that the government planned to make extensive changes in the province's Elections Act, but it was thought that these would deal mainly with the controversial alternative voting system.

The premier left no doubt that this system, which allows voters to mark their first, second, third, etc., choices on the ballots, would be scrapped under the planned amendments.

The alternative voting system was introduced by the coalition government before its collapse in 1952 and was used in the last two elections won by Social Credit.

During the throne speech debate, it has come under fire from CCF Opposition leader Arnold Webster and Liberal leader Arthur Laing.

Another amendment will extend the franchise to most of the Doukhobor population of the province. This is one of the steps the government is taking in its efforts to control the troublesome Sons of Freedom sect.

B. C. Boxla Players 'Poisoned' Lose 3rd Game Of Playoffs

TORONTO.—The entire New Westminster Salmonac junior lacrosse team was taken to hospital in ambulances and police cruisers early this morning suffering from food poisoning.

Eight of the 20, including manager Al Browning, are still in hospital under observation.

Many of the players became violently ill during the third game of the Canadian final with Long Branch Monarchs Friday night. The Salmonacs lost 16-6 and lead the best-of-five series 2-1.

Ontario Lacrosse Association officials postponed tonight's scheduled fourth game until Monday but it is likely the Salmonacs will ask for a further postponement.

Coach Ken McDonald, who was not affected, said today: "The boys were listless and pale all during the game Friday night. Some were sick to their stomachs. When we arrived back at our quarters every member of the team and our manager, Al Browning, became violently ill."

The loss of the game was the first suffered by New Westminster this season. The westerners had previously gone through a 20-game regular schedule without defeat and added five consecutive playoff victories while taking their provincial title and the western championship.

New Westminster was never a contender Friday night after the first quarter, when Long Branch possessed a 4-1 lead. The gap was lengthened to 10-3 in the second quarter and to 13-5 going into the final period.

A. R. MOSHER (right) Friday was elected president of the Canadian Congress of Labor for his 14th consecutive term. The 72-year-old one-time freight-handler has been president since inception of the congress in 1940. At left is Claude Jodoin, president, Montreal Trades and Labor Council (TLC-AFL). ## Veteran P. C. Member Gordon Graydon Dies

TORONTO.—Gordon Graydon, 56, died early today and with his passing the Progressive Conservative party lost its foreign affairs expert and one of its veteran members of Parliament.

The popular lawyer from Brampton had represented Peel in the Commons since 1935. He retained the seat handily in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Mr. Graydon was a Canadian delegate to the United Nations founding conference at San Francisco in 1945 and alternate delegate to the first assembly of the United Nations in London the next year, but he retained something of the rural background gained from a boyhood in a farming district that endeared him to his constituents in Peel.

He was born Dec. 7, 1896, on a dairy farm at Snelgrove, a few miles north of Brampton, received his elementary education at a rural public school in Chinguacousy township, at the Brampton High School and at the University of Toronto. He completed his law training at Osgoode Hall here and was called to the Ontario bar in 1924.

At Ottawa, Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Gordon Graydon "was a truly great Canadian, and our country has lost one of its most devoted and unselfish public servants."

In a statement, he said Mr. Graydon's untimely death comes as a great shock to all who knew him. "I have lost one of my dearest friends who was my closest associate at all times since I entered the House of Commons. . . . Our country has lost one of its most devoted and unselfish public servants. Few men have given so much of their life to the advancement of their own community and their country as a whole."

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said no patriot worked harder or more consistently for the good of his country than Gordon Graydon.

Mr. Low said: "Gordon Graydon was one of the finest fellows I ever met. As a man, as a parliamentarian, as a public servant, as a lawyer, as a friend he was outstanding."

NEEDLES, B.C. (CP)—A $15,000 lumber mill fire here Wednesday night now has been proved to have been of incendiary origin.

More than 50 volunteers and a B.C. Airlines plane had joined in a search on Thursday and Friday and again this morning. The man is reported to have found his way to the sea and then followed the beach to Masset.

All Bodies Found
KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—Search parties have found the bodies of Ellis Hall, wealthy New Mexico oil man, and those of two others who were with him when his plane disappeared a month ago, the coast guard cutter Kimball radioed Friday.

Mrs. Hall's five-carat diamond ring and the plane's engine, instrument panel and cockpit were also located.

TEAM CAPTAINS PREPARE FOR CIVIC CENTRE DRIVE

A meeting of team captains of some 15 city organizations will be held next week to map out areas to be covered in the one-night membership drive planned by the Civic Centre Association October 5.

