VANCOUVER (CP) — There will be a Christmas atmosphere in Oakalla prison next week, including the happy ring of children's voices.

Warden Hugh Christie said Wednesday the attorney general's department had approved an unprecedented move in which the prison will be opened to the families of 103 "especially selected" prisoners.

Date of the visit has not yet been released, but it will be "something over the holiday period," said the warden.

All visitors, including about 100 children, will be free to mingle with the convicts in the prisoner gymnasium.

Two Vancouver Buildings Razed in Three Alarm Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — A three-blocks away. A brisk north wind alarm fire destroyed two large fanned the flames. buildings near Vancouver's business centre early today as away was dried up by the heat. It raced unchecked for more than three hours before being brought under control by scores of firemen.

Although flames were still coming from the ruins of one of the buildings more than four hours after the fire started, a fire department official said the blaze was "in hand."

An estimated 140 firemen fought the fire at its peak.

There was no immediate estimate of damage but it was expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

One building housed 24 offices and a coffee bar. The other was headquarters for two firms.

Destroyed were the Howden Building and the offices of Dudson Co., a janitor supply firm. Both are on Cambie Street, on the fringe of the main business district. They were of plaster and wood construction.

For a time a three-storey brick building, used as a stores building by the transport department, was engulfed.

Flames spread to the roof but firemen extinguished them before they could spread to the top floor.

The fire was marked by billowing flames and smoke, and intense heat. Chemicals were understood to have been stored in the Howden Building. Mushroom-shaped billows of flames shot hundreds of feet into the air, casting orange glints on the rain-soaked streets several

Voodoo Rites Speed Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Voodoo rites helped break up the marriage of the one-time "singing sweethearts of radio," according to Mrs. Victoria M. Kelvin, 32. She charged cruelty Wednesday in her divorce action against John Kelvin, 50, and said that he stuck pins in dolls named after her relatives. Kelvin and his wife were wed in Yuma in 1944, when they were a radio singing team.

2,800 Rail Operators In CPR Reject Award, Plan Strike Vote

Protest Move To Cut Personnel

MONTREAL (CP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) Wednesday night reiterated strong opposition to any attempts to reduce operating personnel on diesel trains as it rejected a federal conciliation board's majority report and announced plans to call a strike vote among its CPR employees.

"We are prepared to resist with every resource at our command if the CPR undertake to eliminate any jobs performed by firemen-helpers," said union Vice-President W. E. Gamble of Montreal. The union had told the board it was prepared to strike on the question.

WOULD ELIMINATE SOME

The conciliation board recommendations, announced Wednesday, suggested firemen be eliminated on freight and yard service, but that no firemen be discharged who have qualified as engineers and who have qualified as engineers and who have three years' firemen's security.

It also recommended a 12-per cent wage increase — seven per cent retroactive to last April and five per cent effective next June.

NO COMPANY COMMENT

The CPR said it has no immediate comment either on the conciliation board report or the union statement.

Mr. Gamble said the recommendation regarding retention of three-year firemen helpers was "impractical, hazardous, makeshift, and contrary to good public policy."

Vacancies would develop quickly. A "danger-ridden" situation would arise with firemen on some trains, none on others.

He said a settlement had been reached this year on the same issue with the CNR and more than 140 American lines.

Parks Board last night allocated $1,800 of its remaining budget to bleacher repairs in both Gyro and Roosevelt Parks.

Balance of budget which has not been determined will go towards clearance of debris and hacking out of a path along Hays Creek in Algoma Park.

One thousand dollars have been set aside for repairs to bleachers at Roosevelt Park while the remaining $800 has been allocated to repairs at Gyro Park.

In other business it was decided that Commissioner Robert Eby would investigate the cost of coloring the cement in Casey Park Swimming pool.

Associated Engineers Ltd., Vancouver will be asked to estimate costs of heating and lighting.

TO LIGHT TREE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower will press a button at nightfall tonight to light the 7-foot national community Christmas tree and signal the beginning of the Yule observance.

The search for the aircraft, which vanished Dec. 9, has extended over a rectangle 100 miles wide stretching roughly from Princeton west to Chilliwack in the upper Fraser Valley.

Heartened Wednesday by the first break in nine days of harsh weather, 21 pilots flew over the Hope area but turned up no clues to the location of the Trans-Canada Air Lines plane,

"But," said searchmaster Sqn Ldr. George Sheahan, "we'll keep going right through the Christmas season, if necessary."

