Holmes also needed a waiver because the maximum to enter the service is six feet, six inches. All are stationed at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth.

Economist Facing Charges

Held by Police
For Extortion

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood said early today that Dr. Alfred A. Valmanis, former director general of economic development here and later chairman of the Newfoundland and Labrador Corporation has been arrested on charges of extortion.

The premier said Dr. Valmanis was arrested by the RCMP in New Brunswick on charges "that he extorted very large sums of money from various firms with whom he dealt in behalf of the government of Newfoundland."

In a statement, Premier Smallwood said "these sums run into many hundreds of thousands of dollars."

He said Dr. Valmanis will be brought to St. John's for trial. The Latvian-born Dr. Valmanis resigned suddenly as the chief of Newfoundland's development program last February and said he was taking a new unspecified job elsewhere.

Analysed Deposit Fails To Give Clue

By SHIRLEY YULE

"Are atomic particles falling over Prince Rupert?" "How's your windshield?" "Is our rain radioactive?" Those questions and variations on the theme are dominating conversation in this city as dozens of local motorists join car-owners across North America in pondering the mystery of the pitted windshields.

The first report of a pitted windshield by QCA's Gerry Levers here Tuesday brought a series of complaints from puzzled motorists all over town, including stories of an odd ash dotted over cars and covering pits in car glass, a mysteriously cracked windshield and an oddly-spotted rear-view mirror.

ANALYZES SAMPLE
Meanwhile, Dr. G. W. J. Fiddes of Miller Bay Hospital, who analyzed a sample of the mysterious substance called ash for lack of a better term, reports it had no effect on glass in his lab. It is not a fluorine compound (fluoric acids are the only acids which effect glass) but a mineral more like an ash or a graphite, he said.

Almost everyone reporting the pitted windshields wondered... could it be due to the hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific? Scientists throughout Canada and the United States scoffed, terming the epidemic of windshield pocks mass hysteria, but a Michigan industrialist reported today that he had tested an ash scraped from his car with a geiger counter and got a definite reaction.

BLAMES SAND FLEAS
Craziest explanation to date comes from a Centralia, Washington man who blames sand fleas. He suggests that the sand used in making glass contains flea eggs which hatch out in the glass when warmed by the sun. "The fleas have to chip the glass to get out," he says.

In Prince Rupert this morning, Gerry Levers reported that all of the cars parked on the CPA lot at Seal Cove showed the unex-

Railway, Ship Liquor Outlets In B.C. Seen Ready by May

VICTORIA (AP)—Thirsty travelers and Vancouver residents will soon be able to order wine and beer with their meals. Canada's two big railway systems and 26 Vancouver downtown hotels and restaurants Thursday divided up the first shaker-full of public liquor, beer and wine licences issued in B.C. They represent only the first group of licences processed by the one-man liquor commission. Others will be issued as they are approved. Public sale of liquor by the glass is new in B.C. under legislation approved last fall. Previously, thirst-quenching was done in hotel beer parlors or a few private clubs with bars. The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways received 68 of the licences issued Thursday. Of the group, 29 were for dining rooms and 39 for lounges and cocktail bars. Railway officials said here that the new outlets should be in operation on both trains and boats in B.C. in May.

A CPR spokesman said it was expected that lounge and dining-room licences would be used on transcontinental trains between here and Field, B.C. Trains and boats may serve liquor only while moving. Thirty-two licences were issued or approved for Vancouver and two to a New Westminster hotel which cannot start operations until alterations are approved. Owners said they would need several days to get into operation, but many were confident of a Monday start. Beer was expected to be available before wine service. Restaurants may sell their wine and beer from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Dining-lounges may serve liquor from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. except for special licences issued to two cabarets. They will remain open from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. but must charge a $1.50 minimum cover charge. No public house licences were issued.

