This's Future Outlined Trade Board Group

out that the province's 55th parallel is as far north as Sweden, and sea.

Natural gas, oil, mining, timber and agriculture also held out prospects of a bright future for this part of the country, Mr. Mitchell continued. Referring to the mineral zone running from Stewart to Atlin, he said that although only five per cent of this has been prospected, rich discoveries already have been made.

Mr. Mitchell emphasized that responsibility for development of the country rested squarely with British Columbians.

"We must get along with the job of attracting people there. We must talk it up and see that roads and rail lines are provided. It can happen here, and the evidence of that is Kitimat."

Guests at the luncheon were welcomed by A. S. Nickerson, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, with Mayor George Hills extending greetings of the city. Orme Stuart introduced the speaker, who was thanked by J. T. Harvey. Entertainment was provided by Jim Cummings, Mel Thompson and Pat Bolton. An inscribed minute book was presented to the local Chamber on behalf of the Vancouver group by George C. Bradley, chairman of the tour committee.

In the morning the visitors had a look at the fish plants and the Columbia Cellulose mill, and yesterday toured the Alcan project at Kermode and Kitimat. After the luncheon they departed on their chartered ship, Prince George, for points on Vancouver Island before returning to Vancouver.

Northern Unity Needed

PERTINENT observations on the need for concerted action between Canada and Alaska if the northland is to reach its fullest development were made by Governor Frank Heintzleman of Alaska at the recent Pacific Northwest Trade Association meeting in Vancouver. He said:

"Northern British Columbia, the Yukon Territory and Alaska comprise an area which very properly we call the northern frontier of the Pacific northwest. It is enormous in size and largely wilderness but potentially rich in natural resources. It constitutes one logical development unit notwithstanding the international boundary line which bisects it. As such, its development problems can only be solved to produce the greatest good to the greatest number of people in the long run by well coordinated efforts of the federal and subordinate governments on both sides of the line. These efforts deserve the support of all interested groups such as this association."

"The kind and extent of the contributions from each country to the common development effort should be based, of course, on the estimated share of the benefits to accrue to each, and in my opinion, this can best be worked out by a joint agency set up for that exclusive purpose by the federal and subordinate governments of our two countries."

"I cannot see how we can obtain a full and well rounded development of our northland as a whole by any other type of action. Any one familiar with the region can point out many situations where failure of the two countries to act in concert can completely block, or at least stunt or greatly delay economic development. I know that our activities in Alaska have suffered severely from this cause in connection with transportation facilities, highways, access roads and water power projects."

Governor Heintzleman has spoken wisely. No one will suggest that either side make unreasonable concessions to maintain harmony but the true worth of the north will never be realized if Canada and Alaska act as if the affairs of one were none of the other's business.

Bill Too High?

THIRTY-three pilots have been killed in RCAF jet training aircraft in Canada in the last two years, it was disclosed in Parliament last week. That represents a tragic toll in human life and a staggering financial loss as well, when costs of planes, equipment and training are considered.

Whether the bill is excessive, however, only competent authorities can judge. It is inevitable in this grim business that there will be losses. We can't expect men to fly enormously fast and complicated machines, without accidents both in training and in the normal routine of keeping trained. But we can expect and should insist that neither carelessness nor callousness be permitted in any part of this vital defense program. There is grave enough risk in this sort of thing with the best of supervision and equipment without taking the slightest of unnecessary chances.

UNION GO-BETWEEN GROUP SHAPING PEACE FEELERS

LONDON, ENGLAND — A trade union go-between committee shaped new peace feelers today in Britain's railroad strike, now in its fifth day.

Prime Minister Eden also called in his cabinet to weigh possible government moves in the rail walkout and a second de-locked strike involving 20,000 dock workers in seven seaports.

The government also faces further possible trouble from a Scottish coal miners' demand for more pay.

It was the first cabinet meeting since the Conservative government was returned to power in last week's election.