Search officials believe the Hope area, encompassing several lakes, holds the secret to the aircraft's disappearance.

AYLMER, Quebec (CP) — A jet plane was reported to have crashed in this Ottawa river community near the capital.

There was no immediate indication whether anyone was injured or whether the plane hit any buildings.

The Ottawa Journal said the plane was an RCAF jet.

Casey's Letters to Editor

IN THE departure of George B. Casey to take up residence in Trail, this city loses a figure who will be remembered as an outstanding pioneer, a veteran of the city council and a forceful champion of labor. When the history of Prince Rupert is written, that all will be a matter of record.

But there was another distinction achieved here by Mr. Casey which may be forgotten in the course of time—he wrote what were almost certainly the most challenging, widely read letters ever addressed to the editor of this newspaper.

To those not familiar with the "Letterbox" contributions of Mr. Casey in his prime, that may seem to be a small thing. Many letters to the editor are written and many are past and forgotten, with the day's news.

This was not so, however, in the case of George B. Casey. Whenever that signature appeared on this page, comment that frequently became controversy was sure to follow. With a few pungent phrases he could command immediate attention and, when all the excitement was over, it was still Mr. Casey's original letter that was remembered more than anything else that was said.

Although he preferred the direct attack, his writing was never boorish. His language and approach were that of a scholar, self-trained or otherwise, and his choice of quotations was always apt. Yet he never made the mistake of letting his words destroy the punch.

Occasionally he wrote in a vein of commendation. When this happened, we were inclined to feel that the newspaper or the city or someone had failed him. Something had happened momentarily to pacify the thunderous Irish spirit which so obviously was better off when it had cause to sound off. But even in this reversal of form, Mr. Casey expressed himself with such graciousness and strength that, far from losing his grip, he seemed to be gaining it.

With Mr. Casey's retirement from active life, his letters to the editor became less frequent. And now, with his departure from the city, they are likely to cease altogether. We will miss them and know that our readers will, too. But we trust this doughty old warrior will take with him the knowledge that these letters will endure as part of the memorable example he set as a man who knew what he thought and had the courage to say it.

APPARENTLY a little dubious about the whole thing, three-year-old Victoria Page of North Springfield, Mass., wears an apprehensive expression as she visits Santa Claus. Kris Kringle, whose face was almost covered by snowy hair and beard, dropped in at her town at the invitation of the local chamber of commerce to say hello to a thousand boys and girls. Victoria wants to know where Santa "lives now."

As I See It

by

Elmore Philpott

• Spaak Fine Choice

THE APPOINTMENT of Paul-Henri Spaak as Secretary-General of NATO has intrigued some Canadians who expected Lester Pearson to be offered, and to take that post.

Whatever else it means, the appointment of Mr. Spaak certainly indicates that Mr. Pearson would be a candidate for the leadership of the Liberal party, if for any reason the present Prime Minister should decide to step down.

But the versatile Mr. Pearson is a former professor of history. He knows very well that the greatest British Liberal, Gladstone, served as Prime Minister till he was 84 years of age, and that the greatest Conservative, Churchill, served till he was 81.

As I myself have formerly pointed out, there is every reason for hope that our own Canadian hard maple, Louis St. Laurent, might stand in history between these two grand old British oaks, for long public service. Mr. Pearson is certainly among those who hope so.

It is proof of the dizzy speed at which our world moves that Mr. Spaak was personally in Moscow in late October, with a big Belgian parliamentary delegation, when I was there myself. He personally signed the most far-reaching two-way treaty that any western country, including the Soviet, has yet signed with the Soviet.

Care Urged For Holidays To Save Lives

The Christmas and New Year's weekends, traditionally occasions for festivity and fellowship, may end in tragic death for some 65 Canadians and injuries to hundreds of others. If last year's traffic record is any indication, warns the All-Canada Insurance Federation.

Officials of the federation said most traffic accidents were due to carelessness and named drinking while driving the greatest hazard during holiday seasons.

Safety experts recommended the following precautions for the forthcoming holidays:

- Never overload cars with passengers to point where driving is impaired.

- Avoid driving at night with glaring headlights.

- Never drive with overtired.

- While driving, talk with passengers without taking eyes off the road; if alone, turn on radio.

