Prince Rupert Vicar-Apostolic
Named Archbishop of Edmonton

OTTAWA (CP)—The Pope has appointed Most Anthony Jordan, 53, as co-adjutor-archbishop of Edmonton, with the right of succession to Most Rev. John Hugh MacDonald.

The appointment was announced today by Most Rev. Giovanni Panico, apostolic delegate to Canada, through the Canadian Catholic Conference.

Archbishop Jordan, Edinburgh-born member of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, has been vicar-apostolic of Prince Rupert, B.C., since 1945. He now becomes titular archbishop of Silio.

Archbishop Jordan went to Alberta from Scotland as a child and studied at Drumheller and at Edmonton where he attended St. Joseph's College.

He joined the Oblate fathers in 1921 and studied at the order's Leibet, Sask., seminary. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1929.

BECAAME BISHOP IN 1945

He held various teaching, parochial and administrative posts in the Oblate order, rising to provincial bursar before being appointed vicar-apostolic of Prince Rupert. He was consecrated bishop by the late Rodriguez Cardinal Villeneuve at St. Albert, Alta., in 1945.

About half of his missionary diocese at Prince Rupert, in northern British Columbia, is made up of Indians.

upert Ignores Weatherman With Fourth Day of Sunshine

During the warnings of the weatherman who yesterday predicted clouds and rain, Prince Rupert added another full day of sunshine yesterday and went out in its fourth day of sunny weather today with the mercury registering 52 degrees at press time.

Maximum temperatures have risen from 46 degrees on Friday when clouds were first dispersed up to 57 degrees Sunday. Mercury dropped a degree yesterday and appearance of some clouds, today may indicate that dull weather has only been slow in getting here.

A gloomier outlook for tomorrow is predicted by the weatherman, who forecasts clouds with a few sunny periods with only a slight change in temperatures. Predicted high temperature for tomorrow is 50 degrees.

Four days fine weather, saw residents take to the outdoors during the weekend and many citizens took advantage of the sunshine to take their first trips out on the highway while others held picnics, got in some sailing and fishing.

Stay-at-homes used the fine weather as an excuse to get in their first work in the gardens while baseball enthusiasts took to the city's parks for workouts and work parties.

Intensive Program Planned To Assist New Canadians

An aggressive program to help newcomers to the city overcome their language barrier and learn something of Canadian ways has been launched by the Prince Rupert Citizenship Council.

The council will conduct a regular training night, next Monday, April 25, and the group will leave here some time in May to join them.

Reporting to the group's regular meeting last night at the Civic Centre, Marcel Gérard, chairman of the education committee, said the program will aid newcomers who have needs ranging from lack of knowledge of the English language to a lack of understanding of Canadian ways of life. A meeting of teachers for classes of New Canadians will be held at the Metropole Hall next Tuesday, Mr. Gérard said.

"Liberation" of Formosa Chinese Affair—Chou

BANDUNG, Indonesia (Reuters)—Communist China's premier Chou En-lai today said his government could have brought the Formosa question before the conference for debate but it did not want to introduce any "disputative matter."

"We have not come here to quarrel," he said.

On the basis of strict adherence to the five principles agreed upon by himself and India's prime minister Nehru, China was prepared to have formal relations with all African and Asian countries, particularly China's neighbors.

These five principles were:

1. Mutual respect for territorial integrity and sovereignty.
2. Non-aggression.
3. Non-interference in each other's domestic affairs.
4. Equality and mutual benefit.

5. Peaceful co-existence.

Chou said there were people who were carrying out operations around China for the purposes of subversive activity. He also referred to Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist remnant troops on the Burmese border and said that this problem was being overcome in co-operation with the Burmese government.

The proposed suspension toll bridge across Lake Okanagan will cost approximately $8,000,000, Premier Bennett said here Monday.

The span will be completed by the end of 1957, the premier said.

The 1½-mile bridge, to replace ferries running between Kelowna and Westbank, will have two 13-foot traffic lanes with five-foot sidewalks on each side.

"The city of Vienna is proposed as the place for the said conference."

Chief Issues Warning On Burning

A warning was issued today by Fire Chief Earl Becker urging residents to use utmost caution when burning rubbish or firing dead grass.

Fire Chief Becker said that no fires should be started outdoors during the current dry spell unless residents had a garden hose handy.

Warning came after the Prince Rupert fire department were called to put out a grass fire at 324 Sherbrooke Street at 1:45 yesterday. No damage was caused by the blaze.

The International Typographical Union (AFL-TLC) is asking for $2.43 an hour compared to $2.00 offered by a collision board. The present rate is $2 an hour.

