Emphasis on North Country Laid by B.C. Liberal Leader

Emphasis on the north in the development of the province, as outlined in the platform of the provincial Liberal leader, Art Laing, was stressed here Saturday.

Laing, in a speech at the annual meeting of the B.C. Liberal Association in Vancouver, stressed the need for a "stronger emphasis on the north" in the development of the province. He said that the province's resources would be preserved and that the fisheries of inland waters were protected by provincial statute.

Mr. Laing drew a laugh commenting on the Social Credit approach to pro-ec. "I define the task of education in this way," he said. "It is gently to lead children to the frontier of knowledge."

Turning to problems of fish and power, he pointed out that B.C. ranks second only to Quebec in its undeveloped power resources. He said a Liberal government would see to it that the province's salmon resources would be preserved and that the fisheries of inland waters were protected by provincial statute.

Truce Talks Resume Amid Tight Secrecy Then Recess To June 1

PANMUNJOM.—Korean truce talks resumed today amid tight secrecy and then recessed until June 1—apparently because top-level decision on the critical prisoner exchange issue is needed.

Bracewell Arrives Tomorrow

Council to Hold Closed Meeting

An inspection of the method in which Prince Rupert city business is operated begins tomorrow with arrival here of B. C. Bracewell, provincial inspector of municipalities.

Investigation into city affairs was promoted here in a council meeting several weeks ago by veteran alderman George B. Casey who charged that "skulduggery" was afoot in the city hall.

Council met the charges with a unanimous request that the department of municipalities inspect city hall operation.

Mr. Bracewell is expected to call a special closed meeting of council on Wednesday.

Results of his inspection are expected to be announced at an early date.

Ald. Casey's charges against administration in the city hall were based on the recent purchase of a garbage disposal truck in Windsor, Ont., and its return here by a city alderman.

Mrs. Roosevelt Manhandled By Japanese

TOKYO (CP)—Twenty Japanese women waving Communist banners today manhandled Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in downtown Tokyo when she refused them an interview, the newspaper Yomiuri reported.

The newspaper said the widow of the late United States President was rescued by Japanese guards and was uninjured. She was not immediately available for comment.

Harold Winch as CCF leader, Mr. Brown said the CCF would have you believe he resigned because of ill-health, but I suggest it would be more correct to believe reports that he resigned because of the failure of members within his own ranks to back him up.

E. T. Applewhite, federal MP for Skeena, in a brief address welcoming provincial Liberal leader Art Laing, said: "I have always been and am now, more interested in the future of this part of B.C. than I am in anything else."

"Art Laing is the man to lead B.C. today."

Climbers Near Top of Mountain

NEW DELHI (CP)—The British expedition trying to scale Mount Everest is said to have come within 2,000 feet of its goal. Himalayan experts say if the weather holds the expedition may make it—becoming the first in history to conquer the world's highest peak.

UN interpreters could be seen through the windows of the crude conference hut apparently reading a long statement.

Washington sources said it is possible a new approach would be offered on the last major barrier to an armistice—what to do about 48,500 Communist prisoners refusing to return to Red rule.

There was no inkling whether such a plan had been offered but if so the Communist delegation probably would have asked for a long recess to refer the matter to a higher authority.

The Communist correspondents, after talking to members of their delegation, said the Allies had requested a news blackout on the session.

The last Allied proposal made public would have free Korean prisoners immediately after an armistice, but the Reds objected. There has been speculation the Allies would concede this point in any new proposal.

Vancouver Gets Rain as Sun Shines Here

Prince Rupert was listed as one of the province's warmest areas yesterday as temperatures here rose to 75 shortly after noon.

Similar temperatures were forecast for today and Tuesday. Meanwhile, skies in the southern portion of the coast were overcast with rain reported in Vancouver and other lower mainland points. Cloudiness there will decrease this afternoon but in the southern interior clouds and scattered showers will persist until evening.

Tuesday promises to be sunny in all regions and temperatures are expected to be considerably higher in most districts.