At a meeting of the publicity committee last night, various ideas were put forward and members discussed ways and means of letting everyone know about the Civic Centre and urging them to join.

A program directive is being prepared and will be sent to every household within the next 10 days. Meanwhile Centre officials are continuing efforts to have the Centre in first class shape by early October, so the winter program can get underway.

Well-Equipped Crash Boat to Start Trials Soon at Seal Cove Air Base

A crash boat to stand by on take-offs of Canadian Airlines planes soon in operation from the air base, local CPA officials announced today.

The 18-foot yellow boat has been here for weeks on test for the work it was designed to perform. Powered by a Mercury V-8 engine, the boat is capable of speeds up to 25 miles an hour and is designed to rush lifesaving equipment to planes in case of a disaster.

A crash boat here and at Sandspit has been requested by Prince Rupert city council since the disastrous C46 crash at the Queen Charlotte Island base in December, 1952, which claimed 17 lives.

A further demand for crash boat services here was made by city council following the CPA Canso crash landing here last May in which two persons lost their lives.

Requests to the Department of Transport for crash boats were turned down. It is not known whether or not a similar type of boat now here will be put into operation at Sandspit, a land-plane base.

The 18-foot runabout which is understood to perform well, is equipped with three inflatable rubber life rafts which hold eight persons each, several dozen life jackets, firefighting and other rescue paraphernalia.

While procedure for operation of the crash boat here has not yet been laid down, CPA officials expect to receive instructions in a few days.

The boat has been in the charge of Ron Stewart and Al Yates, CPA engineers, while being tested.

The craft also is equipped with a two-way radio set with which operators will be able to maintain contact with planes from the time they leave Sandspit until they land here, and with the base radio as well.

It is not expected that the crash boat will be used much to scout the harbor for floating debris, but, rather, to stand by at all landings and takeoffs for the purpose of rushing lifesaving equipment to the plane in case of an accident.

SIU Takes Over UFAWU Local

VICTORIA (CP)—Seafarers International Union (TLC) Friday took over the Quathiaski Cove local from the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union as it continued its drive to enlist members from the Communist-dominated body.

"We have three boats and 11 organizers in the field," said Norman Cunningham, SIU business agent from Vancouver. "I am not worried about them; they know how to take care of themselves."

Elephant Not Coming With Circus

The Rotary Club was advised today that the elephant that was coming to Prince Rupert with the Odyson Circus next week has been sent home because of cold weather in the interior.

The circus manager advised the club here that the trainer of the elephant insisted on sending the elephant home to winter quarters from Prince George.

He assured the club, however, that other animals and a good show would be here for the opening on Monday night.

Rotary Club officials said that anyone who intended going to the circus mainly to see the elephant may obtain a refund of their ticket money from the Rotarian from whom they purchased their tickets if they so desire.

Proceeds from the circus are to be used to extend the children's ward at Prince Rupert General Hospital.

The Sons of Freedom so far have refused to speak in suburban Burnaby court.

No New Clues In McLean Case; London Papers Offer Rewards

LONDON (Reuters)—Two newspapers today offered rewards for information leading to the discovery of the whereabouts of Mrs. Melinda Maclean.

The Conservative Daily Mail, with a daily circulation of about 1,400,000, offered £10,000. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which sells about 4,300,000 copies daily, offered £2,000.

At Vienna, an Austrian railroad conductor said today he was "100 per cent certain" that Mrs. Maclean did not catch an overnight train from Zurich to Vienna when she disappeared last week in Switzerland.

Mrs. Maclean, wife of a long-missing British diplomat, and their three children vanished after putting her automobile into a Lausanne garage. Swiss police Friday appeared convinced she had caught a train from Zurich to Austria last Friday and possibly continued on through the Iron Curtain.

Representatives of the Austrian interior ministry, meanwhile, reported efforts to establish definitely whether Mrs. Maclean actually entered Austria had been "utterly without result."

Mr. Maclean disappeared 28 months ago with a fellow British diplomat, Guy M. Burgess. They were foreign office experts on American affairs. Maclean had sat in on joint U.S.-British-Canadian political conferences regarding the atom bomb.

The latest definite clue in Mrs. Maclean's case was announced Friday in Lausanne, Switzerland, where a ticket collector identified Mrs. Maclean as a woman who boarded a Lausanne-Genève train last Friday carrying tickets to Bad Gastein, Austria.

See You At The Circus

IN THESE DAYS of mounting hospital costs, it is refreshing to know that there are organizations willing and able to alleviate the burden of a sorely-pressed Prince Rupert General Hospital Board.

