C. R. Jones To Leave For New Post, G. Lewis To Be New Mill Manager

C. R. (Ray) Jones, mill and the Bathurst Pulp and Paper of the Watson Island paper Company.

In commenting on the appointments Mr. Brown said:

"We are all extremely sorry that Mr. Jones is leaving our company, but we are pleased that he has been chosen for the responsible position that he will undertake with Powell River."

"We are fortunate," he added, "that we have in our organization Mr. Lewis and Mr. Evans to take over the additional responsibilities necessitated by Mr. Jones' leaving."

* * * Ray Jones, who brought 20 years' experience in the pulp and paper industry when he became mill manager at Watson Island in 1951, was born in India in 1900. Educated in England, he came to Canada in 1929 and gained his early experience in the Galtipen mills of the International Paper Company in Quebec.

Later with the Wayganack division of the Consolidated Paper Corporation, he was assistant to the pulp mill superintendent. In 1937 he went to Australia to assist in the design and launching of the first Australian chemical pulp wood mill at May Maryvale, Clippisland, Victoria.

In 1942 to 1946 he was in airborne infantry of United States Army rising to the rank of Major. He returned to Ray after the war.

Mr. Evans has been production superintendent at Watson Island since the start-up of the mill immediately prior to 1940. He was assistant manager of the Beaumont division at the Fernan Division of the Container Corporation of America.

From 1942 to 1946 he was in airborne infantry of United States Army rising to the rank of Major. He returned to Ray after the war.

In 1946 Mr. Jones returned to Canada to join the Howard Smith paper mills organization and from 1946 to 1947 was assistant manager of the Beaumont division.

Since coming to Prince Rupert he has been on the executive council of the chamber of commerce and was nominated again this year. As member of the board of directors for the Museum of Northern British Columbia he was responsible for the shoring up of the ancient building. As a member of the city's special drydock committee he took part in negotiations to keep the drydock here and is a participant with the development which led to the process at Watson Island.

Mr. Evans was in the bridge company, RCE, and rose to the rank of captain. He was located by the Netherlands government. He has held positions at Sturgeon Falls, Donora, Price Bros., J. R. Booth, and the Prince Little League.

Washing Machine Accident
Sees Little Girl Injured

A three-year-old girl is suffering from severe injuries at the Royal General Hospital after her right arm was dragged into the rollers of a washing machine at her home.

The child, Penelope King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. King, 1431 Sixth Avenue East, had her arm go through the rollers up to the elbow before an electrical fuse blew, stopping the machine.

The worried mother reported today that the child fainted after trying to use the bathroom where the rapidly washing was being done. Mrs. King turned off the machine and went to tend her younger child.

However, the three-year-old girl climbed up on the machine and reached over with her left hand to turn the machine on. Her right hand was caught and dragged between the rollers. Penelope's screams brought her mother running but due to the pressure on the rollers, Mrs. King was unable to work the safety release. Her husband, who was in the back garden at the time, rushed to and freed Penelope's hand.

An autopsy order by coroner H. W. Lewis showed death to be a heart attack. He had died two or three days ago.

He boat, the "Many," is registered with the Prince Rupert fishermen's Co-operative Association here and it was reported that he has been fishing on the Pacific coast for the past 20 years.

Rail Talks Start Again In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Representatives of 18 rail unions are scheduled to meet here today to discuss situations arising from government intervention in strikes and a contemplated strike action.

Both the unions and the companies agreed to compulsory arbitration last November after Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government would not permit a strike.

The unions had been seeking fringe benefits without success since November, 1952. Parliament was called to end a strike in 1950.

Frank Hall, general conference chairman of 18 non-operating and three operating rail unions, announced last November the meeting would be called today to formulate a policy on the matter "before another dispute."

In the compulsory arbitration proceedings under Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan of British Columbia, non-operating railway employees were awarded a $7,000,000 segment of their fringe benefit demands.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Popo Popo, whose delayed Christmas message to the world was rebuked Monday, was reported today to be somewhat fatigued by overwork.

A source close to the 70-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said, however, that the gradual improvement in the pontiff's condition continues.