The balmy weather Sunday turned out a large number of motorists along the Skeena Highway, while many enjoyed the outdoors in boating on lakes and in the harbor or picnics in city parks.

Swimmers also had their day. Tony Crawley, operator of Salt Lakes ferry reported some 300 persons were ferried to the lakes and that another 300 got there "on their own."

The Salt Lakes, located on the mainland across the harbor from the city, is the most popular swimming place here with exception of Gyro pool in McClymont park when open.

Tony Poje Installed in Absentia As President of Duncan IWA

DUNCAN (CP)—Tony Poje, currently serving a three month prison term, was installed in absentia Sunday as president of the 5,000 member Duncan local of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

He is serving a three month term on a contempt of court charge arising out of action by pickets at Nanaimo during the IWA strike last July.

The Supreme Court of Canada upheld his conviction several weeks ago in an action which involved activities by pickets following a court injunction.

"Our president is in jail at a crucial time," said Alistair McLeod, delegate.

"In only a month or two we'll be on picket lines again and our pickets are going to be jittery."

Some 32,000 coastal members of the IWA currently are seeking over their basic rate of $1.46 a 12½-cent hourly increase hourly.

JAYCEES HIGH-GEARED FOR 'LIGHT-A-BUMPER' DRIVE

Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce members are swinging into high gear with their "light-a-bumper" campaign tonight and by the end of the week hope to have sold 200 city motorists on their safety feature.

The work committee will begin at 7 p.m. at the official "light-a-bumper" station—Superior Auto garage—and are geared to handle 50 cars a night.

Motorists who wish to have the safety feature attached to their cars are asked to drive to the garage located at Park and Third Avenue where a strip of "scotch-lite" will be fixed to the vehicle's rear bumper.

Halibut Prices Increase On Exchange Board Today

A total of 922,000 pounds of halibut landed today included 531,000 pounds sold on the board for one of the biggest days for the halibut exchange.

Biggest prices paid to a Canadian boat were 13.3 cents for medium and large, and 12 cents for chicken, sold by the Barbara Jean W to Pacific Fisheries.

One American vessel landed today—the Cascade—with 12,000 pounds sold to the Cold Storage (B.C. Packers Ltd.) at 13.6, 13.5 and 10 cents.

Bulk of the catches so far landed have been of medium sized fish with only a smattering of large or "soakers," thus the similarity in price of the two sizes.

Other landings: Pauline V, 24,000, 13, 13, 10.6; Booth; Olympia 2, 42,000, 13.1, 12, 10.5; Royal; Active Pass, 35,000, 13.1, 13.2, 10.6, Cold Storage; 600.

Questionnaire to Disclose Buying Habits in This City

On Saturday a number of subscribers received from their Daily News carrier a questionnaire asking about their buying habits in Prince Rupert.

The questionnaire is part of a survey that daily newspapers are carrying out at this moment in every important city in Canada. When the results are compiled they will give a complete picture of buying habits throughout Canada.

As citizens of Prince Rupert will be interested to see how this city compares with others, it is hoped that everyone who received the questionnaire will complete it so that it can be picked up by the carrier later this week.

As it was not possible to canvass every householder, distribution of the questionnaire was left to the boys who were given a number of copies in proportion to the size of their route.

Thus not everyone will have received the questionnaire, but the quantity distributed will ensure an accurate cross-section of the city's population.

Ten crumpled freight and coal cars piled up when a 42-car train was derailed in the Crows Nest Pass, east of Blairmore, Alta. The derailment caused extensive damage to the rails but no one was injured.

An Impressive Leader

ALTHOUGH Arthur Laing is not Premier (yet), he had a provincial leader's stature as he addressed a Prince Rupert audience Saturday night. For an incredible two-hour period which seemed much less, Mr. Laing had his listeners following him every inch of the way as he made a verbal tour through provincial, and sometimes federal, politics.

There was no doubting his concern over the mismanagement he found and one could well believe his promise that, if the Liberals form the next government, their elected members will work as MLAs have never worked before.

