Peiping Man Is Nearest Thing

Peiping man, who with his hu-cate intellectual activity. He says For Vancouverman teeth and a monkey jaw that all adventurers have blue eyes, roamed the earth about 1,000,000 while the mere routine people have years ago, is the nearest thing to not. the missing link which scientists have yet examined, paleontologists here declare. A cave about 25 miles from

Peiping bit by bit has been yielding the story of this individual. It has required nine years of study, excavations and careful calibration of the various finds to put together the reconstruction of

The story begins with the finding of a tooth in 1920 by Dr. A. Zdansky, a Russian. Its latest chanter is another tooth, recently dug up, the third to be found. Along with these teeth and other finds, there are excavated evidences that their human or semihuman owner was contemporary of saber-toothed tigers and primitive hyenas. The teeth appear to have revealed more of the scientific story than any other objects. Dr. A. W. Grabau, formerly of Columbia University, now professor of paleontology here and chief paleontologist of the Chinese Geological survey, feels confident that in the discovery is every indication that man existed in China 1,000,000 years ago, and that the tooth of the Peiping man is at least a missing link type of

The second tooth was found by Dr. Birger Bohlin, a young Swedich scientist, and definitely identified and named by Dr. Davidson Black, an American of the Peining Union Medical College, a Rockefeller Foundation institu-