We do not mean that someone is going to jump in and underwrite next year's cost of operating the hospital, but the establishment of a children's ward by the Prince Rupert Rotary Club and its plans to extend it must provide more than a measure of relief to the hospital directors.

The program of initiating the children's ward, furnishing and equipping it is a long range plan on the part of the Rotarians; it is a symbol of their motto "Service."

The ward, containing 20 beds, was thought to be ample at the time of its inauguration six years ago. But time's inexorable passing shows that the ward's capacity is no longer adequate and more beds are needed in order that two or more may be vacant in case of emergency.

Hence the need of an extension speaks for itself and the Rotary Club, in bringing a circus here for three nights next week—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—hopes to clear sufficient funds to start necessary alterations to the present ward as soon as possible.

The patronage part of the arrangement should not be too hard to take. The public has an opportunity of seeing one of the biggest circuses ever to visit Central British Columbia; they have the chance to give their children, especially the younger ones, the thrill of their lives to date.

In every man and woman, there is still a great deal of child, whose feet tap faster to the music of the callopie and whose hearts beat more quickly under the spell of the "Big Top" where clowns, animals and daring trapeze artists perform their dazzling routines.

Putting it straight to fathers and mothers, who of us can be so hard-hearted as to refuse a youngster a chance to go to the circus? And who wouldn't want to add to the funds needed to build the extension to a ward that might someday house one of our children?

We'll see you at the circus.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

Wheat To Help India

WALTER REUTHER sounds a call as clear as a bugle blast when he says:

"I fault the people of the world go to bed hungry, while Canada and the United States are deeply concerned at their combined wheat surplus of 2,729,000,000 bushels."

It is a bit unfortunate that the enlightened labor leader phrased his argument in cold war terms and so talked of using "surplus wheat as a tool to defeat world communism."

MR. REUTHER suggests that our surplus wheat should be given away or sold on long term credits to impoverished countries and that such gifts or sale "would do more than the H-bomb to defeat communism."

The general idea behind this suggestion is good. But there are very practical difficulties and some real dangers when it comes to "giving away" food.

Somebody must pay the wheat grower for his wheat, just as somebody must pay the wages of the men in Mr. Reuther's unions.

Somebody must pay the men who operate the elevators, the trains, ships, and the foreign distributors and manufacturers of that wheat.

A few years ago B.C. apple growers gave outright to Britain a vast and very handsome gift of apples. But as there was no machinery in Britain for free distribution, the apples were finally sold through the regular stores at regular prices.

I am not throwing cold water on Mr. Reuther's fine aim, but only showing that the idea of giving food away by one nation to another is not so simple as it sounds.

Moreover, if it is done over a period of years and then stopped, the people who were helped are likely to be as upset and indignant as a lame man who has his crutches snatched away.

That is exactly what happened when Uncle Sam got Europe geared to the Marshall Plan—and then cut it off.

BUT SURELY the main principle suggested by Walter Reuther is fine and practical. We have too much food. Most other people never have enough.

I would like to see Canada take over with India and Pakistan the idea that Canada should set up in those countries a substantial wheat reserve, always to be kept intact, against the threat of famine.

Those countries work on a very narrow margin, in food supply. Both are now theoretically self-sustaining — always remembering that the vast majority of their people never really get enough food.

India cannot afford the luxury of making a considerable investment in elevators, etc., to keep wheat in storage just in case there might be more famines, with which she has been so tragically familiar.

But Canada could do this for India and Pakistan. The only expense would be the initial expense of the wheat reserve. After the first year the plan could become almost entirely self-sustaining. For as the wheat in storage was sold year by year the money could be used to replenish the reserves.

Premier St. Laurent says he would be greatly pleased to welcome President Eisenhower to Canada as a visitor. Several United States army officers lately retired, strongly endorse the presence of the president in the dominion. He's an ex-officer, too, you know.

Hens have hit the headlines in widely separated parts of the world.

Mohammed Mossadegh, staging a brief hunger strike for better food in jail in Tehran, said he had to have three roast chickens every day to keep up his strength.

He won the hunger strike, and is presumably getting his three chickens a day. This seems rich fare in a country where many people are living on a few grains of cereal and the smell of an oiled rag.

In Canada, a big poultryman said it was not cruel to keep hens in small cages under artificial light to make them lay more eggs. He did not say whether or not it was cruel to keep Mossadegh in a cage, but then nobody asked him to voice an opinion on that point.