This promise does, in fact, contain the essence of his whole view on how to administer the people's affairs. Clearly he does not sanction the attitude that members are just a numerical quantity which enable three or four to run the whole show. He seriously respects the intent of government by representation and, under his administration, each constituency would have the best possible assurance that its affairs would be considered through the medium of its own representative, whether or not that member was on the side in control.

While Mr. Laing's opinions are sufficiently strong and persuasive to make up an effective address, a valuable additional factor is that he is a man with a sense of humor. Not only does this give him an extra facility not available to everybody for putting points across, but it reveals a human quality which would be useful in a position that deals essentially with people.

Another feature particularly reassuring to northern audiences is that Mr. Laing sees B.C. as a province running north and south, not east and west. The fact that he was interested enough to include this part of the country in his campaign is sufficient proof of this by itself, but Mr. Laing took time in his address to confirm the view. It stands in remarkable contrast to the attitude of the Social Credit government which, disdaining its three northern members as cabinet material, could only think woefully of its lack of representation, on Vancouver Island.

It was good, too, to hear from this riding's own candidate, Bruce Brown. Legal training carries its special advantages to anyone in politics and, in Mr. Brown's case, enabled him to give a masterly summation of the state of affairs in this province. A remark from the audience about his being an "Attorney-General" for Mr. Laing carried as much wisdom as wit. Considering his work on the school board here, "Minister of Education" would also have seemed appropriate.

It was an impressive team that had the floor on Saturday night.

OTTAWA DIARY By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

Neither in his vocation of lawyer nor in his avocation of politics does John Diefenbaker, QC, MP, mind doing things the hard way. Because of that trait of persistence, he has saved more clients from the hang-man's noose than most Canadian lawyers. In addition, he has won election as the lone Conservative MP from Socialist Saskatchewan ever since 1940.

Also—on this is the final convincing proof of his refusal to ask or accept any favors—he now has been nominated as PC candidate in the forthcoming general election in the riding of Prince Albert.

Anyone who thinks that Diefenbaker's nomination in Prince Albert is approximately the equivalent of his being elected out of touch with the riding. It will be a real fight, with the result likely to be uncertain until the final returns are received. The riding which rejected Prime Minister W. L. M. King in order to return CCF-er E. L. Bowman in 1945 won't necessarily tender Diefenbaker the recognition which his qualities of intellect, personality, and industry deserve.

As a matter of fact, Prince Albert, which is the city where Diefenbaker lives and practices law, has been definitely hostile to him politically in the past. He sought election there in 1925 and 1926. Both times he failed to make the grade. It was for this reason that he transferred his candidature to the riding of Lake Centre, created by the Redistribution Act of 1933—and merged with the CCF stronghold of Moose Jaw in the Redistribution Act of 1952.

The interesting thing in connection with Diefenbaker's forthcoming candidature in Prince Albert is the fact that, if he had wanted to feather-bed his presence in the next Parliament, he could have had his choice of almost any safe PC seat in Eastern Canada. Leader George Drew naturally is anxious to make certain of having Diefenbaker's talents available in the next over-all result of the vote may be. He is understood to have offered the Saskatchewan political ace his choice of any of several safe Eastern Canada PC seats. While grateful for the offer, Diefenbaker rejected it and elected to leave his political future in the hands of Saskatchewan's voters.

Diefenbaker is reported reliably to have taken the stand that for him to leave Saskatchewan for Eastern Canada would be, if not a shameful retreat, at least a retreat, in view of the extent to which he has become identified with the wheat-growing province in recent years. In addition to not being a person who likes things made easy for him, he isn't the sort of person who retreats under fire.

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Peach trees are difficult to grow in this part of eastern Ontario, so citizens watched with interest as blossoms appeared on the tree at the home of former magistrate George Wright. The sturdy tree is five or six inches thick at the base.

As I See It

PS—Clear as Mud

BRUCE HUTCHISON wrote a very lively, readable book on Mackenzie King. On the whole "The Incredible Canadian" makes recent Canadian history come alive better than any other book yet written.