For the time being, however, Eden appears relying on the peace-making effort by the powerful Trades Union Congress, British labor's central body. Although a state of emergency was declared Tuesday night, government efforts have been directed toward maintaining public utilities and essential services.

The TUC, which opposes both the rail and dock strikes, has given the iron-man general purposes committee a free hand to negotiate a settlement of the walk-out by the 97,000 members of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

• Bravo Saskatchewan

SASKATCHEWAN is this year celebrating the 50th anniversary of becoming a province.

Part of the celebration is publication of an excellent illustration of an excellent illustration of an excellent history. It is Saskatchewan, by Jim Wright, published by McClelland and Stewart, for the Saskatchewan Jubilee Committee.

This is a fine book which many, other than the people who have lived in Saskatchewan, will want to keep for themselves or send to friends.

It is amply and aptly illustrated. It tells the story of Saskatchewan as well as anybody could tell it in 222 pages. Also in spite of the fact that it is an official publication, it is not "official" either in content or style.

THE Jubilee committee could not have selected a better writer than Jim Wright to do this book. Jim is himself a sort of one-man embodiment of the spirit of Saskatchewan. In some things he is as moody and changeable as the Saskatchewan weather. No political party could ever be very sure if had Jim Wright "in the bag." He might change his mind, on some things, overnight. Incidentally he does his hardest work at night. But in general, Jim Wright flows on a lot like the Saskatchewan river—sometimes wild and flooding over—but over the years with a steady purpose and sure direction.

This book is not a masterpiece, like Jim Wright's "Slava Bohu," which told the story of the Doukhobors. But it is a good, short popular history of Jim Wright's beloved Saskatchewan.

The crux of the book is its emphasis on time. Wright persists in keeping everything in proper perspective. Jim treats the whole history of Saskatchewan as it had all happened in one year. From January till April 1 the earth's warm crust was surrounded by a dense blanket of fog or mist. Then on through the geological eras. By mid December 70 million years ago giant dinosaurs were walking erect. Only on the very last day of our imaginary "year" did man emerge. At that time the ice over the earth, where Yorkton now stands, was half a mile thick.

WRIGHT is at his liveliest in this history in dealing with Riel. That remarkable rebel was not only a misunderstood reformer as far as eastern Canada was concerned. Riel even advocated a North American Pope, to head the Catholic church on this side of the ocean.

Wright leaves the reader to draw his own conclusions on the justice of the fate of Riel, but remarks, correctly, that it inflicted a deadly wound on the Conservative party in Canada, by destroying its Quebec base, which was till then one of its two main supports.

AS THIS book had to be a non-partisan job, acceptable to all parties on the Jubilee committee, the historical of the past twenty years is not told in detail with some delicacy.

The history for this period is the truth and nothing but the truth. But it is far from being the whole truth.

It makes no adequate mention of the really revolutionary potential which existed in 1933, when the first national CCF convention was held in Regina. The

Three Ministers Named For Cathedral Services

Two Canadian and one United States minister will conduct services at St. Andrew's Cathedral here from June 12 to 26 while Canon Basil S. Proctor is away, fulfilling duties as temporary chaplain at the Canadian Services College at HMCS Royal Roads in Victoria.

Rev. John Kenneth Watkins, Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Ketchikan, will be the first visiting minister, taking the service at the Cathedral June 12. Mr. Watkins has been in Ketchikan about 10 years and under his guidance last year, St. John's became a self-supporting parish. He was born in Pennsylvania and prior to going to Ketchikan, he was on the cathedral staff at Albany, New York. In July, Mr. Watkins will spend three months furlough in the U.S. He is married and has three sons.

Well-known along the B.C. coast from his three years as missionary skipper of the Northern Cross, Rev. Charles Linker Lomas, now of Port Alice, will visit St. Andrews June 10.