Looking Ahead For Drydock

FROM the great volume of discussion which has surrounded the Prince Rupert drydock in the past several weeks, one forward-looking idea has emerged lately which commands attention. It is that this valuable plant be made the nucleus of foundry operations which could handle the heavy work of industries springing up in this northern coastal area.

The idea is based on the justified assumption that, with power at Kitimat bringing new industrial activity to the northern coast, there will be pressing demand for a plant in the vicinity to undertake big installation and repair jobs. In present circumstances such jobs must be handled through Vancouver or other major centres and usually require outside labor to be imported at great expense.

The suggestion is an elaboration of the thought expressed earlier by Mayor Hills that interested local parties organize to purchase those facilities at the drydock which they need in the conduct of their business. The later scheme is more ambitious in scope as it envisions a greater outlay of capital and a wider area of service.

Although it would be two, three or more years before a plant of this sort could start to show real results, it is one which deserves our energetic thought. There can be no doubt that within a comparatively short time this area is going to see expanded activity on land and water which will create demands for heavy servicing work. At the drydock there is machinery and equipment which, though not of the latest manufacture, could provide a firm start for any project designed to handle such tasks. Without a central operation of this nature, new industries and present expanding ones may be forced eventually to establish their own heavy duty shops at much cost to themselves.

If the present plant is demolished, the scheme outlined probably goes with it. Let us never be put in a position of looking back a few years hence and saying ruefully, "We thought about it once, but..."

Rising Generation

A NORTH country Englishman who has spent 60 of his 80 years in Canada without losing his accent was walking along Main street in Hamilton when he saw a small boy playing in the slush and mud. The little one would scarcely be more than four years of age and looked as though he was in need of some good advice.

The old gentleman decided to give him it. "Do not play in that muck lad; you'll get it all over your coat and your ma'll give you a good hiding," he said. The four-year-old looked up from his play. "Mind your own... business," he replied. The promptness and the fluency of the reply flabbergasted the old gentleman. Then he reflected that 76 years divided them and suddenly he began to laugh. After all, what else could he do?

Toronto Forgoit

TORONTO—In the words of the popular song, Toronto, like spring, is "busting out all over." The Ontario metropolis now spreads deep into the countryside.

But in one respect Toronto has made a mistake which is perhaps the most comic blunder of this class of the century.

It has just started operation of a $58 million subway, which is in all but one or two respects the finest in the whole world.

BUT ONE thing Toronto forgot. Toronto built the latest and most modern subway in the entire world—but without a single sanitary convenience of any kind.

In London, Paris, New York and (presumably) even in Moscow you can ride on the underground just as you now can in Toronto. But only in Toronto do the authorities deny the facts of life. There are no toilets for men, women or children at any of the 12 magnificent stations, which Toronto has provided for the travelling public. The mother whose young child calls out "I have to go to the bathroom" will find no answer to that age old natural problem at any of the subway stations. The only remedy, presumably, is to wait till you can reach the nearest big department store, or to search for the nearest gasoline filling station. The city fathers of Toronto, and the managers of what is otherwise the finest underground civic railway in the whole world, are just not concerned about such bothersome things as public toilets. In this respect, Toronto clings like a burdock cluster to the type of mind that has come right down from the days of "muddy York."

IT HAS always amazed me how far all North America is behind all Europe in the matter of public conveniences. You can go all over Britain, and find that even the most unpretentious town has provided a sufficient number of public lavatories. Moreover, I have never yet found one that was not well kept up, clean and neat.

In France they provide such facilities almost on every street corner—and though their style of architecture for these facilities is not quite as discreet as the more puritanical Anglo-Saxon demands, the French at least face the facts of life, and provide for them.

But in North America there is hardly a city or town anywhere where public authorities have provided for human necessities by an adequate number of urinals. True, the big oil companies have stepped in and filled the need. It is a literal fact that at least one big U.S. oil company owes its considerable success to the fact that it has provided spit and span toilets at all its filling stations. The motoring public has come to take that for granted now—but the idea did not reach the managers of the Toronto subway in time to induce them to do likewise on the $58 million subway.

