Cancer Seen against Cancer

Audience Hears Warning that Delay Might Prove Serious

though the cause of cancer remains unknown, methods of treatment are meeting with some success in curing the disease. The number would be increased, however, if those with symptoms would make a greater point of doctor without delay.

Dr. A. M. Evans, medical director of the British Columbia Cancer Institute, Dr. A. R. Ralston, Dr. L. M. Greene, who all of Prince Rupert in the program Mrs. B. C. Field reported the Cancer Society part in the discussion, were some of the points developed from which Dr. Greene asks:

There is no proof that delay, it does appear, is common between the disease and 70. There is no proof that smoking is a factor in causing lung cancer. This particular all-

Q. Are doctors always right in their diagnosis and treatment of cancer?

A. They are not always right but the record is very good. In some cases, it is impossible to effect a cure even if the disease is caught in its early stages. But we could increase the cure rate if people would go to the doctor immediately they have symptoms. You would be amazed at the number of advanced cases of cancer of the breast which we see in first visits. We could increase survival rates by 50 percent if people would go to the doctor earlier.

Council Asks Resignation Of City Superintendent

Foreman Requested To Take Over Post

City council, in a special session last night, called for the resignation of George Beaton as city superintendent of works and asked works foreman Carl Gustafson to fill the vacancy.

The moves followed a meeting of the council as a committee of the whole which adopted a report of a special committee to study reorganization of the city's public works department.

"Lack of resolve" in taking a stand on "almost all" controversial public works projects was laid at the superintendent of works door by the majority of the council, as one reason for the motion.

LONE DISSENTER.

One dissenter in the move to ask for the works superintendent's resignation was Alderman William Bremner, who told the council that in his first year on the council, (1953) he had seen nothing but improvement result from the public works supervisor.

"Perhaps the fault lies in that there has been too little to do this last year," Ald. Bremner declared.

Ald. Ray McLean demurred stating that there is too much for one departmental head to do in the public works — "too much time taken up on reports when the superintendent's activities should be directed at other projects."

This afternoon, Mayor George Hills called The Daily News to announce that Mr. Beaton had not withdrawn himself from consideration. Alderman Norman Bellis, chairman of the board of works committee, and City Clerk-comptroller R. W. Long, had tendered his resignation.

Asked what reasons Mr. Beaton had given for resigning, the mayor said that "Mr. Beaton is resigning because of lack of co-operation between the council and himself."

An interruption when a citizen walked into the council chamber prompted Ald. McLean to move that the meeting be continued in closed session. Asked by Mayor George E. Hills, when the meeting closed, Ald. McLean replied:

"It's my duty to attend the meetings of the royal commission investigating the government's forest policy from logging operators and opposition political parties."

Chief Justice Sloan is asked to become a one-man royal commission. He recently brought down his recommendations as to the federal government's arbitration in the contract dispute between the railways and non-operating union employees in Ottawa and has returned to Victoria.

In a press conference Premier Bennett made it clear that Chief Justice Sloan would inquire into the entire industry and not only specific issues such as forest management licences and working circles, main subject of recent criticism.

"These were apparently cut and dried arrangements," he said.

"As regards to 'Jack of all trades,' Mr. Beaton said, 'every time the council wanted something done, I would get information in the field on whatever project it was and take my findings back to council. It all boiled down to the fact that in the end I was told there was no money for whatever was planned.'

"It is estimated that as many as 100 canvassers from the Prince Rupert Elks and Royal Order of the Purple Knights canvassed the city last night to start this year's drive for the March of Dimes, sponsored in B.C. annually by the Vancouver Sun to raise funds for the crippled children of B.C.

Wide Choice Needed

IT IS encouraging that the coming civic elections show signs of becoming a contest instead of a give-away program. While there is still plenty of room for more candidates, at least it appears that the voter is going to be given something of a choice.

His choice is more important now than ever, for Prince Rupert is reaching a point in its post-war history where it might well stand or fall for good. It has a place in an area which is rapidly becoming more industrialized and where it could easily drop to a secondary position unless it plays its part wisely. It is imperative that business recognize the opportunities here and it is only through the city council that these can be developed to their best. Other organizations can provide the spur but it is the council which carries the responsibility of improving our public services, our facilities in education, accommodation and recreation, and our mill rate.

The last is the key to the rest. If it is too low, nothing can be accomplished. If it is too high, there will be very few around to care whether anything is accomplished or not.