S. J. Sanders, president of the Canadian Federation of Hatchery Associations, defended the "battery hen system," which means keeping hens in small wire cages, under artificial light for more than 13 hours a day, with nothing to do but eat, drink and lay eggs.

Some SPCA members attacked the system as cruel, but Mr. Sanders said battery hens are probably happier than those that run loose. "A hen is interested in very little other than eating and drinking," he remarked.

Certain likenesses exist between Mossadegh and a battery hen. The Persian sage has done a lot of cackling in recent years, and he certainly laid an egg with his oil nationalization program. Both the ex-premier and the hen are on the inside looking out.

There the resemblance seems

OTTAWA DIARY

By NORMAN M. McLEOD

A phenomenon which never ceases to cause amazement around Parliament Hill is the capacity for optimism which the PCs manage to salvage out of even the most devastating of their party disasters.

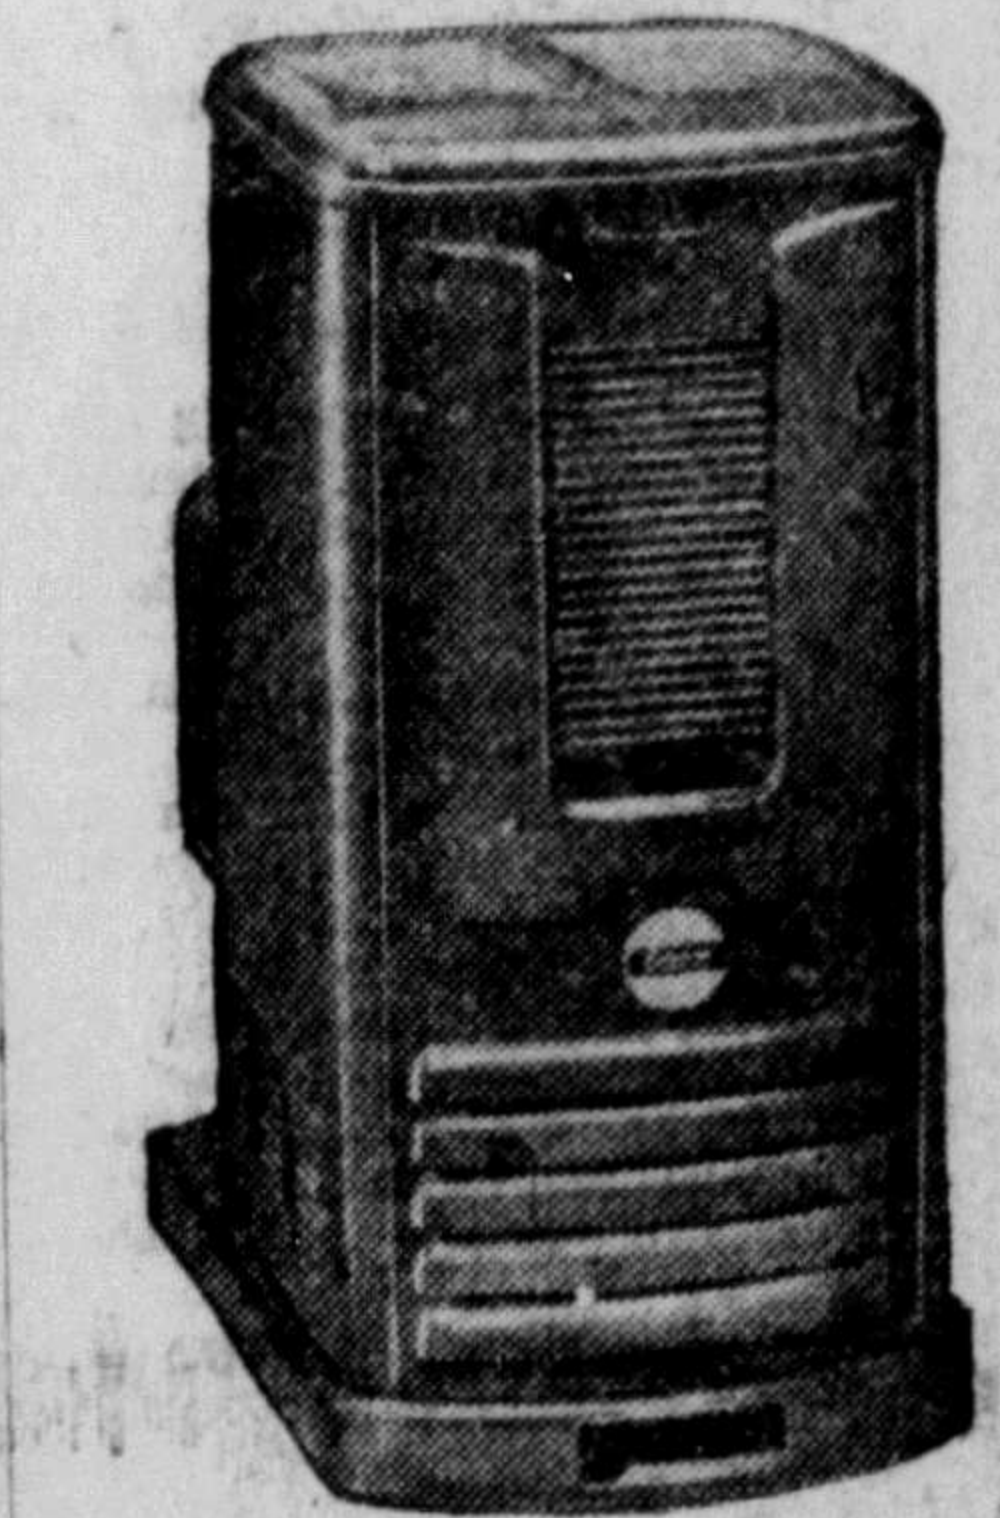

At times it almost seems as if the harder fate belts the official opposition party around, the more convinced do its members become that better times are right at hand. They don't merely bear up under their misfortunes; they treat the mass if they were the happenings of a dream world from which an awakening will bring easy and sudden deliverance.

For example, right now the PCs have hypnotized themselves into the rosy belief that Prime Minister St. Laurent is going to appoint a number of them to the Senate. They reason easily that the PM is far too public-spirited basically to allow the Senate to become a one-party chamber, as it is fast threatening to do with only eight PC members surviving there.

Experienced Parliament Hill observers have no expectation that the Prime Minister will do any such thing. But they recognize that if, in any momentary weakness of judgment he should do so, he would immediately sow the seeds of a rebellion among the rank-and-file of his Liberal followers which even his great prestige might be unable to control.

It isn't only the Liberal rank-and-file who oppose the idea of PC appointees to the Upper House. In addition, the most enlightened opinion amongst the other political parties—including even a sprinkling of the PCs themselves—is against it. The idea of a government handing out prizes to the opposition strikes impartial and responsible circles as essentially immoral. It raises too great a danger of Opposition members pulling their punches in House of Commons debate, for fear of sacrificing their chances of a Senate reward.