- When entertaining, serve food and coffee or another non-alcoholic stimulant; when serving liquor, keep in mind that guests will have to drive home.

- On long drives, stop for coffee or similar beverage as frequently as possible.

- Never drive with fogged headlights or windshield.

- Drive slowly on icy roads; your stopping distance is considerably increased.

the field of cultural and general civil relations.

Mr. Spaak therefore has the truly great advantage of knowing very well the men who will be his main antagonists in the purposes of NATO.

There is little doubt that the present-Soviet government does have real fears about the objectives of NATO. Khrushchev, in particular, professes to believe that NATO intends to attack the Soviet Union, as soon as it has the necessary strength to do so. In the summer of 1955 when Mr. Pearson visited Russia, and went to call on Khrushchev at the Black Sea resort the Russian leader blurted out that Canada should leave NATO. He did so even before our Minister had had time to say how you do.

THE RUSSIANS know Mr. Spaak and they respect him. If they really are sincere in their professed fears about the present and future purposes of NATO, the selection of Mr. Spaak as Secretary General should help to dissipate those foolish fears.

At the same time, the strengthening of NATO should underline the determination of all its members to carry out its twin purposes:

To stand like a solid rock against any further attacks from the east, and to use all peaceful means to help liberate those nations of eastern Europe which are still held captive in the bear-like hug of the new Red Empire.

To achieve these purposes requires a combination of military strength, diplomatic skill and above all—imagination to devise new approaches, and escapes from old blind alleys. The new Secretary-General of NATO has all these qualities in superlative measure.

Asks Exemption On Rate Boost

VICTORIA — Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd Wednesday appealed to federal officials to amend the recent freight rate increases to exempt fruit, vegetables, domestic grain and livestock.

The board of transport commissioners Monday announced freight rates would be increased four per cent Jan. 1, in addition to the seven per cent increase approved last July.