The new council will have more power than its predecessors to reach a satisfactory adjustment in this respect. With liquidation of our refunding debt, the new provincial assessment schedule and re-assessment on a local scale, there should be every chance of compressing the rate without curtailing what the city can undertake. Lack of caution, however, will put us right back where we are now, which is high enough to turn a ratepayer's stomach.

Nor can we afford much more skirmishing over our public works program. Disagreement and poor planning in this direction can account for more wasted revenue than any other line of municipal operations.

On the whole our present council has given little cause for real complaint. After an uneasy start, it settled to its task in businesslike manner and, though it failed to look very far ahead in refusing to consider the city manager plan, has set a course which should simplify the task of councils that follow.

However, the future is insecure without a strong council in charge, and this will only be provided if the voters have a wide enough choice to elect one. As in all things, an election is survival of the fittest.

The family of Hon. George Drew feel relieved to know the tortia is rapidly increasing. This head of the house is recovering from a grave illness, and will be years. In 1921 only 2 per cent of Victoria's families lived in apartments. In 1951, 30 per cent did. Canada would like to believe so.

As I See It

BY

Elmore Philpott

Cash Versus Credit

MY GOOD friend the business editor of The Vancouver Sun has taken issue with some of the flippant ideas recently expressed in this column on the question of cash versus credit.

I am seriously interested in two aspects of this question—why all the big concerns are trying so hard to switch people from cash to credit buying—and why the cash customers, the worthiest people of all should always get the short end of the stick?

NEVER a month passes but what letters come to our Vancouver office urging us to open new charge accounts.

Not long ago I was visiting my parents in the city where T. Eaton founded his famous stores on the principle "pay cash, pay less." The doorbell rang and there stood a smart young lady whose job it was to sign up new customers for charge accounts. She went to every house.

What has happened to change the trend from cash? Surely the main answer is that stores have found by actual experience that a customer with a charge account buys more than a cash customer with no charge account. The extra volume of business which that particular store gets from the charge account more than enough compensates for the higher operating cost.

BUT I don't see why the cash customers should help to pay for the extra cost of the book-keeping and collection of my charge account—and of hundreds of thousand more like mine.

During the Hitler war my mother tried hard to buy a certain scarce article in the big store which she has patronized all her life. She was then about 80 years of age and as solid as a rock in her Scottish principle that you should never buy anything unless you have the spot cash to pay. But because she was just another unknown cash customer she could not get the then-scarce article.

However, when my wife heard about Granny's disappointment she simply phoned the same store to send up that same item right away—charging it to our account.

It came up by delivery the next day.

THE Sun business editor says that I have made no distinction between charge account customers and those who pay on the time installment plan.

I think this is an entirely different question. The time payment plan buyer pays an adequate charge for the extra service he gets.

But the example cited by The Sun business editor goes over on great pitfall.

Suppose a man makes a down payment of $100 on a $500 piano. Suppose he agrees to pay off the balance in ten installments of $40. If he has been charged at the full rate of 6 per cent on the full balance of $400 for ten months—then you mathematical wizards among our readers, how much has he actually paid by the end? Remember at the end of one month he only owes $360 and so on.

But let me make plain—I am a strong booster for the time payment plan. It has been a literal God-send to almost every woman with a washing machine, and the example cited by The Sun business editor goes over on great pitfall.

Survey Shows Working Wives Do Best Housecleaning Job

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Working wives are better housekeepers than their stay-at-home sisters, and ask less help from their husbands, says Madge Lewyt, who spends most of her time inquiring into women's housekeeping habits.

A few years ago Miss Lewyt volunteered to help her brother compile some facts about how modern women clean house, and she has been at it ever since. The brother is Alex Lewyt, manufacturer of vacuum cleaners and other items. Says sister Madge, who bears the title of research consultant:

"In recent surveys I have found that women who work at a full-time job away from home all day tackle their housework the same way they do their office work. They organize it efficiently and don't get bogged down in it."

OLD-FASHIONED METHODS

"Women who stay at home all day are likely to dawdle along at housework, using old-fashioned methods they learned from their mothers. There's probably something psychological about it. These women have a feeling they aren't doing an important job in just keeping house, and so they try to make it sound as hard as possible."

"These are the women who do most of the complaining when their husbands come home at night, and the ones who act hurt if their husbands don't help with the dishes or other chores."