Mr. Lomas came to B.C. in 1948 from five year's duty as chaplain to a West African regiment in the Mediterranean. He served aboard the Northern Cross for three years. This will be Mr. Lomas' first visit to Prince Rupert since leaving for Vancouver Island, almost four years ago.

Canon Charles Bown, of La Tuque, Quebec will take the service June 26. He and Mrs. Bown, who are the parents of David Bown, chemist at Columbia Cellulose Company at Watson Island, will arrive here June 24.

Canon and Mrs. Bown will be here for the wedding of their son to Miss Nancy Honkins July 2. Canon Bown has spent his entire ministry in Quebec Diocese and has been at La Tuque for 14 years.

Canon Proctor will be at Royal Roads from June 9 to 30 and is expected to return here July 1.

Mrs. J. S. Black of Prince Rupert was re-elected president of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary yesterday, the last day of the three-day annual convention held at Prince George.

Mrs. W. R. Montgomery, second vice-president of the Prince Rupert Branch No. 27, received this information by telegram from Mrs. Fred Barber, president of the Prince Rupert auxiliary who is also attending the convention.

Mrs. J. Black

Mrs. W. J. Richards of Riverside Cabin, Terrace, is visiting here for a few days as the guest of Mrs. Betty Ellison, 206 Eighth Avenue East.

Mr. C. M. G. Farrell, superintendent of the B.C. district of the Canadian Pacific Airlines left the city this morning by plane for head office in Vancouver after making a routine visit here.

Other officers elected were:

Mrs. Kenneth Hardy, junior regent; Mrs. William Bussey, chaplain; Mrs. Cherrill McIntyre, recorder and Mrs. Stan Holgate, treasurer.

Five other members of the executive will be appointed at the installation of officers special meeting, June 22.

Other business saw 12 new members initiated into the chapter and the meeting also voted to support any move calling for fluoridation of water in Prince Rupert.

Mrs. James S. Hopping, a guest from the Powell River chapter won the monthly door prize.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smith and two sons, 225 Seventh Avenue East, left the city yesterday morning by train for Kitimat where Mrs. Smith and children will visit for the next two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Montador, formerly of this city.

Mrs. Don Forward and daughter Marlene formerly of this city left yesterday by train for their home in Kitimat after visiting here for the past few days with friends.

Londoners Help Each Other Get to Work

DON Q—Despite the rail strike seemed to cancel out another. Hull waterfront strikers planned to go to London by special train to help London dockers picket the Thames. But there were no trains, so the London dockers got no help from Hull. Several hundred army trucks speed about delivering mail, and "Bound for Newcastle, whoopee." the young drivers are having a lot of fun. The post office provided official signs to identify their trucks, official placards saying "Royal Mail." The highly-spirited soldiers add signs of their own. One today said "Post early for Christmas." Another, by the afternoon traffic rush.

Robin Roberts Keeps Phillies Out of National Loop Cellar

By The Associated Press

Without Robin Roberts Philadelphia Phillies could give Pittsburgh Pirates a good run for the National League cellar.

But so long as Robin persists in winning 20 or more games a season Phillies will stay out of the basement. Roberts has won 20 or better for the last five years and 1955 will be no exception if he continues at his present pace.

Phillies have won just 19 games as they ride along in seventh place and Roberts has won eight of them, including a neat six-hit 3-1 decision over Chicago Cubs Wednesday night.

For a time it appeared Roberts might not make the charmed circle. He sputtered to a 3-3 mark May 7, hardly the pace for a 20-game winner. But in less than a month he has won five and shows a fine 2.30 earned-run average.

In fact Phils themselves seem to be snapping out of the doldrums. They've won nine of their last 11 games and, although just above Pirates in the standings, they are only four games behind third-place New York Giants.

After Phils scored two runs in the fourth, it was merely a matter of Roberts protecting the lead, which he did with no particular trouble. Ernie Banks hit a home run for Cubs in the fifth for their only run.

