RALPH CONNOR AGAIN

Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations

Ralph Connor has written a new book, "The Arm of Gold." It is a worth while book, very different from the Press)-It was learned officially toordinary run of new novels. It deals with life in a highland day that the British and United village in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, and its word pic- States governments are now nego- pen to think so, make a test of it tures of the life there, of the religious prejudices and the sterling qualities of the people are really wonderful.

Like most of the books by this author the kirk and the meenister loom large in the story. Religious subjects are pointment at the United States' discussed but are not thrust into the book in an unneces- refusal to postpone the December is forced upon us without necessary sary way. The characters are all real people, flesh and payment as stated in the United blood people, with all the passions and prejudices of the peared that the United States govrace. There is the millionaire from New York and his ernment had seized upon what daughter who in spite of the drawback of wealth prove to regarded as the fundamental point be real people and who give the proper touch of modern- of the Anglo-American debt prob-

To some thoughtful readers the scraps of philosophy which he book contains will prove as interesting as the the whole debts question and that story. Here is part of a paragraph:

"In nations as in men the ultimate objective, the funda- tually granted this. mental driving force was in the last analysis, not the noble passion for the things of the spirit as truth, freedom, it was not insisting upon the French honor and the like, but a lust for power to command things debt payment to the British in material in life, territory, raw material, trade routes and March. The government's position trade concessions, opportunity to exploit secondary peo- appeared to be that this policy was ples. The high sounding utterances of statesmen and par- aimed to save the Lausanne reparliaments about national honor, integrity and freedom, or about international peace and amity, were merely the fan- ments. fare of war's trumpets, stimulating the ambitions and passions of trusting and honest souls to the madness of deluded and frenzied devotees of false gods."

The need of any community forgetting its grievances against other people or places and trying to help itself is able suggestion from the British emphasized when one of the characters in the book says "That's what's killing whole sections in our country Shooting off their mouths about their wrongs when all that's wrong with them is in themselves." And again: to the French note but the reply

"That is the curse of this country. The government! For any sake let us try to do something for ourselves for once. Deep Snow Saved Town The government and politics are the ruin of Cape Breton -yes, and of Nova Scotia. Let's see what we can do by pulling all together for once in this business."

But these quotations are simply incidental to the story which is engrossing, full of pathos and humor and with a sufficient measure of excitement to make the reader forget time and circumstance and sit up late to finish it. We strongly recommend this book.

Death and Suffering Follows Snap In Middle West

CHICAGO, Dec. 9:-With death and suffering following in its wake, the mid-west's cold wave was continuing unrelentlessly yesterday with below zero temperatures general both in Canada and the United States between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains. Fires resulting from overheated stoves were reported to have driven hundreds of people in various parts into the treets to freeze.

Superior, Wisconsin; Miles City, Montana, and Duluth, Minnesota, all reported temperatures of 22 degrees below zero. Kansas City reported 10 above zero and Helena. Montana, 15 below. In Chicago it vas 6 above and at St. Paul, 6 below. In Canada Winnipeg had 24 degrees below zero and The Pas, 30 below.

Cold Gale in Seattle

SEATTLE, Dec. 9:-A frigid 36mile northerly gale brought minimum temperature of 17 degrees above zero to Seattle vesterday and caused considerable damage. A fish boat from Astoria was blown out to sea. Three fishing vessels went aground as did a large fish harge. A Bremerton navy yard provision barge lost some of its contents. The ferryboat Kitsap was 00 grounded for five hours.

Six above zero was recorded in Spokane. 12 above in Bellingham and 10 below at Pocatello, Idaho.