But in some respects it shows Mr. King up in a very bad light. It implied, but did not prove, that Canada's long time Prime Minister had surmounted the second most serious crisis of his political career by shabby trickery.

The most sensational charge was that King induced Mr. St. Laurent to accept conscription by conjuring up a nightmare scare of a "general revolt"—a threatened putsch to overthrow the government.

Now in a postscript article in Maclean's Magazine Mr. Hutchison adds some further information which pretty well debunks what he himself previously wrote.

"According to King's report, McNaughton telephoned him about noon and in a voice hoarse with shock, exclaimed: 'I have terrible news for you, Chief! What I must tell you will come as a body blow.'

"The military commanders of Canada, said McNaughton, no longer would accept the responsibility of directing the Army unless conscription were applied immediately.

"Even King (according to his own version) could see no hope of survival! He hung up the telephone knowing, as he said, that he no longer faced a political crisis, or even a racial schism, but the disintegration of the Army, a MILITARY UPRISING WHICH MIGHT SEIZE THE CIVIL POWER, a state of national anarchy, nothing less." (Emphasis mine—E.P.)

"Called to King's office and told McNaughton's news, St. Laurent replied bluntly that the military must be resisted. Otherwise, he said, Canada was reduced to the status of some South American banana republic where the officer class could alter governments at will. The Cabinet must fight the uprising. 'Fight?' King retorted. 'Fight with what? Our bare hands?' The calm man from Quebec was incredulous. Civil government threatened by a military putsch? It was impossible. Yes, said King, but true. There could be no doubt about it. He had McNaughton's word."

HERE is the drastically revised P.S. in Maclean's Magazine for May 15:

"On that morning McNaughton met his leading military advisers. . . . The men responsible for that Army at Ottawa laid before him a chilling memorandum. It recommended that the zombies be conscripted because they could not be persuaded to go overseas voluntarily."

"When they had handed their memorandum to McNaughton the army officials added bluntly that if their recommendation in favor of conscription was not accepted they must resign forthwith. That was terrible news, the body blow, which McNaughton quickly communicated to King by telephone."

It seems strange that neither Mr. Hutchison nor Maclean's Magazine has published a statement from General McNaughton.

The story was blurred before. It is now clear—as mud.

Trumpets Will Sound When Crown Placed on Head of Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (Reuters) — Trumpets in Westminster Abbey and guns fired from the Tower of London will signal the crowning on June 2 of Queen Elizabeth.

When the trumpets sound and the guns fire, those in the abbey and the millions outside who will be listening to the ceremony by radio and seeing it on television will know that the crown of St. Edward has been placed on the head of the Queen.

Just as Big Ben is striking 11 o'clock, the Queen's golden coach will halt outside the abbey and she will step on to a blue carpet running from the nave of the abbey to the entrance of specially-built annex.

From there she will go on to a robing room. In the vestibule, at 11:15 she will join the procession which has meanwhile been forming. Six maids of honor arrange themselves, three on each side, to carry the long train which flows from the Queen's robe.

LETTERBOX

FROM A HOSPITAL WINDOW

An old frontiersman had been a patient at the W.M.S. Hospital for weeks. He had the favorite bed overlooking the well-kept lawn.

His window was open and he could hear the honking of the wild geese on their northerly migration which was at its height and practically continuous during the long days in the Central Interior.

Leaders of the flocks, familiar with the feeding grounds, were intent on landing at places where for season after season they had been unmolested on the spring flights. Flocks of sand-hill cranes chose the plowed lands of the farms of Burns, Francois and Ootsa Lake districts.

About 5 a.m. the old trapper heard the music of the landing calls, but a low-lying bank of fog hid both Burns and Decker Lakes.

A huge old gander in the lead honked as he circled clear of the fog. He prepared to land as the fresh green of the hospital lawn caught his eye, but an ambitious young gander took the lead and called to the flock to rise.