Attend CHURCH SUNDAY

Saturday Sermon

"CALLED CHRISTIANS"—Acts 11:26

By REV. F. ANTROBUS—First Baptist Church

It was at Antioch that the disciples were first called "Christians." The name was coined by the pagans of the first century to identify the followers of Christ from those who worshipped Roman emperor.

A disciple is one who learns. The word does not include within its meaning the idea of salvation. Thus, the disciples of Christ could be either saved or unsaved. They merely had to be His followers, submit to His instruction, and adhere to Him as leader or teacher.

In John 6:66, we have, "From that time, many of His disciples went back and walked no more with him." They followed our Lord in His ethical teachings, but when He spoke of salvation through faith in a substitutionary blood sacrifice, they parted company with Him. The context of the passage considered will tell whether the disciple mentioned is saved or unsaved.

Here then, we have the case of many people following the Lord who were known as His disciples. The pagan world called them "Christians." The Roman State was built around the emperor not merely as the political but the religious head of the empire. Not only did Roman citizens render allegiance to Caesar as the governing head, but they worshipped him as a god. In fact, emperor-worship, or the Cult of the Caesar, bound together the empire's far-flung colonies and wide, different peoples.

When Jesus Christ, God's Son, the sinners' Saviour, and a king in His own right came into the world, calling for the allegiance of the subjects of Rome, and the whole world, He necessarily became a rival king. Those who put their faith in Him, necessarily had to sever their allegiance to the ruling Caesar, so far as worshipping him was concerned.

When the apostle Paul preached the gospel of Christ to Agrippa, the Roman ruler, Acts 26, he was answered literally in these words, "With but little persuasion..."

District News

STEWART

Residents of this town have had their first taste of winter. The heavy rains of the past week were followed by a dusting of snow on the mountain tops surrounding the town, a first warning of impending winter.

Possibility of a winter route through the Frank Mackie glacier on the Upper Salmon river to the Leduc river area is being discussed here. Prospectors familiar with the glacier have suggested such a route would give comparatively easy access to the properties in the Leduc area.