Union To Ask Big Boost In Salmon Catch Prices

Market Situation Said Best in Years

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union representatives of 6,000 west coast fishermen will demand substantial price increases for the 1955 salmon catch when they meet May 4 to work out contract demands on B.C. fish companies.

This was indicated Monday by Horner Stevens, secretary of United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.).

He said salmon prices and union fringe benefit requests will be decided at the union's annual price conference attended by all union locals.

Demands will be presented to Fisheries Association of B.C., representing the operators.

UFAWU will ask higher prices for salmon this year because "the overall market situation for salmon is at its best point in several years," Stevens said.

"The operators' argument of the past few years that market conditions demanded lower prices will not be a legitimate point this year."

Deadline for a price agreement will be decided at the union conference but it is expected to be either June 18 or 25.

Major fringe benefit demand of the union will be a request the fish companies pay three cents per case of canned salmon into a welfare fund instead of one cent.

The Neas and Skeena river sockeye fishing will open June 19 while Rivers and Smith inlets will open a week later.

Fraser river salmon fishing is expected to open sometime after June 28.

Prices gained by the union last year were sockeye, 22 cents; coho, 13 cents; pink, 7½ cents; summer and fall chum, 5½ cents.

"The Soviet note to the three Western powers said Austria should be present at the conference as well as the United States, Britain, France and Russia, and that it should be held in Vienna.

The Soviet note, handed over in Moscow today by Foreign Minister Molotov, asked for the earliest, reaction of the three Western powers to the proposal.

It came four days after the Austrian chancellor, Julius Raab, flew home from talks here which resulted in agreement on conditions for a treaty to end the 10-year occupation of Austria and restore her independence.

CONSIDER IT EXPEDIENT

The note, handed to Charles Bohlen, the U.S. ambassador, and Patrot, British minister, and Jean Le Roy, French chargé d'affaires, said:

"The Soviet government considers it expedient that a conference of the foreign minister of the United States of America, France, Britain and the Soviet Union should be convened in the near future, with the participation of Austrian representatives, to consider the question of concluding a state treaty on the restoration of an independent and democratic Austria and the signing of this treaty."

The note, handed to Charles Bohlen, the U.S. ambassador, and Patrot, British minister, and Jean Le Roy, French chargé d'affaires, said:

The note, handed to Charles Bohlen, the U.S. ambassador, and Patrot, British minister, and Jean Le Roy, French chargé d'affaires, said:

DEPORTATION ORDER FOLLOWS
INCIDENT OF UNSTABLE BRA

MANILA (CP)—Show promoter Jev Cortes said a pretty young Japanese dancer, ordered deported from the Philippines because of a plunging bra, tried to jump out of her seventh-floor hotel window today.

Cortes said Tomoko Maruyama, 18, was prevented by her companions.

Miss Maruyama, of the Masuda-Shibuya Toho dancing troupe, was depressed because her brassiere dropped during a dance at a night club last week.

She said it was "purely accidental."

Police called it indecent exposure, and ordered her deported.

Cameron To Ask Finance Minister To Substantiate Trotsky Charge

Ottawa (CP)—Colin Cameron, CCF member of the Commons for Nanaimo, says he presented

Parliament making a serious charge against a fellow-member to place his seat in jeopardy by placing him in a position of being overthrown.

Mr. Cameron said Monday night in an interview that he is unable to substantiate the charge, "Mr. Harris and I are unable to substantiate the charge or resign."

From the reports I have received of Mr. Harris' statements in Toronto on April 10, charging that there are Trotskyites among the 24 CCF members of Parliament, and his plan to place his seat in jeopardy by placing him in a position of being overthrown.

Mr. Cameron, elected in 1953, is regarded as somewhat to the left of the general CCF line.

Britons Get Income Tax Reductions

LONDON (Reuters)—The Government today announced across-the-board income tax reductions for the world's most heavily taxed people and slashed the purchase tax and a variety of textile goods to 25 from 50 per cent. The cuts announced to a crowded Commons by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, came little more than a month before the general election, May 26.

The basic rate will be 42½ per cent of taxable income instead of 46 per cent. This is a cut of six pence in the standard rate, linking it eight shillings, 4 pence.

Mr. Butler also announced increased allowances in tax-free income allowance, increased £20 to £140 for a single person and to £240 from £210 for married couples. Allowances for children are also increased. The changes are effective July 5.

Butler said he had halted the deterioration in Britain's economic position by clamping down on installment buying and boosting the interest rates last February.

Despite fiercer competition abroad and the struggle to maintain the nation's gold and dollar reserves, the government doesn't intend to return to the policy of consumer controls or rationing, Butler said.