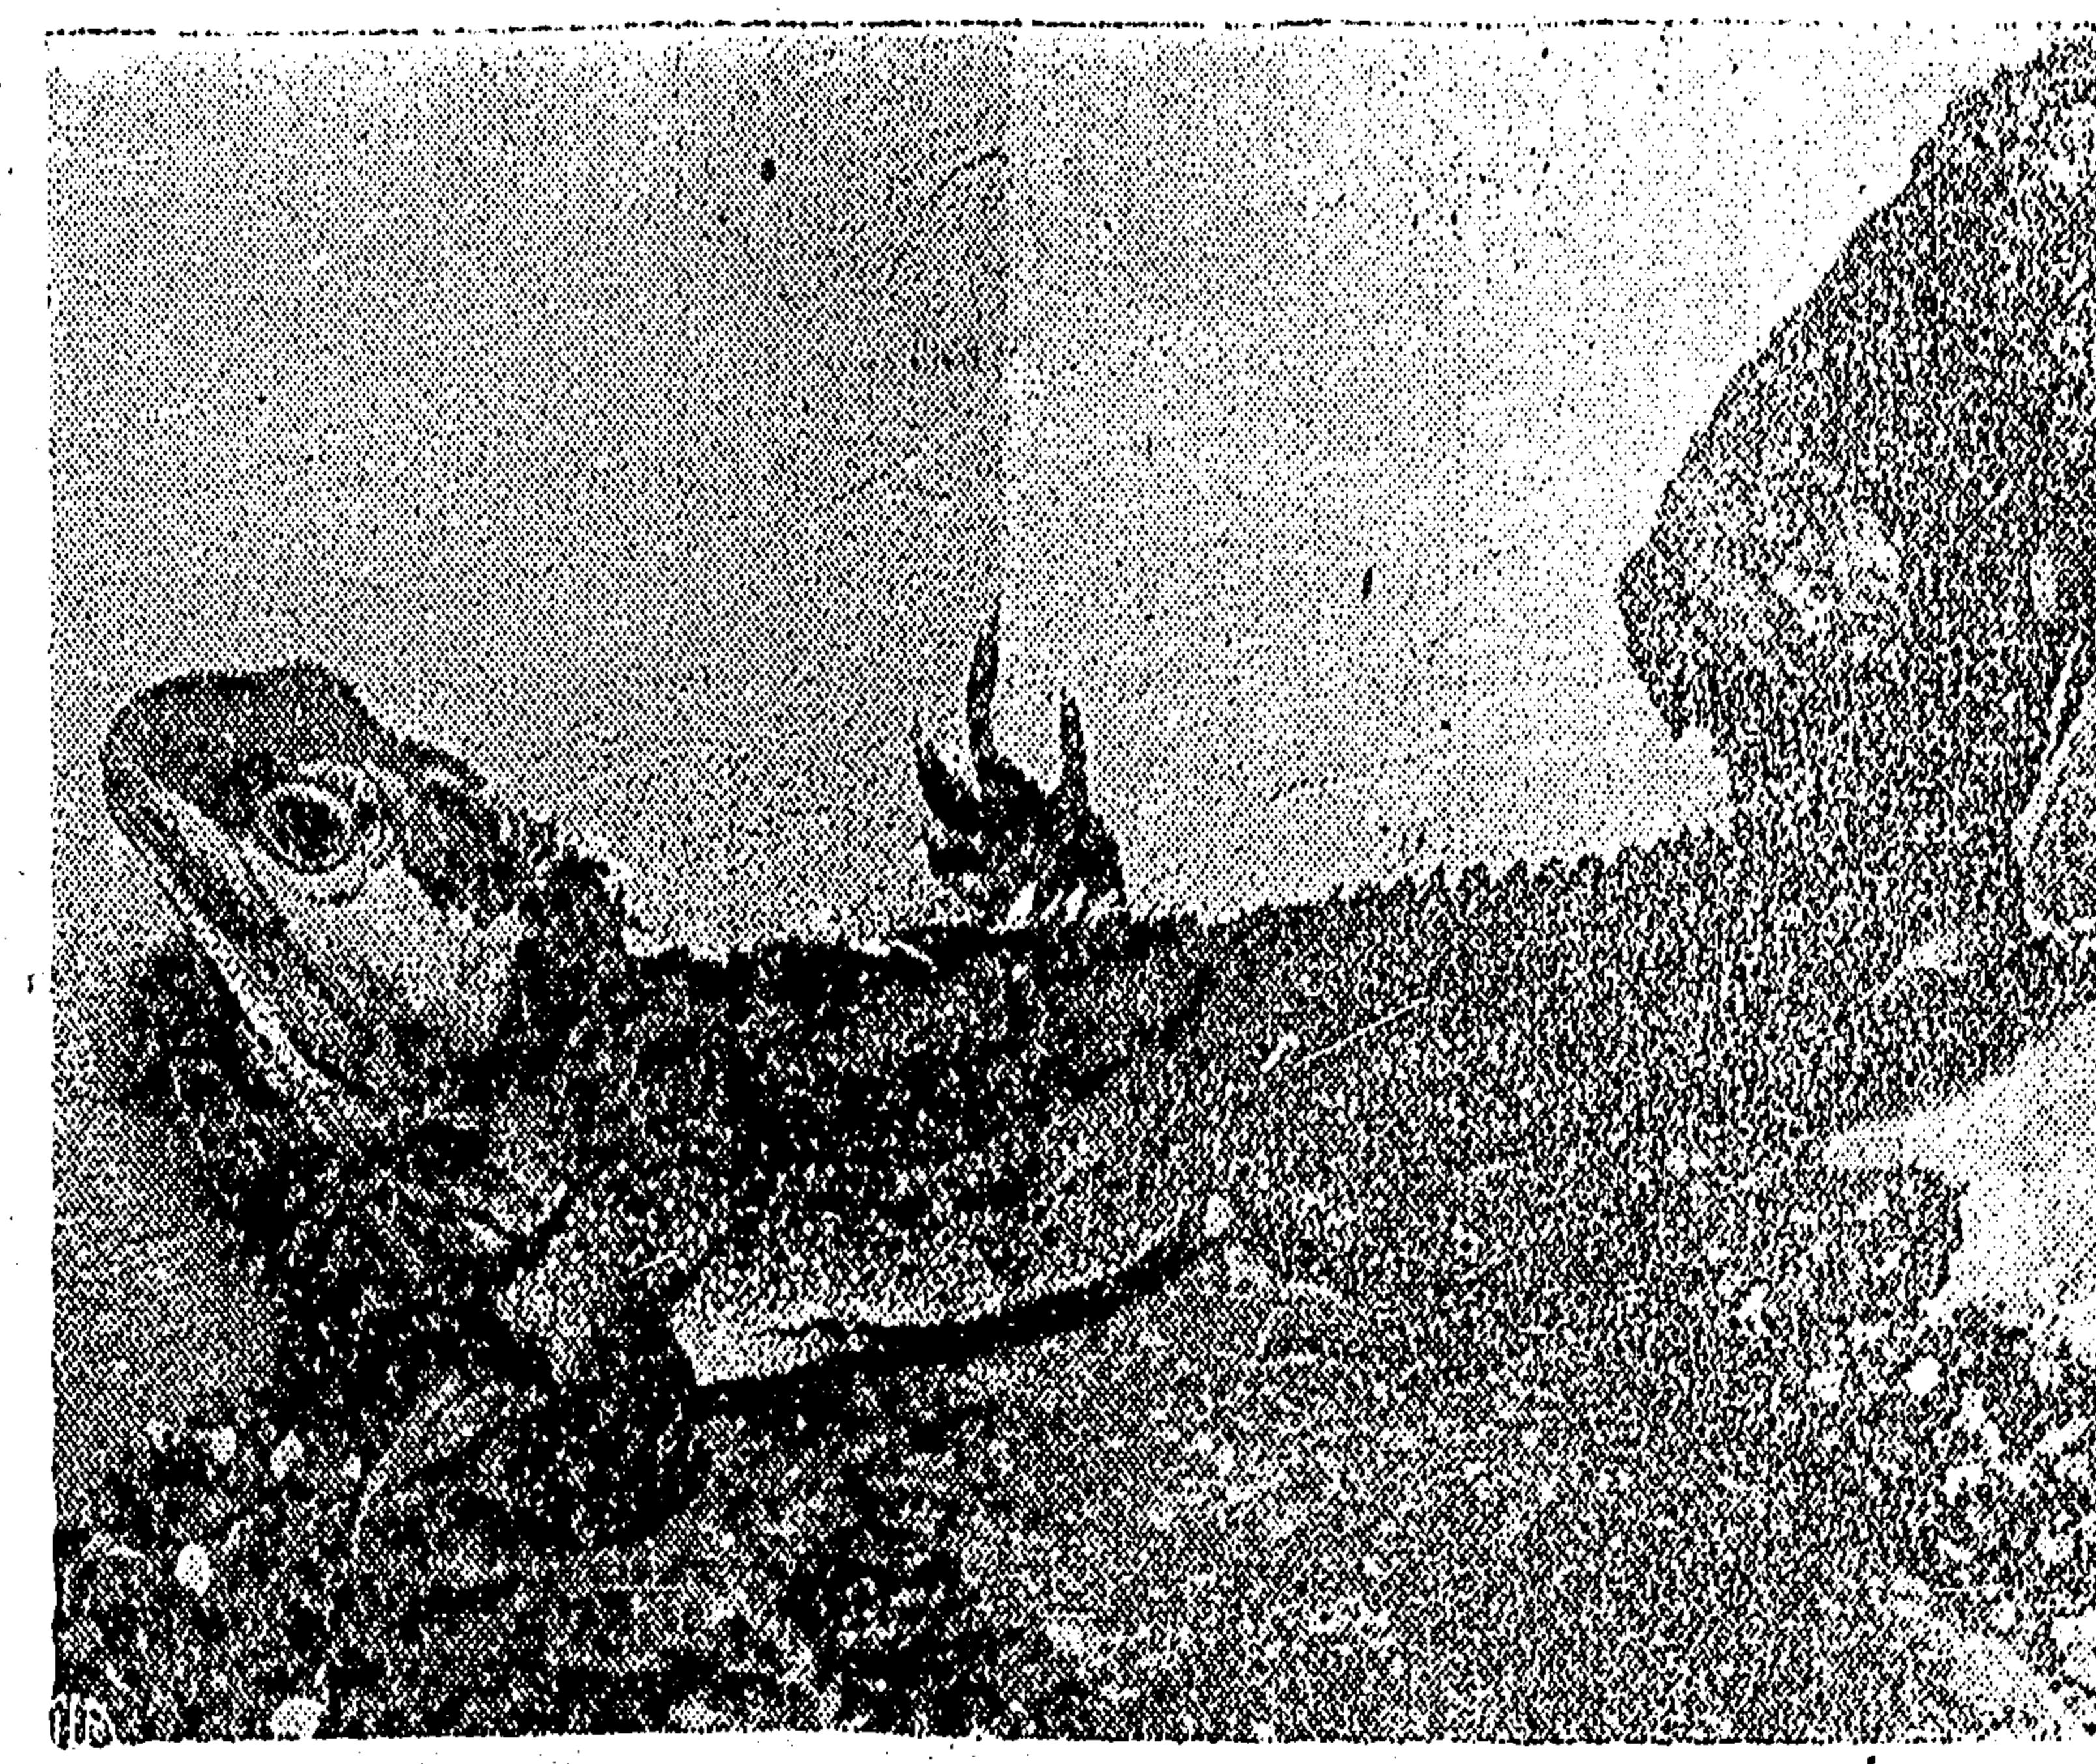

"In simple terms this just means that freight rates as of Jan. 1 next will have been raised 11 per cent within a period of six months," said Mr. Chetwynd.

"A large number of our agricultural producers, particularly our fruit and vegetable growers, are struggling to keep their heads above water as a result of disastrous frosts, drought, rising costs of production and unfair competition from imported stocks," said the minister.

The federal government was concerned with the increase, which he termed a "shock" and that he had wired Ottawa officials to have the order amended.

Another practical difference between Canadian and American political conventions Daniel pointed out is in the manner of voting by the delegates. Here it is by secret ballot. There it is by open ballot, the delegates having to stand up on the convention floor and be counted.

Most delegates to American conventions are chosen by local constituency groups who instruct their delegate how to vote long before the convention meets. Here in Canada, most delegates are also chosen by local constituency groups, but few of them are instructed. And if they were instructed by the folks back home, by casting a secret ballot for the leadership nobody

THREE-EYED RARITY — Getting his bearings at his new dwelling in the Copenhagen Zoo is Tuatara, the reptilian representative of an animal group which is known to have existed more than 150 million years ago. As if that in itself were not enough, the Tuatara also boasts three eyes. The third eye is located directly