Milton Kearns, prospector, reports killing two large timber wolves near his property at Long Lake, Upper Salmon river, during the summer.

FEWER WHISTLES

MONTREAL (CP)—Town council of Cote St. Luc was advised that a municipal by-law prohibiting the sounding of engine whistles within the town has been approved by the federal board of transport commissioners. A councillor said railway officials will be asked to ensure that the by-law is observed as soon as possible.

'Rupert Hospital Auxiliary Launches Winter Program

Reports on activities during the summer months and plans for new projects to be undertaken this winter highlighted the first fall meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Prince Rupert General hospital.

It was reported that the new suction ether machine, purchased by the auxiliary for the hospital, at a cost of $442, is now in use, and the group plans to purchase further modern equipment this winter.

Other reports on summer activities noted that some 260 pieces of sewing for hospital supplies had been completed, and that the baby clothes sale in the hospital had done well. The auxiliary's library service also had been carried on throughout the summer months.

Plans were laid for the annual Halloween tea to be held October 31, and it was decided to send a delegate to the hospital auxiliaries' convention in Vancouver next month. The delegate will be named at the next meeting. Two new members, Mrs. W. J.

Scott and Mrs. Robert Yamada, were accepted, bringing the total membership up to 81. The group is campaigning for members, and persons interested are asked to contact the secretary, Mrs. Sidney Elkins.

YOU CAN TRANSFORM a dull basement into a dazzling guest room, rumpus room or a den—easily and inexpensively—by panelling with Sylvaply, so easy to handle, nail and saw, it's more fun than work. Get Free "How-To-Do-It's" from your Sylvaply dealer.

YOU NEED THESE

YOU probably won't buy a pig of lead, a slab of zinc or a bar of silver. But you do buy many things containing these metals.

Ethyl Gasoline and the battery in your car need lead . . . a flashlight battery and galvanized pipe need zinc . . . your newspaper or magazine cannot be produced without both. In your tableware and in your camera film there is silver . . . So, eventually, Cominco comes to you in many ways.

Cominco is a typical Canadian industry—men of faith invested in it—men of vision built it—men of skill operated it. The combination was successful, and customers approved and the product sold. The Company grew and prospered. As it grew, part of its prosperity was ploughed back into new buildings and equipment. As a result it grew and prospered on a larger scale—to provide more jobs—to build communities—to develop further resources and to bring to millions, products which play an important part in their every day life.

Kid Gavilan May Quit as Welterweight

by JACK HAND

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Cuban Kid Gavilan may never again fight as world welterweight champion.

Alarmed at the champ's weight-making troubles for Friday night's split decision victory over gamester Carmen Basilio, manager Angel Lopez plans to take Gavilan to a doctor for a check-up next week. He wants to know if the champ is undermining his health by trying to scale down to 147 pounds.

"If you can't make the weight, you have to give it up," said Lopez. "It all depends on what the doctor says."

"At 150 pounds Basilio would have been no problem. Maybe the Kid had better go after the middle-weights. He could beat both Bobo Olson and Randy Turpin."

Gavilan is supposed to defend his welter crown against Johnny Bratton within 60 days but they look doubtful now. He is more interested in the winner of the Oct. 21 Turpin-Olson scrap for the middleweight title.

"He had to take off too much weight too quick," said Lopez.

When Basilio's left hook dumped Gavilan in the second it was the first time the Cuban had been down since Ike Williams decked him in their first fight Feb. 27, 1948. It was only the second time he had been dropped in his 112-bout career dating back to 1943.

The count of the knockdown was disputed. Walsh said it was eight but many ringsiders insisted they heard him toll nine.

MEL PARNELL HAS CHANCE TO BE 20-GAME WINNER

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mel Parnell, the Boston left-hander who won 25 games in 1949 and who has slipped a little each year since, has a chance to climb back into the 20-game circle again this year, maybe today.

Parnell drew the starting assignment for the Red Sox in the first game of a week-end set of three with the champion New York Yankees in Beantown. Up to today he had won 19 games and lost eight. Only two American Leaguers had won more.

So far this season five pitchers—Bob Porterfield of Washington, Bob Lemon of Cleveland, Robin Roberts of Philadelphia, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves, and Carl Erskine of Brooklyn—have hit the 20-game mark.

Aside from Parnell the only hopeful with a reasonable chance of joining these five are Virgil Trucks (19-10) of Chicago White Sox and Harvey Haddix (18-9) in his first full season with St. Louis Cardinals.