The old gander landed in the middle of the highway adjoining the hospital lawn, evidently tired after a long flight, then tried to take off, but could not rise. A car came along. The driver stopped and jumped out, chased the gander into a dense hedge, caught him, wrung his neck, threw him into his car and drove on, to the disgust of the old trapper who had been surveying the scene with interest. "Some sportsman," he observed. "Wish Game Warden Richmond had been around."

LONDON (CP)—"Not a shred of evidence" has been found to support allegations that British ships transported Chinese Communist troops last year, a government spokesman said Friday.

The government inaugurated an official inquiry last Wednesday, after Senator Joseph McCarthy claimed two British ships controlled by Wheelock-Marden Company in Hong Kong had carried Communist troops along the China coast.

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, strain on body and brain make fitness easier to lose—harder to get back.

SOUTHAMPTON (AP)—A woman who will look down on most of Britain's Coronation guests arrived Monday. She is Her Majesty, Queen Salote, towering six-foot-three ruler of the peaceful Polynesian island kingdom of Tonga in the South Pacific. Accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Princess Mata-Aho, she came aboard the liner Rangitoto from New Zealand to make her first visit to England. Queen Salote will be the only other ruling Queen at Elizabeth's Coronation. The 52-year-old Queen Salote, invited by the Queen to stay at St. James's Palace, brought with her a wardrobe especially designed and made for her in Sydney, Australia. Tonga is an independent kingdom of some 150 small islands which in 1900 placed itself under the protection of Great Britain.

There were also reservations for the substitutes for mayors of Montreal, Brantford, Nelson and Nanaimo. Most attending at the Coronation will be accompanied by their wives.

Some have already left and others are leaving almost daily by ship and air. He's changing the nation's landscape

You may see the result of what he is doing in the city's changing skyline — or out where the corn grows tall... in the mushrooming suburbs — or in the new look of Main Street in a mellow old town. Where many a vacant lot once stood, he helps fill it with a fine new school. Where you used to see a building that was an eyesore you may now see a new apartment house, store or post office that he played a role in providing.

Thanks in part to him, many houses rise here and there, or row on row, in community after community. New black ribbons of asphalt tie town to town. Somewhere, a new bridge is built. New industrial plants, too, are sometimes the by-products of his helping hand. Perhaps one of them has provided you with a job. And do you see those great steel towers that parade across the rolling farmlands, bearing power-laden wires in their outstretched arms? They may be monuments to this same man.

Who is he?
He represents all the millions of life insurance policyholders in Canada. And it's money from their premiums, which life insurance companies invest for them, that makes possible many such improvements as these throughout the nation.
So, if you are a life insurance policyholder building security for your family and yourself, you're also helping to build a better Canada!

Americans 'Support' Free Trade

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, concluding a tour from the Atlantic to the Pacific, says he found faith in a continued high level of prosperity throughout the country.

L. W. Simms of Lancaster, N.B., in the midst of a swing through British Columbia, had encouraging words for the province's big base metal mining industry when he said protectionists in the United States were fighting a rearguard action.

He expressed full confidence that the "strong sentiment in the U.S. against high tariffs will prevail."

Fresh from a meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Mr. Simms said discussion there indicated full business support for free trade.

Congressmen in favor of maintaining trade restrictions were a "loud minority" but it was evident that the administration plans to fight impediments in world commerce.

The subject of Mr. Simms's remarks also became a topic of discussion at the Pacific Northwest Trade Association meeting in Tacoma, Wash., recently.

The association passed a resolution expressing concern over a balance of trade unfavorable to Canada. In a separate resolution, it also advocated two-nation development of Canada's gas resources and opposed a proposed bill in Congress that would restrict the piping of gas across the border.

MOTORS BEAT BATTERY 2-1 CLASH WITH CYO TONIGHT

Last Friday evening's football game between Heavy Battery and General Motors resulted in a narrow win for the Motors who, for the second time in succession, beat the gunners by a single goal, the score being Motors 2, Battery 1. The Motors clash with CYO tonight.

General Motors were without Boulter but Bowman did a good job as substitute. The Battery were minus several of their best players but were allowed to use some CYO players, including Silversmith and Nuyten. Leopold did well to hold the score down to two goals.

