BRITISH TRADES FAIR

In view of the great success attending the British Industries Fair, at the Agricultural Hall, London, last year, the Imperial Board of Trade has decided to hold a second fair along the same lines at the Victoria and Albert Museum, Kensington, London, on February 21st, 1916, the fair being open for 12 days.

The object of the fair is to extend to British manufacturers the same advantages as have been derived by continental manufacturers from the trade fairs held in their respective countries. Buyers from the United Kingdom and all parts of the world are invited to the fair, and, as it is intended for the trade only (the general public not being admitted), buyers will have an exceptional opportunity of transacting their business in a minimum time.

Manufacturers only will be allowed to exhibit, and their exhibits will be strictly confined to goods of their own make. The trades exhibiting will be toys, glassware, fancy goods, printing, stationery, and earthenware and china.

Admission to the fair will be by invitation of His Majesty's Board of Trade only, and will be restricted to bona fide buyers for United Kingdom and overseas markets. Buyers from the Dominion of Canada visiting the United Kingdom during the course of the fair, i.e. February 21st to March 4th, and interested in the above trades, should not fail to communicate immediately on arrival in the United Kingdom with, The Director, British Industries Fair, 32 Cheapside, London, E. C. It will also be to their advantage to notify the office of H. M. Trade Commissioner, 3 Beaver Hall Sq., Montreal, giving particulars as to the firms they represent.

This fair is a splendid effort to bring the various parts of the Empire more closely together in regard to manufactures. In the past, business between the various parts of the Empire has been allowed to grow along haphazard lines, with little attempt at a concerted effort on the part of buyers and manufacturers to meet. The lines to be exhibited in London on this occasion have been largely supplied by Germany in past years, and, as this supply is certain to be very uncertain in the future, the efforts put forth by the Imperial Board of Trade will be thoroughly appreciated, and taken advantage of, by buyers throughout the Dominion of Canada.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

When Sir Richard dines with King George, we trust he will have tact enough to praise the Queen's cooking.

Speaking off-hand, one might say that Bowser considers Sir Richard McBride as one of the natural resources of the Conservative party.

"It is a brutal thing to kick me out," says J. H. Turner, Agent-General of British Columbia. When Dick gets over there and starts telling his little troubles, J. H. Turner will think he got off pretty easily.

The optimists are enjoying the crisp snow, while the pessimists are wondering if they will be drowned on Third Avenue when the thaw comes.

At that little farewell luncheon in Victoria, Sir Richard went out of his way to shower compliments on H. C. Brewster, while he was content to characterize Bowser as a man of energy.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

serial bond plan as opposed to the sinking fund.

J. J. Anderson said he was a strong believer in municipal ownership and the rate of 45 cents an hour. He thought the city should encourage the bringing in of industries, but that all concerns coming in should be bound down to the 45 cents an hour agreement. He endorsed the serial bond system.

Mayor Newton said he had always wondered why he so steadily received the support of labor, while the labor men had never asked him to pledge himself to anything. He supposed they recognised loyalty.

He warned them strongly against allowing anyone to get into power who would not protect the public utilities. Though they owned them now, they might have them taken away from them again as in Vancouver, and as was now threatening in Edmonton.

He accused the 1913 council of trying to lead the people into parting with their power franchise after he had in 1912 resisted the approaches of the corporation. He again warned them of what might happen in the future. He went on to explain how the treasury certificates had been renewed and how his visit to Montreal had helped out the financing of the city. Of the $36,000 promised by the bank at that time, they had required to borrow only $5,000 and that for the space of seven weeks.

He said that the treasurer was preparing a financial statement which amazed even himself, showing that the city is in better financial condition than almost any city in Canada, having a surplus for the year of $25,000.

In conclusion, he said he was proud to be allied with any organization, labor or otherwise, which stood for straightforward, honest dealing.

George Kerr intimated that he would not be able to run this year, and thanked the council for their support in the past.

A collection was taken to help defray the expenses of the campaign. Another open meeting will be held next Tuesday.