I mention the matter now, because Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver will be following Toronto's example before too many more years by providing some kind of highway or subway rapid-transit service.

This is just an appeal to future planners of such systems not to repeat Toronto's monumental mistake. Spend less money on fancy chrome and trim, but more on plumbing.

THE BODY of Angus L. Macdonald, late Liberal premier of Nova Scotia, is borne on a gun carriage from Province House to St. Mary's Catholic cathedral at Halifax. The 64-year-old native of Dunvegan, N.S., who served as Canada's navy minister during the Second World War, was accorded a state funeral that was the biggest in Nova Scotia's history. Pallbearers flank the carriage and part of the procession can be seen moving down Barrington Street in the background of this picture. Mr. Macdonald died in his sleep of a heart attack.

OTTAWA DIARY

By NORMAN
M. MacLEOD

Parliament is hoping that by the time it returns from its Easter vacation better news will be percolating through from the economic front.

It's considered to be past due. For the government confidence which steadfastly has regarded the recent recession as only temporary, fully expected that reassuring signs of business revival would become abundantly apparent with the end of Winter. Instead, there has been only a seasonal upturn of so far unimpressive proportions.

Two factors in the situation are causing the government some unspoken uneasiness. One is the fact that business indices fell lower than ever had been anticipated in the course of the economy's downswing. As an example, volume of freight by rail and truck—a particularly basic economic indicator—dropped by more than 10 percent. In the book of some economists a shrinkage of that extent is recognized as something more than just a recession.

In addition, business conditions in the United States have been less buoyant than Parliament Hill economists had hoped. The dependence of Canadian prosperity upon United States export markets is fundamental. But a recent comparative survey carried out by a group of New York economists revealed United States conditions as slightly less favorable than conditions in Canada. Production increases, new orders, and employment all were reported to be making a better showing in Canada than south of the border. If United States activity should continue to lag, obviously Canada will be a long-time sufferer.

Fortunately the news is just a little bit grey, not really black. In Canada, for instance, unemployment has been dropping steadily for the past three weeks in the larger centres. The reason appears to lie mainly with the construction industry. It gets going faster in the Spring in the cities than it does in non-urban areas. And the widely advertised for residential housing is demonstrating that it is a reality, not a myth.

Furthermore, the last-minute rush of pre-Easter shopping is reported to the government's statistical agencies as having been spectacular. In most sections of the country the previously unseasonable weather cleared just in advance of the holiday. Apparently it was all that was needed to put consumers into a buying mood.

Encouraging reports are commencing to come, too, from the United States. April motor car sales there are said to have increased sharply. And it was the automobile industry that was the centre of a good share of the Republic's economic anxieties.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

Remember the old days of parliamentary debate when a cabinet minister could answer a question the same day it was asked.

Newly weds, advises a marriage counsellor, should start out in a small house. There is this much about it. There is less room for argument.

Toronto Saturday Night calls an Ottawa Citizen's staff member a "silly ass." This is apt to make you think of the celebrated dialogue between the pot and the kettle.

BEST STAY SOUTH

A special writer in Harbour and Shipping of Vancouver makes a few remarks concerning the present campaign concerning the Prince Rupert drydock and shipyard. He goes back to 1920 when that publication suggested the northern plant be towed to Vancouver which caused an immediate uproar in Prince Rupert. He goes on to say: "I was told that a couple of weeks later, the editor received a letter from a friend in Prince Rupert telling him he had better keep away because the angry inhabitants had resolved to throw him in the harbor if he showed his face there, I don't believe that. It is more probable he would have talked himself out of the awkward situation.

The trouble with a love triangle is that it is very likely to turn into a wrecktangle.

Nothing the Federal government has done in the way of social security has been more popular than old age pension. But let there be no illusions. The money to finance this scheme is not growing on trees. This help means a hefty burden on every taxpayer.