Working women, on the other hand, says Miss Lewyt, seem to take pride in being able to do two jobs and do both well. She says:

"Most women who work outside their home manage to keep it tidy and give the house a thorough cleaning once a week, usually on Saturdays."

Boomer Geoffrion Apparently Headed For New National Loop Goal Record

MONTREAL (CP) — If hard-shooting Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens keeps up his early-season scoring pace he will wind up the National Hockey League season with a new record for goals.

The right-winger, nicknamed Boom-Boom because of the echo his shot makes when it hits the backboards, has scored 18 goals in the 24 games Montreal has played. If he keeps producing at the same rate for the rest of the 70-game season, he will have 52 goals — two more than the record set in the 1944-45 season by teammate Maurice Richard over a 50-game sched-

Veteran Mosdell, last year's all-star centre, is in fourth place with 20 points on 12 goals and eight assists. Danny Lewicki of New York, making the comeback of the year after a dismal season with Toronto last year, is tied with teammate Don Ra-ligh for fifth place with 18 points. Lewicki has 14 goals and four assists and Raleigh three goals and 15 assists.

TOP PLAYER — Nick Mickoski, traded by New York to Chicago last week is the league's top playmaker with 16 assists. He holds down seventh place in the standings with 17 points.

Alex Delvecchio is next with 16 points on three goals and 13 assists. Tied for ninth place are 30 goals and won the Calder Memorial Trophy as the league's top rookie. He scored 22 goals the next year and added 29 more points.

Geoffrion's best season to date was in 1951-52 when he scored 30 goals and won the Calder Memorial Trophy as the league's top rookie. He scored 22 goals the next year and added 29 more points.

Labine made the most sensational advance of the week, scoring seven points to move from 33rd to ninth place.

Goalie Harry Lumley of Toronto leads the Vezina Trophy race with 38 goals against him in 22 games for an average of 1.72 per game. Terry Sawchuk of Detroit is second with 40 goals against him and a 1.90

Major League Executives Plot Player Trades At Minors' Meet

By JOE REICHLER

HOUSTON (AP) — The fuss and confusion created today by the American Association's drafting of the western league's Denver club have all but blotted out the existence of the major league managers at the minors' 53rd annual convention.

But while weary and sometimes short-tempered executives were frantically seeking a solution to the many problems looming ahead because of the imminent wholesale realignment of teams, big league pilots were quietly plotting player trades.

One due to be announced at half way now is the second half of the Baltimore-New York Yankee transaction of two weeks ago. The second installment probably will send Oriole pitchers Lou Kretlow and Mike Blyzka, outfielder Jim Fridley and junior Gilliam. The Dodgers have asked for southpaw Curt Simmons and either of the Phils' two catchers, Smokey Burgess and Stan Lopata, but not for the trio coveted by Hamey.

Others who will be making the trip are Gilbert, junior, 5 foot 10 1/2 inches, Corbin a sophomore, 6 foot 2 inches and Maddox, a junior, an even six feet.

Robinson also is on the "wanted" list of the Cincinnati Reds, who have made a definite offer for the great outfielder. Buzzie Bavasi, Dodger vice-president, admitted he has received several offers for the 35-year-old Robinson, who can be had for the right price or — and players.

the shifting of shortstop Billy Hunter and pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen to the Yankees for pitchers Harry Byrd and Jim McDonald, outfielder Gene Woodring, shortstop Willie Miranda and catchers Gus Triandos and Hal Smith.

There is no doubt more trade winds are blowing behind closed doors and private nooks in the rooms and in the lobbies of the hotel headquarters. One involves Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

General manager Roy Hamey of the Phillies, openly admitting he is seeking hitting help, reportedly has made bids for Jackie Robinson, Carl Furillo and Junior Gilliam. The Dodgers have asked for southpaw Curt Simmons and either of the Phils' two catchers, Smokey Burgess and Stan Lopata, but not for the trio coveted by Hamey.

Others who will be making the trip are Gilbert, junior, 5 foot 10 1/2 inches, Corbin a sophomore, 6 foot 2 inches and Maddox, a junior, an even six feet.

The series is an annual four-game affair between the top schools, which vie for the Frank Murkowski Trophy, presently held by Bo-Me-Hi.

HIGH WATERFALL — The Alexandra waterfall on the Hay River near Great Slave Lake has a drop of about 150 feet.

Los Angeles: Don Jordan, 134, Los Angeles, stopped Manuel Renteria, 134, Los Angeles, (10).