G & A Trounce Terrace All-Stars In Two Error-Ridden Sunday Games

TERRACE—In a scoring free-for-all, Gordon & Anderson of Prince Rupert sailed to a double-bill victory here Sunday, downing Terrace all-stars 15-3 and 12-6 in an error-ridden double-header.

In the first game, Fred Christensen kept Terrace down to six hits and struck out 13 players with the finest pitching seen this season. Gray started the first game for Terrace and was relieved by Paulson in the third frame. Gray pitched the second game all the way against Don Scherk and reliefer Ian Dunbar of the visitors.

Neither Terrace pitchers got much support from their fielders, who committed a total of 18 errors in two games.

Rupert squad, managed by Rusty Ford, pulled in nine runs from eight hits in the first inning of the second game. In the same inning, Ralph Enridge in centre field stopped a powerful swing by Terrace's Paulson which had all the earmarks of a line-drive homer, then whipped the ball back to Sunberg at short stop for a double play at first base.

G-As doubled up on two plays and Terrace counted one in both games.

Rookie Bill Morrison of the visitors, taking his first time at bat in senior league ball, slamed out three singles and a double for his start of the season.

In Prince Rupert, Commercials downed Esquires 10-7, rookie Cameron pitching for the victors against Esquires' Jack Sharpe and Benny Windle.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—Resignation of Arthur W. Coles as chief organizer of the 1956 Olympic Games is a serious blow to Melbourne's chances of playing host to the great athletic carnival.

Without being unduly pessimistic, we would guess that it's no better than a 50-50 proposition now.

Coles was the one Australian deemed capable by many of his countrymen of solving manifold problems and whipping the games together.

There was general rejoicing in Melbourne when Coles agreed to take on the onerous job last fall, and there will be great disappointment that he has thrown in the towel.

A self-made man whose stores stretch to every corner of Australia, Coles had retired to his beautiful estate at Flinders, near Melbourne, and meant to stay there, when the Olympic people told him that the games almost certainly would be lost unless he threw his energy and talents into the breach.

Reluctantly, Coles accepted the challenge. When we saw him five months ago he felt optimistic. He was fully aware that he was bucking petty jealousies and that he was emmeshed in Australia's own brand of politics, but he thought he had a superior ally in national pride.

Without bothering to call a committee meeting every other day, Coles had commissioned plans for a great modern stadium and for a swimming plant that promised to be a hum-dinger. He was doing what he knew how to do better than any man in Australia, but we had an uneasy feeling at the time that he might be underestimating the opposition.

Sure enough, it wasn't too long before the news came from down under that the new stadium was out and that it had been decided to do a face-lifting job on Melbourne's archaic cricket ground instead.

When the government of Victoria also took his swimming pool away from him Tuesday, Coles headed back home and left the whole sorry situation in the hands of the little men.

Having been told so by a number of persons who should have known, our feeling became strong that Australia's chances of holding the Olympics rested on the willingness of all hands to pitch in and support Coles to the limit. One of these men, the head of a facility important to the success of the games, said he would lose interest in a hurry if Coles ever quit.

Well, he's quit. Obviously there is no intention of supplying the kind of money needed to put the games on properly. The International Olympic Committee proved at the recent Mexico City meeting that there is no plot against Melbourne. It approved the site, despite grave doubts of some of its members. But Melbourne, lovely Melbourne, seems determined to make it tough.

Native Dancer Wins Derby At Baltimore

BALTIMORE (CP)—Native Dancer, grey colt who ran second to Dark Star in the Kentucky Derby, came back to win the $113,750 Preakness Stake Saturday, but his victory margin—a neck over outsider Jamie K—left his status among racing greats still in doubt.

Pride of Alfred Vanderbilt's stable, ridden as usual by Eric Guerin, had to battle all the way down the stretch to beat off the challenge of Jim Norris' Jamie K, ridden by Eddie Arcaro who was trying for his fifth Preakness win.

Third, six lengths back, was Eugene Constatin's Royal Bay.