Pair Kill Each Other In Gun Duel Opponents Fire At Same Time

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A Western-style gun duel New Year's Eve took the lives of the two participants.

Police said Harvey Evans, 55, and John Crammer, 61, stood steps apart in front of billiards parlor in Fairbanks' southside, drew pistols and opened fire.

Evans died early New Year's Day, some 10 hours after he was struck by four bullets. Crammer, who was shot three times, died Sunday night.

Witnesses told police the two met inside the billiards parlor New Year's Eve and started arguing. They left the building together and just outside the door opened fire at each other from a distance of about eight feet, both men apparently firing at the same instant.

For one thing, the refunding debt will end this May, and there has also been a complete reassessment of city property," the mayor said.

Mayor Hills stressed, however, that the money made available by the end of the refunding may not possibly be as much as had been generally understood, as the city had been paying less and less into the debt for the last two years.

All Troubles Over Within Two Months

Installation of telephones where application has been made and a complete re-wiring of Sections 5 and 6 in the city should see a virtual end to service interruption on the Prince Rupert Telephone system, according to a report by Eric Janes, Telephone Superintendent, which was made known to council members last night.

Installation of phones should be completed, barring interruptions within six weeks, Mr. Janes' report said and the re-wiring of Sections 5 and 6, where most of the trouble has occurred, should take a further five weeks.

Mr. Janes' report said that on New Year's Eve some 75 phones were out of service, although before the crew left that night all had been restored to service. Some of the phones had been out of commission due to faulty cable while others were out because of bad wiring, faulty dials, broken cords, cross ringing or being cut off at the office.

However, a lot of subscribers' trouble arose from other subscribers leaving their phones off the hook during the holiday season. As ending on the number of persons on the party line, such an action can put four subscribers' phones out of service. Not until the receiver is hung up or the lineman cuts the subscriber off at the house is service restored to the offenders' line.

If a receiver is left off the hook from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. the person calling that number of any number or that line receives a busy signal.

Some 160 phones involved in the trouble of those for which applications were received and still unanswered 147 phones remain to be installed. However, the three-man installation crew has found in a large percentage of cases that a complete re-wiring job inside the house and to the pole has to be done.

Mr. Janes' report pointed out that re-wiring of Sections 5 and 6 along with proper cable maintenance should alleviate a lot of the trouble.

Consideration had been given to a plan of hiring extra men to speed the work, the report continued, but after taking into account the expense involved in transporting the men from Vancouver and their room and board while staying in the city, plus wages it was found this would not be economical.

Mr. Janes' report said that

Panamanian Officials Hunt For Professional Killers

Clara Dorothy Morrison, of Port Simpson, was fined $100 or in default to serve three months in jail when she pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of theft under $50.

Police said the young girl was picked up in Woolworth's yesterday after she was seen shoplifting by Walter O. Johnston, store manager. The accused was found to have 12 pairs of earrings in her possession when she was taken in custody.

On of his political enemies.

The "guns for hire" charge was made by government Minister Catalino Arrocha Ordoñez in a funeral oration Monday over the body of the slain president, who was mowed down by a machine gun fire at a race track Sunday night.

"Mercenary hands armed by his political enemies" fired the bullet, Arrocha declared. There is widespread speculation that the killers may have been imported.

There is no clue to the identity of the assassins. The National Assembly has declared a 10-day state of alarm — a modified form of martial law temporarily suspending some constitutional guarantees — to aid secret police in their hunt.

At least a score of persons, including ex-president Arnulfo Arias and two women, have been rounded up for questioning.

National guard Headquarters and Remont's sprawling import-export plant, the latter a major manufacturer of German machinery, have been searched. Investigators said the shots were fired about 400 feet from the brilliantly lighted civilian at the 40-year-old president was standing with friends.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three men bound a night watchman and escaped with about $200 from the Capitol Theatre here Monday.

Diplomatic Shortage in Orient

LAIR FRASER, a well-known Canadian writer, has raised a question which is important enough to rate some kind of official answer—Can't we afford diplomats in the Orient?