San Francisco: Wes Echols, 157 1/2, San Francisco, outpointed Rob Ross, 150 1/2, Detroit, (10).

Stevenson pointed to W.H. Tremblay behind the Ottawa goal line and Tremblay's return kick went off the side of his foot and out of touch of the Ottawa eight. Stevenson boomed the ball into the crowd on first down on the game's final play and Bombers won their second title 6-7.

The 1948 final was unique apart from Karpuk's lapse. The whole Ottawa team wasn't too sharp that afternoon. In the first half the Stamps pulled the hairy old sleeper play—and it worked for Calgary's first touchdown.

That's the only time the goat horns were distributed en masse.

Hartwig Defeats U. S. Sta To Enter Aussie Net Sem

By WILL GRIMES

MELBOURNE (AP) — Rex Hartwig, a country boy from nearby Melville, and Philadelphia plumbing heir Vic Selkirk emerged as the strong men of the respective Australian and United States Davis Cup teams today as American hopes sagged with the defeat of Tony Trabert.

Trabert, Uncle Sam's broad-shouldered blockbuster who carried most of the weight of the U.S. team a year ago, fell in straight sets before the slasher Hartwig in the quarter-finals of the Victorian tennis championships, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6.

Selkirk, the disappointment of America's 1953 cup bid, meanwhile, continued to show sparkling form as he cut down Mervyn Rose, Australia's national champion, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4.

In the first two sets the Philadelphia, who holds the U.S. championship, looked unbeatable, but he suffered an unconscious relaxation and almost let Rose slip away.

PLAYS SLASHING GAME

Not so Hartwig, who kept the pressure on Trabert with a pressing game and probably earned himself a singles spot on the Australian team over Ken Rosewall.

Rosewall also reached the semi-finals, but he had to play one extra set and go overtime in another set before subduing Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Hartwig, who has been the consistently best amateur in the world the last six months,

Churchill Expresses Hope He Can Still Be of Service

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill today celebrated his 80th birthday with the fervent hope that he still has "some services to render."

Looking especially fit for his age, Churchill heard eulogies from all political factions in the House of Commons with "pride and humility."

And to those looking for a hint to his future plans, he described himself as "a party politician who has not retired and may at any time become involved in controversy."

With twinkling eyes and tongue in cheek, Churchill referred to the row he kicked up last week by disclosing that as the

Western Unity Urged as Best Basis For "Understanding With Russia"

LONDON (CP)—The Queen opened a new session of Parliament today with traditional pomp and ceremony, reading a speech from the throne that called for Western unity as the best basis for seeking "an understanding with the Soviet Union."

Skins that had been overcast through the morning brightened as the young monarch rode in her golden state coach through central London to the Houses of Parliament. A 41-gun salute boomed over the cheers of the crowds who lined the procession.

"You have always been a figure of controversy. You are one who kindly gives and takes hard knocks . . .

"Yet, it was found in 1940, in the hour of peril, that members of all parties were glad to serve under you and recognized you as the daring pilot in extremity through the storm that had struck Britain . . . You offered us only blood, sweat and tears and we gladly took your offer."