Elsewhere in the National League Brooklyn Dodgers licked Milwaukee Braves 11-8. Redlegs whipped New York Giants 5-2, and Cardinals slapped Pirates 6-2.

In the American League Cleveland Indians shut out Baltimore Orioles 5-0. New York Yankees won a double-header from Kansas City 3-1 and 6-1. Chicago White Sox edged Boston Red Sox 4-3, and Detroit Tigers blanked Washington Senators 9-0.

CLOTHIERS SEEK 2ND WIN IN SENIOR GAME TONIGHT

Esquire Men's Wear will be looking for their second win of the current senior baseball season tonight when they meet Gordon and Anderson at Roosevelt Park in a scheduled seven-inning fixture at 7 p.m., weather permitting.

Probable starter for Esquires (1-4) will be right-hander Bill Donaldson, whose only appearance on the mound this year to date tallied out a win. Ago, Ian Dunbar, (2-2) will be looking to put G & A on an even win-loss basis. G & A, currently playing .406 ball with two wins, are in second place in the standings, 1½ games behind Commettel and Terrace, who are tied for the league lead.

Canadian Boxing Official Attacks British Disqualification Ruling

Saint John, N.B. — The president of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation attacked the stiff British foul-disqualification rule Wednesday night and called for modification along the lines of the Canadian and United States foul-point system.

G. K. Garnett of Saint John said in an interview the British rule often is unfair to a fighter who accidentally hits a low blow during a heated exchange of punches. He cited the Yvon Durelle-Ron Barton May 24 light-heavyweight battle in London as an example of the "unjust nature" of the British maxim.

Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., was disqualified in the third round for an alleged low punch.

Mr. Garnett said, "Many of the British writers were of the opinion that if the fight had not been stopped, Barton would have been in for a bad night. Therefore Durelle did not have a fair chance."

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

If Enemy Can Ruff Let it be Low Cards

Mr. Muzzy yelled with disappointment when the dummy went down in this hand. "We've missed a grand slam, partner," he announced sadly. Mr. Muzzy seemed unimpressed by this statement. "Just make six," he said anxiously.

Miss Brush led the king of clubs, hoping her partner would be void in the suit and could ruff. Mr. Muzzy won with the ace and gave the hand a little study. There appeared to be nothing to it except to ruff three hearts in dummy. He laid down the ace of hearts and followed with the king.

Miss Brush ruffed this last trick and returned a trump. At this stage Mr. Muzzy had three losing hearts left in his hand and only two trumps on the board. There was no getting away from it. He had to lose another heart for down one.

"Nice grand slam, Muzzy," commented Mr. Champion, grinning happily.

Mr. Muzzy glared. "What lousy luck," he muttered. "Six hearts out and five of them in one hand."

"Of course, after you got the club opening," Mr. Champion pointed out, "you could have made your bid easily."

"He's right, Muzzy," said Mr. Masters. "What you had to do was to safety-play the hearts."

After cashing the ace of hearts, Mr. Muzzy should have led a small heart—not the king. I would make no difference which opponent won the second heart lead.

Whoever it was could make no damaging return. A trump would be the best defense, but there would still be two trumps on the board and only two losing hearts in the closed hand.

EXTRACT TRUMPS FIRST

The point is that the king of hearts must not be played until the very end of the hand, after trumps have been extracted.

Note particularly that in order to be sure of taking twelve tricks

Mr. Muzzy had to give up all chance of winning thirteen.

There's a lesson in that somewhere.

This type of safety-play pops up in all sorts of guises. The main principle is this: If the enemy cannot be prevented from ruffing try to arrange your play so that they will ruff your deuces and treys—not your aces and kings.

Mr. Muzzy had to give up all chance of winning thirteen.

There's a lesson in that somewhere.

EXTRACT TRUMPS FIRST

The point is that the king of hearts must not be played until the very end of the hand, after trumps have been extracted.