Mr. Fraser, who noticed this gap in Canadian representation while on a trip to the Far East, observes that in all south and southeast Asia we have no more diplomatic missions, and even fewer diplomatic personnel, than we have in the Scandinavian countries alone. He points out that there are many more Canadian missions and officers, about 50 per cent more, in Central and South America than in the whole Orient from Turkey to Japan.

With Asiatic affairs holding so many of the answers to the world's future, it is indeed strange that Canada is not more anxious to establish its own sources of information out there. Apparently the arrangement at present is for the external affairs department to get its political reports from the British and the Americans in those Far East countries where it has no representative. While both of these are remarkably willing to help, this means of channelling advice is surely anything but satisfactory. Nowhere else in the world do Britons and Americans disagree more widely and more often than in the Far East and, no matter how in earnest they are to help or how friendly their personal relations, their versions of what is going on there are certain to be frequently at variance. This presumably puts Ottawa in the position of having to toss a coin to decide which is right.

For a country of its size, Canada already has a very extensive diplomatic and consular corps, so the answer does not appear to lie in taking on a bigger load financially. Possibly, however, there are some posts in less active parts of the world which could be merged or closed without hurting our overseas service to any great extent. If this were done, the way would then be open to increasing representation in the Orient which beyond all doubt has some priority as a trouble spot in the world today.

As I See It

BY

Elmore Philpot

France Sees The Point

THE ratification by the French Assembly of the treaties to admit West Germany into NATO is a victory for French logic over French sentimentality.

As the hard-headed French premier pointed out, the choice for France was not whether or not she should permit Germany to re-armament, but rather whether or not German re-armament should be limited and integrated into the general defence of the west, or uncontrolled and unlimited by anybody.

THE final struggle was between the heart of France and the head of France. The heart of France said, never again trust the gun with a gun, or else that gun will sooner or later be used against France again, as in the past. But the head of France said that no matter what France did, the Germans were going to get back those guns anyway. If they did not get them on the plan which gives France, and other allies, supervision and control over those German armaments, then Germany will get those guns without any controls at all.

* * *

INCIDENTALLY it was Stalin himself who—even while the Hitler war was still on—pointed to the folly of thinking that a mighty nation like Germany could permanently be kept disarmed by her conquerors!

In those days Stalin and his colleagues even formed the Free German Corps under command of Field Marshall Von Paulus, as the nucleus of the proposed pro-Russian German army.

The real present Russian grievance is not that Germany is to have an army of 12 divisions, but that those 12 divisions are to be lined up with the west for common self-defence of the West.

The extent to which Canadian railways have fallen into a slump is becoming clearer now as the Federal government's statistics bureau compiles year-end figures for 1954. The latest report to be made public deals with the second week of December and it will not be long before the final compilation for the year is published.

There was, according to the Bureau of Statistics, a drop of nearly eight per cent in the number of cars loaded in Canada between January 1 and December 14. But the decline in the number of cars handled from connecting U.S. lines was 12.7 per cent.

The classes of goods which showed reflections in traffic was wide. Grain, of course, showed the biggest decline. In the week of December 14 alone, the number of cars of grain carried was down from 10,200 last year to only 8,880 this year. Other declines were noted in coal and merchandise in less than coal and pulpwood and lumber.

These three groups of commodities are the mainstays of railway freight traffic.

There were some increases during the week of December 14 in non-ferrous ores and concentrates, fuel oil, logs, posts, poles and piling, lumber, timber and pulpwood and lumber.

Mr. Donald Gordon, the president of the Canadian National Railways, gave prominence to these matters in his year-end review of the CNR's business for 1954. Despite all that the state-owned railway could do to attract more business, there was a sharp falling off of traffic and of earnings. And of course, the CNR was not alone in this experience.

Over the year, Mr. Gordon reported, there was a marked reduction of tonnages of iron and steel, scrap iron, automobiles and parts, coal and coke, lumber, farm implements, machinery and a wide range of merchandise items.

What strikes the really serious note in all this is that 1954 was generally a fairly prosperous year for nearly all industries—with the exception, in fact, of two. Yet the slump in farm implements and textiles was only a part of the general decline in railway traffic.

Mr. Gordon's comment on the year-end prospect for the future is blunt: "Our business future is a straightforward question of costs versus revenues."