LETTERBOX

The Editor,

The Daily News:

Until a couple of years ago I had never paid much, if any, attention to the fish union in B.C.

However, at that time, my son worked in one of the fish plants here in Prince Rupert, and I was much perturbed to find that their union the UFAWU, had a very strong pro-Russian paper.

Since then I have followed with increasing disgust the editorials and the news as interpreted by "The Fisherman."

This paper follows the Communist line. It shows hatred for the U.S. and sympathy and loyalty to Soviet Russia.

Last month the UFAWU held its annual convention in Vancouver and one result of the convention is that the union is sending a representative to the May Day celebrations in Moscow.

Even now, I hear, the delegates who have returned home are asking the rank and file members of the union for contributions to finance this man's trip.

I have been concerned over this situation for a long time, but what prompted me to write was reading in the Daily News last week that the Senior Chamber of Commerce is planning to form a Civil Defence organization with the head officers of the various unions holding the responsible positions.

I fervently suggest that the leaders of the UFAWU be omitted from this plan. I sincerely feel that no good could come from including them in any such project, but a good deal of harm could and might result from having them take any active part or from giving them any information which they would be free to pass on to their superiors in Soviet Russia.

"CONCERNED,"
(Editor's Note — The Daily News story referred to above concerned a Civil Defence meeting at which it was planned to contact various seeking personnel for police and other required for a civil defence group.)

Successful Bazaar Held By Cathedral Auxiliary

Members of the Afternoon Branch of St. Andrew's Cathedral W.A. played host yesterday afternoon at their annual spring bazaar in the Cathedral Hall.

Many attended the successful event at which beautiful Easter lilies dominated the decor. The lilies were on display at a flower pot sale booth while other spring flowers with white tapers graced the attractively arranged serving table. The unusual tea table centrepieces were of painted egg shells holding dainty crocuses.

Receiving guests at the bazaar was Mrs. Gordon S. Reade, branch president.

Mrs. N. A. Beketov and Mrs. T. B. Black were co-conveners for the tea, and pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. H. G. Watts, Mrs. A. G. Bartlett, Mrs. H. V. Tattersall and Mrs. J. Prince.

Serving were Mrs. J. Ridsdale, Mrs. G. E. Moore, Mrs. J. Bacon, Miss Margaret Watts, Miss Thelma Pavlikis, Miss Sena Pavlikis and Mrs. Tom Christie. In the kitchen were Mrs. John Furniois, Mrs. Peter Bird and Mrs. F. H. Partridge.

Insect-killing chemicals, on the average, are estimated to have made cattle 50 pounds heavier, and increased milk yields 15-20 per cent. About 50 cents spent for insecticide and applications adds beef worth about $15.

Cashier was Mrs. Eric Faure. The bazaar featured a variety of sales booths, including aprons and fancywork with Mrs. H. G. Clarke, Mrs. George Phillipson and Mrs. C. C. Mills in charge, a fish pond with Miss Julie Procter and Mrs. J. Bulger in charge; plant pot stall convened by Mrs. Lone Holtby, a home cooking booth sponsored by the Evening Branch W.A. with Mrs. D. CIVID TURNED HIS BACK on four of Hollywood's most-glamorous women last week when, within a few days of each other, four movie queens flopped in real-life love roles. Dr. Lew Morrill walked out on Rhonda Fleming (top left); Zsa Zsa Gabor (top right) tearfully told a divorce court that George Sanders would rather be a bachelor; pixie-ish Leslie Caron (bottom left) was divorced by wealthy George Forman; and Corinne Calvert (bottom right) confessed that she accidentally took four sleeping pills because she was so upset over her divorce for John Bromfield.

WITH A HUFF AND A PUFF, five-year-old Christine Clark horns into the proceedings during a recent Brass Band Championship contest at Westminster in London. She probably didn't squeeze much sound from the big B-flat bass—but don't worry. There was plenty of noise as 54 bands struck up in competition.