The government's total revenue for 1954-55, including £1,000 million, was £4,788,000,000, £205,000,000 more than estimated.

But while the government was collecting more taxes at home, the balance of trade was weighing against the country.

Britain was importing more than she was exporting. Butler said from October 1954 to March 1955, imports amounted to about £1,078,000,000—or some £225,000,000 more than in the corresponding period previous year.

Alcan, Union Start Talks

KITIMAT, B.C.—Contract talks opened here today between the 1,200 hourly-paid members of the Aluminum Workers Council (AFL-TLC) and Aluminum Company of Canada.

Matters open for negotiations in the 1955 contract are wages, holidays with pay, and shift differentials. The workers' pay demands have not been announced.

Meanwhile the AFL is preparing to set up a building trades council in Kitimat when more unions are certified.

First building union to organize a Kitimat local, apart from the existing carpenters' union, is awaiting ratification for employees on the new, $100,000,000 extension to the aluminum smelter. It is the 200-member local 381 of AFL laborers.

Einstein's Disappointment

A LIBERT EINSTEIN was a symbol of a trend in our history that is daily becoming more apparent—the creations of man are outpacing his power to control them.

This modest little person was the antithesis of the weapons that his calculations helped to develop. Like the pioneer of aviation, Orville Wright, he finished his days in growing horror of the monster he had shaped. He did not pursue his work with a sense of mischief but as a scientist intent on deciphering the abstract. He had the gifts to probe more deeply into this realm than any of his contemporaries and, in fact, may have been advanced in his thinking by several generations.

But tragically he gained little satisfaction from his extraordinary journeys into the unknown. His attitude of personal detachment that made them possible was not shared by the generation in which he lived. His findings in the field of pure science to which he devoted his life were given a material application that surprised and alarmed him. In addition, he found that while few could understand his work, there was no reluctance about hailing him as a genius. The result was he became a sightseer, curiosity comparable to the Grand Canyon and Marlon Brando. The estimate of the man was not in what he did but in what he wore and what he had for breakfast.

This emphasis on the earthy aspects of his accomplishments and his person was not understood by the visionary Einstein. He felt robbed of his individuality which consequently came to mean more to him than his work. He once said that if he could live his life over, he would do so as a plumber or carpenter where a man's rights to his own life were more intact.

While Einstein may have felt disillusioned, his experience will not discourage others from trying to press beyond the boundaries he reached. All through history men have known the urge to push farther into the unknown and have surrendered to it.

Whatever the price of this curiosity, it would be far worse if it were denied expression. To pretend we are any less than we really are would be to forego the chance to find the real greatness of man as well as his weakness.

OTTAWA DIARY By NORMAN M. MacLEOD

It really isn't hard to tell a shot at Santa Claus. And in veteran from a tyro politician the present thinking of the PCs, on Parliament Hill, despite the confusion possibilities presented by the fact that both types have two hands, two legs, usually shave and shine their shoes daily and offer other superficial resemblances.

The distinguishing trait which separates the two classes is that your veteran politician knows the right time to worry. He is able to relax in tensions that cause his less experienced colleagues to get their wind up.

And this is a situation which explains the curious fact that there is more real concern over the present budget amongst veteran Liberal MPs than there is amongst the Conservative opposition. Yet the Conservative opposition is plenty concerned. Figures that, from its viewpoint, this year's budget is sheer political dynamite.

PC budget critic J. M. Macdonnell is scheduled to take the floor of the Commons today to give the official opposition view of the budget. He returned to the Capital midway through the Parliamentary recess to work on his speech and called in the best economic brains available to the Conservative Party to help him. But in spite of this eminent economic assistance, the word has been passed to the PC rank-and-file that Macdonnell, who has the deceptive faculty of talking always as though he possessed a monopoly of all the public virtues, will make a safely political speech. In other words, he won't talk against the Harris tax reductions despite the fact that he has been briefed elaborately on their unsound and irresponsible aspects, which aren't too difficult to argue. Instead, he will stick to the safer (politically) fields of unemployment, declining farm income, and attendant social discontents.

The political strategy behind the Macdonnell performance is the generally accepted idea that no individual or political party gains popularity by taking pot

British Steel

THE British heavy steel people are shortly to open an on-the-spot office in Vancouver. Its immediate job will be to promote sales of made-in-Britain steel, in that very considerable area of Canada which can be best served through west coast ports.

But those "in the know" look forward to the day when more big British steel makers will establish branch manufacturing plants on the Pacific coast of Canada.

THIS move of the British heavy steel group is perhaps indirectly a result of a British Columbia expedition to Britain of some two years ago.