During the year just closed, Canada and the Royal Bank matched strides on a path of solid progress. In many significant areas of the bank's operations, new high records were reached, thus reflecting the vitality and growth of Canada itself.

Marking an historic milestone in Canadian banking, and a surprise to the $3 billion mark while deposits of over $2,797,000,000 and loans of $1,188,022,047 were also new records.

To keep pace with the demand for banking service, new branches were built while many others were renovated and modernized. Today, The Royal Bank of Canada operates some 813 branches — 71 of them beyond Canada's borders — each geared to offer facilities in step with the needs of all Canadians in this era of exciting national progress.

Mother of 1955 Infant Underestimated Chances

certain was she that she not in the running for the baby of the New Year conference. Mrs. William McIntyre, 337 Eighth Avenue East, attended a dinner on New Year's night, at home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry, 1302 Eighth Avenue East, though she had been assured the baby wasn't expected until January 4 or 5, at about 8:30 that evening. Mrs. McIntyre decided it was time to go to the hospital.

The city's honored baby was born at 2:05 a.m. January 2 and Mrs. McIntyre was completely surprised when she learned she'd had Prince Rupert's first New Year baby, a son, weighing 9 pounds, 1 ounce.

When the gifts, donated by city merchants, were delivered yesterday afternoon to Mrs. McIntyre, by G. P. Woodside, Daily News promotion manager, it was a doubly happy occasion for the new parents. Mrs. McIntyre was also celebrating her 24th birthday.

Sitting beside his wife's hospital bed, the new father told the Daily News he was pretty excited about the whole thing, but Mrs. McIntyre, although a little stunned by the turn of events, looked refreshed and happy.

Work on Ship Education Says Stewardess

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Miss Evelyn Tonnesen, who went to sea from her Arendal, Norway, home two years ago has visited almost every port in the world.

When she signed on as stewardess of the Norwegian passenger-freighter Ormocia she planned to make one short voyage, but enjoyed the experience so much she remained on the job. The blonde, blue-eyed stewardess said in an interview here:

"It's an education. It's good for a young person to get away from home and see other countries."

"We can do this work so much better than men, and we meet such interesting people all the time."

Capt. Jacob Wold, skipper of the Ormocia, is a bit doubtful, however, about women working on the ship.

"I had a woman wireless operator on one of my ships—hopeless," he recalled.

Religious Enthusiasm Said Growing

A plea for the Christian community to be alert to all signs of spiritual awakening, was made last night at the opening session of the Week of Prayer.

Using "Growing Religious Enthusiasm" as his theme, Rev. H. S. Clugston, guest speaker for the interdenominational services being held this week at the First Presbyterian Church, said that a new consciousness to Christian responsibilities had sprung up throughout the world.

Mr. Clugston, invited here from Dunbar United Church, Vancouver, by the Prince Rupert Ministerial Association, told the large crowd that not only was spiritual awareness being revived on this continent but in non-Christian lands, where he said, "there is a wonderful witness of the growing Christian communities."

Rev. Dr. E. A. Wright, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, was in charge of last night's prayer meeting. Mr. Clugston was introduced by Canon Baillie S. Proctor, rector of St. Andrew's cathedral.

TORONTO (CP)—A publicity campaign aimed at recruiting teachers is being conducted across Canada.

The campaign is outlined in the current issue of Canadian Education, official publication of the Canadian Education Association.

Reports from across the country show that departments of education and parent and teacher organizations are using virtually all mediums of communication to attract more male and female teachers.

Here are some of the methods used:

The department of education in British Columbia has established future teachers' clubs in all high schools.

Alberta's department of education sponsors Career Nights when department representatives speak to graduates and parents.

In Saskatchewan, booklets designed to sell the teaching profession as a career to high school graduates are circulated.

Other methods include radio programs and talks.

Dancer Insures Assets For Million With Lloyds

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—General Motors has more money in the bank, but no Wall street corporation can ever hope to match the capital structure of Tempest Storm, Inc.

Certainly no other corporation has such well-rounded assets.