behind and between the two others. Although it is always closed, investigation has shown that it is a real eye with sensory nerves and brain connection. The odd creature is about two and a half feet long and of dark gray color with green specks. The above specimen was acquired by the Danish zoo after long-time negotiations with the New Zealand government which has banned export of the rare animal.

OTTAWA DIARY

By JAMES R. NELSON

Now that the dust has settled knows whether the delegates on the Progressive Conservative carried out the instruction. In National Convention of last week, it might be appropriate to add, took at this latest Canadian gates vote for the man they personally support, after hearing him speak, meeting him informally, and comparing his qualifications with those of the other candidates.

POLITICAL conventions are a relatively new thing in Canada. The Conservatives have now held five, the Liberals two.

They have been developed to a fine art, however, in the United States where each of the main parties holds one every four years. Canadian conventions are held only when the need arises to appoint a new permanent national leader.

When the boom and bungle moved into the Coliseum to clean it up after last week's convention, we had a chat with Raymond Daniell, the Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times, a veteran of many American conventions and a distinguished reporter of political events throughout Europe. He found many good features, and some not so good, in the practices followed by Canadian conventions.

Canada Sees Wonders At First

LONDON (CP) — Financial Times says that within a few years Canada will likely be the main producer of uranium outside the Iron Curtain.

"Canadian uranium output should eventually be worth $300,000,000 a year and become the country's leading mineral export," says the newspaper.

The United States is now the chief producing country with an annual output of 3,000,000 tons.

Catchy Operetta Features Roosevelt Park Concert

Featured by a two-act operetta with catchy, well-sung tunes, the first annual Christmas concert of the Roosevelt Park school was staged successfully last night before a capacity audience.

Written specially for the occasion by principal J. H. Steele with music by Mrs. Steele, the operetta provided an effective and entertaining vehicle into which performances by other groups of students were skillfully worked.

"Titled 'The King Who Lost His Christmas' it told of an overfed monarch whose selfishness led to his kingdom being deprived of Christmas by a witch's curse. Two years later when a member of his court performed an act of kindness, the holiday was restored, joy returned to the kingdom and the monarch mended his ways.

The throne room of the palace provided the setting for a variety of acts that were brought in for the entertainment of His Majesty. These included the Christmas Toy Parade put on by Mrs. Anderson's Grade 1 class; the Friendly Beasts' playlet based on the legend that animals have the power of speech and prayer on Christmas morning, staged by Miss Comer's Grades 2 and 3. Direction was by Mr. Steele.