A GOLDEN CAGE with birds on a green one-piece swim suit was an eye-catcher at a recent bathing suit show at the George V Hotel in Paris. The three bottom rows and the bars running down from the neck band are braided with golden threads. The white birds give a "three-dimensional" look.

Convent Scene Of "At Home"

Thursday afternoon St. Joseph's convent was the scene of much activity when the sisters of St. Joseph held their annual "at home."

Well over 100 guests gathered for the occasion, and were welcomed by Sister Superior and Mrs. Alex Brehner, president of the Catholic Women's League. Guests signed their names in a visitor's book.

Visitors were entertained in the reception room, then taken on a tour of the convent. They visited the beautiful chapel with its altar ornamented with spring flowers and climbed to the roof to enjoy the panoramic view of Prince Rupert.

Tea was served in the dining room, where the tea table was traditionally appointed, centred with a colorful arrangement of spring flowers.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. L. Plata, Mrs. M. P. McCaffery and Mrs. F. Schaeffer. Servitors were Mrs. F. De Ross, Mrs. D. Hower, Mrs. R. Blair, Mrs. R. Armstrong, Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. W. Pierce.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. L. Dolson, Mrs. R. Brett, Mrs. S. Dickens and Mrs. H. Ross, convener of the tea. The enjoyable afternoon ended with many attending benediction in the chapel, conducted by the Rev. Fr. O. P. Mohan.

McCarthy Gets Turn Before Investigators To Answer "Perversion of Power" Charge

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — Senator McCarthy gets a chance today to try to punch holes in assertions by Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens that the Wisconsin Republican and two of his staff asked favored treatment for a drafted aide.

Stevens was called back to the witness chair before the Senate investigations sub-committee to confront cross-examination on the statement in which he repeated Thursday the charges which touched off the expanding controversy between McCarthy and the United States Army.

There was no noticeable backing down at yesterday's opening, in a jam-packed Senate caucus room and with millions looking on by television, of the long-heralded investigation.

"Absolutely false," Stevens said of McCarthy's contention that the secretary had sought to divert to the other U.S. armed services a hunt for Communists.

McCarthy has termed "completely false" army charges that he and his aides sought by "improper means" to win favors for Pte. G. David Schine. The senator indicated Thursday that he still holds this position.

"The Schine case," Stevens testified under oath, "is only an example of the wrongful seeking of privilege, of the perversion of power."

Word from the Wisconsin senator's camp was that he had laid out battle plans to prove his charge that the army has "coddled" some Communists.

On that point, Stevens said yesterday:

"I want to make it clear that the United States Army does not coddle Communists. This committee knows that. The American people know that."

All McCarthy would say in advance of today's session was that:

"Sooner or later the American people will begin wondering why we are spending so much time on the case of a private who is still a private, instead of investigating communism."

Lodge Holds Tea and Sale

The home of Mrs. John Johanson, bright with spring flowers, was the scene of a successful tea and sale presented by Prince Rupert Lodge No. 452, Loyal Orange Benevolent Association yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. H. Paulson was convener for the affair which featured tea cup readings and sales of home cooking and novelties.

Mrs. B. Ellison gave the tea cup readings. Mrs. R. B. Skinner was in charge of novelties and Mrs. V. Morrison and Mrs. E. A. Evans were in charge of the home cooking stall.

Serving tea were Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. Bill Way and Miss Lucy Evans. In the kitchen were Mrs. Arne Lien, Mrs. W. Maile, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. W. Fields and Mrs. D. Wilson.

An Easter theme was evident in the decor, including woven streamers of yellow and mauve around the fireplace, and sprays of spring flowers, featuring daffodils.

TRIAL ORDERS PLACED WITH JAPANESE FIRM

VANCOUVER — British Columbia businessmen, just returned from a trade mission to Japan, said their visit had "entirely reversed" their opinion of the quality of Japanese goods.