Tempest Storm is a strip-tease dancer with the kind of figure that must give Dior frantic frustration. She has a 41-inch bust.

Draping a $7,500 mink coat on one arm and a press agent on the other, Miss Storm breezed into the austere Boston room of the Statler Hotel last week to sign up for $1,000,000 worth of body insurance with Lloyds, of London.

Her press agent even produced a copy of the policy, but none of the 50 male reporters bothered to look at it.

Miss Storm explained that she decided to take out the policy after breaking her ankle in a fall on stage some months ago at Minsky's in Newark, N.J.

HORATIO ALGER STORY

The Tempest Storm story is the kind of success tale that Horatio Alger would have loved.

Boomer Crowded By Hab Teammates Vying For NHL Scoring Leadership

MONTREAL 9—Bernie (Boom) Geoffrion, who has set the National Hockey League scoring pace since the second week of the season, finds himself today in danger of being knocked off the top perch. His Montreal Canadiens teammates are crowding him.

For more than a month the Boomer has been sailing along with a working margin of five or six points. Now it is cut to two.

The new official NHL statistics shows Geoffrion did all right with two goals and two assists in four games last week. But big Jean Beliveau helped himself to three goals and four assists and Maurice (Rocket) Richard cut loose with five goals and one assist.

Geoffrion is first with 24 goals and 18 assists for 42 points. Beliveau ran his count to 18-22, and Richard not only moved to within four points of Geoffrion but threatened to dislodge him as the league's leading goal-getter. Richard's point total is 38, and four points back is Montreal's Ken Mosdell, who bagged four assists in the week.

OLMSTEAD CLIMBS

The leading Montreal foursome almost became a fivesome. Bert

Olmstead cashed in one goal and five assists and moved from a 12th-place tie into sixth place, with 30 points.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, getting back into stride after an injury lay-off, banged in four goals in three games. With his 15 goals and 10 assists, Howe held fifth place by a single point.

Another Montrealer mover into the top 10 when defenceman Doug Harvey boosted his total to 28 points. Harvey retained his leadership on assists with 25, two more than Olmstead and George (Red) Sullivan of Chicago.

Danny Lewicki, New York Rangers' sharp-shooting left-winger, collected two goals, and ran his count to 20-29. Sid Smith of Toronto Leafs has 26 points, tied with Sullivan and Toronto and Montreal.

Harry Lumley of Toronto still leads the goalies with a goals-against average of 1.76, compared with 1.68 a week ago. Terry Sawchuk of Detroit closed the gap a bit, improving his average from 2.00 to 2.00.

OC Soccer Picture Brighter With Introduction of Lights

LONDON (CP)—Floodlit soccer in Britain is a brighter financial proposition every year.

Despite what the critics said three years ago when Arsenal pioneered the after-dark game, more teams are planning to install systems which range in cost from £350 to £10,000.

WALLS-PARKER TITLE BOUT POSTPONED FOR THIRD TIME

TORONTO 6—The Canadian heavyweight title fight between James J. Parker and champion Earl Walls—scheduled for January 11—was postponed for a third time Monday when promoter Deacon Allen announced illness would prevent Parker from boxing.

The first time a date was set, November 9, it was put off when Walls suffered a back injury in training.

Allen said an attempt is being made to get "a name heavyweight" such as American Dan Buceroni or Charlie Norton to meet Walls Tuesday.

Modern School Methods Rapped in New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — Modern play-way methods of teaching are periodically attacked by employers in New Zealand who declare that children leave school unable to spell or add and with no aptitude for hard work.

The latest official statement of teaching principles has brought fresh criticism from those who support traditional methods.

Four policy points should govern the progress of a child through school, declared D. G. Ball, acting director of education. They are:

(1) A child should not have to move from class to class on the basis of examination results or achievements in formal subjects. On the other hand his age should not be the only factor considered.

(2) He should move through school with children of about his own level of maturity and in judging this account should be taken of his age, intellectual, physical and social development, along with his attainments in school work. He would thus be in the group that suited him best as a person.

(3) A promotion from one class to another should be the rule except for the unusual case where there is a combination of very low achievement plus general immaturity.