Business men of B.C. who have long sold vast amounts of B.C. products to Britain, came to realize that the ability of Britain to buy from B.C. was closely tied in with her ability to see to B.C.

The B.C. business group had the personal co-operation of the Hon. James Sinclair, for the federal government. Its work was also followed up, and amplified by Mr. Gunderson, for the government of B.C.

THE 1953 B.C. buying mission in Britain literally combed the market deliberately to transfer to Britain purchases that were previously being made elsewhere.

In that demonstration, the extra orders placed in Britain provided the funds to make extra purchases by Britain in B.C.

Some people called that transaction a mere "stunt." Actually it was a quiet demonstration that there is room for greatly increased trade between Britain and Canada. It was also a demonstration of the fact that one missing link is lack of personal contacts at both ends.

THE British heavy steel interests are to be represented in B.C. by a group headed by Harold M. Long of Montreal.

Mr. Long has behind him a long record of special international jobs, well accomplished.

I wrote in this column about 12 or 13 years ago, about Mr. Long's fine work as special assistant to the Minister of Finance, when the groundwork was laid for the whole wartime price control system in Canada. On that job the young Montreal business man built up such a reputation as an "obstacle buster-downer" that Lord Beaverbrook picked him as one of his key partners in North America.

Harold Long's most notable achievement in wartime was the organization of the Atlantic Air Ferry Command. Nowadays, we tide of popular opinion in the take trans-Atlantic flight for government's favor. They are afraid that if this year's estimated budgetary deficit of $100,000,000 is realized on top of last year's deficit of $100,000,000—a total treasury shortage of $300,000,000 in two years—then no margin may exist for tax concessions on the eve of the next election. And that's an outlook that really worries your Liberal politician.

Chinese Red Buildup
Of Air Power Disclosed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower has received intelligence information that the Chinese Communists are engaged in an extensive buildup of Red airpower opposite Formosa, which the U.S. is committed to defend.

Announcing this at Augusta Sunday after a conference with the president, State Secretary Dulles told reporters the buildup has assumed ominous comple-

He described it as: "More intense and more broad in its scope" than the United States had been aware of until a few days ago.

A buildup which "indicates a higher degree of capability" on the part of the Communists to launch an attack "than we had pictured a few weeks ago."

In a formal statement after a two-hour meeting with the president Dulles said:

"In relation to China, we discussed the grave complications of an extensive buildup, now in progress, by the Chinese Communists of offensive airpower on the China mainland opposite Formosa."

Dulles' elaboration on the buildup came at a brief press conference at a hotel after he had left the chief executive's office here during the weekend.

Witnesses said the river ice hardly paused when it piled up and tore the base from its moorings.

With the dock went rigid steel fueling lines.

The dock was built four years ago to meet the increasing need for proper seaplane facilities.

Start of seaplane operation was scheduled in about two weeks. It now is considered doubtful a new pontoon can be completed before then.

An employee of Pacific Western Airlines, one of the chief users of the base, said his firm probably would use the small adjacent beach until a new dock is built.

POWER OF PRAYER

The Editor,
The Daily News:

I would like to testify as to the miracle of prayer and the wondrous work of Our Lord. For five months I have been crippled with arthritis. My legs were so crippled that I could not move without someone to help me out of my chair and I could not even hold a cup to my lips to drink.

Only God knows how fast my tears fell during the first painless night. Now, due to the Kitkata Prayer Group, prayers and my own prayers, I am completely healed. Glory to His Holy Name!

My advice to others who are in pain is not to give up. What God has done for me he will do for others. Don't give up when you think you are at the end of your rope. Remember God still is on the throne. I know, I thought I was going to be crippled the rest of my life and now I will work fulltime for the Lord for the rest of my life, testifying to others that Jesus can still heal as He did many years ago.

Mishap Stops Gas Well Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — A small accident saved a big job for men who battled a wild gas well fire for five days in northern British Columbia.

Special fire-fighting equipment was being built at the well site, 70 miles northwest of Fort St. John, B.C., when gas pressure caused the well to blow out. The drop in pressure was believed caused by a drill bit which broke off, choking most of the heavy flow of natural gas.

Emergency crews had the well under control within a few hours.

Officials of the Texaco Exploration Co. said work on the special equipment was started after plans to blow out the flames with explosives had been cancelled. It was then planned to kill the fire by forcing water down the well under high pressure.

The well blew wild Tuesday, causing $500,000 damage.

The battle against the B.C. well was directed by Myron Kinley famous well-killer from Houston, Texas, who now will return to another Texan rogue well at Rimbey, Alta., 75 miles southwest of Edmonton.