The 48 members of the Vancouver Board of Trade delegation returned last night.

Howard N. Walters, vice-president of the board, said a number of trial orders have been placed for Japanese goods, manufactured on a competitive basis with Canadian goods.

For Young Men of 16 Apprentice Training for a Bright Future

Combine thorough trades training, schooling, sound discipline, with understanding of the spirit of youth and you have the elements of the Canadian Army's Soldier Apprentice Plan for young men of 16.

The happy enthusiasm of the young men now enrolled as Soldier Apprentices is perhaps the best indication of how successful this plan has been. The young men who graduate from this course may build good careers for themselves in the service of Canada. It is service which is vital to the continued well-being of this country.

The young men who are accepted for Soldier Apprentice training receive:

- thorough trades training in one of 16 trades.
- academic training — in such subjects as physics, chemistry, algebra, English.
- the general military training of the Canadian soldier.

Soldier Apprentices are eligible for all Army benefits, including 30 days annual leave. They receive half pay when 16 and on their 17th birthday they receive full pay.

To be eligible, the young man must have a minimum of Grade 8 education. There are added opportunities for those with higher qualifications. He must have attained his sixteenth but not his seventeenth birthday.

Courses begin in September but applications are now being received. Following interviews, the applicants may be accepted after June 1st and then sent home on leave until courses commence in the Fall.

Rainiers Back on Top With Sacramento, Oaks

The Seattle Rainiers are back in the front row in the Pacific Coast League but they have plenty of company.

The Rainiers knocked San Diego off the top perch 5-4 on Thursday night and found themselves sharing the No. 1 spot with Sacramento, which dropped Portland 6-1 and Oakland, which overturned San Francisco 5-2.

The three leaders are half a game in front of San Diego and Los Angeles, knotted in second place, a game ahead of Portland, four games in front of Hollywood and six ahead of San Francisco.

Los Angeles and San Diego shared first place Wednesday but the Angels also fell Thursday night after a 7-1 shellacking by Hollywood.

At Seattle, San Diego pushed over two runs in the ninth to take a 4-3 lead, but Seattle came back with two in its half.

Seattle sent four pitchers to the mound in the ninth in a battle of strategy, but it backfired when Steve Nagy wild pitched in a run and his successor, Pete Hernandez, walked in another. George Schmees' double to deep left sent Clarence Madern home with the winning run in the last of the ninth.

Mauno Vieretti of Sacramento whipped his former teammates, Portland.

The Sacs broke open a scoreless battle in the seventh, scoring one run, and then went on a scoring spree and wound up with 11 hits. Pieretti gave up only six blows. Red Adams pitched eight innings and was tagged for four runs. The big blow was Ken Humphrey's double off the right field fence for two runs in the eighth.

Jack Phillips, 6 foot, 4-inch shortstop of the Hollywood Stars, socked a triple high off the centerfield fence at Hollywood's Gilmore Field and laced two doubles as the Stars whipped Los Angeles.

REGISTRATION DEADLINE FOR PONY LEAGUE TOMORROW

Pony Baseball league prospects were reminded today by Pony league association secretary-treasurer Harley Lewis that the deadline for registration is tomorrow, Saturday, April 24. About 12 more players were registered yesterday afternoon when a workout was carried out at Roosevelt Park. In all about 30 players have taken forms, Mr. Lewis said, but he added that more forms are available at Jerry's Barber shop and Wallace's Department store.

Evaluating players yesterday afternoon were Doug Wood for the Moose, Bert Young for the Gyros and Bob Anderson for the Elks. The boys took part in tests for running ability, infield work and were given pointers on outfield play.

Pittsburgh Kids Face Test In Meeting Dodgers Tonight

By BEN PHILGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's "Who" kids, the surprise of the National League baseball race, tangle with Brooklyn Dodgers tonight, hoping they can carry over at least some of the luck they had against New York Giants. They beat the Giants three out of four.