(4) When a child of rather low ability is promoted because of age and physical, emotional and social maturity, it is essential that in his new class he be given work suited to his ability.

"FANCIFUL THEORIES"

Leading the attack on these principles, the New Zealand Herald declares in an editorial that children today are educated on fanciful theories expressed in high-sounding jargon.

"Children are no longer promoted according to their achievements in formal subjects," the paper adds. "The new criteria are 'intellectual, physical and social development' with school work bringing up the rear."

"How the three guiding qualities are assessed is not stated. It is difficult to imagine any satisfactory way of defining them, much less of measuring them, for comparative purposes. They are, indeed, just airy abstractions..."

"It used to be thought that schools existed to teach children useful knowledge and to train their minds. That today is heresy."

Fed-Up Girls Heave Coke At PM's House

LONDON — Two girls with a record of window smashing in their native Scotland admitted in court today that they heaved pieces of coke through a pane of glass at 10 Downing St., Prime Minister Churchill's official residence.

Churchill was there during the incident Monday night, but was not near the shattered window.

Jane Crossman, 18, and Margaret Wilson, 24, also admitted breaking two windows in the near-by Privy Council offices. Neither gave a reason for their acts and they were ordered held in custody for mental examinations.

Inspector S. R. Sheppard told the court: "There is no political significance behind it, but they were merely fed up."

FINED IN GLASGOW

He said they got a lift on a truck to London on New Year's Eve, few days after they had been fined for breaking a Glasgow shop window.

By coincidence, the damage to the prime minister's residence came in the midst of reports that the building, in use for more than 200 years, is in danger of collapsing. The roof of the red brick house designed by Christopher Wren was shaken by bombs during the Second World War and now is sagging. The foundation also is crumbling and the interior walls need support.

Government Planning Boost In Subsidies For Gold Mines

OTTAWA — The government plans to renew subsidies to Parliament so near, any major Canada's gold mines, but may announcements may be held unchanged the payment formula to reduce the over-all cost.

A full cabinet meeting today will likely consider legislation amending the present setup. This would be brought before the new session of Parliament opening Friday, officials said.

The meeting may also consider a variety of appointments, possibly including appointments to the Senate, and last-minute changes to the government's legislative program.

Discussion also may develop on the Geneva trade crisis where representatives of 37 countries are unable to reach decisions on means of easing import curbs under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The subsidy cost in 1954, for example, is estimated to rise to about $16,000,000 from $14,800,000 in 1953. This would bring total federal outlays to the industry to more than $80,000,000 since the subsidy plan began in 1943.

But mine operators still face the same difficulties as when the plan began: While production costs have risen, their selling price has been fixed officially at $35 an ounce U.S. funds. Appeals to the U.S. the world's main buyer, to increase the price, have failed.

Few announcements are likely immediately after the cabinet

Further Quiz Scheduled For MacKenzie

OTTAWA — Sqn. Ldr. Andy MacKenzie returns to Ottawa today for further interrogation by intelligence officers seeking to learn as much as they can from his two years in a Chinese Communists prisoner-of-war camp.

The 34-year-old fighter pilot was released by the Reds Dec. 5 in Hong Kong and returned to Canada in time to spend Christmas with his wife and four children in their suburban Montreal home.

In previous two Yuletide seasons had been spent in solitary confinement of the Reds, who captured him when he was shot down while flying as an RCAF exchange pilot with the United States Air Force in Korea.

The Reds kept MacKenzie in solitary confinement for 16 of the 24 months they held him in an attempt to force him to sign "confessions." He told a press conference here in December that he finally signed a false statement that he had invaded Chinese air and that he had been ordered to. He said he probably still would be in solitary if he hadn't.

B.C. Eyeing Indian Art Collection

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia is casting covetous glances at a rare assortment of Indian art collected by a Briton here following the 1898 Klondike gold rush.

The collection is the property of Sir Alfred Bosom, now a member of Parliament for Maldstone.

Einar Gunderson, on a European tour recently as a special trade commissioner for the province, saw the collection and made overtures to obtain it for British Columbia.