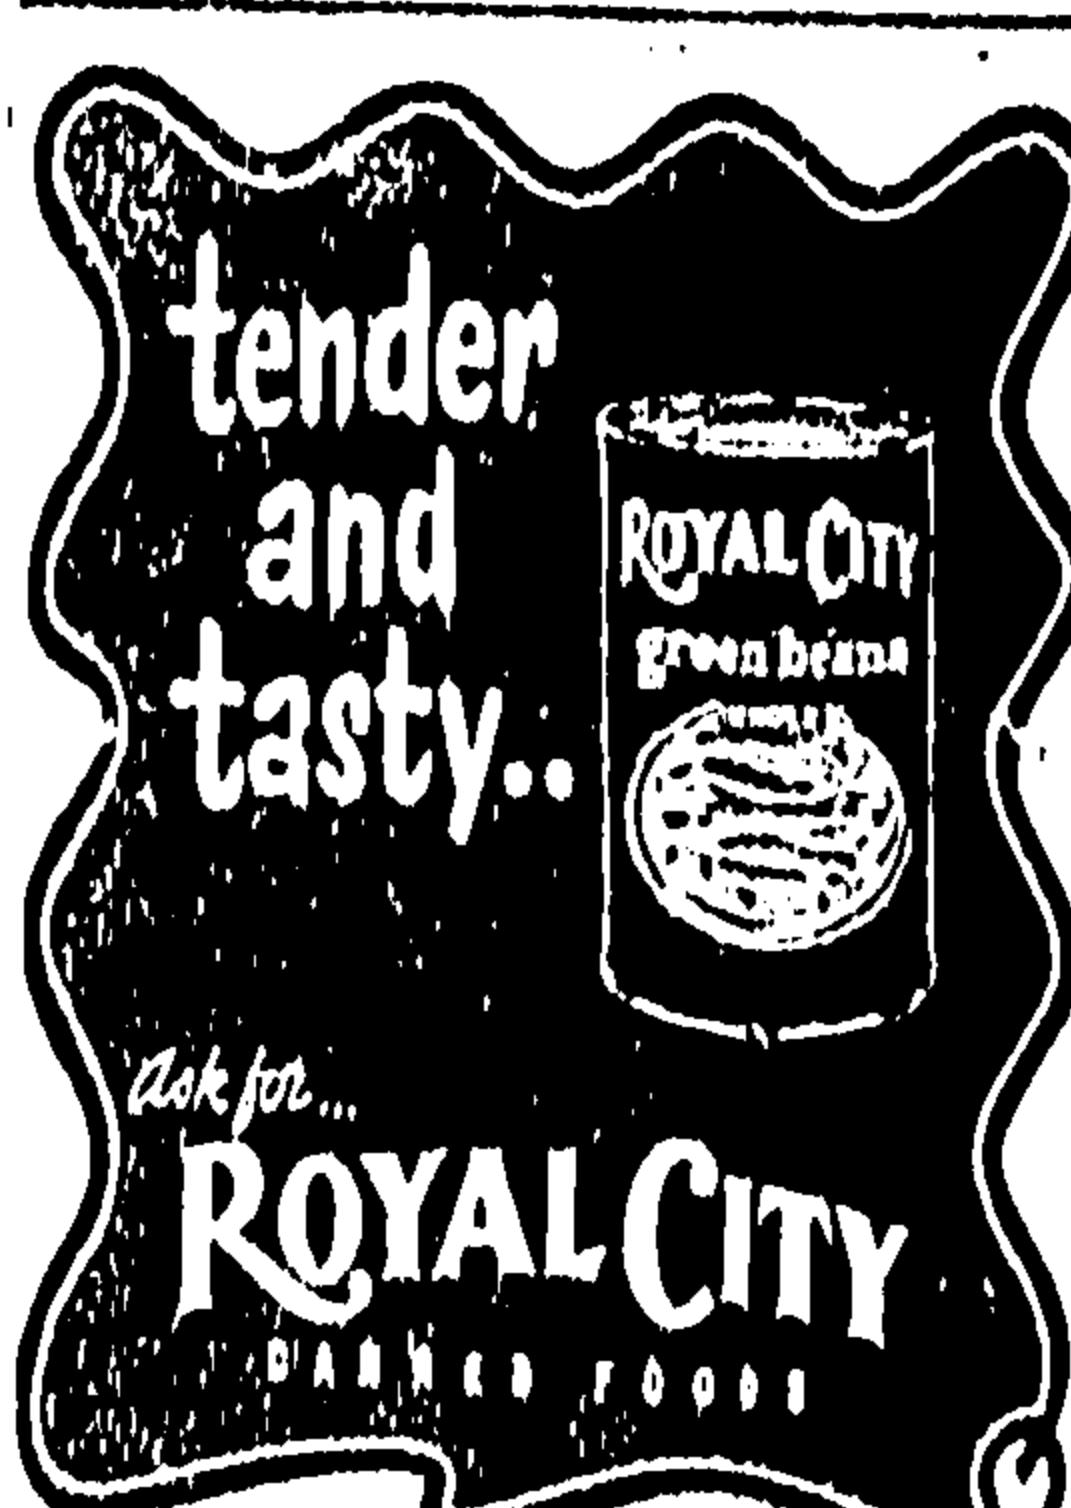

Lady Churchill beamed proudly as her husband gave his thanks, and when Sir Winston sat down she leaned across and gave him an affectionate pat on the hand.

Churchill made only one reference to his age—closing his remarks with:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am now nearing the end of my journey. I hope I still have some services to render. However that may be and whatever may befall, I am sure I shall never forget the emotion of this day—this wonderful honor done me."