With only a week to go, time appears to have run out on such 20-game stars of a year ago as Early Wynn and Mike Garcia of Cleveland and such early season prospects as Billy Pierce of the White Sox and Gerry Staley of the Cards.

Last year Roberts, with his sensational 28-7 mark, was the only National League pitcher in the charmed circle. This year the strong-armed righthander quickly won 19 games, but had a real struggle since early August in building his present total to 22. He's lost 14.

Spahn, a 20-game winner four years in a row, turned in a dismal 14-19 record last year. Rejuvenated by the switch to Milwaukee, Spahn now has a 20-7 mark.

Erskine, Brooklyn's first 20-game winner in two seasons, has a 20-6 record. Never before in any league has he won so many.

Porterfield is the first Washington pitcher in 20 years to win 21 games. His current mark of 21-10 is by far his best in professional ball.

Lemon currently is 20-14. He has won at least 20 in five of the last six seasons.

Friday was a day off for all 16 teams.

School Water Poser Solved

Special to The Daily News
TERRACE—Village commissioners and the district school board reached a tentative agreement to share the cost of installation of a water line to the new high school at a special meeting of the two civic groups.
 The new high school, now under construction, is situated outside the village limits and there was some question as to responsibility for the supply of water and the cost of installation of a water line.
 The village commission agreed to enter into a provisional agreement with the school board to provide the water and share the cost of the main pipeline installation, including material and labor, on a tentative basis of 50 per cent.

CCF Leader Scores Government's Lack Of Initiative in Doukhobor Problem

VICTORIA (CP)—CCF Opposition Leader Arnold Webster demanded the provincial government call the Doukhobor Consultative committee to Victoria "at once" to re-assess the Doukhobor situation and to advise the Attorney-General's department.

In a strongly worded maiden speech in the legislature, the first opposition speech in the throne debate, Mr. Webster said the government had shown the same lack of courage and lack of decisiveness in the Doukhobor question as had previous governments.

Mr. Webster also mentioned schools, hospital insurance, the Pacific Great Eastern railway and the Elections Act.

He was followed by Dr. Larry Giovando of Nanaimo, the lone Progressive Conservative member in the house, who also attacked the Hospital Insurance Service.

Mr. Webster said force should be used on a large scale against the Sons of Freedom only as a last resort and only in the conjunction with positive measures that are sincere and just.

The government, if it is to deal with the sect, must establish itself as an "Agency of beneficence" as well as force.

Mr. Webster lashed out at critics of public education. He said criticism must be fair and informed and sincere and branded as "unfair and cowardly" the irresponsible and emotional outbursts of those who say communism is being taught in our schools.

The opposition leader asked for appointment of a judicial committee on redistribution of seats instead of a legislative committee. A judicial committee would be unbiased and scientific.

He called for abolition of multiple member constituencies, restriction on the amount of money spent by election candidates and parties, and promptness in reporting results of absentee votes.

There was need for a provincial government department of planning similar to the lower mainland regional planning board. The agency would coordinate the programs of expansion that are being developed individually at present. It would serve all sections of the provincial administration.

New resources being discovered, new industries and more immigrants pointed to the need of the planning department.

Under the present government B.C. seemed to have retreated to the "old idea that we must somehow or other peddle off" the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

The railway must be extended into Vancouver if it was to be economically profitable. No road link between Squamish and Vancouver, proposed by the Liberal government, would be a substitute for the rail link.

He won the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs. He cashed the king and ace of spades, then the king of hearts.

Now, entering his hand with the king of clubs he cashed the ace of hearts. When he led a third heart and ruffed in dummy, Mrs. Keen's queen dropped.

He had discarded a diamond from the board on the ace of hearts. It was simple now to re-enter his hand with a trump.

Abel Plays Best as Dale's Partner

Mr. Abel always plays his best when Mr. Dale is his partner. That's because he is at ease.

Mr. Dale doesn't fluster him with criticism or confuse him by pointing out how he could have played the last hand better. It is interesting to note this treatment not only adds points to Mr. Abel's score—but to Mr. Dale's as well.

In today's deal Mrs. Keen led the queen of clubs and Mr. Abel scanned the dummy before playing.

He saw no losers in spades, none in clubs and none in hearts. There was only one loser in diamonds if Mr. Heinstein had the ace or queen and Mr. Abel could guess which.

While wondering how he would play the diamonds, Mr. Abel remembered a favorite saying of Mr. Dale's: "Don't become so fascinated with the play of one suit you forget about the others."

So he looked at the other suits. It wasn't very likely, but the 10 of hearts might solve his problems.