"It forms one of the finest collections I have ever seen," says Mr. Gunderson. Included was everything made by early B.C. Indians, such as dugout canoes, thunderbirds, totem poles, masks, baskets, cooking utensils and small ornaments.

Mr. Gunderson said the collection had many objects he had never seen previously, even in the B.C. museum.

Items were collected by Sir Alfred during many visits to remote Indian villages and settlements.

Sir Alfred was an architect in New York for many years before moving back to England about 25 years ago. His collection has been locked up in storage ever since until put on exhibit at the Imperial Institute in South Kensington.

Mr. Gunderson suggested Sir Alfred might wish to give B.C. his collection which would be known as the "Sir Alfred Bosom Collection."

However, if he was considering selling it, he was asked to let the B.C. government know first.

In a brochure at the Imperial Institute exhibit, Sir Alfred tells how he acquired a 30-foot "very early" totem pole from one of the coastal islands, then was presented with the problem of shipping it.

To get it to England he had to lash it to the deck of a ship that sailed around the Horn.

This was the pole exhibited in the Dome of Discovery at the Festival of Britain in 1951.

Talkative Wife Of Diplomat Has Breakdown

BONN (Reuters) — Oskar Schiltz, West German diplomat, hastily withdrawn from the London embassy after his wife spoke out of turn and created a full-blown international incident, will not be returning to the London post, foreign office sources here said today.

But the sources said, the foreign office will wait until the current storm has blown over before deciding on Schiltz's offer of resignation.

Schiltz and wife, Dinky, reached here Monday and went into official hiding after foreign office interviews. Mrs. Schiltz's remarks in a speech at an embassy Christmas Party that Britain was an "enemy country" brought an official apology to Britain.

CLAIMS MIX-UP

A West German government statement said Mrs. Schiltz, speaking extemporaneously when her charge d'affaires husband was en route on business, had suffered from nervousness and got her words mixed up. What she had meant, the statement said, was that a German had to be careful in foreign countries where the horrors of the Second World War are not forgotten. Her expression, it conceded, was "unacceptable."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Schiltz, "Miss Germany" of 1951 and a former movie actress, is in hospital suffering reported breakdown.

In Britain, editorial writers have taken a light-hearted view of the matter.

The Daily Sketch says "every husband with a talkative wife who takes her to business parties will have a certain sympathy with Herr Schiltz."

The Daily Herald says "it is no mere test of diplomacy to keep a woman quiet."

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

When Mr. Champion Gets Irritated, Just Watch Out

It irritates Mr. Champion when his opponents hold several good hands in succession. (An independent survey indicates Mr. Champion isn't the only one who feels this way.) However, his irritation rate above the average.

In the rubber in which this hand was played, Mr. Dale and Mr. Murzy had already held two big hands. On one they had set Mr. Champion 300 points on a sacrifice bid. On the next deal they had bid and made a game. Then this hand came along.

Note Mr. Dale's cautious bidding. Surely he had enough to probe for a slam after his partner opened the bidding and then made a jump rebid. But it was a good thing he didn't.

Mr. Murzy's thinking fuzzy

Mr. Murzy won the opening lead of the king of diamonds with the ace. Now there are two things Mr. Murzy likes to do.

One of them is to finesse. The other is to cross-ruff. Through the years he has stubbornly resisted the temptation of learning anything about side-suit establishment, even in its simplest forms.

At trick two he led a second diamond. Mr. Champion won with the jack, cashed the ace of clubs and led another club to dummy's king. Now Mr. Murzy cashed his hand with the ace of hearts, led a third diamond and ruffed it with dummy's eight of hearts.

Mr. Abel over-ruffed with the 10 and returned a trump. Mr. Murzy took the rest, cashing another round of trumps and parking his last diamond on the second high spade from the board. Thus, he barely made four-odd.

LITTLE SLAM WAS THERE

As you see, if he had set up dummy's spade suit by ruffing out "one round," he could have made six-odd on the hand—throwing all of his losing diamonds on the set-up spades.

Mr. Champion was sore because Mr. Dale had soft-pedaled his good hand and stayed out of trouble. "If you bid well," hand right, you'll be in six and down two." His example of "Quitting at four-odd was just a lucky shot in the dark."
