MET SALVATION ARMY GEN. BRAMWELL BOOTH

Interesting Account by Local Officer of Visit to Winnipeg to Meet the General.

About thirty officers represented our work in the Pacific, I myself being the only delegate present to represent the north. I deemed it a great honor and privilege to be able to do so. A special car had been chartered for the B. C. delegates. We left Vancouver Wednesday morning, November 5th, arriving in Winnipeg Friday evening. We had a splendid reception there. Saturday afternoon we were ready to welcome our new leader. About 150 officers were delegates to the city. The march past the general certainly did credit to the west. Altogether about 400 were in this procession, headed by four Salvation Army bands, Winnipeg I, Winnipeg III, the Moosejaw band and the boys' band of Winnipeg.

The new general had a splendid reception at the city hall. Controller Cockburn, in the absence of the mayor, delivered for the city a splendid address of welcome, finishing up by saying the Salvation Army could not be done without in Winnipeg; it had done a great deal toward making the city what it was today. The general in reply said they would understand that it must be to him a very great pleasure to hear the generous words to which they had just listened. He could not but feel that those kind references to himself were largely actuated by the esteem in which the name of his dear father was held.

In conclusion he said: "I must say that our one desire is to be regarded by the new and rising and wonderful community as the helping hand to those in need. Our purpose is to help men and women without regard to creed or nationality. To help them as God shall enable us, both for this world and the next. God bless you all and the city and make it not only a city of worldly gain and wealth but a city of righteousness, a city of peace."

Our leader was touched by the sight of the tremendous crowds that welcomed him. He thought it was really wonderful. Sunday all day the Walker Theatre was crowded to hear the general, thousands being turned away. The officers' private meetings with the general were held Monday and part of Tuesday, and the general and his staff left Tuesday afternoon for Chicago. I might say in connection with these private gatherings with our new leader that they were indeed wonderful times. His talks were helpful to us as officers, full of inspiration and hope for the future welfare of our fair dominion. He impresses one as being "a man of God." One doesn't have to listen to him very long before they realize that he is a living example of all he believes and teaches. As we followed him in his various addresses, both public and private, one could not help but notice that he did not get away from the "simple story of the cross." Touching reference was made of our own leader, Commissioner Kees, who has been lying at death's door. Special prayers were offered on his behalf. The latest news we have received from Toronto is encouraging. There has been a change for the better in his condition. A special appeal was made by our general for volunteers amongst the officers and intending candidates for the foreign field.

In conclusion, I might say that this congress will live long in the memories of those who were privileged to attend and in returning to our various stations and appointments we, as Salvationists, are encouraged to fight on. I would like to take this opportunity of reminding the people of Prince Rupert that we are here to lend a helping hand to those in need. We are servants of all.

PICTURES OF THE NORTH

Thrilling Canoe Race for Gold Claim and Forest Fire

All the people who have spent some time in the north—and there are many in this city—intensely enjoyed the two part film at the Empress theatre last night entitled "The Strength of Men." It recalls the adventurous stories of the Yukon and Alaska of Rex Beach, and Jack London and the poetry of Service, and is a reminder of the strenuous times in the early days of the Klondike.

The story is simple. A young prospector encounters a blizzard on Dyea Pass and peters out just as he reaches a cabin. In a frozen and unconscious condition he is taken into the cabin and falls in love with the daughter. Along comes the inevitable villain and there is jealousy. The lover strikes rich pay dirt; the villain hears of it and tries to jump the claim. Both get to the gold recorder's office at the same time and the decision is that they must stake again and whichever gets in first gets the claim.

Then follows a wild canoe race and tramp through the brush-covered mountains and the wading of their rushing icy torrents. A fierce forest fire blocks their progress and they fall to fighting with knives. Just when the savage conflict is at its height a burning tree falls on the murderous men, breaking one's leg and blinding the other. Both recover and become partners, but those who see that canoe race will remember it for a long time. Some were so excited last night that they rose in their seats. And the forest fire is one of the most awesome spectacles of its kind ever witnessed. "The Strength of Men" will be repeated tonight.

MAYOR PATTULLO IS AGAIN INTERVIEWED

States that Prince Rupert is Suffering Little from Financial Depression

Vancouver, Nov. 25.—The Daily Province of today says: That Prince Rupert is suffering comparatively little from financial depression, and that development works are progressing satisfactorily, is the report brought down from the G. T. P. terminal by Mr. T. D. Pattullo, mayor of the city. Mr. Pattullo says it is impossible to see the great undertakings now in progress, particularly on the waterfront, without realizing that there is a great future ahead. The excavation work is being carried out in connection with the big G. T. P. Hotel, and in addition another hotel of lesser dimensions is being constructed. For the winter season the city is assured a sufficiency of labor and he predicts that the incoming year will be one of the best in the history of the place.