He won the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs. He cashed the king and ace of spades, then the king of hearts.

Now, entering his hand with the king of clubs he cashed the ace of hearts. When he led a third heart and ruffed in dummy, Mrs. Keen's queen dropped.

Britain Slashes Bank Rate

LONDON (AP)—Britain yesterday slashed the bank rate by one-half per cent in a sudden move paving the way for cheaper, more plentiful sterling.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler reduced the rate from four to 3½ per cent. The bank rate is the interest figure at which the nationalized Bank of England lends money.

The government's action indicated Prime Minister Churchill's engine has decided it has pretty well licked the inflation which once threatened Britain economy.

Since taking office after the general election of October, 1951, the Conservative government had raised the bank rate twice as a deflationary measure, from two to 4½ per cent in November, 1951, and from 2½ to a whopping four per cent in March, 1952.

Lowering the rate means that money will be cheaper and easier to borrow throughout the world.

Orange Lodge Official Talks On School Act

Opposition to any changes in the B.C. public schools act was voiced by Wilfred Daly, grand master of the Loyal Orange Lodge in British Columbia, when he paid his official visit to the Prince Rupert lodge, No. 2310 last night.

Mr. Daly termed B.C.'s system of education the best and the most democratic in Canada, and said that the Orangemen would continue to oppose any changes in that system.

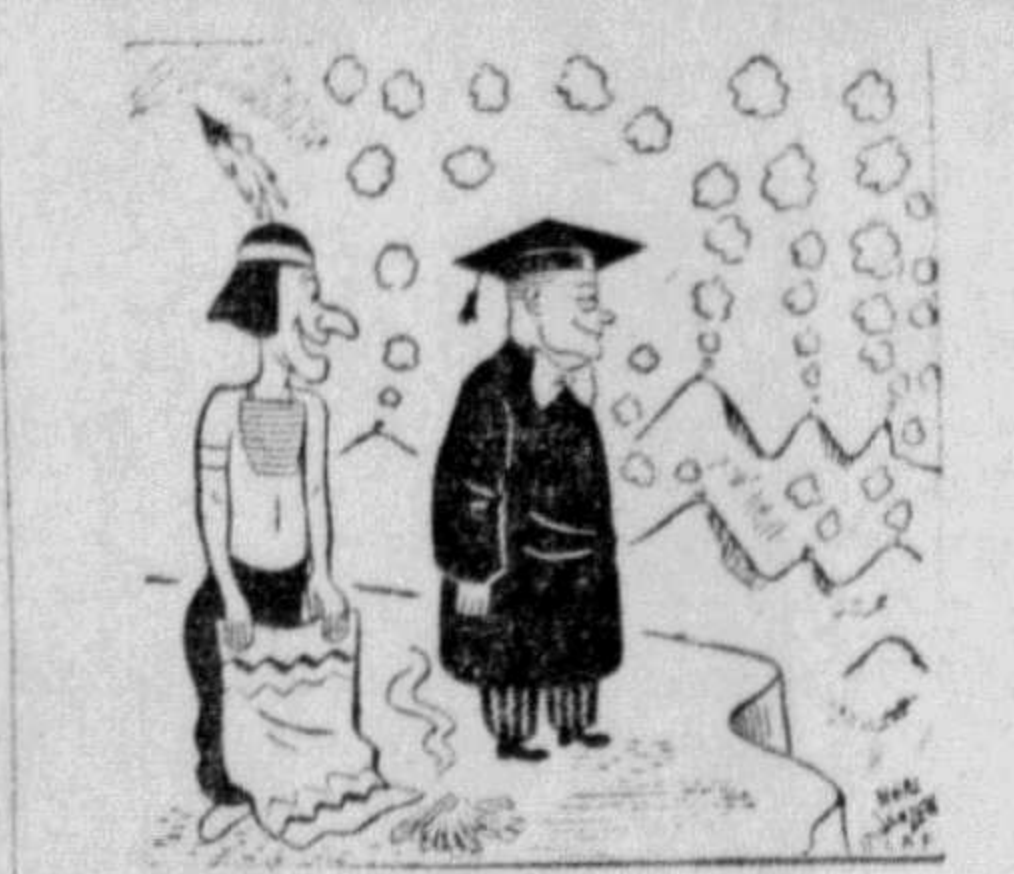

He also spoke on the continued advance of the order in this province, noting that several new lodges had been instituted during the past year.

Mr. Daly was entertained at dinner by officers of the local lodge at Club 27, prior to the meeting. He returned to Vancouver today.