The four-game Brooklyn series is an important one, not only to the two clubs but to the rest of the league as well. It has been the Dodgers' almost unfailing ability to make the Pirates play dead the last two seasons that has eased the Brooklyn pennant path.

In 1952 the Dodgers beat the Pirates 19 times. Last year they beat them 20 times. The other clubs' chances of catching Brooklyn while the Dodgers had such hospitable "cousins" were just about impossible.

This is the first full scale series between Brooklyn and the "Who" kids, so called because who ever heard of them? More than half of the Pittsburgh starting line-up never had played in a major league park until two weeks ago.

Centerfielder Frank Thomas is the only member of the line-up that beat the Giants 7-4 Thursday who has played as many as 100 major league games in a season. And he's only in his second year in the big time.

Stamps Favored Over Canucks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Few fans are willing to bet that Vancouver Canucks, who dropped the first game of the Western Hockey League finals 2-0 to Calgary Stampede Wednesday, will have oiled and polished its rusty spots by tonight. Stampede were given the nod by most sideline experts on over-all condition alone. If Calgary wins the visitors move to their home ice Monday to continue the best of seven finals.

In Penfliction the hometown V's and Winnipeg Maroons were poised for "the big one." The best-of-seven series is deadlocked as each club has won once and tied twice.

Veterans Lumley, Mosdell Make NHL All-Star Squad

MONTREAL (CP)—Two 10-year men, never National Hockey League all-star choices, made the first team in selections announced by the league today. Two other players are newcomers on the second team.

Harry Lumley of Toronto, with three clubs in his 10 years, snatched the goal-tending crown from Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, first-team choice the last three years. Ken Mosdell of Montreal, who just ended his 11th campaign, won the centre spot.

Second team newcomers are Tim Horton of Toronto and Ed Sandford of Boston.

In a close finish Gordie Howe of Detroit won first-team right wing place over Maurice Richard of Montreal by two points. Howe is a repeater along with Detroiters Red Kelly and Ted Lindsay, and Doug Harvey of Montreal.

The teams, with points.
First team: Goal, Lumley, Toronto 127; defence, Kelly, Detroit 177; Harvey, Montreal 130; centre, Mosdell, Montreal 107; right wing, Howe, Detroit 144; Lindsay, Detroit 163.

Second team: Goal, Sawchuk, Detroit 95; defence, Gadsby, Chicago 84; Horton, Toronto 84; centre, Kennedy, Toronto 43; rightwing, Richard, Montreal 142; leftwing, Sandford, Boston 64.

Voting on a 5-3-1 points basis for first, second and third choices, was weighted to give each NHL city equal voting strength. Balloting was done by hockey writers and broadcasters.

There were two votes in the season, midway and at the end. Richard led Howe by one point Jan. 1. Kennedy won second-team centre place over his teammate Tod Sloan by half a point.

Maximum points for the season were 180, or 90 each half. Kelly was nearest to a perfect total with 177 points and was a unanimous 90 for the second half.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Charlie Gardiner, one of the great goalies in NHL history, was signed by Chicago from the Winnipeg AHL club 27 years ago today. Gardiner died in June, 1934, two months after helping Chicago to win its first Stanley Cup with such team-mates as Taffy Abel, Lolo Couture, Leroy Goldsworthy, Doc Romnes, Johnny Gottselig and Mush March. Lionel Conacher was coach.

SAWING WOOD at the age of 97 is nothing unusual for amazing Wallace A. Bentley of New Marlboro, Mass., who is working on his ninth cord of wood since the beginning of the past winter. Born August 27, 1856, he saws wood about two hours a day for exercise. Bentley, a retired blacksmith who still has a powerful grip, attributes his longevity—not to sawing, that comes "natcheri"—but tobacco chewing since he was eight years old.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

Good Bridge Player Uses His Imagination

One of the prime attributes of a great bridge player is imagination—a trait which includes willingness to deviate from the usual and the "normal" when the occasion demands.