Yule Party For Children Held By Fishermen's Union Auxiliary

The Women's auxiliary to the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union entertained more than 250 children in the Civic Centre Saturday afternoon when the group held a successful annual Christmas tree party.

Prior to Santa Claus' arrival, games were played and carols sung to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Victor Duplisse, Mrs. E. A. Lindstrom and son, Thomas.

Cheers of excitement greeted the arrival of Santa, who distributed gifts, candy and fruit to all the youngsters. Children were also given soft drinks and ice-cream.

Committee in charge of the party, Mrs. Arvid Maki, Mrs. William Greenwood, Mrs. Thomas Parkin, Mrs. Raymond Gardiner and Mrs. Violet Patrik, expressed appreciation to John Dumas for his assistance.

classes, recitations by Peter Homenuk and Lothar Mensch; Trimming the Christmas Tree by Miss Irwin's Grade 1 class; and Bouncing Balls, a clever performance in rhythm staged by members of G. E. Freeman's Grade 5 and 6 class.

The program opened enjoyably with Christmas selections by the school choir conducted by Mrs. Margaret Rutherford and accompanied by the Grade 2 rhythm band. Between acts of the operetta, the rhythm band performed three more well-executed numbers.

Barbara Perry was a poised master of ceremonies whose introductions were always clear. Musical direction of the operetta was carried out by Miss Barbara Thomson while the dances were created by Miss Helma Keffer. The performance was staged by Mr. Freeman and costumes were supervised by Miss Beverly Conner. Direction was by Mr. Steele.

Flfty members of the Catholic Youth Organization and special guests Sunday night attended the annual banquet at the Broadway Cafe, and dance at Annunciation school auditorium.

"Here Comes Santa Claus" was sung as St. Nicholas arrived to distribute gifts.

Refreshments and carol singing concluded the social.

About 25 mothers of the children attended the party which included a program of songs, recitations, and exercises by the children directed by Mrs. Reade with Mrs. Bowman at the piano.

The children all sat down to a Christmas lunch while the mothers had tea.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. D. R. Gaitens, Mrs. Vernon Ciccone, Mrs. L. M. Rice and Mrs. Frieda Linzey. After lunch each child received a Christmas gift. Kindergarten was adjourned until after the New Year.

Martin Erickson Re-Elected President

Of Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-Op

Martin Erickson, Kenneth F. Haugan, George Olafson, Norman Harding and Norman K. Dry were re-elected, respectively, president, general manager and treasurer of the Prince Rupert Fisherman's Co-operative Association.

The directors also commented on the international recognition the PRFCA had received during the past year referring to the visits of various United Nations Organizations and Russian Minister of Fisheries, Alexander Ishkov and the mission of secretary manager Kenneth F. Hardinge to India as representative of the UN Food and Agricultural organization.

An invitation was accepted by the directors to send a representative to Ottawa for International negotiations on a pink salmon treaty.

Finanical report showed that as of March 31, 1956 assets of the PRFCA totalled $3,500,000 of which nearly $2,000,000 was in the form of current assets.

LIABILITIES UP

Against these were liabilities of $1,800,000 which due to the change of the year end, were slightly higher than previous statements when settlements payable were indicated as deferred liabilities.

Sales of all divisions for the 17 months up until March 31, 1956 amounted to over $8,000,000 of which the total amount payable to fisherman was approximately $2,500,000.

The winter of 1955 to 1956 was the first full season the PRFCA had operated its plant for hering reduction and financial statements showed the operation successful.

SALES TRENDS

Present trend of sales was reviewed by T. H. Sorenson, sales manager who stated prices during the past few months had been most unrealistic and were inclined to put certain types of fish in the luxury class.

Each Scout and Cub was presented with a booklet of the life of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Scouts movement, by their leaders—Rod Faulkner (Scouts) and Dr. Fiddes (Cubs). Alfred Ostler, Cubmaster, and David Yule, assistant Scout leader, were unable to be present.

While prices in Canada remained reasonably stable, the demand was slack and consequently sales slow, he said.

Mr. Sorenson said present currency rates of exchange brought a reluctance to trade in the U.S. markets. Also U.S. fish prices were a few cents lower per pound than those ruling in Canada.

A resolution was passed urging the closure to sports fishermen of areas where spawning salmon were known to predominate.

Management were asked to pursue the possibility of reduction of the black cod tariff in the U.S.