Welding Firm, School Pair's Latest Venture

Two enterprising businessmen who have adopted Prince Rupert as their home and who gave the city its first dual-control driving school last summer, have now branched out into another enterprise—commercial welding.

With their new company, Certified Welders, the aggressive team of Walter Aranson and George Matousek stand ready to meet the challenge of the expanding north country, which they feel, will need qualified welders in an ever-increasing number.

To this end, Certified Welders opened a school just more than a month ago for tyro welders and those who need to brush up on their welding technique.

Afternoons and evenings for two-hour sessions the uninitiated are instructed in correct welding methods and proper burning procedure.

At present, five pupils are registered with the welding school and are past the half-way mark of the 50-hour course, which will see them able to venture forth on construction jobs.

However, Mr. Matousek points out, though the pupil has finished his course and can work as a welder, he is not qualified for his ticket for two years. This he obtains by taking a test, supervised by the Boiler and Machinery Inspection Department in Vancouver . . . a necessary requirement.

George Matousek is no newcomer to the field of welding, having followed the trade for 10 years. He left his business in Campbell River, Vancouver, and in order to come to this city this spring to start the Prince Rupert driving school.

Just prior to leaving the Island, operating from Campbell River, Certified Welders, as the company was even then known, had just completed a highly successful contract for the Dominion Government at the recently re-named RCAF base at Comox.

The job had entailed welding two miles of eight-inch pipe for the Air Force. It was accomplished by welding the 40 foot lengths into 600 foot sections and rolling them into place with a bulldozer. Success of the job was proven when not a leak showed in the entire two miles of pipe.

Equipment used at the recently opened headquarters of Certified Welders is the most modern. Mr. Matousek said that the company is equipped with the latest machines for cutting and electric and acetylene welding.

With a vast new industrial development planned for the north, B.C. region, the team of Aranson and Matousek plan to keep in step with progress through the dual purpose of Certified Welders . . . top quality commercial welding and an ever-ready supply of welders.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Muzzy Felt Optimistic, Then a Bit Confused

On the hand preceding this one Mr. Muzzy had played three no trump in a very similar situation. The dummy had held a diamond suit just like today's—with no side entry—and Mrs. Keen had refused to play her ace of diamonds until the third lead of the suit. This effectively shut out the dummy and resulted in the defeat of the contract.

In today's deal Mr. Muzzy felt a glow of satisfaction and optimism. He saw he had seven tricks outside of diamonds and that if the enemy let him win the first two rounds of diamonds his contract would be made.

WINS OPENING LEAD

Accordingly he won the opening lead of the queen of spades with the ace and laid down the 10 of diamonds. Mrs. Keen held off, as expected. Another diamond was led and this time, to Mr. Muzzy's consternation, Mrs. Keen promptly won with the ace. After that there was no chance for nine tricks.

"I've been stabbed," Mr. Muzzy cried. "What bad luck that you had only two diamonds. Otherwise you would have laid off a second time, like you did on the last hand."

"But I held three diamonds," said Mrs. Keen, as she showed Mr. Muzzy her third card in that suit.

EXPLANATION USELESS

It was useless to explain to Mr. Muzzy that the decision to win, specifically, the second diamond trick was not a blind stab in the dark but a scientific play based on Mr. Masters' handling of his diamonds.

On the first diamond lead Mr. Masters had played the deuce. On the second lead he had played the six. This sequence of playing low and then high indicated that he had an uneven number of diamonds.

Since he couldn't have started with one or five, he must have started with exactly three and therefore Mr. Muzzy had two. So Mrs. Keen knew it was not only unnecessary to hold up her ace of diamonds twice to cut communications with dummy; it was also highly dangerous, as Mr. Muzzy probably needed just two diamond tricks for his game.

LES SMITH—Prince Rupert Agent

509 3rd Ave. Ph. 5333 & 5334

Serving B.C. Since 1889. (Alcan)

EVEN BEFORE the turn of the century, polar and other explorers found that boxes of light, non-rusting aluminum gave their precious first-aid equipment more protection from rough usage and rough weather.

Manufacturers took the tip. Today, especially in factories where industrial processes create humid or corrosive conditions, aluminum boxes are used to keep first-aid kits in good shape.

In fact, aluminum is now popular for boxes to hold everything from tools to trout flies. And for countless other containers that must stay clean, bright, free from rust. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).