Mr. Muzzy was kibitzing today's hand and he almost fell out of his chair when he saw Mr. Champion's lead at trick two. The open lead was the four of clubs and Mr. Champion won with the king. He paused here to look the situation over.

Surely a spade return would gain nothing. It was unlikely that Mr. Meek had a trick in the the closed hand. In addition, a diamond return away from the ace-queen will surely lose a trick. After a short huddle, Mr. Champion returned the trey of hearts. He did not make this choice because he likes to lead away from king-jack, but because other leads seemed hopeless. And it was a moral certainty Mr. Meek could never get in to lead a heart through the ace-queen.

IMAGINATION WINS

For the play to work, Mr. Abel had to have three hearts, not including the 10. When Mr. Meek played the 10, forcing the queen from dummy, the time element was in favor of the defense. After taking three rounds of trumps, Mr. Abel led a diamond and finessed the jack.

Mr. Champion won with the queen and led the king of hearts, knocking out dummy's e. Now there was no way for Mr. Abel to avoid the loss of another diamond and a heart.

Note that if Mr. Champion had failed to attack hearts at his first opportunity, Mr. Abel would have had time to set up the diamonds and make his contract.

Many players would have returned a heart from queen, jack and another one, with ace, king, small in dummy. The lead Mr. Champion made is closely related to that. In each case you are trying to set up a third round winner. But not many would lead king, jack, 10. Imagination is the difference.

Haig-Brown Reopens Fight Against Power, Pollution

OTTAWA — A 45-year-old fly fisherman from British Columbia said today he expects to see Canada's Pacific salmon runs wiped out "within my lifetime" if the hydro men have their way. Roderick Haig-Brown, magistrate, short-story writer and novelist from Campbell River, B.C., made the prediction before a national conference on Canada's resources as he urged immediate steps to protect wildlife and recreational facilities in Canada.

The conference, attended by representatives of some 50 private groups interested in conservation, turned to wildlife and recreation problems in the second day of a two-day meeting, after dealing Thursday with forest, soil and water conservation.

Mr. Haig-Brown said the use of water by fish and other wildlife is adversely affected by three major causes: Pollution, alteration of flow through change of ground cover, and dams. "Canada's Pacific salmon runs are one of her most magnificent resources. Yet if the present plans of the hydro-electric engineers are realized, I expect to see them wiped out within my lifetime," he told the delegates. "This is a national issue, of fundamental importance to all Canadians and to people outside Canada. It reaches into values beyond the reference of engineers and industrialists, and it is exactly the type of national responsibility we are attempting to define here today."

URGES PROTECTED SYSTEM

The public, he said, is entitled to a carefully planned, fully integrated and completely protected system of recreational and wildlife areas.

Turning to water pollution, he said "far more than enough is known about pollution to control it," but that it is much easier to prevent than control.

"Rivers are not drainage ditches or sewers, and no wise civilization will use them for these purposes. I believe that fouling rivers with waste is an intolerable expression of arrogance towards the present or future."

He cited delays in handling pollution problems in British Columbia and the north Saskatchewan river. It had taken months to decide the origin of the trouble and get results.

"This is not pollution control. It is a good way of allowing a situation to reach a point where it cannot be controlled."

Celgar Given Added Extension

VICTORIA (CP)—Celgar Development company has been granted another six months to submit a management plan on 807,000 acres of forest in the Arrow Lakes area, Forest Minister R. F. Sommers, announced here Thursday.

He said Celgar is working under "unavoidable difficulties" in surveying the area it has reserved under a forest management permit but added "The government cannot hold very large areas of their forest resources in reserve... for any long, indefinite period."

ONE WOULD REALLY have to "crane" his head to look at the birdie in this camera. The photographer mounted the instrument on a 12-foot tripod to take pictures over the heads of crowds watching Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh during their recent visit to Busselton, Australia. And the thing'll always be handy for giraffe portraits.
